forth to other doings which fell in the meane lenfon, whilest this Cadwane had government of the Birtaynes, raigning as king over them. the tearme of . reij. (oz as other hane but. riij.) yeares, and finally was flaine by the Potthübers, as before bath bene, and also after thall be theweb.

In the viij. yeare after that Caowan becan to raigne. Ethelbert king of Kent beparted this life. in the rri. peace after the comming of Angua here in this Realine: and after that Ethelbert had raigned over the Province of Kent aboute the tearme of livi . yeares (as Bede hath) but there are that have noted three yeares leve: he departed this worlde, as about is lignified, in the yeare of oure 144-142.64-5 Lozde, 617. on the . eriiij. bape of febzuarie, and was burped in the Ale of Baint Wartines within the Churche of the Apolites Peter and Daule, without the Citie of Canterburie . where his wife Ducenc Bartha was allo burged, and the forelande Archebishop Augustine that first converted him to the fapth.

Amongest other things this King Ethelbert with the advice of his Councell orderned diverse lawes and statutes, according to the whiche, decrees of Judgements thoulde passe: and those decrees hee caused to be weitten in the Englishe tongue, which remapned and wete in force bus to the dayes of Brde) as he declareth.

And fysit it was expetited in those lawes, 30 what amendes her Moulde wake that Itale anye thing that belonged to the Churche, to the Bys thop, or to any eccletiafticall person, willing by all meanes to defend them whole doctrine he had recepued.

Menkof & thelbert, his con Cadbalde suc= government of bis kingpam of Kint, the which was a greatt hinderer of the lincrease of the newe Churche amongelt the Englishe men'in those parties : for hee did not mich refuse to bee baptised himselfe, but also vied inche kinde of forfayth amongell the Gentiles, for he toke to wife his mother in lawe, that had beene wife to his far ther. By which two cuill examples, many twice occasion to returne to they? heathenish religion, the which whilest his father raigned, either for the Prince his pleasure, or for feare to offeno him, oth Profeste the Christian fayth.

But Earbalde escaped not worthie punish.

ment to him cent from the lyuing God for hys euill desertes, in so muche that hee was vered with a certaine kinde of madnelle, and taken with an bucleane spirite.

The Historie of Englande.

The foresayde storme or disquiet troubling of the Christian Congregation, was afterwards greatly encrealed also by the death of Sabert, og Sebert King of the East Saxons, who departing this life to goe to a better, in the blissefull flin with his fellowes to preach the fayth of christ 10 kingdome of heaven, left behind him three sonnes as fuccessours in the estate of his earthly Kingdome, whiche sonnes likewyse refused to bee baptised.

This Sabert, oz Sebert, was converted fo the fayth of Christ, and baptised by Mellitus Bythop of London (as befoze is mentioned) bnto whome some ascribe the first foundation of Weltminster Church, but other aftribe it to Incius the first Chaisten king of the Baptaynes (as before ye have heard) though there bee also that write that the Church was first buploed there by a Citizen of London (as before is also touched.)

abert left behind him in the kingbome of Ran. Ceftren? the Gall Barons three Beda.li.2.ca.5 formes, named Serred, Serrerd, Se-Seward, and Sige gebert, the bert, in whome remay a fondes of Sabert. Aneo no vertue, no feare Tol God, not any respect for religion, but especial. ly they hated the prosection fayth. For after they father was vear, they began to fall to they colde Joolatrie, the whichein his life time they feemed to have gilien ouer. But now they openly worthtpood Jools, and game He bertie to their lubicits for to do the like.

And when the Billiop Petlitus at the fos creded in the 40 lemnising of Masse in the Churche vistributed the Bucharifticall breade brito the ptople, thep alken him (asit is layde) wherefore be bib not velpint of that bepght white breade buto them allo, as well as her had beene accultomed to bbe to thepr fathet Baba, (for to thep vied to call hymi) but whome the Bythoppe madether auntwere: if pole will bee wather in that wholesome Fountayine wherein youle father was walled, pe mage bee partakers of nication, as hath not beene heard (as the Apolite 50 that holpe becade whereof hee was partaker, but if you despile the wallpoole of lyfe, ye may by no meaties talke of the breade of fall tration at Decition and main. The

But they offended herewith, replyed in this wile: we will that enter the that fountagne, tor weeknowe wee hane no neede thereof but per nouerthelelle we will be teftelljed with that breate. The sett of the control

After

king Scheit

Seine

After this when they had beene earnefly and many tymes toloe, that without they woulde be baptised, they might not be partakers of the facred oblation: It length in a great displeasure they told him, that if he would not consent onto them in so finalla matter, there Mouloe be no place for him within the boundes of their Dominion. And fo he was constrayned to depart. Wherebyon hee being ervulled, resorted into Kent, there to take * Fustus, what was to be done in this so weightie a matter.

They finally resoluce byon this poynt, that it floulde be better for them to returne into they? Countrey, where with free myndes they might ferue Almichtie God, rather than to remayne a= mangest people that revelled against the farth, imthout hope to do good amongst them.

Therefore Meilitus and Justus vio first dethere to abyde till they might fee what the ende

But Gettly after, those brethren the kings of Effer, whiche had expulsed their Bothoppe in mener about layde, suffered worthily for they? wicked demas: For going forth to battayle a= The formes of graphst the Wiest Sarons, they were overtheown and flame togither with all they armie, by the 1:00 Kings, Kinigils, and Duichelme. But ne= neitheleffe, for all that the Authours of the mil- 30 thiefe were thus taken away, the people of that Country woulde not as yet bee reduced agains from there diuckell weethipping of falce Goddes, being eft somes fallen thereto in that season by the encouragement and perillous example of they? Rulers. Ediherefoze the Archebilhop Laurence was in minde also to have followed his fellowes Millites and Justins: but when he minded to set forwards, bewas warned in a dreams, and cruelle scourged (as bath beene reported by the Apo= 40 Acl faint Peter, who reproued him) for that hee would to uncharitably foglake his flock, and leave it in daunger withoute a shepherde to keepe she ZZimife trom the folde.

The Archbillioppe envoluned by this vision. and also repenting him of his determinatio, came to king Carbalo, and flictoed to him his ftrynes. and the maner of his dreame.

The king being herewith put in great feare, renounced his heathenish worthipping of Fools, 50 and was baptised, and as muche as in him lay. from thence forth fuecoured the Congregation of t. : Chailteans, and aduaunced the Churche to his nomer.

the lant also into France, and called home the Billiops Mellitus and Julius, fo that Au-Rus was reffezed again to his sea of Rochefter. But the Caft Sarons woulde not receput Meilitus to his Sea at London, but continued in they, wicked Mawnietrie in obeying a Bilhop of they? Dagan lawe, whom they had creded for that purpole. Pepther was King Eadbalde of that authoritie and power in those parties, as his father was before, whereby he might constrayne them to recepue they lawfull Bythop. But furely the layde King Cadbalde with his works after hee was once converted againe, gaue hom= aduice with his fellowe Billioppes, Laurence 10 felle wholye to obey the lawes of God, and amongest other deedes of godly zeale, he buylded Bedaliz, a Church of our Lavie at Cantozburie, within the Monasterie of Saint Peter, after wardes called Saint Agnes.

This Churche was confectated by Willitus. who after the death of Laurence incceeded in gouernaunce of the Archebilhoppes Sea of Canterburie.

After Mellitus whiche departed this lyfe in Bedali.2.1 parte, and went ouer into Fraunce, mynding 20 the yeare of our Lopde. 624. Justus that before was biflion of Rochester, was made Archbistion of Canterburie, and orderned one Romanus to the Sea of Rochester.

About the same tyme, the people of the north partes beyond humber recepued the farth, by occasion (as after spall appeare.)

Ve have heard how Edilfred the king of Pozthumberlande was flaine in battaile, neare to the water of Jole, by Redwald king of the Ealt Ingies, in favour of Edwin, whom the fayd Edclfred had confined oute of hys Dominion. rxilli. peares before.

The forelayde Redwald therefore having obtepned that bidozie, founde meanes to place #0= wone in government of that Kingcome of the Porthumbers, having a tytle thereto as sonne to Alla, 02 Elle, sometyme Bing of Pozthumberlande.

This Cowyn proued a ryght valiant prince, Edwyr and arrive to be of more power than any other King in those dayes of the Englis Pation: Bedalian not onely ruling ouer a great parte of the Countreps inhabited with Englishe menne, but also with Bertapines, which Bertapines inhabyted not onelye in Allaks, but also as yet in parte of Cheschire, Lancathire, Cumberlande, and as longest by the Wich Sea coast in Galloway. and so forth cut buto Dunbrytain in Scotland: which I have thought good to note; that it may appeare in what Counfreys Cadwallo bare rule, of whome to often mention is made in this part of the Postorie.

But as concerning Edwyn: his reputation was such, as not outly the English men, Bigtaynes and Scottes; but also the Ales of Dike wil wil not ney, and those of Wan; and other the Well Ales kech Med of anneient tyme called Menance, had him in rescobe dogs

nerence, and feared his mightie power, to as they burst not attempt any explorte to the offence

Ar chaunced also that Mestly after king Red= maloe had aduaunced him to the Kingsome of Porthumberlande, by. aboute fire peares, the fame Redwalde deceaffed, whiche made orcatly for the more augmentation of Cowons power. fer the people of the Galt Angles, which whilest man, had concepued a good opinion of him, for his approued valiancie and noble courage, offered themselves to bee wholy at his commaun-

But Edwyn luffering Carpwalde 02 Ern-Copyaldus. malve the forme of Recovalve to enion the bare totle and name of king of that Countrep, tuled al things at his owne will and pleafure. Peither was there any Prouince within Brytaine that nice the kingdome of Kent onely excepted) for he fuffered the Kentishmen to line in quiet, bycause he began to have a lyking unto the lifter of king Cadbeld, the Lady Ethelburga, otherwile named Tate, 92 Tace.

De made request therefoze by lending Ambalfadours to hir brother, to have the Capoe Ladie in mariage: and at length obtened hir, with condition that thre being a Chriftian woman, might not onely ble the Chailtian religion, bur also that 30 all those, whether men or women, priestes or miniffers, which came with hir, might haue licence to doe the fame, without trouble or impeachment of any maner of person. Herebpon the being fent unto him, there was approprited to goe with hir, (belide many other) one Pauline, which was consecrated Billiop by the Archbilliop Justus, the mi. of July, in the yeare of our Lozde. 625.

It his comming into Porthumberlande, earnefly in his office, both to preferue hir and fuch Christians in the fayth of Christ, as were appointed to give they? attendaunce on hir, least they shoulde chaunce to fall: and also sought to winne some of the Pagans if it were possible bnto the same fayth, though at the first he little ptofited in that matter.

In the yeare following, there came a murtherer buto the Court of King Cowyn, as then focourning in a Palace whiche stwde oppon the 50 ner ation. fvoc of the Rourr of Dozwent, being sent from Quichelme King of the Wielt Sarons, to be intent to murther Cowyn, bycause hee had of late loze endornaged the Countreys of the well

This murtherer was called Eumerus, and carico buder his cote a Mort double edged commo= warred. knufe envenomed of purpose, that if the King beeing but a little hurt therewith, thoulve not die of the wound, yet he fould not escape the daunt. ger of the poplon.

Dn Calter Monday this Cumerus came Eumerus. to the King, and making footh to hom as to had beene to have beclared some mellage from his Maister, when hee had espeed his trine, he drewe hys weapon, and offered to flight the King. But one of the Kings lerununts named Sowen remayied amongest them as a banished to Lylla, perceyuing thys, stept betwirt the King and the blowe. But yet the murtherer fette the flrppe forwarde with fuche force, that the knife running through the bodie of Lylla, wounded also the King a little : and befoze this murtherer coulde bee beaten downe, he fine another of the Ikings lernaunts, a knight that attended upon him called Horober. OF SHILLS STORY

The lame night Dueene Ethelburga was delyuered of a daughter named Eufled, for the Eaufled borne. did not obey him, of was not ready to do him fer= 20 whiche when King Edwyn gaue! thankes onto his Goddes, in the prefence of Billiop Paulyne, the Bishop did admonith him, rather to give thankes bnto the true and onely God, by whole awones it came to paffe that & Ducene was fafely and without daun= ger delpuered. The King gis uing god eare Jonto the Br=

Mous wholefome admonition, promifed at that prefente to become a Chailtian, if hee myghte reuenge bys thus in companie of Ethelburga, hee trauayled 40 iniurges recepued at the handes of the West Sarons, and to affire Pauline that his promile foulde take place, bee gaue onto bim hys newe boine daughter to be made holy to the loid, that is to lay, baptifed.

The Bishoppe recepuing hir, on Whitsundayenerte following baptyled hir, with twelve other of the Kings householde, shee beepng the fyzite of the Englishe Porthumbers that was so washed in the Fountagne of Rege-

In the meane tyme King Edwyn being recovered of his hurt, allembled an army, and went agaynst the dilest Sarons, with whom encouns tring in battaile, he cyther flue oz brought to his subtestion all them that have conspyred his beath. Ind to returned as a conquerour into his cuntry: But pet he velaged time for performance of his promile to become a thriftian howbeit he had lete bis doing of facrifice to Ivols, ever fince he made promise to be baptised.

Bewas a lage Pzince, and befoze he woulde alter his Religion, he politikely thought goo to heare matters touching bothe bys olde Religion, and the Christian Religion throughlye eramined.

And whilest he thus hangeth in doubt to whe= ther part he thouloe encline, there came letters to him from Pope Boniface the fift of that name, 10 hande. But tell me, what wouldest thou gine exhorting him by fundric kinds of gentle perfwa= fions, to turne to the worthipping of the true and living God, and to renounce the worthipping of Mammets and Tools.

The Pope likewife wzote to Queene Etbelburga, praying bir to cotinue in hir good purpole, and by all meanes pollible to doe what might bee done for the converting of hir hulbande buto the fapth of Christ.

a bision which sometime he had while hee remained as a banished man in the Court of Redwald king of the Call Angles, as thus :

After that king Ethelfred was infozmed howe that the forelayde Redwalde had recepued Edwin, he craffed not by his Ambaffadours to moue Redwalde epther to deliner Edwyn into hys bandes, or elfe to make him awap.

It length by often lending, and promifes made nings, he obterned a graunt of his lupte, to that it was determined that Edwyn Coulde epther bee murthered , or elle delinered into his enimpes handes.

One of Edwynes friendes having intellis gence hereof, in the night fealon came to ED= mens Chamber, and taking him forth abroade, folde him the whole pradile, and what was purpoled agaynst him, offering to helpe him out of Cowyne being wonderoully amazed, than= ked his friend, but refused pet to depart the Countrep, lith her had no full cause outwardly given to play suche a slipper parte, chosing rather to scoparde his lyfe with konour, than to give men cause to thinke that hee had first broken promise with such a Prince as Redwalde was, to whom he had giuen his fayth.

Herebyon his friende departing from him, left had revolued many things in his mind, thought long boon this matter, at length he percepued one to come towards him buknowne, t in Arange apparell, seeming to him in enery poput a straunger, at which light for that he could not imagine who he fhoulde be. Cowen was much afrarde: but the man comming to him faluted him, and asked of him what he made there that time of the night when other were at reft. Cowyn on the other part afked what hee had to doe therewith. and whether he vied to lie absode in the night, or within house: who aunswering layde: Thinke not Edwyn that I am ignozant of thy heauis nelle, of thy watching, and this thy folitarie litting here withoute dozes. For I knowe who thou art, wherefore thou art thus pentife, and what enilles thou fearest to be towardes thee at him, that coulde deliner thee out of this heavis nesse, and perswade Redwalde that hee Moulde neyther do thee hurt not delyuer thee to thine es ninipes? Herewith when Cowpn layde, that he woulde gladly give all that in him might lye to fuche a one in rewarde: the other added: what wouldst thou the give, if he thould promife in gwd forth that (all thy enimics becing beliroped) thou Mouldest beking, and that thou flouldest passe in But the thing that most moued the king, was 20 power all the Kings whiche have raigned in the English nation befoze thy time?

Cowyn then bepng better come to bimfelte by fuch demaundes, did not flicke to promise that he would requite his friendship with worthy thaks.

Then replyed he to his wordes and layde. If he that thall prophecie to thee this good happe to come. Chall allo be able to enfourme thee fuch cous fail for thy health a life as never any of thy forefathers of kinsfolke pet have heard, wouldest thou of large fummes of money, mixed with threat= 30 obey him, and consent to receive his wholsom aduertisement? Wilherbnto without further deliberation Edwin promifed, that he would in all points folow the instruction of him that shoulde delince him out of so many and greate calamities, and bring him to the rule of a kingdome. Which ans fwere being got, this verson that thus talked with him, layor his hande uppon his heade, faying, when thes therefore shall chaunce to thee, bee not forgetfull of this tyme, nor of this comthe countrey, if he would so aductiture to escape. 40 munication, and those things that thou nowe boelt promise, see thou perfourme. Ind therewith he vanished away, so that Edwin might mell percepue it was no manne but a viction that thus had appeared bnto him.

And as he latte still recogling of this comfortable talke, but pet thoughtfull in his nipnde what he shoulde be, or from whence he came that had talked in this fort with him. Beholde bys friende returned that first had brought him forth him sitting without the dozes: where after bee so of his Chamber, and declared unto hom god newes, howe the King by the perswasion of the Ducene had altered his determination, and minded to maintenne his quarell to the betermost of his power: and so hee vid in becde: for wythall biligence heerapled an armie, and went ageraf. Evelfride, banquisted him in battaile, and placed Edwin in the Kingdome (as before pee have hearde.)

Pereppon

The Historie of Englande.

Hereuppon whilest King Edwyn (as before is mentioned) deferred tyme ere he would recepue the Chailtian fayth, Pauline one daye came unto him as he fat muling what hee were best to to and layd his hand byon his head, alking him if he knew that figne: wherevpon when the king would haue fallen dolone at his feete, he lift hpin up. and as it were in familiar wife thus fapo on= to him: Behold, by the allyltance of Gods fauour whom thou stwoelf in dread of : Behold through hrs bounteous liberalitie, thou half atterned the Kingdome which thou diddelt delire, remember then that thou delay not time to persourme the thirde thing that thou diddelt promile, in recepning his fayth, and keeping his commundements, which delivering thee from worldly advertities, hath thus aduaunced thee to the honor of a king: and if from henceforth thou wilt obey his will, to thee and other, he will deliner thee from enerlasting toments, and make thee partaker wyth him in his celestiall kingdome.

It is to be thought that the vision which the K. had in times past received, was in spirite renealed buto Pauline, wherebyon without orlay of time he put him in remembrance of it in maner as as bout is mentioned.

The king having heard his words answerer, that he would a ought to recepue the fayth which, 30 be taught, but first he woulde conferre with hys nobles, and if they would agree to do the like, then would they be baptifed altouither at one time.

Pauline latisfico herewith, Cowin did as hee had promised, calling togither the wiself men of his realme, and of them alked the question what they thought of this diminitie, which was preas thed but o them by Paulyn, but o whom his chief Billiop named Coifi, incotinently made this ans there followed was nothing worth. For farth he, there is none of thy people that hath more renerently worshipped our Gods than I have done, and yet be there many that have recepted farre greater benefites at thy handes than I have bone: and therefore if our Goddes were of any power, then would they rather helps me to high honours and dignitic than others.

Bilhop.

Therefore if it may be founde that this newe ploe, let us with all speede embrace the same. Finally, when other of the Kings Countagle and men of high authozitic gaue they? confents, that this dodrine which Pauline taught ought to be recepued, if therein appeared moze certaintie of saluation than could be found in the other: at length the king gaue licence to Pauline openly to resolved. preach the Golpell, and renouncing his worthip-ping of falle gods, professeth the christian fayth.

And when he demaunded of his Billion Coifi who floulde field deface the aulters of their Jools and the tabernacles with the whiche they were compassed about, he answered, that hee himselse mould do it. Hor what is more meete (layth bee) that that I, which through folithmelle haue wor-Hipped them, Gould nowe for crample lake des strop the same, through wisedoine given me from thou half escaped the handes of thene enimpes, 10 the true eliuing God? And streight ways theore ing away the superstition of vanitie, required armour and weapo of the king, with a stoned horse, byon the which he being mounted, rode forth to destrop the Idols.

This was a straunge light to the people : for it was not lawfull to the Billiop of their lawe to put on armour, of to rive on any beatt, except it were a Mare. He having therefore a twoze gyrde to him, toke a speare in his hande, and riding on which by my mouth her letteth forth & preacheth 20 the kings horle, went to the place where the 3= pols stode. The common people that beheld him. had thought he had beene starke mad, and out of his wittes: but hee without longer deliberation, incontinently byon his comming to the temple, began to deface the same, and in contempt theto his speare against it, and rejoyling greatly in the knowledge of the worthipping of the true God, commaunded his company to destroy and burne bowne the same temple with all the aulters.

This place where & Tools were comfime woz= Minned was not farre from Vozke, towardes the Call part of the river of Derwent, and is called Gotmundin Baham, where the foresayd Bishop by the inspiration of God defaced and destroyed those aulters which he himselse had hallowed.

King Cowyn therefore with all the nobilitie, King Edwya and a great nuber of his people, recepted the faith ple receyue and were baptized, in the peare of our Lolde. 627. the christian in the tenth yeare of his raigne, and about the . 178 fayth. The answere were, that surely the religion which they had by- 40 peare after the first comming of the English men Beda. li. 2. into this lande. Hee was baptiled at Porke on cap.14. Cafter day (which fel that yere the day befoze the -Joes of Aprill) in the Church of S. Peter the 3. postle, which hee had caused to bee creded bp of timber byon the lodaine for that purpole, and afterwards began the foudation of the same church in frome worke of a larger compaste, comprehending within it that Dratorie which hee had fyzit. caused to be built: but befoze he coulde finish the Religion is better and moze auaileable than oure 50 worke, he was flaine (as after thall bee fliewed, leaving it to be performed of his fuccellor Dis walde. Pauline continued from thenceforth dus ring the kings life, which was fire yeares after in preaching the golpel in that province, convertingan innumerable number of people to the fagth of Chipft, amongelt the whiche were Office, and Caofride, the connes of Edwyn, which be begotte in tyme of hys banishment, of his wife Duinburge

Bedalib.z.

CAP.10.

Bede lib.2.

A vision.

cap.11.

Bede.cap.12:

The honorsble confiderasion of Edwin. Edilarudia.

Mercia. Also afterwardes his children begot on his leconde wife Ethelburga, that is to lap, a fou called Edilhimus, and a daughter named Edil. trudis: and another sonne called Bufffrea, of the which the two first vice in they? Cravels, and were burged in the Church at Popke. To bee briefe: by the kings allystance and fauour shewed Ento Pauline in the worke of the Lowe, greate multitudes of prople varly recepted the fayth, to and were baptifed of Pauline in manye places, but specially in the Route of Gleny worthin the Province of Bernicia, and also in Swale in the Pronince of Deira: For as pet in the begynning thus of the Church in those Countreys, no temples of fountes coulde be buyloed or creded in fo Most a tinue.

Offichygreat zeale was Edwyn cas it is reposted) towards the setting forth of Gods truth, that hee perswaded Carpwalde the Sonne of 20 This chaunced Redwalde King of the Castangles to aban= 632 as hach don the superstitious worthrepping of Zoolles, Math. West. and to recepue the fayth of Chaift with all hys whole Pronince.

long befoge this time, but in vaine : for returning

Ecodes (which before time he had ferued) and in one felfe Churche, had at one time both the Sa-traments of Christ ministred at one aufter, and Sacrifice made unto Diuels at anofber.

Redwald king home, through countagle of his wife and other baptited, Carpwalde woul ie ferue feeme both to fettre the true God, and tis faffe God and the

But Carpivalde within a while after be had recepted the faith, was flame by one of his owner Countrey men that was an Ethnicke, called Richbert, and then after his death, that Province 40 fited greatly therein. for the ferme of three yeares was wrapped eft= fones in errour, toll that Eybert, og Sigibert, the brother of Carpwolde, a moste Chrystian Prince, and berie well fearned, obterned the rule of that kingdome, who whilest hee lined a banitheo man in France during his brothers life time, was baptiled there, and became a Chaillian: and when he came to be king, ber cauft all bis 120uince to be partaker of the fante fountaine of life wherein he had beene dipped himselfe. Cluto his goody purpole allo, a Billiop of the parties of Burgoigne named Felix was a great furtherer, who comming ouer unto the Archebis Chop of Canterburic Honozius that was fuccesfour buto Justus, and declaring unto him his earnest delire, was sent by the same Archbiffion to preache the worde of life unto the Caffangles, which he did with fuch good fuccesse, that he con-

Quinburga, the daughter of Cearlus King of uerted the whole countrey to the fayth of Jesus Chaift, and placed the Sea of his Bithoppike at ABinopon Dunwich, ending the course of his life there in Dunwich. peace, after he had confirmed in that his Billonlyke office the space of rbii. peares.

Mozeouer Pauline after that he had conver- Bedalis, ted the Porthumbers, her preached the worde of capito.

Bod bitto them of Lindley, whiche is a parte of Lincolnshire : and first he perswaded one Blesca Thirehance the gouernoz of the Citie of Lincoln to turne bue in the year to Chailt togither with all his familie. Mat. Pref.

In that Citic be allo buploed a Churche of Stone worke.

Thus Pauline travailed in the worke of the load, the fame being greatly furthered by the help of Cowin, in whole prelince he baptiled a greate number of people in the river of Erent, neare to towne the which in the olde English tongue was salled Tro vulfingacefter. This Pauline had with him a deacon named James, the which thewed himselfe verie biligent in the ministerie, and pro-

But now to returne to king Edwin, who was a prince verily of worthy fame, and for the polytike ordering of his Countreys and oblerning of iustice, descrued highly to be commended: for in prilaidm his time all robbers by the high way were to banifled out of his cominions, that a woman with hir new boane childe alone withoute other companic might hane tranapled from sea to sea, and not have encountred with any creature that durit 50 once haue offered hir iniurie.

he was also verie carefull for the aduaunces Mar. VV of. ment of the commoditie and common wealth of Beda. lb2. his people, infomuch that where there were any cap.16. fwecte and cleare water Springs , bee caufed polles to bee let oppe, and Fron dilhes to be falle ned thereto with Charnes, that waylaring men might haue the same readie at hand to britik with : and there was none to hardre as to fouch touch the fame but for that vie : he vied wherefoener he went within the Cities or elsewhere a= brode, to have a banner borne before him, in token of Judice to be minufred by hys royall autho-

In the meane fealon, Pope Honozing the fift. hearing that the Dorthumbers had recepued the farth as before is mencioned at the preaching of Pauline, fent ento the lapor Pauline the Wall. confirming him Archbishop in the Sea of Pozke. 10

De fent also letters of exhortation buto king Cowin, to kindle him the moze with fatherly adnice, to continue and proceede in the wave of biderifanding, into the which he was entered.

It the same time also, bycause Justus the Archbistiop of Canterburie was deade, and one honozius cleded to that Sea, Bour honnnus lente buto the foresayde Honorius the cleat Archbishoppe of Canterburie, his Pall, with letters, wherein was contepned a decreeby him 20 are b. hope of made, that when eyther the Archbillioppe of Canterburie of Porke chaunced to repart thes life, he that furnined should have authoritie to 02. depne another in place of him that was deceassed, that they floulde not neede to wearie themsel= ues with going to Rome, breing lo farre diffant from them. The copie of whiche letter is regyfired in the Eccleliafticall byftozic of Beda, bea= ring date the thirde Noes of June in the yeare of

The same Pope fent letters also to the Seots tiff, people exhorting them to celebrate the feast of Caster in such due time as other Churches of the Easter. Chaistian morto observed : and also bycause the Herrefie of the Pelagians beganne to renne &= The herefie of gaine amongest them, (as he was enformed) hee the Palagians. admonished them to beware thereof, and by all meanes to anopoe it.

But now that the Kingtome of Porthumberland fiouriffed (as befoze is partly touched) in happie fate under the prosperous raigne of Edwyn, at length after he had gouerned it the space Cadwallin, or of rvij yeares, Cadwalline, or Cadwallo King Cadwalloking of Beptaynes, who succeeded Cadwane, as of Brytayne. Bal. Mon. hath, rebelled agannft him ; for fo it commeth to paffe, that nothing can be fo fure coframed by mans power, but the same by the lyke power may be againe destroyed.

Penda king of Mercia enuging the profeerous Penda king of proceedings ofking Edwin, profuted Cadmalla Mercia. to mone this rebeilion against Comin: 4 joyning his power with Cadwallo, they inuaded the contrey of Porthiberland iogntly togither. Cowpn hereof aduertifed, gathered his people, and came to encounter them, so that both the armies met at a place called Hatfield, where was fought a right fore and bloudic battaile. But in the end Cowin King Edwin was flain with one of his fonnes named Diffid, flaine.

and his array beaten downer dispersed. Also there was flain on Cowyns part, Godbald K. of Diks 50 her bering then aboute the age of about peaces nep. Moreoner there was another of Edwyns founce named Cofride, confleapace of necessitie to grue hinself into the hands of Penda, and was after by him cruelly put to death (contrarie to his promised farth) in king Dewaldes dapes, that fucceeded Edwyn. in Outer at

Thus did king Coloin end bis life in that baf. taile, fought at Hatfield afozesayde, on the fourth

Focs of Dirobery in the years of our Roppersus. the partition of their stocking of, and in continuity state

- Cadwal and Penderhauing obtryned this bicfoue; bled it molt crucity. Forone of the Captayius was a Pagan, and the other wenting all ciullitie ; Thewedo hymicife more cruell than any Pagan coulde have done i So that Pens da bering a worshipper of falle Goddes with all his people of Mercia, and Cadwallo having no

his father Redwalde was baptifed in Kent wicked perfons, he was feduced, and being turned from the fincere punitie of farth, his laft boings were worlde than his frist, so that according to 30 the manner of the olde Samaritanes, he woulde

Sibertor Si-

The crueltie respect to the chaistian religion which lately was begonne amongst the Porthumbers, made ha= nocke in all places where they came, not sparing man, woman not childe: and to continued in their furious outrage a long time, in passing through the countrey, to the great decay and calamitie of the chaiftian congregations in thole parties. Ind Mill the Chaiftian Baytaines were leffe mercifull than Penda his heathenith fouldiers. for eue bn= to the dapes of Beda (as he affyzmieth) the Byp: 10 tains made no account of the fayth of religion of the Englichmen, noz would communicate with them moze than with Pagans, bycause they dif= fered in rites from their accustomed traditions.

The Archbishop Pauline fleeth into Kent.

When the countrey of the Porthumbers was brought into this miserable case by the enimies inuation, the Archbilhop Pauline taking wyth him the Queen Ethelburga, who he had brought thither, returned nowe agains with hir by water into Rent, where he was honourably recepued of 20 the Archbistop Honozius, and king Eadbald. He came thither in the conduct of one Ballus a valiant man of warre, hauing with him Caufred the daughter, & Cluffrea the son of Edwyn and also Iffi the son of Office Cowins sonne, who their mother after foz feare of the kings Edbold & Di= wald did fend into France, where they died.

The Church of Rochester at that time was destitute of a Billiop, by the death of Romanus, who being sent to Rome onto Pope Honozius, 30 himselfe from iniurie of the enimies that Chailde was drowned by the waye in the Italian Seas. Colherebppon at the request of the Archeby= Moppe Honozius, and King Eadbald, Pauline toke upon hym the charge of that Sea, and helde it till he dred.

redalib.z. CAP.I. Ofrike king of Derra.

Ifter that Edwyn was flaine in battaile (as befoze per haur hearde) Dirike the sonne of his Cincle Elfricke, twke von hym the rule of the Bingbonie of Deira, which had receyued the facrament of Baptifme by the preaching and ber= 40 their deffruction. tuous instruction of Pauline.

Eufred king of

But the other kingdome of Porthumberlande called Bernicia, Canfride the fonne of C= belfred o: Edelfride, toke bpon bim to gouerne.

This Caufride during the time of Edwins raigne, had continued in Scotland, and there being conucreed to the Chailtian fayth was baptifev. But both thefe Princes after they had obterned policilion of there earthly kingdomes, dyd forget the care of the heanculy kingdome, fo that 50 Pilles. they returned to their olde kind of Joolatrie. But the almightie God did not long fuffer this ther? unthankfulnesse without iust punishment: so; first The swokings in the nert Sommer, when Olike had raffilye the two sings belieged Cadwallo King of the Bertapnes, beilanditain. within a certavne Cowne, Casmallo brake forth upon hem, and fynding him unprovided to make relystance, flue him with all his armic.

And after thys, whilest Cadwallo not like a Conquerour gouerned the Prouyners of the Porthumbers, but lyke a Tyran wasted and destroyed them, in slaying the people in tragis call manner, hee also flue Caufride, the whiche with twelue menne of warre, came undifcretcly unto him to fue for peace, and thus within leffe than twelne Monethes space both these renegate kings were dispatched.

Then Of 1 walve the Oswald forme of Cock beganne his fred , and bio = raigne in tie ther to the force yeare. 635. fayde Eaustride was created B. cap.3. of the Poz= thumbers, the firt in number from Joa. " walde after that his father was flaine, lined as a banished person a long time within Scotlande, where he was baptiled, and professed the christia religion, and passed the flower of his youth in awd exercises, beth of minde and bodie.

This D[=

Amongst other things, he practised the bnorrstanding of warlike knowledge, minding to to ble it, as it might stande him in steade to befende pronoke him, and not otherwise.

Dereupon Cadwallo King of the Baptayns made in maner no account of him: for by reason that he had atchicued fuch great bidozies agayult the Englisse men , and haning flaine they? two Kings (as before is expressed) he craffes not to proceede in hys tyrannicall doyngs, teputing the Englishe prople for flouthfull, and not aut to the warre, boalling that he was bottle to

And thus being let by in paper of courage, he feared no perilles, but boldely withoute confitering at al the fkilful knowledge which Theald had sufficiently learned in feates of warres, toke uppon hym to affayle the forclayde Dimilot, that had broughte an armie agaynst bymand was encamped in a playne fielde, neate bute the Walall whiche the Bomaines had hopided in tymes palt agaynit the invalien of Scottes and Cadwallo fraight pronoked Dimain to tile the matter by battaile , but Diwalde forbere the first var, and caused a Crosse to bee create inthe same place where he was encamped; in full hope that it should be an ensigne of trophy of his birty? rie, cauling all fouldiers to make their prapers to God, that in time of fuch necessitie, it might please him to succour them that worthipped him.

The Historie of Englande.

It is layor, that the Croffe being made, and the hole digged wherein it shoulds be let, he tooke the Croffe in his owne handers, and puttink the forte thereofinto that hold, to belocit till his wife diers had filled the hole; and radiumed to the fland then ranked al the foulding tokneds bowne broil their knees, and to make diteretion to the time canolining Goofor his affil acougantly privis country with who they thoute fight in a this qua-

After this, in the next morning he bololy citurth battaile to his enimies? lo that a love and south agus killuso bestoict them. At undth Didan petcepues that the Phylaphes bedafiffel formerohated faint, and therfold her allko his prous ploto lemis their force, and silve fult its to praile to two ards, to that a till the puttitude and a cruth and mic'te flight anvatter puttelfette that? Butti tobe hini and the hin whif he mist par bemt Beda. rel for the pielecuation of chen poples comutept va his huge and mightie altitel, we a Blate cant & vel. Malm.

Denisseborne, but the place where hee cauted the Croffe to be crected, height Beuentield.

And thus Cadwallo the most cruell enhance of the English name ended his life: He was terrible both in nature & countenance, for the which cause they lay the Brytannes did afterwards let bu his Image, that the lame nuight bee a terrour to the the Chriftign religion. enimics when they Moulde beholde it.

that Cadwallo was not flaine at all, but raigned vidozioully for the wace of . rivii peares, and then departed this life, as in place afterwards it Mall appeare. But for that the contrarietie in winters in such pointes may soner be nercepuen than reformed to the latisfying of mennes fans cies whiche are variable, wee will leane energ man to his libertie to thinke as feemeth bim goo. noting now and then the divertitie of suche wey- 40 and so likewise of the kings of the South Sajters, as occasion serveth.

Panda the for of taxit ba fucceeved in the gouertimet of the kingbom of Mercia, after Ciarlus, & beganne hys raigne in the 50 peare of oure

Penda.

525

He was fiftie yeares of age befoze he came to bet king, and raigned. trr. peares, he was a Prince right hardie and aduenterous, nor fearing to icopard his person in place of danger; allured & readie of remembrance in time of greatest peril. His body could not be ourrcome with any trauaile, not his mind bandulided with attained of buthe their his verrues were matched with notable by ces, as unit with fuch bitternelle of maners as had not beene beard of, crueltie of nature, lack of turtelle, great willedfalfnelle in performing of word and promife, and of binneathrable hatred toward

Upon confidence put in thele his great bete But here is to bee remembred by the Bry= 35 tues and blees from time that he was made kind fill hillogie of Cal. Mon. it Moulde appeare as though the whole Ile had beene due to hin, h thought not good to let any occasion palls that was offered to make warre, as well agaynt bis friendes and confederates, as also agaynft hys owne two, the entinges. Part of his doings ple baue beard, and moze fall appeare hereafter:

Dithe kings of the Caft Barong and Eat Angles, pe have heard before of whom in places connenient per shall finde further mention with. ons: but by cause they kingdome continued not palt fife friceelfons, little remeinbrance of them is made by warters. Cadwallo of Cadwalline and an mond for we finde him lo, or to also named he gan his raigned Cadwal uer the Britains line. L'010. 635. in the yeate of the raigh of the Emperhir Peracting, 35, and in the rill peare of Dagobert king of France, Df this man pe baue beard partly befoge tohching his realings and warres against the por thumbers.

thumbers, and other of the English Pation : but forsomuch as dinerse other things are reported of him by the Beytich weyters, wee haue thought god in this place to rehearfe the fame in part, as in Cal. Mon, we finde written, leaving the crevite Will with the authour, lith the truth thereof may the more be suspected, bycause other Authours of god authoritie, as Beda, henric buntington, William Palm. and other, feeme great-

Ed win was not Ethelfred, as Galfride fayth, were bzought bp in tred but to Al- framce, being fent thither buto Salomon king la,or Elle, as in of Beptaine, by king Cadwane, when they were other places it berie pong : and that after their returne into thys lande, when they were made kings, Cadwall of the Baptaynes, and Edwyne of the Porthum-

This Cativallo, and Edwyn the sonne of

bers, there continued for the space of two yeares wythrequyred of Cadwallo that he might weare

a Crowne, and celebrate appoynted folemnities within his dominion of Posttumberlande, as well as Cadwall did in his Countrey. Cadwall taking advice in this matter, at length by perwallon of his nephew Brian; denied to graunt unto Edwin his requelt, wher with Edwin toke fuch displeasure, that he sent word buto Cadwal. that he would be crowned without his leave or lie cence, fith he would not willingly grant it: inherbuto Carwal answered, that if he so did, he wold cut off his head buder his diademe, if he prefumed ly to dilagree from him herein. But thus is it to to weare any within the colines of Bzitain. Dere of discord arising betwirt these two princes, they began to make fierce and cruell warre either of them against the other, and at length joyning in battail with their maine armies, Carwall loft the Cadwallors. field, with many thousands of his men, and heing Edwyn chaled, fled into Scotlande, and from thence got ouer into Ireland, and finally palled the feasinto Cadwallo Bygtain Armozike, where of his coulin king Sa- flech the lomon he was curteously recepued, and at length great friendflip betwixt them, till at length Co = 20 obtepned of him.x. 29. men to go with him backe into his cutry to affift him in recovery of his lads and dominions, the which in the mean time were cruelly spoiled, walled, tharied by king Cowin.

The lame time, Brian the nepher of Capmallo whom he had lent into Bzitain a little befoze foz to flea a certaine wifard or fouthfaper, which Ik. Edwin had gotte out of Spain, named Pelitus. that by disclosing the purpose of Cadwallo buto Edwin greatly hindred Cadwallocs enterprises. had fortified the Citie of Ereter, meaning to befende it till the commung of Cadwallo, wherbpon so fride, and Godbold, king of the Alex of Dekney, Penda king of Mercia belieged that Citic with a mightie armie, purpoling to take it, and Brian within it. Cadwallo then aduertised hercof, immediately after his arrivall halted to Exeter, and deutding his people into foure parts, let voon his enimics, a toke Penda, and overther his whole armie. Penda having no other flift to escape, submatted himself wholy but o Cadwallo, promiting to become his liegema, to fight against the Sare ons in his quarell. And this Penda being fube ducd, Cadwallo called his nobles togither which had bene dispersed abrode a long season, and with all speeds went agaynst Edwyn king of Pozthumberlande, and flue him in battaile at hat= fielde (as before is mencioned) with his sonne De which was come thither to his apoe.

By this it thould appeare, that Fabian bath gathered amille in the account of the raignes of the Bertill kings : for it appeareth by Beda and others, that Edwyn was flagne in the yeare of our Lorde.634.

And where Fabian (as before is fand) afterps buteth that affe & diverse other buto Cadwan the he fareth) Caowallo began his raigne, which his opinion seemeth best to agree with that which is weitten by other authors. mallo, as we finde them recozded in the Byrtifle Ifter hee had got this victorie agarnste the Porthumbers, he cruelly purfued the Sarons, as though he ment to farre as in him lay, to destroye the whole race of them oute of the landes of all Bytayne: and fending Penda agaynst King Diwalde that succeeded Cowin, though at the first Benda recepued the overthrowe at Beanen-father of this Cadwallo: yet both Bal. Mon. and 25cda, with the most part of all other weyters, raigne of Cadwan, and declareth that he dred in the reare of our Lozde. 616. in the which yeare as Harding assigneth but. riij. yeares buto the funific that it was done by Cadwallo.

Oald flaine. Bourne, where Penda flue the layd Diwalde. After that Diwalde was flanne, his brother Dlunus succeeded him in gouernment of the Porthumbers, and lought the fauour of Cadwallo, now ruling as King ouer all Beptapne. and at length by great gyftes of golde and filuer, and uppor his humble submission, hee obtepned Cia. Mercia obterned lycence of Cadwallo to make 654 (as it happened) Penda himlelfe was flaine.

lye displeased with that chaunce, pursued DEwalde, and fought with hym at a place called

Then Cadwallo after two yeres graunted that Ellfridus the sonne of Penda Moulde succeede in the kingdome of Mertia.

And thus Cadwallo ruled things at his appoyntment within this lance. Ind finally when he had raigned ribits. yeares, hee departed thys lyfe the rrij of Pouember.

his bodie being embalmed and dreffed with fweet confestions, was put into a braten Image, by marnellous arte meited and cast, the whiche Image beeing fet on a braten Horfe of excellente beautie, the Brytagnes creded alost oppon the Well gate of London called Ludgat, in ligne of his victorious conquestes, and for a terror to the

Ind mozeoner the Church of Saint Martine Byrtains then builded.

Thus have the Bzyfaynes made mention of they? valiaunt Prince Cadwallo, but diuerle men thinke that much of that Hyftozie is but fables, by cause of the dissonance founce therein so manifestly varying both from Beda and other autentike weyters (as befoge I haue faybe.)

But nowe to the truth of the Hyllogie tou-

thing D fwalde King of the Porthumbers, wee Ofwald mesfinde after that he had talled of Gods high faunz neth to bee extended to hymiwardes, in vanquishing hys God for his clumpes, as one mynding to be thankfull there-benefites. fore, was desirous to restore agains the Chris Beda. 11.3. stian fayth through hys whole Kingdome, fore ca.3.5.6. lamenting the occase thereof worthin the fame, Helter. Bo. and therefore even in the beginning of his raigne; he sente unto Donwalde the Scottiste King But to returne to the other doings of Cad= 10 (with whome her had beene brought bp in tyne of his vanishment the space of roug. yeares) requiring him to have some learned Scottish man fent buto him, skilfull in preaching the worte of lyfe, that with godly Sermons and wholesome instructions, her might converte the people cost Porthumberland buto the true and living Godic promiting to entertaine him with fuch provisions as apperterned.

At his instance there was sent buto him one Corman. fielde, pet afterwardes Cadwallo hymicife high= 20 Cozman, a Elerke fingularly well learned, and of: great grauitie in behausour : but for that he want ted such facilitie, and plaine betterance by wave of gentle perswading, as is requilite in him that shal? instruct the simple, onely setting forth in his Sermons high mysteries, e matters of such profound. knowledge, as bneth the verie learned might percepue the perfect sense and meaning of his talks. his tranaile came to imall effett, fo that after a yeares remaining there, he turned into his contra peace, tyll at length bpon a lpyte, Penda King of 20 trey beclaring amongest his brethren of the cleargie, that the people of Porthumberlande was a froward, flubburn & fliffe harted generatio, whole minds he could not frame by any god meanes of perswasion to receive the christian faith: so that he indged it loft labor to fpende moze time amongit them being fo bnthankfull & intractable a people, as no god might be done byon them.

Amongst other learned and bertuous prelates. of the Scots, there chaunced one to be there pre-40 fent at the fame time called Tydan, a man of fo Aydan? perfite life, that (as Beda waiteth) he taught no o= therwise than he lived, having no regarde to the cares of this world, but whatforner was give him by kings of nien of welth and riches, that he freely bestowed byon the pwze, exhorting other to bo thelpke.

This Aydane hearing Cormans words, perceived anon that the fault was not fo much in the people, as in the teacher, a therefore declared, & (as standing buderneath the same gate, was by the 50 he thought) although it were so that the people of Porthuberland gaue no luch attentine care bnto the preaching of that reverend prelate Corma, as his godly expectation was they should have done. pet might it be that his bitting of oner many mys stical articles amongst the, far about the capacity of the bnderstanding of simple men, was beaute why they so lightly regarded his divine instructions, whereas if he had (according to the countaile of Saint Paule) at the first ministred buto thep? tender bnoerstädings, only milke without harder nourisments, he might happely have wonne a farre greater number of them buto the recepting of the farth, and so have framed them by lyttle and lyttle to haue dilgested stronger fode. And therefore hee thought it necessarie in discharge of there ductyes towardes God, and to latisfie the earnest zeale of King Dimaloe, that some one amongest them myght bee approprited to goe to people dayly offred themselves to be baptiled, inso againe into Porthumberlande, to tree by process ding in this maner afore alledged, what prefite woulde thereof ensue.

Saint Paules ounfaile.

The Brithoppes hearing the opinion of Ips danc; and therewith knowing Comans maner of preaching, ineged the mater to bee as Aly=1 bane had occlared, and therebypon not onely allowed his words, but also willed him to take the coursey uppor bim, little they knowe none fo atile, with effect to accompletly they willed de= 20 dayly increased amongest them, that no where lices in that behalfe.

Avdancommeth into England to preach the zospil.

Ipdane for that he would not feeme to refuse to take that in hande whiche he himselse had mo= cioned, was contented to latisfic their request, and fo fit for warde towardes Porthumberland, and comming thitier, was iopfully recepued of King Osmaloc. who appointed him the Ile of Lindel= farne wherein to place the Dea of his newe Bi-Moppike.

Bedalizean, of the new begon Church of England, that is to witte, touching the time of obseruing the feast of Caster, in like maner as all the Bistroppes of the Scottes and Pixes inhabiting within Byptaine in those dayes did, following therein as they toxe it) the doctrine of the boly and wante wor= thie father Inatholius. But the Scots that inhabited in the South partes of Frelande, alreadic were agreed to observe that feast according to the rules of the Church of Rome. But Aydane be- 40 an Cafter day, hauing Billiop Aydan'at biner ing thus come into Postbumberlande, applied bunfelt fo carnefilp in prayer and preaching, that the people had him within flost whyle in wonderfull estimation, chiefely for that hee tempered his preachings with fuche freete and pleasaunt matter, that all men had a great delire to heare bun, infomuche that formetring her was glad to preache abrode in Churche vardes, bycause the audience was more than coulde have rowinth in

One thing was a great himberance to him. that be had not the perfite knowledge of the Sar. ons tongue. But Thuslo hunselie was a creatbelpe to him in that matter, who beeing of nothing so much desirous, as to have the farth of Chailt roted in the beartes of his fabiens, bled as an interpreter to report but o the people in their Baron tongue, such whole Sermons as Aydan bttered in his mother tongue. For Dwalde ha= Beda. uing bene brought op (as pe haue heard in Scot- Ofwalde to lande during the time of his banishment, was as interpreter to the prescher. readic in the Scottiffe, as he was in the Saron

The people then seeing the kings earnest defire in furthering the doctrine let forth by Aydan, were the more inclined to heare it: fo then it was a maruellous matter to note, what numbers of much that mithin the space of seauen dayes (as is Hee. Beetig. left in wyyting herhyistened. zb. theufaude perfons, of the whiche no small parte forlaking the world, betwee theselves to a solitarie kind of life.

Thus by his earnest trauail in continual preas thing and letting forth the Gospell in that country, it came to passe in the ende, that the faith was generally recepued of all the people, and such seale to aduaunce the glozic of the Christian Religion could be found greater.

Herebpon were no fmall number of Churches Ofwalder buplt in all places absode in those parties by pro= zeale to adcurement of the king, (all men liberaily colenting gion. according to the rate of their lubstance) to be contributaries towardes the charges.

By this meanes the kingdome of the Potthumbers flourissed, as well in fame of increace in religion, as also in civill policie and prudent ordi-This Tydane in one point varied from the vie 30 nances:infomuch that (as Bede writeth) Diwald Bedalissus afterned to fuche power, that all the nations and prouinces within Beptaine which were deuided Ofwald ladia into four tongues that is to fay) Britains, Pius, estimation with his neigh Scots, and Englishmen, were at his comaunde bours. ment. But pet was he not lift by in any prive of prefumption, but Wewed himselfe marneylous curteous and gentle, and bery liberal to porepeople, and to straungers.

It is sappe that he being set at the table boon then with him, his Almoner came in as & Bishop was about to lay grace, and occlared to the king that there was a great multitude of poze folks let before the gates to loke for the kings almes. The king herewith twice a filuer wift which was fet on the table before him with meate & comanded the fance meat fireightmaps to be defiributed amogit the page, and the bill broken into small perces, & denided amongst the for which all he was highly 50 commended of the Billiop, as he well beferued.

By the god pollicie and viligent transil of this king, the provinces of Deira and Bernicia, which hitherto had beene at variannce, were brought to peace and made one.

SI Bout the same time, the Well Sarons were Bedalinit connected to the Chailtian farth, by the Birinuscont preaching of one Birinus a Bishop, the whiche saxons to faure into this land of canic into this lande at the exportation of Pope chulimbur Ponozius, ponoxius, to fet forthe the Gospell buto those people which as yet were not baptifed. By his diligent tranell in the Lordes harnelt, Cynigillus of Rynigils one of the Kings of that countrey recevued the faithe, and was baptised about the fine and twentith yeare of his raigne. King DCwild that Mould have his daughter in marriage, was prefene the fame time, & firste ere hee became a some in law, was made a Goofather buto Ki= ning him at the fontstone, in that his second birth of recentration. This Birinus was an Italian. s now that King Kinigils was become a Chaistian, he appropried onto the sayd Byzinus the ci=. tie of Dozcefter, situate by the Chames, distaint from Orfozde about kuen miles, to be the Sce of his Billiopzicke, where he procured Churches to be buylt, and by his carnell trauell and letting fourth the wood of life, converted much people to the right beleefe.

In the yeare following, Duichelnius the other King of the West Sarons, and sonne to Kini= gils was also chailined, and dred the same rearc, and so then Cinigillus or Kinigils raigned a=

In this meane while Penda King of Mer- Hen. Hung. cia that succeeded next after Ciarlus, being a ma nicils that thould be his father in lawed by recey = 10 given to fecke trouble in one place or other, lea - This chanced uico warre against the Kings of West Saron, in the yeare. Kinigils and Duichelme, the whiche gathering Weft.hath. their power, gane hym battell at Cirenchester, where both the parties fought it out to the btter= most, as though they had for Eworne to give place one to another, in so much that they continued in fighte and in making of crueil flaughter till the night parted them in funder. And in the morning

After this in the peare of our Lord. 640. Can= bald king of Kent departed this life after hee had. raigned.24. yeares, leaving his Kingdome to hys na erest. Conne Carconbert. This Earconbert was the firste of the Englishe Kings, whiche toke ozder to the otter destroying of all Zools through out his whole Kingdome.

> De also by his royall authoritie, commaunded the fall of fortic dayes in the Lente scason to bee petent punishmente agaynste the transgressors of that commanndemente. Hee hadde by hys wife Segburg, that was daughter buto Anna King of the East Angles, a daughter named Cartongatha, the which was professed a Donne within the Monasterie of Bziege oz Cae la in Fraunce: Foz in these dayes, bycause there were not many Monasteries as yet buyloto within this land, a great number of Englishmen that twke uppon them the profession of a Religious life, gote them ouer bnto Abbeyes in France, and there professed themselves Monkes: and many there were which lente their daughters oner to be professed Ponnes within & Punneries there. and specially at Brige, Cale, and Andeley: a= mongst other, there were Sevike the lawfull daughter, and Edelburgh the bastard daughter of the fayd King Anna, the whiche both in processe of time were made Abbeilles of the laide Mona-Sterie of Brige.

Striutzi.

Pce have hearde already, how Dewald King kept and observed, appropring worthy and com= 50 of Porthumberland bare himselse in all pointes like a molt worthy Prince, not crafing to relecue the necessitie of the poze, advancing the god, and reforming the cuill, whereby her wanne to homfelfe exceeding prayle and commendation of all goo men, and still his fame encreased for his bertuous doings, namely, for the ardent scale he had to the advancing of the Christian fayth. Heerce byon Parda King of Mercia, enuying the pro-

furrous proceedings of Diwald, as he that could neuer abyde to heare the god report of other mes well doings, began to imagine howe to destroy him, and to conquere his Brugdome that hee might ionne it to his owne. It length he innaded Penda irus. his countrey by open warre, met with him in the dech the North this countrey by open warre, the country of thumbers, field at a place called Maketicld, & there in Charp Fedding of and cruell fight Devald was flayne on the fifth King Ofwild flayne.

Mat. VVeft. day of Zugust in the yeare of our Lord, 642, and in the.28. reare of his age, after he had raigned the tearme of enght or nine peares after fome, whyeff accompt that years onto his raigne, in the whych his predecessors Dirick and Eaufride raigned. whomether number not amongst Kings, br= of the faith which before they had professed. Such mas the ende of that bertnous Prince King Diwald, beeing cruelly flapne by that wicked Tp= rant Penda. Afterwards for the opinion concepned of his holynelle, the forelayde A fwald was canonisco a Saynt, and had in greate worfhippe of the people, beeing the fielte of the Englishe na= rvil.stalm, from that appropried his vertueby miracles the= wed after hys departure out of this life.

Olwy

King of Nor-

Bedalib.z. cap. 14.

After that King Chielde was flaine, his brother Chuy being about a.w. veres of age, twke upon him the rule of the Kingdom of Polthumberland, gouerning & same & great trouble for the space of eright and twente peares , being fore vexed by the forelayde Penda Kyng of Wereia and his people, whiche as pet were Pagance.

In the fiell years of his raigns, whiche was in the years of our Lozde. 644. Pauline the Billion of Rochefter whiche had bin also Archbifhoppe of Porke Departed this life, and then one Chamar caule of their wicked appollacie, and renouncing to an Engliffman of the parties of Kente wasots deyned Billioppe of Rochester by Honozius the Archbishoppe of Canterbury. Kying Davy hed a partner with hym in gouernement of the Pozthumbers in the first beginning of his raigne one Diwin, which was sonne to Dirick, so that Diwy gouerned in Bernicia and Diwin in Deira, Beroliu. and continued in perfect friendlip foz a leafon, till at lingth, through the counsell of wicked perfons, that coucted nothing to muche as to lowe discorde and variance betwirte Princes, they fell 40 at debate, and so beganne to make warres the one agaynste the other, so that finally when they were at popule to have tried they quarrell in open battarle, Diwin perceyning that he had not an army of lufficiet fozce to encounter with Die wy, he brake up hys campe at Wilfare foowne, a tenne mile by Wellest the Towns of Catarace tone, and after withdrewe hymselfe onely with one fernant named Condbere unto the house of 50 Erle Hunwald, whome he toke to have bin hys trully friende:but contrary to his expediation, the fayd hunwalde did betray tym bute Dimy, the whiche by his Captaine Edelwine flewe the farde Diwin and hys scruaunte the foresayds Conhere, in a place called Ingethling, the thirfeenth Calends of September, in the ninth yeare of his raigne, whyche was after the birth of oure Saujourc.651.

Thes

The Historie of Englande.

This Diwin was a goody Gentlemaniof nerion, talle, and beautifull , and berp gentle of fuccehe, civill in manners, and herr liberall both to high and lowe, to that betwee beloved over at Suche a one he was, to beelbrieft; as Biffion Ty dan gelled, that hee Moulde not leng continue in life for that the Porthumbers were not weathr of fo good & vertuous a gourerros. Such humbles neffe and obevience hee pereconitrio rellindim mas tolde him for his better infecution in and part, that he layd, he never fature before that typic an frumble King. Die erond einem bus bei berneter

The fame Aydan ipued not pall tivelue days after the deathe of the land Diwin, whome her in much loued, departing this world the last pay of Amoust, in the levententh peare after he was 02defned Billiop. His body was buried in the Tile of Lindelferne.

hisplace, a Scottiffman allo, and of the The of Dui from whence his predecellor the forelaid Apdan came, being first a man of Religion professed in the Monasterie there cas some writers doe

Cenwalch King of VVest Saxons.

valch.

Huston

Higden.

1 12 the meane time, after b Kinigils of Ci 10 nigillus Kyna of the West Sarons hador raigned one 4 thirtie yeares. he reparted this life anno. 643.

Kingdome to his fon Cenwalch oz Chenwalv. who helde the same Kingdome the teatine of. 30. Plates, 02.11. (ag fome write) in manner ag his father had done befoge him. In the thirde, og as 0= thers have in the fifth yere of his raigne, pemoa 18. of 90 ercia made fharp warre against him, bycause he had put away his wife y filter of y tame Penda, and in this warre Cenwalde was ouercome in battell, and dzinen out of his countrey, so that hee sledde buto Anna King of the East Angles, with whome hee remayned the space of a yeare, or as other have three yeares, to his great 50 at Cambridge, where children mighte have pla- The Voicergod happe: foz befoze he was growen to be an enimic to the Chaiftian Religion, but now by the wholesome admonitions and Charpe rebukes of King Inna, he became a Christian, and received his wife againe into his company, according to the prescript of Gods lawe, and to be briefe, in all things theweo himselfe to be a new man, embracing vertue, and anopoing vice, to that thortly after through the help of God, he recourse nights bis Mingbonie. After that he was returned in to his Kingdome. s had recovered the fame, there came a Bilhop named Agilbertus outof Irelato: Agilbertus a Frenchma bortie, but hauing romaphed in Fres a Bishop. land a longitizatio reade the waterings. These Agilbert continue into the dronkers of the folicit Saros, was glady recepted of King Centrals, 'at whole relice he take opport him to certifithe' towards the law of the Lozde; in finking y which to rounth of a Billyop there, but afterwardes, when the fapt King admitted an other Bullop gramen With, which have in orderned in France; and knowe the tong better than Agithett, as her rhat eddebene in Englande : Idflichte offendebid that the King hab admitted bitu Bolthout making him of any counsell therein, returned into Fraunce, and there was made Billop of Paris: within a few yeares after, the forelaid Winipas expulled allo by King Cenwald, who gote fignt After Apdan, one Kinan was made Bilhop in 20 into Mercia buto King Unlihere, of whome hee bought the Bishoppicke of London, which he held during his life, and to the countrey of Wielt Saron remayned long withoute a Bilhoppe, till at length the faide Agilberte at the requell of Kong Cenwald tent to him Eleutherius that was his Pephew.

Y Ee have Sigibert after Carve= wald, his brother Sigiberte lucceeded in rule of & Caft Ingles, ama of greate Bertue and wozthinelle, who whilest hee remayned in Fraunce as a banilled man, being coultreyned to ffet bis countrey buo pon bilpleature that King Redwalde bare boni. was baptiled there, and after returning into bys Beda. lib.z. countrey, and obteining at length the Kingdom, Beda. li those things whiche hee had leine well orded in cap. 4. Fraunce, he fluoped to followe, the example of the same at home, and heerebppon, considering with himselfe that nothing coulde more aduaunce the state of the common wealth of his countrey than learning and knowledge in the tongs, beganne the foundation of certagne Scholes, and nanicly ces where to be instructed and brought op in lear- fire of Camning onder appointed teachers, that there might ded by King bee greater numbers of learned men trapned up Sigibere. than before time had bin within this land, to the furtherance of true Religion and bertue.

Ind thus hathe Englande good cause to have in thankfull remembrance this noble Prince B. Sigibert, for all those hir learned menne why che

The Historie of Englande.

Sigibertre-

agneth his

Egricus.

Kingdome to

bane hin broughte by and come forth of that fame mous buintruite of Cambridge, the fielt fouribas tion, or rather renouation whereof was thus be-Bale hath, 636. gunne by typm about the years of our Adid, 630. It length, when this worthy Kyng beganne to growe in age, hee considered with himselfe howe hard a matter, and how painefull an office it mas to governe a Realine as appertrened to the due tie of a good Byng, wherevenon he determined to leave the charge thereof to other of more comuse 96 niente yeares, and hue from thenceforth a mis nate kinds of lyle, and foreligning the adminifiration buto bys kinfman Egricus, bee became a Monke, and ledde the rest of his life in a certaine Abbey. But Mortly after it wo came to passe that Denox Bonk of Bucis that emell Eth. nike Tyentemme lote warres oppon Egreins: richerebovon the posple of Gall angles compelled Signbertus to concession the of his Monasteries and to fine with them into the fields against 10 cma : Signetional berprog their confirmen as crainfi his wil mortonot put off acinour or heart and other kinds of tweapon, than onthe a manne in his hande infleade ofa Scrpter, and fothe ans and of the Eaft angles in home of good freede by themuelence of Bigiberte, wonco in battell with their enimies, but the Call angles were finally banquished, and the moze part of them slaine; to= Sigibert and gither with Sigiberte, andthis coulm Egricus they? King.

652 Balem. Beda.lib.z. cap.19. Furleus.

The years in the which Sigiberte and Egricus mere flavne in manner as is aboue rehearled. was after the birth of our Sauioure as some haue 652. In the dayes whilest Sigibert as pet ruled 40 with the most parte of his army, as he gave batthe Cast angles, there came out of Irelande a denoute person named furleus, who comming into the countrey of the Cast angles, was gladly recepues of Kong Sigiberte, by whole help afterwardes hee buploed the Abber of Cumbrel= burge, in the which Sigibert (as some baue wzit= ten) when he renounced his Kingdome, was profelled a Monke. Of this furleus, many thyngs are writte, the which for breefenelle we ouerpasse.

After that Kelir the Billiop of the Cast an= 50 gles was dead, one Thomas was orderned in his place, who after he had bin Billion fine yeres, dyed, and then one Beretails was orderned in his rounth by Ponozius the Archbillion of Can= terburie. The land honozius hymselfe when hee had runne the race of his naturall life, deceased also in the peace of our Lozd. 653, the last of September.

After Egricus lucceeded Anna the lonne of Anna was likewise flagne by Penda King of Mercia, Pril. Md tell but o the lap de 10 enda that inuaded his countrep. He lefte behynde him many chilozen, but his brother Coelhere succeeded hym in gouetne- Edelhere in mente of the Kingdome, who was flaine by Di wy the King of Porthumberlande, toayther with the foreland Penda, and worthely, lith that bee woulde ande that Tyrante whyche hadde flagne hys kinkman, and hys brother that were predecessors with him in his Kingdome.

After this, when the Sea of Canterbury hab bene vacant by the space of one whole yeare and Gre Monethes , one Dem Dedie of the counties Deus Dedie of the Well Sarons, was eleffed and confectated by Ithamar the Byllion of Rochester the. 7. Calcuds of April. He governed the Church of Canterbury by the tearme of nine peres, four moneths, and two days. When he was departed this life, the foreland Ithamar colecrated for him one Damianus of the countrey of Suller.

Teleor Ceals Ding of a kingbome, his father Penda aduaunced him to the rule of that Kingdome of the middle angles during his own life. Heere may you note, b the Kingdome of the midle angles was one, &

Mercia receyueth the favth.

A Bout this time, the people of Mercia co= mondy called midle An= ales, recepued the Chaistian farthe buder ther?

Kyng named Peda, 02

Peada the sonne of Peti-da King of Mercia, the vona Gentleman, and worthy to have the gur=

the Kingdome of Phereia mother, though most thirmonly the fame were construct by one king. This your Peda came to the king of Porthumbetlande Direvito require of him to have hys daughter Alchfled in matriage: but when he was enformed that he mighte not have hir except hee mould become a Chaffian when buyon hearyng the Golpell Pleached with the promile of this cre lestiall topes and immortalitie, by the reluxedio which being a towardly 10 of the fleshe in the life to come, he layde, that whether hee had King Dewres daughter to wife of not he woulde furely be baptifed, and chiefly hee was persmaded thereto by his kissiman Alchfride which had in marriage his fifter the daughter of Penda named Cimburgh. De was therfoze bap= tised by Bishop Fynnan, with all those whyche

The Historie of Englande.

came thither with him, at a place called at & wal. Ind taking with him foure prickes whiche were thought meete to teache and baptile his people, he returned with great joy into his owne countrey. The names of thole Prictles were as followeth, 40 Cedda, Adda, Betti, and Diuna, of the whyche, the last was a Scotte by nation, and the other were Englishmen: These Priestes commona into the province of the middle angles, preached the worde, and were well hearde, so that dayly a greate number, both of the novilitie and communaltie renouncing the filthy degges of Joolatrie, were chailined. Pepther opd King Penda fozbidde the preaching of the Gospell within his pro= those whome her knewe to have professed themiselves Christians, and pet thewed not p workes of farthe, faring, that those were weetches, and not to be regarded, which woulde not obey they? God in whome they beleeved. This alteration of things began, about two yeares before the deathe of King Penda.

The East Saxons effloones receive the faith.

A Bout the Beda.lib.3. the Caft Sarons at the in-Stace of Dirop King of Poz= thumberlande. recepued effe= lonis the faith which they had renouced, whe their Billion Melitus. De hane heatge that Seruince of Mercia, but rather he hated and Defviled so red, Siward and Sigivert beethre, and y tonnies of King Sabert (which beetheen obcasioned the renolting of that prouince from p faith of Christ) were flapme in battel by the kings of caleft Sar= on, after whome intrecord Sinibert intrianico p little forme to the middlemide brother Sinding as some write. This Sigibire the little lefte the Kingobnie to an other Sigibert fligt mas totite to one Sigevalo & brother of king Sabert, which of King Day, so that oftentimes he repared in= to Porthumberlande to visit him, wherebypon king Diwy ceassed not most earnestly at tymes conucnient to exhort him to recepue the farthe of Felus Christ, and in the ende by suche effectuall perfinations as he vled , Sigibert gaue credite to his words, and so beeing converted, recepted the King Sigiberi recevued the Finan, at the Kings house called, At the wall, so named, bycause it was built necre to the wall which the Romannes had made overthwarte the miles distant from the Cast Sea.

Ale, as is often befoze remembred, being a twelue

fecond Sigibert raigned as king in that proutnes of the Call Sarons, bringa moft especiall friend

This was a-649 as Math. West.bath neied.

fayth,

Cedda.

King Sigibert hauing now receiued the Chaistian faith when he should returne into his coun= trey, required king Cluy to appointe hymicer= tarne instructors and teachers which might conuert his people to the faith of Christ. King Di= 20 for his offence. The Billop which also was on wy desirous to satisfie his request, sente buto the province of the middle angles, calling from thece that vertuous man Cedda, and alligning vnto him another Priest to be his associate, sente them buto the pronince of the Caft Sarous, there to preache the Christian faithe buto the prople. And when they hav preached and taughte through the whole countrey to the great increase and enlarging of the Church of Chaift, it chaunced on a time that Cedda returned home into 30 Porthumberlande to conferre of certaine things with Billiop ffpnan which kept his See at Lindelferne, where bnderfaoing by Ceoba the great fruite whiche it had pleased God to prosper under his handes in advancing the farth amonall the Call Sarons, hee called to him two other By= Mops, and there orderned the forelayde Ced Bi= thop of the Eail Sarons.

Ced or Cedda East angles.

Tilbery.

Herebypon, the same Ced returning onto bys Pulhop of the fure, wente fozewarde with moze authozitie to 40 performe the worke of the Lord, buildying Churthes in diners places,oederned Prieffs and Deacons whiche mighte helpe bim in preaching, and in the ministeric of Baptiling, specially in the Citic of Ithanceffer bpon the riner of Bente, and likewife in Tileburg on the river of Thames.

Colhiles Ced was thus busic to the great cons fort and ion of the Kong and all his people in the fetting forwarde the Christian Religion with great increase darly proceeding, it chaunced tho= 50 moued with the same of his bertuous frade of lirough the infligation of the entinic of mankende the Deuill, that King Sigibert was murthered by two of his owne kinfmen which were bretligg, the which when they were examined of the cause that Coulde mone them to that wicked fact, they had nothing to alledge, but that they did it bycaufe they had concerned an hatred againste the King, for that he wastm fauorable towards his enimics, and would with great millones of mind forgiue muries committed againste him: suche was the kings faulte, for the which he was murthered, bycaule he observed the commaundemets of the Golpell with a denoute bart: in the whyche his innocent death yet, his offence was punified. wherein hee had furely transgressed the lawes of the Churche. For where as one of them whyche flewe him kept a wife whiche he had unlawfully Sacrament of Baptiline by the hands of Bilhop 10 married, and refused to put hir away at the Bi-Mops admonition, he was by the Billiop excommunicated, and all other of the Christian congregation commaunded to abilityne from hys company. This norwithstanding, the Kyng being desired of him, came to his house to a banquet, and in his comming from thence met with the Billiop, whome when the King behelde, hee wared afrayde, and alight belide his Hople, and fell downcat his feete, befeeching him of pardon Horscbacke likewise alight, and touching the K. with his rodde which he had in his hande, as one fomething displeased, and protesting as in the The authoricant displeased authorities of a Bissop, spake these words, bicause tie of a Bissop (faith he) thou wouldest not absteyne from m= tring the house of that wicked person beeing accursed, thou shalte die in the same house, and so it came to passe.

Swidhelme.

Affter Sig- Suidded one Suid helme. helme in the kingoome jot p Bedaliba. Calt Sarons, cap.22. he was the fon Mat. Profit of Serbalde, 4 baptised of Ced in the prountee of v Cast An= gles, at a place of the kings there called Benbleltham. Coclwald King of the Call Ingles (the brother of King Anna) was his Goodwher at the fontstone. Ced the Billiop of the East Safok bled oftentimes to vilit his countrey of Porthi= berland, where he was borne, to exhort by Preaching the people there but o godly life: where both cap.23. it chanced that King Edilwalde the some of Bi Diwald whiche raigned in the parties of Dira, uing, had him in great reuerence : and therefore byon a god scale and great devotion, willed bini to choose forth some plotte of grounds, where he might build a Monafterie, in the which the kyng bimulfe and other, might make prayer, and heare Sermons the ofmer, and have place where to dus rie the dead. The Billiop confenting to the kings minde, at length effice a place anwngst high and pefert mountagnes, where he began the foundatis on of a Monafteric, afterwardes called Leftinghem, and firste meaning to purge the place with mayers and falling, he defired licence of the king that he might remayne there all the Lent leafon, whiche was at hande, and to continuing in that place for that time, faffed euery day (Sunday ercepted from the morning till enening, according to the manner, not recepued any thing then, but this was the cultome of them of whome hee had learned the forme of his regular order, that they Chould confecrate those places to the Lorde with prayer and falling, whiche they lately had recey= ued, to make in the fame cyther Church og Menasterie. Ind when there remayned tenne dayes of Uent yet to come, he was sent for to the king: wherefoze he appoynted a brother whiche he had, being also a Priest named Cimbill, to supply his counth, that his begun Religious worke Mould not be hindred for the Kings businesse. After that the time was accomplished, hee orderned a 990natterie there, appoynting the Monkes of plame to line after y enles of them of Lindefferne where hee was broughte vp. Finally this Bilhop Ced comming buto this Monafferie afterwardes by chance in the time of a ticknesse, dyed there, and lest that Monasserie to the governance of an owas after a Billiop, as afterwardes Call be fie= wed. There were foure breethren of them, and all Prieftes, Ced, Cimbill, Ceulin, and Ceadda of the which Ced and Cradda were Billiops, as liefore is fayo. Ibout the fame time, Diny Kyng Beda.lib.z. of Porthumberlande was fore opperated by the cap. 24. warres of Jamoa the King of Wereia, to that hee made great offers of high giftes, & great remards unto the layo Penpa for peace, but Penda refufed the same, as he that meant betterly to have it= flroyed the whole nation of Davies inbiedits, fo only a little bread, and an Hennes egge, with a so hands of the Almighty, ford, if the Pagane refuse tweene King to recepue the giftes which we offer, let bemake Olwy and offers to him that knoweth to accept them: and fo king Pendas binding hymfelfe by votre, promifed, that if hee might obteine victorie, he would offer his daugh ter to be dedicate to the Lord in perpetuall virgis nitie: and further, would give twelve manors, Lordhips or farmes, to the building of Monastories: and so with a small army he put hyuntelfe in hazard of barcell. It is layo that Penda havoe o thirtie companies of men of war, furnished with thirtie notable Captaines or Cozonels, agaynte whom came Diny with his fonne Alchfrive, had uing but a finalkarny, but confirmed yet with hope in Chrift Jelus. His other fonne Ecgfrid remayned in hollage at that time with Ducene Cinuife. Edilwalo the founc of Diwalo p gonerned Deira, and ought to have apped Divy, was on the part of Penda against his countrep; and against his Uncle, but in time of the fight he ther brother which he hadde, named Ceadda, that 30 withdrew himselse alide, to behold what chaunce would follow. The battell being begun, the rre? Pagane Captaines were ouertherwein, sput to ficht. a those frame to aibr Penda, wer almost al flainc, amongst whom was Corthere King.of 50 tic, 7 also gaue p.xij.manors, Whereof, v. were in Ethel. Inna, and was the procurer of this warre. Thys battell was fought neere to the water of Inwet, the whiche being rifen as then by reason of greate raine, decouned more of the enimies, than died of h Merthumbers swords. After that Davy had obterned this victory, her performed promile ir bellowing his daughter to y professio of virgini-

Deira, t. d. in Bernicia, coteining ellerh of the to. houtholds a perce. Elico and K. Ttwics daughter was professed in the Monasteric of Herthew, Herreshey where one Hilda was Abbelle, which Hilda pur- light Math. chaling a Lozoship of, ic.housholdes in Streame- Hidi. Mall, now called delhitby, builded a Monafferie there, in the which first the said Elect was a nonice, and after a Ruke, till at length, beering of the age of. 40. peares the departed this life, and was buried there, and so likewise was hir mother Eaufled and hir Grandfather Edwin, with many other high effates within the Churche of Saint Pecter the Apostle. The bidory aboue mencioned gote by King Dlwy in the countrey of Loydes on the. 17. Calends of December, and in the thirtenth years of his raigne, happened to the great commoditie and gapne of both the pco-Porthumberland fro the cruell bestruction made in the lame by the Pagane people of Mercia, and converted those Paganes themselnes, and the countreys neere to them adiopning wholly buto the faith of Jelus Chailt.

Leydes.

The Historie of Englande.

The first Bithop of Mercia

The first Biffop in the province of Mercia, and also of Lindesterne and the middle angles was one Dinna, who died amongst the middle angles. The seconde was Cellach, the whyche leauing his Bilhoppick, returned into Scotland, 20 for they were both of the nation of the Scottes. The third was an Englishman named Trumhere, but instructed and orderned of the Scottes.

Hervas Abbot of the Monasteric of Ingeth= lingum, beeing builded in that place where Bing Choin was flaine (as before is mentioned.) For D. Cauffed that was his kinswoman gote of hir hulband King Efroy a place there for & forefand Trumbere to build that Abbep.

The victorious proceeding of King Olwy.

King Dimp after he had flayne King Pen- 30 da, he governed the people of Mercia, and also or ther of the South provinces, and subduce a great part of p pid.fh nation to the English dominio.

About the same time, Bing Dfwr gaue Ento Peada the foune of King Penda(bycanfe he was his kinlman)the countrey of the South Mercies, South Mercis, confrining, soos, houffoldes, and separated from the Porth Mercies by the river of Wrente. The North Mercia countrey of p Parthmercies, conterned in thole in the nexte spring was wickedly murthered thos Mar. Pre rough treaton of his wife (as was laro in p featt of Cafter. After that thece yeares were complete, next ensuing the death of king penda, the Dukes of the countrey of Mercia, Immin, Caba, and Bedaliba Cadbert rebelled against King Dimp, abuaun= cap.24. cing one Wolfhere a yong Bentleman the fonne of Peda, and brother to Prada, whome they had kept in secrete to be their King, and expulling the ple, for by the same, hee deliuered his countrey of to Lieutenants of King Diwy, they recouered both their owne confines and libertie withall, and fo liuing in freedome with their owne naturall &. the forelayd Wolfhere, they also continued with glad hartes in service of the celestiall Kyng oure God and Sauioure. This cotolf-Vulf-neothe Mercies here.

feuentene peres, Beda liba. the which Mer= cap.24. cies during the reinne of y land Unifhere hadde foure Bishops, the or that pronunce one after another, as the a= boue mentioned Trumbere, Jaroman, Ceadda, & Edlinfride, es after fhell moge at large appeare.

inccessinely go=

_uerning & chur=

Aboute the beginning of King Willsheres H. Huntu. reigne, that is to witte, in the leuententh peace of Math. PVs the reigne of Cenwald King of the Wieft Sarons, the fame Cenwalo fought with & Bzitaines at pennum, whete the Butapnes being affembled in greate number, proudly encountred with the Englistemen, and at the fielle put them tothe worfe, but when the Englishmen woulde in no will gine it ouer, but flickt to their tackle, at The British length the Britaines were put to flighte, so that put to fig Dayes leuen thouland housholders. But Prada 40 prosteritie of Brute recepted p day an incurable by Count wo mor. But within these peares after, that is to witte, in the nineteenth pears of the reigns of the forelande Cenwald, he had not the like lucke in pattell against the forelande Bulfhere King of Mercia as he had befoge against the Butaines, for the land Eluifbere vanquilling bim in y field, paffed through his countrey with a greate army ento p fle of Colight, which he coquered, orly. uered it unto Idelwold & .of Suffer, as a gifte at Acelwol p time. whe he recepted him at the fontitone after he had connerted bim to the faith. De gaue onto Anchwold that Alle, to the ende hee fijonibe caufe the people there to recepue the faith of Chaift.

After that Edelbere king of Callangles was

The Historie of Englande.

Hapne as befoge is mentioned, his brother Coclmalo fucceeded bim in that kingdome, raiginna as king thereof by the space of nine yeres. Then after Ethelwald, fucceded Aldulfe p fon of Cockhere in government of that kingdome, and raigned fine and twentie peares. After finan the Biflop of the Pothumbers that hild his fee at Lin-Defferne, as Ipdan did before bun, one Colman was orderned Billop, a Stot boine, and an earnell oblerner of the cultomes bled amongli the of his nation, le that when the controuerfie beganne to be remined for the holding of the fealt of Cafter. he would by no meanes yeld to them that would hane perswaded him to have followed or ryte of o Romane Church. There was a great difputatio kept about this matter, and other things, as fiauing of cutting of heares, and fuch like in the monafteric of Whitep, at the which Ik. Demy & hirs fon Ilcfrid were prefent, where Colman for hys e of Inatholius, and the contrary five brought in profe of their opinio, p cultonic of Peter & Paule. It length, whe Billiop Colman percepued p his doctrine was not lo much regarded as he thought efreasen it ought to have bent, he returned into Scotlad with thole, which taking part with hint, refuled to oblerue the fealt of Cafter according to the custome of the Thurche of Rome, noz woulde hane their crownes fijauen, about whiche popute, no finall reasoning had bin kept. This disputati= 30 on was holden in the yeare of our Lozd. 664, and in the peare of the raigne of B. Dfwy. 22. and in the. trr. yeare after that the Stotfillimen began first to beare the office of Bilhops within Rotthumberland which was as Harrison larth. 6,4. for Livan gouerned. 17. yeares, Financio. prees, and Colman.3. yeares. After that Colman was returned into his countrey, one Eudathat habbe bin brought op amongst & Southerne Scotter, & oppeined Billop by them, succeded in his rounth, 40 having his crowne flauen, a oblerning the fealt of Cafter according to p custome of the pronince frite of y Romane Church. The same yere,thete thanced a great Ecliple of the lunne. The thirde of Shay about ten of the clocke in the day, a great Dearth & mortalitie enfued, both in all the parties of this our Britagne, and likewife in Ireland 1= mongst other, the fozelayd Bithop Tuda dyed, 4 was buried in the Abbey of Pegnalech. After thes Limbesterne, otherwise called holy ilad, one Wilfro which was fent by & Alcfride into Fraunce, to be opdepned there. About the same time Bying Comp, the father of B. Alefeide, moued with the gorcrample of his fon, fent Ceaoda, the brother of Ced Cometime Billiop of y. Call Sarons into Rent to be opderned Billiop of Porke, but at his comming into Kent he found that Dem dedit the Archbilhop of Canterbury was bead, and none other as per ordenned in his place, to that Ceadda repaired into the pronince of the Wielt Sarons, where her was ordeined by Billiop Winy, who Ceadda ordeltoke two other Billiops of the Buttill natio win ned Archbito him to be his affociates, whithe vice to obleine the fealt of Culter contrary to the cultome of the Romane Church : but there was tro other thiffe; for there was none other Billion tanonically or 10 Deined in p prouince of the dureit Sards in thofe dars, this adding only excepted, a therfore was he constreyned to take such as he might get. After p Ceadda was thus orderned, her began forthwith to follow & true rules of & Charch, he lined right chaffly, the wed by infelie hundle & continent, and plyed his fludy to reading, and travelled abroads on fore and not on horsebacke through the count treps, townes and villages, for to pleache y word of God. He was the Disciple of Andan, a coueted part alledged the custome of John y Enangelist, 20 by his example, callo by the grample of his biother Ced, to infirmit his heavers with the like doings and manors as he had knowen them to do. Wilfriv allo being confecrated Billop, and returned into England, endenozed to plant the of Ders of the Romane Churche in the Churches of England, whereby it came to palle, that p scots which inhabited amongst the Englishmen were constrepted exther to followe the fame, or elfe to returne into their ownte countrep.

1 12 this mean time R. Eccombert beeing vie Egbert.
parted this life after hee Egbert King had gouerned the Kens of Kens. tillmen by the space of twentieperes, his fonne Egbert succeeded byrn in the Kingdome, and raigned nine yeares.

There is little remes

braunce of his doynus.

which in that fhost time were not much notable, except pe will afcribe the comming into this land of the Archbiftop Theodogus, and the Abbot As detan, buto his glozy, which chanced in his tyme. For in the pere of y great ecliple, a fore mortalitie that enfued,it chanced, that both &. Erromberte, and the Archbillion Dem dedie Departed this life, To that the See of Canterbury was boyde a certayne time, in fo muche, that King Egbert that Cuda succeeded in gouernment of the Church of 50 Ancceeded his father Ercomberte, togither with Bed.li.z.

King Dirp, did fende one Wighart, a Pricit of cap.29. god reputation for his excellent knowledge in the Scriptures, bnto Rome with great gifts, nno riche bestiell of gold and silver to bepresented vnto the Pope requiring him that he would ordeine the foresayde Wighard Brendishop of Camterbu- Wighare. ry to have rule of the English Charch. Buethy's Wighart comming unto-Mome, and declaring Zedali. 4. ста.

Adrian.

∵ะ5ชเญ•

his inellage unto Circalianus that then gouerned the Churche of Rome, immediately after he dy= ed of the vedifece (that then raigned in that citie) with all those p came with him. The Pope then taking advice whome her mighte orderne to the See of Canterbury , beting thus deflitute of an Archbillion, he appoprited a Monke named Idean to take that office byon him, but Adzian excuked himselse as not sufficiente foz suche a romth, and required the Pope to orderne one Andrew a 10 Monke also, wherebuto the Pope consented, but when Indiew was prevented by death, eftlomes Ergian foulde haue bin made Archbifloppe, but that he named one Theodoze an other Monke that above as then in Rome, but was borne in the Citie of Tharlus in Cilicia, bery wel learned both in the Grecke and Latine, and being of reucrend yeres, as of. 76. This Theodoze by y pre= Entmen of Logian, was appointed to be ofdeined Archhillyop of Canterbury, with condition, that 20 Adrian Mould neuertheleffe attend bpon him into England, both for & ire had bin twice before thys time in France, and fo know the coaffes, and as gaine, for that he might assist him in all thyngs, and loke well to f matter, that Theodoge Moulo not bring into the Church of England any rpte or cultome of the Ereckes, contrary to the ble of the Romane Churche. Theodoge being first og= depres subdeacon, tarried four monethes till hys heare wer growe, that he might haue his crowne 30 Dauen, after the manner of Peter. fot he was rounded og Mauen after the mannet of the Calt Thurch, which was as they persuaded theselines, condore or- according to the vie of . Paule the Apostle. Ind dined Arch- fo at length was this Throvoge ofderned Archbilliop of Can billiop of Canterbury by Pope Ulitalianus in the pere of our Lord 668, the firth Kalends of June, and with Avian lente into Bzitaine, they toke their rouncy to come through Fraunce, and fo being come elither, fhogely after &. Egbert hadde 4º Audie, proued excellent both in knowledge of the knowledge thereof: wherebyon with all convenient speede, her fente ouer one of his nobles named Review to bring the Freihbilliop into Englande, and to be did : but Adrian was flaged for a tyme, by caule he was suspessed to have had some com= nullion fro the Emperour to haue pradifed with the Englishmen, for the disquicting of p Realme of France. But after it was perceiued that thys fulpition was grounded of no troth, he was also suffered to folow & Archbillion, and so comming so buto Canterbury, he was made Abbot of p Mo= nafferie of & Angustines. The Archb. Theo-Doze came thus to his Churche of Canterbury in the feconde peare after his confectation, about the fecond Kalends of June, being Sontay.

Degoucened the same Churche, peres and 16. days, and was the first Trebbill cuto whome all the Churches of Englande tid acknowledge their obeyfance. He being accompanyed with the forelaid Topian, bilited all the parts of this land. orderned Billiops and Ministers in Churches where he thought convenient, & reformed y fame Thurches as feemed to him needefull, as well in other things which he milliked, as also in causina them to oblerue the fealt of Caller, according to Roncoffee the ryte and blage of the Church of Rome. Te= Mathered adda that was Billion of Pothe, bicanle her was not lawfully ordryned, as he himfelle confessed. mas remoued from the Sea of Poekr, and Will- Beda. fred was thereto reflozed, to that Crabda (though he were not disgraved of his degree of Billion liuco pet a private kind of life, till he was nomitted Bethop of Mercia, as after thali be Metweb. Also Choude whereas before time there was in mainer no fin- breughin ging in the Englishe Churches, except it were in vie. Kent, now they begain every Thurth to vie linging of dinine fernice after the rote of the Church of Rome. The Archbilliop Thesdoze finding the Thurch of Rochester boyde by the death of flat Billiop named Damian, he ogderned one Butta a simple man in woodoly matters, but well in- Pure Bills. Struffed in ecclessaticall discipline, a namely well of Rockets feene in long and mulicke, to be bled in & Church after the manner as he had learned of Bope Erts gozies dileiples. To be briefe, y Archbillion The The wenty odoze, and the Abbot Adrian delerned great come odere and mendation in this, that where they were notably Adian. well learned themselves in the Greeke and Latine tongues, and allo hadde good knowledge as well in the liberall artes, as in the Stripture, they twice great paines to train by Scollers in knowleoge of the lance, to that the Englishmen had not feene more happy times than in those dayes, has Englishmen uing as then kings of great puissace, to as fran-happy &v gers flode in feare of them, and againe, thole that concred learning, had infliracious at hand to trach them, by reason whereof, diners being ginen to Greeke and Latine. There came in company seda of the faid Archbilliop from Rome, an Englithe Benedict man named Benedict Bilcope, which had taken med Bilcope bppon him the habite of a Monke in Italy, and nowereturning into his countrey, builded fwo Abbepts, the one named Wivzemouth, bycaule it was placed at the mouth of the River of Wirt, and the other Girwy, villante from Wiremouth about fine miles, and from the towne of Prime Caltell foure miles, lituate neere to the mouth of Cine. Wiremouth was builte in the yeare. 670. and Girwy in the yeare. 673. There were a. 600. Monkes founde in those two houses, and gonesned buder one Atbot.

The land Benedia was the first that brought Glifen Clasicis, Painters and other such curious traffic Engine men into Englad. De went fine times to Raus, gan. co and came agapue. Front

The Hiltorie of Englande.

Aof the Call Satons was dead, Sighte the forme of Sigbert the little, and Sebby the fonne of Sumaro increrded him in gowernerner of that kingdoine, albrit they were labited buto Cluffhere the king of Mercia. Sighere af that time, when the great mortalitie rangued, rangunceo the fabth of Theilf, with that part of the picque which shie had in gouernemente, for bord the fame Bagtiere and other of his chiefelt Lordes, also allo valtelot 10 hus commons louing this life, and not red arother the life to come, began to repaire their Toolithe Churches, and fell to the worthinping of Ivols? as though thereby they Mould have bin defended from that mogralitie. But his affociat Sebbe with greate denotion continued steofast in the faith which he had received. King Aulfhere beind enformed of Segheres apollacie; and howe the prople in his part of the pronince of Ealt Saros mere departed from the faith, be sente thither 25i= 20 from Faruman of Jaroman, that was successor bnto Trumbere, which bled fuch diligence & godi ly meanes, that he reduced the faid &. and all his people unto the right beleefe, foras the Joollifte Sinagogues were deliroped, and the Idols with their aulters beaten down, o Christian Churches again let ope, & the name of Christ eftsones called bud amongst & people, coueting now rather to dis in him to hope of refurredio in p world to come than to line in y fernice of Ivols, spotted with the 30 the well tellion wherof began the 24 of Schreit den ar Herford filth of errors and falle beleefe. And thus whe Bithop Jaroman had accomplished the thing for $ which he was fent, he returned into Mercia?

After this, when the faid Jacuman was deparfed this life, Ik. Unlfhere fent buto & Archbillion Theodozus, requiring him to provide & province of the Mercies of a new Bilhop. Theodorus not minding to orderne any new Bishop at ptime, tequired of Diwy K. of Porthumberlande, that Bilhop Cead mighte come into Mercia to exer- 40 quiriug that the lame might be recepued! 32d offe Theodore. cile the office of Bilhop thère. This Cead lyued as it were a primate life at that fime in his: Sponallerie of Lellingham, for delilfrio helo the Bis Moppike of Popke, extending his authopitie ouct all Porthumberland amogli the Pilles allo, lo farre as Ik. Diwies dominion tretched. Therefore Cead having licere to got into Mercia, was gladly recepued of B. Aulihere, & wel entertayned, in so muche, that the saide K. game buto him lands and policitions conteining fiftie families of 50 to the famit. houfholds to build a monafterie in a certain place within the countrey of Lindley called Ethearne. But the Dee of his Billioppicke was alligned to him at Litchfield in Staffogollhire, wher he made him a house neere to the Church, in the whych he with, 7.02.3.0ther of his brethzen in Religion, be fed in an oratory, there to pray and reade to often: as they had leafure from laboure and bulingle of the world. finally, after he hadde coverned the Church of Mercia by p space of two yeres and air halfe, hie departed this life, having 7.0apes warning given him (as it is reported) from about, before he Mouto vie, after a miraculous maner. Dis body thas little buried in the Churche of our Las by, viil after that the Churche of Saint Peeter the Apolle was builded, his bones were traifflated anto the lames and their and the good of

In the peace of our Lord, 671, whiche was the feconde yeate after that Theodorus the Archby-Mop came into this lad, D'avy H. of Porthum Virland was attached with a greenous licknesses and over thereof the liftinth Kalends of March. in the 58 pere of his age after he had raigned 28 yeares complete.

After Of Ecgforme Ecgfeid frid. rule of p king = Beda.li.4.ca.5 Donne of Rols Mat. VVeft. thumberlander in the thirde peare of whole iraigne, that is to witte, in the peace of out Lorde. 673. Theorozus the Leeblis hop of Canterbuty kept a Synode at Defform A Synode holber, allthe Billous of this land being prefent les ther in person or by their deputies, as Bir the Billiop of Wall angles, LUMe othe Billiobie 18 the Perkanders by his deputie, Priete Biffidi of Rochester, Lentherius Billion of the Wille Sarons, and Confirm Biffiog of Mercia, Aprile presence of their prisares, the Withdian will will a booke, wherein he hadde noted ten Thapter & Anicles pro-Atticles taken out of the booke of the Carions rel poned by " The ark Chapter was that the fealt of Caller mould be kept, the sunday following the fouretenth day of the first month.

The tecome, that no Billy opinionly effermed= dle within an others diocelle, but bee contenten with the cure of his flocke conductive to him.

The thirde, that no Billion thould disquict in any thing any Monallerie confectated to God, anot to take by biolence any goods that belonged

The fourth, that Billioppes beeing Monkes Thould not toe from Monafferie to Monafferie, except by futterance and permillion of their Abbots, and floulde continue in the lame obedience wherein they stode before.

The fifth, that none of the Cleardit flould Dr= part from his Bilhop to runne into any other bi-Ocele, not comming from any office place thetily m.ij. be admit= be admitted, except he brought letters of tellimo= nie with him. But if any fuch chanced to be receiued, if hee refuled to retuine, being lent for home, both be this recepuer thuld be excommunicated.

Mat.VVest.

The firt, that Billiops & other of the Cleardie beeing ftraungers, foulde holde them contented with the benefite of holpitalitie, a Gould not take in hand any prickly office, without licence of the Bifhop, in whole diocelle hee chaunced so to bee remayming.

The seuenth, that twice in the peare a Spnod Mould be kept, but by cause of divers impedimets heerein, it was thoughte good to them all, that in the Kalendes of August a Sinode Coulde bee kepte once in the yere, at a certague place called Closeshough.

The enght Chapter was, that no one Bishop Bould by ambition lieke to be priferred afore another, but that every one Coulor knowe the tyme and order of his confectation

The ninth, that as the number of the Christie ans increased, so Goulde there bee mo Billioppes pidepned.

The tenth was touching marriages, that none mould contract matrimony with any person, but with suche as it shoulde beclawfull for hym to Doe by the orders of the Churche: none Moulde matche with their kinsfolke, no man fhoulde for= fake tips wife, except as the Golvell teacheth, for caule of fornication. But if any man blo put a= 30 way his wife whiche hee habde lawfully married, if her woulde bee accompted a true Christie an, her myght not be coupled with an other, but fo remayne, of elle bee reconciled to his owne wife againe.

These Articles being intreated of and concluded, were confirmed with the subscribing of all their hands, so as al those that Gould goe against the fame, Moulde be disgraded of their priesthoo,

The foreland Bill hwas Bishoppe of the Call Angles, 4 piclente at thrs Sinode, was successor bute Benifacius, whi the Bonifacius helde that fee. 17. 50 preres, and then be being departed

Lind has, But this me or Billiop of that province. and ordeined by the Irchbillion Theodor. Thys Bili at length was lo visited with ficknesse, that her was not able to exercise the ministration, so that then there were two Billioppes cleded, and confecrated for him, the one named Accei, and the other Balowin.

In this meane while, that is to lay, about the 87: vere of our Lozd. 872. or beginning of $. 874. as Barrison noteth , Kenwalch King of the datest Sarons departed this life, after het had raignen 30. peares. This Kenwalk was such a Prince, as Mat. Prof in the beginning, he was to be compared with the dereglift. would kind of rulers, but in the midcell and later ende of his raigne, her was to bee compared with 10 p beft. His godly seale borne towards the acuancing of the Christian religion wel appeared in the building of the Church at Winchester, where the Bilhors Sca of al that province was the placed.

his wife Serburgaruled the Kyngoome of Welt Sarons after him, a woman of Koutnes priough to have atchieued ades of worthy remisbrance, but being preuented by deathe ere the han ratemed one whole years, the could not theine and full profe of hir noble courage.

I remember that Math. Welf. maketh offer report hereof, declaring that the nobilitie remoned hir from the governement. But I rather followe William Malmel.in this matter.

TD proceede therefore, after b Serbanga was departed this life, of deposed, if you will more E/cuibaue it lo, Eleninus oz Elevinus, whole Grandfather called Cuthgisto, & brother of B. Kinigils nw. lucceded in couernmet of v Wielt Sarous, reine Pvil Mel. ning about p space of two yeres : and after his becesse, one Centiuinus of Centivine toke brech him the rule, and continued therein the frace of nine yeares. But Bede farth that thefeting enled at one time, and devided the kingdom betweet the n. Elcuims fought against Quifbere Rong of Mercia, a greate number of men being flaynt Hon. Hunt on both parties, though Multhere pet trae after a manner the byper hand, as some have westten:

In the fame pere that the Sinobe was belven Beda. lib. o at Herfozd, that is to fay in the years of our Lord and bee leparated from the company of them all. 40 67%. Ecgbert the King of Bent ocpanie the life in July, and lefte the Kingdome to his brother King Louis Lothoge, which held the same cleven peares, and feuen monethes. Some haue witten fint Bing pril. Mala Egbert by the luggeffion of one Thunde bedadeng. had the chiefe rule of the kingdome buder hitts, libs. Suffered the lande Thunnir to put buto Death & Thunnir. theibert og Ethelbzight, whiche were the Dans der. of Ernienredus the brother of King Erconibera that was father buto king Egbert , for point les they being towardly young Genelemen, in past in tyme growe to into fauo; with the profile; fint it Moulde bee calie for them to deprine both the bert, and his iffue of the Epngoome. Ille, his they were printly put to death, and printly walls at the firste, but the place of their burish in the diately beryng flewed after a niftarallyill manner, they, bodyes long after in the paper of King Egilreds the sonne of Kong Engars were taken up, and connered buto Ramley, and there buried. And although Egbert being giltie of the death of those his coulins, did foge repent him, for that he understwoe they dyed gilclesse, yet hys hiother Lothaire was thought to be punished for that offence as after thall be thewed.

Winfrid Bilhop of the Mercics, foz caufe of disobedience in some poynt, was deprined by the Irchbishop Theodoje, and one Sexvulse that Ballop was the buylder and also the Abbot of the Mo- 10 his sonnes Sighard and Sewfred. mallene of Meidhamflede, otherwife called De= terbogrough, was orderned and confecrated in his place. Thout the same time, Erkenwaloe was orderned Billiop of the East Saxons, and ap-Liken- popitted to hold his Sce in the Citie of London. This Erkenwalde was reputed to bee a man of great holynesse and vertue. Befoze he was made Hillioppe, her buyided two Abbeyes, the one of Monkes at Chertley in Sowtherie, where hee himfelfe was Ibbot, and the other of Punnes at 20 Berking, within the province of the Calt Sarons, where he placed his lifter Ethelburga a wo= man also highly ellerned for hir denout kinde of life, She was firste brought op and instruded in the rules of hir profession by one Hildelitha a Lunne of the parties of beyond the Sea, whome Erkeninald procured to come over for that purpose. After Erkenwald, one Waldhere was mate Billion of London, in whole dapes Sebby king yeares, beeing nowe vered with a greenous licks nelle, mofesten bimselfe a Monke: whiche thrug

he would have done long befoze, if his wife hadde not kept him backe. Dec vied flogtly after within the Citic of London, and was buried in the Church of Saint Paule. King Sighere why che in the beginning raigned with him, and governed Fril. Malm. a parte of the Galt Sarons, was departed thys life before, so that in his latter time, the foresappe Sebby had the governmente of the whole prouince of the Calt Sarons, and left the fame to

About the peare of our Loide, 675. Multhere King of Mercia departed this life, after hee havde raigned as some have, 19, yeares, but as other af= FF. Mal. firme, her raigned but. 17. peares. Howbeit they Eurocher which recke nineteene, include the time that pal- raigned. 17. fed after the flaughter of Penda, wherein Diwy yeares. and Beada held the aforelande Kingdome. "

King Ethelred.

After Cialle ther Weada.

Abere his Editred

brother Coile red oz Ethel= red inceceord in douernemet of the Krngdome of Mercia. This Coil red innaded the of the Call Sarous, after hee had raigned thutie 30 Kente with a mighty army in the yeare of oure Lord. 677. Celtroping the countrey afore bittinot sparing Churches not Abberea but snorted the fame without respect, as well as other common places. King Lothaire durst not appeare in the fielde to give hym battell, so that Evilred wente through the countrep, destroyed the Citie of Rothefter a with great riches gotten by the fnoyle, he returned home.

The Hiltorie of Englande.

The Billioppe of Rochester Butta, after that his Church was spoyled and defaced by the enimies, wente onto Servulfe the Billoy of Mere cia, and there obtenning of him a finall cure, and a postion of ground, remayned in that countrep. not once labouring to restore his Church of Rochester to the former state, but wente aboute in Mercia to teach long, e instruct luche as would learne mulicke, wherefocuer hee mag required, oz. could get entertapnement.

Perebpon

Biff Bifhop of the East Angles.

678 A blattag Statte.

Mat. VVe Bedali.4. CAD.12. Bishop Wilfrid banished. Hagustald Hexam. Eadhidus. holy ilande ted one William Bilhop of Rocheiter in place of Putta, and after when the layo William con-Arcyned by pourtie, left that Church, Theodoze placed one Gebmound in his Acede. In the yeare of our Lord. 578. in the moneth of August, a bla= fing Starre appeared, with a long bright beame like to a miller. It was feene every morning for the space of three monethes togither. The same Mop Wilfrid bypon difpleature taken with hym, out of his Ser, and then were two Billious 02= beyned in his place, to governe the Church of the Dozthübers, & one named Bola at Pozke, & the other called Eata at Hagustalo oz Lindesferne. Also one Caphidus was ordeined about the same time Bisson of Lindley, the which province king Egfrice hadde of late conquered and taken from Chulthere the late King of Mercia, whome he otrep. The faid three Lithous were confecrated at Porke by the Archbishop of Canterbury Theodozus, the whiche within three yeares after oz= depned two Bishops more in that province of the Porthumbers, that is to witte, Tumbert at Pagustald. Eata that was appointed to remain at Lindesferne, and Trumuine was orderned to have the cure of y province of those Pices which as then were under the Englishe dominion. Also countrey of Lindley, and ionned it to his domi-

The Church of Ryppon.

cenie of King preach the Bolpell with licence of K. Edilwalke, preachath tic Gospell to baptised in Mercia, by the procurement of King them of Sul-was appointed to governe & Church of Rypus. After that Billion Willrid was expulled out of his diocesse and province of the Porthumbers. he went to Rome, * returning from thence, came into the kingdome of the South Sarons, & whithe contenning scuen thousands housholdes or families, as pet was not connected to b Christian who as before is mencioned, was converted and Mulfbere, that then became his Godfather, & gaue him at the same time the I se of Wight, and the province of the people auntiently called Meanuari, which he had wonne fro the Well Saros. Bishop Willfird then by King Edilwalke hys furtherance and helpe, baptifed the chiefest Lozds Priestes baptiled the residue of the people, exther then or in time following. It chanced that for the frace of three peares as it is faid before the comming thither of Billiop Wilfrio, there hav fallen no rayne from the agre within that prominer of the South Sarons, so that f people wer brought into areate mileric by reason of famine, why the through wante of necessary fruites of the earthe.

Lacke of

Herebyon the Archbillop Theodoge confecta= nion, Billion Cadhedus comming from thence.

fore afflicted the whole countrey, in somuch, that no finall number theire theinfelues headlong into the Sea, ochayzing of life, in luche lacke of necessary viduals. But as God would, the same daye that Wilfrid began to minister the Sacrament of Baptilme, there came bowne fweete and plentifull flowers of rapue, so watering y carth. that thereby great store of all fruites plentifully twke rote, and pecloco full increase in growth, to Ecafrid king of Porthumberland, banillied Bie 10 the great comfort and reliefe of al p people, which before were in manner staruen and lost through want of fode. Billyop Wilfrid also taught them in that countrey the manner howe to catche fille fishe with with nettes, where before that time, they had no netter, great fkill in any kind of fillbing, except it were in catching ecles. Hecreby the land Billion arem there in greate estimation with the people, so that his wordes were the better credited amongst the. for that through him, they received so greate heuercame in battel, and thoughin out of that cous 20 nefites, God by fuch meanes working in the pros ples hartes a defire to come to the huderstanding of his lawes. The King also gave buto Wilfing a place called Scoletto, compatted about on each fioceercept on the Wielt halfe with the Sea, conteyning.87. houlloldes of families, where he built an Abbey, and baptised all his tenauntes there, a= mounting to the number of. 250, bond men and Beadmen bond women, whome hee made free both in body madetrudy and foule, for he did not only baptife them, but als free. bycause Evilred King of Mercia recoursed the 30 so enfranchised them of all bodily servitude and bondage.

In this meane while, many things hoppened in other partes of this lande, and first in the yeare after the appearing of the blafing Starre before mentioned, a mightie battell was fought betwirt the lapd Ergfrid, and Edilred King of Mercia, necre to the river of Trent, where Aliwine & brother of King Ecyfrid was flaine, with many other of the Porthumbers, so that King Ecofrid Wilfrid by li- faith. Wilherefoze the fait Wilfrid began there to 40 was confirepned to returne home with lofte. The Archbishop of Canterbury Theodozus verceyning that great warre and effusion of bloud was like to followe thereof, trauelled so in the matter betwirt them, that they were made friendes, and Ecglrid had a prece of money in recompence of his lostes. The foresayd battell was fought in the peare of our Lozd. 679. and in the yeare following, that is to far, in the perc of our Lord. 630. whiche was also the tenth pears of the raigne of and Gentlemen of that prouince. But certapne so Ecgfrid King of Porthumberland, the Arthpere of the raigne of Coelred King of Mercia, the fenententh of the raigne of Alobulfe King of the East angles, and in b seuenth peare of the raione of Lothers king of Kente, the Archbilhop of Caterbury Theodogus held another Synod at Hate Haifelde field, about the day of the fifteenth Kalendes of Dirober, in the which all the Cleargie there prefent, subscribed to certaine Articles touching the goods (ab- velecte of the triulties specifons, in the buitte of the Badhrad of like Inbiliace; and allo of the farme uniticial trinitie; accounding to the acceptant hof the Thursh of Godiand Morevier, thep-mandroleds ned by the like fublerlytion, the fine genorall ceni= cils of Pice, and Confrantinophethe licht of Caplefus, of Calcoont jund of Constantmonlethe nismack is anolog oliver service of thistogram thedatas of Martin Billiop of Rong about the muth reate of the Cruperbay Colutantines at 10 this Dinode holden at Patallo, was welfente one John the Archechanter of Saint Peters Church at Roine, ant into this lande of purpose to bring from hence a cettificat brito Popé Agatho of the agreement of the English Church in matters of faith, with other churthes of the Chailia worlde but the foresappe Archechantor byed by the way in france, as he returned bonismaros, and was buried at Cowers in Cotorayne.

ide.

Bila

Ha. PVeft.

lader.

680

The lame prare, that famous woman Indoa 20 the Britaines, out of this lande, and howe Tabl Abbelle of Whitby, Departed out of this life of as other lay, a five peares aftet, having fielle bin de tepnes a long time with aretuous licknesse: Sik was the daughter of one Percericus the Pople's of King Edwin, and connected to the fauthe of Christ at the preaching of Bishop Bouline and afterwards instructed by Bishop Aydan, profet. ko hir selse a Punne, applying hir Schole Audie to the reading of the Scriptures, to prayer, and other godly exercifes. She builded the Abbey of 30 reason of resemblance of names, tog where Ce-Mhitby, wherein were placed both men and women, with suche an equalitie in all thyngs, that there was no rich person amongst them, noz any that wanted things necessary. She departed out ! of this life on the fifteenth Kalendes of Dicember, being.66.peares of age. Is some faur weiter ten the argued foutly on Biftop Colnions part, 241. Ceffren, at the disputation holden in the Modallerie of Country, in the yeare of grace. 664. whereofyes haue heard before. 40 tings of divers approved authors.

About the years of our Lorse, 682, that is to fay, in the feuenth peare of Centroine of Centininus King of Wielt Sarons , the fame Centwine fought with the Britaynes, and overlashe be Bekaynes them in battayle , purfuing them with fire am iscomfited. twozd buto the Sca Ade.

Cadwallader.

Par now to returne buto that which is founds Din the Brittish histories, by the tenor whereof 50 it flould appeare, that whe their King Caowallo was bead, his fon Cadwallader fucceeded hing in rule of the Britapnes in the years of our Lord 678, which was about the tenth yest, of the Emperour Constantinus Pagenatus, and in the thirtenth yeare of the raigne of Chikocricus kyng. of Frannce.

This Cadwallader beeing the somie of Cadwallo, was begot by him of the halfe filter of pe dalfrid. Da Bing of Mercia, for one father begote them both, but of two fundsy mothers, for thee had to mother a Lady, discinded of the noble bloud of the Wied Basons, and was marked onto Cadtuallo when the place was made befwirt him, & hit brother the land prinon. After that Carmallader have tall med the quarter of thoshiely eight and continued the frey of Aponiudit hathe, of an other toxite, but i. prairs, the Billiaines were broughte into luche milinie through civillolleorde, and also by suche greate efferant faith as then raigned through allthe lande, that Cabwallabet was confermen Calwallader with the chiefeld pair of his people to for lake their to forfake that he countre land by Bearto get them barting the lande. to Britaine Armosike, their to teeke telieft of bil's tayles, for the inflentation of there languish your booles! Dlong motellele made by'the Bittithe writers of this departure of Cadwalladit, and of walkaber was about to haus irtuined againe, but that be was admonified by a dreame to the cons trary, the which by earlieft fermeth but labitons.

ő 8 💆

wepalle bilet It length be wente to Rome and therewas confirmed in the Chillian Religion by Pope Sergius, and Choetly after fell ficke, and dyed the twelfth Kalends of May, in the yeate of Nour Lord 689 . But herein appeareth the etroz of the Britis writers in taking one for another, by adwalla King of the Well Sarons about that time moned of a religious depotion, after he was connected to the faith, west bate Rome, and was there Baptiled of elle confirmed of the forelay de

Pope Sergius , and theetly after beparted thys

lift in that Citic, in the forclapde yeare of 689.02 thereaboutes, the Welchmen ascompt bym to be their Carwallavat finhicht to be true is very bus

like by that whiche may be gathered by the water his Ceadwalla King of the Wifell Saxons A fuccerded after Centimine or Centininus, Lead_ whiche Centiminationer affie places, though it shoulds appeare by that whiche is willisted Walla. by Inthoures of good exolite, that durphy reda.

two vvil. stall

two of thole yeares at the leaft, the Kingtome of Mich Sarons was denived betwirte him and Elcuinus of Elcuinus, to that hee thoulde not reigne palt feuen yeares alone. This o misse.

But now to Ceanwall, whom some take to be ther of Ceauline of Beuling &. of Wielt Saros, as fon to Kenbert of Kenbright that was fon to

Thus he being extract of p noble houle of p kings of Well Sarons, proved in his youth a perfo-nage of great towarones, a fuch a one as no fmal

hope was of him concepued: he would let no oc= callon palle where he mighte exercile his lozce, to thew profe of his high valiancie, so that in the ende with his worthy attemptes thewed therein,

be purchased to himselfe the enup of those that ru= led in his countrey, by reason whereofhe was ba-bpon bee toke occasion asit were in renenge of suche bothankfulnesse to withdrawe out of hys countrey, leading with him all & principal youth of the fame, the whiche eptherpitging his prefent effate, or moued with pleasure taken in hys

vvil. Malm. al one with Cadwallader, we finde p he was ly= Ran. Ceftren. neally discended fro Cutha of Cutwine, the bio-baliante doings, followed him athlismoine into erile. The first beaut of his furious attenuare of ter hee mas out of his country, Edilwalkethe king of the South Sexens talled, the which in defence of himselfe comming to true battell mith Ceapmalla, was flayne with the most part of all his army. Ceadwalla then percenting the balist courages of his Souldiers, filled with good home of this happy atchieuce victory, exturned with Ceadpa the son of pforelaid Cutha or Cutwin. 10 god and profectous freede into his come comtrey, and that ere he was looked for, and causefile nurlaing his adverlaries, drove them out of the Kingdom, and taking byon him to rule the same as king reigned two years during the whych he atchieued divers notable enterprifes. Ind firfle, Bedalik.4 inhereas Berthun and Authune Dukes of Sul. 19-13. fere inbiefes buto plate B. Coilmalke, had both expulsed him out of b countrep, after be kad flain the laid Edilwaike, and allo taken boonthem the nithed by a cothiracie made against him. Where 20 role Duthat Kingdome, be bauing now etterner to the gouernement of the ddleft Sarons, inna Berthunes ded p tountrey of Suller againe, and Clewe Ber- Earle of Sal. thene in battell, beinging that courter into moze lex flyne. bondage than before. He also set opon the Ille of wight, and welneere deliroged all the inhabitats.

Ceadwallo driven to depart out of his countrey.

Ceadwalle his vowe.
The He of Wight con-meaning to inhabite it with his owne people, hee bound himselfe by bowe, although as yet he was not baptiled, that if he might coquere it, he would give a fourth part thereof buto the Lorde. Ind in performace of that bowe, he offered buto Biffon he had taken that Ille, so muche thereof, as conterned three hundred boulholdes or families. where the whole consisted in. 1200, houspoldes. Wilfrid receiving thankfully the gift, delivered & same unto one of his Clearkes named Bernewine b was his fifters fon appointing to him allo a Prieft named Hilvila, p which Could mini-La the word, the Sacramet of Baytilne unto al thole b would receive the fame. Thus was b The of Wlight brought to p faith of Chrill last of al other y parties of this our Britain, after that y receyuch be fame faith had failed here by the comming of the tayih. Barons. Moreouer, &. Ceadwalla innabed the Milfride who then chanced to be prefent , when so kingbom of Bent, wher he loft his brother Wollo, as after thall appeare, but pet her renenged hys Death with great flaughter made of p inhabitats in i country. finally, this worthy Prince Cre adroalla turning himfelf from o befire of warte bloudified, became right courteis, gentle, libetal towardes all nich, so that ye could not have wis thed more bertuous manners to reff in one as pet not Chrilined. Ind footily after , willing to be admitted into the fellowship of the Chailtie ans, of whole Religion he had taken good talk) be went to Rome, where of Pope Sergius hee was baptiled, and named Weter, and Goftly after furpipled with ficknelle deed, and was burted there within the Churche of Saint Peter in the peare of our Lotde. 689.

In the meane while, that is to witte, in the peare of our Lorde. 684. Ergfridking of Pot= thumberland fent an armie bnder the guiding of 10 he lined with hie but a friall while. a Captaine named Bertus into Frelande, the which wasted that Countrey, waring neyther Church noz Monallerie, foge endomaging the prople of that Countrey, whiche had cuer beene friendes unto the English Pation, and belerued nothing leffe than to to be inuaded and fpopled at their handes. .

The Triff men defended themselves to they? power befeething god with manye a falte teart. of fuche extreeme iniuries. Ind though curters may not inherite the Kingdome of heanen, pet they ceasied not to curse, hoping the somer those which with good caule were thus accurled, fijould worthilp be punished for their offences by God, and to (peraduenture) it fell out. for in the yeare following the lapde king Egfeid had led an arnip be Leg'ril into Pidlande, agapulle Bzudens king of the Pides, and beeing trapned into ftraptes within hilles and craggie mountains, he was flain with 30 the most part of all his armie, in the prace of bys age.rl.and of his raigne .rb. bpon the .ruj.kalends of June.

There were diverte of Ecafrides friends, and namely Euthert whome her had advanced the same peare buto the Bishons sea of Lindesfarne) that admifed him in no wife, erther to have taken this warre in hande agapult the Pilles, or the other against them of Irelande, but he woulde not finnes being fuch, that bee might not give care to his farthfull friendes, that aduited him to the belt. From that time forth, the hope and power of the ke britisins Engliff prople began to beray. Jog not onely the pittes recouered that part of they? Countrey which the English men had belde before in thep? policilio, but also the Scots that inhabited within this Ile, and likewife fome part of the Baye tay nes toke oppon them libertie which they kipt and mainteyned a long time after, as Bede con- 50 be had as then innaded. felleth. Ecgfride left no chilogen behinde him. De had to wife one Ethelreda, or Evilogiva, that was daughter bnto Inna king of the Caltangles which limed with hir bulbande the foreland Ergfride. rif. yeares in perfite birginitie (as it is suppo-(cd) contrarie to the purpole of hir bulbange, if her might have perferance bit to the contracte, but the founde fach meanes, that finally he was contented that the thould keepe hir first bow of chastity, which the bad made.

She was both widow and virgin when hee Ethelreds. maryed hir, being first compled in wedlocke with she Embirt a noble man and a ruler in the fouth partes of the Country, where the people called Gray inhabited, whiche is the fame where the Civili. fermes lye in the confines of Lincolnshire, Posts folke, Suntingtonfhire, and Cambringfhire, but

After the had obtepned licence to departe from the Court, the got hir first into Coldingham Abbay, and there was professed a Runne. And after the went to Elp, and there restored the Monastes rie, and was made Ibbes of the place, in the which after fice had gouarned. vij. yeares, thee departed this life, and was there buried.

This fame was the which commonly is calhd Saint Audrey of Ely, had in great reuerence that he woulde remenge they caule, in punishing 20 for the opinion concepute of hir great vertue and puritie of life.

ftet that Aking Erg frid was flain 111 [Y (as before is mecioned)his brother Als find was made king of Rose thumberland. This Altride was the bas flacte conne of king D cop, and in his brothers bayes, exther willingly, or by biolett meanes co-Arayned, se lived as a banithed man in Trelande, where applying himfelfe to flubie bee became an excellent Philosopher, and therefore being indued to be better able to have the role of a king point be was recepted by the Postbumbers, and made be countayled, the punishment appoynted to bis 40 king, governing his lubicits by the space of. I.r. peares e mote, with great wifebome and policie, but not with fuch large bounds as his annecliers bad done for the Pices (as before is mencioned) had cut off one perce on the Botth part of the auncient limits of that kingbonie.

About the rill peate of his ratone, that is to wit, in the years of our Lorde. 698. one of hys Captayrics named Carle Berthaed, og Bertus, Beda in Epit. was flaine in battaile by the Picks, whole coffnes Mat. Prefe

The curle of the Trithe men whole countrey in the dayes of king Ecofrid he had crucily was fied (as before is mentioned) was thought at this time to take place.

Finally king Alfride after be had raigned. cr. Prares and oode manethes departed this life, in the yeare of our Lorde.705.

In the beginning of king Alleides dayes Cata shop of York.

He religneth

721

his Sec.

686.hath.

Mat Weit.

a wounde.

Kent dyeth of

after that Billoy Willifride was reflozed, after he had remanned a long time in exile.

The layde John was remoued to the Church rohn Archby- of Poste, the same breing then boyde by the death of the Archbyshoppe Bola: It length the forcland John aweried with the cares of pubbike affapzes religned his Sea, and got him bnto Beuerley, where hee lyned a solitarie lyfe for 10 the space of foure yeares, and then dyed, about the yeare of our Loide. 721. King Dirike as then reigning in Dorthumberlande. Der continued Bylhoppe for the space of . rrilly. yeares, and buploed a Churche, and founded a Colledge of Priefts at Beuerley aforefayde, in which church he lyeth buried.

the Billiop of Herham being deade, one John a man of great holineffe was admitted Billyop, and

The same peace, of in the peace after that king Ecgfride was flaine, Lother king of Bent departed this life, the. viij. Ides of februarie, of 20 to bee come that would ferue his purpole, as one Lother king of a wounde by hym received in a battaile whiche he fought agaynst the South Sarons, the which came in ayoc of Edzicke, that was some buto his brother Ecquert, and had mainteyned warre agaynst his bucle the layde Lother, even from the begynning of his raigne, till finally he was nowe in the layo battaile striken through the bodie with a dart, and lo died thereof, after he had raigned.ri. prares, and. vil. Monethes.

> continuall warres and troubles, and finally brought to his end before the natural course of his time, for a puniffiment of his wicked confent gi= urn, to the putting to death of his coulins Ethels bert, and Ethilbert, as appeared in that, where they were reported to be Martyrs, bycaule it was · knowne they dyed innocently, her mocked them. and made but a least at it, although his brother in acknowledging his fault, repented him therof. and gave as it were in recompence to they? me Capernet ther, a part of the Me of Thanet to the lucy bing their after. ofa Monasterie.

e figigle sie er Court of Edrick ter that Los ther was dead. got the domp men of Kent. and ruled an king thereof. but not withe out civill mar. infomuch that before be had raigned the ful tearme of two peres. he was flaine in the same warre.

Then Ceadwalla king of the Well Sarons being thereof advertiles, luppoling the time now Rill coucting to worke the Kentilly menall the Displeasure be coulde, entred with an armie into their Countrey, and beganne to wall and spoole the same on eche five, till finally the Kentiffmen affentling themselves togither, gave battaile to their enimies and put them to flight.

Mollo brother to Ceadwalla was dryuen from hys companie, and confiragned to take an house for his refuge : but his enimies that It was thought that her was disquieted with 30 pursued hom fette fore thereon, and burned both the house, and Mollo within it is Affes, Mollobusi Vet dyd not Ceadwalla herewith depart oute of wallabung the Countrey, but to wreake his wrathe, and to deal. remenge the gricle which he twke for the death of his brother, her wafted and deffreped a greate parte of Kent ere bee returned home, and left (as it were) an occasion to his inccessor also to pursue the quarell (as after mail appeare.)

Cie Bentillimen bring dellitute of a king, after that diverse had courted the place, and lought to ataine therto, as well by force as otherwise, to the great vilquicting of that province for y space of fire yeares togither, at length in the. vij. yeare after the death of Edzick, Withzed an other of the formes of king Ecgbert, hauing with viligente transile ouercome enuic at home, and with money redecined peace abrode, was with great hope the ri of Ponember. 205 after the death of hengeft, and raigned. rrriij. yeares, not decevuing his fubicites of their god concepued opinion of him: for our comming all his adacrfaries which were readie to levie equill warre agapust him, he also purchased peace of Inas king of the West Sarons, whiche ment to have made him warre, till mith money be was made his friend.

A little befoze that Withzen was confirmed in reich. 5.ca.8 in that countrey, Suchhard, og Pidged, og rather the same Withped, if the printed copie of Bevarpation das booke intituled Ecclesiastica bistoria getu Anglorum, hane not that name corrupted : for where illing wil. he sheweth that the Archbishop Theodorns being of the age of. 88. yeares, departed this life in the yeare of our Lozde. 690. in the next chapter he declareth, that in the yeare. 692. the first day of July one Brightwalde was cholen to lucceede in the Suchhardus as then raigning in Kent:but whether Wictredus gouerned as then with Suebhardus, of that some other named Pitred, it forceth not, for certain it is by the agreement of mri= ters, that till Widred obtenned the whole rule, there was great firife and contention mourd a= bout the government, and diverse there were that fought and fought for it.

But this ought to be noted, of the forenamed ib och Arch- Brightwalde was the eight Archbillop in num= 40 ber, and first of the English nation that lat in the fea of Canterburie: foz the other feuen that were predecessors to him, were straungers borne, and lent hither from Rome.

Inas king of VVest Saxons.

ons was gon to Rome. where he departed thys

lyfe as befoze is thewed) his colin Jnas, or Inc, was made king of the Well Sarons, beginning his raigne in the peare of our Lorde. 689. in the thirde yeare of the Emperour Justinianus the thirde, in the. rj. years of the raigns of Theodoricus king of Fraunce, and about the seconde yeare of the raigne of Eugenius king of Scots.

Bycaule that now the rule of the Baytaines commonly called Wielchmen, ceaffed in thes The Brytaynes Realme, as by confession of their owne wayters cease to raign it appeareth, and that in the ende the whole Moconcepued of his worthinelle made king of Bent, 10 narchie of the fame Realme came to y hands of h kings of West Sarons, we have thought nuete to referre things general unto y raignes of y fame kings, as befoge wee did in the Beptaine Kings, reserving the particular doings to the kings of the other Proninces or kingdomes, as the fame haue fallen out, and Hall come to hande.

This Juas, which fome miffaking then. for Fabian. an u, do wronginlly name Juc or Jewe, proued a Henric. Hun right excellent Prince, hee was discended of the the kingdome of Keut, there raigned two kings 20 auncient lynage of the kings of the Wielt Barons, as some to one Kenred, that was some to Ceolwald, the sonne of Cutha, or Cutwyne, that was some to Kenrick, the some of Certicus, the first king of West Sarons. But he was admitfed to the kingdoine more for the valiant prowes knowne to reft in his worthic person, than for the successive offpring of which he was descended.

The first voyage that he made, was agaynst the Kentishmen, on whom he purposed to revenge Archbishops sea of Canterburie, Willitredus, and 30 the beath of his colin Mollo, the griefe whercof, as pet he kept in fresh memozie. But when the Ken. Mat. Preft. till men perceived, that to relift him by force, they VVil. Malm. were nothing able, they attempted by money to buy they? peace, and to obtained their purpole, bp= pon payment made to him of. rer. 99. markes of

After this, about the .rrj. peare of his raigne, Anno. 708 as king Inas and his colin Pun, fought with &c is noted by rent king of the Beptaynes.

In the beginning of the battaile one higelbald a noble man of the Wiell Sarons part was H. Huve. Claine, but in the ende Gerent with his Baytains was chaled.

In the explyeare of his raigne, the fame Inas fought a mightic battaile against Cheolred King Mat. Vreft. of Mercia, at Modenetburie, with Doubtfull vice hathous. tozie, for it could not well be indged whether part suffeyned greater losse.

In the exerby yeare of his raigne, king Jnas walla, late 50 inuaded the South Sarons with a mightie armic, and flue in battaile Calobright, or Aldinius king of the South Sarons, stoyned that kingdome buto the kingdome of the West Sorons: Mas. Profit to that from thence forth the kingdome of those bach. 722. South Sarons ccassed, after they had raigned in that kingbome by the space of fine kings fuccel- The end of the fluely, that is to wit, Ella, Cilla, Ethelwalke, kingdome is Berutius, and this last Alohinius, or Entobright. Saxon.

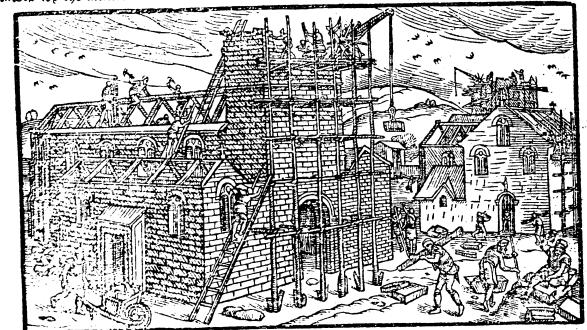

Mas. Vyelk.

Finally, when Inas had raigned. excepts. yeares, and. r.oz. rj. odde Monethes, hee renounerd ihe rule of his kingdome, togither with all Engloly pompe, and went buto Rome as a pope polgrome, and there ended his life: But befoze this, during the time of his raigne, hee Chewed himfele verie deuout and zealous towardes the aduauncement of the Christian Beligion. Be made and otherned also god and wholesome

ple, whiche are yet extant and to bee reode, waitten in the Saron tonque, and translated into the Latine in tymes palt, and nowe lately agayne by maister William Lambert. and imprinted by John Day, in the yeare.1568. togither with the lawes and Statutes of other Kings before the Conquest, as to the learned it may appeare.

Morcouer, King Ine builded the Monalawes for the amendment of maners in the peo= 10 fferie of Glastenburie, where Joseph of Arimas Polidor.

pell (as before is recited) when he with other chriflians came into this lande in the dayes of Aruiragus, and taught the Bolpell here to the Bigtayns, connerting many of them to the fayth.

Morconer king Ine or Inas buylded the Church of Welles, dedicating it buto faint Inderw, where afterwardes a Billiops Sca was placed, which at length was translated unto Sas lifburie. De bad to wife one Ethelburga, a woman of noble lynage, who had beene earnest in 40 holde the same, shee toke occasion thereof to hande with him a long time to perswade him to forfake the worlde : but thee could by no meanes rvil Malm. bying hir purpose to passe, till bppon a time the king and the had lodged at a Manor place in the Countrey, where all prouition had beene made for the recepting of them and they trapne in most sumptuous manner that might be, as well in riche furniture of bouleholde, as also in costip biandes, and all other things needefull, or that might serue for pleasure, and when they were 50 late ber had taken so greate delight, wrought beparted, the Queene the forelapte Ethelburga, caused the keeper of that house to remoue all the Queene Febel- bedding, hangings, and other fuch things as had bargatop :- heene brought thither and ordenned for the beautwa fe bir but tifull setting south of the house, and in place there band to o sake tisull setting south of the house, and in place there of to bring ordure, ftrame, and fuche lyke frith, as well into the Chambers and hall, as into all the houses of office, and that done to thea, in times past builded an Dzatozie oz Chap= 30 lay a Sowe wyth Pigges in the place where befoze the kings bed had flode.

Percepon when the had knowledge that enes rve thing was ordered according to hir appointment, the persuaded the King to returne thyther agayne, feyning occasions great and necessarie.

After he was returned to that house, whiche before feemed to the epe a Palace of moste pleafure, and nowe fynding it in suche a sylthic state as might lothe the stomacke of any man to be= persware him to the consideration of the baine, plea ures of this worlde, whiche in a moment turned to naught, togyther with the corruption of the fleshe, breing a fylthie lumpe of Clape, after it Moulde once be dyssolued by death: and in fine where before thee had spente nuche labour to moue hym to renounce the Morlot, though all in vayne, yet nowe the beholving of that channes in his pleasant Palapce wherein to fuche an alteration in hys mynde, that hir mordes laftive twice effecte : fo that hee religned the Kingdome to his coulin Ethelard and ment himselse to Rome (as aboue is mentioned,) and his wife became a Punne in the Abber of Barking, where the was made Abbelle, and itnally there ended hir lefe.

This Inas was the first that caused the money called Peter pens, to bee payor buto the Billiop of Rome, which was for eucry housible within his dominion a pennic.

The Historie of Englande.

In this meane time Coilred or Ethelred. having governed the Kingdome of Merria by King Ethelred the terme of rrir yeares, became a Monke in the Abbey of Bardeny, and after was made Abbot of that house. He had to work one Difrydattie filler of Ecglrive King of Porthumberlante, by whome her had a sonne named Ceotred. 28uf 10. he appointed Kenred the sonne of his Brother Clulthere to fucceed him in the kinadome.

Carida.

The layor Offrida was cruelly flaine by the Bedem Epis. treason of hir hulbander subicces, about the peare of our Lozde.697.

The forelapde Kenred was a Prince of King Kenteds greate bertue, denonte towardes Bod, a furtherer of the common wealth of his Countrey, and palled hys lyfe in greate synceringe of mances.

In the fifth yeare of his raigne, he renounced the worlder, and went to Rome, togither with Dan sing of Call Saxons, where he was made a Monke: and finally dyed there, in the years of our Low . wir.

Bythe ayor and furtherance of this Kented, Nanclerus. a Manke of Saint Benets opber(cleped Egwin) buploed the Abbay of Euchame. Afterwardes Egwin Bilhop the lame Egwine was made Bilhoppe of Wioz of Worcefter. celler.

dilice finde it recorded by wayters, that this Egwine had warning ginen to him by visions, (as hee constantip affyrmer before Pope Constantine,) to let bp an Image of our Lable in his Churche. Herebppon the Pope approuing the tellifications of this Britoppe, by hys Bulles, waytte to Bayghtwalde the Artheby. Moppe of Canterburie, to allemble a Synore, and by authoritie thereof to establishe the vie of Images, charging the kings of this lande to bee 20 1gefent at the same Sonode, byon paine of ercommunication.

This Sinode was holden about the yeare of our Lorde. 712. in the dayes of Inas King of Well Sarons, and of Crotred king of Mercia, fuccessor to the foresay de Menred.

After Kenred fucceeded Cediredus, the fonne hidlon hath of his bucke Evilred, and vied in the. viil. yeare of his raigne, and was buried at Lichfielde.

the fourth from by m by lineall fuccession. Thys man governed a long time without any notable trouble: some warres he had, and spee dinersly.

In the. xviij, yeare of his raigne be belieged Co.Coffren. Sommerton, and wanne it. Hee also innaded Porthumberlande, and gotte there great tyches by spoyle and pyllage, whiche hee brought from thence without any battaile offered to bin.

The Welchmen he ouercame in battaile; be- H. Hunt. ing then at quiet, and to pred us cofederates with Entherd K. of Wiell Saros. But in the rrivij. peare of his raigne, bee was overcome in battaile at Berefozoe by the fame Cuthted, with whome Bereforde. he was fallen at variance, and within foure peres after, that is to witte, in the .rlf. pears of hys Then succeeded Ethelbaldus that was dis raigne, her was slaine in battaile at Secans Three miles cended of Copa the brother of king Penda, as 50 done, or Sekenton, by his owne subtesses, from Tamwhiche arreared warres agaynste hym, by the worth. procurement and leading of one Bernred, which VVil. Malm. after hee had flagne bis naturall Prince, toke bppon him the Kingbome: but he prospered not long, being flaine by Diffa that succeede himin rule of the kingdome of Mercia, as after fibilities 758 formed. The boote of Ethelbald was botted at Math. VVeff. Ruton.

Bonifacius

Bonilacius the Arthbillipp of Mension Mas guntze, hauing assembled, a Councell worth other Bylljoppes and Doctours, deuled's ketter and fent it unto this Cthilbert, commending him for his good denotion and charitie in almes gy= uing to the reliefe of the pwge, and alfo for his bps right dealing in administration of Juffice, to the punishment of robbers and such lyke mildoers: but in that he absteyned from maryage and and namely with Punnes, they fore blamed him and withall occlared in what infamie the whole Englishe Ration in those dayes remayned by common report in other Countreys for theyr lycencious lyning in finfiell fornication, and namely the moste parte of the Poble men of Wereia by hos enill erample vid forlake they? myues; and defloured other women whiche they tor concubines kept in adulteric as Punnes and other.

women, as well Dunnes as other, vled to make awaye in secrete wise they children whiche they bare oute of wedlocke, and fo fylled the graues with deade bodies, and hell with damned foules.

The same Bonifacius in an other Epystle whiche hee wrote unto Cutbert the Archbylhop of Canterburie, counsayleth him not to permitte the Englisse Punnes to wander abzode so often on Pylgrymage, bycause there were 30 his kingdome, became a Monke in the Just fewe Cities eyther in Fraunce of Lombar-Dye, wherein neight not bee founde Englift wonicu, that lyned wantonlye in fornication and whordome.

Kings of the East Saxons. Offaking of East Saxons, King Selred.

Harisen.28.

Harifon.2:

Pilgrimage of

In this meane tome Sigharde and Seufred, Kings of the Caft Sarons, being depars Bed.li. 5.ca.20 ted thys lyfe, one Dffa that was sonne to Siacrius, succeeded in government of that King-Dome, a man of greate towardnelle, and of right comely countenaunce : but after hee had ruled a 40 nilled by king Egbert, and agayne reflozento certapne tyme, hee beeing moued of a religious deuotion, wente buto Rome in companie of Kenred King of Mercia, and of one Etgbine Brilioppe of Wortefter, and beeing there thas uen into the order of Monkes, to continued tall hee dred.

After him one Selred the sonne of Sigbert the good, ruled the Call Saxons the traime of errbiii.veares.

was departed thys life, whiche chaunced aboute the peare of oure Lorde, 688, his brother Eltwolde, or Tekwolde succeeded him; and raigs ned about.rij. peares. After whole beceaste one Broine was made king of Callangus, and raige Harison.36. ned about.rrdj. yeares:

In this meane while, that is to witte, in the yeare of oure Lozde, 705. Alfride king of Poza thumberiande beeing deade, his fonne Dired, & politich. childre of, bill . peares of age succeeded hym in Ofied king of the kingdome, and raigned ri. yeares, spending Northumber. hps time when he came to type yeares in fylthie abuling his bodie with Punnes, and other religionalization mous women.

About the scuenth yeare of his raigne, that is Henrit His to witte, in the yeare of oure Lozde. 711, one of his Captaynes named Carle Berthfride fought wallowed in filthie lecherie with diverfe wonien, 10 with the Pictes betwirte two places called heute Pictesouer. and Cere, and obteying the victorie, the an throwneby the Northme at 11371 bers. huge number of the enimics.

At length King Dired by the frayterous wife main meanes of hys coulins that arreared warre a= gaynste him, was flaine in battaile, and so ended his raigne, leaving to those that procured King Ores his death the lyke fortune in tyme to tonte, taile. For Kenred raigning two yeares, and Diricke tenne yeares, were famous onely in this, that Dozeouer her Meweth howe that suche enill 20 beeing worthilye punished for thedding the bloud of they naturall Prince and fourraigne Lorde, they finished their lynes with dishonourable deathes, as they had well deferned.

Dfricke befoze his death whiche chauncerin the yeare of oure Lorde. 729. appoynted Ctolbolfe the brother of his predecessour Kenren, to fucceede him in the kingdome, whiche her do, raigning as king of the Porthumbers be the fpace of. biij. yeares currant, and then renouncing Lindelferne.

In this meane while, Bylhoppe Willicide Beda. heing dead one Acca that was his Chaplain was Acca Bishop made Billion of herham.

The forelayde Wilfride had beene Billion by the space of. rlb . yeares : but hee loutofa long tyme in exple. For firft beeping Archebp-Spoppe of Porke, and exercising his turiloidion ouer all the Dorth partes, her was after bethe Sea of Herham , in the feconde yeare of king Alfride, and within fine yeares after efficines banpihed by the same Alfride, and the second tyme reflozed by his luccellour king Dire. the fourth years of whole raigns, beeing the peare after the Incarnation of ours Sauione 709. hee departed this lyfe, and was burgio a Rippon.

Moteoner after John the Archebpfhoppe of After that Moulfe the King of Galf Angles 50 Porke hab religned, one Wilfride forniame the seconde, was made Archebishoppe of that Bea : whiche Wilfride was Chaplague the layde John , and gouerned that Sia be the frace of fiftene yeares, and then died!

Aboute the years of oure Lorder 7107 the 312 bot Totian whiche came into this lanve well Theodoge the Archebythoppe of Cantesinaie befoge yee have hearde) reparted thusalphis boute. trrit, yeares after his comming thy-

Teo Eilhops

zarrejt.

Matereeft

Alfo Inas the king of Well Sarons, aboute the . rr. years of his raigne, demided the Province of the Well Sarons into timo By-Hoppes Seas, where as before they had but one. Daniel Daniel was ordepned to governe theone of thole Beas, being placed at Mincheller, having birder him Suffer, Southerle and Damibue, and Alohelme mas appoynted to Shirehurne ... has 10. ning under him, Barkethire, Wiplithire Sontmerkilhire, Doglettlyete, Deuonihire, and Com-

This Hohelme was a learned man, and was a hop Aldelin first made Abbot of Malinetburte, in the peare ofour Lorde. 675, by Eleutherius then Bifton of the Well Sacons. By his diligence that Ab-The abbey of bay was greatly advanueed beeing afore that Malmesburks. typic founded by one Wednite a Scottilly man, but of to small reuenues afore Libbelmes tome, 2 that the Monkey were bueth able to lyue

Also the same Aloheime was a greate furtherer buto king Juas in the buylding of Blac Ethelard.

Ethe confyn of king Inas, to whome the 20 lame Inas re figned hys kingdome,be= canne to gouerne o delest Daros in the veare of oure

Lozde. 724. oz rather. 27, which was in the. If. peare of the Emperopr Leo Ifaurus , in the feconde yeare of Theodozus king of Fraunce, and 40 aboute the. biij. 02. ix. years of Mozdacke king of Scottes.

In the first yeare of Ethelarbes raigne, bes was vilquieted with civill warre, which one Diwalde a Poble manne, difeended of the royall bloud of the datelt Saron Kings, pioeured &gaynit him : but in the ende, when he percepued that the kings power was to frong for bin, bee flevor oute of the Countrey, leaning it thereby in rest.

In the yeare. 729 in the Moneth of Jamarte there appeared two Comets og blaging via. vvol. Starres, right terriple to beholde, the one rilling in the morning before the riling of the Sanne, tag faires t the other after the fetting thereofile that the one came betoge the becake of the day, and the other besoze the closing of the night Agetching forth they firme branden tomarden the Posts : 460

they appeared thus everie morning and eneming the space of a fourthight togither, michacing, as it wete some great velleudin or common millap

The Saratine flogethe affer entred Fraunce,

finally, when king Ethelard had raigned the tearme of fourtene peares current, bee departed

feo to be observed amongest them, as well con-cerning matters ecclevalitial as tempozalt, her departed this life, leaning frehind him three fornes whiche fuccelliutly raigned as bepres to burs ofie after anothers. (that is to lay) (Cobert, reii), Harlon napeares, C'thelbert. the peares current, and Ils met Ethel-tike, extuir, peares, the whiche three Princes wing him. 17. following the theppes of they, father in the observer, & Edternaunce of politique orders and commenda- ben fecondly ble lawes, nied for the more parte they fathers cen complete. gwo lucke and toztune, execute that in Ethel Bed.li.5.ca.24 bertes tyme the Litie of Canterburie was burned by fasual free, and Alrike lost a battaile agagnif them of Mercia, impercop the grozie of they tymes was tomewhat blempfled; for to it came to palle that whatforuct chaunced suil, was kept still in memorie, and the good bappes that came foreward, were lone forgotten and put out of remembrance.

It the years of our Larbe. 71. Berimaine Archbyllieupe of Canterbutte departed this lyfe the fifth Joes of Januarie, after he had gonerneb that Seady the fpace of ... repul. peares. bi. 990. nether land fourfrene dayes : in whose place the fame years one Cacume was ofdepner Archebpfhoppe, that before was a Prieft in the Monestrie of Bzuydan wythin the Pronince of Percia, Der was confecrated in the Citte Bishops what of Canterbune, by the reperende Fathers, Das prounces they 50 mell Bylhoppe of Alpnohetter, Jugmathe By-Moppe of London, Moivine Byllep of Lichefickit, and Ilowulfe Billiop of Rochefler, the, s.

Ind thus in that fealon, the Proumee of Canterburic was gouerned tenching the Ecclestantical flate by the Itechnelloupe Cacming and Bythopy Alphuste. A be lessuings of the Call Saxons by Hillion angusto: they conince Call Saxons by Hillion angusto: they conince of East Angles, by Billion Earbertus, and Hadulacus, the one keeping his Sea at Ellham, and the other at Dunwich.

The Province of the Well Sarons was conerried by the foreland Daniel, and by forthere, which succeeded next after Hohelme in the Sea of Shereburne.

Mat.VVest.

This Forthere in the peare of our Lotte, 738. left his Billowike, and went to Rome in compaas well Kings as Bilhops, noble and bunoble, Priefles and laymen, togither with women, bled to wake fuch journepes thither in thole dayes.

The Province of Percia was ruled by the fozelayde Alowine Byllop of Lickfielde, and ene Billiop dalaltod holding hys Sea at herforde governed those people that inhabited beyond the river of Seuerne toward the Will.

The Province of the Miccies, that is to micane of Wogeefter, one Wilfride gouerneb.

The South Sarons, and the Ile of Wight, were under the Biffion of Winchester.

In the Province of the Porthumbers were foure Bilhops, that is to fap, Wilfride, Archby= Mop of Porke, Evilwalve Bilhop of Lindil= ferne, Acca Bithop of herham, and peffhelmus Bylhodpe of dilhiterne, otherwife called Candida Cala, hee thas the foell that gouerneo that Church after the fame was made a Bi= Mops Sea. And thus floo the ftate of the Eng- 10 Rone, in to muche that the Carth fremed to liffe Churche for Ecclesiafticall gouetnouts in Erhelbald K.

Ind as touching tempozall gonernment, of Mercia, of king Ccolvulf had the foueraigne Dominion oner all the Porthumbers : but all the Provinces on the fouth five of Fumber with they kings and rulers, were subject bnto Edibalde oz Ethelbald king of Mercia.

The nation of the Pids were in league with the Catholike peace and veritie of the universall Church.

Those Scots which inhabited Bygtaine, contenting themselves with they? owne boundes, went not about to practile any occeptfull traynes nor fraudulent deniles agarnft the Englishmen.

Che Bertaynes, otherwise called Wielch= men, though for the more part of a peculiar hatred they did impugne the English Pation, and the observannce of the feast of Cafter appoynted by 50 Dewcallell (asis befoge remembred.) Der was the whole Catholike Churche, ret both Denine and humaine force ptterly relifting them, they were not able in neither behalfe to atterne to they writed intentions, as they which ethough they were partly free, yet in some point remaps. ned firll as theall and mancipate to the subjecti= oii of the English men : whiche Englishe men (fayth Bede) nowin acceptable peace and quiet= nelle of time, manye amongelt them of Roz. thumberlande, laying armour and weapen allde. applie themselves to the reading of holy Serintures, more delprous to be professed in Religious honfes, than to crercife feates of warre but what will come thereof? tayth he) the age that followeth thall fer and brholde. With these wordes both Bebe ende his ppliozie; confinies till the yeare of our Lorde. 731; whiche was nie of the Ducene of the Weft Saxons. Many 'is from the comming of the Englishe mien into the lande, aboute. 285. prares according to bis accounte.

> In the yeare following, that is to wit 772. in place of Wilfride the teconde, Egbert was ondepned Billiop of Porke.

This Egbert was brother onto an other Eg- 'Pvil. Melbert, the which as then was King of Porthumberlaide, by whole helpe, hee greatly adulunted the Sta of Porke, and retoucred the Pari: fo 20 that where all the other Billioppes that helbe the fame Sca befoze him lithe Paulines Bapis, Waitted the Pall, and fo were accounted finith, but partituler Biffiogpes : nowe was hee effetuled by the riame of Arctibilhop. De also golte togpther a great number of god bokes, which be flowed in a librarie at Porke.

In the yeare, 733. on the thin. Kalendes of Srptember, the Sunne Inffered a great C. cliple aboute three of the Clocke in the after bee covered with a blacke and horrible pen-

In the yeare, 735, that reverende and profounde learned manne Beda Departed this lpfe, Beca depant breing Irrij. peares of age boon Micention Dap, this like, which was the bu kalendes of June, and rrbj. of May, as Mat. Wieft hath viligently oblerucd. Parison addeth hereto, that it is to beerrad in an olde Eppfile of Cutbert Monke of the the English men, and gladly became partaker of 40 fame house, buto Cuthwyne, that the lapt Bevalying in hys death bed, translated the Colpell of Saint Toln into Englishe, and commannded his brethren to bee diligent in the reas ding and contemplation of the bookes and not to ererrife themselves with fables and trivolous matters.

finally he was burred in the Abbey of Eiruic, oistaunt fine myles from Wipzemouth, an Abbay also in the Porth partes, not faire from brought by in those two Abbars, and was scholer to John of Beuerlay.

howe throughly her was ferne in all kyndes of good literature, the tokes which he wiote boe. manifeffly bearr witnesse. Lis indgement allo was to much ellermed ouer all, that Sergids the Biffoppe of Rome wiote unte Celfrio the 36 bot of Wlytemouth, requiping hynr to lande

Beda unto the Courte of Bome for the decybing of certaine quellions moued there, whiche without his opinion might seeme to rest doubtfull. But whether hee went thither oz not wee can not affizinc: but as it is thought by menne worthis of credite, hee neuer went oute of this lande, but continued for the moste part of his life in the Abbrycs of Geruie, and Wygemouth, frest under Benet the fust Abbot and founder of the fame Abbayes, and after under the layde Cel- 10 in peares, but of a floute courage, and verie 749 fride, in whole tyme he recepued orders of priest= home at the handes of Bythoppe John, furnamed of Benerlay, to that it may be maruey= led that a man bozne in the ottermoste cozner of the delocide, shoulde proue so excellente in all knowledge and learning, that his fame Houlde so spreade over the whole earth, and went never out of his native Countrey to leeke it. But who that marketh in reading olde Hylkories the state of Abbayes and Monasteryes in those dayes, 20 shed, and the kings inst cause aduaunced to tryfiallwell percepue that they were ordered after the manner of our schooles of Colledges, hauing in them opneric learned men, that attended one= ly to teache and bring by youth in knowledge of amd learning, or elle to go abrode and preach the word of God in the townes & villages adioining.

The same peare died the Archbishop Tacuine, and in the yeare following, that is to witte. 735. Dethelmus was ozderned Archbishop of Canof Porke the same pere got his Wall from Bome, and so was confirmed Archbilhop, and orderned two Billious, Fruydbert, and Fruydwalde. But

After the decease of Ethelard king

ons , his colin

Cuthred was made King &

governour of those people.

raigning the fome refer it to the peare.744.

Cuthred.

Cuthred

terme of. rbi. yeares. He beganne his raigne in the yeare of our Logo.740. in the. critif. yeare of the Emperour Leo Flaurus, in the riiij, yeare of the raigne of 50 the seconde Theodozus Cala king of Fraunce, and aboute the. by. peare of Ethfine King of ≌cottcs.

This Cutred had muche to doe agaynfte C= dilbald king of Mercia, the which one while with styring his owne subieds the West Sarons to rebellion, an other while with open warre, and sometyme by secrete craft and subtile practiks, sought to disquiet him.

In the fourth years yet of his raigne, a prace was concluded betwirt them, and then iopning they; powers together, they went agapuste the Welchnien, and gaue thein a great ouertheow, as befoze is partly touched.

In the.ir.yeare of this Cuthzeds raigne, hys some Kenric was slaine in a seditious tumult kings some amonal his men of warre, a Gentleman yong flaine. forwarde, whereby (as was thought) he came the Mat. Frest. fonce to his ende.

In the. ri. peare of his raigne, Cuthred had warres against one of his Earles called Adelme. who rayling a commotion against him, abuentured to give battaile, though he had the smaller nu= ber of men, and pet was at popul to have gone away with victorie, if by a wounde at that instant recepted, his periurie had not beene puniumphe ouer his aduerlarie, whome yet by wave of reconciliation he pardoned. In the riii yeare of his raigne, King Cutheed beeing not well able 752 longer to fullayne the motore eractions and Mat. VVeft. harde doings of Edelbalde King of Mercia, rapfed hys vower, and encountered with the same Edelbalde at Hereforde, having with hym the fozesayde Carle Adelme, in whose valiaunte prowes he put great hope to attaine bistorie:nei= terburie in his place, and Egbert the Archbythop 20 ther was he deceyned : foz by the foute conduct and noble courage of the fayde Aochme, the loftie King Edilbald payde of King Evelbalor was abated, so that he put to flight. was there put to flight, and all his armye discomfited, after soze and terrible fight continued and mainteyned even to the ottermost point.

> In the . rriiij . yeare of his raigne, this Cuthzed fought efflones with the Welchmen, and obtep= ned the opper hande, without any great loss of his people: for the enimies were easily put to flight of welt Sar. 40 and chafed, to their own dellruftion.

In the yeare after, king Cutred fell ficke, and in the.rbj. peare of his raigne hee departed thys lyfe, after to many great victories got against his enimies.

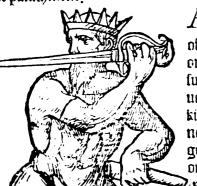

After tipm Sigibert one Sigibert, a cruell vzince e one bnmer= cifull at home. pet a comarde abzode. This Siabert 02 Sigibert be gan his raigne in the yeare of our Lozde. 755. very neare ended. he intreated his lubieits berie cuill, letting lawe

and reason at naught, he could not abide to heare his faultes tolde him, and therefoze he cruelly put to beath an Carle named Cumbia, which was of his countaile and faythfully admonished him to resozue his cuill voings: wherebpon the rest of his Pobles affembled themselves togither wyth a great multitude of people, and expelled him out of his estate in the beginning of the seconde, or (as Harison hath) the first yeare of hys raigne. Then Sigibert, as her was fearefull of nature, 10 fearing to bee apprehended, gotte him into the Colmode called as then Andredeswalde, and there hydde himselfe, but by chaunce a Swinchearde that belonged to the late Earle Cumbia at Princtessond founde him oute, and percepuing what he was, flue him in reuenge of his maisters Death.

Lo here you may fee how the righteous iu= flice of God rewardeth wicked doings in thys worlde to come, appoputing forth enill Princes cometymes to reigne to the punishment of the people, according as they have deserved permyt= ting some of them to have government a long tyme, that both the fromarde Pation maye fuffer long for they linnes, and that such wicked Pzinces mave in an other Wolde tafte the moze bytter togmentes. Againe, other hee taketh Mostly out of the way, that the people maye bee velimered from oppselsion, a also that the naugh= 30 tic ruler for his misoemenor may speedily recepue due puniss)ment.

Ethelred.

After Beof Castangles one Ethelred fucceeded in go uernment of b kingdő, a man god & bertu= ous qualities, In b be brought by his some Ethelbert (which succeeded him) so in the seare of the Lorde, that he proued a righte godly prince. This Etheloged raigned (as Paris fon and also other waters have) the terms of. lij.

After that Coolbulf sing of Porthumberland was become a Henk, in the Abbey of Lindistern, so adourned with golde and stone, burlding a god-Feb. 1. king of his pricles some Egbert by sozder taken by the Nichamber- typo Crovalle faceceded him in the kingdome, & Har hath, 21, gourned the same right worthly so; the terms of rring peares, and then became a Wonke, by the example both of his prodecellor the forefard Ceobulf, and also of during other kings in those days, Channeing of fo that he was the eight king who in this lad had Menks cowles chaunged a kings Crowne for a Monks Cowle,

(as Simon Dunel, wysteth.)

This Edbert (in the .xbiff. pere of his raigne.) and Ungult king of Pides came to the Cite of Alchio with they? armyes, and there recepued the Beptapues into there subication, the frest day of August: but the tenth day of the same moneth, the armie which he led from Duan bnto Dembourgh, was for the more part loft and destroved.

The same years on the biij. kalendes of De= cember, the Mone beeing as then in hir full appeared to be of a bloudie coulour, but at length Alee came to hir accustomed colour, after a marucylous meanes, for a starre whiche followed hir, passed through hir, and went before hir, the like distance as it kept in following hir before We lost hir bluall light.

After that Offa had flagne Bernred the be Offi. furner of the Kingdome of Mercia (as befoze is world with worthie recompence, as wel as in the 20 mentioned,) the same Esta twke bypon hym the gouernment of that Kingdome. 758. a man 758 of such stowenesse of stomacke, that he thought he Mat. Vref. Mould be able to bring to palle all things whatlo= cuer be concepued in his mind. He raigned. rxrix.

Dis doings were great and marneylous, and vvil. Md. fuche as some tymes his vertues surpassed hys vices, and fometyme agains his vices feemed to ouermatch his vertues.

The Kentillmen he oucreame in a great bat= The victories of king Offictayle at Dtreforde, and the Porthumbers also Mat. 1776. mere by hym banquillied, and in battaile put to flight. With Kenvulle King of Well Sarons hee fought in oven battaile, and obtenned a nos ble victorie, with small lotte of his people, althoughe the same Kenwulse was a right balyaunt Prince, and a good Captaine. Againe, perceruing that to proceede with craft Monide for ner advance his purpole, than to ble open noted to bee of 40 force agapult Egilbert King of East Angles, bnder fayze promises to give buto him bys daughter in maryage, her allured him to come into Mercia, and recepuing him into hys Palayce, caused his heade to be stryken off, and after by wrongfull meanes invaded his kingbome, and got it into his possession : pet hee caused the bones of the first Warty; of this lande Saint Albone (by a myzaculous meanes brought to light,) to bee taken bp, and put in a riche Apine, ly Churche of excellent workemanshippe, and founding a Monallerie in that place in honour of the same Saint, which he indowed with great possessions. Der remoued the Archbistops Sea The Archel. from Canterburie unto Lichfield, thereby taabs moued imm naunce his Kingbome of Merria, as well in Canterbure dignitie and perheminece of Spirituall power as Lichhelie. Tempozall. "Pt pennade great supre to being that his purpole to palle in the Court of Rome, and at length be great giftes and rewardes he obtened itfat the handes of Pope Adzianthefirt, as then gouermerren ning the Romaine Sca. And to Cadultus as then Billiop of Lichficlor was adourned with the Pall, and taken for Arctbilliop, having all those Bishops within the limites of King Offa his Dominion. thou of Worcelter, delerchertus Billiop of Chelter. Cabulfus Bifhop of Dozchelter, Wilnnars Dus Billiop of Hereforde, Halard Billiop of Ellham, and Cedferth Billiop of Donwich, There remayned onely to the Archbishop of Canterburie, the Bifliops of London, Wipnehelter. Rochefter, and Shireburne.

And this separation continued all the life time of the Archbishoppe Lambert, although he tranapled carnelly to maintagne his prerogatine, 20 infomuch for that hee first defended his cause. and woulde not confent to his will, Offa deprined him of all his possessions and revenues that he helde of enioned toythin any part of his dominions. Peyther was Dffa latiffico berewith. but he also toke into his handes the vollections of manye other Churches, and namely, bee decces the house of Malmesburie of parte of hie reueficilyeth nues. Bycause of these and other his harde dos Egsrcd taking beor him the rule, beganne-to Egsride kin the Princes, doubting the malice of these enimes, there in follows the appround good doings of this father, of Mercia. procured the friendship of foregine Princes. Unto Brightricke king of the Week Saxons hee gaue hos daughter Ethelburga in mariage. And lending diverse Ambassadors over buto Charles the great, that was both Emperour anyking of Fraunce, at length he purchaled his friendlippe, although before there had depended a prece of dife pleasure berwirt them, insomuch that the ane tercourfe for trade of Merchandize was frages for a tyme.

One of the Ambaffavors that was kent bite the faid Charles (as is reported) was that famous clearke Ilbine, or Alewine, by whose perfunction the fame Charles eredes two Uninerfities, as in place conucnient it may more largely apprace.

finally king Diffa (as it were for a meane to appeale Gods weath, whiche hee doubted to bee infly concepned towardes him for his finnes and wickednesse) graunted the tenth part of all hys also endowed the Church of Heresorde with great renewes, and as some write, he builded the Abbay of Bathe, placing Monkes in the same, of the order of Saint Benet, as before hee had done at Saint Albons.

Mozeouer hee went binto Rome, about the years of our Lozde. 773. and there following the trample of Inas King of the Well Saxons, he made his realnic subject by way of fribute buts the Churche of Rome, appointing that energe boule within the limits of his dominions shoulde yearely pay buto the Apollolike Sea one pennic, which payment was after named Rome Scot, Rome Scot. and Peter pens.

After bys returne from Rome, percey- pril. Malm. uing himselfe to drawe into peares, hee caused his Sonne Egfride to bee ozderned King in bys Suffragancs buto hint, as Denebertus By= 10 lyfe tyme: and shortly after departing oute of this Moldle, lefte the Kingdome bnto hym, after hee had gouerned it by the space of. recte. Offa departed pearts.

> Amongst other the doings of this Offe which furtly were great and marueylous, this may not palle with silence, that he caused a mightic arrate disch to be east betwirter the Marches of thus Country, and the Edickheronfines, to devide thereby the boundes of their dominions.

This Pitche was called Officketeine als Offick. ict, and aretched from the South live by Brys Rowe, buder the Mountapues of Males, runs ning Postimarde ours the Rouers of Source and Dee; into the berie mouth of Dee, where that Ryuerfalleth into the Sea. Dee likewose buploed a Chutch in Marwikeshire, whereof the towne there taketh manie, and in called Offchurch enentalbis dap. to with and morning

Egfred taking beon him the rule, beganne-to Egfride king and fiell telloged butothe Churches they? anncient priviledges, which his father sometime had taken from them. Great hope was concepued of hys further god proceedings, but death cut off the fame, taking him our of this lyfe, after he hab raigned the space of source Monethes, not for his owne offences (as was thought) but rather for that her father habbe ranted to muche bload to bee spylte for the confyrming of hymi out 40 fn the Kingdonic, which to untall a time be nowe enicyco.

Alter that Cadbert of Egbert king of Pofe Eadbere king thumbetlande was beeonie a Aponke, his fonnt of Northum-Dlouiphus lucceeved him : burafter he habraigs berlande. ned onely one years, he was trateroully mutthetro by his owne fernants at Mikitwongton, on simon Dune the.ir.Kalenes of August.

Then fucceeded one Molle, otherwife called Collwold of Collwain, but not immediately, for Edilwold king goods buto Church men, and to pope people. He so he began not his raigne fill the Pones of Augult berkod. in the peare following, which was after the byth simen pun. of our Banior.759,

This man proued tight ballaunf in governmem of his lubied's. De flut in batfaile an Carle of his Countrey named Diwin, the which arreating warre agaynst him, sought with him in a pight fielde at Cadwines Chue, and recepued the worthis rewards of rebellion.

Henric.Huss

Simon Dun.

ced to drinke

Altred began his raigne la

Litti.

This chaunced in the third yeare of his raigne.

Shortly after, that is to witte in the yeare of our Lozoc. 764. there fel such a marueplous great snowe, and therewith to extreeme a frost, as the like had not beene heard of, continuing from the begynning of the Winter, almost tyll the midt of the Spring, with the rygour whereof, trees and fruites wythered away, and lost they? liudy thave and growth: and not onely feathered foules, but also beaftes on the lande, and fishes in the 10 Sea dyed in great numbers. The same peare died Ceolwulf somtyme king of Potthumberlande, buto whome Beda dyd dedicate his boke of Hystories of the English Pation. After that hee was become a Wonke in the Wonasterie of Monkes licen- Lyndisserne, the Monkes of that house had lycence to drincke Wine, or Ale, where as before they myght not exinke any other thing than milke, of water, by the ancient rule prescribed the of Billion Irvan first founder of the Mace. The same peare sundepe Cities, Townes, and Monasterpes were defaced and sore was fled with spic chauncing on the sodayne, as Stretchu, Biwento, Anwicke, Lordon, Pozke, Doncaster, and many other.

After that Molle had raigned. by . Peares, he re= figned his kingdome... But other watte that hee raigned, rj. peares, and was in the ende Claine by treason of his successog Altred.

This Altero raigned ten yeares oner the Port & Choke bnoce him : Againe, asche was in his toutthumbers, and was then expulsed out of his king. dome by his owne subicus. "; " ; and as Simo Dun.

Shen was Ethelbert, named also Edelrede, Henric, Hut, the some of the forelande Wolle, mave king of Mat evel. Corthumberlande, and in the fifth yeare of hys raigne, he was dynam oute of his kingdome by two Dukes of his Countrey, named Evelbalde, and Herebert, the whiche mouing warre against him had flaine first Aldulfe the sonne of Bosa the Generall of his armie at Kingelelyffe, and after 40 no decepte, niealuring other mens maners by his of no emil Kindwulfe, and Egga, other two of his Dukes. at Helatherne in a loze foughten, fielde ; so that Ethelbert vilpayzing of all recoucrie, was con-Strapned to get him oute of the Countrey. And thus was the Kingdonie of Porthumberlande brought into a myserable state, by the ambitious working of the Princes and Pobles of the laine.

H. Hun!. Iohn Capgrasse. Mat Preft. Ethelben king

After that Ethelbert King of East Ingles mas dead , his fonne Ethelbert fucceeded bym, 8 50 Prince of great towardnesse, and so bertuously brought by by his fathers circumfped care and diligence, that hee bitterly abhorred vice, and delighted onely in vertue and commendable exerof Eaft angles. eiles, for the better atteyning to knowledge and bnberstanding of god sciences. There remayne manue simplye sayings and dopings of hom, manofestly bearing wytnesse that there coulde not be a man moze honourable, thankefull, curteous or gentle .-

Intonall other he had this laying oftentimes in his mouth, That the greater that men were, The laying a the moze humble they ought to beare themselues: fur the Lorde putteth prowde and mightie men from theve feates, and crafteth the humble and meeke. Moreover he did not thew himfelfe onely wife in wordes, but desired also to excell in stayednesse of maners, and continencie of life: Whereby her wanne to hom the heartes of hos people, who percepuing that hee was nothing delighted in the companie of women, and therefore mynded not maryage, they of a fingular love and faudurtowards him, required that he shuld in any wise yet take a wife, that he might have iffue to succeed him. It length the matter becing referred to hys Counsagle, hee was personated to followe they, advices. Ind so 20 Alfred the daughter of Offa King of Mercia was fianneed to him : fo that he hymicite appoynted (for meane to procure more fanor at hys father in lawes hands) to go to fetch the bride fro hir fathers house with the first the state of Manye strainge things that happened to hym in taking bypon hym this fourney, putte hom in areate doubte of that whiche founde followe. Her was no soner monnted on hys Tokensof Holle, but that (as feemed to hym) the earth follow. nev aboute the invode tyme of the daye, suche a barke myste compassed hym on eche side, that be coulde notifee noz difeerne for a certaine time any thing aboute him at all : Laffly, as hee lage one night a fleepe, hee thought hee lawe in a vicanie the rufe of his owne Palayce fall Downe to the ground. But althoughe with thete things hee was brought into greate feare, pet theigs nee was violight into greate leate, yet The innee omne:

King Offa right honourably recepited hom: but his wyfe named Duendzed, a wyle woman, but therewyth wicked, concepued amas licious deuile in hir heart, and ftrenght wayes gorth aboute to perswave hir husbande to putte it in execution, which was to murther king thelbert, and after to take into hys hander-hys Kingdome.

Diffa at the firste was offended worth his topfe for thys motion, but in the ende through the importunate request of the woman, hee confented to hir minde.

The order of the murther was-committed 1chn Cafe buto one Mynnebert, that had scrued both the Wyonkin sappe Ethelbert and hys father before tyme, the whiche ferning as thoughe hee had beent fent from Offa to will Ethelbett to come bifto him in the night feason, flue him that once mil= trusted not any such treason.

Offa having thus dispatched Ethelbert, in-Chiconque. uaded his kingdome, and conquered it. But when liked Make and Bridegrome; the abhoring the fact, did curle father and mother, a asit were inspired with the spirit of prophecie, she pronounced that worthis punishment woulde sportly fall on bir wicked mother, for hir hepnous crime comit= ted in perswading so detestable a deede : and ac= cording to hir wordes it came to passe, for hir mother dyed miserably within three Monethes

The Mayde Alfreda refuling the worlde, pro- fo fessed hirselse a Punne at Crowlande, the which place beganne to ware famous aboute the peare ks. Prest. of our Lozde. 695. by the meanes of one Butlike a man esteemed of great vertue and holy= nelle, which chose to himselfe an habitation there, and departing this lyfe about the years of dure Lozde, 714. was buried in that place, where afterwardes an Abbay of Monkes was builded of Saint Benets order.

The bodie of king Ethelbert at length was 40 fine king of Scottes. buried at Hereford, though first it was committed to buriall in a vile place, neare to the banke of a tiuer called Lugge.

The kingdome of Eall Angles from thences forth was brought to into becay, that it remayned lubica one while buto them of Mercia, an other while onto the well Sarous and somewhile bnto them of Bent, till that Comonde furnamed the Martyz obtepned the government thereof, (as after fiall appeare.)

After that Selred king of East Saronshad governed the tearme of exceptiff yeares, her was flaine, but in what maner, weyters haue not

After him lucceeded one Swithed, oz. Swie thred, the. rj. and last in number that particus larly governed those people. He was finally erpulled by Egbert king of Well Sarons, the fame yeare that the layde Eabert overcame the Kentilly men (as after thall be thewed) and so the kings of that kingdoin of the East Sarons cealsed and toke ende.

About this time, there was a Mayde in Dr= Friswide a forde named Friswide, daughter to a certains virgine. Duke of Poble man called Didanus, wyth: whom one Algarus a Prince in those parties: fellin lone, and woulde have ravilled hir . but Gon: is the revenuer of finnes was at hande as hir frozic farth. For when Algar followed the maps that fled befoze him, the getting into the towne, the gate was thutte against him, and his sight also. was fodainly taken from bim. But the Marde. by hir prayers pacifyed Gods. weath towardes. him, so that his sight was to him againe restos red. But whether this bee a fable og a true tale. hereof grewe the report that the kings of thus Realmelong tymes after were afrayde to en= the Bipde Alfreda understwoe the death of hir 20 ter into the Citie of Drfozde. So casily is: the minde of man turned to superstition, as sayth Polidoze.

Kinewulfe.

After that the Milest Sax=Kineons had deprined there unprofita wulfe. ble King Sigi= Hen. Hunes bert, they advan= ced one Kinc= wulfe or Cinci bulfus, b which began his raigne aboute the yeare of our Lorde, 756, which was in the roj. yeare of the Emperour Constantinus, furnamed Co= simon Dun. pronimos, in the vj. yeare of the raigne of Pipinz buth 755. king of France, and about the .rrij. peare of Eth-

This Kinewulfe proued a right worthie and baliant prince, and was descended of the right line of Cerdicius. Hee obtenned great biffogics The Brytayns agapuli, the Baptaynes or Welchmen , but at vanquished. Benlington or Benton, he loft a battaile aggiust Dffa king of Mercia, in the rritif. peare of hea raigne: and from that time forwarde taffing many displeasures, at length through his owne folly her came unto a Mamefull ende : for where as he had raighted a long time nepther flourisfully not prefumptuoully, yet nowe as it were take naunced with the glozie of things paffer, heere ther thought that nothing coulde go against him. er elle noubted the furetie of their Kate whom be hould leane behind him; and therefore he confined one Kineard the brother of Sigibert, whole fame hee percepued to encreale more than bee woulde haue wilbed.

Kenelwulf

elose.

This Kinearde diffembling the matter, as hee that coulde give place to tome, gotte him out of the Countrey, and after by a fecrete conspiracie assembled togyther a knotte of bngras cious companie, and returning paintly into the Countrey againe, watched his tyme, till he elpied that the King wyth a small number of his feruauntes was come unto the house of a Poble woman whome he ekept as Paramour at Merton, wherepon the layd Kineard von the lodain to of Porthumberlande, and likewife to Jeanbright beset the bouse round about.

The King perceyning himfelfe thus beffeged of his enimies, at the first caused the dwies to be Hutte, supposing eyther by curteous wordes to appeale his entinics, or with his Princely authozitie to put them in feare. But when he lawe that by neyther meane hee coulde doc good, in a great chause he brake forth of the house opon Ki= neard, and went berie neare to haue killed him : but beeing compassed aboute with multitude of 20 letters. enimies, whylest hee stode at defence, thin= kong it a difuonour for hour to flie, hee was beas Ana by solpi- ten Downe and flaine, togyther with those fewe of his feruauntes which hee had there with hynr, who chole rather to die in freking reuenge of their maisters death, than by cowardice to yeeld them= felies into the murtherers handes. There escaped none excepte one Welchman of Bip= tayne, an Holtage, who was neuerthelelle foge

The brupte of suche an hepnous afte was ffreyght wages blowen ouer all, and brought with speece to the eares of the Poble men and Peeres of the Realme, whiche were not farre off the place where this Claughter had beene commit. ted. Amongelt other, one Dlrike, for his age and wisedome accounted of most authoritie, exhorted the residue that in no wyse they shoulde suffer the death of their soueraigne Lorde to patte bupuniffed buto they? perpetuall chame and re= 40 cels to tudge in fecular caules, they were nowe prouse. Wilherevpon in all halte they ranne to the place where they knew to finde Kincard, who at the fyist beganne to pleade hys cause, to make large promiles, to pretende coulynage, and fo forth: but when he percepued all that hee coulde say or doe might not prenaile, hee encouraged his companie to fliewe theinsclues valvaunt, and to resplit they; enimpes to the bettermoste of they? powers.

part Aryuing to faue they: loues, and the other to attains honour and punish the saughter of thep? foneraigne Lozde. It length the victozie reffed on the five where the right was, so that the wice ked murtherer after bee had fought a while, at length was flaint, together with fourescore and eight of his Mates. The Kings bodie mas bus ried at deliuchefter, and the muriperers at Re-ningdon. Suche was the ende of King Kine. wulfe, after hee had raigned the tearme of. rrri.

In the years of our Lorde. 786.07 as Parison Eccle, kast hath. 787. Pope Adzian sent two Legates into Mard. Englande, Bregozie (or as some Copies bane 785, H.H. George) Bilhop of Dlia, and Theophiladus bis Legates lion flion of Tuderto, with letters commendatory bn - the Pepe. to Defa king of Mercia, and buto Alfwolde king or Lambert Archbistion of Canterburie, and to Eaubaid Archbifion of Porke.

These Legates were gladly recepued, not only by the forelappe Kings & Archbilliops, but also of all other the high estates, aswel spiritual and temnozal of the lande, and namely of Kinewulfe king of the Well Sarons, which repayed buto king Diffa to take counsaile with him for reformation of suche articles as were conteyned in the Popes

There were r. leuerall articles whiche they Twentie and had to propone on the Popes behalfe, as touching cles which the the recepuing of the faith or articles established by Legates had the Picene Coucel, obeying of the other general to propone. Councels with instructions concerning baptisme and keeping of Spnodes yearely, for the examination of Pricites and Ministers, and reforming of naughtic livers.

Moreover touching discretion to be vsed in the 20 admitting of gouernois in Monafterics, and Curates or priefts to the ministerie in Churches:and further for the behauior of priests in wearing their apparell, namely that they flould not prefume to come to the aulter barelegged, least their Dillos nestie might be discouered. And that in no wife the Chalice or Paten were made of the houne of an Dre, bycause the same is bloudie of nature: not the host of a crust, but of pure bread.

Also whereas Bishops bled to litte in Comfozbidden so to doe ..

Many other things were for meane of reformation artycled both for spirituall causes, and alfo concerning civill ordinaunces, as diffenabling children to be herzes to the parentes, whiche by them were not begotte in lawfull matrimonie, but on cocubines, whether they were Punnes of Nunners con secular women.

Also of paymet of tithes, performing of voices, Herebpon followed a doubtfull fight, the one 50 audyding of videcent apparell, and abolithing of all maner of Ethnish blages and customes that founded contrarie to the order of Chailtianitic, Curryling as curtarling Borfes, and cating of Borfes fell, boiles.

> Thefe things with many other expressed in. I. principal articles (as we have fand were first concluded to be recerued by the Church of the Poz thumbers, in a Councell holden there, & subscribed by Alfwold king of the Porthübers, by Welberke Billop of Herham by Caubalde Archbilhop of Porke, Sygwalor Bylliop of Lyndifferne, Ebelbert Billop of allhiterne, Moulfe-Bylhoppe of Breth. Ethelroyne alfo an other Byftop by his deputies, with a number of other of the Clergie, and Lordes allo of the tempozaltie, as Duke 21= ribt, Duke Segwulfe, Abbot Hobericke, and Abbot Erhard.

After this confirmation had of the Porthumat Cealtide in the which thele persons subscribed. Fambert oz Lambert Archbishon of Canterburic. Offa King of Mercia, Hughbright Billion of Lichfield, Evenife Billoppe of Faron, with Enmone Billion of Ligoz, and nine other Billions belide Abbots, and three Dukes, as Brozda, If armalde, and Bercoald, with Earle Othbalde.

But nowe to returne backe to weake of other doings, as in other parties of this lande thep fell out.

Iboute the peare of our Lozde. 764. the Sea of Canterburie beeing voyde, one Jambert or Lambert was elected Archbishop there, and in the peare. 766, the Archbishop of Porke Egbert De= parted this lyfe, in whose place one Adelbert suc=

About the. rxb. reare of Krnwulke king of Well Sarons, the Porthumbers having to their captaynes two noble men . Dibalde and Ethel= herard, burned one of their Judges named Brarn, 30 by cause ber was more cruell in judgement (as they twice the matter) than reason regupzed.

The lame tyme, one Mwalde of Alferrolde. ted King, after that Ethelbert was expulsed, and when the same Alfwolve had raigned tenne, (of as other haue.ri.) peares, he was trapterouf= ly, and without all quilt made away, and murthered by his owne people. The chiefe confpi= on Dunei tatour was named Siga, and his booie was buticd at Deram.

The fame Alfwolde was a fuft Prince, and morthilve gouerned the Porthumbers to hos highe pravle and commendation. De was murthered (as before per hour hearde,)-the grane of September, in the yeare of dur Lorde. 788, 11111 788

In the years, 792. Charles king of Framet Mat. Pref. fent into Bytaine a books which had berne fent simon Dun. buto him from Constantinople, conterning ceit taine articles agrecolopon in a Syttone inferein were present about the number of three hundred bers, there was allo a counfell holdeti'in Dercia, to Bilhops) quite contraite and vilagricing from the true fayth, namely in thes, that Amarik qualit to be morthinged, which the Churck of poo biterly abhorrerb. Agaynst this bake Abatus that famous Clearke wiete a treatile confirmed with places taken out of holy Scripture, whiche treatife with the toke in name of all the Billions and Princes of Beptapue, he prefented bito the a Billia ura uralitzi e king of Fraunce.

> In the yeare. 800. on Chillmaste euen than simon Dun 20 cedia marneylous teurpeft of winor which ouerthrew whose Citics aire townes in diners olares and trees in greate num bit , biffbe other harnies which it did, as by death of Cattelliec. In the peare following a great part of the Citie of Lond don was könlumed by fire. 19 (11) Carrerag

Charles wie Brightrichus.

After kenes Brigh-Brictichus, oi tricus. Brightni was Hen. Hunt. of Wilest Bart hach. 787. ons, and began simon Dun. his raign in the bash. 786. peare of oure loto.787. which was aboute the but peace of the government of the Empesse 40 Circue with hir fonne Constantinus, and about the fecond yeare of the raigne of Achting king de Scottes.

This Brightrike was procreate of the line of Cervicius the first king of ddieft Sarons ; aim rbi.m number from bint. De was a man of nature quier and temperate, moje telirous of peace than of warre, and therefore be flobe in boubt of p noble valiancie of one Egbert, which after fucceeded him in the kingdome. The linage of Werraigned oner the Porthumbers, beeing admit- 50 dicius was in that fealon fo colonided and mingled, that everie one as he grew to greatest power. Aroue to be king and supreme gouernoz. But fpecially Egbertus was knowne to be one that coucted the place, as hee that was of the blond toyall, and a man of greate power and fustie

King Belghtrike theretoge to line in more Egbere banifarctie, tanified him the lande, and appoputed well.

H. Hint.

And Lns.

entute.

Osred.

788

yy.Mal.

bim to goe into Fraunce.

Egbert bnoerstanding for certaine that this his departure into a fograine Countrey founde turne to his aduauncement in time to come, o beped the kings pleasure.

About the thirde yeare of Bzightrykes raigne. there fell byon mens garmentes as they walked abzode, Croffes of bloudie colour, and bloud fell from beauen as drops of raigne.

Hen. Hunt. Dancs.

A ffrau nge

wonder.

vvil. Malm. the perfecution that followed by the Danes: for shortly after in the yeare ensuing, there arroued three Danith Chippes byon the English coastes, against whome the Lieutenant of the parties adjopning made forth to apprehend those that were come a lange, howbeeit aduenturing himfelfe oner raffily amongest them, he was saine: but aftermardes when the Danes percepued that the people of the Countrepes aboute beganne to alfemble, and were comming agaynst them, they 20 Hed to they? thippes, and left their pray and spoile behinde them for that time.

These were the foelt Danes that arroued here in this lande, beeing onely lente (as was percepued after) to viewe the Countrey, and coastes of the same, to understande howe with a greater power they myght bee able to inuade it, as Mostly after they did, and warred so myth the Englisse men, that they got a greate parte of the lande, and helde it in they? owne 30 that enuye coulde with juste cause reprone. It possession.

In the tenth yeare of King Bzightrykes raigne, there were seene in the apze fprie Dra= gons flying, whiche betokened (as was thought) two gricuous plagues that followed. Fyill a greate dearth and famine: and fecondly the crucil warre of Danes, which thostly followed, as yes warre fignified

> Finally, after that Bzightrike had raigned the fuace of roj yeares, he departed this life, and was 40 therebypon entering that Countrey with a buried at Wlarham.

Some wayte that hee was poyloned by his

Ran. Cestren. li.5.cap.25.

Pamine and wife Ethelburga, whom he marved in the fourth peare of his raigne. Shee was daughter bnto parted this like Offa King of Mercia (as befoze pee haue heard.) Shee is noted by wayters to have beene a verye cuill woman, proude, and high mynded as Lucifer, and thereworth disdaynfull. Shee bare hir the more flately by reason of hir fathers greate birconditions fame and magnificence: whome thee hated thee 50 highe Aulter, and there lette him at libertys. moulde accuse to hir hulbande, and so put them in daunger of they; lyues. And if the might not so wreake hir rancour, thee woulde not slicke to

> And so it happened one dape, as sie ment to haue porsoned a rong Gentleman, agapuste whome shee hadde a quarell, the King chaunced to taile of that Cuppe, and dyed therof(as before pe baue beard.)

Dir purpose indeede was not to have poplemen the King, but onely the pong Gentleman, the which drinking after the King died also, the popfon was fo strong and behement.

For hir heynous cryme it is layde that the Adecree of the For hir heynous cryint it is tayer eyat the kings of the weit Sarons in Dues to be called Duesnes, noz permitte them agayaft their to fit with them in open places (where their Ma= wives. Some twke this wonder for a lignification of 10 iestie thoulde bee thewed) of manye yeares

> Ethelburga fearing punishment, fledde into Fraunce with greate ryches and treasure, and mas wel cherished in the Court of King Charles at the first, but after the was thrust into an Thbey, and demeaned hirfelt to lewely there, in kees The ende of ping companie with one of hir owne Countrey Ethelburgs. men, that flee was banished the house, and after Simon Dun. died in great miserie.

> Egbert king of Mercia departing this lyfe, after he had raigned foure Monethes, orderned Pvil. Mel. his coulin Kenulfe to succeede in his place, which Kenulf. Kenulse was come of the lyne of Benda king of Mercia, as rightly occended from hys brother Kenmalke.

> This Kenulfe for his noble courage, wifedome, and brigght dealing, was worthis to be covared with the best Princes that have raigned. His vertues palled has fame : nothing bee bod bome hee shewed bymselfe godire and religious, in warre hee became victorious, bee refto- The Archbired the Archbishoppes Sea agapne to Cante; kopsleite burie, wherein hys humblenesse was to be maye terburie. fed, that made no accounte of any worldly bonour in hys Province, so that the order of the auncient Canons might be obserued. Bee bad warres left him as it were by fucceffion from lis Predecessour Deffa agaynste them of Kent, and mightie armie, wasted and spoyled the sank, and encountering in battaple with King Epbert, og Ethelbert, otherwife called allo Preme, The king of ouerthiewe his armie, and toke him piploier priloner. in the fielde, but afterwardes he released, him to his creat prayle and commendation. For where as hee buyloed a Churche at Winchrombe bys on the day of the dedication thereof, hee ledde the Kentille King as then hys personer on to the declaring thereby a greate prouse of hys grou nature.

There was present at that fight, Entire omio he had made king of Bent in place of Ethelbert. or Edbert, with riii. Billioppes and ten Dikis. The norse that was made of the people in reionfing at the kings bounteous liberalitic was merucrlous. For not only he thus restored & Kentill Kenulies libe- Kingdo libertie, but allo he bestowed greate re= wards wards bpon all the Piclates and noble inen that concinuen, were come to the feast, every priest had a prece of golde, and rucryanonke a fhilling. Also hee gaue amay great giftes amongst the people, and founded in that place an Abbep, endowing the same with great possessions. Finally, after he had raid= ued. 24. peares, he departed this life, and apporti ten his buriall to be in & same Abbey of Winch= come leaving behind bun a fon named Kenelme. 10 who succeeded his father in the Kinadome. but mas some murthered by hys vanaturall sister Quenbred the fenenteenth of July, as hereafter mallbe shewed.

The Historie of Englande.

A fiter that Alwald King of Porthumberland Awas made away, his brother Dired the fonne of Airco toke boron him the tule of that Ikonadome anno. 788, and within one rece was expulfed, and lefte the Kingdome to Ethelbert oz E= had remarked for the fuace of .12. peres, and nome beging restored, he continued in accusrnemente of the Porthumbers four peares, or as some lap. 7. reres. In the fecond pere whereof Dike Eardulfe was taken and led to Rivon, there without the gate of the monasterie wounded as was thought to death by the faid &. but the Abonks taking his body, and laying it in a tent without the Church. after midnight he was found alive in & Churche. Alfwalower by force drawen out of the Citie of Porke, but firste by a wile they were trapped out of the head Church where they hav taken Sanctuary, a fo ar length miserably flain by M. Ethelbert in Monwaldzeniere, the one of them highte Alfus, and the other Alimine. In the years of ourse Lozd.732.Dired opon truft of the other and pro-

Porthumberland, but his own fouldiers for loke him, and so was be taken and by king Ethelherts commaundement put to death at Cunburg on & fourtenth day of September. The fame yere B. Ethelbert married & Ludy Alfled the danghter of Offa King of Mercia, forfaking his former wife which he had, having no inflicance of divorte giuen on hir part whereby his people toke such offpleasure againste him; that finally after he hadde raigned now this fecond time four yeres, 02(as 0= ther have) feuen yeres, he could not avoy de the destemp of his predecessors, but was unferably killed by his owne subieks at Cobre, the eightenth day of April. After whomic, one Diwald a noble man, was orderned K. and within a. 27, 02, 28. daper after, was expulled, a collreined to flee first into the Ille of Linvesterne, & fro thence onto the Holy ilande. K.of Pides. Then Ardulfe b was a Duke, e son Mat. Prof. delred as then revoked out of exile, in whiche hee 20 to one Arnulfe, was revoked out of exile, a made K. t colectated at Porke by & Archb. Cumbalde. three other Bishons, the. 25. of June, in the pere 796. About a two peres after, to witte, in the pere 798. one Duke Wade. and other conspirators whiche had bin also partakers in & murthering of K. Ethelbert, repled war againste K. Aroulf and fought a battell with him at Walaley, but H. At- Walalege. buil got p opper hand, s chalco Wade s other his enimics out of the field. In the yeare. 1799. Duke Mozeover, about the same time, & formes of king 30 Alberd that had murthered Ethelbert of Atheired 激. of Porthumberlande, was flaine by another Duke called Choethmond in renegre of the beath of his mafter & laide Ethelbert. Shortly aftet, about y fame time y Bzightrike Ik. of dileft Sarons departed this life, there was a fore battell foughten in Porthumberlavat Wellebare, in p which Alrick y fon of Herbert, and many other th miles of ovuces noblemen. fecretly returned into

him were flain: but to reherfe all the battels with their fuccesses and issues, it shoulde be twitedious t irksome to & readers, for the English people be= ing naturally hard and high minded, continually scourged each other with intestine warres. About lice og leuf perès after this battel, 後. Aroulf was expulled out of beltate: And thus may be confider in what plight things flove in Porthumberlav. by the often fevitions tumultes and chaungings of gouernoss, withat there be which have writte.

796

and wicked

how after the death of King Ethelbert otherwise called Edelred, diuers Billiops and other of the chiefest nobles of the countrey disdeyning suche trapterous princequellings, ciuil fedition, and iniurious dealings, as it were put in dayly pradife amongli the Dorthumbers, beparted out of their natiue bordures into voluntary exile, and that fro thenceswith there was not any of the nobilitie, that ours take byon him the kingly government amongst them, fearing the prerogative desling thereof, as if it had bin serane, hogle, whole rider came euer to some euil end. But pet by that whis the is hecretofoze thewed out of Simon Dunel= mentis, it is euident, that there raigned Kings oner the Porthumbers, but in what authority and power to command, it may be doubted: Howbeit baniffmentes of their kings and Dukes give bs This chanced of our Lorde inuade Nor-

The Danes

thumbeiland.

in the vete

Dunel.bath.

vanquished.

this is certaine, that the fundry murderings and greatly to gelle, that there was but lopy obedifce time that kingbome remayned without an head. governoz, beeing let open to the pray and iniurie of thenrthat were buzdurers unto it, and likewife onto ffraungers : for the Danes whiche in those dayes were great rouers, had landed befoze in the Porth partes, * spoyled the Abbey of Lindelie ne otherwise called holy land, & perceiuing y fruite= 793. as imon fulnific of the countrep, & eafineffe for their people to innade it (bycause that through their prinate quarelling, there was little publike relistance to 30 countrey. It the first, he withozew buto Offa & be loked for) at their comming home, entited their countrepmen to make viages into England, and so landing in Morthumberlande, Did much hurt, and obteined a great part of y countrey in maner without relistance, bycause there was no Ruler there able to repleany power of men by publike authoritie to encounter with the common enis mics, by reason whereof, & countrey was brought into great milerie, what through war of Danes, e the civil diffention amongst the nobles and peo- 40 ment of the Kingbome, he returned with al conple themsclues, no man being of authority (I say) able to reforme fuch milozders. Pet we finde, that the nobles and Captaines of the countrey, affems bling togither at one time againfte the Danes b were landed about Tinemouth, constreined them by fliarp fight to flee back to their Shippes, toke This was anno certain of the in the field, whole heads they ftroke 794 as Simon off there bpon the fhoze. The other that gote to their Shippes, luffered greate lolle of men, t likewife of their veffels by tempest.

After that Alike (the last of B. Witchtredes fonnes which raigned in Bent successively after their father) was bead, the noble offpring of the kings there fore becaped, and bega to fade away, to pency one which eytherby flattering had gote riches togither, or by seditions pertaking was bad in estimation, sought to have the governmet and to veurp & title of King, abuling by vnwoz= the meaner the honor and dignitie of lo bish an office. Amongit other, one Ebert og Edriberte Edbrighe. furnamed also Ptenne, gouerned the Kentishmen for the space of two peres, a was in the ende bans quifted by them of Mercia, and taken prisoner as before is faid, so that for a time he lined in captinitie, & although afterwardes he was fet at libertic, yet was he not recepued agains to the Kynadome, so that it is bucertaine what end he mader Authred that was appointed by Kinebulfe & K. of Mercia, to raigne in place of the faide Edberte or Evelbert, continued in the governement craft peres as king, rather by name than by afte, inheriting his predecessors enill happe and calamitie, through factions and civill discord.

After that Jambrith or Lambert the Archbis Lamber. thop of Canterburie was departed this life, one Edelred was ordeined in his place, unto whome the primacie was restored, which in his predecel bled in the countrey, wherby for no small space of 20 lors time was taken away by Dffa K. of Mer= cia.as before is recited. Also after p deathe of Eug balde Archbiston of Porke, another of the same name called Eubald the second, was admitted to succeede in that see.

After that Brightrike & B. of Well Sarons was departed this life, meffencers were fent with all freede into Fraunce, to give knowledge thereof onto Egberte, which as before is thewed, was constreined by the saide Bzightrike to departe the of Mercia, with whom hee remained for a tyme. til at length, through suite made by Brighteike, be perceived hee mighte not longer continue there withoute danger to be delinered into his enimics hands, and so Offa winking at the matter) he we parted out of his countrey, and gote him out in to Fraunce, but bring now aduertised of Brights rikes death, and required by carnell letters lente from his friends to come and receive the gougnurnient speede into his countrep, and masterp= ued immediately for King, by the generall on Egbenteet-fent of the Well Sarons, as well in respect of well sarons, good hope which they had conceined of his 1902 His liguige. thy qualities and aptnelle to have governement, as of his royall liquage, becing lineally difteriord from Inegilo the brother of B. Inas, as fonne to Alkemounde, that was the sonne of one Caffa, which Casta was sonne to Dpe the sonne of the 50 forclayd Inegilo.

This Egbert began his raigne in the peare of Egbert our Lozd. 80. whiche was the fourth pear als goz. as Simo most ended, after that the Emperour Eirine bes Dunelland gan the feconde time to rule the Empire, and in W. hart now gan the account time to time the Empire, and is but soils the .14. pere of the raigne of Charles the great the willimited of France, whiche also was in the fame pere after rilon rect he was made Empereur of the West, and about it cut of Mil the fecond vere of Commall Bring of Scottes.

adibilest this Egbert remay ned in exile, he tur= ned his aducrfaries into occasion of valiancie, as it had bin a grindelstone to grind away & remoue the rull of fluggish flouthfulnes, in so much, that haunting & wars in France, in feruice of Charles the Great, he atteined to great knowledge & erve= rience, both in matters apperterning to the wars. elikewise to b well ordering of a common welth in time of peace. The first warres that he toke in hand, after he had atterned to & kingdom, was a = 10 mainst the Coznishme, a remeant of the old 2B2i= taines, whome he Mortly ouercame and subdued. The he thought good to tame & buquiet Welch= men. & which stil were ready to move Rebellion against the Englishmen, as they that being van= quissed, roulde not pet seeme to bee suboued. wherefore about the. 14. pere of his raigne, he in= naded the countrey of Wales, and went through the same fro Call to West, not finding any perouercome his enimics of Wales and Cornewall, began to growe in authoritie aboue all the other rulers within this lande, in so much that every of the began to feare their owne estate, but namely Bernevulf Ik. of Mercia fore stomaked the mate Bernull King ter, as he that was wife, a of a folly loftic courage, and yet doubted to have to do with Eabert, who was knowen also to be a man both skilfull & va= liant. It length yet colidering with himselfe, that if his chance should be to speece well, so much the moze finild bis praile be increased. Le determined to attempt the fortune of war, & therbud intimas ted the fame buto Egbert, & whiche supposing it Moulde be a diffionoz to him to giue place, bololy prepared to meete Bernulce in the field. Peerevp= A batel fought pon they encountred togither at Ellendone, and at Ellendone. fought a foze battell, in y which an buge number of men were flaine, what on the one part, con b other, but in the ende the victory remained with Egbert wanne son p durft resist him. Thus &. Egbert hauing 20 Egbert, although he had not y like holl foz num= ber buto Bernullfe, but he was a politike prince, & of great experience, having chosen his Soulviers of nimble, leane, and deliuer me, wher Bernulfes fons, touercharged with flesh. This battell was fought in the pere of our Lozd. 826. King Egbert having got this victory, was advanced into fuch hope, that he persuaded himself to be able without greate adoc to overcome the relioue of his neighbours, whose estates he saw playnely fore weake= ned & fallen in great becay. Her bpon befoze all other, he determined to affaile Coelbulf Ik. of Wet, whome he knew to be a man in no estimation a= being leuied, be apointed his fon Ethelbulf & Al-Alta Bifhop oishireborne stanc Bishop of Shireborne, with erle Walhard awarrioure. to have the conduit thereof, & sente them with the same into Kent, where they wrought suche maifleries, that they chaled both the B. sal-other that would not submit theselves, out of the countrey, The conquells collection not mount execute, out of the West collection them to passe ouer the Chames. And herewith the Wiest Saxons following the victory brought under subjection of king Expert the countreys of Ket, Effer, Souther, and Suffer. The Call Angles also about the same time recei-Souldiers through long eale, were cowardly per- 40 ued K. Egbert for their fourraigne Lord, & com- Hen. Hunts faited by his fetting on againste Bernulfe king of Mercia, invaded o confines of his Kingdome, in revenge of displeasures whiche he had done to the lately before, by inuaping their countrey as it came to passe, encountring with the said Bernult which came against them to defend his country, Bernulle K. of they flew him in the field. Ind thus their myndes on both parts being kindled into further weath, & Call Angles eftlones in y pere following, fought mongst his subied's. A competent army therefore so with the of Mercia, couercame them againe; and New their K. Ludicenus that succeeded Bernitte in that kingdome, with siof his Ethes. Thus the state of the kingcome of Mercia being weakenett, Egbert conceiner an affurer hope of god fastife in the.27. pere of his raigne, made an open thusits into p countrey, e chaling all hirlate Biof Metcia(y increeded Indicenus) but of his eliste; conquered y whole kingdom of the Marcies wit yet

Mercia flayme.

sim. Dunel.

The fe were the Cornithbe supposed. in the yere next following, or in the third yere after (as faith Harrison,) he restozed it againe unto Wightlafe, with condition, that he fhould enion the fame as tributary to him, and acknowledge him for his supreme gouernour. The same yeare that Bernvult B. of Mercia was flain by & Caft Angles, there was a foze battell foughten at Gauelfozoe, berwirte them of Deuonshire, and the Britagnes, in the whiche many thousands byed on both parts. King Egbert hauing conquered al 10

the English people, inhabiting on the South side of humber, led forth his army againste them of Porthumberland:but the Porthumbers beerna not only vered with cluil fedition, but also with $ often invalion of Danes, perceived not how they King E, ben Mould be able to resilt the power of K, Egbert: A inuadeth therfoze upon god aduisement taken in the mat- Northüberlig ter, they resolued to submit themselves, 4 thereby bers submit fent Ambassadors to him to offer their submissio, them to Kyog comitting themselues wholly buto his protectio. Egben.

Ran. Bizt. Nurthwiles and the Citie of Cheiter conquered by Egbert.

after the state had bin soze weakened with contetion and civill discord that had continued amogst the nobles of the countrer, for the space of many peres, belide the invalien made by outwarde eni= nues, to parecuous boniage of the people. Ifter & K. Egbert had finissed his businesse in Porthuberläd, he turned his power towards the countrey 40 ter on both lides, till the night came on, and then of Douthwales, & subdued & same with the Citie of Chelter, which till those dayes, the Bairapnes or Coldeinnen had kept in their possession. Whe R. Egbert had obteined these visiozies, and made fuch conquests as before is mentioned, of the peo= ple here in this lande, he caused a counfell to be alsembled at delinichefter, and there by advice of the high estates, bee was Crowned K.as sourraigne gonermour, and supreme Lord of the whole land. 10 be directed forth into all partes of h idealine, to unit commandement, that fro thence forwarde al the people inhabiting within this land. Mould bee called Englishme. I not Sares, Elikewich läd Mould be called England by one generall name, thoughit fould appeare as before is mentioned that it was to called thoutly after the first time b the Ingles & Sarons gote possello therof. 120w defend them from all forrainc enimics. And thus the kingdome of Posthumberland was brought hinder subjectio to the kings of the West Saros,

King Egbert gladly receiued them, & promifed to 30 was Ik. Egberte fetled in good quiet, and his dominions reduced out of p troubles of warre, when fuddayncly newes came, that the Danes with a The Danes. nauic of, rrrv. flius, were arrived on p Englishe coaftes, & began to make foze war in the land. Ik. Egbert being thereof aduertisco, with all conue= nient speede gote togither an army, & went forth to give battell to the enimies. Herebpon encoun= tring with them, there was a foze foughten fielde betwirt them, and continued with great flaugh= by chance of warre the Englishmen which before were at pointe to have gone away with villozy, The Englisher were vanquished and put to flight, yet B. Egbert men discombby couert of the night escaped his enimies hands, red by Danes. but two of his chiefe Captaines Dudda and DE sim. Dunil. mond, with two Bishops, to witte, Herferde of H. Hunten. OChinchester, and Wigferd of Shireboane, were Math. VY; Nayne in that battel, which was fought at Earrum, about the . 834.0° Chaift, and .34. yeare of the Danes and At is also recorded, that hee caused commission 50 Egberts raigne. In y perc sollowing the Panes warquished. with their nauie came into Welleft Wales, and Herebegie there the Welchmen iopning with them, role as weib in the gainst K. Egbert, but he with prosperous forsume there with the pannuisten and som have a state of the combined vanquished and flew, both y Danes & Welchme, of the Place a that in great nuber, at a place called hengiften= Hengel to. The next yere after also, which was . 336 the D= uerthew another aring of Danes which came as Maintel gainlt him, as on author writeth. Kinally, whe &. teth in be gouernement of Kent, Suller, and Eller. After that Cuthzed K. of Kent had raigned. 8. peres, as before is mentioned, he was confrepned to give place buto one Baldzed, that twke bopon him the government, and raigned the space of. 18. yeres, without any greate authoritic, for his fubicas regarded him but louily, to that in the ende, when his countrey was inuaded by the Well 20 Sarons, he was easily constrepted to departe in= to exile. And thus was the kingdome of Kent an= nered to the kingdome of the West Sarons, after the same kingdome had continued in governmente of kings created of the same nation for the wace of .382 peres, that is to fay, from the yeare of our Lozd. 464. buto the yere. 827. Suithzed oz Suthzed k. of Eller was banquished and expulled out of his kingdom by Eghe Kingdome in the fairwyere that the kentillymen were subouto by the laid Egbert, or elle very thortly after. This Kingdome continued. 281. percs, from the yere. 614. unto the yere. 795. as by the table of the Heptarchie let fwath by Alexander Penill monethes with greate glozy for the enlarging of his kingdome with so wide boundes, which when he received, was of to small a compasse, he devar-nd this life, leaving to his iffue matter of worthy reasse to mainterne that with gwo ozder whiche

Egbert had raigned the tearme of.36.peres, 6.7.

he with painefull viligence had is ned togither.

his body was buried at Winchester, and he lefte behind him two founcs Ethelboulfe, otherwise nornted to incceede him in the kingdom of West Sarons, and Athelstan hee ordeined to have the

it appeareth. After the decelle of Kenbulfe K. of Mercia, his ka vvel some Kenelme a child of the age of. 7. yeares was admitted &. about the pere of our Lozd. 821. 19ce had two lifters, Duendzed, and Burgenilo, of the which the one (that is to fap) Duenozer, of a malitious minde, moued through ambition, enuyed bir brothers aduauncemente, and fought to make him away, to that in the ende, the corrupted & gouernoz of his person one Ashberte, with greate rewardes and high promites, perstoading him to dispatch hir innocent brother out of life, that thee might raigne in his place. Adbert one vay bnoer a colour to have the young king forthe on hunthe head fro his body, an Impeby reason of his teder yeres a innocent age, buto the world voyde of gilt, & pet thus trapteroully murthered without cause of crime : he was afterward reputed for a Martir. There hath gone a tale that his death should be signified at Rome, and the place where the murther was committed, by a litaunge manner: for (as they fay) a white Done came and alight vpon the Zulter of Saint Peter, bearging a fcroll in hir bil, which the let fall on the fante Aulter, in which scroll among other things this was conteyned, in Clene Kou Bath , Beneline Binbarne lieth buder thorne, heaved bereaucd: that is; at Clene in a Cow pasture, Renelme the Kyngs Child lieth beheaded binder a thorne. This tale I reherfe not forang credite I thinke it worthy of, but only for fit fecmeth the place where the young named Athaulte and Avellan. The firthe he ap= 10 Prince innocently loft his life.

After that Keneline was thus made away, his Cedlwolf K. Uncle Ceolwolfe the Brother of King Kenulfe of Mercia. was created King of Mercia, and in the fecondeyeare of his raigne, was expulled by Bernmolfe.

Bernwolfe in the thirde yeare (or feconde as Harrison hath) of his raigne, was banquided and put to flight in battell by Egbert King of Wielt Sarons, and flogtly after Caine of the Call ans gles as before ye have heard.

Then one Ludicenus of Ludicanus was ere= ated King of Mercia, and within two yeres after came to the like ende that hapned to his predecelfor before him, as he wente about to reuenge hys death, lo that the Kingdome of Britagne began now to recle from their owne effate, and leane to an alteration, which grow in the end to the erectio of a perfit Monarchie, and finall subversion of their perticular effates and regiments.

After Ludicenus, lucceeved Wightlate, who Mar. Pref. bert Ik. of Weft Sarons (as befoze pe may reate) 30 firft being banquithed by Egbert, Ming of Weft Sarons, was afterwardes reffored to the King-Dome by the fame Egbert , and raigned thirtene yeres, whereof twelne at the least were biber tris bute which he payed to the faid Egbert and to his fonne, as to his Soueraignes and inpreme goternoures.

The Kingdome of Porthamberlande was brought in lubication to the Kings of Wiell Sas zons, as before is mentioned, in the yeare of oure 40 Toto.828 and in & years of the faigne of B. Egbert.28. but pet here it toke not ende as after Hall

L'Theilwoulfus otherwise called by some wils ters Athaulfus, began his raigine ouer p Wieft Ethel-Sarons in the yeare. 837. which was in the . 24. Wolfus. pere of the Emperour Ludouisus Pius that was allo B. of france, in the . 10. yeare of Theophilus p Emperom of the Call, e about tije third pere of Benneth the leconde of that name B. of Scoftes. ting, led him into a thicke wood, and there cut off 50 This Ethelboule minding in his youth to have bin a Brieff, entred into the ogvers of Subbeace, and as some write, he was Bithop of Winche- Hen. Hunt. fler : but howfoener the matter flowe, or whether Mach. Preft. he was or not, lure it is, that fhortly after he was alloyled of his votoes by autholitic of Pope Zeo, and then maried a proper Gentlewoman named Diburga, which was his butters baughter. Des was of nature curtious, and rather befroms to this He when at wischaged.

PV.Mal.

uernement of many countreys, to that cotenting hintelle with the kingdome of Welt Sarons, he permitted his brother Ethelltan to eniop the reli= due of the countreps, which his father had suboued, as Bent, and Effer, with other. Be ayded the

Ik. of Mercia Burthred against the Welchmen. and greatly advanced his estimation, by gruyng buto bim his daughter in marriage. But now the fourth destruction which chanced to this lande by live in quiet rest, than to be troubled with the goforraine enimies, was at hande, for the people of Pour especial! dettructions Denmarke, Rozway, and other of thole Porthof this land. east regions, which in that season were greate ro=

uces by Sca, had talled the wealth of this land by fuch spoiles and prayes as they hadde taken in the fame, so that perceiving they coulde not purchase more profit any where elfe, they let their myndes to invade the same on each side, as they had part= ly begun in the days of the late kings Brightrike

Hen. Hunt. ferrico more greenous, than any of the other per= Simon Dun. fecutions, either befoze or fithence that time: foz y

Romanes having quickly suboned the land, gouerned it nobly withoute feeking the subuersion thereof. The Scottes and Pittes only inuaded &

Porth partes. Ino the Sarons feeking the conquest of the land, when they had once gote it, they kept it, and did what they could, to better and ad=

nance it to a florishing estate. And likewise the Pozmans hauing made a conquelt, graunted 20

both life, libertie, and auntient lawes to the former inhabitants : But the Dancs long time and often allayling the land on euery lide, now inuas ding it in this place, and now in that, did not at b first so much couete to conquere it, as to spople it, not to beare rule in it, as to wall & destroy it: who

if they were at anye time overcome, the victozers were nothing the more in quiet : for a new nauie, and a greter army was ready to make some new The Danes lought the

at once, but one company on the Cast libe, an other in the Welt, or in the Northe am Southe coalles, in suche sorte, that the Englishmenne knew not whether they floulde firste goe to make relistance against them.

This milchiefe beganne chiefly in the days of this K. Ethelwoulf, but it continued aboute the How long the space of two hundred yeares, as by the sequele of this Boke it Hall appeare. King. Ethelwoulf casion for desence of his countrey and subicities, he mas ready to take order for the beating backe of the enimies, as occasion ferued, and specially, hee vril. Malm. chose such to be of his cousel, as were me of great erperience & wildome. Amonalt other, there were Two notable two notable prelates , Suithune Billhoppe of Bithops in E- Winchester, & Avellan Billiop of Shirebonie, whiche were readie euer to gine bim good aduice.

Suithune was not so muche experte in worldiv matters as Avelftan was, therefore chiefly confelled the Ik. in things apperteining to his foules health: But Moelftan toke in hand to ogder matters apperteining to the flate of the comon welch. as promiting of money, and furnishing forthe of men to withstand the Dancs, so that by him many things were both vololy begun, thanvily atchieued, as by writers hathbin recorded. he go-10 uerned the fre of Shireboane, p space of. 50. percs. by the good counsell and faithfull advice of those two Pielates. K. Ethelwoulf gouerned his fubicas right politikely, & by himselfe and his Captaines offetimes but the Danes to flight, though as chance of warre falleth out, he also recepued at their hands great loffes, & fundey foze betriments. In p first perc of his raigne, the Dancs arrived at Simon Dun, Dampton, with. 33. Mirs, againste whom he sente Hen. Euns. Erle Wilhard with part of his army, the whiche and Egbert. The perfecutio bled by thele Danes 20 giuing battell to the enimics, made great flaughter of them, and obtenned a noble vicrozy. He fent Danes diffenalso Erle Aochelme with the Dorfetthire men, fied. against an other number of Danes, whiche were Math. vol. landed at Portelmouth, but after long fighte, the fayor Avelhelme was flaine, and the Danes obsput to history. In the years following, Earle Herbert fought againfle y Dancs at Merleware, and was there flaine, and his men chaled. The They are fame yere, a great army of Danes palling by the eirlonesva-East parts of the land, as through Lindley, Cast Angle, and Kent, they flew & murthered an huge number of people. The next pere after this, they entred further into the lande, and about Canter= burp, Rochester, and Londo, did much mischiese. In the fifth pere of his raigne, Ik. Ethelwoulfe to a parte of his army encountred with the Danes at Carrum, the whiche were artiued in those par- Camm. ties with.30. Ships, having their full fraughte of men, lo that for lo finall a number of bellets, there inualio neither did they enter all at one place, not 40 was a great power of men of warre, in fo muche, that they obteined the videozy at that time, and The Dios put the Kato the wwise. About the tenth peared victory in R. Ethelwoulfes raigne, one of his Captapnes banel called Ernwoulfe, & Biffop Atheiltan, with the Danes ne Sommerletfhire men, and an other Captagne Simon Luscalled Dired, with the Dogletthire nuen, foughte againste the Danes, at a place called Petrett muth, and banquiffed them with great triumph. In the fixtenth pere of his raigne, R. Ethelmoule was not so muche given to ease, but that buo of 50 and his sonne Evelbalo having assembled al their powers togither, gaue battellat Deleg. to all odg.

huge offe of Danes, the which with four hundred

woulf K. of Mercia, and being nowe entredinto

Southerp, were encountred by K. Ethelieoulie at Deley aforelaid, and after fore fight and interand fiftie Ships had arrived at Thainics mouth, Two honde and destroyed the famous Cities of London, and sad fifie

Canterbury, & allo had chafed in battell Brights Hea. Hurt

The Hiltorie of Englande. vible flaughter made on both fives, in the end, the vicer by the power of God was given to thole that beleened on him, and y loffe reffed with great consulion to the miscreantes. Thus B. Ethelwelfe obteined a glozious victory in so mightie a bartell, as the greater had not bin lightly hard of to chance within the English dominions. The fame perre also Athelstan K. of Kent and Duke Calbure fought by Sea with the Danes, & twke ouer, one Earle Ceorle having with hym the power of Denonthire, foughte with the Danes, at Whileshoze, and gote the victory. This pere was per luckic to the English nation, but pet the armie of the Danes lodged al the Winter lealon in the Alls of Canet. And this was the field tyme p they remarmed heere all the Winter, vling afore time but to come and make an inuation in one place or other, and immediately to returne home with the prav. In the 18 yere of King Ethelwonlies raigne, he aided Burtheed King of Mercia, agaynffe the Welchmen as before is mentioned,) and gave to him his daughter in marriage, the folemnization whereof was kept at Chipnham. The same pere King Ethelwoulfe fent his sonne Albzed as then but fine peres of age buto Rome, where hee was facted K. by Pope Leo the fourth, was received of him as if he had bin his owne conne. Duke C= Duda or rather Mada, with the men of Sonthey, fought against the army of Dane's at Tenet, where greate flaughter was made on bothe fides, the Englishmen prenailing in the begyn= ning, but in the ence both their forefaid Diker or leaders dred in that battel, belide many other that were flaine and deoroned. In the nineteenth vere of his raigne, K. Ethelwoulfe ozdeined, that the tenthes of tithes of all landes due to bee paped to of fernices regall. And afterwards, with great Denotion he went to Rome, where he was recepned with great honoz, and taried there one whole pere: her take with him his fon Albred, who had bene there before as yee have heard. He repared the Sarons schwle, whiche Dea B. of Mercia had fometime founded in that Cifie, and lately hadde bin fore decayed by fire. He confirmed the graunt of Peter Pence, to the intent that no Englishme as he lawe some there to do before his face. It is also written, that he Monive acquit all the Churthis of his Realme of paying tribute to his coffers (as befoze ye haue heard) and mozeoner comenaunted to lend buto Rome enery yere three hudeed Markes, that is to wit, one hundred Markes to . Peters Churche, an other hundred Markes to D. Paules light, and the third hundred markes to the Pope. In his returne through France, be married the Lady Judith, daughter to Charles The Lady b Bald, then K. of France, and beinging hir with him into his contrep, placed hir by him in a chaire of estate, with which doing he offeded so & minds of his subicas, bicause it was against the oper take befoze time, for the offence of Ethelburga, that his sonne Ethelbalde and Avelstan Bishoppe of Shirebogne, with Enwoulf Carle of Sommer- pril. Malm. nine of their ships, and chased the relidue. Moze= 10 fet, conspired to depole him from his kingly au= thozitie, but by mediation of friendes, the matter was taken by, and so order, that the kingdome was devided betwirte the father and the fon, with fuch parcialitie, that the foune had the better parte lying Wellward, and the father was confirence to contente himselfe with the Gast parte and the worlt. Dithis trouble of Ethelmoulf Barrison writeth somewhat otherwise, and after this mans ner word for word.857. Ethelwoulf k.of pweft 20 Saxons beeing returned from Rome and prare ties beyond the Seas, is prohibited the entraunce into his Realme, by Alftane B.of Shirchorne. Ethelbald his eldelt sonne, pretending outwards ly his cozonation of Alfrite, h marriage of Judith the French kings daughter, and open eating with hir at the Table, to be the only cause of this they? manifest Rebellio. Hitherto Harrison: wherby he feemeth to inferre, that this revolting of Alstane and his fon, thould proceede of the ambitious dealhere of Cachere with the Kentiffmen, and one 39 fire of Ethelbalo to raigne, and likely prough, of elsethis bucquall partition Could neuer haue bin made. But howloeuer & matter flode, B. Ethel= woulf lined not long after his returne fro Rome, but departed this life after he hadde gonerned the kingdome of the West Sarons the space of, 20. peres and odde monethes. His body was burved at Winchelter. De left behind him. 4. Connes. @: thelbald. Ethelbert, or Ethelbright, Ethelred and Alfred of Albred, which were begotten of his first the Church, thould be free from all tribute outles, & wife Diburga. A little before his Death hee made Only Wentex his Tellament e last will, appointing his son de hath Mar. W. thelbalo to succeede him in the whole regiment of Dunel. sayth

Winter scason in the Alle of Sheepey. After Wightlafe B. of Mercia, one Bertwolf King raigned as tributary to y Wiest Sarons y space from thencefwath Could doe penance in boundes 50 of in yerres, about y ende of which tearme he mas chaled out of p countrey by the Danes, athe one Burthzed was made k. of that kingdome, which Math Weft. married Ethelfwida y filter of Ethelwonli B. of faith the Wielt Surons. In this fealon , one Bodwene a Ran. Ceftren. birgin in Ireland was greatly renowned in the John Cap. world, but o whom the forenamed k. Ethelwolf fent his son Alveed to be cured of a soze disease, f was thoughte incurable : but by hir meanes hee his kingdomes of Welter and Suffer, which he that Ethelheld by inheritance: but the kingdomes of Kente & Suffex also Effer he alligned to his son Ethelbright. About and so doch ; the same time also the Danes sojourned all the Heo. Hunt

tccout=

pertecution

of the Danes

dell'ruction

of this lande,

thelwoltes

200

recovered healthe, and therefore when hir Mona= fterie was deifrored in Ireland, Modwen came ouer into England, unto whome B. Ethelwolfe gane land to build two Abbeyes, and also beline= red ento hir his fiffer Edith to bee professed & Punne. Modwen herevpon built two Monalte= rics, one at Poulesworth, iopning to the boundes of Troorne, wherin the placed the forelaid Edith, mith Ofth and Athea: the other, whether it was a Monafferic or cell, the founded in Streneshall 10 or Trentfall, where the hir selfe remained solitary a certain time in praier, and other vertuous exer= cifes. And as it is reported, thee went thrice to Rome, a finally dred, being. 130. peres of age. Bir body was firste buried in an iland compatsed a= bout with the River of Trent called Andresey, taking that name of a Church of Chappell of . Anozow, which the had builte in the same Fland, and dimelled therein for the wace of leven yeares. Many Monasteries she built, both in Englande, 20 (as partly about is mentioned) and also in Scot= land, as at Strineline, Edenbrough, and in Iteland, at Cellestine, and else where.

Ethelbald and Ethelbright.

Ethelhald & Ethelbright.

Thevolawfuli

mittinge of Ethelbalde.

EChelbaight deniding they? fathers Kyng= dome betwirke 20 them, began to raigne, Ethelbalde ouer the Wielt Sarons, and the South Barons, & C= thelbzighte ouer them of Kent and Effer, in the perc of our Lozde 8-7. which was in the fecond yere of the Empe= named Calvus or the bald & of Fraunce, and a= bout the first yere of Donald & fifth of that name K.of the Scottes. The faid Ethelbald greatly to his reproche twice to wife his mother in lawe D. Judith, og rather as some write his own mother, VVII. Malm. Whome his father had kept to concubine. De liuco not past fine peres in gouernement of the Kyng= nome, but was taken out of this life, to the greate forow of his fubicits, whome he ruled right wozthilr, and so as they had him in great loue and e= 50 stimatio. Then his brother Ethelbzight twke pp= pon him the rule of the whole governing as well ouer the celeft sarons and them of suffer, as oner the Rentiffmen and them of Effer.

Winchester defloyed by

In his daves the Danes came a land, and defroved the Citie of Celincheller : but Duke Ofrike with them of Samflire, and Duke Lockwolf with the Barkflire men gane the enumies battel, and hanquishing them, slew of them a great nu- Danesvan. ber. In the fifth yeare of Ethelbzightes raigne, a quished. nauie of the Danes ariued at the Ille of Cenet, buto whome when the Kentishmen had promised a summe of money to have a truce graunted for a time, the Dancs one night before the tearne of that truce was expired, brake forth and wasted all the Cast part of Kent: wherebppon the Kentillmen assembling togither, made towards those trucebreakers, and caused them to depart out of p countrey. The fame pere, after that Ethelbrichte had ruled wel & peaceably the Well Sarons five veres, and the Kentillime ten veres, he ended this life, and was buried at Shirebozne, as his brother Ethelbald was befoze him.

Ethelred.

After & Ethel. fucceeded hys ved. bzother Ethel= red. red, and began his raigneoute the Welt Sarons, and the more part of b Engliste peo= vle, in the yere of our Lozd. 867. and in y twelfth pere of y Em= peroure Lewes, in the. 27. peare of the raigne of-Charles Calvus Ik . of France, and about the.6. peare of Constantine the seconde K. of Scottes.

Hungar and Vbbs .

This Ethelred was in tyme of peace a molt curteous prince, and one p by all kinde of meanes fought to winne p harts of his people: but abzoate in the warres he was Charp and Cterne, as be that bnderstood what apperteined to good order, so that he would luffer no offence to escape bnpunithed. By whiche meanes he was famous both in peace rour Leines the lecod, and the .1. of Charles fur= 40 and warre : but hee neither lived any long time in the government, nozyet was suffered to passe the Wort while that he raigned in rest or quietnesse: for wher as he raigned not past fire peres, he was continually during that tearme bered with the 4-yeressue inualion of the Dancs, and wecially towards the faith Him latter end, in to much, that as hath bin reported of pril. Make writers, hee fought with them nine times in one Echelred pere: and although with divers and variable for the Danish tune, yet for the more part he went away with yeimes in cat victozy. Beside that, he oftentimes lap in awayte yeare. for their forragers, and such as straped abrode to robbe and spoile the countrey, whom he met with all, and ouertheem. There were Capne in his time nine Carles of thole Danes, and one King, belide other of the meaner lest without number. But here is to be understode, that in this meane tyme whilest Ethelred was busied in waire to relift the inualions of the Danes in the South and West partes of this lande the kings and rulers of Merna and Porthumberland, taking occasion therof, began to withozaw their conenanted lubicition from the Wefflarons, and toke spon them, as it were the absolute governement and rule of their countreys without respect to ayde one and= ther, but rather were contented to fullein the enimics within their dominions than to prevent the injuric with dutifull askilling those to whome by allegiance they were bounde to serue and obeye. 10 der their protection, whiche Egberte reigned in Brreason wherof, the Danes without relissance porve menif- grew into greater power amongsi them whylest the inhabitantes were fill put in feare eche daye more than other, and every late gotten victorie br the enimies by the increase of prisoners, mini= fired occasion of some other conquest to followe. Euen about the beginning of kyng Ethelredes reigne, there arrived bypon the English coastes an huge armie of the Dancs, wider the conduct of two renoumed capitaines Hungar and Hub= 20 ba, men of meruailous strengthe and valiancie. but bothe of them passing cruell of nature. They lare all the Winter leason in Castangle, compounding with them of the countrepe for truce bpon certaine conditions, sparing for a tyme to Mewe they 2 force for quietnelle lake.

In the seconde yeare of king Ethelozed the faid capitaing came with their armie into Dozk= flyic, finding the countrey burgouided of necel= farie desence bicause of the civil discord that reig= ned amonalt the Porthumbers, the whiche had King Osbright lately expulled king Debzighte, that had the gouccinement of those parties, and placed one Ellainhis rounth: but nowe they were constrapned to revoke him home agapne, and soughte to accorde him and Ella. But it was long ere that myght bedrought to paste, notwithstanding yet at lengthe they were made frendes by reason of this inuation aftempted by forain enemics, and where the Danes, having walked the countreye euen to the rener of Tyne, were lodged.

The English holle entryng the citie, beganne to lyghte with the Dancs, by reason whereof a fore battaple ensued betwirte them: but in the side the two kyinges Dibzighte and Ella were flayn, and a great number of the Potthumbers what within the Ciffe, and what without, lofte they, lyues at that tyme, the relidue were con-Arayned to take truce with the Danes.

Thys battayle was fought the. rrj. bage of Samper ein Marche, on the Fryday besoze Palinelundaye, in the years: 657.

Some haue weitten otherwyle of thys bat= tayle, reportyng that the Porthumbers reuds krng home king Debzight (whome before they hadde banythed) encounter with the Danes in the fielde, without the walles of Pocke, but they were easyly beaten backe, and chased into the Citic, the whyche by the Danes pursuying the victorie, was lette on tyre and brente, togyther by Danes with the king and prople that were flevor into it for fuccour.

Howe focuerit came aboute, certagne it is, that the Dancs gotte the victoric, and now haupng subdued the Posthumbers, appoprited one Egberte to repane ouer them as kyng, bn= that loste fire pecres over those whyche inhabited beyonde the river of Tyne.

The same peare Abelifane, the Bishoppe of Shirborne departed this lyfe, hanyng gouerned that lea the terme of fiftie yeares.

This Adelliane was a man of hyghe wyle. The comenda. dome, and one that had borne no small rule in fin of Addithe kingdome of the Alexaliarons, as hereby it Shirdome. may be conicioured, that when kying Ethelmolf returned from Rome, hee would not luffer him to bee admitted king, by cause he hadde done in certaine points contrarie to the ordinance and lawes of the same kingdome, wherevon by this billions meanes Ethelbald the sonne of the same king Ethelwolfe was established Kong, and so continued till by agreement the kingdome mas devided betwirte them, as beefoze is mencioned.

He greatly enriched the fea of Shirborne, and Biskop Adeli fran couetous, 30 pet thoughe hee was teruentely lette on cones H. Hunt. tousnesse, hee was neuerthelesse verye free and

In the yeare following, that is to witte, in the thpide years of Etheldzedes reganc, the Burthred Line fame Ethelred, wyth hys brother Albred, went of Mercia. to apde Burthzed Kong of Mercia, agapuste the two forelapoe Danish Capitagnes Hungar and Ubba, the whiche were entered into Mercia. and had wonne the towne of Potingham. then reyling their powers they came to Potke, 40 and longed within the same towne for the winter leason. Wherebyport the fozesayde Ethelred and Burthzed with their powers came to Potingham, and belieged the Danes within it. Danes belie-

The Danes perceining themselues in daun- ged in Notingder, made wite for a truce and abstinence of of warre, whiche they observed, and then departed backe to Poske, where they folourned the molte parte of all that years.

In the fourthe yeare of kying Ethelred, the 50 Danes comming into Callangle, cruelly flewe that bleffed man king Comunde, as after Hall be wewed, 4 Nouemb.feria. 2.

In the firte yeare of kying Ethelreds reigne a newe armye of greate force and power came Baireeg and into the countrey of the Micalifarous bider Haiden. two leavers of kyngs of Dancs, Bakreeg and

They lodged at Reding to their marti acring a

Edelvvolfe Englefielde with the Da-

The Danes vvan the victorie at Reading.

The Danes

disconstited.

A battayle at

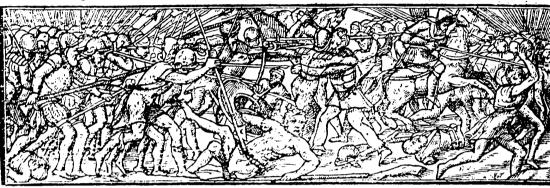

He vvas bl-

shop of Shirborne as Mail

within.iii. days after the Earle of Barrockthire Cociwolf fought at Engleficio with two earles shire fought at of those Danes, vanquissed them, and sewe the one of those Erles, whose name was Sidracke. After this king Ethelred and his brother Albred came with a great holl onto Reding, ther gave bataile buto the armie of Panes, so that an huge number of people dred on bothe partes, but the Danes had the victozie.

Alveed fought again with those Dancs at Aschdon, where the armies on both sides were divided into .ij. parts, to b the two Danill) kings led the one part of their armie, & certain of their Carles led the other parte. Likewife on the Englishe fine king Ethelred was placed with one parte of the holf against & Danish kings, a Alves with the other parte was appointed to encounter with the Erles. Herebpon they being on both parts ready to give batail, the evening coming on caused the to deferre it till the morrow. And so early in the morning when the armies Moulde iopne, Kong After this also king Ethelred and his brother 10 Etheldred stayed in his tente to heare dinine feruice, whylest his brother byon a forwarde courage halted to encounter his enimies, the which recepued him so tharply, and with so cruel fight, that at length, the Englishmen were at poynte to have turned their backes: but herewith came king Ethelred and manfully renued the battaile. staved his people from renning away, and so en= couraged them, and discoraged the enimies, that 30 day togither, and was in daunger to have bin by the power of God, (who as was thought in the mounting he hadde served) the Danes finally there chalco and put to flight, losing one of their kings (that is to lap Balreeg og Direc, and.b. Erles, Sidzoc the elder, and Sidzoc the ponger, Ofbern, Freyn, and Harold. This battayl was fore foughten and continued tell night, with the flaughter of many thousandes of Danes.

About siii. days after, king Ethelred and his armie at Baling, where the Danes hadde the vistorie.

Also two moneths after this, they lykewise fought with the Danes at Merton. Ind there the Danes after they had bene put to the worfe, and purfued in chase a long tyme, yet at lengthe they also got the victorie, in which battaple Ed= numb biflion of Shirborne was flarm, and ma= my other that were men of worthye fame and awd accompte.

Panes came to Reding, and there loid ned for These thinges agree not I remember weld with that whiche Polivoze Elergile hathewzit= Polid. Perg. ten of these warres whiche king Ethelred habbe with the Danes: for he maketh mencion of one Fuarus a king of the Danes, who landed (as he writeth) at the mouthe of Humber, and loke a Stoute enimic invadeth the countrey adiopning. Against whom Etheldzed with his brother Albeed came with an armie, and encountring the Dancs, fought with the by the space of a whole put to the worlfe, but that the nighte severed them afunder.

In the morning they is ned againe: but the death of Ivarus, who chaunced to be flavne in the begynning of the battaple, discouraged the Danes, so that they were casily put to flighte, sight. of whome (before they could get out of danger) a great number were flapne.

But after that they had recovered themselves heother Alveed fought eftsomes with the Danilly 40 togither, and sound out a conenient place where to pitche they campe, they chole to they Capi- Agreeus 144 pitarnes Agnerus, and Hubo, two bretherne, Hubo. whiche indevoured them schues by all meanes possible to repayze they armic: so that within fifteene dayes after, the Danes eftlones fought with the Englishmenne, and gave them suche an ouerthzowe, that little wanted of making an ende of all encounters to bee attempted after by the Englishemen.

But yet within a fewe dayes after this, as In sommer following, a mightic holfe of the 50 the Wanes attended they market to spoyle the countrep and raunge fomewhat licenciously 8= broade, they fell within the daunger of fuche ambuffes as were land for them by king Ethels dero, that no finalle flaughter was made of them, but pet not withoute some loss of the Englishmenne. Emonaft other, Ethelred him? selfe recepued a wounde, whereof he shortely after dyed.

king Etheldred had with the Danes, who pet contilleth as the truth is, that suche Authors as he herein folowed, varie muche from that which the Danish waiters do recorde of these matters, and namely touching the doings of Ivarus, as in the Danythe hillogge pou mape fee more at large.

Thus bath Polyd touching the warres which

But now to oure purpole touching the death of king Ethelred, whether by reason of hurt recepued in fight against the Danes (as Polydore farth) or otherwise, certain it is, that Ethelored anone after Cafter departed this lyfe, in the firte peare of his reigne, and was buried at Wipn= boin abter.

vvynborn•

Agnero.

Essin.

In the vars of this Ethelted, the forlaid Da= nishe capitaines, hungar, otherwise called Agnerus. 200 Hubba returning from the Porthe parties into the countrey of Castangles, came unto Thetford, wherof Comunde, who reigned 20 Educat K. of as king in that fealon over the Eallangles, being is Extrangles, advertised, he rayled an armie of men, and wente footheto give battayle onto this armic of the Dancs. But he with his people was chased out of the fielde, and fled to the castell of framying= ham, where being environed with a liege by his enimies, het pelded him telfe buts them . And bicause he would not renounce the christian faith miss death. they bound him to a tree, a thot arrows at him til he dred: a afterwards cut off his head from his 30 bodic, and three the same into a thicke aroue of bushes. But afterwards his freds twke the bodie with the head, and buried the same at Eglesdon: where afterwarde also a faire monasterie was buyloed by one bifliop Afwyn, and chaungyng the name of the place, it was after called Sainte Comundelbury. Thus was king Comund put to death by the cruel Danes for his constant co= angles. For after that the Danes hadde thus flaine that bliffed man, they conquered the hole countrey and walted it lo that through their ty= ea ignicemor ranic it remayned without any governoz by the space of nine yeares, and then they appointed a Gahren a Da- king to rule ouer it, whole name was Buthzun, one of their owne nation, who gonerned botts the Eastangles and the Eastsarons.

Pe haue heard how the Danes flew Dfroke victoric by them observed, they did muche hurte in the north parties of this lande, and amongelt other cruell desdes, they destroyed the Citie of Achurd, which was a famous Citie in the tyme of the olde Sarons, as by Beda and other wayicis it dothe manifeltly appeare.

Derris to be remembred, that some weyters restricthe cande to be this:

Dibzight oz Diricke king of Poithumbers lande ranified the invie of one Bearne that was a noble man of the conutrey about Porke, who twkesuche great desvite thereat, that hee sledde out of the lande, and went into Denmarke, and there complained buts the king of Denmarke that was his coulin, of the iniurie done to hyne by king Debzight. Whervoon the king of Den mark glad to have so just a quarell against them 10 of Porthumberlande, furnyshed forthe an armie, and fente the same by Sea, (bnder the leadyng of hys two beetheen Hungar and Hubba)into Posthumberland, where they flew first the layd kyng Dibzighte, and after king Ella. at a place belides Porke, whiche buto thys days is called Elles crofte, taking that name of the layde Elle, beeing there flagne in defence of hos countrey against the Dancs. Whyche Ellacas we fynde registred by wayters) was elected king by suche of the Porthumbers, as in fauour of Berne had refused to be subied bnto Dibzight.

Alvred or Alfred.

Suffter the decease of King Ethelred, his broz Alther Alvico of Alfrede succeeded him, and Alvred beganne hys reigne ouer the Weaff Sarons, and other the more parte of the people of En- or Alfessing the name of Christe in the. rvj. yeare of glande, in the yeare of our Lorde eyght hundred fred.
his reigne, and so ceased the kingdome of East = 4° feventie and two, whiche was in the ninteenth fred. peere of the Emperour Lewys the fecotide, and son as Machi two and thirtieth yeare of the reigne of Chat Vven & Sim. les, furnamed Calmus of the balde Kyng of note it Fraunce, and about the cleucith yeare of Con- H.Hunt. stantine the seconde king of Scotland.

Although that this Alexed was facted Kingin his fathers lyfe tyme by Pope Leo (as before pon hauchcard,) pet was he not admitted king at home, till after the occease of his three elder * Ella kings of Porthumberland. After which 50 brethten: for he being the youngest, was kepte backe from the gonernement, though he were for his wisedome and policiemalt highly esteemed and had in all honour.

In the beginning of his reigne he was weap. Alvied perfes ped in many great froubles and mileries, species cored by Daally by the perfecution of the Danes, whiche nes made lose and creenous warres in fundsy parts of this lande, destroying the same in moste D.ij.

Ivarus.

foric.

The Danes vvintered at

cruell wrie. About a moneth after he was made Mat. VVeft. kyng, be gaue battayl to the Danes at Wilton, having with him no great number of people, fo The Danes ob- that although in the beginning the Danes that day were put to the worle, vit in the end they obteined the victorie. Shortly after, a truce was tahen betwirt the Danes and the Wellarons.

An the Danes that haddely en at Reading, remourd from thence buto London, where they lave all the winter fealon.

In the feconde years of Alveed his reigns, the Danville kong Baiden ledde the same armpe from London into Lindley, and there lodged all that Winter at Tookley.

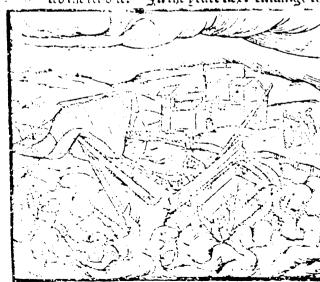

In the yeare following, the same halden inuaded Wereia, and wintred at Ripingdon. Ther were come to him three other leavers of Danes, whiche our writers name to be kings, Godzun, Esketell and Ammond, so that their power was Burehred king greatly increased.

Burthred king of Mercia whiche had gouer= ned that countrey by the space of rrii peres, was not able to withstande the puissance of those eni= nnes. Ind to therbyon he was constrained to a= norde the countrey, 4 wente to Rome, where he departed this left, and was burned in the Church to Ocethumberlinde, * lay in the winter feafon nere to the rener of Tyne, where hee denived the countrey among this men, and remarned there to; the space of two yeares, and oftentimes fet= thed thether bottes and prayes out of the courtrev of the Pixes The other part of the Danish army with the iii. aforlaid kings or leaders came buto Cambridge, tremained there a whole pere. The Danes at And the same peere king Alvzed foughte by fra feotheristone. In the years next ensuing, the farous, and king Alved twke truce with them againe, and they ware to him (whiche they had The Dang not bled to doc to any aloze that trine, that they Eichney woulde diparte the countrer.

 $\tau_{he^{(1)},t^{-1}}$ evenic bits A orthographic lande.

Danes came into the countrepe of the Edleaft-

The Historie of Englande.

They armie by sea saying from Warham The Large towarde Exceller fusteyned great losse by tem= ventige, pelle, for there perplico lyre score shrippes at cener. Swantwicke.

Mozeouer the armie of Danes by land went to Exceller in breache of the truce, and Kyng Alvzed followed them, but coulde not oucitake them tyll they came to Excelter, and there he ap= proched them in suche wrse, that they were glad to deliver pleanes for performannce of such couenauntes as were accorded betwirte him and them. And so then they departed out of the coun= H. Hunt. trep, and drewe into Wercia. But thorthy after, when they had the whole governmente of the lande, from Thames northward, they thought it 20 not god to luffer king Albred to continue in rest with the relidue of the contreps bey od the Thames. And therefore the three aforelayd rulers of Danes, Godzun, Efketell and Ammound, innading the countrepe of Wealtlarons came to Chipnham, diftant. rvii.myles from Bzillow, and there pitched their tentes.

of our Ladic, necre to the Englike schoole.

In the sourch yere of king Alvzed the armie of the Danes coming of the Danes coming of the difference to the missing balden with one parte therefroent in 30 percepuping that either they must freshe for the difference to the missing for the diagram with one parte therefroent in 30 percepuping that either they must freshe for the diagram with the diagram with one parte therefroent in 30 percepuping that either they must freshe for the diagram with the diagram with the diagram with his armie nere to the missing to the diagram with his armie nere to there lyues, or due with flame, boldely came hooked rote forthe, and gaue battaple. The Englishemen polydore. rafficly incounter with them, and thought that they were our matched with number, yet with fuche violence they give the onlitte, that the enis i disarche first were abesied of their hardicals

But when it was perceived that they? Aens der ranckes were not able to relifte the thycke with buildings of Panes, toke one of them, tokas 40 legious of the enimies, they beganne to Minke and loke backe one for an other, and so of force were constrained to retyze: And therewithall did caste theinselnes into a rong, which though it feelined to beethe beste wave that coulce bee beursed sor they lasetic, get by the great sorce and number of there ennimies on eache lyde affaylyng them, they were so thronged togyther on beapes, that they harde not rome to flurre there weapons. Edityche visavuantage notwressanding, they seive a greate num= ber of the Danes, and amongest other, Hubba the brother of Aguere, with manne other of the Hubba agne Denisse capitaines.

at length the subdifferen having valgants ly foughten a long tome with the engines, why ro, hadde compatted them aboute, at laste they train out and get them to day campe.

Co ber traile, this better to was foughten much to equal fortune, that no man knewe to morther parte the victorie ought to be aleribed. But after that they were once senered, they toke read to cure their hart menne, and to burve the bead bodies, namely the Danes enterred the bo= the of their capitann hubba, with greate funerall pompe & folemnitie: which vone, they kept footh there somer till ther came to Abinadon, whither the Englisse armie sportely after came also, and encamped fast by the enimies. Anthis means whole, the rumor was finead abroade that king Alveed had bin discomfifed by the Danes, by cause that in the laste battaple hee will be we to his campe. This turned greatly to his advantage! for therby a great number of englishmen hasted to come to hys succour.

The mozow after his comming to Abington The Danes & he brought his armie ready to fight into the field, Englishemen nepther the enimies were flacke on their parts to Abugdon. receyue the battaple, and so the two armies ion= ned a fought right love on both fodes: so that it seemed the Englishmen had not to do with those Danes, whiche had bin diners tymes before dif-10 constited and put to flight, but rather with some newe people fresh and lustie: neyther the one part nor the other was mynded to que it over : in fo muche that the horsemen all othing on fote, and puttyng their horses from them, entred the bat= to decimongst the formen, and thus they contitime with equall advantage till night came on. Whiche parted the affrap, being one of the forest foughten fieldes that had bin hearde off in those cars. To whether partie a man might justly attubute the victorie, it was betterlye bucertague, and ended betwirt them.

Colith the semblable chaunce of daunger and glosse, bij. times that yeare did the Englishe and Danes encounter in battail, as writers haue re= coided. And at lengthe when their powers on bothe partes were fore diminished, they agreed uppon a peace, with these conditions, That the Dancs shoulde not attempte any further warre aganist the Englishmenne, nor tring into this

The lame years the Danes folourned in the wenter feafon at London, according as they had conceffen tymes before.

Aboute the same tyme of Mostely after, there came into Englande one Rollo, a noble man of Dannark of Dozway, with a great armit, and nawithstanding the peace concluded betweene the Englichmen and the Danes,) he beganne to walt and destroy the countrey.

King Alvied hearing these newes, with all speede, thoughte beste in the beginning to stoppe fuche a common mischiese, and immediately allembling his people, went against the enimics. the with to lyke losse and gayn the matter was tried 40 and gaue them battaile, in the which there died a great number of men on both fides, but the areater losse kel to Rollo his armie. Pet Matthewe Weltm. saveth, that the Englishemen were put to flight.

After this, it chaunced, that Rollo becing warned in a dreame, left Englande, and fayled ouer into France, wher he fond fortune to fanorable to him, that hee obteined in that region for him and his people a countrey, the whiche was iance any news supplye of souldioures oute of 50 afterwardes named Pozmandie, of those Poz  yeares at therne people, whiche then began to inhabite the baptifed. fame, as in the hillogies of Fraunce you may fee moze at large.

> The Danes which had concluded peace with king Albred (as before you intie herd) Mortly after, buon the first occasion, brake the same, # by the often innations whiche they made into the countrey of Wellfarons, brought the matter to that palle, that there remayned to king Mlvzed, but onely the three countries of Hamilice, Celil= Mire, and Somerletibire, in somuch that he was constrained for a time to kepe himself close with= in the fennes and marrille groundes of Soniers fetflire, with such small companies as he had a= boute him, constrepned to get their lining wyth fiffing hunting, and other fuche fliftes. He re= marned for the most part within an Ille called ble menne, environce aboute with fennes and merriffes.

878.

King Alured

A vision if it

Edlingfey.

Withples he was thus thut op within this Z= land, he was br decame aduertised of better hap Mortly to follow: For as it hath bene faid, Saint Cuthbert appeared to him as he lay in fleepe, and comforted him, declaring buto him, that within a whyle fortune Mouldelo turne that he Moulde recourt agains his kingdome to the confusion of his enimics: and to affure him, that this thould proue true, he told him that his men which were gone abroade to catche fillie, Could bring home great plentie, although the season was agaynste them, by reason that the waters were frosen, and that a colde rime fell that morning, to the hin= because of their purpole. His mother also at that tyme being in there, law the like vision. And as they had decamed, so it came to passe: for being awakened of their fleepe, in came his men with so areat sorten of fishe, that the same might have? fufficed a great armic of men, for the victualling of them at that leafon.

Shortly after, kong Alvzed toke bpon bynt the habite of a Winsteell, and going fouth of his closure, repaired to the campe of the Panyshe king only accompanied with one truffy feruant, and farrying there certaine dayes togither, was fuffered to goe into energiparte, and play on his instrument, as well afore the king as others, so that there was no feerete, but that her under= 40 yeares. flode it.

After that he had feene and learned the demeanour of his entimies, he returned againe to hys people at Colingley, and there declared to hys nobles totat he had hene and heard, what negli= gence was amongst the countries, and howe casy a matter it spoulde bee for him to encomage

Precrevyou they concerning a mernaylous and hope, and enbeloened with his wordes, a Lower was assembled together, and spres sente 50 dome are sette fwith thus: forth to learne and bring word where the Danes lodged: which being done, a certificat made accordingly. Bying Alvico comming uppen them on the lodayn, flew of them a great number, baupng them at great aduauntage.

Also about the same tyme the brother of king Mar. Prof. Paiden came with thirtie and three flips out of Wales into the counterpe of Welliarons, on the coaste of Denonshire, where the Denon-Wire men gaue him battaile, and flewe him with 840, persons of his retinue. Diber write, that Halven himself was present at this conflict, with Inquare, otherwise called Hungar, and that they were both flagne there, with twelve hundred of s. Dun. their companye (before a certague castell called Thyprimith) recepting as they hadde deferred for Goelynsey, that is to meane, the Jlande of no= 10 their cruel dealing lately by them practifed in the parties of Southwales, where they had waited all afore them with frze and sworde, not sparing Abbeys more than other common buyldings.

The Historie of Englande.

King Alveed beeing with that good lucke the more comforted, builded a fortresse in the Ale of Edlingley afterwardes called Ithelney, & brea- Athelney. king out oftentymes byon the enimpes, diffreffed them at fundzie tymes with the ande of the Somerseistiliremen, which were at hande.

Aboute the seuenth weeke after Caster, in the senenth years of hys reigne, kyng Albred went to Eglerighston, on the Cast parte of Selmod, where there came to him the people of 50= merketihire, Wiplinge, and Hamilyze, reiop. cing greatly to fee him abzoade.

From thence he wente to Edanton, and there Edanedura fought against the armie of the Danes, and chas This battigle sed them but o their strength, where he remained should seen afore them the space of fourcteene dayes: and the same that to n the armic of the Danes delivered bym ho= kethof forgin flages and consnaunts to departe out of his do= at Abyngton minions, and that their king thould be baptifed, which was accomplished : for Gurthrun whom Polychron. fome name Gurmound, a prince of king amon= 1.Pike. gell thele Danes, came to Alved, and was baptifed, king Libzed receyting hym at the fonts Gumbin of ftone, named hym Toelftane, and gaue to hym eifed, and rathe countrey of Castangle, whyche hee gouer= is made king of ned, (ez rather spoyled,) by the space of twelue Eustangie

Doners other of the Danithe nobilitie to the unmber of thirtie, (as Simon Dunelmenlis hathe) came the same tyme in companye of they; kyng Guthiun, and were lykewyle baptyled on whome kyng Albeed also bestowed many riche giftes.

The fame tyme (as is to bee thought) was the league concluded betwerte kung Alvied, and the lapde Guthaun or Erthaun, in the tobyche the boundes of kyng Alureds kyng=

Freste therefose lette the boundes of mars thes of oure dominion stretche unto the ryuce of Chames, and from thence to the water of Tee, even buto the bead of the lame water, and va fo forth streight unto Bedforder and finally going alongst by the timer of Dule, lette them ende at Watlingstreete. This

This league beeing made with the aduite of the lage personages as weil English as Dantes that inbabited within ER England, is let fwith in maifter Lamberts booke of the olor Enclitte lances, in the ende of thole lawes or ordinaunces whyche were established by the same kytic Albied, as in the same boke pe maye see more at lange. But nowe to proceed.

here is to bee noted, that oure writers name mirche no mention is made in the Panelle Emphicles, to reparte in those parties.

But true it is, that in those dapes, not one= ly the Panythe people, but also other of those Porthealt countrepes or Regyons, as Stres deners, Porweygians, the Wenden, and futh other, whyche the Englishe people called by one generall name Danes, and the Frenchmen. Pointans, bled to roaue on the Seas, and to Flaunders, and others, as in conveniente pla= ces pe mape fynde, as well in oure Hyftozies as also in the writers of the Frenche Hystories, and lykewose in the Chronicles of those Porth Re= arons.

The Unrters veryly of the Danishe Cheunicles, makemention of one Gurmo, whome Curno, they name Anglicus, bycause hee was boine herein Englande, whiche succeeved tis father Frotto in gouernemente of the kyngoonie of Denmarke, whiche Frotto recepued baptisme in Englande, as in their hillogie you may reads moze at large.

In the eight pere of king Albied bis refinie. bructle of the Dangli Capitaines kyngs, of the to the armye of the Danes wentered at Cirenceflet, and the same peare an other armie of stantgers called exincing, lap at Fulham, and withe peare following, departed forth of Englande, and wente into fraunce, and the armye of king Bodzun og Burmo beparted from Cirenceller, and came into Call angle, and there benidying si. Dunelm. the countrey amongest them, begame to inha Mac.vveft. bite the same.

In the rilli peare of kind Alvied his refone inuade forragne Regions, as England, France, 20 parte of the Panishe armie whiche was gone of ner into Frannce, returned into England and belieged Rochester. But when Albred millo- Rochesterbes ched to the reffine, the ennimies fledde to they's aeged. Mippes, and palled ouer the lea agapne.

King Mozeo fente a name of his fhippes well

funullico with menne of warre into Gallangle, the inhyche at the mouthe of the River called Sture, encountring with. rbj. Hippes of Da= nes, bet vpon them, and overcame them in fight: But as they retourned with they? pryfes, they commiss, and fighting weth them, were ouercome and vanquiffied.

In the years following, king Alvzed besieged the Citic of London, the Danes that wer withmit, fledde from thence, and the Englishemen that were inhabitantes thereof, gladly received him, reiogeing, that there was suche a Prince bredde of their nation that was of power able to reduce them into libertie.

This Citie being at that season the chiefe of all Mercia, he deliuered unto the keeping of dukt PV: Malms. Eldico, whiche had marico his daughter Ethela Behelfleda. fleda, and held a great portion of Mercia, which Colvvolphus, encountred with an other myghtie armye of the 50 Colwolphus befozetynie possessed by graunt of the Danes, after they had suboued kyng Burthred, as before is mencioned.

About the .rrj. yeare of king Abeed, argreate armic of those Danes, or Pozmanes, whyche hadde ben in France, returned into England. and arrived in the haven of river of Lymen, novve. the east part of Kente, neces to the greate woode. called Andredelley, whyche bydde contyrne in Andredeffegie,

tymics

H. Hunt.

King Alvred

difguifeth hy.

Poisdore.

Fabian.

878

at Apledore.

892. S.Denel at Militon.

Hastings the ca pitain of the Danes belie-He receyneth

Math. V Veit.

This enterprise V Veil hathe noted.

Seucres

Operer Was

Luye, not ve

tymes past. Exr. ingles in length, and thirtie in breath Chefe Danes landing with their people Acadelhuylte buplotoa Castellat Appledoge.

Also in the meane tyme came Haltyng wyth lxxx, thips into the Chanics, and buyldeda Ca= stell at Stodleton, but her was constrained by flege, whiche king Alured planted about him to receive an othe that he floudo not in any wyle a= nor the dominion of king Alured, who byon his prompse to departe, gaue great rewards as well 10 fled for their refuge to the Castell, king Plured to him as to his worke and children. One of his sonnesallo king Milured helde at the Contstone, and to the other, Duke Eldzed was godfather. (For as it were to winne credite, and to anopoe prefent daunger,) Halling sent onto king Tiluted these-hystwo sonnes, sygnifying that if it Ambe with his pleasure, he coulde be content that they Mouloe be baptised. But neuerthelesse this Haffing was euer moste vntrue of wozde and deede, he buyloed a castell at Beamfield. And as he was going fouth to spoyle and wall the kings counterys, Illured twice that Castell with his unsenterprise wyste, children, slippes, and godes, which he had by Edeldred got togither of suche spoyles as he had purchased duke of Mercia abroade: but herestored unto halling his wrfe and childzen, bicause her was their godfather.

Shortly after, nevoes came, that a great num= ber of other flippes of Danes were come out of Morthumberlande, and had belieged Exceller: Belliplest king Mured went then against them, 30 the other armic whiche laye at Apledoze innaded Offer, and bupit a castell in that country, and after went into the boxders of Males, and buils ded an other castell neere to the river of Seuerne: but being driven outs of that countrey, they returned agapne into Effer.

Those that had bestiged Exceller, bpo know= log: had of king Allureds commung, fledde to their flupics, and forewayning on the fea, toa= Armies there were fent footh, whiche comming cut of Rothumberlande, toke the eitie of Che-fler, but there they were so besette aboute with their enteries, that they were confragued to cate Great famone. their horlis.

At length in the, rii ii, peare of king Ailured they lefte that eithe and fetched a compasse about Porthibales, and so meaning to sayle rounds aboute the coast to come into Posthumberland, preventheir Mippes by the Chames into the was The report for of Aure. That armic of Danes whiche had belieged Excester, twke prayes aboute Chiches fter, and was mette with, to that they loft many of their men, and also tiners of their flips.

In the years following, the other armie which had broughte the fluppes into the river of Luye, began to buploe a callell neere to the fame riner, twentie uples distaunt from London: but the H.Hun. Londoners came thither, and giving battaylto the Panes, Acwe.iii of the chiefe Capitapnes. The Levi But by Simon Dunel, and Mathem Will, it agains in floulde feeme, that the Londoners were at thys Danes. time put to flighte, and that foure of the kinges Thanes of barons were flaine. Lombeit hemp of Huntington hath written as before I have recited: And further layth, that when the Panes caused the water of Lup-to be devided into three Chancis, so that the Dancs Houldenot highing backe their Hippes oute of the place where they lay at ancker. When the Danes percepued this; they lefte their Mippes behynde them, and wente Quandridge into the bolders of Wales, where at Earthlinge or VVak. bpon Seuerne, they buylte an other cassell, and bridge. lay there all the wynter following, having lefte their wines and childre in the countrep of , Fastangles. King Allures purfued them, but the Lodoncrs twke the enimies thips, and brought form of them to the Citic, and the rest they brent.

Thus for the space of three veeres after the arrining of the mayne armie of Danes in the hauen of Lure, they fore endomaged the Englishe people, although the Danes themseluca suffeyned more loffe at the Englishmens handes than they did to them with all pilfering and spoyling.

In the fourth yeart after their comming, the The Danish ai mir was benided, so that parte of their wente armie divided into Potthumberlande, part of them remanned into parts in the countrey of the Fastangles; and an other parte went into fraunce.

I lio certain of their thips came byon the coast of the Wielksarons, oftentymes lettyng they? men on lande to robbe and spoyle the country.

But king Allured twice order in the best wife he might for defence of his countrey and people, and caused certaine mightic vessels to be buylocd ned abroade, lecking prayes. Belides thys, other 4° which he appointed forth to encounter with the cornics flirings.

And thus lyke a worthic Prince and politike governour, he prevented eche way forth to relift his cuinnics, and to laurgaide his subicas. Fital= The death of ly after he had reigned 25, yeares, and an halfe, he departed this lyfe the .28 day of Okober. His bodie was buried at delinehelter : He left behynde him issued his wife Ethelwitha, the daughter of Carle Cthelred of Secreta, two formes Ed- His Wusthey armed in Offer, and in the winter following so warde, furnamed the elder, which fucceeded him, and Apelwoide. Also three daughters. Elffeda; or Ethelfleda, Ethelgeda or Elgina and Ethels Eifleda witha. Eldede was maried (as pe haue hearde) unto Duke Coelred, who left a notable example behinde hir of delpting fleshely pleasure, for bearing hir hulbande one childe, and fore handled befoze fire coulde be deliructed, fire euer after foz= bare to companie with hir halbands, faying that it was great fablishmesse to vie such plesure which therwith Gould bring to great griste.

To speake sufficiently of the worthic praple ducto to noble a prince as Alured was micht reomire cloquence, learning and a targe volume. be was of person councly and beautifull, a better beloued of his father and mother than his other herthern. And although he was as before is touthed, areasty disquieted with the invasion of for resident reyn counters, pet did he both manfully from time to to trine indeudur himfelfe to repulse them, and also attipred to see his sublears governed in god and oppialit inflice.

> And albeit that good lawis amongelf the cling king noyle of armour, are oftentymes put to fis lence, ret he perceiuing how his people were gre= ned with theenes and robbers whiche in tyme of marre mely and increased, denised and statutes and holloine ordinances for pumplying of fuche off nocrs.

Amongest other thinges be orderned, that the countreys flouid be devided into hundreds and tythings, that is to wit, quarters conterning a certague number of townelling, adjourning to gither, so that every Englisheman Uning vinote prescripts of lawes, Could have both his hundred and tithing, that if any man were accused of a= no offence, he fhoulde fynde furctie for his god demeanour: and if he coulde not fonde fuche as ertremitic of the lames.

And if any manne that was quiltie fled be= fore hee founde furctie or after: all the inhabis tants of the hundred or fithing where he divelte

Moulde be put to their fone. By this denile her brought his countrey into god tranquillitic, to that he canded bracelets of golde to be hanged up alofte on billes, where any common wars lave to fee if any durft be so haven to take them away by Creath: Hewas a liberall. Prince namely in relicuing of the poice. To churches he confirmed suche privileders as his father had graunten before him, and he also sent remardes by mare of devotion unto Ronce, and to the bodie of Spaint Thomas in India. Signalmus the billioprof Shirhozne bare the same a himself from thruce richestones, and force oyles of inclimable inlure: From Rome also he broughts a piece of the holy crosse, whiche Pope Warinus did send for a victent unto king Alurodan firm a broken abrau

Moreover king Allured: tounded three goodie Foundation of Monasteries one at Edingley, where he fined monasteries. fornetyme when the Damshad bereaucd hym 20 almost of all his kyngdome, whiche was after called Athelney, distant from Tannton in Somerletflifre about five notes: the feronde he buitded at Winchester, called the newe minster, and the thirdeac Shaftsburp, whiche was an house of Puines, where he made his daughter Ethel= gra, or Elgina Abbesse. But the foundation of the vivilentitie of Driford passed all the relique of his viploings, whichehe began by the god er= hoptation and adulfe of Meotus an Abbotte in moulde andwere for him, then Moulde hee talle to those days highly esterned for his vertue and lerning with Mured.

> . This works he twicin hande aboute the. 23. years of his reigne, whiche was in the years of of our Lozde. 895. So that the Universitie of _ Cambridge was founded before thys other at Oxforde about, 265 petres, as Polydore gatheteth. For Sigebert king of the East angles began to ereite that Eminersitie at Cambridge, a= bout the years of our Laide. 630.

King Alpred was learned himselfe, and much nurche to findic, in so muche that beside bouers god lawes whiche he translated into the english toung, gathered together and published, he also translated divers other bookes out of Latin into English, mglith, an Orofius, l'afterale Cregory, Beda de gefis Angloru, Boctim de conselatione Philosophia. and the boke of plaling, but this he fmillied not, bring preuented by death.

The Historie of England.

So this worther Prince minding wel toward the common wealth of his people, in that lealon

when learning was little esteemed amongest the Wiralt nations, opd flucie by all meanes posti-nerally to imbrace learning. He woulde not sut-

fer any to beare office in the Courte, excepte hee were learned: and pet hee hymfelse was twelve yeares of age before hee coulde reade a worde on the boke, and was then trayned by his mothers the had in hir handes, if he wold Chopily lirne to reade it. Herebvon going to his boke in Crozte, in a small tyme hee profited maruellously, and became suche a favourer of learned men, that he delyabted most in their companie, to have conf = rence with them, and allured dyners to come onto hym out of other countrepes, as Afferius

Meneuent, billiop of Shirtogne, and Werefri=

busthe bystop of Worcester, whoby his com=

maundemente translated the Bokes of Erego.

ries Dialogues into Cngliste. Also John Scot

the love of Dion fix Aripagita, entituled Hie-rarchie sout of Erreke into Latin, and after was Scholamaister in the Abbry of Malmelburge, and there murthered by his Schollers with pen-finities, bee had cruers other aboute him, bothe

Engliss menne and ftraungers, as Ples monde whiche atterwarde was made Archebillioppe of Canterbury, Erimbalde, whome he appointed nourmour of the newe Monasteric at Winches

But to conclude with this noble Prince king

Alved, her was to carefull in his office, that hee remoted the exiting, houres which contarn the day fler with other.

The vertuous zele of Almed ble, to instructe his subicities in the trade of leas to bring his people to an honest trade of tyfe.

He is persyvaacd by his mo- perswalion to applye hymselfe to study, promis ther, to applye fing to gout hym a godly fayte boke whyche

Afferius Meweuenl. V Verefridue.

John Scot.

Grimbalde.

Alered denided the tyme for his necel-and night in three parties, to that eight houres he frent in writing, reding and making his praices, other eight hee employed in relicuing his bodye with meate, drinke, and flepe, and the other. bij. he bestowed in despatching of businesse cocerning the government of the realme. He had in his chafted an houre: So that the Serten to whome that charge was committed by burning of that candell warned the king ever how the time pals fed awar. I little befoge his beath, hee ogdeined his last wil and testament, bequeathing halfe the rottion of all his godes in flir getten, buto fuch Monafter es as he had founded. All his rents and renemics be devided into two equall partes, and the first part he denided into three, bestowing the first boon his scruants of housholde, the scronde to such clabozers and workmen as he kept in his works of fundrie news buyloings, the thyrde part he game to strangers. The second whole part of his revenues was to divided, that the first poztion thereof was bestewed amongest the roze people of his countrep, the seconde to Menalle= ries, the thirde to the findring of pope scholiers. dying an honell lyfe, and to encourage them ge- 10 and the.iii.part to Churches beyonde the fra:he was viligent in the enquirie how the Judges of tis land behaued themseluis in their iudgemets. and was a Carpe correder of them which transgreffed in that behalfe. To be brief, be liued fo as he was had in greate fauoure of his neighbors, highly tenered amongst strangers. He marped his daughter C theilwida of rather Elfride bn= Elfrid, reteir to Faldmen Erle of flaunders, of whome her spitaph you broat two fons Arnulte and A oute, or the world Meyer, the teade it. Herebyon going to his owner in quality the first succeed in the Exletome of Flaunders, very new his so earnessly settle his mynd thereto, that with = 20 the first succeed in the Exletome of Flaunders, very new his source many many release Balaiane. and the ronger was made erle of Boloigne.

> The bedie of king Albred wes firste buried in the Billiots churche: but afterwarde bicaule the Canons rayled a fond tale that the same shoulde walke a nightes, his sonne king Etward remoned it into the news monafteric whiche bein his lpfe tyme had founded.

The ende of the kingdome of Mercia. the capes of the forland king Albred, the wirche whyles ber was in Fraunce, translated 30 Elyngtonic of Mercia toke ende. Kozafter that i Danes had expulled king Burtheed, whe he hed reigned.22. peares, he went to Bome, and there died, his wife also Ethelewida, the daughter of king Ithulfthat was sonne to king Ecgbert folowed him, and dyed in Paula in Lum= bardie. The Danes haurng got the countrey Cerrolle. into their possission, made one Ceolfe king ther= of, whome they bound with an othe and delive= rie of pledaes, that he fould not longer kepe the 4° state with their pleasure, and further shoulde bee readic at all tymes to arde them with fuche power as he flould be able to make. Thys Ce= wolf was the scruant of king Burthed. Within foure peres after the Danes returned, & toke one part of that kingdome into their owne handes, $ left the residue unto Cewolfe. But within sewe peres after, king Alveed obteined that parte of Mercia which Cewolf ruled, as he did all theres fiduc of this land, except those parcels which the pell a candell of 24. partes, whereof enery one las 50 Danes held, as Porthumberland, the countreis of the Caltangles, some parte of Mercia, tother. The pere in the whiche king Albredthus obteys ned the dominion of that part of Mercia whiche Ciwolf had in gourmace, was after the birth of 886. our sauioz. 886. fo that the forfaid kingtom co=tinued the space of 202, peres buder, 22, kings fro Mat. Vyali Criba to this last Etwoif. But ther be paccopt the continuance of this kingdonic, only from the training of Penda, buto the last yere of Burthere, by which reckning it stood not past 270. pes resunder. d. oz rather. 17. kings, accompting the last Carroll for none, who began his reigne bn= der subjection of the Danes, aboute the yeare of our 1010.874. wher Penda bega his reigne.604. The Callangles & the Porthumbers in thele pars wer under subjection of the Dancs, as parts ly may be perceused by that which before is reherfed. Ister Guthea & gouerned & eastlangles by the 10 king Alveed caused to be baptised. Where other term of rij. per. s, one Cobirick og Erick had the ruic in thole parties, a Danc allo, & reigned riii. veres, i was at length bereued of his covernment by king Coward the sonne of K. Alvico, as after pu eim. Mal appere. But now although that the Porths umbers were brought greatly under fote by the Dancs, vet could they not forget their old accuformed maner to flirre tumultes and rebellion a= gainst their governozs, insomuch that in the yers 872. they expulled not onely Egbert, whome the 20 Dancs had appointed king over one parte of the countrep, as before you have heard) but also their archbishop Willshere. In the pere following, the fame Eegbert Departed this life, after whom, one Riglig of Riclige succeeded as king, & the Arch= bishop elfosshere was restored home. In & same year: the armie of Danes which had wintered at London, came from thece into Porthumberlad. and wintred in Lindley, at a place called Took= fcy, and went the next yeere into Mercia. And in 30 the pere. 275. a part of them returned into 202= - thumberland, as before ye have herd. In the yere following, Richig the king of Porthum berlande artific. Departed this lyfe: After whom an other Egbert increded. And in the years, 984, the armie of the Danes meaning to inhabite in Porthumber= ione c, and to lettle themselves there, chose Gu= when a third the some of one hardienute to their king, inhome they had sometyme solde to a certagne uilt of an Abbot called Albeide, they redeemed his litertie, and oppoined him king to rule bothe Danisand Englishmen in that countrey.

It was lapo, that the lame Alozede being Abtot of holy Flande, was warned in a billion by wante Cuthbert, to give counsell bothe to the Danis and Engliffmen to make the fame Guthan hing. This channeed about the riij percof the reigne of Alvied king of Wiefflarous.

ir relied the bishops sea to be remoned from holy Ab not buto Cheffer in the ffret, and for an augmortation of the revenues and inviloidion belonquig therto, be aff gned and gaue buto Sainife Cutibert all that countrey which lyeth betwirt. the timers of Teple and Tyne.

Woseouer this primitedge was there graunted unto . Cuthbert theine, That who focuer fledde into the same for succour & salegarde, thould not be touched of troubled in any wife for the space of 37.dayes. And this freedom was confirmed not only by king disuthcid, but also by king Aluced. finally king Butheid departed this lyfe in the years of our Lord God. 894, after hee had ruled the Posthumbers with muche crueltie (as some Polydor. fap) by the terms of .11. peres, or fom what more: VV. Malmf. He is named by some writers Gurmond, and al= fo Eurmo, and thought to bee the same whome affirme, that Gutheed who ruled the Eastan= gles, was he that Albacd received at $ fontstone, William Ralmsbury taketh them to be but one PP. Malms. man, whiche is not lyke to be true.

After this Guthzed or Gurmo his sonne Si= swake thrike succeded, and after hym other of that line, till king Athelstane deprined them of the dongnion, and toke it into his owne hands.

Edwarde the elder.

Sifter the decease of king Abred, his son Ed-warde, surnamed the elder began his reggne Edward ouer the more parts of Englands in the years of the elour Lotd oci. which was in the. . perc of the em= perour Lewis in the eight yeare of the reigne of der. Charles, furnamed simplex, king of France, and about the.s. peare of Donald king of Scotland. He was facred after the maner of other kyngs his auncesters by Ithelrede the Archebistop of mowe at Witingham. But nowe by the ad= 4° Canterburie. This Edward was not so learned as his father, but in princely power more high & honogable, for he ionned the kingdome of Calts angles and Mercia with other onto his domini= on, as after shall be shewed, and banquisted the Danes, Scots, & Wilchmen, to his great glory and high comendation. In the beginning of his reign he was offquieted by his brother Adel wold, which toke the rown of all inboan beffors Bath, and marico a Punne there, which he had defion= Then after that Buthzid was established king 50 red, and attempted many things against his bio= ther. Wherbpo the king came to Bath, & though Avelwold spewed a countenance as if he would have abyothe chaunce of warre within dayn. H. Hunt, bome, yet he stale awaye in the night, & slev into Adelyvoide Porthuberland, wher of the Danes he was top= fleeth to the fully received. The king toke his wife being lette behind, restoted hir to phonse from whence sie was taken. Some haus weitten, that this Adelwolve of Ethelmolve, was not brother unto PV. Malm.

Histaff ryll and reitament.

king

nation parities fed in a varret, ave ay avidir.

king Edwards, but his bucks forms.

After this king Cowards pronibing for the furthe of his subjected eganust the foreign which the Danes bled to make, togtifred diners cities and townes, and fluffed them with great garrifons of fouldiors, to defend the inhabitants and to repulle the enimies. Ind furely the englishmen were so invito with warres in those dayes, that the people being aduertised of the inualion of the enimies in any part of their countrey, would als 10 bled his people, 4 followed the enimies, walling femble oftentymes without knowledge of king or capitagne, and fetting upon the enimies, went commonly awaye with victorie, by reason that they onermatched them bothe in number tpladife. Do were the enimies despiled of the eng= lithe fouldiours, and laughed to fcom of the king for their solution attempts. Vet in the third yeare of king Comards reigne. Ethelmolde his bzo= ther came with a Paule of the Danes into the Gifer men velded themselves unto him. In the verefolowing he innaded the countrey of Mercia with a mighte armie, walting and sporting the same unto Crykelade, and there passing ouer Randing the Chames, roved forth til he came to Baling= Stoke, (oz as some bokes haue Bzittenden,) harping the countrey on ethe lyde, and lo returned back into Cast angles with great ioy & triumph.

King Edwarde awakened heerewith, allem= H. Hunt all the countrepe betwirt the river of Dule and S. Comunds ditch. And when he Muid returne. he gave comandenient, that no man flould stap behinde him, but come backe togither foz doubte to be foreland by the enimies. The Kentillmen The Kentile, notwithstanding this ordinance & comandemét, the kings are remained behind, although the king fent. 7. mef= maund. we fengers foz them. The Danes awayting their by the enter aduantage, came togither, and fiercely foughte Athelytoile king Edgrad The first the parties of the east angles, and even at the first the 20 with the Kentishmen, which a long tyme valis broken.

antly planded themselves. But in the ende the Liance common the vision exalthough they lofte 1.1620 people there than the Kentishnien did: and amongell other, there were flame the foglaid #= the docate, a diners of the chief captains among le the Wanes. Lekewale of the english fide, ther died n.tu.cs. Smolf & Dinglem, of Sigbelm, with funt pother me of name both tepogal also spiritual ioids * Abbots. In the vivere of his reign R. Coward cocludes a truck with the Danes of Cattangle & Porthumbalad at Jungloed But so But afterwards he suffered his filler Elfledeto in the pare following, he fent an army against the of Portionaberlad, which fleth many of $Da= mes and took great bornes both of people a cattel, remaining in the country, the fiace of. v. mekes.

The year next column the Danes with a great arme entred into Africa, to rob & froile p coun= trer againt whom ling Edward unit a mighte ioli, affembled together of the deletitations and them of Mercia, the which let byon the Panes, as they were returning homeward, a flew of the an huge multitude, together with their chief capitaines and leaders, as king Halden, and kyng Colwils eric Ether, erle Scurfa, & Diners other.

In the years 912. of as Simon Danel, hath H. Hunt. 908. the Duke of Mercia Edzid og Etheldzed, departed this life, and then king Edward leyled into his handes the Cities of London and Dr= foro, and all that part of Mercia which he helde. enion the most part therof, except the sayde cities of London and Oxford, whiche he ffill retayned in his owne hande. This Elsteda was wyfe to the fayo duke Edild of Etheldied, as before you have hearde: Of whole worthy after more hall be lande hereaftee.

In the nynthe years of his reigne king Cowarde burlt a castellat Partfords, and likewise

he burloed a towne in Effer at Wightham, and iar inmielf in the meane time at Waldon, otherwie Weauldun, bringing a great part of beounnor buder his subjection, which before was subtest to p Danes. In the pere following, the armie of the Danes Departed fro Porthapton & Chegene orte ffer in breach of the former truce, & flew a greate munber of men at Hoschnereto in Dxfo2dflire. 2 nd Mortly after their return home, an other co= panicof them wet forth and came to Leighton, where the people of the countrey beeing affem= bled togither, fought with them, and put them to flight, taking fro them all the spoyle whiche they had got, and also their horses.

Bu the.rj. pere of king Cow. a fleet of Danes compassed aboute the West partes, and came to the mouth of Scuerne, to toke prayes in Wa= les: They also twike prisoner a deletche bishop led to their thips:but king Edward redemed him out of their hands, paying to them. rl. tb. for his raunfom. After that the armie of Danes went fwith to spoyle the countrey about Irehingsield, but the people of Cheffer, Herrefogde, and other townes and countreys therabout, affembled togithat, and giving battapl to the enimics, put them to flight, and flewe one of their noble men called Carle Rehald, and Geoleil the brother of Carle Citt. with a greet part of their armie, and draue the resoure into a Castell, whiche they besieged 30 till the Trans within it gaue hollages, and couchanics to depart out of the kings lands.

The king sauled the coalis about Seueme to be matched, that they floudd not breake into his countrey: But yet they stale twice into the bog-: 35: neuertheles they wer chaled a flain fo ma= " as coulde not freim and to get to their thips.

Chanthey remayned in the Ile of Stepen, in great milette for lacke of biffuals, bycaule they dented mio Posthwales, & from three layled into Ircland.

Tie same yeare king Edward came to Buckinglam with an armie, and ther taried a whole moneth, building two castels, the one bponthe one hae of the water of Dule, and the other vpon the other fide of the same riner. He also subdued Curketyllus an Erle of the Danes that dwelte in that countrey, with all the relique of the noble men and barons of the thires of Bedforde and Lauthampton.

In the rii pere of & Edwards reigne, y Ken-Thurch & Dancs fought togither at Holme: but Whicher partie had the victorie, writers have not Colared. Simon Dunclm. speaketh of a bataple which the citisens of Canterbury fought against a number of Danill rouers at Holme, wher the Danes were put to flight, but that Mould be (as he noteth an s. peres befoze this supposed time, as in the yere.004. whiche was aboute the thirde yere of king Cow. reigne. After this other of the Dancs affembled thesclues togither, im Stal- An. joir fogothire at a place called Cottshal, fought with sim. Dunthe Englishmen, a after great flaughter made on bothe parties, the Danes were ouercome: and fo likewise were they Mozely after at Modfield, dz Modenfield. And thus K. Edw. put the Dancs to to the worle in eche place commonly where hee came, and hearing that those in Posthumberlad ment to breake the peace: he inuaded the countrey and so affliced the faine, that the Danes whiche were inhabitants there, gladly continued in rest and peace. But in this meane tyme, Ericke the Polidore. king of those Danes which helde the countrey of Brick king of cassangle was about to procure new warre, and Eattangles. to allure other of the Danes to toyn with him a= named Camelgaret, at Irchensteld, whome they 20 gainst the Englishmen, that with comon agreement, they might lette bpon the englishe nation, and bitterly subdue them.

King Edw.haning intelligence hereof, purpo- King Edvvard sed to preuent him, a therebpon entryng with an inuadethehe countrey of the armieinto his countrey, cruelly wallt da spoyled Battangles. the lame. B. Erick hauing alreadie his people in armour through difple fure conceined hereof, and delire to be renenged, haffed fwethe to encounter his enimies: Ind to they met in the field & fierce= ly assayled ethe other. But as the battaile was rallily begon on king Ericks fide, fo was the end bery harmeful to him : for with small a doc after Ericke put to great losse on his side, was he vanquished and put fight. to flight.

And after his comming home, bycause of his great ouerthzowe and foule discomfiture, he began to gouerne his people with moze rigour and Mary dealing tha befoze thine he had vico. Wiherby he pronofied the malice of the Castangles for highly against him, y they fell beon him a murconloc not go abroade to get any. It length they 40 thered him: pet did they not gain so much hereby as they losed to have done: for Mortely after, they being brought lowe, and not able to defende their countrey, were compelled to submit them The kingdome folines but being of the Eastan selucs buto king Edw. And so was that king- gles subdues dome ionned buto the other dominions of the by K. Edvvard. same king Edwards, who shortly after annexed also the kingdome of Mercia unto other of his dominions, immediatly byon the death of his G= fter Elfleda, whome he permitted to gouern that countrey during hir lyfe. And not without god 50 realon, for by bir wyle & politike order bled in alt hir doings, he was greately furthered and aftifted. But namely in reparing and buyloging of H. Hune. Townes and Castelles, thee shew other noble mat. Prest. of hir gouernaunce whiche continued ar eright sim. Dunel, yeares, it is recorded by wryters, that the did buylor and repare these Townes, whose names

915.

Cheffer rep2red. gos. Sim. Dunel.

Queene of the V V eichmen taken. Brecanamere.

Ran.Higd. H.Hunt.

> al. Hunt Anno Christi 919. A. as. TVell

RATHI.

Francesons heere enfewe: Chamworth belide Lichefielde, parell Angue. Stafford, Wlatwike, Shrewburge, Waterle bury og Celedoelbury, Chilefbury ograther Cobury in the forest of Dela mere belides Cheller, Brimfbery brioge bpon Seuerne, Rouncom at the mouth of the river of Wercie with other.

The Historie of Englande.

Moreover, by hir helpe the citie of Chester whicheby Danes had bin areately defaced, was Node without the walles before that tyme was now brought within compasse of the new wall.

Moreoner the bolocly affaulted hir enimpes whichewente aboute to trouble the state of the countrep as the Welchemen, and Danes. She fent an armie into Telales, and toke the towne of Brecknocke with the Dueene of the Witch= men at Bricennamere. Also she wan from the wiorning.

In this enterprise the put hir owne person in Derby vvon great adufture: foz a great multitude of Danes, tromine Danes pwere withdrawen into Derby, valiatly befended the gates and entries, informuche that they flew foure of hir chief men of warre, which wer named delardens of hir person, even fast by hir at the verr entrie of the gates. But this not with= flanding, with valiat fight hir prople entred, and fo the towne was wonne : the gotte diners other 20 and fortifped. places out of their handes, and confirmined them of Forkethire to agree with hir, so that some of thein promiled to become hir lubicates: Some promised to arde hir, and some sware to be at hir comaundement. Finally this martiall Lady and manly Elficoa, the supporter of hir coutrey= min and terrour of the enimies, departed this life at Thamworth aboute the, rig, of June, in the rvig.egrather.xix.peare of hir byother king & b= wards reigne, as by Hath. Wiest it Could ap= prare. But Sunon Dunchn, weiteth, that fie 40 reported) breamed on a tyme, that there role & deceasion in the years of Chaist. 815. which should be about the rini reare ofking Cowards reign. Fur bodie was connered to Gloucester, and there buried within the monastene of .peter, which hir bustand and the in their life tyme had buplded, and translated thither the bones of Sainct Chiplifrom Bardona, The fame monafferie was after deffroyed by Danes. But Moreous the archbilliop of Poise, who was also billiop tie, that was after the chiefe Abbey there.

Atter the deceale of Ellicia, king Edwarde toke the dominion of Wereia as before we have fayor into his otone handes, and to disuberited his necce Alfwen, og Elfwen, the daughter of Elseda, tae jugtur awaye with him into the countrey of Wellfarons. By this meanes he to amplifyed the boundes of his kingdome, that he had the most parte of all this Ilande of Brotarne at his commaundement: for the kyinges of the Wielchmen (namely the kyng of Stret- Since cled, and of the Scots, acknowledging hym kingdown to be their chiefe fourraigne Lorde, and the Danis in Porthumberland were kept lo Mort, that they durst attempt nothing against him in his whiche by Danes had bin greately defaced, was newly repaired, fortified with walles and turrets and greatly enlarged. So that the eaffell whiche to eaffels wherin he so much delighted. He buyloed and repaired to eaffels wherin he so much delighted. He buyloed and repaired to eaffels wherin he so much eaffels where he so will be delighted. He buyloed and repaired to eaffels where he so will be delighted. He buyloed and repaired to the source of th anewe towne at Potingham on the southlyde Notingham of Trent, and made a bridge ouer that river be- bridge beit twirt the olde towns and the newe. He also reparco Manchesser beyonde the riner of Mercie Manchesse in Lancathire, accompted as then in the fouthe repared ende of Posthuniberlande the buylt a Towne sim. Eur. of auncient writers called Thilwall, nire to the fame riner of Mercie and placed therin a garris Dances the towns of Darby, and the countrey 20 fon of fouldiers: divers other townes and callels he buylt, as two at Buckingham on cyther live the water of Dufe (as beloze is thewed and also one at the mouth of the ciner of Auon. Heelikewife pupit or new repered the townes of Toces tog and Migmoze, with divers other, as one at H. Ennt. Clademuth, about the last yeare of his reigne. Some also he destroyed whiche seemed to serve the enimies turne for hartgongh, as at Temnels force, a Castell, why the the Danes had buyloed herrevpon when the came to ripe yeares, king of Ecloseeffer repared an other in the same Ci= 50 Etwarde by channel commyng to the place where the was remaying, boon the first lighte was fireight rauffied with bir beautic (whiche in decde ercelled) that the coulde not refte till be had his pleasure of hir, and so begat of hir the folfayde Abelstane: By bir he had also a daughter that was marged bnto Sithike a Dane, and hing of Pouthumberlande. The Scottill) weis Mat. Ff. ters name pir Beatrice, but oure witters name Pilod.

Atlengthe after that this noble Princeking Edward had reigned somewhat about the terme of. rriij, peares, hee was taken out of this lyfe at Faringdon : this bodic was conneved fro thence ento adlinchester, and there buried in the newe Abbey. He hadde iii, wyucs, or (as some hane weitten) but two, alfirming that Eogina was not his wife, but his concubine, of whom he begat his elbeft fonne Abelffane, who fucceded him Polidere. in the kingdome. This Edgina as hathe bene A diane Mone out of hir belly, whiche with the brighte Mine thereof gaue light euer all Englande : and telling bir decame to an ancient Gentlewoman, the fame Gentlewoman conieduryng by the dreame that whiche folowed, toke care of hir, and caused hir to bee brought op in god manners and lyke a Gentlewoman, though the were boine but of bale parentage.

me Coima. Dis feconde og rather his frist wofe if he were not maried to Equina mother to A= rellane, highte Elfleda, of Elfrida, and was Danghter to one erle Ethelme: by bir he had iffue one formes Ethelward and Edwon, which im= mediatly departed this life after their father: toi. Danahters Elficda, Edgina, Ethelhilda, Ethil= pa. Cabitha, & Elfgina. Elficoa becam a Pfine: and Ethelhilda also lined in perpetuall birgini= to the king of fraunce Charles, furnamed simlex and Ethilda by help of hir brother Adelstan mas beliowed upon Quah forme to Robert earle of Paris, for hir fingular beautic moste highly ea stemed: for nature in hir had shewed as it were hir whole cunning, in perfeding hir with all gifts and properties of a comely personage. Edgina and Edgitha were fent by their brother Adelsfan into Germanic, onto the Emperour Henry, who was after Emperoz, the firste of that name, and the other buto a duke, inhabiting about & Alves: Dy his last wife named Edgina, he had also tipo finnes. Comunde and Elozed, the whiche both reigned after their beother Avelltane successingly. difo he had by hir thvo daughters, Edburge that

m mariage buto Lewysking of Aguitarn. of warres againste the Danes, as befoge is tonthed, finall regarde was hadde to the flate of the errod Church informach that the whole country of the celefficiens by the space of .7. geres together inthe days of this K. Edward) remained withoute ann Biffiop, to take ogder in matters appertey= ming to the church. Wihervpon the Pope Had acended the english people, because they suffred the Billiops feas to be vacant fo long a tinte.

was made a Punne, and Cogine, a lady of excellent beautie, whom hir brother Adelstan gane

Bing Coma d to anord the eursse, assembled 40 crowne, and he was predecessour to pleymond. a prouncial Concel. 205. in the which the Archtuliop of Canterbury Pleymond was president. elibercin it was orderned, p where the province of Coloffiaros in tymes past had but, it bishops, nom it shoulde be denided into. b. diocesses, energy of them to have a peculiar Bilhoppe. When all things were ordered and concluded in this Spnode as was thought requilite,) the Archbiffsop was line to Rome with rich prefents, to appeale the Popes displeasure. When the Pope had herd 50 what other the king had taken he was contented therewith. And so the Archebishop returned into his countrey, and in one day at Canterbury of dimed, but, bishoppes, as five to the Province of Coleffiarons, that is to wit, Fridestane to the seanicelincheffer, Toelstanto S. German in Coz= newal Colerstan to Shirborn, Avelme to Wiel= les, and Coulfe to Kirton. Also to the province of Suller, her ogdepned one Bernegus, and to Dorcheffer for the province of Bertia, one Cenulfe. Here mult pe note, that where Coulliant VVa Maine Malmel Polichzo and other do allieme, p Pope faith that Pope Formolus did accurle R. Edward & the englishe nonneed thys nation for fusting the billiops leas to be vacant, curfe. it cannot stand with the agreement of the tyme, vuleffe that the curse pronounced by Formolus for this mafter long afore was not regarded, till tie, but pet in lay habite. Egditha was maried 10 Coward toke respect therto. for the same for= molus began to governe the Romane sea aboute the years of our Lozd. 892, and lived in the papa= cie not pall. vj. peres, fo that he was deade befoze Polidere., king Edward came to the crowne. But how fo cuer this matter may fall out, this ve have to cofider: Although that Pleymound was fent unto Rome to advertise the Pope what the king had decreed and done, in the orderning of Billiops to their scueral seas as before ve haue heard, yet (as britvived one of them opon his sonne Dtho, that 20 Master Fore hath noted) the gouernaunce and direction of the Church depended chiefly bypon the kings of this lande in those days, as it manifellly appeareth, as wel by the decrees of K. Alverd, as of this king Coward, whole authoritie in the election of Bilhops (as before ve have herd) feemed then alone to be sufficient.

Mozeouer this I have thought good to advertile you of in this place, that this Pleymond Archebillyop of Canterbury (of whom ye have hero Ellerlis this lande was in continuall trouble 30 before) was the, rix, in number from Augustine the first Archbistop there: for after Brightwold that was the. viij in nüber, & first of the englishe nation that governed the lea, fucceeded Tadbyn, that fat. iij. peres: Potelyn. b. peares: Cuthberte rbiij.peres, Bzethwyn.3. geres. Läbert. 27. peres, Adelard.13. peres Wilfired. exbiij. peres, Theologildus of Pleogidous. iif. peares, Celuotus, oz Chelutus, t. peares. And after them succeeded Aldzed, of whome King Edwarde recepued the

A little before the death of king Coward, Si= H. Hune. theix the king of Poethumberlande, killed his brother Pigellus, and then king Reynold conquered the Citic of Porke.

Adelstane.

MElstane, the cloelt sonne of king Edward Adelbegan his reigne ouer the moze parte of all fanc.

227

904.

Mat. VVeil. Englande, the peace of our Lozde. 92.4. Whiche vvil. Mal. was in the. of years of the Emperoz Henry the first, in the 31. yeare of the reigne of Charles, fur= named simplex, sing of france.3. moneths after the burning of Pame, about the.22.02.23. yeare of Constantine the third king of Scotlande. This Adelstan was crowned and sacred king at Kingfton vpon Thance of Avelme the Archbis Mop of Canterbury, which succeded Pleymond. he was the rruij king in number from Cerdis 10 cius oz Cerdik the first king of the Wellsarons.

the governmet.

vvil.Malm.

See more here- feruants toke him bp & bare him bnto the english of in the booke of After and Monumentes fet foorth by M. Foxe vol. 1. leafe.195.

he died.

There were in the beginning some p let them Alfred friveth selves against him, as one Alfred a noble mã whi Acheistan from the practifed by treason, to have kept him fro the gouremnét: but he was apprehended ere he could bzing his purpole to palle, & lente to Rome there to trie himfelt giltie or not guiltie. And as he toke his othe for his purgation before y aultar of laint

> Pope John the.r.fent buto king Abelliane to know if he wold that his bodie thould be laybe in christian burial or not. The king at the contem= plation of Alfreds frends & kintfolks, lignified to the Pope that he was contented that his bodye Quid be enterred amongst other chaillians. His God & S. Deter. The caule o moued Alfred and. other his coplices against the king, was (as some haue alcoged) bis baltaroie. But whether that allegation wer true, of but a flander, this is certain: that except that stain of his honoz, there was no= thing in this Adellian worthy of blame: So that he darkned all the glozious fame of his predecelloss both in vertuous conditions & vidozious tris uniphs. Such difference is there to have that in. himselfe wherein to excell, rather than to stande schole of hospitall, where the thirde night after

can not rightly be called bis.

After that K. Aveistant was established in the estate, he endeuozed himself to answer the expectation of his people, which hoped for great welch to enfue by his noble a prudent gouernace: fyilt therfore meaning to provide for the furetie of his countrep, he cocluded a prace with Sithicus &. of the Porthübers, buto who as pe haue hearde, be gaue one of his fillers named Coltha in mari= so marico bir. Ind the Adelstan brought the prouince of the Porthübers unto his lubication, expelling one Noulph out of the same prebelled &= rainli bint. Ther be y write, that Godfrey & Aulafe the connes of Sithzike succeding their father in the government of Porthüberland, by pradifing to mour war against king Idelstane, occa-

fonce him to inuade their courrey, and to chale them out of the lame, to that Aulaf fled into Arcland & Godfrey into Scotiad: but other waite, & H. Bist. Godfrey was the father of Reignold, which wan Porke, after that Sithrike had flaine his brother Digellus, as befoge is mencioned. The Scottill H. Beriss. chronicles bary in report of thele matters from & The Scottine english writers: whose chronicles aftirm, & in the from our Enlife time of K. Edwards his danghter Beatrice, glish authors was given in mariage to Sithrike, the governor see to K.Edvy. of the Wanes in Porthumberland, with condi-asishe Scotting tion, that if any issue male were procreate of that mariage, the same shuld inherite the dominions of K. Edward after his deceale. Kyng Edward had a brother (as they fay) named Cowpn, a iop. Edvryn vra ly Gentleman, and of great ellimation amonglik. Edvy. bat the Englishmen. he by Sithzikes procurement fon to Nim. was fent into Flaunders in a flip that leaked, & so was drowned, to the greate reiopeing of all Peter, he sodenly fel down to the earth, so that his 20 the Danes, least if he had survived his brother, hee woulde haue made some bulinelle for the

About the fame time Adellia a bale lon of B. Acheina fice Ebm. fied y realme for doubt to be made away me realme. by some like trayterous madile of the Banes. Shortly after K. Edward biderstanding bois thick went about some mischef toward him, perfuaded his daughter to poyfon hir hulbande the fapd Sithrike. Then Julaffe of Aualaffus, and lands being fozfaited were giuen by y king bnto to Godfrey the fonnes of Sithzike, finding out by biligent examination, p Bratrice was of come fell in poyloning bir bulband, they cauled hir to be apprehended, and put to death on this ingle:

She was lette naked byon a Smythes colde Bearke par Amploe of flythic, and therewith hards refled death by his acquares egges being taken fweth of the hot ymbers were putte buder hir arme pittes, and hir armes falle bounde to hir bodie with a corde, and to in the State the remayned till bir life palled from his?

K. Edward in reuenge of his daughter death upon the worthinelle of his auncellers, lith that 40 moued war against the two brethren, Aulas and Bobfrep, in battail finally baquilled them but was flain in the fame battail himfell. Thur bone the Scotiff chronicles recorded of thefemaisers as an induction to the warres which folders betwirt the Scots and Danes as confederates as gainst k. Adelstan: but for the truth thereof the leave to the readers own indgement. hoe in pome englishe writers we finde no suche matter, in that a daughter of King Edward named Com age. Sithzike liurd not paff one pere after he had 50 githa og Editha, after hir fathers berenfis ipes by hir brother King Ithelffanc, about the fit peare of his reigne given in mariage (as beine pe haue hearde buto the forelayde Sithrihe hing of Porthumberland, that was descended of the Danishe bloud, who for the love of the course Ladie, renounced his heatheniste religion, and breame a chailtian, but mostely after, forfakeng bothe hys wyle, and the christian taying he The Historie of Englande.

fer poper agains the worthipping of Jools, and within a while after, as an Apollata, milerably ended dis life. Wherebpon, the yong Lady, hir pirquitte being preferued, and hir body bindefy= led (as they write passed the relidue of hir dayes at policimosth in Warwikefhire, fpendyng hir time as the fame writers affirme, in falling, wat= ching, praying, and boing of almies deedes, and fo at length departed out of this world.

flory both in name a maner of end as concerning thatdaughter of K. Edwarde, that was couvled in marriage with Sithaike. But now to returne where we left. After that Kong Adelstane hadde fubdued them of Porthumberland, hee was adpertifed, that not onely Constantine Kong of Scotics, but also Hudvale or Howell Kyngof collaies, wente about a prinie conspiracy agapust ppilomalm, vim. Hecrevppon with all connenient weede alwith like and fortune subdued them bothe, and also Timer or Winkerth &. of Porth wales, to that they were constrepted to submit themselves buto him, who Mortly after moued with pitie in confidering their fuddayne fall, restozed them all three to their former estates, but so as they sould Mat. VP oft. acknowledge themselves to governe bnder hym, pronouncing with all this notable faying, that more honorable it was to make a King, than to reth by the Scottish Chronicles, the Scottilline in time of the warres that the Dancs made to b English nation, gote a parte of Cumberland and other the Posth countreps into their pollellion, and so by reason of their necre adjouning to the confines of the Englishe Kings, there chaunce occasions of warre betwirte them, as well in the days of Krng Edward, as of this Adelitane has sonne, although indeede the Danes beld the moze part of the Porth countreys, till that this Adel- 40 it to land at Withland believe Canterbury Bus stanc conquered the same out of their hands, and iouncd it but o other of his dominions, confired ning as well the Danes (of whom the more part of the inhabitats then consisted) as also the Engliffmen, to obey him as their King and gouer-

Coofrey as is faide, being flev to the Scots, did so much there by earnest sute made to Kyng Constantine, that hee gote a power of men, and intring with the fame into Porthamberlande, 5 belieged the Citie of Dureime, foliciting the Citizens to recepue him, whiche they woulde gladly have done, if they had not percepted how he was not of power able to refull the puillance of Byng Adellianciand therefore doubting to be punithed for their offences if they renolted, they kept the e= nimics out.

Pulder.

King Toelstane beeping foze moued agaynile

the King of Scottes, that thus anded his chis mics, rayled an army, and wente Porthwarde. purpoling to reucinge that iniurie. It his comming into Porkilire, hee turned out of the way, Ran. Higd. to vilit the place where Saint Join of Benerley was buryed, and ther offered his knife, promiting that if he refurned with victory, he would redeme the same with a worthy price; and so proceeded fwith on his journey, entring Scotland, walled sim. Dun: Thus our writers differ from the Scottiff hi= 10 the countrey by land buto Dunfoader, and Wer= termoze, and his Paule by Sea destroped the coaltes alongli the Moze, cuen to Catnelle, and so he brought the King of Scottes and other has The Scottes enimies buto subjection at his pleasure, constrey-subdued. ning the same King of Scottes to deliver buts him his sonne in holtage. It is sappe, that beyng in his journey neere buto the Towns of Duns barre, he prayed buto God, that at the instance of Saint John of Beuerley, it would pleafe him to fembling his power, he wente against them, and 20 graunt, be might shew some open token, where by it should appeare to all them that then lyueb, Mould hereafter lucceede, that the Scottes ought A token fheto be subject onto p kings of Englad. Ind there- wed miracuwith the King with his Eword miote bpo a great loufly that flone flanding neere to the Castel of Dunbarre, to be subject with the stroke, there appeared a clift in the same to the Kings flone to the length of an elme, whiche remained of England, to be fixmed as a witnesse of $ thing many peres after. At his comming backe to Beuerlep, bee te hone of king be a King. Pe mult onderstand, that as it appea = 30 deemed his knife with a large price, as before hee had promiled. After this, was Cowin the Binds brother accused of some conspiracie by sim be- Pril. Mal. gun against the K. wherepo he was banished the Mas. & reft. land, and fent out in an old rotten bellell without rower of Mariner, onely accompanied with one Esquire, so that beeing launelled swell from the Moze, through very dispaire Edwin lept into the Sea, and browned himfelfe, but the Eliquire that was with him recovered his body, and broughte

Tames Paier in the annales of Flanders layth.

that hee way drowned by fortune of the Seas, beepng in a finall bellell, and call by into a creeke on the coalt of Picardie, was founde by About

Earle of Bulltique that was his could ger-mayne, and bonozably burged by the same Zdolph in the Churche of Bertine: for the why the derde of pietie and dutie of mindfull conlanguini.

tie, the Lyng of Englande both partily thanked

Carle Abolph, and bestowed greate giftes bepost

the Church where his brother was thus burped.

For berily King Abelitane after bis bilblealure was alluaged, and hearing of this milerable ende Repentance of his brother, fore revented hymicife of his ris too late. cour fo extended tomardes bitm.in fo muche that Anno.925. Si. Dunelm. Polyd.

PY.Mal.

rer, to that one time as the laide cupbearer letited

he coulde never abide the man that had given the information against him, which was his cupitahim at the Cable, and came towardes him with a cuppe of wine, one of his fecte chaunced to flide, but her recovered himselfe with the help of the o= ther forte, faving, one brother pet hathe holve and fuccoured the other: whiche wordes cost him hys life: for the King remembring that by his accufation he had lost his brother that might have bin an apo to him, cauleth his laid cumbearer straight wares to be put to death.

rvil.Malms

917 Simon Dun.

H. Hunt.

thericke, late King of Porthumberland (who is alle named by Allriters to be King of the Frish= men, and of many Tlands) affembled a great po= wer of Dancs, Inflime, Scottes, and other people of the out Fles, and embarqued them in. 615. Shippes, and Crayers, with the whiche he arris ued in the mouthe of humber, and there commine on lands, beganne to innade the countrey. Thes Zulafe had married the daughter of Confantine Kong of Scottes, by whole procuremet 20 tions whiche Aulase had gathered togither. But notwithstandurg his late submission. Zulase toke in hand this journey. King Adelstane advertised of his enimics arrivall, gathered his people, and with all connenient speede hasted towards them, and approching necre buto them, pight downe his fielde at a place called by some Brimchurp, by other Beimestoed, and also Beunaubeight. reil. Malm. and by the Scottiff Wiriters Browningfielde. Tuhen knowledge hereof was had in the enimies Hec. Beerim. camp. Inlafe enterprico a maruellous exployte, 30 hereford, and there handled them in fuche forte. Pineffied. for taking with him an harve, her campe into the Aulafe disqui. Englisse campe, offering himlelfe, Disquised as a let, commech minstrell, to diewe some parte of his cunning in English camp, musicke bpon his instrument: and so being suffered to paste from Tente to Tente, and admitted also to play afore the Krng, surveyable & whole flate and order of the army. This done, he returned, meaning by a camulato to let boo y kings Tente. But one that had ferued as a Souldiour fometune under Tulafe, chanced by markyng his 40 in that Citie, as the other, he riode them quite out Denicanoz, to knowe him, and after he was gone, bettered to the King what he knowe. The Kong femed to be displeased, in that he had not told him fo mu h befoge Aulafes departure: but in ercufing himselfe, the Souldiour sapoe, per must remember if it like rour grace, that the same fayth which I haue giuen onto vou, I sometime ought buto Zulafe, therefore if I foulde haue betraved bein now, you might wel fland in boute least I fluid mirne aduice, renimue vour Cente, leaft hamily be affayle you unwares. The King did fo, and as it characed in the night following, commeth Aulafe to affayle the English Camp, and by fortune comming to the place where the Kimas Tent before stode, he found a Billioppe lodged, which with his company was come the fame day to the army, and hadde pight up his Tent in that place from whence the King was remoued : ann to was the fame Billioppe, and most parte of his men there flaine. Which flaughter executed, Anlafe valled forward, and came to the Kings Tft. who in this mean time, by reason of the Alarme railed, was gote by, and taking to him his fword in that suddayne fright, by chance it fell out of the scabbard, so that he could not finde it, but calling to God and S. Aloelme, as faith Polichzon. hig Ran. Higd. In this meane while, Aulase the sonne of Si= 10 fword was reflored to the scabbard againc. The King comforted with that unracle, vololy preaffed forth boon his enimies, and so valiaunth refisted them, that in the ende he put them to flight. and chased them all that morning and day following, to that hee flewe of them an huge number. Some haue weitten, that Conuanime Aying ve Scottes was flagne at this ouerthzowe, and fine The enimies Some haue weitten, that Constantine Kyng of other small Kyngs of Rulers, with. 12. Dukes, discomfied, and welneere all the army of those straungenathe Scottiff Chronicles affirme, that Conffantine was not there himself, but sent his son Walcolme, which pet escaped soze hurt and wounded from this battell, as in the same Chronicles pee may fee more at large.

Bolhen Kyng Abellfane had thus banquiffed Ran. Hird. his enimies in the Porth parties of England, he went against them of Porthwales, whose Rulers and Princes he caused to come before him at that they concumunted with him to pay yearely in name of a Tribute twentie pounde of golde, Tribute. three hundred pounde of filuer, and five and the= tic hundjed head of Meate, with Pawkes and Houndes to a certarne number.

After this, hee subdued also the Coznishmen: and whereas till those dayes they inhabited the The Comission Citie of Ereter, mingled amongst the Englith= mea lubdned men, so that the one nation was as strong withof the lame, and repaired the walles, and fortified Execut repaired than with ditches and turrets as the maner then was, and so remoned the Cornishmen further into the Well partes of the countrey, that hee made Canier water to be the confines betweene the Englishmen and them.

Finally, this noble Prince King Avellane. departed out of this world, the fire and twety day Simon Dun. of Ditober, after he hadde raigned the tearme of K. Atheliane. herreafter do the like to you: but if you wil follow so firteene peres. His body was buried at Malmelburp. He was offtature fuch, as exceeded not the The deferipcommon fort of me, and stowned somewhat, pels tion of Kyng low heared, for his valiancie iogned with curtes fer beloued of al men, pet Marp against Rebels, $ of invincible constancie: lus greate denotion toward o Church appeared in o building, adoining and endewing of Monasteries and Thbeyes. De builte one at Wilton within the vincesse of Bakibury.

Salibury, and an other at Wichelney in Sommerketiline. But besides thefe foundations, there wert fem famous Monasteries within this land, but that hee avogued the same eyther with some new peece of buyiding, Jewels, bokes, or portion oflands. Lechad in exceeding fauour Wolftane Archistop of Pocke that lived in his dayes, for whole take he greatly enriched that Biffiopzicke. Almatica fais faine fpred ouer all the parties of Europa, fo that fundry Princes thought themselves happy to if they might have his friendship, cyther by affinitie of otherwise : by meanes whereof, he besto= med his lifters to highly in marriage as before pe hanc heard. Hee recepued many noble and riche preuntsfrom diners Princes, as from Hugh K. of fraunce Hogles, and lundy riche Tewels. with certaine reliques: as Constantines sworde. in the hilte whereof was let one of the navles inherespith Christ was fastned to y Crosse. The Spears of Charles the great, which was thought 20 to be the same with whiche the side of our Sautour was pearced. The banner of Saint Maurice, with a part of the holy Crosse, and likewise a part of the thorned Crowne: pet Bandenile fawe the one halfe of this Crowne in Fraunce, and the o= ther at Constantinople, almost. 400. yeares after this time, as he writeth.

> Of these Icwels, K. Avellane gaue parte to the Ibber of S. Swithune at Winchester, and part to the Abbey of Walmesbury. Mozeoner, the 30 to governe the Pozthumbers. King of Norway lent buto him a goodly Hip of fine workmanshippe, with sterne gilt and purple faples, furnished roundeabout the occke withinfurth, with a rowe of ailte naviles.

In the dayes of this Adelstane, raigned that worthy Guy Earle of Marwike, who as some writers have recorted, fought with a mighty Giaunt of the Danes in a fingular combate, and raid balliupusu Edmonde.

Edmod A fiter that Avellanc was departed this lyfe, without leaning issue behind to succeede hyng in the Kingdome, his brother Comond, sonne of Coward the clar, borne of his last wife Edgine, twice open him the gouernment of this land, and beganne his raigne in the yere of our Lozd. 940, which was in the fifth pere of the Emperour D= simon Duntho the first, in the.w. of Lewis, surnamed transmarinus, K. of France, and about the 38, yeare of Collantine & third R. of Scotland. The Dancs of Porthumberlav rebelled against this Comod. and ordeputed Aulase to bee their K. whome they had called out of Ircland. Some write, that thys Aulase which now in the beginning of king Edmonds raigne, came into Porthumberland, was King of Polwey, and having a greate power of men with him, hee marched fortherowardes the South parties of this lande, in purpole to suboue the whole: but B. Edmonde rayled a mighty ar= mp, and encoutred with his enimies at Lecefter. But ere the matter came to the bettermost triall of Mars his judgement, through the earnest sute of the Archbillion of Canterbury and Porke, Doo & A peace con-Miolitan, a peace was concluded, so as Edmond cluded. Mould emoy all that part of the land which lieth from Watling freete Southwarde, and Julafe Moulde eniop the other parte as it lieth from the lame frecte Portiward. Then Anlafe toke to wife the Lady Alditha, daughter to Earle D2= mus, by whose cousell and assistance he had thus obterned the opper hande. But this Aulafe in the pere foldwing, after he had destroyed the Church Math. Preft. of Saint Balter, and beenned Tynningham, bee Aulafe dedeparted this life. Then the other Julafe that Coaffeth. was fonne to Byng Sithticke, toke bppon bym lafe taketh vp-After this, in the yere. 942. Bing Epmond affembling an army , firfte, fuboued thofe Danes which had gote into their possession the Eities and Cownes of Lincolne, Leceller, Perby, Stafford and Potingham, confireyming them to recepue the Christian farth, and reduced all the countreis curn buto Dumber buder bis Cubication. Thys done, Julafe and Beignold the sonne of Gurmo, the which as you have heard, subdued Potke, for Gurmo or Godfrey. 40 meane p foner to obteyn prace, offered to become pril. Malm. Christians, and to submit themselves buto him: wherebpon he recepued them to his peace. There be that write, that this Julafe is not that Anlafe whiche was some to King Sithzicke, but rather that the other was bee with whome Kong Comond made partition of the Bealme: but thep agree, that this feconde Aulafe was a Dang alfo. and bring converted to the faith as well through constrainte of the Kyngs puillance, as through so the Preaching of the Golpell, was Bautifed. Kyng Edmonde beeyng Godfather both to kim, and to the forelapde Reignolde: to Aulafe at the fontstone, and to Reignolde at his confirmes tion at the Bishoppes handes. But their wice ked natures coulde not rest in quiet, so that they brake bothe promife to BDD, and to thepa prince, and were therefore in the peare nexte following divuen bothe out of the country, simon Dun.

Aulase allayleth the Eng-Lift campe.

p.ij.

and

of South-Wales ayded K Edmonde in this enterprisc. 946

and punished by perpetuall exile. Ind fo B. Edmond adjoyned Porthumberlande without admitting any other immediate governoz buto his Leolin Kyog omn effate. Mozeouer, he walted & spoiled whole Cumberland, by caule he could not reduce p pco= ple of that countrey buto due obeylance, and co= formable subiection. The two connes of Dun= maile k. of that province, hee apprehended, and caused their eyes to be put out. And herewith bp= pon consideration exther of luche ayoc as he had to where a common robber was placed necre buto received of $ Scottes at that time, or some other friendly respect, he assigned the saide countrey of Cumberlande unto Malcolnie &. of Scottes, to hold the same by fealtie of him and his successors. The Scottille Chronicles pernerting the tyme and order of the after and doings of the Englishe kings whiche raigned about this feason, aftirme, that by conenauntes of peace concluded betwirte Malcolme King of Scotlande, and Avelftane King of England, it was agreed, that Cumber- 20 lande Coulde remayne to the Scottes, as in their Chronicles you may finde at full expecsed. Ind again, that Indulfe who succeeded Malcoluic in the Kingdome of Scotlano, apoed 法. Comonde against Avlate whome & fame Chronicles name Analaffus, but the time which they attribute vn= to the raignes of their Kings, will not allow the fame to ffand. For by accompt of their writers. King Malcoline began not his raigne till after the decesse of King Avelstane, who departed thys 30 life in the perc. 940. And Malcolme fuccered Costantine the third in the pere. 944. Which was as bout the third peare of Kyng Comonds raigne, and after Malcoline that raigned. rv. yeares luccreded Andulfe in the years. 259. The like discordance precedeth and followeth in their writers, as to the viligent Reader in conferring their Chronicles to ours, it manifellly appeareth. We therefore (to latisfie the delirous to buderstande & part in their Chronicles left the same as we have found it.

Polider. But now to the other doings of K. Edmond: The lawes of it is recorded, that her opterned dinerle good and K.Edmonde. wholesome lawes very profitable and necessary for the common wealth, whiche lawes with dy=

uerse other of like antiquitie are forgot and blot= ted out by rult of time, the confumer of thynges worthy of log remembrance, as fayth Polidore: the moze part, and by mafter William Lambert turned into Latyne, were impunted by John Day in the peace, 1568, as befoze I have

Finally this Prince B. Comond, after he had Fine veres and fenco raigned fire veres and a halfe, be came to his end monethes by areas milfortune, for as some fan, it chanced, hath Si. Dun. that elyping where one of his fernauntes was in baunger to bee Clapne amongst his enimies that were about him with drawen twords, as he ftenned in to have holpen his fervante, he was flavne at a place called Pulcher Church, of as other hane Pridecine Michellbourgh. Dther lay, that keeping a great hath Si. Dua. feast at the afozesayde place on the day of Saint Wel. Main.

Augustine the English Apostle (which is the .26. of May, and as that yeare came about, it fell on 946 the tewsoap) as hee was set at the table, he esimed him, whome sometime be had banished the land, and now being returned without licence, he viefumed to come into the kings prefence, wher with the King was so moved with high dispaine, that he suppaymely rose from the table, and sich bron the Theefe, and catching him by the heare of the head, threwe him under his feete, wherewith the theefe having fast bolde on the King, broughte him bowne boyon him also, and with his knote stroke him into the belly in suche wife, that the Kings bowels fell out of his cheft, and there me= fently dyed: the theefe was hewen in perces, by the Kings scruauntes, but pet he flewe and hart Diners befozether coulde dispatch him. Thes chance mas lamentable, namely to the Englishe people, whiche by the oucrtimely deathe of they? King, in whome appeared many cuident tokens of great excellencie, loll the hope whiche they hav conccined of great wealth to encrease by his prus bent and most princely governemente. His body was buried at Blaftenbury where Dunftan was then Abbot. There be that write, that the death of King Comonde was lignified aforchande to Dunsfanc, who about the same time attendyng bopon the fame Byng, as hee remoued from one Caperane. place to an other, chanced to accompany hyme felfe with a noble man, one Duke Elftane, and Avayee as they rode togither, beholde suddaynely Dun- cale. stane same in the way before hom where the fee the diuerlitie of writers .) have for the more 40 Kings Bulitions rode, the Deuill running and leaving amongst the same Musitions after areioycing manner, whome after hee had behelde a god while, he said to the Duke, is it possible that you may fee that whiche I do fee, and the Duke aunswered he lawe nothing otherwise than hee ought to fee. Then faide Dunftane, bleffe poure eyes with the ligne of the croffe, and tric whether bringeh by you can fee that I fee. Ind when hee habbe bone of the Deuil as Dunftane appoprited hpin, her faine alfothe and crofing but fithence his time they have bin reconcred for 50 Fende in likenelle of a little Mort enill fanoured away. Ethyopian vaunling and leaping, whereby they gathered that some cuil happe was towardes forme of the company. But when they hav' crois fed and blelled them, the foule Spirit vanished out of their light. And after they had talked of this bilion, and made an end of their talke tous Denken as ching the fame, p Duke required of Dunftane to interpretor interpret a dreame which he had of late in fleepe, de diesem.

and that was this the thought that he sawe in vifrom the King with all his Pobles fit in hys di= ning thamber at incate, and as they were therewith making merry togither, the K. chanced to fall into a dead deepe, and all the Doble men, and those of his counsell that were aboute him were changed into Robuckes and Boates. Duftan quickly declared, that this decame signified the Kings deathe, and the chaunging of the Pobles the Princes and governours of the Realm Could decline from the way of truth, and wander as fo= lift beaffes, without a gaive to rule them. Also the nighte after this talke when the King was let to hipper. Dunstan sawe the same sprite or some other walke up and downe amongst them that warted on the table, within three days after the K.was flayne, as befoze pe haue heard.

Edredus or Edred.

EDzedus ģ Edmod & son to Edwarde b elder, and to Edgine hys last wife, bega his raigne ouer the Realme of peare of oure

Lozd.946.02 as Harrison saith. 997. which was in the twelfth years of the Emperoure Dtho the firste, and in the. 21. yeare of the raigne of Lewis King of Fraunce, and about the thirde of fourth pere of Malcoline the firste of that name King of Scotland. Dee was Crowned and anointed the 16. day of August by Doo the Archbissoppe of Canterbury at Kingston boon Thames. In the H. Hunton. first years of his raigne, the Porthumbers rebel = The Northuinto dumb and infensible beastes, betokened, that 10 led against him, wherebypon hee rayled an army, and are subinuaded their countrey, and subdued them by dued. force. This done, he wente forwarde into Scot= lande: but the Scots without Merving any resi= stance, submitted theselues buto him, and so both Scottes and Porthübers recepued an oth to bee true buto him, whiche they observed but a small while, for he was no soner returned into $ South partes, but that Aulase which had bin chased out ned into Norof the countrey by K. Comond as befoze ye have thumberland. 20 heard, returned into Pozthumberlande with a great nauie of Ships, and was joyfully recepued of the inhabitants, and restored agains to $ kings donie, which he held by the space of four yeres, and then by the accustomed disloyaltic of the Poz= thumbers, hee was by them expulled, and there they let by one Byzke, oz heritius the some of Hirk or Herione Harrolde to raigne ouer them, who helde not cius. y cleate any long time. Foz in y third yeere of his raigne, Coredus in y reuege of fuch olloyal dea= VVil. Malm. Englav in the 30 lings in the Porthumbers, dellroyed the whole altie of the countrey with fire and twozd, fleaping the most Northumbers punished.

parte of the inhabitants.

the hiente the Abbey of Rippon, whiche was kept against him. As he was returning homeward, an host of enimics brake out of Porke, and letting bpon the rereward of the kings army at a place called Callerforde, made great Aughter in the same. Cotherefore the King in his rage, mente to have begun a new spoyle and destruction, but the Porthumbers humbled themselves so buto him, that putting away their foresaide K. Hirke. or Pericius, and offering great rewards and gifts to buy their peace, they observed pardon. But by cause that Wolfan the Archbillion of Pozke was of counsell with his countrepmen in reuolting from K. Edzedus, and advanting of Deris The Archbi-cius. K. Edzedus toke him and kept him in trifon imprisoned. a long

Edredus departeth thys

Danftan io fauor.

> But Was not this a deuise teyne the greafure, for I do not reade red it out of his hands. An Angell or as tome think Ingell, as befoge pe haue heard. a worle crea-

MIC.

along time after, but at length in respect of the renerence which he bare to his calling, he let hom at libertle, and pardoned him his offence. Math. Mat. rveft. Welt. reciteth an other caule of Wolftanes imphisonment, as thus. In the yere of grace saith he 251. King Edgede put the Archbiffon of Porke in close prison, by cause of often complayates ex= hibited against him, as he which had commaunbed many Townclinen of Theadford to bee put to death, in revenue of the Abbot Aldeline, by the 10 bniustly flagne and murthered. After this, when Edzedus had appealed all civill tumultes & difwil. Malm. fentions within his land, he applyed himselfe to the aduancing of Religion, wholly following the mind of Dunstane, by whose exhattation he suffered patiently many tozmentes of the body, and exercised himselse in prayer and other beuoute fluvies. Finally, after he hat raigned nine peares and a halfe, he departed this life to the great greeuance of menne, and reiopeing of Angels, as it is 20 written, and was buried at Winchester in the Cathedral Church there. Here is to be noted, that the foresaide Edrede when hee came firste to the Crowne, byon a fingular and most especiall fa= uour whiche hee bare towards Dunst an the Abbot of Flastenbury, he committed to him the che= fest part of all the threasure, as charters of landes with other monuments, and such antient prince= ly icwels as belonged to the former Kings, with other luch as he gote of his owne, willing hpm to 30 luch thamefull abuling of his body, but also caulay the same in safekeeping within his Monaste= rie of Classebury. Afterward when King Edged percepued himselfe to be in dannger of deathe by force of that licknesse which in deede made an end of his life, he fent into all parties to fuch as had as no of his treasure in keeping, to bring the same bnto him with all sprede, that hee mighte dispose thereof befoze his departure out of this life, as bee floulo fce caufe. Dunftane toke fuche thrings as be had biver his handes, and halted forwarde to 40 deliver the same buto the King, and to visit hom in that tyme of hys sicknesse according to hys ducticibut as he was bud y way, a voice wake to him fro Beauch, faring behold R. Eored is now chereby to de- departed in peace. Et the hearing of this bopce, the trogle whereon Dunftane robe fell bowne & Died. being not able to abide the presence of the Angell that he delive- that thus fpake to Dunftane. Ind when he came to the Court, he bnderstwoe that the King dped

> This Edwarde in his latter dapes beerna areatly addicted to denotio and religious priefis. at the request of hys mother Cogina restored the Abbey of Ibingoon which was built firfte by &. Inas, but in thefe dayes lote decayed and fallen into ruine.

Edwin.

After the de- Edwin decous, his De= phewe Cowin the eldest sonne of Kyna Edmod was mate King of Eng= land, and began his raigne ouer the same in the peare of our L. 955, and in the .20, peare of the Emperour Dtho the firste, in the. 28, and last yeare of the raione of Lewis King of France, and about the timelith pere of Malcolnic the first of that name King of Scotland. He was facred at Kingston bypon Thames by Doo the Archbillion of Canterbury. The same day of his Coronation, as the Lordes mere fet in counfell about weighty matters touching the gouernemente of the Realme, beerofe from the place, gate him into a chamber with one pril me of his neere kinkwomen, and there had to do with Pelider, hir without respect of any regard had to his ropall effate and princely dignitie. Dunstane lately beforenamed Abbot of Blastenbury, did not onely without feare of displeasure reprove the king for sed the Archbillion of Canterbury to constrepne him to forgot & company of that woman whom bulawfully hee kept as his wife. There be that tohn Cop. waite, that there were two women both mother and daughter, whome B. Edwin kept as concubines : for the mother beeing of noble parentage, fought to fatiffic the Kings luft, in hope that epther hee woulde take bir, og bir baughter to wik. And therefore perceyuing that Dustane was fore against suche wanton pastime as the Bing bled in their company, fo wzought, that Duftan was Duntanch through hir carnell trauel bauished the land. Ind nished the this is also reported, that when he should departe the Realme, the Deuill was hearde in the Well end of the Church, taking by a great laughter after his rozing manner, as though he Mould Wein binifelse glad and joyfull of Dunstanes gorng into erile. But Dunstane percepuing his behauis Dunflace our, spake to him, and sayd: well thou aductsarie, feeth pot the the same houre in whiche it was tolde him by the 50 bo not so greatly recopee at the matter, soz thou Deaill. verif not now fo much rejoyce at my beparture, but by Gods grace thou fhalt be as forowfull fot Dunftancie iny retuine. Chus was Dunffane benished by parted into K. Edwine, fo that he was compelled to palle 0= exile. ner into Klaunders , where bee remayned to: tyme within a Monasterie at Gaunt , finding muche friendshippe at the handes of the gourts noure of that countrey. Also the more to weaks his weath, the King spoyled many Reli= gious boules of their gedes, and drove out the Moke Sonkes, placing fecular Prieffs in their romes, that liveds as namely at Malmelbury, where yet the house The comes was not empayzed, but rather enriched in landes and omamentes by the kings liberalitie and the inpullrious meanes of the fame Prictles why che toke by the bones of Saint Alderime, and put the fame in a flyine. At length, the inhabitantes of b Moemon middle parte of England, even from Humberto 10 Kederd. Chames rebelled anaims - 10brother Edgar to have the governmente over them where with King Edwine toke such griefe for that he law no meane at hand how to remedo the matter, that shortly after when he had raig= ned somewhat moze than four peres, he departed this life. His body was buried at Wlinchester in the new Abber there.

Edgar.

Esconde fon of Edmonde late Kyng of Englande, af= ter the decease of hys cloer brother & fores land Edwin, raigne ouer

The Historie of Englande.

this Realme of England in the yere of our Lord God. 259. in the. 22. yeare of the Emperour Dtho the first, in the fourth pere of the raigne of Lotha= rius B. of France. 510. almost ended after the coming of the Sarous. 124. after the arrivall of the Danes, and in the last peare of Malcoime K. of Scotlad. He was Crowned and facred at Bath, Or as some say, at Kingsto vpo Thance, by De not past. 16. percs of age, when hee was thus admitted k. Here was no teffe endowed with com= mendable giftes of mind, than with firength and Lent fino force of body. He was a great fauozer of Monks, wo Monks and cipecially hee had Duntane in high estimas tion. Thour all things in this world he regarded peace, and studged dayly howe to preserve the fame, to the commoditic and advancement of his subjects. And when he had established thrngs in to him belt for the peaceable governement of hys labicites, he prepared a great naute of Shippes, and devioling them in three partes, hee appoynted fuery part to a quarter of the Realm, to waste a= the could bout the could, that no fozaine enimie foulde approch the lad, but that they might bee encountred and put backe before they could take land. And e= very peace after Caller, he bled to give ozoer, that places. Indithen would be with the East natie. faile to the Wieft parties of his Realme, wien's ding those Ships backe, he would with the Well name laple into the Porth partes, and with the Porth nauie came backe agains into the Caft. This cultonic he vled, that her mighte frome the Seas of all Pirates and Threues. In the Winter featon and wring time, he would rive through the provinces of his Realme, fearthing out home the Judges and greate Lordes demeaned them= selves in the administration of Justice, Marply punishing those that were found faulty of error= tion, or had done otherwise in any points than dutie required. In all things he vied fache politike discretion, that neither was he put in dannger by treason of his subients, not molested by for VVil. Malmi rapue enimics. He caused divers Kings to binde theinselves by oth, to bee true and faithfull buto 20 him, as Kinadius of rather Indusking of Scots land, Malcolme K. of Cumberland, Malcutius Malculus an Archpirate as we may call him a Maller Rouct, and also all the Kings of the Wielchmen, as Kings of Welchmen. Duffuall, Gyffrith, Huball, Jacob, and Jubit- Geff rib Huhill, all which came to his court, and by their so val as some lemne other recepued, fweare to bee at his com- copieshaue. mandement: and further for more manifell tellis monie thereof, he having them with him at Chr. fler, caused them to enter into a Barge boon the beganne bys 30 water of Dee, and placing himfelfe in the fore- King Edgar part of the Barge at the heline, caused those right roweth on the high Princes to rowe the Barge op and downe water of Dee. h water, the wing therby his princely prerogatine and royall magnificence, in that he might vie the feruice of lo many kings that were his subicites. And therebyon he faid (as both bin reported) that then mighte his fuccessors accompte themselves kings of England, when they enioped luche pretogative of high & supreme honoz. The fame of do the Archbishop of Eanterbury, being as, then 40 this noble Prince was spreade ouer al, as well on this fide the Sea, as beyod, in to much that areat refort of Araungers chanced in his dayes, whyche came ever into this land to ferue him, & to fee the state of his Court, as Sarons 4 other, year offo. Danes, whiche became bery familiar with lipin. he favored in decde the Danes (as hath bin fayd) King Edgar more than flow with & compositie of his subities, favoreth for binneth was anye Arcete in Englande, but Danes. Dance had their dwelling in o same anionall of amd quiet, and let an ogder in matters as feemed 50 Englishme, wherby came great harme: foz wher as the Danes by nature were great dinkers, the English lear-Englishmen by cotinuals connectation with the ned to quife fearned the fame vice. King Evgar to reforme in alike Dance. part such excessive quatting as the bega to grow in ble, cauled by h procuremet of Dultane, halles vvil. Mal. to be let in cups of a certaine measure, matked for his Ships grounde assemble to wither in there out

Agned by fuch mealited tips, Englichmen allo p.iii.

p purpole, p none finto brinke more that was als

micate

In diligent

Englishmen lairne other vices of Itrad gers.

Icarned of the Saxos, flemings, and other firagers, their peculier kind of vices, as of the Saros a disorded siercenesse of mind, of the Flemings a feeble-tendernelle of body, where before, they reioneco in their own simplicitie, and esteemed not the lewde and unprofitable maners of ftrangers.

Durstans preterrement.

Ethelwolde mi te bishop of VVinihe.

Oswalde.

Floriacum.

fict.

Dunstane was made Billioppe of Colorceter, & minustration of the 氢ce of 孔o= don committed buto him . De was in such fa= nor with b K. that hee ruled most things at his pleasure. E= Althelwold which 20 beeyng fieste a wife made Billiop of Winchester, and might doe very much with the K. Also Oswalde which had bin a Monke in the Abbey of Flory in Fraunce, & after was made Billion of Wolceter, and from thence remoued to the Dee of Porke, was highly in favour with this King, so that by these three much in peate Perlates he was most councelled. Juffice in hys or Ergar, who daves was firaightly observed, for although hee were courteous and gentle towards his friendes. fuch estimated per was he sharp and hard to offenders, so that no person of what estate of degree so ever he was, escaped worthy punishment if he did transarise the larges and ordinances of the Realme. Ther was no pring theefe nor common robber that burst lay hands of other mens gods but that he might loic to make amendes with loffe of his lyfe if hee that did offend, thinke to escape his hands, whych denifith mayes howe to ridde the countrey of all wilderauching beaffes, that lined oppon fucking the blond of others? For as it is faid, he appointed Andweall or Undweal B. of Idlales, to presente hun with three hundred deloulfes verely in name of a tribute, but after three yeares space, there was stenbury, and after Ibbot of Ibington, was like-

Monke of Gla=

A tribute in fituted of Welteskins.

O-borne an 1 Cap grauehold that she was nor his wyle, but a Nunne. VV.Mal.

Organ.

fed in the fourth vere alter it began to be paved. Corare, as foine fane, og rather as other write. his cenculone. Tred. of tulianche had begote a fon named Edmurd. The death of this woman oca calience the Kito committe an hernous offence. for albeit the fame time, the fame wet, that box= gerius Duke of Comemal, or rather Denonshire had a daughter named Hired, a Damofell of ercellent beautie, whoing Cogar minding to haue not a celoffe to be found, and so that tribute ceaf=

in marriage, appointed one of his noble men called Earle Ethelwolde, to coe with al weede into Cornewall or Denonshire, to fee if the pong Las dyes beautic aunswered the report that wente of hir, then hee to breake the matter to hir father in his behalfe. Ethelwold being a vong jolly Gentleman, toke his journey into Corniwall. com= ming to y Duke, was well receiuco, thad a fight Erle Ethelof his daughter, w whose beautie he was straight ted the king had also the ad= 10 ranished to farre in love, that not regarding the of his wyit. kinas pleasure which had fent him thither, he bega to purchase the god will of both father a daughter for himselfe, and did so much, that he obterned the same indeede. Heerebpon returning to the K. her enformed him that the Damolell was not of fuch beautic and comely personage as mighte bee thought worthy to matche in marriage with hys Waiestie. And Mostly after percepuing the kyngs mind by his wrongfull milreport to be turned, & nothing bent that way, he began to fue to hym b hee mighte with his favour marry the same Da= molell: which the K.graunted, as one that cared not for hir, bicause of the credite whiche he gaue to Ethelwolds words. And so by this means E= thelwold obteined Alfrid in marriage, which was to his owne destruction, as the case fell out. Foz whethe fame of hir passing beautic did spred ouer all o Realme now that the was married & came nicze abzoate in light of the prople, the Ik. chan-30 ced to heare therof, and delirous to fee hir, Deviled bnder colour of hunting to come bnto the boule of Ethelwolde, and so did: Where he had no so= ner let his ere upon hir, but he was to farre weapped in p chaine of burning concupifcence, that to obteine his purpose, he shortly after contriued &= King Edgu thelwolds death, & married his wife. Some fay, deftruction that the woman kindled the trand of purpole: for earle Eindwhere it was knowen, that the K. would fee hir. wold. Ethelwold willed hir in no wife to trimme by hit were knowen to be giltie. Hog howe myghte men 40 felfe, but rather to villigure hir in foule garmets, a some enill fauozed attire, that hir native beautie Could not appeare, but thee perceiving howe the matter went, of spight let forthe bir lelfe to bte termost, so that & K. vyon the first sight of hir became to farre enamozed of hir beautie, that taking hir hulbande fouthe with him on hunting into a forrest or wood called then dilerlewood, and after King Edgara Hosewoo, not theining that her meante hom murtherer. any hurt, till at length hee had gote him within p In this means time, Aliced the wife of Kong 50 thicke of the wode, where hee subdaynely ftroke him through with his parte, and as his balkarde fon came to place, the Ik. after him how helis ked p maner of hunting, wherebnto he answered, very wel if it like pour grace, for p that liketh pour ought not to displease me: w which answer & B. was to pacified. he indenozed by pretending his fauor towards the forme to allemate the treatmis call murder of the father. Then did the Kimarry the Counteffe Alfred, a of hir begat two fons, Ed= mond which died yog, 4 Etheldzed oz Egelthzed.

Besides this cruell ace wrought by king Ed: gar for the fatilizing of his fleshly luit, hee also planed another part greatly to the stayne of hys honour, moused also by wanton love, with a pong Damiel named Wilfrid, for after p fle had . (to anorde the dannger of him) epther professed hir felfe a Punne, og elle fog a colour (as the most and clad hir in Punnes weede, he toke hir forth of hir Cloyster, and lay by hir sundzie tymes, and hegat on hir a daughter named Edith, who com= ming to convenient age, was made a Punne.

literali inestischeie.

In Ried.

A thirde example of his incontinencie, is written by Authours, and that is this. It chaunced on a time that he lodged one night at Andaner. and having a minde to a Lordes daughter there. he commaunded that the should be brought to his not that hir daughter Moulde be defloured: and therefore in the darke of the night, brought one of hir mayo feruants, and lay de hir in the kings bed, the being both fapze, proper and pleasant. In the moining when the day beganne to appeare, fice made halte to arise: and being asked of the king why the to halted, that I may goe to my dayes worke (if it please your grace) quoth the. Herewith the being staped by the king, as it were against hir of him that the might be made free, in guerdon of hir nights worke. Hoz (fayth the) it is not for your honour, that the woman whiche hath tasted the pleasure of the kings bodie should any more suf= fer servitude under the rule and appopulment of a Charpe and rough mistres.

The King then being moued in his fpirites, laughed at the matter, though not from the heart, (as he that twke great indignation at the boings wenche. But yet in finecturning the matter to a bourd) he pardoned all the parties, and aduaunced the wenche to high honour; farre aboue those that had rule of hir afoze: so that thee ruled them (willed they nilled they) for he bled hir as his par= amour, till time 'p he marged the foresaid Alfrede. For these youthfull partes, and namely for the rauisling of Wilfrida (which though the were no Dunne pet the offence feemed right haynous, dowed under that habite, hee greatly displeased Dunstan, so that by him bee was put to hys bij. reares penance, and kept from the crowne till the, ris. yeare of his raigne or more. For some consider of write that her was not crowned nor annoyneed king, till the .xxx. yeare of his age, which floulde be about the .riif. 02. riiif. peare of his raigne, by that account, lithe hee entred into the rule of the kingdome about the . rbi . reare of his age.

In occde one Authour witnesseth, that he was facred at Bathe on a Whitfunday, the riij. yeare of his raigne, and that by Dunstan Archbistop of Hen. Hunt. Canterburie, and Dewolde Archbilhop of Pothe. Ran. Higd. But some which suppose that he was facred king immediately boon the death of Edzidus, affyzme that he was crowned and annointed by the Arch- Polidor. billiop Doo, Dunstan as then remayning in expart of wepters agree) got hir felfe into a Punrie, to ile, from whence he was immediately renoked by Edgar, and first made Billion of Wogceter (as hath beene lapde) and after the deceasse of Doo was aduaunced to be Archbiffion of Canterburie. Mat. Preft. But by some writers it appeareth, that Dunstan simon Dun. was revoked out of exile immediately byon the partition of the Realme betwirte Edwyn and Edgar, which chaunced in the yeare.957, by the rebellion of the people of Mercia, and others (as befoze ye have heard.) And that in the yeare folbed, but the mother of the Bentlewoman woulde 20 lowing the Archbistop Doo died, After whome fucceeded Alfin billiop of Winchelter, the whiche also died the same years that Ik. Edwin deceased, as he went to fetch his Pal from Rome, and then Bzighthelnie Bissop of Dozehester was cleded Archbishop. But by cause he was not sufficient to discharge so great an office, by king Edgars commaundement her was constrayned to give place to Dunstan.

Toward the latter end of king Edgars Dapes; Fabian. will, thee fell downe on hir knees, and requyzed zo the Welchmen moued some rebellion agaynste Ran. Hied. him. Wherebpon he affembled an armie, and en= The Wich tring the Countrey of Blamozgan, Did muche men rebell and hurt in the same, chastising the inhabitants right are chastised. Marpely for they revellious attempts.

Amongst other spoyles taken in those parties at that time by the men of warre, the Bell of S. Ellutus was taken away, and hanged aboute a horles necke, and (as hath becne revorted) in the after none, it chaunced that king Edgar labbe of the Duchelle) and pitied the cale of the pore 40 him downe to rell , wherebyon in Acepe there appeared one unto him, and smote him on the breast with a Speare. By reason of which vision hee caused all things that had beene taken away, to be restozed againe. But within, ir. dayes after the king dred.

Wilhether any such thing chaunced, or that he Pvil. Malm. had any such vision, it sozeth not. But truth it is H. Hune. that in the exercise years of his age, after her had departed this raigned.rbj.yeares and two Monethes he depar-lite. for that he Moulde once touche any woman tha = 50 fed this life, the biij. daye of July, and was buried at Blastenburie.

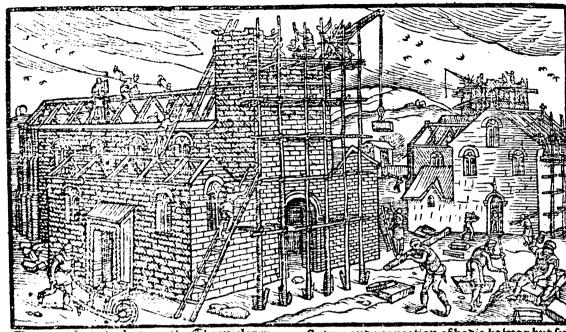

This Ergar is highly renowmed of writers for such princely qualities as appeared in him, but chiefly for that her was so beneficiall to the Thurch, namely to Monkes, the advanneement of whom he greatly fought, both in buylving Ab= Wherefore bapes newe from the grounde, in reparing those Edgar is praythat were decayed sallo by enriching them with writers.

great

p.b.

great revenues, and in connexting Collegiate Churches into Monasteries, remouing fecular Diells, and bringing in Monks in their places. There passed no one peace of his raigne, wherein te founded not one Abbar or other. The Abbar of Clattenburie which his father had begon be fini= flicd. The Abbay of Abington also he accompliflich and let in awd order. The Abbapes of 19e= terborough and Thorney hee established. The Quarie of Millton be founded & richly endowed. mhere his daughter Editha was professed, and at length became Abbatelle there.

Fabian. Ran. Higd. Hen.Huns.

H. Hunt.

Mat.Wrest.

Ran.Higd. 11.6.cap.9.

flature and proportion of bodie be was but smal & pril, Mal. Co be bucfe, he builded (as the Chronicles recorde) to the number of. xl. Ibbayes and Monasteries, in some of which he placed Monks, and in fome Quancs. By his crample in those his dayes, other noble men, as well Pzelates as of 30 only doubting this, least he which Gould have to Edgar smalls the Laitie, did begin the fondation of fundzie Abbars and Monasteries: as Toelwolde Billop of Colinchester buploed the Ibbay of Ely, and as reil. Malm. foine far Peterbourgh, & Thorney, though they were established by the king (as befoze is mentioned. Also Earle Apleivin at the exhoptation of the fame Bishop Avelwold, builded the Abbay of Ranifey, though some attribute the boing thereof onto Ofwold the Archbillion of Pozke, and some to king Edward the elder. But to conclude, the 40 Edgar with greate reproche, bee diffembled the religious oxocrs of Wonkes & Punnes in theke Minkeredge Dayes flogiffed, a the flate of fecular Priefts was mid mi fecu- finally regarded, infomuch that they were conliepuetts liele ffragned to anophout of dineric Colledges, and regarded. Icane the fame onto Monks, as at Worceter and Celinchester, where in the new Monasterie, brcause the press such not in such fort as was the thought requilite, the prevends were taken from them and quien to becars. But when the vicars incre thought to vie theselves no better, but rather 50 came to the place where the swordes were lapte: morfe that the other before the, they were likewife put out, a Monkes placed in their rames by authoute of Dope John the mij. Ind this reformation, or rather deformatio was vied by in. Edgar in many other places of the realm. He was as onpeareth by writers namely in his beginning een: al against his own people, and wanton in failing after your women (as you have beard beloge.) Of made abrode. The Scottill king beremith bring low but pet had nature enclosed within so little a Ran. Hied. personage such strength, that he durit encounter & The Eliet. combat with him that was thought most strong. Do with him flould fland in feare of him. And as flature but frong and it chanced at a great feast where ofentymes men hardie. pse their tongues more liberally than needeth.) the king of Scottes Kinadius caft out certaine Kenneth kin wordes in this maner: It may (layeth he) feeme of Scottes a maruel that fo many Countreys and provinces Mould bee subject to suche a little silly bodie as Edgar is. These wordes being borne away by a icaster or Minstrell, and afterwardes betered to matterfoza tyme, althoughe hee kept the remembraunce thereof inclosed within his break: and byon occasion, at length he faigned to goe on hunting, taking the king of Scots forth with bim: and having caused one of his servaunts to conner two fwozdes into a place within the fois rest by him appoputed in secrete wife, of purpose he withoze'w from the resione of his companie, there accompanied onely with the Scottill king, And there taking the one of them, delivered the Or The roblece there to the Scottill king, willing him now to all rage of king lay his strength that they might she'm by pronte Edgar. whether of them ought to be subject to the other: flart not away but trie it with me (laith he) for it is a fliame for a king to be ful of brags at bankets and not to be ready to fight tohen trialifionid beaffonice and marticfloudy abathed, fell downe at his feete, and with much humilitic confessed bys fault, t deficed pardo for the fame, which bpo fuch bis hunible fabmittion &. Edgar cality granted.

This noble prince had two wines, Egelfrida, ci Cifrida, furnamed the white, the Daughtet of a mightic buke named Dadmer, by whome be bad iffite a fonne named Edward that fucceeded bint. Disseconde wife hight Alfreda the daughter of hane by whom he had ifue Edmod that died beforchis father, and Egelthied which afterwardes mas king. Also he had illue a daughter tramed &. pitha begotten base of his concubine Wilfrid (as before pe haue heard.) The flate of the realme in king Ergars dayes was in good poput: for both the earth gaue hir encreale very pletcoully: the Elaments flewed themselues vety favourable, ac= cording to the course of times: peace was main= tempted. For Edgar had not onely all the whole The of Britain in Subication, but also was ruler 4 fourrain Lozde oner all the kings of the out Ales that lie within the leas about all the coally of the fame Britain cuen onto the realme of Porway. belind fishiect De brought allo a great part of Frelande binder his lubication, with the citic of Dublin, as by antentike recordes it both and may appeare.

Edwarde.

Ligar.

Edward.

After the de-Edgar, ther was fome ftrife and tötétion amoalt the Lordes and vecres of prealm about the fuceel= ho of the crown: ther of Earlie=

Das, og Ethelredus, and diverle other of hir opinion, would gladly have aduanced the fame Egelredus to the rule:but the Archbifhop Dunffan tabing in his handes the baner of the Crucifir, pie= fented his elder beother Edward unto the Lords as they were affembled togither, and there benouerd him king, norwithstäding that both Queene Alfred and hir friends, namely Ahpher the Duke be was begot in bnlawful bed of Eldeda y Pun, for which offece he did. vij. perce penace, & not for bing with Wilfride (as maiffer Fore thinketh.) But Dunstan indging as is to be thought that Coward was more fitte for their behouse to continue the mosto in & former course as Eogar had left it, than his brother Egelred (whose mother 4 fuch as twice part with his buder hir somies au-thoritie were likely ynough to turne all byfive Alferduke of bowne) bled the matter so that with helpe of the Mercia and o-Archbilliop of Porke Diwalde, and other By- ately spon Ed-Coppes, Ibbottes, and certaine of the Pobilitie, gars death beas the Earle Esser and such like, he preuapted was establiin his purpole, to that (as before is fayor) fied, removed the layde Edwards beeing the leconds of that the Monkes name whiche gouerned the lande befoge Canons. the conquest, was admitted king, and beganne Simon Duns Digar duke of Denon, og Cornervall (as some 10 his raigne ouer Englande in the peare of oure. Lozde. 975. in the thirde yeare of the Emperous 975 Dtho the fecond, in the. rr. years of the raions of Lothar king of Fraunce, and about the fourth yeart of Culene King of Scotlande, Dee mas facred by the fapoe Archbishoppe Dunstan at Kingftone opon Thames, to the greate gricfe of his mother in law Alfred and hir friendes.

Aboute the beginning of his raigne a blating vil Male Starre was ferne, fignifping (as was thought) terned and no inualion by forraine enimics at= 20 the miletable haps that followed. And firll there enfued barrennelle of ground, and thereby famine amongst the people, and morraine of Cattaile.

Alfo Duke Alpher of Elpher of Dercia, and Alfer or Elfet, other Poble men beffreyed the Abbayes which duke of Mer-King Edgar and Bilhoppe Aprilwold had buil-cia. Ded within the limittes of Mercia. The Prieftes of Canons whiche had beene expulled in Ed= gars tyme out of their Prebendes and Benefices. beganne to complaine of they wrongs that were 36 bone to them, in that they had beene put oute of policision from they? lyvings, alledging it to bee a great offence and milerable cale that a ftraunaer should come and remone an olde inhabitant. fot fuch maner of boing coulde not pleafe Bod, not yet bee allowed of anye and man, whiche ought of reason to boubt least the same thous han -to him whiche het might fee to haue beine an other mans budoing.

Iboute thes matter was harde holde, for fer Alfrida p mor 40 many of the Temporall Lordes, and namely the lame Alphet, fungen that the Prieftes babbe lehn Capg. wiong . In so muche that they remoned Pril. Mal. Monkes onte of they places, and brought into Ran. Higd. the Monafteries lecular Prieftes with theve Mat. Weft. wyues. But Edelwyn Duke of the Gaft In. Sim. Dunel. gles, and Alfred his brother, with Brightnoth or Brighnode Earle of Eller, withflode thys boing, and gathering an armie, with great has liancie mainterned the Monkes in their Loules, of Dercia were loze agaynst him, especially for & 50 within the Counfrey of Gast Angles. Herebpon were Councels holden, as at Wimchefter, sim. Dunel. at Kythling in Call Ingle, and at Calne.

At Winchester when the matter was bronght to that passe that the Psiestes were toke to have Polidor. had there parpole, on Image of the Robe that find there in the Referrory where they fat in confaile, bitered certaine wordes in this wife. Goo. foldio it Coulde bee lo: God foedio it shoulds

The Hiltorie of Englande.

the Priests. Polidor.

A pretie fife be fo: ye tuoged well once, but ye may not change of the Monkes well againe: as though (layth Polidoze Airgill) the Monkes had moze right, which had bereft o= ther men of their possessions, than the Pziestes which required restitution of their owne. But (lapth he) bycaule the Image of Chailt hanging on the croffe was thought to speake these words, fuch credite was given thereto, as it had beene an Dracle, that the Priests had they fuite dalled, & all the trouble was ceassed. So the Monkes held 10 had at a manour house belonging to the K. called those possessions howsocuer they came to them. by the helpe of God, or rather (as layeth the fame Polidoze) by the helpe of man. Hoz there were cuen then opneree that thought this to be rather an Deacle of 13 hebus, than of God, that is to bn= derstande, not published by Gods power, but by the fraude and craftie decepte of min.

The matter therefore was not so quieted, but that boon newe trouble an other Councell was the hearing of the matter, fatte in an opper loft. The king by reason of his your yeares was spared, fo that he came not there.

Dunftan by

Herre as they were bulied in arguing the matter, cyther part laying for himselfe what coulde be fayor. Dunfton was foze reuited, and had fun-Drie reproches layde against him:but sodainly euf in the verie heate of they? communication, the logites of the loft fagled, and downe came all the companie, to that many were flaine and hurt, but 40 Dunffan alone standing vpon one of the iopstes that fell not, he escapes fafe and founde. Ino fo this my acle with the other made an ende of the controucrlie betweene the Prielles and Monkes, all the English people following the minor of the racles had his will, when ar-Archbilhop Dunftan, who by meanes thereof had his will.

In this meane while, king Edwarde ruling himself by and counsaile of such as were thought discrete and lage persons, gave great hope to the se worlde that he woulde walke in his fathers ber= tuous steppes, as alreadie he well beganne, and bearing alway a reurrence to his mother in lawe, and a brotherly loue to hir fonne Egelred , vled himselfe as became him towardes them both. Ifterwarde by chaunce as hee was in hunting in a yvil, Mal. Forrell neare to the Caltell of Corfe, where hys mother in lawe, and his brother the laybe Egel-

VVil. Malm. Calne, where they that were appoynted to have 30 red then solourned, when all his companie were speede abzode in following the game, so that hee was left alone, hee toke the way ftreyghe unto his mother in lawes house, to visite hir and hys brother.

The Duerne hearing that he was come, was right glad thereof, for that thee had occasion The wicked offered to worke that which the had of long time Queen Alin befoze ymagined, that was, to flea the king hir fonne in lawe, that hir owne some might enloy the garlande. She therefore requipted him to as light, which he in no wile woulde peeld buto, but faybe that he had stolne from his companie, and was onely come to be hir and his brother, and to drinke with them, and therefore woulde returns to the Forrell againe to fce some more sport. The Ducene percepuing that hee woulde not alight, cauled brinke to be fetched, and as he had the cup at his mouth, by hir appoynment one of hir fire at his mouth, by hir appopriment one of the track ununtes froke him into the bodie with a king, murbered wherebppon feeling himfelfe wounder , hee-lette Edwarde. fourres to the horfe thinking to gallop away, and fo to get to his companie. But bring hurt to the death, he fell from his horfe, to as one of his ferte was fallened in the Approp, by reason whereof his horse drew him forth through woods and launds, and the blond whiche gulled out of the wounds Hewed toke of his death to fuch as followed him, and the way to the place where the horie had left him. Chat place hight Coppies gate,oz Cornes gate. His bodie being founde was buried without any solemne funeralles at Warham. For they that enuged that hee Moulde eniop the Crowne, muled also the buriall of his bodie within the Church: but the memorie of his fame coulde not fo fecretely bee buried by with the bodie; as they imagined. For fundzie niggacles fremed at the place where his boote was enterred, made the same famous (as diverse have reported) for to there was light restozed to the blind, health to the ficke, and hearing to the deafe, which are ealilyer to be tolde than beleeued.

Queene Alfride also woulde haue ridden to the place where he lay, moued with repentaunce (as hath beene fayoe) but the horfe whereopon the rode woulde not come neare the grave, for anye thing that could be bone to him. Deither by chan= ging the layde horle coulde the matter be holpen. for even the same thing happened to the other 2 horfes. Herebpon the woman percepued hir great offence towardes God for murthering the innocent and did fo revent hir afterward for the lame, b believe v chastiling of hir body in falling, and of ther kinds of penance, thee emploped all hir lubflance and patrimonie on the pore, and in bupl= bing and reparing of Churches and Mona-

Two houses of Punnes thee tounded (as is burie, and finally professed virtelle a Munte in one of them, that is to fay, at Warwell, whiche houle fice buploed (as forme affpame) in tementbrance of hir first husbande that was slaine there by K. Edgar for hir lake (as before is mettoned.)

The bodie of this Edwarde the feconde, and furnamed the Barty2, after that it had remayned three yeares at Colarham where it was will butyed, was remoued buto Shaftelbuite; and with fer,og Elfere Duke of Berria, who alto bio loze repent himselfe in that hee than beene arrayulf the adulauncement of the Capbe king Coward (as yes hauc hearde.) But yet dio not be elcape worthie punilment : for within one yeare after, he was eaten to death with Lice (if the Historie betrue.)

King Coward came to his death after he had taigned three yeres (or as other write) three yeres and. viii. 99 onethes.

Colhatforner hath beene reported by writers 30 of the murther committed in the person of this king Cowarde, fure it is that if he were bale begotten (as by wayters of no meane credit it should appeare he was in deede) great occasion bubbithteoly was giuen buto Ducene Alfred to leeke teuenge for the wrongful keeping backe of hit forme Egelred fro his rightful inccession to the crowne: but whether that Cowator was legitimate of not for might yet baue deuiled some other lawful medne to have come by her purpole, a not lo to have procured the murther of the young Prince in fuch billawith marier. For hir doing therein can neither be worthily allowed, nor throughly excufed, although thole that accasioned the mischicfe by advanting hir leptonic to an other mans right, deferued nioff blame in this matter.

Egelredus.

E Gelredus, Egeldredus, the red. conne of king Edgar, and of his laste wife Ducene Alfrede, was 01= depried King in place of his 20ther Ed-

marne, after that the lame Cowarde was difpatched out of the way, and beganne his raigne ouer this realme of Englande in the years of our lozde 979. which was in the leuenth yeare of the Emperour Dibo the fecont , in the rritif of Lothaire Simon Dune king of Fraunce, and about the leconde of thirde peace of Kenneth the thirds of that name King of Scotlandt.

This Egelred, of Etheloged, was the trt. fayde) the one at dlarwell, the other at Ambrel- 20 in mumber from Cerbicias the first Bing of the Whelt Barons: through his nealigente douernment, the flate of the common wealth fell into fuch breap (as wipters voe report) that unber him if may bee laybe, howe the king pomit was come to the betermost popult or period of olde and feebie age. For whereas whilest the Realme was devided at the first by the Barons into sandie Dominions, it grew at length (as it were micresling from youthfull peders) to one ablolute spogreat reuerence burich thereby the forenamed 21- 40 narchie, which palled suberthe late remembled Princes, Egbert, Apelftane, Evgat, and biblies lo that in their dages it might belaid fold it has growne to mans flate; bit how brite toil Cdit. ten, through famine, pellitence, and wartes, the Cate thereof was to Waken, furned Speide voune? and weakened on ethe parte, that right highe the tentor be likened buto the olde broken plates of many life, which through freblenetters was ble to belpe it felfe.

Dunitan the Archbillion of Canterburg was thought to have forefeene this thiner and steered refuled to anoput Egened king, which by the murther of his brother floulde attention of the tictnment : but at length be was combelled to it and to he factio him at Ringlion than Change, as the maker this will, but the critic day of Application by Dissible Archithops of Forte, ambfeit orger Biffeld uout : I all imarge ann

Sur start Mercit Tabian.

Rom Biga

280

14 10 75 A

oute of Me

eta departed

Fril. Mal.

layde that the Englith people thoulde lufter condigne punishment generally with loss of auncient liberties which before that tyme they had enioped. Dunftan allo long befoge prophecied of the Mouthfulnelle that Could remaine in this Ethelred. For at what time he ministred the lacrament of Baytiline buto him Mozely after he came into this world, he defried the Font with the ordure offis wombe (as hath berne farde) wherevppon 10 yere following, the rep. of May, on a Saturday. Bunstan beeing troubled in hys mynde: By the Lorde layth be and his bleffed mother, this child Mall proue to be a Courtifull person. It hath bene written also, that when bewas but tenne yeares of anc, and heard that his brother Edwards was flaine, he so offended his mother with weeping, bycause the coulde not still tim, that having no roode at hande, flee toke Capers oz Sises that Ambe before hir, and bet him fo fore with them, that the had almost killed him, whereby he coulde 20 neuer after above to have any fuch Candles, lighted befoze him.

Polider.

Ran. Higd.

sim. Dunel.

282

cia departed this lite. Alfrike or El frikedukeof

Fabian.

This Earlied (as writers lay) was nothing given to warlike enterprises, but was flouthfull, a louer of polenelle, and delyting in ryotous lustes, which being knowne to all men, caused him to be cuill spoken of amongst his owne people, and no= thing feared amongst straungers. Herebpon the Dancs that erereised roaning on the Seas, bequiet and moleft the Sea coaftes of the realme, infornuche that in the feronde peare of this Egelreds raigne, they came with feuen Shippes on the Englisse coastes of Kent, and spoyled the Ille of Ernnet, the Comme of Southampton, and in the pere following they destroyed S.Petrokes Ibbay in Cornewall, Porthlande in Denonflire, and dyneric other places by the Sea fpbe, specially in Denonshire and Cornewall. Also a

The fame peare by casualtie of fire, a greate part of the Citic of London was burnt.

In the peare of our Lorde. 8:, Alfer Duke Alfer or Elfer of Mercia departed this life, who was colin to duke of Mer- king Edgar, and his sonne Alfrike toke vpon him the rule of that Dukedome, and within three practs after was banifled the lande.

Aboute the eight peare of his raigne, Gaelred marped one Elgina, er Cthelginu, baughter so while be fhaped a prieftes floale, the Barpe louis of Carle Cabert.

In the ninth yeare of his raigne, bpon occasion of Arise betweene him and the Bishoppe of Rochester, he made warre agaruft the same Ep= flion, wasted his Lordships, and belieged the eine. n: Rochefter, till Dunffan procured the Biffiors Fril. Malm. prace with parmet of any hundred pound in gold: Mar. Fres. and bycanle the king would not agree with the

But as hath beene reported, Dunitan then Billiop without money at the onely request of Dunitan the faid Dunitan did fend him morte that lithence be made more account of golbe than of God, more of money than of 5 . Inbirm Batrone of the Church of Rocheller, and more of enuctoulnede than of him being the Archbillion, the mischiefes which the Lord had threatned months mortly fal and come to paste, but the same thousand not chance whilest he was alive, who died in the

Dethis Dunftan many things are recorded vita Dun. by wipters, that he should be of such holinesse and sanivertue, that God wrought many myracles by him, both whiles he lined here on earth, and also after his deceale. He was bogne in well Saron, John Care his father was named Beogiran, & his mother Ci- Osberne. nistide, they in his youth set him to schole, where Ran. Hird. he so profited, that he excelled al his equals in age. Afterwarde he fell ficke of an Aque, which bered him to loze that it draue him into a frensie: ther= fore his parents appointed him to the cure and charge of a certain woma, where his vilcale grew fo on him, that he fell in a trance as though he had bin dead, a after that he fodenly arole, a by chance caught a flaffe in his hande, and ran by & downe through billes and bales, and layor about him as though he had bene afray de of mad dogges. The nert night (as it is layde) he gat him to the topot the church (by the help of certain ladders that floo ganne to concepue a boldenelle of courage to dil= 30 therefor workmen to mend the rof) and there tan by and downe bery daingeroully, but in the cabe came lafely down, and layd him to fleep betwene two men that watched the Church that night, & when he wakened, maruelled howe became there. Finally recoucring his diseate, his parents made him a neielt, and placed kim in the Abbay of Gla-Achburic, where he gave himselfe to the trading of Seriptures,and knowledge of bertue: But as well his kinfmen as certaine other did raile a tre great part of Chelibire was deliroped by Pirates 40 post of him, that he gave not himliste to muche to the reading of Ceriptures, as to charming, conins ring and forcery, which he bererly denied: how wif learned he was in deed, and could do many prink things both in handic worke a other beniers be

At length he grew in such favour, that he man advanced into the service of king Idelstane. In on a time as he came to a Gentlewomans Boule with his harpe, and hung the fame on the wall, ly began to play a Plalin, which draue the whole houshold in such frare, that they ran out and laid. her was to cunning, and knowe more than wis cruedient : where epon he was acculed of Bitto mancic, and so benished out of the Court.
Industrethis be began to have a liking to man men, and when Elflicagus then Bilhop of Julie cheffer and his coulin perfinaded him to become Monke, he refuled it, for he rather willed to have mario a yong camolell, whose pleasant companic he dayly enioped. But being some after flrike with such a welling dikale in his bellie, that all his bodic was brought into fuch flate, as though he had bene infected with a foule leprolie, hee bethought himselfe, and boon his recoucric fent to the billion, who immediatly those him a Monke. in which life he lived in to great opinion of holynes, as he in time became Abbot of Blaffenbury: 10 where on a time as her was in his prayers before the aulter of D. Beogge, he fell afleepe: and ima= mining in his dicame, that an bally rough Bears came towards him with open mouth, and fet his forefeete bpon his Moulders ready to denour him. be fodenly waking for feare, caught his walking flaffe which be comonly went with, & lay d about him, that all the Church rang thereof to the areat wonder of fuch as flood by. The common take of his plucking the dinell by the note with a paire of 20 ppnlors, for tempting him with women, while he was making a Chalice: the great loue that the ladie Ellieda, nich kinkwoman to Ik. Abeilfan bare to him to hir dying day, with a great meiny of os ther fuch like matters, I leave as frivolous, and wholy impertinent to our purpose: oncly this T reade, that through declaring of his preames and victions, be obteneo in the time of K. Edgar, first the Bishoppike of Morcester, after of London, & last of althe Arthbishoppike of Canterburie, And now I will returne to the doings of Egelred, and to weake of fuch things as chaunced in his time,

Shortly after the decease of Dunstan, & Danes Pril. Malm, inuaded this Realme on ethe lide, walting and Mas. VVest. spoyling the Countrey in moste miserable wife. The Dancs in-They arryued in to manye places at once, that wade this land, the Englishe men coulde not well deuise whyther to goe to encounter first with them . Some of them spoyled a place of towns called Wiliche- Alias Wessport, and from thence passing further into the desport. Countrey, were mette with by the Englishe men, who giving them battayle, lost they? Can- Hen. Huns. taine Goda: but yet they gotte the vistopie, and Sim. Dunel. beat the Danes oute of the fielde, and so that shed. parte of the Danille armie was brought to confulion.

Simon Dunel. layth that the English men in deede wanne the fielde here, but not withoute great losse. For besyde Goda, (who by report of the fame Authour was Carte of Denonthire) there byed an other balyaunt man of marre named Strenwolde.

In the yearr. 991. Brightnod Earle of Eller, at Maldon gave battaile to an armie of Wanes, 50 (which under their leaders Julin & Guthinund, had spoyled Giptwich) and was there onercome & flaine with the most part of his people, and so the Dance obtened in that place the victorie.

The fame yeare, and in the riij. yeare of king Egilreds raigne, when the land was on eche fibe fore affliced, walted and haried by the Wanes, which courted the same as they had beene Grafhoppers: by the adule of the Archbiston of Canterburie Siciens, (which was the second of that Dea after Dunliane,) a composition was fas ken with the Danes, so that for the fumme of ten Ten thousand thouland pound to them to be payde by the king, to the Dages they flouid covenant not to trouble his subjected any further.

fought to inuade his Dominions. But by what name to ever thes money (whiche the Wanes.

This money was called Daniggit, or Dane Dane gete money, and was leaved of the people. Although other take that to bee Danegylte, Sobiche was gyuen bnto luche Dancs as: King Egeltet Me serwardes recepted in his feruice to befinde the lande from other Pancy and enimply that nome recepted) was called, true it is that

992

Therebyon they ceased from their most cruell rvil. stalm. invalious for a time. But Mortly after they had refressed themselves, and recovered new strength, they begaune to play they, olde partes againe, point the lyke myschiefe by they, semblable innations, as they hadde bled before. By reafon hereof suche feare came oppon the Englishe prople, that they dispayed to be able to resist the enimics.

H. Hune. A nauie let torth.

at London, whereof hee appointed Carle Ilfride

(mhom before he had banished, and lately remoken home againe) to bee bigh Zoniprall, abiorning with him Erle Turoloc. This nauie did let fozmarde from London towarde the chimies, who having warning given them from Alfrik, eleaped away without burt.

And thostly after a greater Paupe of the Danes came, and encountered with the kings flete, so that a great nuber of the Londoners were The king yet couled a Paule to bee let forth 10 flaine, and all the kings thips taken. For Alfrike and Alfrike transfor furned to the Danes five. like a traptoz turned to the Danes fide.

tour to by: Countrey,

Mat.Frest.

Math. Wiefim. maketh other report of this matter, veclaring that Alfrike in veede being one of the chiefe captaines of the fleet, aductifed them by forewarning of the daunger that was towarde them, and that when they floulde come to ioy= ning, the fame Alfrike like a traptoz fledde to the Daues, and after bpon necessitie beeing putte to flight, escaped away with them: but the other Captaines of the kings flette, as Theodied, Elstan, and Estwen, pursued the Danes, twie one 40 and god array, the people of the Countrey fell of they? thips, and flue all those that were founde therein.

The Londoners allo (as the fame Mat. Welt. fauth) met with the naule of the Danithe rouces asther fledd: away, and flue a greate number, and else twice the Shippe of the Traytour IL frike with his fouldiers and armour, but he hims felier scaned, though with muche papie, having Planed the lyke tranterous part once before, and Then this nuschiese wrought by the father, the king nowe twice his some Algar, and caused his eres to be put out.

Bout the same time was Bambrough de= stroved by the Danes, whiche arryued after in Humber, and walked the Countrey of Lyndley and Popuellinge, en either froe that Rouer. Ind when the Englishe men were allembled to give them battaple: before they ionned, the Captaynes of the Englisse armie, Frena, Godwin, simen Du and Frederist, that were Danes by they? fas Polidor. thers fide, beganne to fire aware, and escaped, Mat. VI to ayuing the occasion of the ourrthyowe that lighted on they? people.

But by some wayters it shoulde appeare, that after the Danes had destroyed all the Posth partyes, as they furedor abroade without order opporthem, and flue some of them, and chased the relidue.

Dther of the Danes with a naute of. 94-thips Aulafe kieg entred the Chames, and belieged London, & Swein king boute our Ladie day in September. They gant Denmarke a right foze affault to the Citie, and affayed to capraines of this fleck, haue fette it on fpze: But the Citizens fo balys as bath antly defended themselves, that the Danes were simon Du beaten backe and repulled, greatly to their lotte, pet was reconcreted to the Kings favour againe. 50 fo that they were constrayned to departe thence with dishonour.

Then they fell to and waffed the Countreys Henric. Hi of Eller, Kent, Suller, and Panishire, and coal fed not till they had enforced the King to come pounds with them for roi. 99. pounds, which her pounds to nave to have made with them. was glad to pay to have peace with them.

Morcover, whereas they wintered that years money. at Southamptonithe king procured Aulafe king

The Historie of Englande. of the Polwegians to come buto Andever where et that time he lay) upon pleoges recevued of the king for his fafe returne. Chybegus Billoppe of Courchester, and Duke Ethelwold were appointed by king Egelred to bring Aulafe onto him in most honourable wife.

The fame time was Aulafe baptiled. Ik. Enel. hims bie red recepuing him at the Font stone, and so bee gapromife, promifed neuer after to make any warre within Tring he returned into his Countrey, and kent his momile faythfully: But the cuilles toke not fo an ende : foz other of the Danes lyzang by as they had bene the heades of the Servent Bydia. some of them ever being redie to trouble the quiet state of the English nation.

Iboute this season that is to witte, in the non Lesland veare of our Lozde. 995. Bishov Aldarne whiche um. Danel. was fledde from Chester in the (Strete other-Cuthbert for feare of the innalion of Danes, bn= to Rippon, brought the same bodie now buto Durhã, a there began the foundation of a church: so that the Sca of that Bilhonike was from thence forth there established, and the Mindres were there cutte downe, whiche before tyme couered and overgrewe that place, wherebyon it began first to be inhabited.

Earle Athred who coverned that Country Lile Vibred. all the people inhabiting betweene the Ryuers of Diamotowa Coquid and Theis, came togither to ridde the Myatter woodes, and to helpe towards the buploing of the Church and towns there.

In the. rir. peare of King Egelrebs raigne, the Danes fapled aboute Cornewall, and comwie West ming into the Scuerne sca, they robbed and toke ruofthis pares in the coaftes of Denonthire, and Southwales, and landing at delecheport, they burned firecte on the South coaft, and to arriving in the mouth of Camer water, came buto Lydfozde, and there walted all afoze them with force of fire. They burned amongelt other places, the 990nafferie of Saint Deoulfe at Ellyngflocke.

After this they cameinto Dozletthire, ano palled through the countrey with flame and fire, not finding any that offred to relift them.

lizancke,

258

The fame yeare also they folourned fot a time and playes whiche they toke in Hampflice, and Suffer: At length they came into the Thames, and so by the Rouer of Medeway, arroued at Mochester. The Kentillymen allembled togither and fought with the Danes, but they were overcome, and so left the fielde to the Danes.

After this, the same Danes sayled into Pozmandic, and king Egelred went into Cumberland where the Danes inhabited in great numbers, whom be ourreame with fore warre, and walter almost al Cumberland, taking great spoi= les in the fame.

About the same time or Mortly after, the Danes with their nauie, returning out of Pozmandie, came unto Exmouth, and there affaulted the Exmouth. Castell, but they were repulled by the that kept it.

After this they fpred abrode over all the counthis lande. And recepuing great gestes of the 10 trey exercising they accustomed trade of destroying all befoze them with fire and twozde. The me of Somerletshire fought with the at Pentho, Penthe.

but the Danes gate the opper hand. Thus the state of the realme in those dayes was berie miscrable: for there wanted worthis Chieftains to rule the people, and to chaffice them when they oid amille. There was no truft in the Difigreement noble men, for energe one impugned others dos with counfaying, and yet woulde not deuise whiche way to ierswhat fruit 1955 _ wile called Cunecester) with the bodie of Saint 20 Deale with better likelyhode. Wilhen they allema bled in Counsaile, and should have occupied their heades in deviling remedies for the mischiefe of the common wealth, they turned they purpose bnto altercation aboute fuch firpfes, contentions and quarelles as eche one had agapuit other, and fuffered the general case to lie stil in the dust. And if at any time there was any good conclusion as greed bpon, for the withflanding of the enimie. e reliefe of the common wealth, anon fhoulde the es greatly furthered the Bifhop in this work, fo that 30 nimie be aduertifed thereof by fuch as were of aliance or confanguinitie bnto them. For as batis fon in his Chronologie gathereth out of Carton. Polichzon. and others, the English blond was fo mixed with that of the Dancs & Britains, who were like enimics to the Englillmen, that there was almost few of the nobilitie & comons which bad not on the one fide a parent of some of them. Withereby it came to palle, that neither the lecrete purpoles of the k. could be cocealed til they might by the countrey, and came about unto Penwith- 40 take due effett, neither their allemblies proue quiet without quareling e taking of partes. Wanp also being lent forth with their powers one way whis left the K. went to make relifface, another) did renoit buto his enimies e turn their fwords against him (as you have heard of Elfrik & his coplices) & thall read of many others, to p it was no marvellthat Ethelred sped no better, e pet was he as valtant as any of his predecessors, although b 900kg fauour him not in their weitings, bicaufe be ben in the Isle of Wight, and lyued byon spoyles so massided and of the toward his warres, e was nothing fauorable to their lews hipserifle (as & fame Har. noteth:) but what is a king if his fubicits be not loyall? what is a realme, if the comon wealth be divided; by peace e concord, of final beginnings great & famous kingdoms have oft times proceeded, wheras by discord of greatest kingboms have oftner bin brought to ruine: fo it proned here: for whilest prinate quarels are purfued, the generall nobilitie.

The milgouernment of of the King.

Sicknesses vexing the people.

affayers are betterly neglected: and whilest ech na= tion feeketh to preferre hir owne alliance, the 3= land it felf is like to become a defart. But to pro= ceede with our Monasticall waiters: certes they lay all the fault in the king, saying that he was a maque to no god exercise, he delighted in fleth= ly lustes and riotous banketting, and still fought wayes how to gather of his subjectes what might be got, as wel by bulawful meanes as otherwife. For he would for feyned or for very small slight to length the Bealme was emptied in maner of all causes distuberite his subjectes, and cause them to redeente their owne pollellions for great fununcs of money . Belides thele oppzellions, dinerle kinds of sicknesse bered the people also, as the bloudie flire, and hote burning Agues which then raged through the lande, so that many died thereof. By fuch maner of meanes therfore, what through the milgouernance of the king, the treason & distoyal= Treason in the tie of the nobilitie, the lacke of god order and due correction amongst the people, and by such other 20 pere. of K. Egeireds raigne, the same Egeired re-Courges & milhaps as afflicet the English na= tion in that scason, the lao was broght into great ruine, so that, where by strength the enimy coulde not be kept off, there was now no helpe but to appeale the with meny. By reason wherof fro time of the first agreement with the Danes for tenne thousande pound tribute, it was inhanced to. rbj. thousande pounde (as pe haue heard.) And after that to twentie thoulande pounde, then to. rrilij. The inhaunthousande pound, and so to .xxx. thousand pound, bute payde to and lastlye to fortie thousande pounde, till at the Danes that money and corne that could in it be founde. In this meane time died Elgina or Ethelgina y Queen Elgina Dueene. Then shortly after it was deuised that & king hould be a luter bnto Ri. Duke of Pozma: Die, for his filter Emma, a lady of fuch ercellent Emmabeautie, that the was named & floure of Pormadie. This lute was begon & toke luch god lucces. that the king obterned his purpole. And so in the pere of our lozd. 1002. which was about the .rruij ceined the foresaid Emma, & maried hir w great terof Notsolemmitie. This mariage was thought to bee mandie main to K. Egelick right necessary, honozable & profitable for f realm of Englande, because of the great puissance of the Porman princes in those days: but as things afteripard came to palle, it turned to the subversio of v whole English state: for by such affinitie & dea= ling as hapned hereby betwirt the Pormas and Engliffme, occasion in y end was ministred to y fame Pormans to pretend a tytle to the crowne of Englao, in profecuting of which title, they ob= 50 ceuted. But where it first beganne, the fame is terned and made the whole conquell of the land, as after fall appeare. Egelred being greatly abuaunced, as he thought, by reason of this mary= age denifed upon prefumption thereof, to cause all the Danes within the lande to bee murthered in one day. Perebpon be fent printe Commissioners bnto all cities, bojoughes and townes within his dominions, commaunding the rulers and officers in the fame, to dispatche and flea all fuch Danes as remarned within there liberties, at a certaine 1012 day prefixed, being Saint Beyces daye, in the Thexin of peare. 1012. and in the. 34. peare of king Egelreds Nouember.

yere. Herebyon (as simble wyters agree,) in one of the Dwee day and houre this murther beganne, and was according to the committion and infinitions erbucertaine: some lay at Wellowyn in Gerfortill. Howahillet lone at a place in Staffezoffire called Fowntil, Houndhil, and other in other places, as in suche doubtful Merchingro cales it comonly happeneth. But wherelower it parish beide bryan the dorre shortly after repented it. But first the fores of Needwood, ere we proceede any further, we will thew what fomenhat rule the Danes kept here in this Realme before moiethin they were thus murthered, as in some twees we viorcelles find recorded. Wilhere it is thewed that the Danes compelled the hulbandmen to till the ground, and to boe all maner of labour and tople to bee Done aboute hulbandgie: and the Daues lined of the the finite and garnes that came therof, and kept the hulbadmens wines, their daughters, maydes and firmannts, vling and abuling them at there pleas fires. Ind when the bulvandmen came home. then coulde they uneth have such sustenaunce of fo that the Danes had all at they? commaunde= ments, eating and deinking of the best, where the fillisman that was the owner, could hardly come to his fill of the worlt.

Ind belides this, the common people were fo punished by the Danes, that for feare and dread they called them in eneric such house where anye of them folourned, Lorde Dane. And if an Englisse man and a Dane chaunced to meete lisse man must stape till the Lorde Dane were palled. But in proces of time, after the Pancs were voyded the lande, this worde Lorde Dane was in derificiand dispite of the Danes turned by Engliff men into a name of reproche, as Loz- Lordane where vane, which till these our dayes is not forgotten. o the words for when the people in manye partes of thys Realme will note and fignific anye greate pole lubber that will not labour not take vaine for his living, they will call him Lordane. But when meates and deinkes as fell for fernantes to have: 10 ther the Danes vsed the English men in such vile maner, and kept them in such service the aldome or not, truth it is that bypon knowledge given into Denmarke of the cruell murther of the Danes here in Englande, the people of that Countrep were greatly kindled in malice, and let in fuch a furious rage agapult the Englishmen, that with all specie they made south a Panie full fraught sim. Tun. with menne of warre, the whiche in the yeare The Danes red following came swarming aboute the coastes turn to include at any Bridge or Arcyght pallage, the Eng- 20 of Englande, and landing in the Willest Coun. Englande. # trey, twke the Citie of Ereter, and gat there a Exerce caken tiche spople.

One hugh a Pozman borne, whom Ducene Emma had placed in those parties as governour 01 Sherife there, conspired with the Danes, so that all the Countrey was ourrrunne and

The king hearing that the Danes were thus landed, and spoyled the west parter of the realme, her linte unto Enjeris to assemble a power to Dampdire and Wilfhire role and got togither: But when the armpes Mouloe ionne, Carle C= Ducue furnamed de streona, faigned himfelfe fick, and so betrayed his people, of whome hee had the conduct, for they perceyuing the want in they? leaver, were discouraged, and so fled.

The Danes followed them unto Wilton, whiche townse they tifled and ouercame. From thence they went to Salefburie, & fo taking they? -pleasure there, returned to their thing, by cause (as fome write they were advertised that the B. was comming towards them with an huge armie.

In the yeare next enluing, that is to wit. 1004 simon Dunk which was aboute the rring peare of King Cgelreds raigne, Sweyne,02 Swanus, king of 1004

genmarke, wyth a mightie Pauce of Hippes Denmarke. came on the coast of Postfolke, and there ian= withliande the enimies. Herebpon the people of so ding with his people, made towarde Porwiche, Norwich take and comming thither twke that Citie, and spoy by the Danes, led it. Then went he buto Thetford, and when Thetford hee had taken and ryfled that Towns, hee bur-burgs. ned it, notwythstandyng a truce taken by Wikillus, or Wilfketell gouerhour of those partyes wyth the same King Swepne after the taking of Norwich.

In renenge therefore of fuch breache of truce, q.ij.

Norffolke.

H.Hunt.

Swein returmarke. sim. Dunel. 1005

1006 H. Hunt. Lande.

The Danes Hamp.hire, Bark, hire. &c

Winchester-

ren Bontal nice of his Connlude gaue to king Sweine for Sin. 24 1403.

trantor Cinciens Carle of Mercia.

This Concus although her had marged the Ser in in ide bings daughter Cogiti, was pet noted to be one File of Meich of those which disclosed the secretes of the realme, the fame Atkellus, or Wielseketell, with fuch power as he coulde rayle, assaulted the hoste of Danes as they returned to their Chippes, and fine a great number of them, but was not able to maintaine the fight, for his enimies overmatched him in number of men. And so he was constrayned in the ende to give backe: and the enimies kept on their wares to their Mippes.

In the yeare following king Sweyne returstrayned so to do (as some write) by reason of the great famin and want of necessarie sustenaunce. which that yeare fore oppressed this land.

In the peare of our Lozde. 1006. king Swein returned agains into Englands with a mightie huce Pauie arrruing at Sandwiche, and spoy= nedinto Eng. led all the Countrey neare buto the Sealide. King Egelred rayled all his power agaynst him, and all the Paruell time lay abroade in the fielde wonted maner spared not to exercise their bu= mercifull crueltie, in walling and spopling the land with fire and swords, pilfering * taking of prayes in enery part where they came. Perther coulde King Egelred remedie the matter, bp= cause the enimics sivil conveyed themselves with their thippes into fome contrarie quarter, from the place where they knew him to be, fo that his trauaile was in baine. They include Christmalle they landed in Gampshire, and palled through that Countrey into Barkelijire, and earnie to Reding. And from thence to Wallingforce, and so to Colesey, and then approching neure to Effington, came to Achikelinellaive, and in energ place whereforner they came, they made cleans works. For that which they coulds not cary with them, they confumed with fire. burning up they? Innes and fleaing their hoftes. 40 An returning back, the people of the west Comtrev gave them battail, but prevapled not, so that they did but enriche they commics with the Coople of their bodies.

They came fall by the gates of Winchester, as it were in maner of tryumph, with there byt= taples and spoples whiche they had fetched fiftie myles off from the lea five.

In the meane tyme King Egelred lay about In the yeare nert enfang, the king by the av-

the redeeming of years, rer. 99, pound. The fame place Bing Egelred created the

and the determinations of the Counsaile buto the enimies. But he was luche a craftie biffembler, so areatly provided of fleight to diffemble and cloke his fallchoot, that the king beeing to muche abused by him, had him in singular fanour, whereas hee oppon a malicious purpose studged dayly howe to being the Realme into btter ruine and destruction, aduertising the enis mics from tyme to tyme howe the state of pediaco Dea- ned into Denmark with all his fleete, partly con- to thinges flode, whereby they came to knowledge where they shoulde give place, and when Vill. Malm. they mighte fafely come forwarde, Woreouer. beeing sent onto them oftentymes as a Com= missioner to treate of peace, hee perswaded them to warre. But luche was the pleasure of God. to have him and suche other of lyke fort advaun= ced to honour in this leason, when by his divine providence he ment to punishe the people of thys realme for they? wickednesse and sinnes, whereby to reflif the Wanes, which according to they? 20 they haviustly pronoked his wrathe and highe displeasure.

In the .rrr. yeare of King Egelreds raigne. Hen. Hunt. In the .rrr. peare of Bing Egeneous taigne, Simon Dun. whiche fell in the years of oure Lozde. 1008. hee An hundreth toke order that of every three hundred and tenne acres is and id bydes of lande within this realme, there monle of lande. one flippe be buylded, and of cuery. biij. by des a 1008 complete armoz furnilized.

Prouision for

In the yeare following, the Kinges whole amour. fleete was brought togither at Sandwiche, and The Danes About the beginning of Winter they remaywinter irich:
the of Wight, ned in the Ile of Wight, and in the tyme of to goe to Sea in the lame fleete. There had not beene seene the lyke number of thippes so trimly rigged and furnished in all poyntes, in anye Kinges bayes befoze. But no greate profitable prece of service was wrought by them: for the King hadde aboute that tyme banished a noble macress. vong manne of Suffer called Wilnote, who getting togither twentic layles, lave bypon the coaftes, taking prifes where he might gette them.

Brithericke the brother of Carle Edricke. desirous to wrnne honour, twke forth foure score of the layde shippes, and promised to bring in the enimie deade or aline. But as bee mas lay= ling forwarde on the Seas, a fore tempest with an outragious winde role with suche violence, that his shippes were cast oppon the wore. Ind Wilnote comming bpon them, let them on frze, and so burned them every one. The relique of the hips, when newes came to them of this milliap, Streewiburic foze troubled with the newes herof. 50 returned backe to London. Ind then was the armie dispersed, and so all the cost and trauaile of the Englich men proued in baine.

After this, in the Barnell time a newe armie of Panes, buder the conducte of three Captayues, Turkell, Benning, and Zulafe, lan- Daves land n Ded at Sandwiche, and from thence paffed toon forth to Canterburie, and had taken the citie, but Three check that the Citizens gave them a thousande pounde pound bit to pepart from thence, and to leave the Countrey in peace. Then went the Danes to the Ile of Chight, and afterwardes landed and thoyled the Countrey of Duffer and hamfhire.

King Egelred affemibled the whole power of all his subjectes, and comming to give them battaile, had made an ende of their cruell harrying the Countrey with the flaughter of them all, if Carle Cozike with fozged tales (Deuised onely to uing battaile. The Danes by that meanes returning in fafetie, immediately after the feaft of S. Bartyn, returned into Kent, and lodged with they? nauie in the Winter folowing in the Cha= mes, and oftentymes affaulting the Citie of Lopon, were fill beaten backe to their loffe.

After the fealt of Chrismaffe thep paffed through the Countrey and Moddes of Chilexistibutate terne unto Dxfoede, whiche Towns they burned, and then returning backe they fell to was 20 fling of the Countrey on both lides the Thames. But hearing that an armie was affembled at London to aque them battaile, that parte of they Hoste which ekepte on the Porth spoe of the Rouer, passed the same Rouer at Stanes. and so joyning with they? fellowes marched forth through Southerie, and comming backe to they; Shippes in Kent, fell in hande to repayze and amende thep? thippes that were in any wife

> Then after Gafter, the Danes fayling about the coaft, arroued at Gippelwiche in Suffolke, on the day of the Ascention of our Lorde: and inuading the Countrey, gave battaple at a place' called Migmere, oz Rigmere, onto Clikell, oz Ellfeketell leader of the English bost in those parties, the fifth of 99ap.

> The men of Postfolke and Suffolke fledde at the fyzst onset apuen. But the Cambridgeby perpetual fame and commendation. There was no mindefulncte amongelt them of running awape, so that a creat number of the Pobilitie and other were beaten downe and flaine, Il at the length one Eurketell Mirenehebed, teat had a Dane to hys father, fyist beganne to take his flight, and deferued thereby an everla-Aingreproch.

The Danes obterning the opper hande, for the space of three monethes togyther, went hppe so and downe the Countreys, and walted those parties of the Braine, that is to fay, Poiffolke, and Suffolke, with the bozders of Lincolnthire, huntingtonshire, and Cambrioceshire where the fennes are, gayning exceeding tyches by the spoile of the great and wealthie Abbayes and Churches which had their situation within the compasse of the same Fennes.

They also destroyed Thetforde, and burnt Thetforde, Cambridge, and from thence passed through the Hen. Huns. pleasant mountain countrey of Belleshani, cruelly murthering the people without respect to age, dearee or fere.

The Historie of Englande.

After this they entred into Effer, and fo came The Danes backe to they? thips, whiche were then arrived in arrive in the the Thames. But they rested not any long time Thames. in quiet, as people that mynded nothing but the put him in feare) had not diswaded him from gi- 10 destruction of this Realme. So that Moztly after they had somewhat refreshed them, forwarde they let again into the Country, palfing through Buckinghamiliere, and so into Bedforothire. And about 5. Andrewes tide they turned toward Northampton Porthampton, and comming thither, fet fyze on Danes.

Ind then returning through the west country. with fire and two to walted and delitoped a great part thereof, and namely Willipire, with other parties. And finally aboute the feast of Christ= malle they came againe to their flippes.

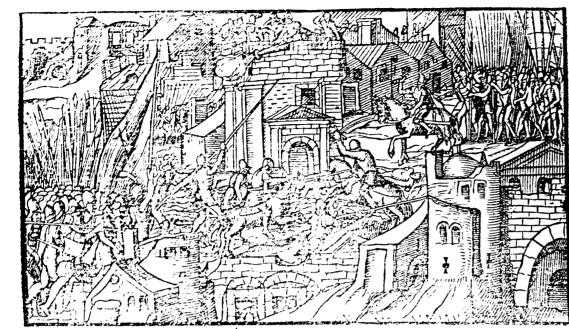

Thus had the Danes walted and destroyed the How many those part of roj. 02. roij. Chires within this realm nes walted. thire men flicked to it valiantly, wynning there- 40 as Porft. Suff. Cambridgelhire, Eller, Middlefex. Partfortibire, Drfordibire, Buckingbalbire. and Bedforothire, with a part of Huntingbonth. and also a great postion of Posthamptonflire.

This was done in the Countreys that lie on the northfide the River of Thames. And on the fouthfive of the same Ryuer, they spoyled and walled Kent, Southerie, Sullet, Barkin. Hav-Mire, and (as is before layd) a great part af Milthire. The king and the peeres of the realme not knowing otherwise how to redesse the matter, fent Amballadors unto the Danes, offring them deth to the great fummes of money to leave off fuebe cruell Dancs. walting and spopling of the lance.

The Danes were contented to retayne the money, but yet coulde not abiliagne from their cruell boyngs, neither was their arecon flytli of bloud and spoyle satisfied with the walling and delitroging of to mong Countieps and places as q.iij.

Simon Dun.

they had passed through. Wherepon in the yeare of our Loide, ion, about the feall of Saint Mathem in September, they layde liege to the Citie of Canterburie, which by the Citisens was valiantly defended by the space of .rr. dayes. In the ende of which terme it was taken by the enimics. through the treason of a Deacon named Ilma- Cinterbrie ricus, whome the Archbilhop Clylegus had be where y fore that time preferred from death. The Danes exercited paifing great erneltie in the winning of that Citie (as by fundzie Authors it both and may appeare.) shop Elphegu, bout the number of buj thousand. They toke the The Archbi-

Fabianex Antonino.

Hen. Hunt.

Antoninus. other men of religion. And when they had taken Vincentius.

Fril Limb. ex Afferio Meneuensi co alijs.

their pleasure of the Citie, they set it on fire, and so returned to their flips. There be that write that they tithed the people after an innerted order, Claving the whole mines through the whole multitude, and referned the foure faucd, and of the lay people. +800. wherely it followers that there dred. 44200, persons, and hereof is gathered that the citie of Canterbuie, & the Countrey thereabouts the people whereof belike fled thither for fuccor was at that time berie inell inhabited, so as there have not wanted lapth Mafter Lambert) which afframe that it had then med Godwen. Allo Abbot Lefwen & Alleword.

They flue of menne, women, and childien ce.

the kings Baylif there. They fpared no degree, in-fumuch that they flue and twice. 200, priestes and

1112

ter that the Billiop Clobegus had bin kept ppiluner with them the space of, bj. 62, bij. monethes. The Arch' i- ther cruelly in a rage led him fogth into the fields from Alphegus and dassied out his trapnes with stones, breaufe he mould not redeeme his libertic with there. So. pound, tobich they demanded to have bin leured of his farmers and tenants.

But now to our purpose. In the years next nioze people than London it lelfe.

This cruell murther was comitted at Grene-wich foure miles diffant from London, the. rir. calpall, where he lay a certaine time buburied. but at length, through miracles themed (as they Myracles. fap for impracles are all wrought now by deade men, and not by the living: the Danes permitted that his bodie night be earled to London, & there Elpheguitus Archbiston Elphequs with an other Billop na= 30 was it buried in the Church of S. Paule, where it ried in Lod refted fez the space of ten praces, till king Enute of Kneight had the government of this lance, by whole appopulement it was remoued to Canter- Trinfacelu

Turkillus the leader of thole Danes by whom pril Ms the Erchbilliop Elphegus was thus murthered, Turkillus helde Mogftolke and Suffolke bider bis lubiec= beld Noch tion, and fo continued in those parties as chief L. and Suffolke and gouernog. But the relidue of the Danes at alviii thou tenth : fo that of all the Monkes there were but 40 length, compounding with the Englishmen for a pound is by tribute to be payed to them of. buj. 99. pounde, simon Du. speed absode in the countrey sojourning in cities, Mat. Pro townes and villages, where they mighte finde most convenient Parbrough.

Mogrouer fortye of their Shippes, of tas H. Hurlin. ther, (as some write). Ilb. were retapned to serue the king, promiting to defende the Realine, with condition that the Souldiers and Mariners. flould have provision of meate and brinke, with Hen. Hunt. enluing, voon the Saterday in Cafter wecke, al= 50 apparell, found them at the kings charges, al 30

Is one Authour hath gathered, Simeppe king of Denmarke was in England at the concluding of this prace, which being cofirmed withfolemine other and fufficient Hollages, be Depars, ted into Denmarke.

Also the same Authour bringeth the gene Ma. F? f. rall flaughter of Danes bppon Saint Bipfes, dave, to have chaunced in the peare after the conclusion of this agreement, that is to witte, in the yeare, 1012, at what tyme Eunthildis the fifter of King Swaine was flaine, with hir huf-K. Lance and forme, by the commandement of the fille traptem Errike. But bycaufe all other Authours agree that the same murther of. Danes was erceuted aboute teune peares before thes: fuppoled tyme : wee haue made rehearfall thereofinitat place. Bewbreit for the beath of Gun= ther in the geare, 1007, at what tyme King C= geluppaped thirtic thousands pounds king Emarne to have peace (as before ron have harde of elle myght thee bee belyuered in hofiene, in the peare, ion, when the last agreemunt was made with the Danes (as aboue is n fronco. Bur when or at what time focuer file treame toffage, this we finde of hir, that the came makal, hithrinto England with hir hulband Palineus. Wherebron the earnellly transiled in treatic of a peace betwirt bir brother & king Egelred, whiche bring brought to valle chiefely by hir luyte, thre was contented to become an Holtage for perfetmanner thereof (as befoze is respted.) And after by the commaundement of Carle Edzicke fice was put to death, pronouncing that the Webding of hir blonde wonide cause all England one par fore to rue.

bir death without all feare, not once chaunging countenannee, though the law hir bulbande and but onely forme (a rong Gentleman of much to= warenelle) fielt murthered befoge bir face.

Curbillus in the meane tyme had aduertifed ling Swayne in what state things stode here ick. within the Realme: kowe King Egelred was nigligent', encly attending to the luftes and Pleasures of the flethe: howethe Poble menne and feeble through wante of god and truffive

Bollan.

Some wipte pet that Turkpil, as well as offer of the Danes whiche remayned here in Englande was in league with King Egelred, mson uche that he was with him in London to belpe to defend the Citic agaynt Sweyne when ter came to assault it , (as after thall appeare.) Whiche if it bee true, a voubt may rife whether till to moue him the rather to invade the realme: but inche advertisements might come from him before that he was accorded with Egelred.

≅ wayne therefoge as a valiaunt Pgince De= from both to reuenge his lifters brath, and win teneur, prepared en buge aimie, and a greate nun ber of shippes, with the whiche ter made towardes Englande, and fielle comming to Sandwiche, tarped there a fmall while, and ta= He landeth at king eftiones the Sea, compassed aboute the Sandwich. coaftes of the Call Angles, and arrowing in the mouth of Kumber, lapled by the water, and en= tring into the Rouer of Trent, he landed at Gaynesbourgh, purposing to innade the 1202= Gaynesbourgh thumbers: But they as men brought into great feare, for that they had beene subrest to the Dancs in tymes palt, and thinking therefore not to retinior, it maye bee, that thee became Hollage cy = 10 nolte to eminyes, but rather to they? olde acquaintaunce, if they foulde submitte themsel-ues to the Danes, strength waves effered to be- bers yeeld to come lubica buto Swarne, togither with there Swayne. Duke named Wifghthzed.

Also the people of Aprideley and all those of The people of Porthlyde of Mistlingstreets perfore them. Lyncley yeeld the Parthippe of Watlingstreete perlocd them= themselues felices buto him, and beliggered pledges. Then he to him. appopried his some Country to have the keping Sim. Dunel of those pledges, and to remain byon the fasegam a mightle Carle, and recepted baptilme here. 20 of his thips, whiles he himlelte polled for ward into the Countrey. Then marched be forwarde to fubdue them of South Perreia : and so came to South Mercial Oxford, to Winchesser, making the countreps subicat fo him throughout wheresoener he came.

With this profperous fucceffe, Swayne bema areatly encouraged, prepared to go vito Lobon where king Egelred as then remayned, haning with him Turkillus the Dane, which was mayned in wages with other of the Dancs (as She was a right beautifull Ladie, and toke 20 by report of some Authours it may appeare) and simon Dung were nowe readie to desende the Citie agaynste they? Countrey men in support of King Eaclfed togyther with the Citizens. Swayne bycause her woulde not steppe so farre oufe of the way as to doc to the nextebrioge, lost a greate number of his menne as hee passed through the Thames.

At his comming to London, he beganne to affaulte the Citic right fiercely, in hope epther to Sweine affaul. were unfarthfuil, and the Commons weake 40 put his enimic in such feare that he flould dispaire teth London. of all reliefe and comfort, or at the least to true what her was able to Doc. The Londoners on the other part, although they were breght in some feare by this lodaine attempt of the enimpes, pet confidering with themselves, that the hazarde of all the whole state of the Realme was annexed to theyes, lithe theye Citie was the chiefe and Metropolitane of all the Lingdome, they baly = Polidor. antly flode in defence of themselves, and of their weine recepued any aductifement from Tur= 50 king that was prefent there with them, beating backe the enimies, chaling them from the walles, and otherwise doing their best to keepe them of. At Irnoth although the Dancs did most valtants ly assault the Citie, the English men yet to de= ferd their prince from all injurie of enimies. Did not fizinke, but boldly fallicd forth at p gates in beares togither, a encounfered with thepr aduer= fance, and began to fight with the right ficreely. q.: ij,

Swant

Sweyn whilest he goeth aboute to keepe his men in order, as one most desirous to retayne the victorie nowe almoste gotten, is compassed so aboute with the Londoners on ethe syde, that after he had loft a greate number of his men, he was coustrayned for his safegarde to breake out through the myodest of his emmyes weapons, and was gladde that hee might so escape. And so with the relidue of his armie ceassed not to journey day and night tyll hee came to Bathe, 10 Earle of Deus- where Ethelmere an Carle of greate power in those West parties of the Realme, submitted himselfe with all his people buto him, who flioztly after neuerthelesse (as some write) was compelled through want of vitagles to release the tribute lately concnanted to bee payed onto him for a certaine fumme of money, which when her had recepued, he returned into Denmarke, meas Swain ritige ning Mortly to returne againe with a greater nerhictodes nower.

King Eaches supposed that by the parment of that money he flould have beene rid out of all troubles of warre with the Danes. But the Pobles of the realme thought otherwise, and therfore willed him to prepare an armic with al speed that might be made. Sweyn targed not long (to preue the doubt of the noble men to be grounded of fore= Swain return knowledge) but that with swift speede he returned nething land to make againe into Englande, and immediately typon land to make his arrivall was an armie of English men assem= water. bled and led agaynst him into the field. Herrepen they joyne in battaile, which was loze foughten

battaile

flure as hath

Mat. Preft.

Polidor.

for a time, til at length by reason of dinerse Engliffmenthat turned to the enimues side, the discomfiture fel with fuch flaughter vpon the Englift hoft, that king Egelred well percepued the flate of his regall gouernment to be brought into 4 ptter dannaer. Elherevpon after the loffe of this fielde, her assembled the rest of his people that were escaped, and spake unto them after thys

The Otation

Affoulde for euer bee put to filence, if there manted in us the vertue of a fatherly minde, in gining good admice and countaile for the well or= bering the administration of things in the common wealth, ex if there lacked courage or might in our fouldiers and men of warre to defende our so fide all our hope & expectation. Ind fo is the mat-Country. Cruly to die in defence of the Country where we are boine, I colelle it a worthie thing, and I for my part am readic to take upon me to enter into the iniddell of the cumies in defence of my kingdome. But here I fee our countrey and the whole English nation to be at a point to fall into biter ruine. Cele are ouercome of the Danes, not with weapo or force of armes, but with treas fon wrought by our owne people: wee did at the first prepare a namie agapuste the enimies, the which that falle traytoz Elfrik betrayd into their bandes. Againe oftentymes haue we given bat= o taile with cuill successe, and onely through the fault of our owne people that have beene faile and disloyal, whereby we have bene constrayned to agree with the enimies byon diffonogable conditions, enen as necessitie required, which to ouercome refleth only in God. Such kind of agreemet hath bin mate in dred to our destruction, sith the enimics have not flicked to breake it (they being such a wicked kinde of people as neither regarde God nor man) contraric to right & reason, and beter come nowe to this passe, p we have not cause only to feare the loffe of our government, but leaft the name of the whole English natio be destroped for ever. Therfore lithence the enimies are at had, and as it were ourr our heades, pe to who my comandemet hath euer bin had in good regard, pronive, take counfell, 4 fee to fuccos the flate of your cutry now redy to decay 4 to fal into incroncrable The Historie of Englande.

rune. Perespon they fel in colultation enery one, alloging and bringing forth his opinion as fecmed to him best, but it appeared they hadde the coulfe by the care, for they will not which way to turns them: If they houlde gone battaple it mas to be doubted, least through treason amoust themselves, the armie flould be betraved into the minics hands, the which would not farle to exc= cute all kinde of crueltie in the flaughter of the mhole nation. And if they dyd not stand valiantly to thewe themselves ready to desende there countrey, there was no thifte but to peeld them= felues, whiche though it were a thong revioch= full and diffions pable, pet foulde it be leffe enill as they twke the matter, for thereby myaht ma= no bee preserved from deathe, and in tyme to come be able to recoure the libertie of their coun= trey agains when occasion woulde thereto be of-

This point was allowed of them all, and so 20 in the ende they refled boon that resolution.

Kyng Egelred therefoze determined to com= mitte hymselfe into the hands of his brother in lawe Richards Duke of Pozmandy, whose si= fler (as pe have hearde) he hadde married. But ty cause he woulde not do this bnaduisedly, firste he fent ouer hys Wife Ducene Enime, with hys somes which he have begotten of hir. Alfred and Cowarde, that by they? entertaynemente hee might underffande how her Moulde be welcome. 30 :- Duke Richards recepted his filter and hys De= phewes right iopfully, and promiled to ande hys trother King Egelred in defence of his Kyng= dome. But in this meane while had Suepne coquered the more part of al England, and brought by little and liftle) that whiche remayned, bnder ins subication. The people through scare submit= ting themselnes on each hand, King Egelred in this meane time, (for the Londoners had fubmit= tyme with the name of the Danes, which was under the gouernemente of Carle Unrkill, and from thence fayted unto the The of Wight, and there remayned a great part of the Winter, and finally after Chaillmas, sayled hymselse into Normandy, and was of his brother in law ior= fully received, and greatly comforted in that hystyme of necessitie. Sweyne having now gote the suded of mages and viduals to bee taken by and laned through the Realme. In like monnet Curkill comanded that to his army whych lod-300 at Greenewhich, Moulde wages and vixuals be delinered fusficiente for the finding and fusion= tation therof. Sweyne vsed the victory very crutile against the Englichmen, oppretting them on each hand, to the intent that they being broughte lowe, he might gouerne in moze surette. The pere in which be obtained the rule thus of this Realm, and that Kyng Eached was confrequed to fice into Poymandy, was in the fine and thirtith yere of the same Eachrede his raigne, and after the birth of our Lozd.114. Sweyne being once effablished in the governmente, and not onely ble much crueltie, in oppaciting the laitie, but also he o Aretched for the his hande to the Churche and to the Ministers in the same, fleesing them and spoyling both Churches and Ministers, without any remozee of conference, in so muche, that ha= uing a quarrell against the inhabitantes withist the precina of S. Comonds land in Suffolke. he did not onely harry the countrey, but also ry= fled and spoyled the Abber of Bury, where the body of Saint Comond reffed.

Wher byo flostly after as hee was at Geinelbozough or Thetforde (as some haue) and there Fabian. in his follitic talked with his Robles of his good Saint Edmond in his founce tracked with his Axuous of the good fighteth for fuccesse in conquering of this lande, he was sud- the wealth, Daynely Ariken with a knife, as it is reported, mis but not for tid themselves to Sweyne) was first withdrawe 40 raculously, for noman well hew or by whome: the slaughter vinto Greenewiche, and there remayned for a and within three days after, to wit, on the thirde of his people. of Arbanary, hee ended his life with greenous payne and togenent in yelling and rozing, by reafon of his extreme anguelly beyonde all measure. There hathe sprong a pleasant tale amonast the posteritic of that age, how he should be wounded with the same truste whiche King Comondein his life time bled to weare. Thus have fome of our Writers reported, but the Danishe Chro- Albertus whole rule of the lande, was reputed for Kyng, 50 nicks records a farre more happy ends whiche Crantze and so commanded that his army shoulds be tree should charact but this Sucyno, than is before saxe Grantze mentioned, out of our Writers : for the layde maricus. Cheonicies reporte, & after be had luboned England, hetwie ogder with King Egelred, whome they name anuffe Avelstane, that he Moulognot nedeine any other friccessoe, but encly the same Sucno. Chen after this, he returned info Denmarks, where bling hindelfelike a righte goots VVil. Mal. Hen. Hunt. Canuteor Chate.

Egelred fent for home.

Egelredes cldeft loanc.

uor to efta-

Prince, at length be there ended his life, beeing a very olo man. But when,og how loeuer he dred, immediately after his decelle, the Danes eledie his fon Cnute of Knought to succeede in his dominions. But the Englishmen of nothing moze pesirous than to shake the yoke of the Danishe thialbome belides their neckes and floulders, and alult him if he woulde make half to come o= uer to deliver his countrey out of hands of stragers. Thele newes were right ioyful unto Egel= red, who beenning in delire to be reuenged on the that had expulled him out of his Kingdom, made no long farriance to put that enterpzile fozward. But yet doubting & incollancie of the people, sent lward King his elder fon (named Edward) to tric the minds of them, a to understand whether they were costant of wanering in y they had promited. The yong 20 ther kings p kelowed him. He adorned y Church Gentleman hasting ouer into Englande, 4 with diliast enquirie percepuing how they were bent, returned with like speede as he came into Pot= mandie againe, declaring to his father, that ell things were in fafetie if hee would make halt. K. King Egelred Egelred then conceined an affured hope to reco= ret ineth into uer his Kingdonie, apord w his brother in lawes power, * trufting von passistance of the Eng= liffme, returned into England in & time of Let. English people, as to those that abhorred the rule of $ Danes, which was most Mary and bitter to them, although Enute did what he could by bou-

the buder his obcilance. Ind to p intet to procure Gods favour in the well ordering of things for b administration in $ common wealth, be sevente first to appeale his weath, allo to make amines to S. Comond for his fathers offence committed (as was thought) against him:in so muche. b after he had obterned the Kingdome, he cauled a Araight wayes upon knowledge had of Sweynes deathe, with all speede aduertised King Egelred thereof, and that they were ready to receive 10 habitants, and acquit them of certain talkes and payments, buto b which other of their neighbors were contributaries. He also buildet a Church on v place wher S. Comond was buried, 4 ordeined an house of Monkes there, or rather remound the Canons or fecular Pricks that were there afore. and put Monkes in their romes. He offered type also has Crowne unto the same S. Comende, Polider. redemed it again with a great fumme of money, Fabian. which maner of doing grewe into an vie vnto o= there with many riche iewels, and endowed the Monasteric with greate possessions. But these things were not done nowe at the firste, but after that he was established in the Kingdome. For in the mean time, after that B. Egelred wastetur= nevout of Permandie, Enute as then foiours ning at Gaynelbrough, remarned there till the feast of Caster, and made agreemente with them of Lindley, so that they finding him horses, they Dis returne was joyfull & most acceptable to the 30 flould altogither goe swith to spoyle their neighbours. King Egelred aduertifed thereof, fpedde him thither with a mighty holf, and with greate crucity becamed up the Countrey, and Acwethe more part of the inhabitantes, bicante they hadde

is thould apcre by M.W.

Coute driven take part w his emmits. Omite as the was not to fortake the of power able to relift Egelred, and therefoge taking his Ships whiche lay in humber, fled from thence. failed about & coaff, til he came to Sad= wich, and there fore greened in his mind to remeber what mischiele was fallen t chanced to his frieds a lubica's of Lindley, only for his caule, he comanded f luch pledges as had bin delivered to Theorge his father by certaine noble men of this Realme, cree of his father by certaine noble men of this Reame, error for assurance of there fidelities, floudo have their Englished notes flit, a their cares floued, or as some write, ges. their handes and they notes ent off.

with cu

cuben this cruell ade according to his commanoement was done, he taking the Sea, fayled into Denmarke, but pet he toke not al the Dancs with him whiche his father broughte hither, for rie Turkil Carle Curkill percepuing the welthinelle of b lande, compounded with the Englishmen, and chose rather to remayne in a region replenished with all riches, then to returne home into hos countrey that wanted fuche commodities hee did not forsake his soucraigne Lorde Cnute for any cuill meaning towards him, but rather to ande him when time ferued, to recover the possesfion of Englad againe, as it afterwards wel appeared: for notwithstanding that he was now reterned by King Eastred with fortie Hippes, and the floure of all the Danes that were menne of war, so as Cnute returned but with. 60. Shirs. into his countrey, pet floorly after, Earle Curmarke, submitted himselfe unto Enute; coun= selled him to returne into Englande, and p20= miled him the affiltaunce of the residue of those Danill Shippes whiche pet remayned in England, beeing to the number of thirtie, with all the Souldiers and mariners that to them belonged. To conclude, hee did so much by his earnest perfwalious, that Enute (through apde of his brother harrold Kyng of Denmarke) gote togither ked, furnished, and appoputed, both for brane thewe and necessary furniture of all manner of weapon, armour and munition, as it is france to consider that whiche is written by them that liued in those dapes, and toke in hand to registerthe doings of that time. But nowe to returne to our purpole, to thewe what chaunced in Englande after the departure of Enute. The fame peare onto these accustomed nischieses an onwith suche high spring tydes, that overslowing the countreps nexte adiopning, biners billages with the inhabitantes were viowned by and detoun Dun. stroped. Also to encrease the peoples milette, E. Egelred commaunded, that exe thousande: #0 thule be leuied to pay the fribute but to y Danes which lay at Greenewiche.

This pere also, King Egelred beld a counsell VV il. Malm at Drfoede, at the whiche, a great number of no= Mat. VVest. ble men were present, both Danes and English = A counsell at men and there with Towns and Consider. men, and there did the King caufe Digeferd and Sigeferd and & Dozcade two noble personages of the Danes to Morcade bee murthered within his owne chamber, by the murthered. trapterous practife of Evericke De Streona, whithe accused them of some conspiracie, but the as were here to be had. And yet as some thought, to quarrell was onely as men supposed, for that the King had a velire to their godes end polleslions. Their fernauntes toke in hand to haue reuenged the death of their masters, but were beaten backe, wherehppon, they ficede into the Steeple of . Fulwyds Churche, and kepte the lame, till free was let byon the place, and so they were beenned to peath. The wife of Sigefferd was taken, and fente to Malmelbury, beeing a woman of bygb fine and greate worthinesse, whereuppon the kill with nine of those Ships lailed into Den= 20 Kpngs eldest sonne named Comond, toke occasion oppon pretence of other businesse to goe thy ther, and there to fee hir, with whome hee fell so farre in love, that he toke and married hir. That Kings elden Done, her required to have hir hulbandes landes sonne marri. and pollessions, whiche were an Carles lyuing, eth the Wiand lay in Porthumberland, and when the B. ferd. refuled to graunt his request, he goeth thither, and lealed the fame possessions and landes into bys hands, without having any commission so to bo, a nauic of two hundred Shippes, to royally bec= 30 finding the farmours and tenauntes there ready to receive him for their Lord. While thefe things werea doing, Cnute having made his provision of Ships and men, with all necessary furniture Coute retur-(as before pre haue hearde) for his returne into England. - England, let forward with full purpole, cyther to reconcrethe Realine out of Egelredes handes, 02 to die in the quarrell. Heerebpon he landed at Sandwich, and fielte Carle Turkill obterned uckereft. wonted miladuenture happened, forthe Sea role 40 allembled torrlift the Danis, and finding them Emme. litetier to noe against the Englishmen that were Encomium at a place called Stozallan, he gaue them the o. uerthiewigote a great botie, and returned therewith to the Ships. After this, Eric gouernoz of Morway, made A toade likewife into another parte of the countrey, and with a rich spople, and many Prisoners, returned buto the nause.

1.6

Mas. Prof.

After this journey atchieuco thus by Eric, Cnute commaunded that they floulde not walt the countrey any more, but gave order to prepare ell thyings ready to beliege London. But befoze Pvil. Malm. her attempted that enterprife, as other write, bee H. Huntin. marched forth into Rent. og rather failing round Math. Vvel. about that country, twice his journey Westsimon Lun. Ward, and came to Fremundham, and after de= parting from thence, walted Dogletfhire, Sommerleiligte, and Celikilite. Kyng Egelredein 10 folong as they mighte haue any Captayne that Mat. ereft. this meane time lap licke at Coffam. Dis sonne Comono had gote togither a mighty hoft, how= beit, ere bee eame to iopne battagle with his eni= mics, he was advertised, that Carle Cozicke wet about to betrav him, and therefoze he withdzewe with the army into a place of furety. And C=

Dricke to make his traiterous purpole manifelt to the whole world, fled to the enimies with fortie Edrickede of the Kings Shippes, fraughte with Danishe to the Dace. Souldiers. Derebpon, al the West countrey sub- sim. Lun mitted it felfe buto Enute, who recepued pledges The West of the chiefe Lozds and Pobles, and then let foz= countrey. ward to subdue them of Wercia. The people of The people of that country woulde not yeelde, but determined Mercia would to desend the quarreil and title of King Egelred not yeelde. would stand with them, and help to ofder them, Hen. Hunt,

In the pere. 116.in Chailtmas, Enute & Carle _____ 116 Edzicke passed the Chames at Brikelade, and entring into Mercia, cruelly beganne with fire and sword, to walt and destroy the countrey, and wasked by namely Warwikeliire.

King Egelred recovered of l'isticknesse.

vayne.

Egelredes 1canc.

In the meane time was King Egelred reconered of his ficknesse, and sent sommonance swith to raple all his power, appoputing energ man to resort unto him, that he mighte encounter the erecords were affembled, her was warned to take heede to himfelfe, and in any wife to beware how he gaue battarle, for his owne lubicas were purpoled to betray bim. Herevpon, the armie brake up, and King Egelrede withdzew to London, there to abide his enimies within walles, with hibome in the fielde her coubteth to trie the bats Edmond king tarle. Dis sonne Comend gote him to Citred, an Carle of great power, inhabiting begend humhis louthe they wente to wall those countrepes that were become ful ieft to Cnute, as Stafford. flice. Accesterflure, and Shaorflure, not sparing to exercise areat cruckty opon the inhabitants, as a punishmet for their renolting, that other might take ensample thereof. But Enute percepuong whereabout they went, politikely deniled to fru-Arate their purpole, and with boying of like hurte maro Enute Dio banishe out of the Realme, 12-

After that Enute had subdued the Porthum. bers, bee pursued Edmond till bee heard that hee had taken Lombon for his refuge, and stayed there in all places where he came, palled through Buckinghamfhire, Bedfozofhire, Huntingtonibites and to through the Fennes, came to stamfordi Courte, white and then entred into Lincolnihire, and fram councieys He allembleth nimites and gine them battaile. But pet when his 40 thence into Potinghamfbire, and fo into Pother paffed chief Hire, not sparing to do what mischiefe myght be Deuised in all places where he came. Athred ape uertifed here of, was confirence to beparte home to faut his owne countrey from prefente vellent, and to fion, and therefore comming backe into Pop thumberlande, and percepuing himfelfe not shift to refist the pullaunt force of his enimies, was constreymen to beliner plenges, and submit hype Earle Vibra felfe unto Cnute: but pet was hee not heereby delivereit ber and persuading bun to some his sozees with so warranted from danger, soz shortly after he was pledges to Course. taken, and put to death, and then were his lands winen unto one Tricke or Tricius, whome afters Alias Egrica cause that he did attempt to chalence like auffo= ritie to him in all pornts, as Cnute himselfe bad.

mith his father. Then didde Enute take his than to any bertues of the minde, although that Shippes, and came about to the coast of Bente. toward his latter ende, beeing growen into age, preparing to besiege the Citie of London!: but in and taught by long experiece of worldly affaires, recited the meane time, King Egelred foze worne with and profe of palled mileries, hee loughte (though long ficknesse, departed this life the. 21. of Appill. in vayne) to have recovered the decayed state of being S. Georges baye, or as other haue, on B. his common wealth and countrey. Gregories day, being the twelfth of Marche, but Ttake this to be an erroz growen, by miliakyng

the fealt day of S. Gregory for S. George. Hee

the Porth Ile besides the Chopze, as by a me-moriall there in the wall it may appeare. He had two delines as before is mentioned, by Eloina

his fielt Wife, he had iffue three formes, Comod

Cowne and Idelstane, besides one daughter named Edgina. By his fccoo wife Emma, daughto to Richards the first of that name, Duke of Domandy, and fiffer to Richard the fecond, he had two fonnes, Alfride and Edward. This E= 20 gelfred as you have heard, had cuill fuccesse in his wirres against the Danes, and besides the cala-mitie that fell thereof to his people, many other miscries oppatied this lande in his dayes, not so much through his lacke of courage and flothfull rigligece, as by reald of his prelumptuous prite.

wherby he alienated the hartes of his people from him. his affections he could not rule, but was led by them withoute order of reason, for hee did not icus without apparant cause of offince by plaine.

forged cavillatios, and also caused all the Danes to be murthered through his Realme in one day, by some lighte suspition of their enill meanings, but also gaue himselse to lecherous lust, in abufing his body with naughty ftrumpets, forfaking ch body was buryed in the Churche of S. Paule, in raigned the tearme of. 17. peres, og little leffe. his 10

Edmond furnamed Yronfide;

Free that Kyng Egelred was dead, his eldeft A sonne Comond furnamed Ironlive was pro- Edmod claymed &. by the Lodoners and others, having the assistance of some Lordes of the Realme, al- Ironside though the more parte, and specially those of the The Kingly recepued of the Citizens, and continuing there that Edmond offered the fill the fpzing of the pere, made himfelte ffrong a= combate vnto gainst the enimies.

This Comond for his noble courage, Aregth his going fro of body, and notable patience to endure and ful- Coute refuled fer all luche haronelle and papies as is regulite ic. in a man of warre, was furnamed Frontide, and began his raigne in the perr of cur Zoto.1016.in spiritualty fauoured Cnute, bycaule they had a= dome gocia fozetime twoen fealtie to his father. Some weite, ritualtie that Enute had planted his slege both by water & fauourerk. only visinherite dinerte of his owne English sub= 30 land very frongly about the Citic of London befoze Egelred Departed this life, and immedis ately bypon his decesse, was recepued into the Citie, but the army that was within the Citie, not confenting buto the furrender made by the Citizens, departed the night befoze the day on the which Cnute by appointment Mould enter, and in company of Edmonde Frontide (whome they had chosen to be their King and governour) they vicpared to increase their numbers with newe inpplies, meaning eftiones to trie the fortune of battell againste the Danish power. Enute per= cepning the most parte of all the Realine to bee thus against him, and having no great confidece in the loyaltic of the Londonirs, twice order to leavie money for the paymente of his menne of warte and Mariners that belonged to his nanie, The author of left the Citie, and embarquing himfelfe, faylet to the Booke enthe Ille of Shepey, and there remayned all the tituled Enco-Williter. In whiche meane while, Ebmonde faith, that it Frontide came to London, where he was topful= was reported sode of his elwir lawfull wife, to his greate und and thame of that high begree of Maiefac, whiche by his Kingly office hee bare and fus flerned. Co conclude: he was from his tender routh, rose apt to iderest, than to the freite of warres, more ginen to pleasures of the body;

$216

Bin. Hird.

Simul Lun.

Lanton

being &

the firteenth years of the Emperous Henry the feedal farmance Clanding, in the twentuh yere of the raigne of Robert Bing of Fraunce, and as boat the firth yeare of Malcoline the feconde It. of the Scottes. After that Kong Comund hadde recented the Crowne in the Crite of Londo by & han's ofthe Archbof Popke, he affembled togy= ther fuch a power as he colo make, with f faine marched fwithe towardes the Wiest partes, and time was Coute proclapmed and ordepned K. at Southampton by the Billiops and Abbots, and divers Lordes allo of the Tempozaltie there together affembled, unto whome he kware to bee their good and faithfull soucraigne, and that hee monio fee Justice trucky and oppightly mini= Hen. Itune. fred. Chen after bee had ended his bufineffe at Southampton, her viewe with his people towares London, and comming thither, besteged great trenche to be cast about it, so that no man might erther get in o; come fmath. Many greate affinites be caused to bee apuen buto the Citie, but the Mondoners and others within to baliant=

ly defended the walles and gates, that the enimies gote fmall aduauntage, and at length were constreyned to depart with losse. Enute then ver= criming that he might not have his purpole there. withozewe Wieliward, and belides Gillingham Coure e on with The Amund in linghimin in Dozletthire, encountred with Ik. Edmund in Dorletshire the Rogation weeke, and after fore and tharpbas purcodighe table, was put to the worke, and constrepned to forfake the fielde by the high prowes and manmade the countrey subicce to bim. In the meane to hode of the sayde Comund. Bing Cnute plame nighte, after the armies were seuered, departed towards Winchester, so to get himselfe out of van= Polider. ger. Shortly after, Bing Comund hearing that an other army of the Danes had belieged Salifbury, he marched thither to incour them within, fieged. and immediately Cunte followed him, to that at a place in Mozceterflire called Sceoglan, on g simon Dun foure and twentith of June, they encountred to- Mat. Pre arther, and fought a right cruell battayle, which pril me the Citie both by water and lande, causing a 20 at length the nighte parted with equal fortune: A banell wi And like wife on the next day they buckled togy equalioning ther agayne, and fought with like fuccesse as they An other bu hadde done the day before, for towardes eneming tel withlike they gave over well weried, and not knowyng to fuccelle.

robonie the victory analit to be afcribed.

Carities have reported, that this feconde daye toben Duse Soucke percepued the Englithmen to be at pornte to have gote the opper hande, hee withdiethe alide, and having by chaunce flapie o common Sould oure cailed Danear, which in er his beed, helde it up, and flaking his smoote Honor with the flaughter, ened to the English= rich, Act ve wertebes, fice and get away, for pour The ring is dead, behold here his head which Thold many hands, herewith had the Englishmenne Ped primeonately, if King Somunde adulfed of this Arangamic, had not quickly gote him to an high ground wher his men might fee him aline ? lustie. Herrewith allo y traytoz Cozicke escaped bardly f daunger of death, f Englishmen fot to egrely at him. It length as is faid, the night parting them in funder, they withdrewe the one are my from the other, as it had bin by confent.

The third day they remayned in armour, but bilige muche resembled Eing Comunde, bee cut 50 pet abilegning from battaple, sate Still, in taking meate and brinke to relecue their weerleb bobles and after gathered in beapes the bead carraits that had beene flapne in the tozmer fighte, the mis ber of which on cyther partie reconed, role to the fand dead point of twentie thouland and aboue.

In the night following, Cunte remoneth is The article campin fecret wife, and marcheth towards In- diadeth don, which Citic in a manner remagned belleged

The Historie of Englande.

by the name of the Danes. King Edmond in the mounting when the lighte had discourred the departure of his enimies, followed the by the trait. and comming to London with finall adoc, remouted the fiege, and entred the Citie like a congutrour. Shogtly after he foughte with y Danes at 23 mittozo, and gaue them a great overthzow. Inthis meane while, Ducene Emme the widpow of King Egeleed, doubting the fortune of warde ouer into Pozmandy unto hir brother Duke Richard, og rather fled thither hirlelfe with them (as fome write.) Moreouer, Carle Edricke percepuing the great manhode of B. Edmund. hegan to feare, least in the ende he Moulde subdue and vanquille the Danes, wherefore hee foughte meanes to conclude a peace, and take suche order mith him as might stand with both their contentations, which ere long he brought about. And of Cnute (as some write) to the intente that C= dicke being had in trull with King Comunde. mighte the moze cally deutle wayes how to be= tray him. Inute disappoputed of his purpose at London, fetching a greate boty and pray out of the courtees next adiopning repaired to his thips. to fee what order was amongst them, the whych a little besoze were withdzawen into the Kiner that passeth by Rochester called Medway. Herre ble a greater power, and also to hearken a learne what his enimies meant to do, the which he easte limals ly understode. For 数. Comund who hated no. thing worle that to linger his bulinelle, allembled his people, and marching forwards towards hos mimics, approched neere buto them, and pighte botone his tents not farre fro his enimics camp, exhapting his people to remember their paffed vidopies, and to doe their god willes, at length by mighte make an ende of the warre, and bispatche them elecrely out of the Realme. De fo much encouraged his Souldiers with thefe and the lyke worden, that they discovering thus to have the enimics dayly to prouoke them, and to put them to trouble, with egre mindes and fierce courages offered battaple to the Danes, whiche Enute had Prepared to recepue whenfoener the Englishme approched: and hecrewith bringing his men into aray, he came forth to meete his enimics. Then 50 Ardelwine, late Duke of Call Angle, and to pril. Mal. was the battaile begunne with great earnelinelle on both flors, and continued foure houses, till at length the Danes beganne som anhat to Mainke, which when Enute percepued, her commaunded his footemen to come formard into the forepart of his holf. But whilest one parte of the Danes Just backe with feare, and the other come flowig gine value with tener, who the whole army is bloken, and then without respect of thame they dedde as mayne, so that there doed that days of Enutes fide four thousand and flue hundred men, and of The number Kyng Edmunds lide, not past sire hundred, and of Danes flain. those were sween. This battell was soughte' Polider. as Coulde appeare by dyuers writers, at Dke= fort or Oteforde. It was thought, that if king Fabian. Comund had pursued the victory and followed Ran. Higd. in chase of his entinies in suche wife as hee safely Mat. West. the warre, finte hir two sonnes Alfred and Co = 10 might have done, hee had made that day an ende of the warres: but he was counselled by Edzicke H. Hune. of the warres: but he was connected by Edicke pril. Mal. as some write, in no condition to follow them, but Edrickes to stay and goue tyme to hys people to refreshe countell. they? weery bodyes. And fo Enute withhis army passed over the Thames into Esse, and there assembled all his power togither, and began to spoyle and wast the countrey on eache hande. King Comund advertised thereof, hafted forthe to luccoure his people, and at Alhoone in Effer this was done as you fhall heare by the confente 20 three miles from Saffron Walof gaue battaple to Cnute, where after fore and crucil fight continued with greate flaughter on both fides a fong time, Duke Edzicke fledde to the comforte of the Danes, and to the discomfort of the Englishing: fo that Kyng Comunde was confired in the sude to depart out of the fielde, having firste done all that could be willed in a worthy Chieftayne. both by wordes to encourage his men, and by diedes to thewe them god example, fo that af Chute remagned certagne dages , both to affem: 30 one time the Danes were at popnte to haue gps uen backe, but that Enute aduited thereof, ruffien into the left wing where moll daunger was, and to relieved his people there, that finally the Engliftimen, both awearied with long fight, and affor discouraged with the running away of some of they? company, were constrepted to give oner. and by flighte to fecke their fafigarde, fo that Is. Edmund inright not by any meanes being them agapue into veder. Peerebppon all the mapes one battayle, so to onerthrows them, that they 40 and passages beering forclayde and stopped by the enimies, the Englishmenne wanting bothe carriage to make longer reliftaunce, and percepning no bope to rest in sleeing, were beaten Downe and flanne in heapes, so that five escaped from that dreadfull and bloudy battaple.

There dred on Kong Edmundes fyde, Duke Noble men Edmund, Duke Alfricke , and Duke Gudwin, flayne at the with Caile Allickettell , or Tirchell of Cast Afhdone. Angle, and Duke Apleward, that was sonne to sim. Dunel. bee bricke, all the floure of the Englishe nobilitte.

There was also slapne at this battapic mas ny renoumed persons of the spiritualty, as & Bi= Moppe of Lincoine, and the Ibbot of Ramsey, with other, kyng Comund cleaping away, gote King Edmand. him inte Glocelfershire, and there began to rayle wiehdrawesh ... In fterfhire. a new army, Flight de Sucratin kicaton.

Simon Lun.

In the place where this field was fought, are get seuen of egght hilles, wherein the carcalles of them that were Capne at the same field, were buried, and one beeing digged downe of late, there were foun two bodies in a coluin of Clone, of whiche the one lay with his bead towards the others fote, and many chapnes of iron, like to the water charnes of the bittes of Horles were found in the same bill. But nowe to the matter, in the meane army in Blomcest. and other parties of Mercia, Enute having got lo gret a victory, received into his obeisance, not only & Citie of Londo, but also many other Cities and townes of great name, & Chorely after halted forward to purfue his enimie B. Comud, who was ready with a mighty hole to trie the bettermost chaunce of battaple if they thoulde eftlones ioyne.

Polidor.

Simon Dun.

The faying of a Capeayne.

Berevoon, both the armies being ready to give Mat. Preft. the onlet, the one in lyghte of the other at a place 20 red. called Dearehurft, nere to the River of Severne. by the drifte of Duke Edrick, who then at legth, beganne to thewe some token of good meaning, the two Kings came to a communication, and in the end concluded an agreement, as some have wzitten, without any moze adoe.

Dther write, that when both the armies were Math. Weft. at poynte to have forned, one of the Captaynes. fayen this was but whether he were a Dane of an Englichma, as he mighte be hearde of both the Brinces, and boldly bittered hys wordes in forme following.

Wie haue molt worthy Chicftaynes fought long proughe one againste another, there bathe bene but to muche bloud thed betweene both the Patiens, and the valiancie of the Souldioures on both floes is fufficiently prough trich. a enther of your manhoos lykewile, a pet ca pon heare neither good not enill fortune, if the one of you win the battaple, he pursueth him bis ouercome, and if her chaunce to be banquilbeb, bee refleth not till be have recovered news Grengtheto fight eftlones with him that is victor. What shoulde you meane by this youre immincible conrace? It what marke floteth poure greedy befire while that Edmonde was bulie to leavie a newe 10 to beare rule, and youre excelline thirlt to atterne honoz? if you fyghte for a Kyngdome, denibe it betweene you two, which fometime was Inflicie ent for feauen Kyngs, but if you couet to wime fame and glozious renowme, and for the fame are driven to trie the hazarde, whether yee shall commaund or obey, device the way whereby pe mape withoute so greate flaughter, and withoute suche pitifull bloudsped of both youre giltlesse peoples, trie inhether of you is most worthy to be prefer-

> Thus made hee an ende, and the two Brinces allowed well of his last motion, and to other was There taken, that they flould fighte togither in a fingu- appoint lar combate within a little Flande enclosed with the main the River of Scherne called Oldney, with con- Olacy. Dition, that whether of them channeed to be dif-Hoz fhould be King, and the other to religue bys title for cuer into his hands:

The two Princes entring into the place, apit is not certagnely tolde, stood by in such a place, 30 poynted in faire armoure, beginne the battanein light of both their armies, raunged in goodsorder on epther lide the River, with bouteful mindes, and nothing toyfull, as they that was nered betwirt hove and feare. The two Chins pions manfully affaile epther other, without int ring. fiell, they went to it on horleberte, am Ma. ?

Course of what after on fote. Court was a man of a meane fiature, but pet firong and hardy, so that recepting a arrest blowe by the hande of his adverlary, whi-

che cauled him lomewhat to stanger, his concret himselfe agapne, and boldly head warde to bee reuenged, but percepuing ber com

not find aduantage, and that he was rather to meake, and threudly overmatched, be fpake to Comunde, with a lowde payce on this wple: Mhat necessitie (layth he)ought thus to more us, moft valiant prince, that for the atterning of a kingdome, we should thus put our lynes in danger, better were it that laying armonce and malice alide, wee Coulde condelcende to fome reasonable agreement : lette be become fwoule beetheen, and parte the kongdome betimirt bs: Ind let bs deal to frendly, that thou mavelt ble my things as thene owne, and I thrue as though they were mone.

Ring Comunde with those wordes of his aductiarie was so pacified, that immediately the takey he casse awaye his twosde, and comming to continue. Courte, ioyneth hands with him. Both the armies by their ensample did the lyke, which loked for the same fortune to fall to their countrevs, whiche Moulde happen to their Princes by the successe of that one battaple.

> After this there was an agreement deuiled betwirt them, to that a partition of the realm was made, and that part that lieth foreancing frannce, was alligned to Comunde, and the. other fell to Enute.

Ther be that write, how the offer was made by king Comunde for the aduoyding of more bloudified, that the time Princes Moule try the 10 paper, and otherwyle I will not graunte to matter thus to gither in a fingular combate. But Cnute refuled the combate, bicaule (as be alleoged)the matche was not equall. For although he was able to matche Comund in boldnelle of flomacke, pet was he far to weake to deale with a man of luche firenceh as Comunde was knowne to bee.

But lith they did pretend title to the realme by due and good directe meanes, be thoughte it molte convenient, that the kingdom hould allowed of bothe the Armies, so that Long Comunde was of force constrayped to bee contented therewith. This ourscommon writers have recorded of this agreement, but if I would not be thought prefumptuous, in taking oppon mee to reprone, of hether fut to myllruft that whiche hath bitt tacepuen foz a true narration in this matter, I bould tather gine credite buto that whiche the potheure of The looke intituled by fame Encomint Emma, Dothe reporte in this behalfe. Wilhiche it that thorough perfmation of Corike De Stregte, Lyng Comunde immediative after the battaple fought at Athoonne, fente Imballados buto Cnute, to offer unto hym peace, worth balle the Realme of Englande, that is to witte, the northe partes, wyth condition that King Comunde myghte augetly eniope the South parte, and therebypon to have pledges delyucred interchaungeably on epther fide. Enute having hearde the effecte of thys mellage, Raged to make annimere tyll be had bn= derstode what bys counsell woulde adupte hym to doe in thys behalfe: and bypon god deliberation taken in the matter, considering that he had lotte no finall number of people in the former battaple, and that being forre o out of his countrey, he couldenot well have anye newe supplye, where the Englishemen although they hadde lykewyle lolle bery manpe of their menne of warre, pet beepng in they owne countrey, it thoulde bee an eafpe matter for them to reflore they decamed numbers, it was thought expedient by the whole consente of all the Danisse Capitanns, that the offer of kong Comunde foulde bee aco cepted. And hercupon Enute calling the Amballadours afore bym agapute, declared buto them, that hee was contented to conclude a peace uppon suche conditions as they hadde offered : but yet with thes addition, that their King whatfoever be Moulde bee, flouide pay Inutes fouldiours their wages, with money to bee leuied of that parte of the Ringoome whiche the English king Coulde posselle. foz this (lapth be) I have bnoertaken to fee them any peace. The league and agreement therfore beyng concluded in this forte, pledges are delivered and recepued on both partes. and the armies discharged. But God layth mone Zuthour) being monnetull of his olde bodrine, That enery kingdome binibed in it feife can not long flande, Moztely after toke Commune oute of this lyfe sand by suche meants fremed to take pitte of the Englifte kingbome, leall if bothe the kinger thoulde be devided betwirt them. This motion was 40 baus continued in life together, they Woulde baux lived in hanvager. Ind inconfinentely berruson mas Enute tholen and rectoued for abidire King of all the whole Brealme of arright de louister idate breeding thole dayes, whole credite thereby to mucheanuansear Provident the sommon reported totifeet following the deaths of Common vathis by from this inhouse affigured wat after Cauff and Comming were united for ups, the le iminitalismis and falls confiniratios beaut fo distributed square training of four that withing while after king Comundwas flain K.Edmunde

Driotos, as he latie an a printe to bos the traiteroufly Accellaties of Patricular a atmania mid unt forde.

The common reporte beth gover that Erie aut, and that (as lome wite his fame bibit. simon Dun Fabian.

Ran. High

H. Hunt.

But the fame authour that wrote Encomium Emma, weyting of the death of Comunde hath these words, (immediatly after hee hath fielle declared in what loste the two Princes were agreed, and had made partition of the realme be= twirt them:) But GDD (faveth be) beyng mynocfull of his olde doctrine. That cuery kingdome deuided in it self can not long stand, shortly after twice Comunde out of this lyfe: and by fuche meanes fermed to take pitie boon the En- 10 glisse kingdome, least if bothe the kings shoulde have continued in lyfe togither, they flould bothe have lived in great daunger, (and the Realme in Mipththis agreeth also simon Dunelmensis. who fapeti, that Kyng Edmunde dyed of na= turall sickenesse, by course of kynde at London, aboute the feast of Saince Andrewe nexte ensuping the late mencioned agreement.

Zud this Woulde feeme true : foz wheras thefe 20 Authours whiche reporte, that Earle Edypke was the procurer of his beath, they also write, that when he knowe the affe to be done, hee ha= Ned buto Cnute, and declared buto hym what he had brought to passe so, his advantement to the governement of the whole realme.

Wherbopon Enute abhorrong luche a deter Cable face, layde onto hom : Bycaufe thou halfe for my lake, made awaye the worthyrst bodye of the world, I thall rayle thy licad shows all the Lordes of Englande, and so caused him to be put to death. Thus have some bookes.

Porobeit this reporte agreeth not with other writers whiche declare howe Enute aduanned Edzyke in the beginning of his reigne buto high honour, and made hym gouernour of Mercia, somethick, and bled his countell in manye things after the that he was beath of king Comund, as in banishing Cowin, cia before and the brother of kying Comunde, with his somes fex adjoyned allo, Edmunde and Edward.

But for that there is suche discordanne and bariable reporte aniongest wryters, touchyng discordant the deathe of kyng Comunde, and some Fables reports of each innerted thereof (as the maner is) we will lette wonds death, the residue of there reportes passe: Sith tertaine Ran. High it is, that to his ende he came, after he had reig- Pril. Md. ned about the space of one years, and so muche nive as is betweene the moneth of June, and

Size of Chilish

Moreover Edwyn and Edwarde the sonnes of king Edmund were banished the lande. and fint first buto Sweno king of Pozwap to have to. Biga. bin made awaye : but Sweno bypon remoglo of founde great favour at the handes of king Salomon, in so muche that Comunde married the daughter of the same Salomon.buthav neissue by hir. Edward was advanced to marry with Agatha, the daughter of the Emperour Benrye, and by hir had issue two sonnes, Comunde and Edgar, surnamed Adelpng, cas many daugh-

the. 1.1. years of the reigns of Roberts king of france, and aboute the bij. yeare of the reigne of Canute Moztely after the death of king Ed= munde, affembled a Conneell at London, in the which he caused all the nobles of the realme to do buto him homage, in receiving an othe of lops

all oberfance. Her denided the realme into foure parts, affigning Porthumberlande unto the rule angle unto Turkyl, referring the west part to his own governance. He banified (as before is fard)

Compre, the brother of king Comunde, but fuch as was suspected to bee culpable of Comundes

beath, he caused to be put to execution, wherefit

Mould appeare, that Edzick was not then in any foiclayd Edwyn afterwards returned, and was then reconciled to the Kings fauour (as some do by his owne fernants. He was called the king of Churles. Dther write that he came fecretely into the realme after he had bin banished, and kee-ning himself closely out of lighte, at length ended his lyfe, and was buried at Tauestocken well wy.Malm. wyse detested or once thought to bee giltie. The of Jrke of Fricius, Mercia bnto Edrike, & Call = 10

Malcoline king of Scotlande.

ters, Margarcte and Christine, of the whiche in place convenient more Hall be lapt.

ges, as her thoughte, stode moste to lis suretie. be called to remembrance, that he had no issue but two baftarde Couries Harrolde and Sweno, begotten of his concubine Alwyne. Wherfore he fent ouer unto Richarde Duke of Pozmandie, troi Byel. requiring that he mighte haue Ducene Enme, win luly, in the widow of king Egelred in mariage, & lo obteyned hir, not a little to the wonder of manye. which thought a great onerlight both in the worequelle of Enute berein, considering hee hadde bin fuch a moztall enimie to hir fozmer hulband. But Duke Richarde did not only confent, that bys land liter thould be marged unto Cnute, but > tha, lyster to the sayd Enute. Detre ye have to understame, that this marie age was not made without greate confideration

> also he hymselfe toke to wyfe the Lady Hellri-

and large cournants granted on the part of king Cnute:for before be could obtain queenc Emme to his wife, it was fully condifcended and agreed that after Cnutes decease, the crowne of Englande thould remaine buto the iffue bogne of this The conenants mariage betwirte hir and Cnute, whiche coues made at the ma nant although it was not perfourmed immedi= Cnute and atly after the deceasse of kyrg Enute, pet in the ende it twke place, so as the right seemed to bee deferred, and not to be taken awaye nor aboli= fled: for immediatly byon Haroldes death that had blurved. Hardicnute lucceeded as right heire to the crown, by force of the agreement made at the tyme of the mariage folemnised betwirt his father and mother, and being once established in the Kingdome, hee orderned his brother Edwarde to succede hym, whereby the Danes were ofterly excluded from all righte that they hadde to pretende buto the Crowne of this land, and the Englishe bloud restozed thereto, chieffy The Englishe 10. Hizd. write) and was thortly after trayteroully flaine 20 by that gracious conclusion of this matiage be- bloud redored.
twirt king Cnute and Ducene Emme: for the Praise of Ouche Rama which no finall prayle was thoughte to bet due for his villebuto the layd Duerne, lith by hir politike gouers dome. nement, in making hir matche so beneficiall to hir selfe and hir lyne, the Crowne was thus recourted out of the handes of the Danes, and re-Stored againe in time to the right heire, as by an auncient treatise whiche some have intitled Enconscience sent them into Hungarie, where they 30 comian Emma, and was written in those dayer Encomian it both and may appere. Whiche booke although there bee but feine Copies thereof abroade, apneth bedoubtedly greate light to the historic of

But nowe to our purpole. Enute the lamit peare in whiche he was thus marved, thosoughe perlwalion of his wyfe Ducene Emme, lent away the Danishe namie & armie bome into Denmark, giving to them fourfcoze and two thous When Kring Cnute hadde established thous 40 sande poundes of Muer, whiche was leuied thoroughout this lande for their wages.

that tonie.

In the yeare a thoulande and eighteene, C= vvil.mal. Depcke de Streona Erle of Mertia, was oner= thiowest in his owne turne: for being called as fore the King into his prince chamber, and there in reasoning the matter about some quarell that was piked to him, bee beganne very niefininitus outly to upbrayoe the king of fushe pleasures as he had befoze tyme done buto him: I did (lapbe man and in hir brother, that woulde latilize the 50 he) for the love which I bare towardes you, fortake my loueraigne Lotde king Comunde, and at length for your take flewe bim.

> It whiche wordes, Enute beganne to change countenaunce, as one meruaploully aballied; and freightenayes gaue lentence againif Cozike in this wife: Thou art toothy (faith be) of death, and the thou shalte, which art gillie of treason both thwardes God and me, lith that mou half the latter ende of Pouember.

his body was buryed at Glastenbury, neere bis buck king Edgar.

With thes Comunde, furnamed Fronlyde. fell the glorious Maieffie of the English king-Dome: The whiche afterwarde as it had beene an aged bodge beyng fore decayed and iveake= ned by the Danes, that nowe got possession of so the whole, yet somewhat reconcred after the space of rrbj. veres, bnder kyng Edward, luma= med the Confesso; and sportely therbyon as it had but falme into a recluation, came to extreme ruine by the inualion and conquelt of the Moz= mans: as after by gods and beire and fauorable allitance it thall appeare, Amute or Coute glid Chroncles doe name knough Knought, atter the beathe or Coute of Kong Eumunde, tox Spontynt, the 1017.

uer all the realnie of Englande in the yeart # our Lozd. 1017. in the rois peare of the tille rot Henry the seconde, sumamed Clandus, in flayne thyne owne soucraigne Lorde, and my deare alred brother. Thy bloud therfore be boon thene owns head, fith the toung hath bittered the treason. And immediatly hee caused his throate to be cut, and his bodie to be throwen out at the chamber windowe into the river of Themes.

Edrike put so

This was the ende of Edzyke, furnamed de Stratten,og Streona, a man of greate infamie for his craftie diffimulation, falthon and treafon, bled by him to the ouerthzowe of the Englishe 10 affate, as partly before is touched.

But ther be that concerning the cause of this

Edziks death, Ceme partly to dilagree from that whyche befoze is recited, declarping that Enute

Chanding in some doubt to be betrayed thorough the treason of Edzicke, soughte occasions howe to rydoe him and other (whome hee lykewyle myterulted) out of the wave. And therfore one

Daye when Edypte craued some preserremente ferued to be wel thought of, fith by his flight from the battaile at Albendone, the vistorie therby inclined bnto Enutes parte. Enute hearing hym speake these wordes, made this aunswere: And canst thou (quoth he be true to me, that through fraudulent meanes diddest decepue thy soucrain

Totte and mailter? but I will rewarde thee according to thy delectes, lo as from henceforth thou halte not decepue any other, and fo forthe to dispatch him, who incotinetly cut off his head with his are or halbert . Uerip Simon Dunelment. layth, kyng Enute bnderstanding in what forte both king Egelred, and his fonne king Conunde Fronside had bin betrayed by the sappe

Edzicke, be flode in great doubt to be lykewyle

Simon Dun.

Encemina

deceyued by him, and therfore was glad to have fome metended quarrell, to dispatche both bom and other, whome he lykewyle myftruffed, as it well appeared. for at the fame tyme there were put to death with Edzicke Earle Pozman the fonne of earle Leofwyn, and brother to Carte Leofryke : also Idelwarde the sonne of Earle Agelmare and Brightricke the sonne of Alfrons governour of Denonthire (without all quilt or caule as some wipte.) Ind in place of Porman his brother Leofryke was made earle of Mercia by the king, and had in great fauour. This Lcofricke is comonly also by watters named Carle of Cheller.

After this, likewise Enute banished Tric ann Turkyll, two Danes, the one (as before is recited) governor of Porthumberland, and the other of Porfolke and Suffolk, or Castangle.

Then refted the whole rule of the realme in: at Cnutes handes, and alledged that he had de= 20 the kings hands, wherepon he fludied to preferue the people in peace, and ordepned lawes according to the whiche, bothe Danes and Englishmenne Moulde ver governed in equalistate and Degret.

Divers greate lozdes whome bee founde bnfaithfull or rather suspected, he put to death, as H. Hunt, besoze ye haue hearde) besyde suche as he banis death, nilhed out of the Realme. Berapled a tareof tribute of the people, amounting to the fumme Asax region with communded Erick one of his chief captains 30 of fourfcoze & two thousand pound, befide.rj. pound which the Londoners paper towards the maintenance of the Danill Armie

But wheras thefe things chaunced not all at one time, but in funday feafons, we will retourne fomwhat backe to declare what other exploites were atchieued in the meane time by Enute, not

si. Dunelm.

ently in Englande, but allo in Denmarke, and ellewbere.

In the thirde years of his reigns hee sayled with an armic of Engliffenien and Danes into 59 Denmarke to lubdue the Clandals there, whiche then lose annoyed and warred agayust his subicucs of Denmarke.

1019.

Erle Swowyn which had the fouerain conduct ric Good-evinks fervice of the Englishmen, the night before the day anin Denmarks. populed for the battaple gote him forthe of the campe with his people, a sodepnly assaying the Clandals in their lodgings, cally diffrested them fleaing a great number of them, and chafing the relidue. In the morning early when Enute herd that the Englishemen were gone forth of their lodgings, he supposed that they were exther Aed awaye, or elfe tourned to take part with the entmies. But as he approched to the enimies camp he understode howe the matter wenter for hee founde nothping there but blond, deade bodyes, and the spoyle.

. For thys good leruice, Enute had the englitimenin moze estimation euer after, and highely nival ded they a leader the same Earle Godwin.

When Cource had ordered all things in Denmarke, as was thoughte behouefull, he returned agayne into Englande. Ind within a fem oups after, her was advertised that the Swedniers made warre against his sublectes of Denmarke. under the leading of two greate Princes. Tife

· Unute therefore to defende his dominions in Coure passeth those parties, passed agayne with an armic into Denmarke, Denmarke, encountred with his crimies, and recepued a greate ouerthrome, louing a greate number both of his Danes and Englishemen. But gathering togither a newe force of menne, py Mal. he lette accepte byon his enimics, and outroame them, constraining the two foresayd Princts Marred, to agree byon reasonable conditions of peace.

Wathewe Wiellm, recounteth, that at thys tome Carle Ewdwyn, and the Englishmenne 30 monght the enterpoice about mentioned, of als faultring the enimies campe in the night featon, after Cinite had fyzite lotte in the daye befoze no small number of his people. And that then the forelayde princes or kyngs, as hee nameth them Cilfus and Aulafus, which, latter he ralleth Eiglafe, were constrayned to agree byon a peace.

The Danish Chronicles allegge, that the oc= calion of this warre role hercof: This Dlanus, ayded Chute (as the same writers reporte) a= gainst kying Comunde and the Englishemenne. But when the peace Mould be made betweene Cnute and Comunde, there was no confideration had of Clauns: where as throughe hym the Danes ci i fip obtenned the victorie.

Gerebpon Dlabus was fore offended in hys mynde againste Cnute, and nowe byon occasion fought to be reuenged. But what soeuer the cause was of this warre betwirte these two Princes , the ende was thus: That Dlabus 5 was expulled out of his kingdom, and constrais ned to flee to Ger thallaus, a duke in the parties of Castlande.

Indafterwarde retourning into Porwaye, was flaync by fuche of his subjectes, as toke part with Enute, in manner as in the bistoric of Polway, it appereth moze at large, with the cotravictie foud in the writing of them which have recorded the hillories of those Porth regions.

But here is to be rememberd, that the fame Magrius Olaand glozie of the English nation was greately vus. aduantited in these warres, as well against the Swedeners as the Polwegians: lo that Cnute began to lone and trust the Englishmen muche Fabian, better than it was thought he woulde euer haue Polyd. done. Shortly after that Cnute was retoutned H. Hunt. into Englande, that is to wit (as loine haue) in the.rb.yeare of his reigne, he went to Rome to perform his bow which he had made to vilite the he vente forth places where the Apolles Peter and Paule had of Denmark to their burial. He was honozably recepued of Pope Sim. Dunel. John the rr. that then held the lea. When he had An. 170 ; 1. done his denotion there, hee retourned into Eng= lande. In the yearefollowing, he made a jour = 1032 nep against the Scottes, whiche as then had re- PVil. Malm. belled. But by the princely power of Enute, they Mac. evest. were suboucd and brought agayne to obedience: Scott subdued. to that not buely king Malcolme, but also two H. Hunt. other kinges Melbeath and Icohmare, became Auno.1035. his subjectes. Finally after that this noble prince PVIL Mal. king Crinte had reigned the tearnie of.rr. yea-res currant, after the death of Ethelred, hee died king Cnute. at Shaftelbury, as the englithe weiters affirme, the. rij. daye of Pouember, and was buried at Winchester. But the Danish chronicles record, that he died in Pozmandie, and was burpid at H Hune. Roan (as in the same Chronicles pe maye reade Al. Grantz. more at large.) This Cnute was the might pelt

Chute. H.Hunt. Albertus

Crantz.

Fabian.

Polidore.

The large do- prince that cuer reigned ouer the English people: to; he had the fourraigne rule ouer al Denmark, Englande, Porway, Scotland, t part of Sweden. Intonall other of his royall aires, he cauled their palles, as may appeare by a letter which he himselfe being at Rome, directed to the Billiops the it also appeareth, that belides the royal entertaynment, which he had at Rome of pope John, he had conference there with the Emperoz Conto the benefite quelt in fauoz of those Englishme that Chulo traof Englishmen naile to Rome, graunted (as we haue said) to dis of king Course. minist such dusties as were gathered of pallin= Mat. VVeil. the Thames, or rather (as other write) bypon 30 He caused his chaire to bee rounde togither, thiewe it on the fandes verye fet there, 25 Math. V Vest. Hen Hunt.

The saying of

suche tolles and tallages as were demaunded of waygoers at bridges & Arcetes in the high wape betwirte Englande and Rome to be diminished to the halfes, and agarne got also a moderation to be had in the payemente of the Archbishoppes the Court of Rome when they Moulde recepue and other of the nobles of England. In the whirade, a with Rafe king of Burgongne, and with many other great princes and noblemen, which were present there at that time. Which at his re= 20 gers. He recepued there many great giftes of the Emperoz, and was highly honozed of him, and likewise of the Pope, to fal other the high princes at that tyme present at Rome: so that when hee came home, as some write) hee Moulde growe greatly into pride, infomuche that being necre to the sea stronde, neere to Southhampton, and percepuping the water to rple, by reason of the tyde, her caste off his gowne, and wrappyng it neere the increasing water, and sate him downe open it, speaking this of the lyke wordes to the sca. Thou art sayth he) within the compasse of my dominion, and the grounde whereon I fitte is nime, and thou knowell that no wordst dare visober my comandements, I therfoze do now commaund thee not to tyle byon my grounde, not to prefume to wet any part of thy loueraine Lotde and-gouernour. But the sea keeping tir course, role still higher and higher, and overflo= wed not only the kings feete, but also flathed bp buto his legs a knees. Wherwith the king starte fodenly by, 4 without from it, faring with al to his nobles that were about him: Behold you no= ble men, you cal me king, which can not formuch as stay by my commundement this smal postion 50 make the beholders to wonder at such their exces of water. But knows ye for certains, that there is no king but the father only of our Lozd Jefus Christe, with whome hereigneth, and at whose becke all things are governed, let vs therfore honour him, let vs confesse and professe him to bee Beatouny y nough, if it had the ruler of heaven, earth, and fea, and besides him bin according none other. From thence he went to Winchester and there with his own hands let his crown by o

the head of the image of the Crucific, which flode Ran. Hied there in the church of the Apoliles Peter Paul, Polidere and fro theceforth he wold neuer weare & crown Mat. Pr. noz any other. Some write, that he Cpake not the former words to y lea bpon any prelimptuousnes of mynd, but only byon occasion of the bain title, which in his comendation one of his gettle- Polidire, men gaue bini by way of flatterie (as herightly toke it) for he called him the most mightiest king fees of his realme, whiche was leuied of them in 10 of all kings, which ruled most at large both men fees of his realme, whiche was leuied of them in 10 of all kings, which ruled most at large both men fees of his realme, which was leuied of them in 10 of all kings, which ruled most at large both men fees of the second seed of them in 10 of all kings, which ruled most at large both men fees of the second seed of them in 10 of all kings, which ruled most at large both men fees of the second seed of them in 10 of all kings, which ruled most at large both men fees of the second seed of them in 10 of all kings, which ruled most at large both men fees of the second seed of t fea and land. Therfoze to reproue the bayn flat proued, terie of such vain persons, he devised such maner of mean as before is mencioned: wherey both to reprove such flatterers, & also that men might be admonished to consider the omnipotencie of palmightie God. He had illue by his wife Duerne Emme a son, named by the English chronicles Hardiknought, but by & Danish wziters Knute, og Anutte: also a baughter named Coniloa, p Polidire, was after marred to Henry the son of the emperoz Conrade, which allo was afterward Empe= Albertu roz, a named Henry the third. By his concubine Crantz. Alwonne, that was daughter to Alselme, whom fome name crie of hampton: he had two baltard fons, Harold & Sweng. He was much given in his latter dayes to vertue, as hee that considered howe perfect felicitic rested only in godlynes and Polidnes true denotion to ferue the heavenly king and go- Fabian urmour of all things.

De repared in his time many churches, abbeis, and houses of religion, whyche by occasion of warres had bin fore defaced by him and by hys father, but specially he did greate coste bpon the Abbry of faint Comund, in the town of Bury, as bifore partily is mecioned. He bupit allo two Athers from the foundation, as Saint Benets in Postfolke, feuen mples diffant from Pozwythe, and an other in Pozwaye. He biv allo vyhichita buyloe a Churche at Allowome in Eller, where poled to be 40 he obterned the vistorie of king Comund, and Arhden au was prefente at the hallowing or confectation is halfe and thereof with a greate multitude of the Lordes 1020. and nobles of the Realine, bothe Englithe and sim. Dunel. Danes. He also holpe with his owne handes to remour the body of the holy Archbilliop Elphes gus when the same was translated from London to Canterbury. The royall and moste riche itwels which the and his wrfe Queene Emme gaue unto the Churche of Winchester, mighte ding and bount: ful munificence.

Thus did Inute Ariuc to refourme all inche thyngs whiche her and his auncesters had done aunife, and to wype aware the foot of enill dos ing, as furely to the outward fight of the world he did in deed. He had the Archbillyoppe of Canterbury Achelnotus in fingular reputation, and vled his Counseil in matters of importaunce. Leide Ente De alfo fanoured highly Leofrike Carle of Chefier, fo that the fame Leofryke bare great rule in ordering of things touching the fate of the Comon wealth under hym as one of his chief counfellours.

Divers laws and flatutes he made for the coucrument of the comon wealth, partly agreeable with the lawes of king Dgar, and other the kinges that were his predecessors, and partely temthought to him most expedift: among the which thereb divers that concerne causes as wel ecclefiasticall as tempozall. Wherby as M. For bath noted, it may be gathered, that the governement of wirituall matters dyd depend then not byon p Billiop of Rome, but rather appertayned buto the lanfull authozitie of the tempozall Pzince, no leffe than matters and causes tempozall, But of these lawes and statutes enasted by king Enute pe maye reade moze as pe finde them lette fwith 20 in the befoze remembred boke of Malter Wilham Lambert, whiche for triefnelle we heere omitte.

Harolde, the base some of Cnute.

Harold

arole great variance amongst the peeres and great Lozdes of the realme about the fuccession. The Danes and Lodoners (which through cont nauli familiaritie had with the Dancs, were beconclude unto them) elected Harrolde the bake fonne of king Enute, to fuccerde in his fathers rome, having Carle Leofitke, and divers other of the noble menne of the Porthe partes on Coomen Erle of Rent, with the chicfell lozdes of the wealt partes, coueted rather to have one of E Egelreds fons, which were in Pozmandie, of elle Hardiknought the sonne of kyng Cnute by his wife Quene Emme, which remained in Denmarke, aduaunced to the place.

Thys controucrise helde in suche wyle, that the Realme was denided (as some write) by lotte betwirte the two brethren, Paroloe, and Par-

The north parte as Mercia and Porthumberlande fell to Harrolde, and the fouth part onto Pardicnute: but at length the whole remained unto harrolde, bycaule his brother hardienute refused to come out of Denmarke to take the government epon him.

But yet the authoritie of Earle Godwyn The authoritie pered according to his owne liking, and as was to who had the queene and the treasure of the realing of Erie Good in his keeping, stayed the matter a certayn time, vvyn. (bee profesting hymselfe as it were Barvian to the pongmen, the fonnes of the Queene, toll at length he was constrayned to grue our hys holde, and conforme hym selfe to the Aronger parte and greater number.) Ind fo at Drfozde. where the assemble was holden aboute the election, Harrolde was proclaymed kyng, and faerro according to the manner (as some write) But it Moulde appeare by other, that the Archbillioppe of Canterburge Elnothus, a manns endued with all vertue and wyledome refuled The refufatt of to crowne hym: for when kyng harolde bees the Archb. Blicker ale Archb ing elected of the nobles and peeres, requipted king Harolde. the layde Archebilhoppe that he myght be of him facred and recepue at hys handes the Regall Scepter with the Crowne, why che the Archebillioppe hadde in his cultodie, and to inhome it onely did apportagne to invelle hym therea wyth, the Archebillion flatly refuled, and with an othe protested, that he woulde not sacre airp other for Kynge, so long as the Ducencs thyldzen liued : Foz (lapth be) I nute committed them to my truste and assuraunce, and to thene will A keepe my farth and loyall obedience.

End successfully formed and other takes of the on the aulter, and neyther doe I denve not des liner, them onto you : but I fozbio by the Ipo-Rolyke authoritie all the Bishoppes, that none Miffer that Cnute was departed this lyfe, ther 40 of them prefume to take the same away, and delyuer them to you, or facte you for kying. As for your leife, if you dare, you mave burne that whyche I have committed bato God and bys table.

But whether afterwardes the Appear by one meane or other, caused the Trebenylhoppe to crowne hym Kyng, of that he was facted of fome other, he was admitted for kynd of althe Englishe people, beginning hype repane in the But other of the Englishme, and namely Erle 50 yeare of our Lozde a thousande thirtie and sire, in the fouretenth years of the Emperour Conrade the seconde, in the sixte peace of Benepe the firste, kying of Fraunce, and aboute the feuen and twentie pere of Malcoline the Econd. king of Scotlande.

Thus harold for his great lapfincle, was furnamed harefort, of whom little is written Harold who touchype bys boyngs, lauyng that he is noted Harefoote.

Harolde enill spoken of.

Ran. Higd ex Marsone.

ted with manye notable vices. It was woken of dyucrs in those dayes, that thes Harrolde mas not the sonne of Enute, but of a Mocmaker: and phis supposed mother Elgina, king Cnutes concubine, to bying the king further in loue with hir, farned that the was with chylo:and as bout the time that the thulo be brought to bed(as the made hir accompt; caused the layd Shormakers fon to be fecretly brought into hir chamber, and then butruly caused it to be reported, that the was delivered, and the chylde so reputed to bee the kings sonne.

to have ben an opprellour of his people, and fpot=

MAS. VYeft.

Immediatly byon advertisement had of Enutes beath, Alf ed the sonne of king Egelred with tifty faile landed at Sandwich, meaning to chas lenge the ecowne, to obtern it by lawful claym with quietnes if he might, if not, then to ble force by ayor of his fremos, and to affay that way forth to winne it, if he mighte not otherwyse obteyne 20 other write, that this chaunced in his brother it. From Sandwiche be came to Canterbury, and Coatly after, Carle Ewdwyn feygnyng to recepue hom as a friend, came to meet hom, and at Gilford in the night fealon, appointed a number of armed men to fall boon the Posmans as they were a fleepe, and so twke them together with Alverd, a flewe the Pozmans by the poll, in suche wise that ir. were flaine, and the.r. re= ferued. But yet when those that were reserved Cemed to him a greater number than he withed 30 Encomium Emma writeth hereof, whiche is as to escape, he fell to and agains tithed them as before. Albred had his eres put out, and was conuered to the Ile of Elye, where Chortely after he died. Kow Alvzeofronto clayme the crowne to himfelfe, I fce not : fog berily I can not be per= fraded that he was civer brother, although diners authors have so written, fith that Gemetis censis, and the authour of the loke called Encomiam Emma, plainly affirme, that Edward was the clote: but it might ber, that Albred beeirga 40 horoe bee might gette into his handes and make man of a flonter flomacke than his brother Comard, inche this attenut, epther for hinifelf, or in the behalfe of his brother Coward, being as then ablent, and gone into hungarie, as lome write: but other lave, that as well Edwarde as Alvied came ouer at this tyme with a number of Poz= mankniglits, mm of war embarqued in a fiw Mippes onely to speake with their mother, which es then lage at Wincheller, whether to take ab= uife with hir bowe to recouer their righte here iu so this lande, or to aduaunce their brother Bardis enute, or for some other purpose, our authors do not declare. But the Lordes of the realme that bare their and willes buto Harold, and (although contrarie to right) ment to marntein him in the affate, feemed to be much offended with the comming of these two beethem in suche oeder: foe Earle

Godwin perluwed them, o it was great danger to fuffer to many trainingers to enter the realin. as they had brought with them.

Wilherbron Earle Ewdwyn with the allent of the other Lozdes, or rather by commanndemente of Parolde, wente forthe, and at Gildforce met with Alexed that was comming towardes Kyng Parrolde to fpeake with him. accordingly as he was of harolde required to 10 doe. But nowe bring taken, and hys companie miscrably murthered (as before ve haue berd) to the muniber of fix hundred Pormans, Alwed hymselfe was sente into the Ide of Elye, there to remay n in the Abbey in cultovic of the Monkes, having his eyes put out as some as he entred firfte into the fame Tile. William Ralmis burye fayeth, that Albied come ouer, and was thus handeled betwirte the tyme of harders beath, and the comming in of hardiente: and Pardicnutes dayes. Whiche Cerneth not to bee true: for Pardienute was knowne to ione lys beetheen by his mothers fide to dearely, to have fuffred any fuche iniurie to be wrenght to exthet of than in hys tynu.

Thus ye fee how welters diffent in this matter, but for the better clearing of the truthe tous ching the tyme. I have thought good to Wewe also what the author of the sayd toke intituled followeth.

dd hen Harolde was once elfablithed kyng, he fought meanes bowe to tid Ducene Emme out of the wave, and that fectitely, for that openire as yet he durife not attempte any thing againfic bir. Shee in filence kepte bir felle quiet, lotying for the ende of thefe thyings.

But Parrolde rementerng bimtelfofams licious purpole, by wicked adulle toke counted awaye the fonnes of Duerne Emme, to to bes out of daunger of all annoyance that by them mygit beprocured agaput bim :and therefor hie cauleth a Letter to bie watten in name of Acoust their mother the layde Emme, whiche he laite by certayne mellengers luborned for the purpose into Pormandie, where Edwarde and Ilies as then remayned. The tenour of inhighe letter here ensueth.

Emma tantum nomine Regina filijs Edwards Tarum Alfrido materna impertit salutamina: Dum domini noftre Regis obitum separatim plangiaires (fily charisimi) dumq, diatim magis magus na no hareditatis vestra prinamini, miror quad capretu confily, dum feiate intermifionin veftra delatione muafor w veftre impery ficri quespice foliditatem, Is enim inceffanter vicos & vrbes circuit,

The Historie of England.

O sibi amicos principes muneribus, minis, & precibus facit : sed voum e vobu super se mallent regnare quam istim (qui nunc ess imperat) teneri ditione. Vnde rego vans vestru ad me velociter & prinate veniat, ve salubre à me confiliu accipiat, O sciat que patte hoc negotium quod volo fieri debeat, per prafentem quoq internuncium quid super his facturi estu remandate. Valete cordumes

The same in effect in englishe is thus.

Enune in name onely Ducene, to hir fonfics Cowarde and Alfred, fendeth motherly greting: Miplest we separately bewayle the death of our fourtaigne Lozde the kyng (molte deare fonnes) and whylest you are enery daye more and more beprined from the kingdom of your inheritance, Anicruaile what you doe determine, lithe you knowe by the delaye of youre craffing to make some enterprise, the grounded sorce of the blurper 20 ther. of pour kingdome is vaily made the stronger: for incessantly goeth he fro town to towne, from cis tic to citie, and maketh the Lordes his frends by rewardes, threattes, and prapers, but they had rather have one of you to reigne ouer them, than to be kepte bnoce the rule of this man that nowe gouerneth them. Wherfore my requelt is, that one of you do come with speed, and y minately oner to me, that he maye understande my wholfome aduite, and know in what fort this matter 30 ought to be handled, which I would have to goe forward, and fee that pon frud me mozee by this present messenger what pon mean to bo herein. fare ve well, even the bowels of my heart.

Thele Letters were veliucred buto luche as were made privile to the purpoled treason, who being fully instructed howe to deale, wente over into Pozmandic, & presentong the Actters buto the young Gentlemenne, bled the matter to, that they twke it veryly that this mellage had bene seme from their mother, and wrote agayn by them that broughte the Letters, that one of them woulde not fayle but to come ouer onto hir according to that the had requelted, and withat appointed the day and tyme.

The mellengers returning to king Parolde. mformed him howe they have fped.

The younger brother Alfrede, with his brothers consente, twke woth hom a certagne number of Gentlemen and men of warre, and first came into flanders, where after he had remayned a whyle with Earle Balowyne, he increaled his retinue with a few Bolongners, and pal= fed ouer into Englande, but approching to the llioze, he was freeghtwayes ocicried by his eni= m.cs. who halted forth to lette bpon him: but he percepuing their purpole, commanded y flippes to calle aboute, and to make agayne to the lea: Invafter this landing at an other place, he mente to have gone the nexte wave to his mo-

But Earle Godwyn hearyng of his arrival, Goodvyn met him, recepued hym into his allurance, and vvas suspected bynoing his credite with a copposal othe became to do this vnhis manne, and therewith leading hym oute of berray him as by vericers ie the highe way that leadeth to London, he brou- feemeth. ghte him bnto Bildfojde, where hee lodged all the Araungers, by a scoze, a dozcyn, and halfe a a froze together in Innes, so as but a fewe remayneo aboute the pong Gentleman Alozeo to aftende boon bim.

There was meate and dronke plentie prepared in enery lodging, for the refreshing of all the companie. Ind Godwyntakyng hys leane that workt, departed to his lodging, promithe the nexte morning to come agaphe to give his biniefill attendaunce on Alvied.

But beholde, after they had filled themselnes with meates and dunkes, and were gone to bed, in the dead of the night came luche as king harold had appointed, and entring into energ Inne, Not only first levico oppon the armour and weapons that Goodvyn but other fuche belonged to the Araungers: Whithe done, they asking Harold toke them, and chayned them falle with fetters apointed, toke and manacles, to keeping them fare till the nexte his Norman. morning. Which being conte, they wer brought for the with their handes bounde behande thep? backes, and delinered to most cruel tozmentozs, who were commaunded to spare none, but the ry tenth man, as he came to hand by lot, and to they flew none and left the tenth aline. Df thole that were lefte alone, some they kepte to serve as bonomen, other for conetousnelle of gayne they folde, and some they put in pailon, of whome yet diners afterwardes eleaped.

This with more bath the forlate anthor wris ten of this matter, declaring further, that Albred being conveyed into the plle of Eip, had not only his eyes put out in most cruell wyle, but was alto vielently there murthered. But her speaketh not further of the manner howe he was made as way, fauing that he faith, he fozbeareth to make long recitall of this matter, by cause he will not renews the mothers greek in hearyng it, lithe there can be no greater folow to the mother than to heare of hir sonnes death.

Fremember that in Carton we reade, that his cruell to mentours Moulde cause his belly to be opened, and taking out one ende of his bowelles of guttes, tred the same to a stake whiche they 10 had let fast in the ground, and then with needels of you pricked his bodie, and caused him to run rounde about the stake, tyll he had wound out all his entrailes, and so ended his innocente lyfe, to the great fliame and obloquie of his cruell aduer= faries. But whether he was thus tormented or not, or rather dyed (as I thinke) of the anguishe by putting out his eyes, no boubte but his death was reuenged by Gods hande in those that procured it.

But whether Erle Godwon was chief caufer thereof, in betraping him vader a cloked co= lour of pretended frendlippe. I can not lape: but that he tok him and flew his companie, as some haue written, I can not thonke it to bee true, both as well for that whiche pe have hearde recited out of the author that wrote Encomium Emme, as also for that it sould seme he myght never be so directly charged with it, but that he had matter to alledge in his owne excuse.

E ut nowe to retourne buto other doings of king haro.be.

After he had made amap his halfe brother Albred his mether in law Ducene Emme be fpois led of the most e parte of hir riches, and therwith Simon Dun. banished hir out of the realme: so that she sayled our into Flauntes, where the was honozably tinued there for the space of three reeres, frithat after the death of Harrolde. The was fent for by hir fonne & aidiknought, that succeded parrolde in the kingdome.

Morcouer, Barrolde made fmall accompte of his subicites, degenerating from the noble bertues of hys father, following hym in few things. (except in exacting of tributes and parmentes.) De caused in deede, biij, markes of silver to bee leuped of euery poste of hauen in Englande, to 50 the retepning of roj. hippes furnished with men of mare, why the continued ever in a readinesse to defende the coastes from priotis.

To conclude, with this Harrold. Dis weedy brath provided well for his fame, breaufe as it was thought if his lyfe bed bene of long continuance, bis infamie had bin the greater.

But after he had reigned foure ; e es oglas ha= rison gatherith).m. yeres z.iij. monethes, he des parted out of this worlde at Driete, and was Prilmal burged at Wincheller (as some lay:) other lay be H. H unt. byed at Meneforde in the moneth of Appell, and Pr. Mal was burged at delestminster, whiche thould appeare to be true by that whiche after is reported of his brother hardiknoughtes cruell dealyng, and great (pite thewed towarde his dead bodye, as after Hall be fpecificd.

Hardiknought, 02 Hardicnute.

After that Harroide was dead, ail the nobles Hardiagreed to lende for Hardiknoughte, the sonne of coute. Canute by his wyfe Duerne Emme, and to make him kyng. Here is to be noted, that by the Death of king Enute, the flate of thinges was muche altered in those countreys of beyonde the Ca where he had rule edominion. For the Poz- Alteration in 30 wigians elected one Magnus, the sonne of Da the face of lavus, to be their king, and the Wanes chole this Hardiknought, whom they writers name Ranute the thirde, to their king and governoz.

This pardienought of Canute being abuertised of the death of his halfe brother Parolo, and that the Lordes of England had choken him to their king, with all convenient speed, prepared a si, Dund and recepued of Earle Baldwrne, and hauping of naule, and imbarquing a certain number of men M.V. Vell. of hym honourable provision assigned fir, the con- 40 of warre, twee the sea, and had the wynde so fas Binges in the nourable to his purpole that he arrived bpon the dere withis coast of Kent the. by . day after he set out of De he vyas the mark, and to comming to London, was joyful fent for, bent ly recepued, and proclaymed king, e crowned of correction Athelnotus the Irchb.of Canterbury in the pere of our Lozd. 1041. in the first perc of the Emperot herr p third, in the. ix. of henry the first of that name king of Fraunce, and in the first pere of Magfinloch, alias Machabeda king of Scotlande. Incontinently after his establishemente in the rule of this realme, he fent into flaunders Queene Em for his mother Duerne Emme, who during the fent for. tyme of hir banishment, had remayned there. For Popmandic in that feafen was governed by the French king by reason of the minorities Duke Willia furnamed the ballard.

Moreover, in revenge of the wrong offered to Duerne Emme by bir fonne in lawe Parrolde, Kyng Haidiknonghte opdde saile

Alfrike archbishop of Poeke and Erle Godwin, with other noble men to go to Wellminfter.and there to take by the bodie of the fame harold and withall appoynted, that the head therof should be friken off, and the trounke of the body to be cast into the rine: of Thames, Wilhiche afterwarde borng found by Filhers, was taken up and bu? ried in the Churchyard of Saint Clement Das nes without Temple barre at London. De conimitted the older and government of thongs to is the handes of his mother Duerne Emme. and of Gwowen that was Erle of Kent . Hetemen a fore tribute of his subiectes heere in Englande to pave his fouldiers and mariners of his nauie. as first rrj. M. pound. and: rcie, pound: and af in Dunelm - termard unto.xxxii. Hippesythere: was a papes ment made of eleven thouland and rivili pound. Markot. To every mariner of his navie he caused a pap 1 timin Dun. ment of. bif. markes to bee made, and to energe maister.rij.markes. Aboute the payment of this 20. money, great grudge grew amongst the people. infomuche as two of his fernants, whiche were appointed Collectors in the citie of Mozecester. the one named feader, and the other Turstane. were there flain. In renenge of which contempt a great part of the countrey with the Citie was hient, and the godes of the Citizens put to the facke by fuch power of Lords, and men of warre as the king fent against them. Shortly after, Edward, king hardiknoughts 30 % brother, came forth of Pormandie to vilyte him and his mother Queene Emme, of whome he was most e iopfully and honozably welcomed and entertayned, and Mortly after made returne na prest, backe againe. It should appere by some writers. that after his comming oner out of Pozmandie he remanned still in the Realme, to that he was net in Pozmandie when his halfe brother Bar-Diknoughte dyed, but hecre in Englande : albe thewed.

> Also : as besoze pe haue hearde) some weiters freme to mean, that the cloer brother Alfrid came ouer at the same tyme.

But farely they are therein deceyued: foz it was knowne will inough howe tenderly kyng Hardicuute loued his beetheen by the mothers spot, so as there was not any of the Lotdes inhis dayes, that durste attempte any suche iniuricagarusse them. True it is, that as well 50 milliop, it hath bin brought in daunger. er Carle Cwowyn, as the billiop of Mozceller, that was also put in blame & suspected for the apprehending and making away of Alberd (as before ye have heard,) were charged by Hardicoute, as culpable in that matter, infomuch that the land Billiop was expulled outs of his lea by Parviknought: Ind afier twilue months space was reflozed by meanes of such summes of mo-ncy, as he gave by ware of amendes.

- Earlt Godinyn was also put to his purgar Eric Goodtion, by taking an othe that her was not gilfie, celfe. Wilhiehe otherwas the better allowed, by reason of such appetent as he gape to the king for the edeempagoshis fanour and god will, that is the gift evidtowit, a Unippe with a fierne of gold, conteyning evin gaue to therin. tere louidiours, wearing on cche of their the kingarmes two bracelettes of golde of sbriounces weight, artiple havergion gelte on their bodies? with guilt burgenets on their heads, a Groone with gilt hiltis girded to their walles, a battaile Are after the maner of the Danes, on their lefts Mulver: a tergat with bolle quailes gilt in their left hand: a darte in their right hande: And thus to coclude, they were furnished at all peeces with armont and wrapon according in a

It hath bin fago, that Ette Cobwyn myns Ded to marrie bis daughter to one of these Bit Polider. thren, and percepuing that the elder brother Mi fred would difdayne to have hir, thought good to dispatche him, that the other taking hir to wyfe, might be nexte heire to the Crowne, and fo at length entopit, as it afterwaites came to palle.

Allo about that tyme, when the linage of the kings of Englande was in nianer extincte, the Engliste people were muche earefult (as hathe! bene: lapoe) aboute the fuccellien of those that Moulde enloy the crowner met achieve to stank

Wilherropen as one Brightwolv, a Monke of Blassenburge, that was afterwarbe Billion of Winchester, (og as some haue waltten) of Wioz celler, lindyed oftentymes theron: It chaunced that he dreamed one night as he flente in bedde. that he lawe Sainte Peter facre and annount Cowarde the sonne of king Egelred (as then remaining in exile in Populandie) king of Englande. And as he thought, he byd demaunde of Sainist Peter, who Moulde Acceede the fayde thoughe other make other reporte, as after hall 40 Cowarde ? Wherebuto aunswere was made by the Apolite, Haue thou no care for fuch matters : for the kingdome of Englande is Gods kingdome, which furtly in god earnest may avpeare by many great argumentes to be full true buto suche as shall well consider the state of this realme from time to tyme, howe there hath bin euer governours rayled op to maynteen the maiellie of the Kingdome, and to reduce the fame to the former dignitie, when by any infortunate

But to return now to Kyng Haroknought. after that hee had reponen two yeares lackyng fenne dayes, as her latte at Cable at a greate The death of fealt holden at Lambheth, be fell downe foden & Hardienure. ly with the pot in his hande, and to dyed, not sim. Dunel. without some suspition of poylon. Math. veft.

Thys chaunced the. 3. pape of June at Lam - 1042. bheth aforfaid, where the fame pape amarriage

Queeue Emme banished.

Pelidor. Hatold degehis father. Lien.Hunt.

Fuil men, the fon er they luc, the no & they govve only halette.

Hen. Hunt.

englishemen learned excelfine feeding.

was folemnifed betweene the lady Githa, the daughter of a noble man cailed Digote Clappa, and a Danithe lozde called Canute Pzudan. his bodie was buried at Wincheller belides his K. Hardicanute fathers. We was ofnature very curteous, gentle, his conditions. and liberall, specially in keeping god cheere in in househeping. his house, so that he woulde haue his table couered foure tymes a day, furnished with great plen= tie of meats and drinks, withing that his feruan= tes and all Araungers that came to his palaice, 10 Henrye the thirde, furnamed Piger, in the. rij. might rather leave than want. It hath bin com= monly told that Englishmen lerned of him their Of whome the excelline gourmandize and vnmeasurable filling of their panches with meates and dinks, where by they forgate the vertuous vie of sobrietie, so muche necessarye to all estates and degrees, to profitable for all common wealths, and to com= nuendable both in the light of God, and all god men. In this Hardiknought cealed the rule of the Danes within this lande, with the perfecuti= 20 on which they had executed against the English nation, for the wace of.250. peres and more, that The end of the is to witte, cuer fith the.r. peare of Bzithzike the Danish rulers. king of Wellsarons, at what time they first be= gan to attempt to innabe the Englille coalles.

Howebeit (after harison) they Moulde freme to have ruled heere but. 207. reckening from their beynging in by the Welchemen in velpite of the Sarons, at which time they fiell bega to inhabit here, whiche was. 3 . of Chaifte 317. after the 30 felf, if eche poynt had aunswered his expediation comming of the Sarons, and . 35. neere complet of the reigne of Cabeit.

Edwarde.

Edward. H.Hunt.

Polidore.

Mucoiatly byon y death of Hardiknonght and before his corps was committed to bus ryall, his halfe brother Edwarde, fonne of kyng Egelred beogotten of Ducene Enme, was chofen to be king of Englande, by the generall con- 50 fent of all the nobles and comons of the realme. Therebypon were Timbassadours lente with all fpeede into Pozmandie, to fignifie buto bini bis election, and to being him from thence into En= glande, in delyucryng pledges for more affuraunce, that no fraude not deceipte was ment of the Englichmen. But that voon his comming thyther, he Moulde recepue the Crown, without all contradiction. Erwarde then appendip hys coulin William Duke of Rozmandie, twiethe fea, and with a finall companye of Poimans came into Englande, where her was recepued with greate love as king of the realme, and imnicolatty after was crowned at Winchester by H.Hunr. Edinus then archbifhop of Canterbury, on Cas The 3.01 April Aeroay in the yeare of our Lozde. 1043. Whiche fell also about the fourth years of the Emperoz peare of henry the first of that name Kring of Fraunce, and about the third yeare of Makbeth king of Scotland.

This Edwards the third of that name before the conquest, was of nature moze mecke & sim= ple than apte to the governement of the realme, and therfore did Erle Godwyn not only leeke the destruction of his cloer brother Ilired, but alto holpe in that he mighte to aduaunce this Edwarde to the crowne, in hope to beare great rule in the realme under him; whome hee knewe to be lofte, gentle and taly to be persuaded.

But what socuet writers do report hereof, sure it is, that Cowarde was the elder brother, and not Alvzed, so that if erle Godwyn did thew his furtherance by his pretenced cloake of offring his frenollyp buto Alvico to betraye him, he did it by king Harolos coniandement, and yet it may be that he ment to have blurped the crowne to him in the sequele of things as he hoped they would, and therfore had not passed if bothe the brethren had bin in heauen. But pet when the worlde framed contrary (peraduenture) to his purpole, he didde his tell to aduaunce Edward, truffing to beare no finall rule bnder him, being knowns to be a man more appliable to be gouerned by 0= ther than to trust to his owne wit, and to chief. lp by the affiliance of Erle Bodwyn: whole au-40 thotitie (as appeareth) was not small within the Realme of Englande in those bayes, Emarce came to attayne the Crowne: wherevnto the erle of Chester Leofryke also thewed all the furthes rance that in himlay.

Some write (which semeth also to be confire Ren. High med by the Danish chronicles) that king hardis Aben. Com knought in his lyfe tyme had recepued this Cowarde into his Courte, and retepned him fill in the fame in moste honourable wyle.

But for that it maye appeare in the abstracte of the Danille Chronicles, what their writers habbe of this matter recorded, we doe here patte ouer, referring those that be desprous to knowe the diucilitie of oure wayters and theyes, buto the fame Chronicles , where they may fyndit moze at large expressed.

Thys in no wyle is to be lefte buremembred, that immediatly after the death of Hardiknoughf

if was not only decreed and agreed bypon by the greate Lords and nobles of the Realme, that no Dane from thencefwath thoulde reigne ouer them, but also all menne of warre and fouldiours of the Danes whiche lay within a= net Citie og Callell in garrifon within the realme of Englande, were then expulled and put out, of rather flagne (as the Daniffe mgiters do rehearle.

Imongit other that were baniffed, thelas : Die Bonilo nece to king Swayn bp bis fifter. was one, beeing as then a widdwe, and with Geetlacce to hir two of hir fonnes, whiche the had then lyuing, heming and Turkpil, were also caused to auovoe.

There be that write, that Alfred the brother of king Cowarde, came not into the tealme till after the death of hardiknought, and that done, was flaine by Erle Goowin and other of his complices. But how this may fande, considering the circumstaces of the tyme, with suche things as are written by divers authors bereof, it may well be doubted.

But whether Carle Bodwyn was quil= tie to the death of Alfred, epther at this time, or before, certapne it is, that he fo cleered him felfe of that cryme buto King Cowarde, the ly in fauoure with hom as Carle Boowen was, insomuche that king Edwarde marped the lady Eaditha, the daughter of erle God= reconstrum wen, begotten of his wyfe Thira, that was foller to King Bardiknought, and not of his feconde wyfe, as some haue witten.

But lo it was, that King Cowarde neuer had to doe with hir in fleshly wyle. But whe= ther he abilieined bicaule be hande haply bowed challitie, epther of impotencie of nature, og foz a pliuit hate that hee bare to hir kinne, men 40 doubted. For it hath bene thoughte, that he eficeined not Earle Bodwyn fo greatly in his hearte, as be ourwardely made flewe to boe, but rather for feare of his puillaunce, villebled with him, leaft he thouloe other wife put byin felfe in banger both of loffe of life & kingbont. howlocuer it was, he bled his countel in ogdes ring of things concerning the flate of the comon wealth, and namely in the barde handes lying of his mother Ducene Emme, agaynfte who diners acculatios were brought e alled = ged: as first for b the consented to marrie with king Cnure, the publike enimie of therealme. Againe, that the did nothing agoe of fuccoure hir sommes whyle they lined in exile, and that woile was, contitued to haut made them away. For which cause the was dispoyled of al hir gwoes: And bicaufe the mas defamed to be naughte of hir bodie with Alwyne of Aoloine Sie is accufed of disfolure libillion of Winchelter, both fije and the fame uing beshop were comitted to prison within the citie of Ellinchester, (as some write!) but other affirme, that the was straytly kepte in the Abbey of Warwell, tol by way of purging bir Ran. Higd. selfe, after a maruellous manner, in pallyng barcfoted ouer certaine bot hares of plough- Shepurgeth yzons, according to the lawe ordalium, the cle = hir felfe by the o red hir felfe (as the world toke it) and was re- lavy, Ordalium Rozed to hir first allate and dignitie. Dir excelline conctoulnelle withoutregardehad to VP. Malm. the poze, caused hir also to be suil reported of Ind agepne,for that the cuer thewed bir felfe to be more naturall to the issue whiche. We have by hir fecond hulband Chute than to hir ebills den which the had by hir firste has bande kyffe Egelred (as it were veclarping howe the was be biode helpe to expulle the Danes, and that 20 affeited toward the fathers, by the loute boine to the children) the lotte a greate prece of and still will at the handes of hir formes. Alfred & Edi warde: So that nowe the Gid Edwarde entoping the realine, was callly enduced to think euill of hir, and therebppon bled bir the moze bucourteoully. But bie greate libetalitie employed on the churche of Winchelter, whiche the furnified with maruelous rich lewels and omamentes, wan bir great commenbation in biother of Alfred, that there was none lo high = 30 the worlde, and exculed hir partly in the light of many, of the infamile imputed to hir for the immoderate filling of hir coffers by all wayes and meanes thee coulde deuile. Ind after that De had purged hir felf, as before'is mectolieb? Lir lonne king Cowarde hab ille ener after iff great honog and renerence. And wheras Rod Ran. Higd. bert Archbillop of Canterburg, had ben fore against hir, be was sore abalbebol the marite that hee fledde into Pointanope, where hee ห้องของ ซึ่งอักเก็บ ริชาโปร์

> But it Moulde feeme Up ffint finitie affit Robert Arch-Mall be fair, that he fied not the realiner for this cerbury. matter, but for that be countelled the king to beind Erle Course and allo to blethe Eugliffmen moze ftraitly tha relog was brifuit.

> Pe mult underflande, that kong Camarin brought diners Pormas ouer with hint, whis Frenchmen or chein tyme of his baniffment had themed better entered into great frenofhip, wherefoze he nowr fought iff Englande recompenie them. Emongell other, this Eto+ bert was one, which before his committe ouer was a Monke in the abbey of Bemericum in Pozmandie, the the king was fittl aduanced to govern y fea of London, e after mas mane archbilhop of Cant. & bare great rule bnocr & king, so that he coulde not anoyer the ennie of diners noi le men, s specially of crie Godwin as after that appere. Ibont pehiro pere of Ik. Comatus reigne, Digod Clay mas banifirt

Ran. Higd

Svvayn Good-

Edgius abbelle of Leoste.

This Bearne

was the ion of Vifus a Dane, vncle to thys

Syvane by his

ster of Kyug

H. Huns.

The Danes

Spoyle Sand-

vviche.

mother, the li-

banished.

the Realme. And in the years following, that is to witte, in the yeare. 1.47. there fell a meruai= A great dearth. lous great snowe, couering the grounde fro the beginning of Januarie vntill the. rvij. dape of Marche. Ind belides this, there hapned the lame yeare suche tempeste and lyghtenings, that the come boon the earth was beent by and blaffed: by reason whereof, there followed a great dearthe in England, and also death of men and cattell.

About this time Swain the son of erle God- 10 win was banilled the land, thed into Flanders.

This Swayne kente Edgina, the Abbille of the Monasterie of Leoffe, and fozlaking his wife meante to haue marryed the fozelayde Abbille. Within a certain tyme after his banichement, he returned into Englande, in hope to purchase the kings peace by his fathers meanes and other his frendes. But bpon some malicious pretence, he slewe his coulin Erle Bearne, which was about to labour to the king for his pardone, and so then fledde againe into flaunders, till at length Allered the Archbillyop of Porke obtepned his parbon, and founde meane to reconcile him to the kings fauour.

In the meane tome about the. bj. pere of king Edwards reigne, certaine pirates of the Danes arrived in Sandwiche haven, and entring the lande, walted and woyled all about the coalt.

There bee that write, that the Dancs had at one named Lother, and the other Irlyna.

After they had ben at Sandwiche, and brouabt from thence greatriches of golde and fluer, they coafted about buto the we of Eller, & there spoyling the countrey, went backe to the sea, and fayling into Flanders, made lake of their spoyles s bottes there, and fo returned to their coutreys.

After this, during the reigne of king Edward, there chaunced no warres, nepther forragne nor 40 civile, but that the same was epther with small flaughter luckily ended, of elle without any no= table aduenture, chaunged into peace.

The Welchemen in deede with they? princes fyn Princes of Ryle and Griffyn wjoughte some trouble, but still they were subdued, and in the ende both the land Ryle and Eriffen were brought onto confusion: although in the means tyme they didde muche hurte, and namely Griffyn, who wyth ayor of fome Triffmen, with whome he was as 50 tyng him in baunger of his lyfe. Ired, aboute this tyme entred into the Seuerne fea, and toke playes aboute the river of Wipe: and after returned without any battaile to him

Aboute the same tyme, to witte, in the peare 10.40 .the Emperour Henry the third made warres against Balowen Erle of Klaunders, and for that he willied to have the fea stopped, that the layor Earle Moulde not escape by flight that waye forth, he sente to king Cowsrde willing bin to kepe the fea with some number of thippes, Humaling King Cowarde furniflyng a nauie, lay wyth Controlle the same at Sandwiche, and so kept the leas on 14.14.01. that five, till the Emperoure had his will of the Carle.

At the same tome Swayne, sonne of Carle Godwyn came into the realme, and traiteroully sleme his cousin Bearne (as befoge is sayd,) the whiche transpled to agree him with the king.

Also Golipat Clappe, who had leste his wrfe at Bruges in flaunders, comming amongelt simon Dun. other of the Danilhe pirates, whiche had robbed in the coastes of Bente and Eller, as before pe have hearde, recepued hys wyfe, & departed back into Denmark with fir thips, leauping the relidue being rriff behynde him.

Aboute the tenthe peare of king Edwardes Fabian. reigne, Eustace Erle of Bolongne, that was father buto the valianut Goofreye of Bovillon Mar. Viel and Baldwyn, both afterwarde kings of Bierus The earle of rusalem, came ouer into Englande in the mo. Franders con neth of September, to visite his brother in lawe glande. Kyng Cowarde, whole lifter named Goda, he Ra. Higd. had marged, the then being the wydow of Bral- VV. Mal. ter de Maunte. De founde the kyng at Blouce- K. Ediruit fter, and being there iopfully recepued, after is had once dispatched suche matters for the which hee chiefly came, he toke leave, and retourned that trine to their leaders two Capitagnes, the 30 homewarde. But at Canterbury one of his hers pril. u. bingers dealing roughly with one of the Eitezens aboute a lodging, whiche he fought to have rather by force than by entreatance, occasioned Douer had his owne death.

all hereof when the earle was advertised, her halted thither to revenge the flaughter of his leruaunt, and flewe both that Citizen whiche had killed his man. and. rbiij. others.

The Citizens herewith in a great furit, gotte them to armour, and lette byon the carle and his A fray in Co meynie, of whome they flewe twentie persons revist the out of hande, and wounded a greate number of al Boogre the relique, to that the erle bneth mighte eleape mes. with one or two of his men from the frage, and with all speede returned backe to the kyng, mefenting greenous information againsts them of Caterbury, foz their cruel bling of hym; not only in Acaying of his fernauntes, but alfoin put

The Kyng crediting the Earle was hyghely offended againste the Citizens, and with all fpetde lendyng foz Earle Godmyn, beclardin to hym in greenous wyle, the revellyous are of them of Canterbury, whiche were onder his in-nithe beginning, than of lykelyhode it woulde proue in the end, thought it reason therefore that firste the aunswere of the Kentishemen shoulde be hearde befoze any fentence were given against them. Ind herebpon although the king comanded hom forthwith to goe with an armic into Bent, and to punish them of Canterbury in most rigozous manner, yet he woulde not be to bally. but refused to execute the Kinges commaunde= his mende, that the kying Moulde fauour ftraungers so highly as he did, And againe, breause hereby he fluid feme to do plefare to his coutrey= men in taking oppon hym to defende their cause againste the rough accusations of suche as had accused them. Wherfore he veclared to the king that it shoulde bee conveniente to have the sun= poled offendours typhe called afore hym, and if they were able to excuse themselves, then to bee fuffered to departe without further beration: and 20 if they were found faultie, then to be put to their fine, bothe as well in fatilifying the King, whose peace they had broken, as also the Erle, whom they had indamaged.

The Erle who was a man of a bold course The cite and quicke witte, dy de percepue that the mate ties ter was made a greate deale worte at the fyille

Earle Godwyn departed thus from the king, leaving him in a greate furic: howbeit hee passed little thereof, supposing it would not long continue. But the king called a greate assemble and Earle of his loedes, together at Blocelter, that the mat= Eile of Porthumberland and Leofryke Erle of Cheffer, with Kafe Erle of Hereford, the kings nephew by his lifter Goda, and al other the noble men of the realme, only Erle Godwyn and his formes, meant not to come there, excepte they might bring with them a great power of armed men, and so remained at Beverstane, with such bandes as they had leuged binder a colour to relift the Welchemen, whome they bruted abroade fozde.

But the Welchemen preuenting that flaunder significo to the king that no such matter was ment on their parties, but that Earle Bodwyn and his funnes with their complices, went aboutto mone a commotion against him. Herevpon a rumour was rayled in the Courte that the kings power Moulde Mortely marche forth to assayle Carle Swowyn in that place where hee was felfe, and fent to his frendes, willing to flicke to this quarrell, and if the king should go about to _ force them, then to withstande him, rather than to reloc and fuffer themselves to be troden buder foteby straimgers.

Coodwrn in this meane tyme had got toge= ther a greate power of his countreps of Kente, Southeris and other of the wealf parts. Swayn lykewise had assembled muche people out of hiskan. Higd. country's of Barkelhire, Oxfozoddire, Somers Mac. V Vest fetthire, Herefozoffire, and Gloucesterffrze. Sim. Dunel. And harrolds was also come to them with a Harolde. greate multitude whiche her had leaved in El= fer, Postfolke, Suffolke, Campzingellire and Huntingdondbire.

On the other parte the Erles that were with si. Dunelm. the king, Leofryke, Sywards, and Raufe, tepment, both for that hee bare a piece of gruoge in to led all the power whiche they might make, and the same approching to Blocester, the king thous ghte him felfe in moze furctie than befoze, in fo= muche that where as Earle Godwin (who lay with his armie at Langton there not farre off in Bloucestershire) had sente unto the king requiryng that the Earle of Bolongne with the other Frenchmen and also the Pozmans which belde the Castell of Douer, might bee delivered onto him,

The King althoughe at the firste hee stone in great doubt what to do, yet hearing now that an army of his friendes was commyng, made answere to the messengers, which Godwin had fent, that hee woulde not deliver a man of those whome Godwin required, and herewith the fair mellengers being departed the kings army entred into Gloucester and such readie good willes aus peared in them all to fight with the aducrfaries, that if the kyng woulde have permitted, they consider ter might be moze deepely considered. Sywarde 3° woulde fozthwith haue gone swith and gyuen battaile to the enimies. Ind thus the matter was at point to have put the realme in hazarde not only of a field, but of bitter ruine that might therof have ensued: for what on the one parte and the other, there were assembled the chiefest Loides and most able personages of the lande. But by the wysedome and god aduise of Earls Leofrike and others, the matter was pacified for a tyme, and odocrtaken, that they Moulde come to bec readie to innade the marches aboute Heres 40 to a parliament of communication at London, bypon pledges given and recepted as well on the one parte as the other.

The king with a mightie armye of the Poz= thumbers, and them of Mercia, came buto Lon don, and Earle Godwyn with his fonnes, and a areate power of the Wealt Sarons, came into Southwarke, but percepting that many of his companie state awaye and slipte frombym, he durste not abyde any longer to enter talke with lodged. Wherepon the same Eile prepared him= 50 the Kyng, as it was conenauntedbut in the nyghte nexte ensewing, fledde away with all speede possible.

Some write, howe an oper was preseris pr. Mal. bed that Swanus the clock some of God- Svayn eldest wyn Moulde departe the lande as a banyaled some to Good manne to qualifye the Kynges wrathe, and vvin banished, that Godwyn and one other of his sonnes, that is to witte, Harrobe, Couldecome to an other

Si. Dunelm.

affemble to bee holden at London, accompanyed with twelve firmauntes onely, and to relygne ail his force of Knights, Eentlemen and Soul-biours buto the Kings guyding and gouennes

But when this last article pleased nothing erle

Commyn, and that he percepued howe his force beganne to decline, so as hee floulde not he able to matche the kinges power, he fledde the realme, and so likewise did his somes. He himselfe with his sonnes Swanus, Tostie, and Burth, sayled into flaunders: and Harrolde with his brother

Leofwyn gat flippes at Brillow and palled in= to Frelande. Githa the wyfe of Godwyn, and Judith the wife of Costic, the daughter of Bald

wen Earle of flaunders wente ouer also with

The king hauing perfect knowledge, that erle

Ewdwyn had refuled to come to the Courte in was departed the realm with his sonnes: he pro-clapmed them outlawes, and gave the landes of anco them agayne withoute grudging buto the their hulbands.

Also buto Erle Dodo were given the counties of Denonshire aud Somerletshire. Morcouct, about the same time p king put his wife Ducene Coitha from him, and appoynted hir to Araight keeping in the Abbey of Warwel.

This Coitha was a noble Gentlewoman, The Englewell learned, and experte in all the sciences, yet avvay have Queene Edge hir god name was stayned som what, as though flee had not lyued to continently as was to be 10 wiffed, both in hir hulbands lyfe tyme, and after his decease. But pet at the houre of hir deathe (whyche chaunced in the dayes of Mylliam Conquerour,) Mee cleared bir felfe, in takpna it poon the charge of hir soule, that thee hadde cuer lyued in perfede chastitie: foz kyng Cowarde (as before is mentioned) nevertouched hir in anv affuall manner.

By thes straight dealing with the Ducene that was daughter to Earle Godwyn, nowin tyme of hir fathers exile, it hath feemed to ma-Inche order as he had prescribed hom, and that he 20 np, that Kong Edwarde forbare to deale with hir in carnall wyle, more for hatred of hit kin, than foz any other respecte. But to proceede.

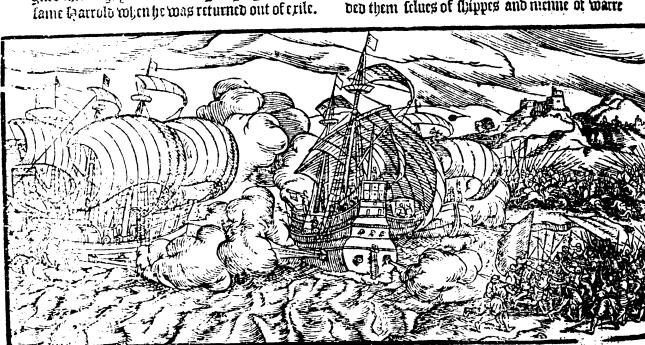

In the seconde years of Godwyns banish 105% mente, both he and his sonnes hauping proup= H.Hune. ded them schies of thippes and nicime of warre vvin fled the tealme.

Earle Good-

Goodwin and Harrolde unto Algar, the sonne of Erle Leofrik, his sonnes pro- who gupded the same right worthyly, and resi= claymed out-fordshire.

conneniente for the purpole, came byon the coa= Acs of Englande, and after the manner of Roners, twice prayes where as they elyged ad= nauntage, namely on the coastes of Rente and

In the meane tyme also Eriffen the kyng of Colales, destroyed a great parte of Persegospire frozen Here- againste whome the power of that countrepe and also manye Popmans that laye in garris fon worthin the Callell of Herefogde, com= myng to grue battarle, were ouerthowne on the fame daye, in the whyche aboute two and eminie yeares befoze log as some Copies haue thirteene yeares) the Wielchemen hadde flayne Cowyn, the brother of Carle Leofrike.

Shortely after, Carle Harrolde and bis 120= Haroldin ther Leofwyn retourning out of Freiand, en dechibes of Dorfets tred into the Scuerne lea, landing on the coses Somerice. fics of Somerlette and Dozlit Mires; where falling to spoyle, they were encountred by a power allembied oute of the Counties of De uonflire and Somerlettlire : but Barolde putte his adverlaries to flight, and flimethirtie Gentlemen of honoure, or Thanes (as they called them) with a great number of others.

Carle Carroide then and his bettherne, te-

The Historie of Englande.

surring with their pray and dwite to their thins, and coasting about the poynte of Cornewalle, came and toyned with their father and their other breethee, as then loiourning in & Alle of Wicht.

King Coward to withfand their malice, had rigged and furniflied forth firtie Ships of war. with the which he himfelfe went to the water, not flicking to lie abourde at that featon, although be had appopulted for Captaynes and admirals two Carles that were his coulins, Doo and Raufe. who has tharge of the whole army. Raufe was his nephew, as sonne to his lifter Boda by hir firt husband Gnaffer de Maunte. But although they mere knowen to bee sufficiente men for the ordering of fuch businesse, pet he thought the necessitie to be suche, as his person coulde not be presently wared. Therefore he was diligent in foreleeping of things by good admice, although age woulde not mue him leave to execute the same by bys pwise hand, and force of body: but as the Panics on both parties were ready to have toyned, they were senered by reason of a thicke milt that then role, whereby they? furious rage was restrayned for that time: and immediately thereboon. Godwin and his complices were foreed by a contras ry winde, to returne to the places from whenev they came. And Mostly after by mediation of friends, a peace was made, and Earle Bodmine restored home, and obtained agains bothe & kings fauour, and al his fornier linings: for he was lush 30 pon, the wifer fort on both fides fought meanes to an eloquent wife man, that he cleared and purcer himselfe of all such crimes and acculations, as in any fort had bin layde against him. Thus have fome written concerning this agrement betwirt King Coward and Carle Godwin, where other make formuhat larger report therof, as thus. The same time that the two sonnes of Carle Codwin, harrow and Leofwine came forth of Ireland and inhaded the West countrey, King Cowarde rigged forzthe fortie Shippes, the whythe 40 more affurative of Gwowines loyaltie. Some throughly furnished with men, munition, e bies taples, he fente buto Sandwich, commaundyng the Captagnes there to awaite for the comming of Carle Bootwin, whome he benderftwo to be in arradinelle to refurne into Englande : but notwithstanding, there wanted no diligence in them! to loke to their charge, Carle Coobine fectity' with a few Shippes whiche be had got togither, arrived in Bent, and fending forth his letters and' mellengers abzoade unto the Citizens of Can- of colcifece(as hath bin thought) for y ninrehering ferbury, fo the of Suller, Southery, and others, required them of agoe, who with one confente, promised to live and vie with him. The Captaines of the name at Sandwich admixtifed here= of, made towardes the place where they thoughte to have found Erle Godwinibut he being warned of their comming, escaped by flight, and gote bim out of their vauriger, wherevoon they withbut to Sandwiche, and after retuined to Lon-bon. Earle Godwin wountiled thereof, fayled to the Ale of Wighte, and wasted by and downe thole Seas, til his fonnes Harrold and Heofwing came and isynch their naute with his, and ceal= ling from spoyle, only fought to recourt vittailes to ferue their turne. And incressing their power by fuche ayde as they might any where viocure, at length they came unto Sandwiche, whereof K. Edward having knowledge, being then at Lon-Don, bie fente abzoade to repfe all the power bee that Earle michte make, but they that were appoynted to Goodwine come unto him, lingered time, in whiche meane was well while, Carle Coowin came into the Chames, & iriended. to by the River, arrived in Southwarke, on the day of the craltation of the Croffe in Septems ber, being Monday, and there flaying for the tide. solicited the Londoners, so as hee obterned of them what hee coulde delire, and afterwardes withoute disturbance, with the tide passed by the 20 Riper through the South arche of the Bringe, & at & fame inffant, a mighty army whiche he had by land, multred in the fictoes on that South fide the lame River, and herewith his nauce made towardes the Potthe lide of the River, as if they mentto enclole y kings nauic, for y R. had alfo a

natic and an army by land: but yet fith ther were sew either on the one part of the other, that were able to do any great feate except Englichme, they were loth to fight one against another, whereby make an afonemente: fo at length by their bili-gent travel, the matter was taken bp, and the armies being dismissed on both partes, Erle Ewdwin was restored to his former bignitte. There forre pleages delivered on his behalfe, that is to wit, Williantus one of his fonnes, and Pacun the fon of Suanus, that was the cloth fon of Godwin. Thele two phoges were lene buto Willia

Duke of Posmandy, re beckepte will hym for beries as he made on the Scas, proble progente whereof he was discended. Finally booremorfe of his coulin (of as some lay his brother) Earl's

Biogne, he went on pilgrimage to Jerofaken.

waite, that Suanus heldest son of Ewdwin was Ran. Higd. not reconciled to pkings fanour af this time, but Mat. Veft. whether he was of not, this is reported of him for simon Dan. a troth, p after he had attepted kundep rebellions ppil. walm. against R. Edward, he tality allo rebetted against his father Cobwin, e his brother Parrolo, e bes came a Pract, vill) onozing to luch manifold robi vied by the way in returning homeward of color which he cought as some weite)in Elctaibut of Kancerifa. ther affirme, thar he fell into fut hands of Baras pvil. Mal. fins, that were robbers by the high wayes, and for William. was murthered of them. The foreland Wifflianip Duke of Nor. Duke of Postiandy (that after conquered thys methoder lande (during the time of Goddoines outlary, into England

came

Danel.

commeth o.

Folidor.

had great cheere: and after he had tarried a fealon, uer into Enghe returned into his countrey, not without great giftes of iewels and other things, whiche the K. most liberally bestowed boon him. And as some write, the King promised hym at that tyme, to King Edwards make hym his heire to the Realme of England, duke William came over into this lande with a faire retinue of men, and was toyfully recepued of the King, and if he chaunced to die withouteillue. D. Emme the kings mother, and was burped at Winchester. After that Carle Godwin was restozed to the Kyngs fanoure, bycause hec knewe that Robert the Archbiffop of Canterbury haode bin the chiefe procurer of the Kings euill will towards him, be founde meanes to weare him out of credite, and divers other specially of the Pozmans, bearing the world in hande, that they had foughte to trouble the state of the Realme, to set the Englisse nation : whereas the Pormans a= gayne alleaged, that Earle Godwin and hys Connes abused the Kings loft and gentle nature, and woulde not sticke to jest and mocke at hys curteous and miloe proceedings. But howfocuer the matter wet, the Archbiffjop Robert was glad to depart out of the Realm, and going to Rome, made complayate in the Court there, of the iniuries p were offered him: but in returning through eum, where he had bin Monke befoze his compng into Engiand. Pruerle other were compelled to forfake the Bealme at the fame time, both fpi= ritual men and tempozal, as dililiam Billioppe of London, and Ellf Billiop of Lincolne. De beine furnamed Pentecost, and his companyon

bugh, were conffreyned to furrender their Ca=

iteis, and by licence of Earle Leofitke withdzewe through his countrey into Scotlande, where of These were Pormans: for as partly per haue hearde, Kyng Edwarde broughte with him no finall number of that nation, when he came from thence to recepue the Crowne, and by them hee was altogither ruled to the greate offending of his own naturall subicas the Englishme, name= ly Earle Godwine and his sonnes, who in those parcs for their greate possessions and large reue-newes, were had in no finall reputation with the Kamana banithed the Kealma

The Archbifliop of Can-

feelbury bani-

Encilli prople. After that the Archbishop of Canterbury Robert was departed the Realme, as before pe have hearde, Stigand was made Archbilliop of Can-Laftop of Ca- terbury, og rather thaust him selfe into that dig= nitie, not being lawfully called, in like manner as he had done at Winchester: for where as he was fielt Billop of Shirebogne, beleft that Churche, and toke upon him the Biffopzicke of Winches fter by force, and nowe afterning to be Tribby. Mon of Caterbury, he kept both Winchester and Ran. High Canterbury in his hand at one inflant The bys Fabier. Stigand was greatly infanced for his courtous Stigned ustantialing in fale of possessions apperterming to by med of Single many. Church. He was nothing learned, but that want was a common fault amongst the Billiers of age, for it was openly fpoken in those dapen, that be was meete onely to be a Billiop which coulde Shortly after, or rather somewhat befoze, died 10 ble the pomp of the world, voluptuous pleasures, rich rayment, and fet himselfe forthe with a jolly retinue of gentlemen and scruauntes on horse What manne backe, for therein stode the countenance of a Bis to be Biscop shop as the worlde then framed, and not in suby in the ledge how to have the people fed with the word of lyfe, to the fauing of their foules. King Etward new in the twelfth pere of his raigne, haning brought Polider. the state of the Realine quite from troubles of marre both by Scaand land, he begen to forefer variance betwirte the King and the Loides of 20 as well for the welth of his subiects, as for hyme felfe, being naturally enclined to will well to all nien. He therfore confidence, how by the manifold lames which had bin made by Britagnes, Eng. liffmen and Danes within this lande, occasion was ministred to manye, whiche measured all things by refrest of their owne private gaine and profit, to pervert inflice, and to ble wrongful deas ling in steede of righte, clouding the fame buder fome braunche of lawe, naughtily misconstruct. Dozinandy, he dped in the Abbey of Gemmeti- 30 wherebyon to anoyde that mischiese, he piked out a fumme of that huge and immelurable malle and heape of lawes, luche as were thought molt indifferent and necessary, and there with orderned a fewe, and those most wholesome, to bee from thenceswith bled, according to whose prescript men might line in due forme and rightfull ogder of a civill life. Thefe lawes wer afterwards The laws' called the common lawes, and also Sainte @ De Saint E. warde his lawes, to muche effermed of the Eng- inflimted. Kyng Mackbeth they were honozably recepued. 40 liffmen, that after the Conquest, when the Post mans oftentimes wente about to abjogate the fame, there channed no finall mutenics and rebellions for retexning of those lawes. Buf heere is to bee noted, that although they were called Saint & dwardes lawes, they were for the moze part made by King Edgar, but now by B Cowarder Soco , after they had bin abrogated ान्य वाने हर्गाव for a time by the Wanes.

About this time, Erle Gwowin pico Grobain- or 1054 50 ly (as some haue recorded) as he sate jat table with Hec. Leen the King: and byon talke ministers of the beather polide. of Alfred the Kyings brother, to excuse himselfer polide. he toke a prece of bread, and cateit, faping: Bed , ... h we let mee neuer fwallow this bread downking me cheft, but that I may prefently bee chaken there-With, if euer I was weeting or consenting buto. Ron. High Alfredes deather and immediately therewith, bec. M. M. M. fell downe starke dead. Other fay, that hee ender his life at Winchester, where beeing sudday nely Tun. turpifed with sicknesse, as her sate at the Cable with the King bpon an Easter Monday, he lp= und yet till the Thursday following, and then byed. Hys Carledonie was given buto his sonne parrold, t Parrolds Erledome which was Dreford, was gruen unto Algar the lon of Leofricke.

The Historie of Englande.

This Godwin, as her was a man of greate power, wife, hardie, and politike, fo was her amother person fould passe him in authozitie. But pet whether all be true that Uniters report of his malitious practices to bryng hymlelfe and hys founes to the chiefe scate of governemente in the Kingdome, or that of hatred such flaunders were repled of him, it may of some perhappes be doubted bycause that in the dayes of Kina Edwarde (whiche was a loft and gentle Prince) hee bare greate rule and authoritie, and to mighte procure to himfelfe cuill report for energ thing that chan= 20 ced amille, as oftentimes it commeth to patte in fuche cales, where those that have greate dopings in the governmente of the common wealthe, are commonly cuill spoken of, and that now and the without their gilt. But truth it is, that Godwin beeing in authoritie both in the dayes of B. Ed= ward and his predecessors, did many thyngs as Could appeare by Will than by law, and fo likewife oid his fonnes opo prefump=

tion of the areat pullance that they and they? la= ther were of within the Realme. Hee had to wife the lifter of K. Enute. Editha, of whome her begate three formes (as some write) that is to save, Polidor. Parrolde, Biorne, and Toffie: also his daughter Editha, the which he found meanes to bestowe in marriage bpon King Coward as before pe baue heard. But other write, that he had but one sonne VVil. Malm. by Cnutes filter, the whiche in riving of a rough bitious, destrous to beare rule, and loth that any 10 Horse, was throwen into the River of Thames. and so drowned. His mother also was friken with a thunderbolte, and to perithed worthely, as is reported for hir naughty doyings. She bled to buy great numbers of yong persons, and namely maides that were of any excellencie in beutie and personage, b which the feut ouer into Denmarke. and there fold them to hir most advantage. After hir decesse (as the same authours record) Coodin married another woman by whome he had issue fire fonnes, Suamus or Swapne, Barrolde, Toflie og Tolto, Wilnote, Burth and Leofricke:of them mentionis, and fhall bee further made, as places conucnient Hall ferue thereto.

About the thirtenth peare of King Edwardes Mat. PVeft. raigne (as some write,) or rather about the nine= 1054 teenth of twentith yere as should appeare by the Hec. Boetim. Scottille Writers. Siward the noble Carle of Porthumberlande with a great power of horlemenne went into Scotland, and in battell put to Scotland, and that cone, placed Malcoime fur= named Camopy, the fon of Duncane, sometime King of Scotlande, in the governement of that Realme, who afterward fiew the favo Macheth, and then raigned in gmet. Some of bur Englifte writers lay, that this Malcolme was R. of Ctka erest. butanot, but other reporte him to be sonne to the 张.of Cumberland. But heere is to be noted, that if Mackbeth reigned till the pere. 1061. and was not at that battaile, for as our writers to tellitie, he died in the pere. 1055. Whitehe was in the yeare nert after (as the fame writers affirme) that hee taquilled Mackbeth in fight, & Gew many thous fands of Scottes, all thole Pozmans which as pe haue beard, were withdrawe im's Scotlande, when they were driven out of England. Fristecorded allo, that in the forelaid battayle, in which flight Mackbeth that had blurped the Crowne of 40 Earle Siwarde banquilled the Scottes, one of Silvards fonnes chaunced to be flayne, whereof, though the father had good cause to be sozowfull, pet whe he heard that he dred of a wound which bee had recepued in fighting Coutely in the force part of his body, and that with his face towarde the enimie, hee greatly reidyced thereat, to heare that be died to manfully. But yere is to be noted, onot now, but a littile before, (as henry hunt. Taith,) Durie Siwaro, wente into Scotlande then flarne by Malcolme. Earle Siwarve was so himselfe in person, bee sent his sonne with an army to conquere b land, whole hap was ther to be flaine: and when his father heard & newes, be demaunded whether be received the wound wherof he vied, in b fore parte of the body, or in the hinder part: and when it was tolde him b he recepuedit in the foreparte, I reioper (latth he) euth with all my barte, for I woulde not withe exther to my tonne noz to my felfe, any other kind of beath.

Shortly

serbury.

1055

Mar. vveft. Shortly after, Alored the Billion of Morceter was fent unto the Emperour Henry the third, to fetch Edwarde the sonne of Edmunde Fronside into England, whome King Edward was de-Crous to fee meaning to orderne him heire apparant to the Crowne: but hee oped the same yeare after he came into England. This Edward was furnamed the outlawe: his body was buried at Wiestminster, or as an other layth in the Church King Edward by euill counsell, I wote not bppon what occasion, but as it is thought without caule, baniffed Algar the son of Earle Leofricke: wherebyon he gote him into Frelande, and there prouiding rbiii. Ships of Bouers, returned, and landing in ddlales, joyned him felfe with Griffin the king, or Prince of Wales, and did much hurt on the bordures about Pereforde, of whiche place Raufe was then Erle, that was sonne onto Goda the fifter of King Edward by hir first husbade Bualter de Maunt. This Earle allembling an Mat. Pyel. army, came forth to give battaple to the enimies, sim. Dunck appointing the Englishmen contrary to there manner to fight on horsebacke, but being readp. of . Paules in London. About the same tyme, 10 (the two and twetith of Daober) to give the onfet in a place not past two miles from hereforde. be with his frenchmen and Pozmans fled, and The Welch? fo the rest were discomsited, whome the adversa- the victory. ries pursued, and flew to the number of fine bun sainft Engdeed, beside suche as were hurt and escaped with Norman.

stade to defende the dozes or gates of the princis pall Church, and finally, spoyled and brente the gathered an army, ouer the whiche, Harrolde the fonne of Carle Coowine was made generall. who followed upon the enimies that fled before bim into Porthwales, and flaved not, till hauing passed through Stradlupd, bee came to the Mountagnes of Snawdune, where bee pitched his ficloe. The enimies durft not abide hom, but gote them into Southwales, whereof Harrolde being advertised, left the more parte of his army with the relidue of his people he came backe buto herrfoide, recourred the Cowne , and cauled a greate and mighty trench to be cast round aboute it, with an high rampire, and fenled it with gates and other fortificatios. Ifter this, he did so much.

that comming to a communication with Erif-fin & Algar at a place called Biligelbage, a peace was concluded, and fothe name of Carle Tigar life. Griffin and Ilgar hauing obtepned this bi= dery, entred into the Towns of Hereford, let the Minster on fire, flew senen of the Cannons that fayled about, and came to Chester, there to remaine till the men of warre and Marriners were paped their wages, whilest he went to the King. who both pardoned his offence, and reftozed hom to his Carledome. After this, the very same yere Cowne milerably. The King aduertised bereof, 40 being the. 15. yeare of King Cowardes raigns, as some waiters affirme, the noble Carle of The decesie Porthumberlande Siwarde dred of the flire, of of Northum whome it is layde, that when her percenned the berlande. boure of death to be at hand, he caused himselfe to Randligd be put in armour, and to be fet bp in his chapte, affirming, that a knighte and a man of honoz. oughte to die in that forte, rather than lying on a couch like a feeble and faint harted creature : and litting to byzighte in his chaire armed at all weein Porthwales to relift the enimies there, and 50 ces, hee ended his life, and was buried at Porte. he was a man of a Biantlike flature, and thereto of a righte floute and hardy courage, bycaule bys fonne Waltrif was but an infant, and as yet not out of his cradell, the Carledome was given buto Earle Tollie one of Gudwines lonnes.

> Shortly after, in the yeare. 1057. Albred Bi-Mop of Mozecter, was lente over onto the Emperoure Henry the third, to fetche Edwarde the Ring Cowarde was delirous to fee, incaning to other thin heire apparante to the Crowne:but he died the same yere, after he was now returned into England. This Edward was furnamed the outlawe: his body was buryed at Wieltminfter.og as other fap, in & Church of Saint Paule within London. The same yeare, that is to witte, in the seuenfonne of Comund Frontioe into Englad, whom

gefer de raigne (as some write) Leofricke the noble Carle of Cheffer, of Mercia, that was sonne to Duke Leofwine, departed this life in his owne Towne of Biomeley the last day of August, and was buried at Coventrie in the Abbey there which he hav huilded. This Earle Leofricke was a man of greate honoz, wife and discret in all his dopings. his high wiledome and policie stode the Realm in great steede whilest he lined. He had a noble carnest sute he made the Citic of Couentrie free of all manner tolle, except for Horfes: and to have that tolle lapde downe, also, his fozesaide delife rode naked through the middelt of the Towne, without other concreure, faue only hir heare.

> Morcouer, partly moned by his owne deuotion, and partly by the perfivation of that noble Lady his wife, he builded or beneficially augm &ted and repared many Abbeyes and Churches. Abbeyes of Menlocke, Worceter, Stone, Eue-Mame, and Leof belide Berford.

Illo, he buyloed two Churches within the Ci-Cantes in tie of Cheffer, the one called So. Johns , and the other Saint Werbzough. The valew of p iewels and omaments which he bestowed on the Abber Church of Couentrie, was inclimable.

After Acofrickes death, his sonne Algar was made Earle, and entituled in all his landes and Sugniozies. In the yeare following, to witte, 40 that Mould be preindiciall to fhe Realing! Eleme, 1958, the same Algar was accused again (through while of malice of some envious persons) of treason, so sale collect that he was exiled the land, wherebpyon, he repas red agayne unto his old friend Griffin Prince of Porthwales, of whome hee was toy fully recepned, and shortly after by his appe, and also by the power of a name of Ships that by chaunce arris ned in those parties at that selse season bulwhed Finel. for out of Pormay, the faid Algar recourred hys Coward about the twentith yere of his raine, as then remayning at Glocester, appoputed Carle de Prof. Parrolde to inuade the Dominions of Griffin Ring of Wales. Harrold taking with him a power of toollemen, made speed, and came to Rutland, and there beenned Briffins Palace, and alfolis Shippes, and then about midlent returned againt into England.

After this, about the Rogation weeke, Harrold efflones by the Kings commaundemente, wente against the Welchmen, and taking the Sea, fay= led by Bristowe, round about the coast, compasfing in maner al Wales. His brother Collie that was Carle of Porthumberland, met him by aupointment with an holt of Hollemen, and lo iop= ming togither, they destroyed the countrey of Walesdetrenth of in the fixtenth yeare of King Cowards to compelled to fubrit themselves, to beliner holtas harried by ges, and conditioned to pay the auntient tribute the Englishme which before time they had payd. Ind moreouer, men agree to they renounced their Prince the forenamed Grif- pay their acfin, to that he remayned as a banifled person: and customed sittally, about the fifth day of Anguilt, they flewe him, and fent his bead to Carle Parrold. Afterwards King Coward graunted peule of Wales vil. Malms vitte Blengent of Blethgent, and Rinall Grif- sim. Dunel. fing two biethiert, whiche did homage buto lym naov to his wife, named Gudwina, at whole 20 for the fame, and hadde ferned onber Bartold arainst their brother the foresaid Belffin. There be that write, that not onely Griffin, but also as nother of his brethre also called it ife, was broug ght to his death by the manfull incaries, and pos linke oyder of Carle Harrold, and all the lauadge pvil. Malmi prople of Wales; reduced into the forme of door older bnoer the Subjection of King Edwarde.

Shortly affer, Earle Parrolde chaunced to Harrold goeth palle ouer into Rozmandy, whether of happe or ouer into as the laide Abbey of Priory at Conentrie, the 30 of purpole it is harde to define, whiters barry to priory much in report thereof. Some wife, that he mate earnell fuite to King Edward, to have licence to goe ouer to lee bis biether Willfore; and his nes Edmerus. phewe bacun which as ver have heard were new linered as pledges to Kong Comarce, and knie into Pointandy to temayire there with Duke William, and at length with mucht avoe, gott leaverbut pet be was roto affrehand of the Kingt that he would repet his fourney, and bo the thing Dther write, that Partsholding at his manoz Mae. Pref. of Boleham went about one day into his fifters ppil. Malm. boate of Craper, and fauled the lame to launche forth to the Dea for his plealine but by milfor tune at the same time, a contrary winde hobain. ly came about, and drove the bellell a lande into Fraunce bypon the coast of ponthleti, where hee was taken by the countrey people, and prelimed to the Carle of Ponthieu named Buy of Buiboi Carledome by force, as some haue written. King 50 who kept him as a prisoner, mearling to put him to a greeuous raunsome. But hartolo remeins bring hinselfe of a wile, dispatched a messenger forthe with all Creede unto William Duke of Pormanop, lignifying buto him, that he beeyng sente from Kyng Gowarde to Conficint luche Articles as other incane met that sad bin fente to him afore havve talken of, by chaunte ber was fallen into the handes of the Earle of Ponthien.

The Citic of Herriord fortified by Harrold.

Stradduid.

Spawdunc.

kated to Duke William Duke of Normandy. Hen. Hunt.

Harold was highly welcomed of duk William.

Duke William promited to Harroide his daughter in marriage.

libertie, but allo broughte hym into Pozmandy, Harold is pre- and paclented him there to the Duke, of whome he was most iopfully recovued. There be that agree partly with this reporte.

and partly vary: for they write, that Earle harrold take the Bea bypon purpole to have sapled into Flaunders, and that by force of wind he was driven to the coast of Pouthieu, and so after came into Pozmandy in manner as befoze is mentioned. But by what meanes of occasion socuer hee came thither, certaine it is, that hee was iopfully recepued, and had great cheere made buto hymi by Duke William, p which at that time was ready 20 Earle Harrold caught Toffie by the heare of the tomake a journey againste the Bzitaynes, and toke Carle Parrolde with him to haue his company in armes in that iourney, that hee myghte have the better triall of his valiancie. Earle parrold behaued himfelfe lo, p he Mewed god profe both of his wifedome and policie, and also of hys forwardnesse to erecute that with hand, which by wit he had denised, so that Duke William hadde him in high fauour, and as it hath bin fard. Erie Parrolde (to procure him more friendship at the 30 of methe, and tubbes of brine, and other licor, he Dukes handes) declared buto him, that Kyng Edwarde had ozdepned him his heire if hee dped without iffue, 4 that he woulde not faple to keepe the Realme of England to the Dukes ble, according to that opdenance, if Bing Cowarde dred Math Freft. without illur. Ind to performe this promile, he recepued a corporall othe, whether willingly to winne the moze credite, og fogced therto by Duke William, weiters report it dinerly.

bnto bim bis baughter in marriage, whom harrold concnaunted in like manner to take to wife. Finally, when be Mould returne into Englande, Onke delilliam behuered buto him bis Pephew Lacun, but kepte his brother Wilnote with hym fill as a pleoge. Carle harrold then returned into England, and declared buto King Edwarte what he had done, who then fand but o him: Dpd not I tell thee that thou wouldest doe the thong nuschiese to follow unto the countrey. But God of his mercie turns that cuill happe from thes Realure, or at the least, if it be his pleasure, that it must needes come to palle, get to stay it till after

Thus they write, that affirme, howe harrolde went ouer of purpole into Pogmande : and ga= ther thereof, that Kyng Coward lozelaw the coming of the Pormanes, and that he meante no. thing leffe, than to perfourme the promise mare buto Duke William , as to adopte hym hys When the heire which promife houlde feeme to be made in time of his banishmente, when hee stode in nerde Edware to be fine friendshippe, as the manner of men in such which we have been been from the incales is, to promile muche, howfaeuer they in beire, tend to fulfill. But rather it may be thought, that King Cowarde had made no fuch promife at al. to but perceived the ambitious delire of Duke duitliam, and therefore would not that any occation Mouloe bee ministred buto him to take holde of. Wherefore, he was so loth that Parrold Moular goe over buto him, least that might happe, which hapned indeede. In the four and twentith and Hen. Hunt laft yeare of King Edwarde his raigne, or there Mat. vy about, there fell varriance betwirt the timo bier- Fabian. thren, Erle harrold, and Erle Tollie at Mind- Falling our foz, where the Courte then lay, in so muche that betwirt bre ihren. bead in the Kings presence, and stroke him.

Herebpon, Collie departing from the Courte in great anger, came to Berefozde in the marches of Males, where Parrolds fernants were mena = The cruell ring for the Kings comming to thepr mailters Earle Tolt house, which servantes be take and slew, chopped them in pecces, and threwe into that hoofbed of wine a legge, into that barrell of cyder an arme, into this velled of ale an head, and fo into $ lomes bellowed the partes of the dead carcalles of his brothers feruauntes, fending the king word, that he had provided at his brothers manor, agapule his comming, god plentie of souse, and poudzed meate, what so ever he should finde beside. Thys runioz of this cruell deede, sprang over all the Realme, wherebyo the Porthumbers, whom he hadde gouerned for the space of tenne yeares bery Ailliam, writers report it dinertly.

At the same time, Duke William promised 4° slew his scruants both Englishmen and Danes, against Tolento him his daughter in marriage, whom Har specification to revell againste him, and The North Service occasion to revell againste him, and The North Service Robert Allew his scruants both Englishmen and Danes, against Tolento his houses, and twee away his Houses, their Each. his armoure, and all other his godes and household stuffe. The chiefest cause (as is remembred: by some writers) that moved the Porthumbers thus to rice and rebell against Costie, was for y Deteltable murther of certain Bentlemen of their countrep, scruauntes unto Gospatricke, whiche the Duene in behalfe of hir brother had canled to be flapne in the Courte by treason, in the fourth whereof thou flouloeft repent thee, and procure a 50 night of Christmas last past, and also in regengt of other noble men which in the last yeare Colic himselfe had commanned to bee murthered is his owne chamber at Porke, whither hee had als lured them to come buder colour of concluding a peace with them. Also the accruous payments wherewith hee charged the people of that countrey, let them in a great rage agaynste bym.

But the Kyng aduertisco heereof, liked

The Historie of Englande.

not their doings, for that they had done it with= out commaundement of commission, and therefore fint Carle Harrold with an army to challice them, but they were firong ynough to withfland him, as those whiche were assembled in armoure rogither with the people of Lincolneshire, Pot= ringamilitie, and Derbildire, and having with them Marcherus of Malcharus, the son of Erle Algar, were come as farre as Potthampton, do= ing muche hurte in the parties thereaboutes: but 10 worlde. pet to have y kyngs peace, they offered to returne home, so that they might haue an other Carle ap= poynted them, for that they playnely protested, p they beering free men, bozne and bred out of bon= Dage nuglite not lufter any cruell gouernoure to rule ouer them, being taught by their auncetois, cother to line in libertie, or to die in Defence there= ot. It therfoze it might pleafe the King to assigne Marcharus the sonne of Carle Algar to be there wonder prome and thewe themselnes to be, when they thanks be view after a reasonable & courteous mauner. Bil things considered, their request seemedreasonable, or at least, it was thought necesfary, that it fluid be graunted. And to was Mar= charus of Malcherus made Carle of Porthum= etale of borland. Toftie in great displeasure with his wife er- and children fapled over into Flaunders, a there remarned till after the decesse of King Edward. Finally, after that this courteous Prince Kyng 30 Realme. Land and and annie de land Cowarde had raigned three and twentie praces feven monethes and odde dayes, he departed this life at London the fourth of January, and was buried in the Church of Wellmintler which he had in his life time royally repayzed after suche a flately fort, as few Churches in those dayes were like thereto within this Realme, so that aftertoardes the fame was a patrone for other to bee buit after the fame fourme. This Edward was that his fame of holyneffe fpzang ouer all. he ab= hogico warres and theoding of blond, in so much, that when bee lined as a banifico man in Poz= mandy, her hadde this faying oftentimes in hys mouth, that he had rather line a pzinate life foz e= ver, than to attein the Kingdome by the flaughter and deathe of any man. Hee coulde not abide to have the people oppressed with tributes of eradions, in so much, that he caused the paymente cal= In Danegelt, whiche had continued for the space 50 almost of fortie yeres to ceasse. It hath bin sayo, that when the collectors of this money, or some other subsedy had gote an huge quatitie of threafure together, they brought it buto him, and layo it alregither oppon an heape, so to delighte hys eves:but he veclaring that he fawe a Deuil play= ing and fetching gambals about that heape of money, commaunded that it Moulde bee had away, and restored against o them of whome it was leuico.

In duct and apparted hee was spare and no= thing funiptuous: and although on high feaftes he ware nich apparrell, as became the Waielfie of his royall personage: he spewed pet no proude noz loftic countenance. rather prayling God for hys bountifull gwonesse towardes hym extended. than effecting heerein the vayne Pompe of the

The pleasure p he toke chiefly in this worlde for refreshing of his wittes, consisted onch in Bawking and Bunting, whiche exercises he day= ly bled, after he had first bin in the Church at de= uine service.

In other things he feemed wholly gruen to a denoute trade of life, charitable to the poze, and very liberall, namely to Pospitalics and houses of Religion in the parties of beyonde the Sea; Ruler, hee Goulde fee how obedient subied's they :0 wishing euer, that the Monkes and Religious versons of his Realm, woulde have followed the pertue and holinesse of life vsed amongst them of foraine parties. As hath bin thought he was enspired with the gift of Prophecie, and also to have hadde the gift of healing infirmities and difeafes.

> Paniely, he bled to help those that were vered with the disease, commonly called the Kyngs enill; and left that bertue askit were a postion of inheritance but o his successors the Kyngs of this

Her was warned (as hath bin reported) of the A cale of a drath certains dayes beforehee theo, by a Ring Ring. that was brought to him by scutaine Pilgrimes romming from Hierufaleur, which ring hr: badde fecretly given to a pore man that alked his charitic in the name of God and Sainte John the Euangelist. But to conclude, suche was the opi= King Edwards nion concepued of his holynette of life, that flogt= canonized for ly after his decesse, hee was canonized amongst a Saint. Perfinant a Prince of such a vertuous disposition of minde, 40 the number of Saintes, and named Edward the Confessoz. Whilest hee lay sicke of that sicknesse whereof at length hee died, after he hatde remayned foz vvil. Malm. two dayes speechlesse, the third day after when he Mat. VVeft. hed large for a time in a flunibet of thet leepe, at the tyme of his wakening, hee fetched a deepe figh, and thus fapde; Db Loide God Ilmighty, if thys bee not a vaine fantallicall illusion, but a true vision which I have ferne, graunt me space to bitter the same buto these that stande heere presente, or else not. And herrewith having hys speeche perfect, he declared how he had seene two Monkes stand by him as he thoughte, whomein his pouth he knowe in Pormandy to have lived Godly, and died Christianly. These Wonkes (faid her) protesting but omee that they were the incliengers of God, spake these wozos, bycause y chiefe governoures of England, the Bishops and Abbots.

Sarons.

Abbots, are not the Mymisters of God, but the Diuels, the Almighty God hath delivered this Kingdome for one yere and a day into the hands or the enimic, and wicked (pirites thall walke abrove through the whole land. Ind whe I made aunswere that I woulde declare these thrings to the people, and promifed on they, behalfe, that they floulde doc penance in following the example of the Piniuites. They layde agayne, that it would not be, for neyther fould the people re- 10 many a mother: it is long agone fith I faw thee. pente, noz God take any pitte byon them. And when is there hope to have an ende of these mi= feries land I, then lande they, when a greene tree is cut in Linder in the middle, and the parte cut off, is carried there acres beedth from the stocke, # returning agapne to the Roale, Hall iopne there= with, and begin to budde and beare fruite after the former manner, by reason of the sappe renewing the accustomed nourishmente, then I lay, diminishe: Although other that stode by, were brought in feare with those the Kyngs wordes. the Archbillioppe Stigande pet made but a tell thereof, faying, that the olde man raued nowe in has licknelle, as men of great yeares ble to bo. But the trouth of that Prophetic afterwards to playnely appeared, when Englande became the habitation of newe flraungers, in suche wife, that torre was neyther gouernoure, Bishoppe, noz

But now to make an ende with B. Edward. her was of person comely, and of an indifferente Cature, of white heare, both head and bearde, of face rundy, and in all other partes of his body favze (kinned, with due flate and proportion of limmes as was thereto conveniente.

In the yeare before the deathe of Kyng Edwarve, a blafing Starre appeared, the whythe when a Monke of Malnielbury that highte Epliner behelde , her ottered thefe wordes (as it were by way of Prophelying:) Thou arte come (farth he) thou art come, muche to be lameted of but nowe I coe beholde thee, the more terrible threatning destruction to this countrey by the Decapfull appearance.

In the person of Kyng Edward ceased by his deathe the noble progenie of the Wielt Saron Kings, which had continued from the first years of the raigne of Cerdicke or Cerditius, the space of fine hundged. 47. peares complete. And from Enbert two hundged firtie fire peres, as by Milmay there be hope that fuch enils shall crasse, and 20 liam Harrisons Chronologic is casie to bee colleded, whole politions as most exact for the computation of the tyme, I chiefly followe.

M Execute, fith the progenic of the Saron Kyngs Gemeth wholly to take ende to this Edward lurnamed the Confessoz, or the third of that name befoze the Conquell, we have thought god for the better help of memorie, to fet downe in order, the names as well of those that reigned Abbot remayning therein of the Englithe Da- 30 among the Well Sarons, (who at length as pee have hearde, obteyned the whole Monarchie) as also of them which ruled in the other leans kyng. domes before the same were united buto the layd Kingdome of the Well Sarons.

The Historie of Englande. was the Kingdome of Eaufride

The line of the Kentish kings. Hengest osh, or occa Ermenricus stian. Eadbalde Ercombers Egbert Lithair Eadricke Ethelbert Eadbert Ethelbert Eadbert Fren Cushred Baldred A thelstan. Darons. Crida or Creedda rribba Cearli Penda Peada, 02 rather first Christian. Alfhere Ethe'fred Kinred Ceo'red Fs'.elbalde

vviglaf

Berialf

Eurthered.

Of the Kings of VVest Saxons. Ethelbert the first Chri-Cerdic,02 Cerdicins Kenric Ceauline Ceolric Ceolulf VVithred and Sysvarde Kinegilfe, 02 Quicheline, the first Christian. Rinesvalke Sexburga Eastvine Kenisvine Ceadwalle from this Athelstane Inas the kingdome of Kent Ethelhard was translated buto Cushred the kings of the West Sigebert Kineulf Of the Kings Brithric Egbert of Mercia. Ethelulf Athelbalde Ethelbert Eshelred Alfred, 02 Alvred. This Alfred, or Albred proide, that was the was the first Monarke of the Englishekings, whose succession continucd buto the coming in of William the Coquerour. Bearnred offa, surnamed Mag= Of the Kings of Northumberland, nus, or the great. Egfrid Kenulfe Kenelme I da Ceolulf Adda Bernulf Glap Ludican, 02 Theodwald Ladicene Fretewulfe

Theodoricke

1 thelfride

From this Burtherd Stianking of Weira.

Edwine, the first Chris

Mercia transposed ouer ! Ofwilde to the kings of the west ofwie Aelfride Eg fride Ealfride Ofred Kenrede Ofrike Ceolwulfe Eadbers Osulfe Acthebred Molle Ealdred Aetheldred Alfwolde Ofred Ethelred agayne Ofred Eardulfe Alfsvolde Eandred Aethelred Readwulf Osbers Ella Egbert Riche Egbert Cushred Of the Kings of Deira. This Ella raigned in Deira whylest erabt Collaterall kings raig= ned in Bernicia. Aethelfride Eadwine Ofricke Oswine The kingdome of Deira was translated from Diwine to Diwie K. of Bernicia, and by this of the Kings meanes y kingdom of y of the South Saxons, Porthübers was vni=

wards to the Scottifie

fea, and in the end came bnder the power of the

Of the Kings of East Angles.

Welt Sarons.

Redwalde W ibert Crpenwalde the firste Christian. Sigebere Egricke Anna Aeshelhere Aethelsvalde. Ealdulphe Ealfwalde Beern4 Aethelred Aethelbers. Eadmund Gyero the Dane. From Eptro the Danc, the kingdome of the Cast Ingles was translated to the Well Sarons. Of the Kings of the East Saxons. Earkenwine sledda Schert the fielte Chaiftian. Sexred, and Sisvarde sigeberi the little Swisheline sigehere and sebba Sigeharde, and Seofride offi selred Suithred. from this Buithzed, o kingbome of the Calt Saros was translated to the Well Sarons.

Titellus

Ella ted. Withose bounds did exted fro Duber north= Ethelmalde the firste Christian. Berskune Aldbune.

from this Aldhune the kingdome of the South Sarons was traflated to the well Sarons.

Here is to be remembred, that as partly beetat. prof. fore is expressed, wer finde in some olde Telryters, howe the full Kings of leven of thise Junghomes of the Germaine Mation that bare rule in this Ile, fetched they? pedegrees from one Woorn, who begatte of Frea his wyfe fenen konnes, that is to witte, 1. Tleda, of whom came the hings of Bent. 2. Acthelgeta, og fres thegeath, from whome the kings of Mercia discended. . Balday of whose race the Kings of 10 tendernelle of age might fiell breed a contempt of the Wich Sarons had there originall. 4. Beldagius, auncetour to the kings of Bernicia, and the Porthumbers. 5. Wegodach, or Wegda= gus, fro whom came the lings of Deira. 6. Ca= fer, from whom proceeded the kings of the Call Angles. 7. Pascad alias Sarnad, of whom the kings of the Cast Sarons had their beginning.

And here pon mult note, that althoughe the kings of the buj kingbonie, that is, of the Southprople, yet were they not of the fame line. By o. ther it Mouto feeme, that Coroben babbut fine fonnes as Clella, great Grandfather to Bengeft : Wepening, amerellog to the kings of the Caff Ingles: Chelae, from whom proceeded the kings of Dercia: Daruag, from whom the kings of Effer came: # Belbeg, of whole generatió proceeded the bings of the South Sarons, Will Sarons, and the Porthumbers. Borcouer, there beethat A Lanceh, which Por was the ir. in viscent fro Loam, a Celuben the xb. fro Poah, as thus: Doc was the father to Sem f father of Bedwi, the father of Clala, the father of Batris og Datheo, the father of Itermod, & father of Beremed, the father of Sheaf of Seaf, the father of Selvoa ve Beeldua, the father of Beatu og Beau, father ot Crathwy alias Tadwa of Trathwy, the father of Gerafreputed for a God among the Eentiles, the father of Lingodulph otherwise E0= 40 rule, the lather of Fritwolfe otherwise Frinin the father of Freologalias Freolater, the father of Frethwold of Frideinvald, the father of the aloge= named Weben og Stien.

King hawarde departed this life An. Christ roce a withe account of the church of Eng lan . Nat. Frest P. lider.

7×Ing Ed= i warde bee= mg thus de= narted this life the lande were n great boubt and verylerine to whom they might best co-gournmet of the realm. For ther was not any as mong them that had inst title thereto, og able and apt to take the charge bud him: for although Cogar furnamed Edeling, the fonne of Edward the Edeling, that Outlaw, that was sonne of Comond Fronside, and such one magthe fame time lately come into Englande, as is come of with his mother and fifters oute of Hungarie the kings where he was boine : pet for that hee was but a chilo, and not of sufficient age to beare rule, they burit not as then commit the government of the realme buto him, least (as some have thought) his his person, and therewith minister occasion to ci= uil discord, whereby a Mirwrak of the estate michi to the great annoy and present overthedw of such ensue, as then lined in the same. But what consi= peration so ever they had in this behalf, they ought not to have defrauded the young Gentleman of his lawfull right to the Crowne. For as we hanc heard and feene, God whole prouidence e mightic power is thewed by overthewing of high and Sarons of of Sulfer, were discended of the same 20 mightic things now and then, by the weake and feeble hath gouerned fates and kingdoms oftentimes in as good quiet and princely policieky a: childe, as by menne of type age and greate dilcretion.

But to the purpole, belide the doubt whiche rested among the Lordes, howe to bestowe the Crowne, the manifold and straunge wonders tobich were feene and heard in those days, betoken ning (as men thought) some chaunge to bee at baing the genealogie from Poe of Poah, the fon 30 hande in the estate of the realme, made the Logues. afrapor, and namely bycanfe they flode in great doubt of cililiam duke of Pozmandie, who pretended a right to the crowne, as lawful heyze appoputed by king Edward, for that he was akinne to him in the fecod and third degree. For Bichard Dukesoi No the first of that name buke of Pozmandie, begot madie. Richard the seconde, and Emme, which Emme bare Edward by hir hulband Ethelred. Richards the fecond also had issue Richard the thirde, and Robert, which Robert by a Concubine had illus Milliam, furnamed the bastard, that was nowe Duke of Pozmandie, and after the death of best colin king Edwarde, made clayme (as is layde) to the crowne of Englande. Wibileft the Hotoes were thus fludying and confulting what houlde be west for them to doe in these doubtes, paralog, Herold pro-(the funne of Godwin Garle of Rent , proclapsiclay ned kin med himfelfe king of England.) The people be-of Englande. ing not much offinded therewith, bycause of the the Peeres of 50 great cofficence and opinion which they had lately concepued of his valiancie.

Some waite, among which Comerus is one, Edmerus how king Colvarde orserned before his brath, that barolo floulde succeed him as hever to the crowne, and that therewon the Lordes inimibiately after the large Edwardes deceaste, crowned Darolde for fbeirhing, and so he was facted by! Alored Archb.of Porke, according to the cultonie:

and maner of the former kings, or as other afparked frame, he let the crowne on his owne head without any the accultomed ceremonies, in the peace. after the byth of our fauldur. 1065.02 in the pere of Chailt. 1065. after the account of the Church of Englav (as before is noted.) But how and whenfoeuer he came to the feate royall of this Kingpome, certaine it is, that this paroloe in the beginning of his raigne, confidering with himfelfe howe and in what fort hee had taken uppon to him the rule of the kingdome, rather by intrulion than by any lawfull right, he flutied by all mica-Breil seketh are which way to winne the peoples savour, and Breitekein omitted no occasion whereby hee might shewe gefashartes, any token of bounteous liberalitie, gentlenelle, & courteons behaniour towardes them. The crieim.Dunel. nous cultoms also and tares which his predecel fors had rayled, he either abolished or diminished. the ordinarie wages of his scruauntes and men felfe very well bent to all vertue and awonesse, whereby he purchased no final fauour among such as were his lubiectes.

Anharitade. Whylest Haroloe went about thus to steale the peoples god willes, there came over buloked for sundrie Amballadours from William the vailance Duke of Pozmandie, with commillion to requipe hym to remember his othe sometime made to the sayde addilliam in the tyme of his extremitie, whiche was, that hee the layde Haralde Moulde ande him in the attopning of the Crowne of Englande, if King Cowards Coulde happen to des withoute

This concuannt he made (as it is supposed) 50 in king Edwards dayes, (when by lycence of the fame Edwarde, og rather (as Comerus wiytith) agaynst his will) he went ouer into Pozmandie to visite his brethren, which lay there as pleoges: howbeit at this prefent, Haroldes aunfwere to the layor Amballadours was, that hee would be readic to gratifie the Duke in all that he coulde bemaunde, to that be woulde not affer the realme, which alredy he had in his full possession: And further he declared buto the (as some write) Edmeruk that as for the offic which her had made in trings past buto Duke William, the fame was but a confirance and no bolimtarie oth, which in law is nothing; lines thereby her toke boyon bing to granks that whiche was not in his power to giue, her breing but a lubica whileff 表ing ED= warde was lyuing : for if a promiled vowe of otherwhich a Maybe maketh concerning the bes frewing of hir bodie in hir fathers house without his confent is made boyde, much mote an othe by him made that was a lubicite, and bnoer the rule of a king without his fonctaights confent, ought to be porde and of no value.

-- He alledged mozcouer, that as for him fo take an othe to beliver the inheritaunce of anye Realme withoute the generall confent of the of warre he encrealed , and further thewed truis 20 effates of the faine, coulde not bee other than # greate perce of prefumption, year althoughe her might have full totle therebuto, fo it was an one reasonable requelt of the Duke at this present to will him to renounce the Kingdonire, the gouers nance whereof hee had alreadle taken opon him, with lo great fauoz and good lyking of all men.

Duke William hauing recepued this anilwer, Duke Willia" and nothing lyking thereof, het feribeth once at etfoones fengaine to harolde, requipping him then at the leaff deth to king wile, that hee woulde take his daughter to wife. Harolde. according to bis forifier promite, if refutal where of he could make no found allegation, by cause it was a thing of his owne motion; and in his alis foldte power, both to graunt and to perfourme But Harolve beeing of a foutte courage, worth prowde countenaunce, fromned boon the Abeman Amballabors, and beclared to them that bis minde was nothing bent as then to yecloe there's buto in any nianer of wille. Ind to with orbet 40 talke tending to the like effect he lent them away without any other answere.

The panghter of Duke William which has rold flould haue maricd, was naifed Abelija, as Bemeticentis hath, and with hit as the lame aus Gemeticenfis, thour writeth it was conenanted by Dake Wills Kam that Parolo Moulo enjoy halfe the Realme in name of hir domer. Howbeit some write that pril. mal. this daughter of Duke William was denaited this life befoze the coming of thefe Ambastadors, and that harold therebypon thought himself discharged of the oth and couchants made to Duke Milliam, and therfore lent them away with fuch an untoward answere.

But howlocuer it was, after the departure of Polider. thele Ambassadours, King Barrolde (Doubting what would enfue) raufed his thippes to be nema ly rigger, his men of warre to be muffred, fineedily put in a readinelle, to the ende that if any for brother.

Mat. West.

Sim. Disi

Polidor.

hath but.xl.

Ran. Higd.

Polider.

Harold Har-

tager king of

The Historie of Englande.

paine invalion should be made and attempted by his cumie, he might be able to relift them.

About the fame time also, and byon the . rriffi. of Ivillywhilest Harold was making provision to mithstande the Porman force) there appeared a blafing Starre, which was feene not onelv bere in Englande, but allo in other partes of the world, which continued the space of. bij. dayes.

In this meane while, Collie the brother of for his crueltic had beene chased out of the realing Tolic leeketh by the Porthumbers) returning out of Flanders to disquiethi affembled a Pauie of thippes from diuerle partes to the number of .lr. with the which he arrived in Mat. VVest. the Tie of Wlight, and there spoiled the Country, afterward fayling about, by the coasts of Kent, he toke fundzie prayes there also, and came at the last to Sandwich : So that Baroloe was nowe Simon Dun. constrayned to appoint the Nauie whiche hee had prepared agaruft the Pormans, to goe a= 20 with great flaughter and bloudflied. gapult his brother Carle Collie: whereof the laid Collie being aduertised, dzewe towardes Lynd= fep in Linconsspire, and there taking lande did muche hurt in the Countrey, both with fwozde and fire, till at length Towne Carle of Merrvil. Mal. cia, and Bookarus Carle of Porthumberlande, apped with the Kings nauie, chased him from Toftic repulthence, and cauled him to flee into Scotlande, not withoute some losse both of his menne and Ran.Hizd. Undres.

This trouble was bueth quicked, when Areight wares another came in the necke thereof. farre more daungeroug than the firft. For Wostie percepuing that he coulde get no apoe in Scotlande to make any account of, he layled forth in= to Porman, and there perswaded Harold Harfa= ger king of that Realme, to laple with an armie into England, perswaving him, that by meanes of a civil diffention lately kindled betwirt the be an easie matter for him to make a conquelt of the whole Realme, and raigne ouer them as his predecessors had done before.

Some Authours affyzme, how harolde king of Portvay twice this enterprise in hande of hys owne minde, and not by procurement of Toffie, laving that Collic meeting with bim in Scots Met. PPth Land, did perswade him to go sofward in his pur= simon Inn. noled bulineffe, and that the lapde harolde harfacer with all convenient speeds passed forth, soo, hath and with a Pauie of three hundred layle, entred simon Luninto the river of Tine, where after he had refled a simon Luni fem papes to refrell his people, Erle Toffie came also with his power (according to an appointmet which should be made between them.) They adde The Norme king harolde who in the dayes of king Edward 10 furthermoze, that they fayled forth alongelt the gians arrive coast, till they arrived in the mouth of Humber, in Humber, and then drawing by agaynst the streams of the river Dwfe, they landed at length at a place called Bichehall, fro whence they fet fozward to in- Richall. nade the Countrey, and neare onto Porke on the H. Hunt, Porthside of the Citie, they fought with the pomer of the Porthumbers, which was led by the Earles Cowyn and Barchar (two beetheen) and The English there discomfited and chalea them into the Citie, fired.

Barolde King of Englande beeing aduer. This barrile tiled of this chaunce, her made the more halte the even of s. forwardes (for he was alreadic in the fictor with Mathew the his armie, intending allo to come towardes hys Apollicas hu enimics) so that byon the fifth day after he came Simon Dun. to Stanfozde Bridge, finding there the lapde King Barlager and Collie readie embattayled, hee fyzste assayled those that kept the Bridge. where (as some delryters affrance) a Porwe pril. Mal. 30 gian Souldier with bis Are Defended the pallage, mangre the whole holt of the English men, Mat. PV ff and flue fortie of them or more with bys Tre, and might not bee ouercome, till an Englifte man went with a Boate bnder the Bzidge, and through an hole thereof, thrust him oppe into the bodie with his Speare: although Mat. Wellm. noteth that hee was flaine with a Dart whiche one of King Parolde his fernauntes thewe at him, and fo ended his life. Wilhich Bzidge beina king and his Lords, (which was not fo it fould 40 wonne, the whole hofte of the English men pals The Nomefed ouer, and igened with they enimics, and gians difafter a right great and loge battayle, put them all comfied. to flight.

In this conflicte Paroloc Parlager King of The king of the Polwegians was flain, and fo likewife was Norway and Collie, the King of Englande bys Bzother, Tollie flaine

Hen. Hunt

The Historie of Englande.

billdes a great number of other, as well in the battaile as in the chale : neyther did the Englishe men escape all free , for the Porwegians fought ibiraile it out a long time very foutly, beating downe and killing great numbers of luche as affarled them with great courage and affuraunce. The relidue of the Porwegians that were left to keve there thippes buder the quiding of Dlauc sonne to the king of Porway, and Paule Earle of Dikney, after they binderstode by they fellowes to courage and refresh them. that escaped from the field, how the matter went rarrest, with harfagar and Tollie, they hoyled by their faults and directed thep; course homewardes. hearing forrowfull newes with them into they? Countrey, of the loffe of thep? King, and ouer= throwe of all his people.

Some weite, that the R. of England permitted them frankly to depart with . rr. hippes, baning first caused them to deliver suche Bostages as howe so ever it was, Harolde, reiopsing in that he had atterned so glozious a victozie, and being nowe surpersed with perde and conetous nelle togyther, he deuided the Copie of the fielde va. rref. nothing equally, but to suche as he favoured. her small des distributed liberally, and to other (though they rigofthe had muche better delerued) hee gaue nothing at all, reterning lipil the belt part of all to himselfe. by trason whereof he lost the fanoz of many of his alienate their and willes from him.

This done, he revayzed to Porke, and there staved for a time to reforme the disordered state of the Country, which by reason of these warres was greatly out of frame.

In the meane tyme. William Duke of Pozmandie (hauing knowledge after what manner king harolde was bulied in the Porth parties of his realme, and understanding that the south parfarie vefence) hafted with all biligence to make his purucyance of men and thippes, that he might opon such a convenient occasion fet forward for denly to inuade his enimic. Ind amount other of his friends, buto whom he laboured for aybe, his father in lawe Balowine Carle of Flaumvers; was one of the chiefe, who byon promile of great famimes of money and other large offers made, did ayor him with men, munition, thipper, and her Eng- vittaples very freely.

The French king also did as much for hys part as lay in him to helpe forwarde thes to high an enterpzife. Wherefoze when all things were now in a readinctle, her came to the towns of Saint Malerie, where be havpe allembled togyther an huge Pauie of Shippes (to the numbet (as some Authours affpame) of three bun-Deto Cayle) and when he had targed there a long time for a convenable wind, at length it came as bout eue as he himfelf deffred. Then fhipping his armie which confilted of Pozmans, flemings, Frenchmen, and Britonnes, with all experie tion he toke the Sea, and direding his courle towardes Englande, hee finally landed at a place in Suller, aunciently called Peuenelley the. 28. New Pemley. Day of September, where he bid fette his men a Duke Williams lande, and prouided all things necessarie to en- Pemicy.

At his going out of his flippe buto the Croze, one of his feete Alipped as he flepped forward, but the other stacke fast in the sande, the whiche so ione as one of his knightes had elvied, and fering bishand whereboon be stayed full of earth, when he role, he spake aloude and sayde. Pow fir Duke thou half the foyle of Englande fast in thy hand. and thait of a duke ere long become a King. The Duke hearing his tale laughed merily thereat. they had recepued of the Citizens of Porke. But 20 and comming a lande, by and by hee made hys Proclamation, occlaring beon what occasions be had thus entred the Realme.

The first and principall cause whiche bee als Hen. Hung. ledged was for to chalenge his right, meaning the Dominion of the lande that to him was apuen and allianed (as hee layde) by hys Rephew king Edwarde late ruler of the same lande.

The seconde was, to revenue the beath of hys Pephewe Alvzed or Alfred the brother of men, who for this his bucurtelle, did not a little zo the same King Edwarde, whome Godwert Earle of Kent, and his adherents had most wice kedly murthered.

The thirde was to be reuenged of the wrong done buto Robert Archebishoppe of Canterburie, who as hee was enfourmed, was exis led by the meanes and labour of Parolde, in the dayes of King Edwarde. Wherein wee have to note that whether it were for displeasure that the Pope hadde concepue concepued for the ties thereof remayned without prouision of necel- 40 wrong bone to the Archebilloppe, or at the onely fupte of Duke William, certaine it is that Pvil. Malmo the Pope as then named Alexander the fes The Pope faconde, fanoured thes enterpapte of the Duke, williams enand in token thereof fent him a white Banner, terpile. whiche her willed him to fette by in the decke of the Shippe, wherein bee byniseile fhonine fayle, de l'annue

In derde (as topyters report) the Pope with his Cardinalles, and all the whole Mas. Prof so Courte of Rome, had King Parolde euer in greate hafred and bildepne, bycanfe that he had taken oppon hym the Crowne without they? confent, of any Eccleliallicall folemnitie of agreement of the Bythoppes. Ind although the Pope, and his brethren the layde Cardinalles discombled the matter for the tyme, pet nowe beholding to what ende hys bolde presumption was like to come, they with frowning fortune thewed themselves also open adversarges, inclyning ftreight wayes to the ftronger part, after the manner of couctous persones, or rather like to a Recde shaken with a sodaine puft of winde.

Gemeticenfis.

At hys frift landing at Peuenelley of Pem= fep (whether you will hee fortifged a peece of ground with throng Trenches, and leaning ther= in a competent number of menne of warre to Rings, and comming thither, he buylt an other Fortresse there with all specce possible withoute fuffering his Souldiours to robbe of harry the Countrey adiopning, saying that it shoulde bee greate folly for him to spople that people, which ere many dayes to come were lyke to bee hys lubicates.

Fril. Mal.

Normana

King Paroloe beeing as pet in the Porth partes, and hearing that Duke William was warde, and gathering his people togither out of the Countreys as he went forwardes, at length he came neare to his enimies, and fending thy. als into their Campe to buderstande of what Mat. VPeff. ftrength they were : the unfielfull mellengers re: garving fmally their charge, brought morte a= gaine of nothing elle but that all Duke Milliams Souldiers were puelles. for the Pozbeards fhauen, mans had at that time they; ouer lpps & checkes Hemdiarle, fuffer the beare of theps ouer lyppes to growe at length : but Garcide aunswered, that they were not Pricites, but stalworth and hardie Souldiours, and suche as were like to abide well by their Captaine.

Gyrth woulde brother king Harold fight himid.c

In the meane lealon, Girth one of Haroldes nor have hys ponger beetheen confidening that permite is nener left bupunidied) adupted his brother not to adventure bimielle at this prefent in the battaile, Gemeticenfis. Dukt Edlilliam, but rather to fuffer him and other of the Pobilitye to encounter with the fayde Duke, that were not bounde to him by former othe or othermile: but Barolde auns furred that her was free from anye fuche othe, and that in defence of his Countrey he woulde fight boldely with him as with his greatest znimte.

PY.Mal.

Before they came to fight also, diuerle ofhaur berne had betwirte the two Princes: but when no conditions of agreement coulde take place, they forthwith prepared themselves to trye the matter by dont of fworde. Ind fo on the . riiij. bap of Ditober, bering Saterdane, both the Folles mette in the fielde at a place in Sulfer not farre from Sastinges . where as the Abbay of Battaile was afterwards buploed.

The Englisse menne were all bronght in- The order & to one entyze maine battaile a fote, weth buge the English Ares in they, handes, and paled afront wyth Paucyles, in suche wyse that it was thoughte impossible for the enimye to breake they?

On the other fyde the Pozmans were de- Mat. PPt uided imposeucrall battayles, as fyzit the sotemenne that were Archers, and also those that The array of keepe the same, hee spedde him towardes has to bare Eleques and Ares, were placed in the the Norman foze fronte, and the Hoglemenne deupded into collinges, stode on the sydes in berie gwo ozder.

All the nyght befoze the battagle, the Eng- Hen. Hunh liffie menne made greate noyce and fleut not, Fril. M.d. but lang and fell to drinking and making of reueil and pastime, as thoughe there had beene no accounte to bee made of the nexte dayes trapuaple. But the Pozmans behaued themselues thus landed in Englande, her speode him south- 20 warrly and soberly, spending all that night in prayer and confessing theyr sinnes onto God. and in the Morning eartly they recepued the Communion befoze they wente forth to the battarle.

Some wipte that when Duke William Moulde putte on hys armour to goe to the ficide, the backe halfe of his Curaffes by chaunce was fette on before by suche as holpe to arme hym, at whiche chaunce her toke occasion of laugh-Pril. Mal. Mauen, whereas the Englishe menne bled to 10 ter, saying merily to them that flood by, Poforce thys is and lucke, for the effate of my Dukes bonte Mall ber ere night chaunged intoa Kingdome.

Beside this, her spake manye comfortable. towedes buto his menne, to encourage them to the battayle . Prither was Barolde forgetfull in that popute on his part. And fo at conuchis ent tyme when both partes were readle, they made forwarde rehe to encounter weth other, forfomuch as he had beene fometyme fwogne to 40 on the forelayde fourtenth daye of Ditober, with great force and affurance.

In the beginning of the battaple, the It-In the beginning of the battaple, the are rowes seemed abroade freshly on both sides, tyll The band they came to some at hande strokes, and then between the preasted eche lyde bpon bys counterparte with Haroleen Swordes, Tres, and other hand weapons right om ighes equely.

Duke Milliam commaunded bis Doffen: menne to give the charge on the breattes of hys fers were made on both partes for an vnitie to so ennimpes battaples : but the Englishe merne. keeping themselves close together wythoute feattering, recepued they enimpes oppon the porntes of they? Wilcapons with fuche fierceneffe and in fuche flyffe opter, that manye of the Pozman bogelemen were ouerthrowne without recourrie, and flaine at the firfte beunte. Wiben Duke William percepued this incommence (as hee that well and throughlye bindertinde.

The Historie of Englande.

the chilfull poyntes of water as well as the belt) he gaue a figue to his men, (according to an order appoynted before hande byon any such oceafion, that they Moulde give backe, and make a countenaunce as though they did flee, which was quickly done by the Pormens, and withall they embattapled they fotemen in new order. so that their Hoglemen Chifted theinfelues on the wings. readic to reflue the fotemen if their array fhoulde and pollicie of warre, the Englid) men were decerued : for they behalving the Pormans somewhat to fizenke backe to bring themselves into the abouelayde order, thought berily that they had fledde, and therebypon meaning to purfue them before they foulde reconer they? grounde, they brake they array, and beganne to followe the chale: wherebyon the Posmans (percepuing nowe that all things came to valle as they des fired) speedily returned, and casting themsel= nes togyther quickly into arraye, beganne to charge them againe of newe, and so having happen to be disturbed. By this wifie stratageme to them at that aduauntage, they fine them downs on enerie lyde. The Englithemen on the other to battaile, parte fought loze, and thought they king were King Harold beaten downe among them and flapne, pet mere flaince ther lathe to flee or give over, to tharpe was the battule, that Duke William himfelfe had three: horfes flaine bnoer him that day, and not without great daunger of his perfon.

Some of the Englishermen got them' fo the wired heigth of an h.ll , and beate backe the Dormans that forced themselnes to wonne the bill of them. uaile, becing oftentymes driven downe into the bottom of the valley beneath.

It length the English men verceyning them. selues to bee ouermatched and beaten downe or tuerye live, and therebiffor areative vilcouraged with flaughter of they? King. begannte fiell to give ground, and after to frafter and to ruine a way, lothat well was himsthat might then efrape by flight, after that they hav fought the most part of all that Saterday.

The Pormans followed the chale, with luche egrerassmelle, that a great number of them fals ling with ther? Horles and armour into a vimoe offiche Chanowen with Recoe and Seoges which greme therein') were intouloged and preffen to. brath, ere they coulde be faccoured or get any re-

The next day the Potmans fell to gathering in the spople of the fictor, burying also the beade bodies of their people that were flaine at the hattaffe, gruing licence in semblable maner to the English men to doe the like,

Di the death of harolde diverte report diverte Giral. Camb. to, informet that Girald. Campien layth, bom after king harold had recepted many woundes: lo that it was long ere the Popmans could need 40 and toll his left epe, bee fiends from the fielde onto the Citie of Welfchelter, and lined there long after an holy life, as an Asker in the Cell of S. Tames faft by Saint Johns Church, and there made a godin erde. But the sozing of Graid, Cambient in that poynt is not to be credited, by cause of the bulkely hoode of the thing itself, and oril. mal. also general consent of other payings, who als Hen. Hunt. frame universally that he was killed in the bath mat. Prest. tayle, first breyng stryken through the left eperby the scull into the brayne with an arrow, where, upon falling from his boste to the grounde, hee was flaine in that place y after fee bad reigned nine Monether and nine payer, as floriacenfig both reports :: े देशक में शब्दा में अवते भी

> De was a man of a comely flature, and of a Floriac. baute courage, and albeet that for his baly sinten Dunancie he was highly renommed and honeured all all ment get through his produced Ambition, he best the bartes of many.

Hen. Hunt. Politier. The Chronieles of Mormandie haue mans. 60!3.

1066

616

There was flaine in this battaile befiors king Harolde and his two brethren, Byth and Icofrike, what on the one side and on the other, as boue twentie thousande menne. Ind finally hereof Englishmen by the bloud of the Sarons ceased to raigne flaine. 67974. in Englande after they had continued pollellion of the same, from the fyzit comming of Hengilt, which was about the yeare of our Saujour. 450. alias. 449. butill that present yeare of Bing has to Chieftaine, the Welche men were then so fore rolog death, which channeed in the yeare. 1066. So that from the beginning of Hengist bys raigne, bnto Baroldes death, are reckened. 616. praces, of (after some) 617. as by supputation of the time will easily appeare.

By all the which time there raigned kings of the Sarons bloud within this lande, except that for the space of . pr. years and somewhat more the Panes had the dominion of the Realme in begynning of King Sucnois reigne, (which was the first Dane that governed England) buto the last peare of King Parotenute, (the last Dane that ruled here). rrbiij. peares, in whiche meane space Egelred recouering the Kingdonie reig= ned two peares, and after him his sonne Comonde Irontide continued in the rule one peare, so that the Danes had the whole possession of the lande but.rrv.peares in all.

The bodie of king Harold is buried at Waltham.

mong other flaine in the fielde, was burped at Maltham, within the monasterie of the holps Croffe which hee before had founded & endowed to the behofe of suche Canons as he had placed there, with fapre possessions.

Clerily, as some wayters have reported, there was nothing in this manne to bee in any wyle dilinapled, if his ambitious mynde coulde haue beene stayed from courting the Kingdome, and as a subicit. Among other manifelt proutes of his highe valiancie, this is remembeed of him, that beeing kint agay aft the Wielchmen (as befoze is partly mentioned) hee knowing they; readie nymbles rielle in lernice, and home with their light armed menne they were accustomed to annoy and dis Aresic those that Apouloe assayle them, hee like. wife (to matche them) provided light armed men bandes of nymble men and light Souldiers, bee entered upon the Mountagnes of Snowbone, and there remayned amongest the enimyes for the space of two peares. spee loge althord the Welche Pation; twke their Kings, and fent they; beades bato the King that fent him as boute this builnelle, and proceeding in fuche ris golous manner as mighte moue the hearers to lament and pitie the case, bet caused all the malle kinde that might be mette with, to be mis ferably flaine: and fo with the edge of his Swore he brought the Countrey to quiet, and wythen made this lawe, that if anye Wicktheinan from thenceforth shoulde presume to palle the limiters ouer Offes ditch with any weapon about him he Ciculo lofe his right hand.

Ex. 6. libro Policraticon, fin debugis cuttalium. Ioh n Sariib.

To conclude, by the valiant conduct of this brought buder, that in maner the whole Pation might feeme to faile, and to be almost betterly destroved. And therefore by permission of the king of England, the women of Wales ionned themfelues in mariage with Englift men. But tores turne where we left.

Powe fortoniuch as it pleased God by hys bidde and secrete judgemente so to dispose the Realme of Englande, and in luche wife as that theirpossession : for there are reckened from the 20 the governaunce thereof Houlde fall after thes maner into the handes of William duke of Po!= mandie, I haue thought god befoze I enter further into this hiftent (beeing nowe come to the conquelt of the Bealme, made by the forelayde Duke of Pozmandie) to let down his pedigrew, thereby to we've howe he diffeended from the first Duke of that Country, who was named Rolls (and after by recepuing baptilme cleped Robert.)

The fayde Rollo of Rou, was forme to a The boote of king harolde bring founde as 30 greate Logde in Denmarke called Guyon, who having two formes, the layde Ron, and Courin, and bring apported to depart the Countrey, as the letter fell to him and other, according to the maner there bled (in time when their people were enerealed to a greater number than the Countrep was able to fultaine) refused to obey that order, and made warre agaynst the King there, who pet in the ende by practife founde meanes to flea the forelayde Gnyon, and his fonne Courn, that hee could have beene contented to have lived 40 fo that Rou, of Rollo, having thus loll his father and brother, was compelled to forlake the counfrey, with all those that had holpe his father to make watte agaynft the king. Ind thus diguen to lecke aducutures, at length he became a Chis flian, and was created Duke of Populandie, by gift of Charles King of Fraunce, furnamed 14 Simple, whole daughter the Ladie Gilla bee alle marico : but ther departing this life withoute if fur, ber marred Popce banghter to the Cale of for the purpole, and to being furnithed with tache so Selfin and Bayeute, whome her bad week at the wyfe before her was baptiled, and had had by hir a fonne named VVIlliam Longue spee , all a Danghter named Cerlota.

Milliam Long espee, no Longa speta has to wife the Ladic Sporta, Daughter to Sombere Carle of Senlis, by whome he had illuc Richard the fecond of that name buke of Pormand, who maryed the Ladic Ignes, the daughter of hough

The Hystorie of England.

le Grande, Carle of Paris, of whome no illue pioceeded:but after hir deceaste, he marped to his feconde wife a Gentle woman named Gonnoz, paughter to a knight of the Danithe line, by who her had three fonnes, Richarde that was after Duke of Pormandie the third of that name, Robert, & Mauger. He had also by hir three daughan Notto Egelred king of Englande, and after to Bing Enute : belloge, otherwile Mix, bestowed bpon 10 Archbishop of Rouen. Ceffrey Carle of Britaigne: and Mamoe compled in mariage with Euldes Earle of Charters and Blais. Richard the thirde of that name marico Judith, fifter to Gcoffray Carle of Byp. taigne, by whome he had iffue three fonnes, Ri= charde, Robert, and William, and as manye Daughters : Mir, maried to Reignault Carle of Burgoyne: Alienoz, maried to Baldwin Earle of flaunders : and the thirde dyed youg, bering affianced to Alfonle King of Pauarre. Their mother deceased after the had beene marted tenne peares, and then Duke Richard maried fecondly the Ladie Effric, lifter to Cnute king of Englande and Denmarke, from whome bee purchaled to be devoiced, and then maried a Bentles woman called Pauie, by whom he had iffue two fonnes, William Carle of Irques, and Maurer

Richarde the fourth of that name Duke of Pozmanoie, cloeff fonne to Bicharde the thirbe. dred withoute illue, and then his brother Robert fucceeded in the estate, whiche Robert begatts bopon Arlete of Harleuina daughter to a Burgelle of felais, William furnamed the baffard. afterwardes Duke of Pozmandie, and by conquelt king of England.

Hitherto have we continued the Hystorie of this land, wherein may appeare the variable chaunges of states by course of times, and especially foure notable Conquests: as sirst by the Romans, secondly by Saxons, thirdly by the Danes, and now lastly by the Normans: in euerie of which alterations of the state, what is chiefly to be considered (by cause wee have partly touched the same in the Proheme) we here omit to make any further discourse, and so proceede to the second Booke as followeth.

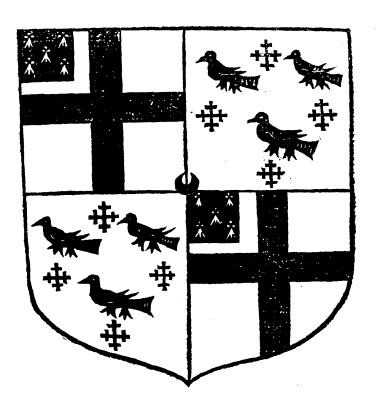

ં જાઈ ફુલ્પો દ	The second secon	~
priest conneces soldes a live accounting a section of the construction of the construc	and the second of the second o	a color di c
		second of the chief of the chiefly to famous the chiefly the c

The Authours out of whome this Historie of Scotlande hath bene gathered.

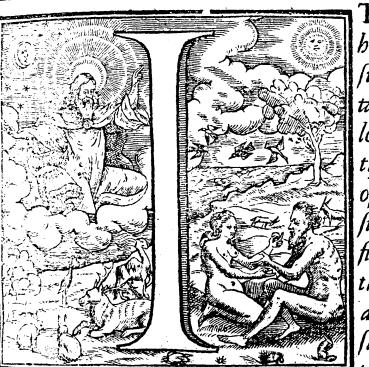

Hector Boece.
Iohannes Ferrarius Pedemontanus.
Iohannes Maior.
Iohannes Fourdon.
Rogerus Houeden.
Richardus Southyvell.

VVilhelmus Paruus, siue Neoburgesis, Albertus Crantz. Aeneas Siluius. Edward Hall. Richard Grafton: Iohn Stovy: And others.

TO THE RIGHT

Honorable the Lorde Robert Dudley, Earle of Leycester, Baron of Denbigh, Knight of the most noble order of the Garter, Maister of the Queenes Maiesties Horse, and one of hir highnesse privy Counsell.

T may seeme (right honorable) a gret presumption me, to have taken in hand the collection of this Scottish history, and other of divers regios, considering somany sufficient men as live in these dayes, far more able to performe the same. But where at the motion of a special frend, I vndertooke to deale therin, more vpo trust of his promine Reginald Sed ayde than of mine owne abilitie, it pleased God to cal him to his mercy before the worke could be fully brought to end: but yet to answere the expectation of his frends, and trust, which he had comitted to the and me in this behalf, I have done my good will to accops in part of that, which in his life time was intended; although not to my wished desire, by reason of such wantes as had bene supplied if he had lived to have seene it published himself. It resteth (right noble Earle) that it may please your Honor to accept my doinges in good parte, to whom I offer this parcell of my travayles in this Historie of Scotlande, in regarde of the honour due to your noble Father, for his incomparable valure well known and approved, as well within that realme as els where in service of two Kings of most samous memory, Henry the. viij. and Edward the sixte, sounding so greatly to his renowne as the same can not passe in silence, whilest any remembraunce of those two most perclesse Princes shall remain in written Histories. I therfore most humbly beseeche your honour to beare with my boldenesse in presenting you with so meane a gifte, proceeding from one, although unknowen to your Lordshippe, yet not without experience of your bountifull goodnesse extended towardes those, to whome I recken myself, most beholden: as what is he within this realme almost of any degree, which findeth not himselfe bounden to your Honour, either in his owne causes or his frendes? for suche is your inclination to pleasure all men, as the same may seeme a peculiar vertue planted in your noble harte, mouing you so much to delite therin, as no time is thought by your Honour better spent, than that whiche you employ in doing good to others. But least I shoulde enter into so large a discourse as might be framed of this and other your excellent vertues (a matter far exceding my simple knowlege) I wil cease to speake further thereof, sith the same is spread ouer al, as wel this as other regions: for no where doe want greate numbers of such as haue aboundantly tasted of your exceeding courtesies. In making you owner therfore of this abstract of the Scottish histories, I most humbly beseech your honour if any thing be amisse, to impute the same to the imperfectio and defect of better instructions, and with your benigne & fauourable interpretation to haue me therein excused. Suche as it is I addresse it to your good Lordship with so dutiful a mind as may be imagined, beseeching God to preserue your honor in long life, with plentiful increase of wisedome, vertue & al wishful prosperitie.

The Epistle Dedicatorie.

> Your honours most humble to commaunde RAPHAEL HOLINSHED.

DESCRIPTION THE

Scotlande, written at the first by Hector

Boethus in Latin, and afterwarde translated into the Scottish speech by John Bellendon Archdeacon of Murrey, and now finally into English, for the benefite of such as are studious in the Histories, by W.H.

The Contents of the Chapters conteyned in this Booke.

- OF the boundes of Albion, with the fundrie commodities thereof, and of the great infirmities that fall vnto the people there for their intemperancie: and finally of the religion vsed there
- The description of the East, VVest, and middle borders of Scotlande, with the most notable
- The description of Galloway, Kile, Carricke, and Cunningham, with the notable townes, lakes, and rivers in the same.
- 4 The situation of Renfrew, Cliddesdale, Lennox Lowmund, Argile, Louchquaber, Lorne, and Kentire, with all the notable things conteyned in the same.
- Of Ros, Stranguerne, and Murray lande, with such Lakes and Rivers as are to be touched there. Of Boene, Anze, Buquhane, Mar, Mernes, Fiffe, and Angus, with the Lakes, Flouddes, Abbeyes,
- Townes, and other notable commodities there to be seene and founde. 7 Of Louthian, Striuelin, Menteith, Calidon wood, Bowgewall, Gareoth, with the notable Cities, Castels and Flouds thereof.
- 8 Of the greate plentie of Hares, Hartes, and other wilde beaftes in Scotland, also of the straunge nature of fundrie Scottish dogges, and of the nature of Salmon.
- 9 Of the fundrie kindes of Muskels and Cockles in Scotlande, and Perles gotten in the same. Of viccouthand strange fishe there to be seene, and of the nature of the herbe Citifus commonly cal-
- 10 Of the Iles of Scotlande, and such notable things as are to be found in them.
- 11 Of the nature of their Claike Geele, and diverse maner of their procreation, and of the Isle of
- 12 The description of Orkenay, and Shetlande, with fundrie other small, Isles, and of the maners and conditions of the people dwelling in the same.
- Of the maners of the Scottes in these dayes, and their comparison, with the behaviour of the olde and such as lived long since within this Ilande.
- The description of an auncient Pict, and such as dwelled beyond the wall of Hadrian.
- Ot Bishoprikes, Vniuersities, and Counties in Scotland.

(b.j.)

TO THE RIGHT VVORSHIPFVL

Maister Thomas Secford Esquier and Maister of the Requestes, William Harison vvisheth all knovvledge of God, with dayly increase of his giftes at this present, and in the worlde to come life euerlasting.

Auing by your singular curtesse receyued great helpe' in my description of the rivers and streames of Britain, and by conference of my travaile vith the platformes of those seve shires of England vinich are by your infinite charges alreadie sinished (as the rest shall be in time by Gods helpe, for the inestimable benefite of suche as inhabite this Ilande) not a littlepullished those rough courses of diverse vvaters not exactly before time described by Leland our Countreyman, or any auncient vvriter, I coulde not deuise anye thing more agreable vvith mine abilitie & your good nature (vyhich greatly fauoureth anye thing that is done for a commoditie vnto many) than to shevy some token of my thankefulnesse for these your manifold kindnesses, by the dedication of my simple translation of the description of Scotland at this tyme vnto your vvorship. In deede the tranaile taken herein is not great, bycause I tie not my translation vnto his letter, neither the treatise of it selfe such, as taketh vp any huge rovvme in the volume of this Chronicle. But such as it is, & vvhat socuerit is, I yeeld it vvholy vnto you, as a testimonic of my good vvill, vvhich detesteth viterly to receyue any benefit though it be neuer so smal, and not to be thankfull for it. Certes my vocation is such, as calleth me to a farre other kind of studie, so that I exercise these things onely for recreation sake: and to say the truth, it is muche visiting for him that professeth Diuinitie, to applie his time any other vvise vnto contemplation of civill Histories. And this is the cause vyherfore 1 have chosen rather, onely with the losse of three or foure dayes to translate Hector out of the Scotush(atongueverielikevnto ours)than vvith more expence of time to divise a nevve, or followy the Latin copie, which is farre more large and copious. Hovv excellently if you consider thearte, Boethus hath pennedit and the rest of his Historie in the La. tin, the skilfullare not ignorant: but hove profitably and compendiously Iohn Bellendon Archdeacon of Murrey his interpretour hath turned him from the Latin into the Scottish tongue, there are verie sevve English men that knovy, by cause vve want the bookes. VV herefore fith the learned readehim in his ovvne stile, and his Countreymen in their naturall language, vvhy should not vve borovv his description and read the same in English likewise, sith the knowledge thereof may redounde to the great benefit of so many as heare or read the same. Accept therefore (right vvorships full) this my simple offer, and although I assure my selfe, your natural inclination to be such, as that it will take nothing in ill part that is well meant toward you, howve rudely socuer it bee handled in the doing, yet I will not let to craue pardon for my presumption, in that I dare be so bold as to offer such a trifle vnto you, whom more veightie affayres doe dayly call from things of so small importaunce. Almightie Godkeepe your vvorship from time to time in his seare, and blesse you and my good Ladie your vvise, vvith such increase of his benefites, as may most redounde to his glorie, and your ovvne aduuntage.

(b.ij.)

The boundes of Albion

with the fundry commodities thereof, and of the great insirmities that fall unto the people there for their intemperancy, and finally of the Religion vied there in old tyme.

he Fle of Albion contagneth thousande myles, having in length 700, and in breadth 300. as appeareth well by the coast therof that litth ouer a.

gapult Fraunce where it is broadelt, and from whence it gathereth narrower and narrower, till it come to the biter Marches ; last boundes of England and Scotland . Pozbetwirte the Will of Galloway that is on the well five ouer against the Frish seas, and Saint Ebbes head, 20 that litth upon the Germaine Deean towarde the east, are scarcely 130. myles, and thenceforth it groweth finaller and fmaller till it touch bpo the Posth leas, where it is not about 30. miles, as I noted befoze in the descriptio of Baytaine. This Fle is replentified with people, horfes, and allother kindes of cattell and come in moste aboundant maner, except it be in suche places where as God of his fingular gwonelle hath otherwise indued the soyle with ritche mynes of 30 man may pronounce nothing to be oner harde Gold, Silver, Tinne, Braffe, Copper, quickfilmer, whiche for the most parte are so pleneful, that they fuffife not onely for the necessaries of the whole Fland, but also of sundry regios that are lituate round aboute it , if the inhabitauntes were fkilfull and painefull to deale withall accopingly. But the abundannce of all other things requilite for the vie of man, that is found generally in our Iland, maketh the prople leffe carefull of these commodities, and more gyuen 40 ther countries, woulde come in the ende to be to idenesse. For beside the great plenty of those things whiche brauen and earth do minifter, as graffe, coine, and cattell, and foules of fundin kindes, there is fuche flore of filbe in all parties of our leas, efpecially tomarde the Roth, that thefame would suffile to feede and sustagne all the people of the Fland, if there were none other commodities to be found within the fame. For the impabitants of all countries that botder bpo b3. as Fraunce, Flaunders, Zealande, Hol= 50 lande, and a great part of Germany cespecially those whiche lie neare buto the coast) bo saple hither with great numbers of veffels vaply to file upon our coaffs, and bute fuch as we have a cide caught, not only for their owne ble, but allifor the Lenton provision of such nations as he opon the Leuant feas, where they fell the lame at these owne willes, with very freedy biterance . Many other riche and precions co. modities are to be gotten in the fayo Hle, wherof the aforenamed nations do make no small accompte, befor thefe common things, Wihat Mall I say of our wolks , whiche are in so high Dionysius Aestimation in all landes, bicause of their needs lexandrinus faith that the sary vies, and where a great part is so fine, and wood of Beis fofte , that of it are made, the colly Marlettes, taine is often pliaunt gloues, and many other grayned and thank to in in the whole circuference two 10 delicate clothes, of whiche I thought god to manner come make this mention, by cause the reporte thereof parable to the not yet made common and generally knowe draught. to all men.

Certes this I dare boldly affirme, that if the kingbomes of Byptaine hab luche grace giuen them from aboue as that thep might once line in unitie, of by any meanes be trought under the lubiedio of one Pzince, they fould ere long feele such a fauour in this amity, that they wold not onely line frankly of their owne, without any fozain purchase of things, but also rests all outward innation, with final tranaple and leffe dammage. For as touching their persons, and likewise they; notable wittes, apt bothe for the attayning of learning and knowledge of hans dycraftes, they are inferiour to no other nation.

Therebuto we finde them to be couragious and hardy, offering themselues often buto the betermoli perils with great affurance, fo that & or palt their power to performe, if they woulde giue themselues to live temperately, and follow their predecellogs in moderation of diet. Therfoge it (is as I thinke) that almighty Gob in his providente disposition of al things, hath orderned their groundes (otherwife plentifully invaco with all kindes of commodities) to be deflitute and boyde of wine, as forfering that the faybe liquoz whiche bringeth greatelt benefite unto o= molt pernicious and noplome buto them . for they are given to such bonatural ravening and greedy delier of fortaine thinges (whilest they contempne of not regarde their owne) that they cannot refrayne the immoberate ble of deline, and excelle bled in drinking of the lame: In lo much that we may fee divers to be ouertaken haured, not only with landty kinos of grieuous maladies common to be them of the mayne, but also many other whiche they have not, nego ther be any thing at all acquainted, with as experiece daply tracbeth. Some by long ficknelle and languilbing greeks bo grow into luche beformitie only thorow excelline feebing, e grecey sbule of wine, that if you knew them whe the were children and young men, you thall hardle remember them when they be old and aged and that which more is in comparison of other that live more laberly, you will hardly thinke the to be bogne in the Ele , but rather luppole them to be chaungelings and monsters, brought out of other countries to gage floge buon : diuerle of them thosom the cotinuall vie of wine, are molefted in their age, with phyenoticall pangs and pallionselledune allo hal you fee thole that are ginen much unto wine and lach welfare, to become parents of minig childen, fith their naturail mopsture and generatiue force, is much a= 10 plenteons region of the Pictes for their marche, bated, if not altogither extinguithed by luch immoderate biet . But to returne to our purpole, the Albanes of Beytons, as Cefar in his Com. mentaries, & Tacirus in his Ennales do report, were very religious, after the maner of religion vico in olo time . for in thole danes the Priells of Beptaine named Druides, were very expert poth in naturall and Mogall Philosophy, and from thence came the fielt profeffors of that led and opinion into Fraunce. The principall feat 20 cother mountagnes lying thereabout into the allo of their Prieftes was in the Ile of Man, whiche was reputed at that fealon, for the welfping and foutagne of all learning and knows leoge, and after that their Prieftes were ones converted to the Catholike fagth , they perfenered in the fame with great constancie, without any note of Berelle.

The description of the East west and middle bor = ders of scotland, with the most notable townes and flouds therof. Chap. 2.

Diffes had sometimes the principall e most sertile parte of that countrey, whiche now is under the regiment of the Scottes, and after they had cotinued in the fame by the fpace of, upr. yeares, toyned in maner in perpetuall league with the Scots, & mainteining mutuals ly the warres fometimes with the Beytaines & Romaines, a fornetimes also iarring with their treme batred one w another, till it was brought to passe by the dimne promocnee, that the sayoe piffes were ouerthiowen , their name ertinguillied, & the kingbome bnited buto that other of the Scots for enermore. Ifter this time furthermoge, aithough the Scottes baue bene berg oftentunes affayled with most vaungerous and terrible warres & offftimes inuaded by enimics front diners regions, pet luch hath bene the fathey flourist & retaine they; effate inniolate.

Celhatforuer wer haue generally fpoken of Ilaion, that is chiefly to be baderstanded of the Scattes & farre greater, especially among the Scottes, as they call them in the bigh lande, as people that have leffe to do with forraine Merchants, therfore are leffe belicate, t not fomuch corrupted with strange bloud and alliaunce.

terreby in like forte it cometh to palle, that thep are moge harde of conflictition of body, to beare of the colde blaffes, to watche better, abstenne long, wherebuto also it appeareth that they are bolde, nimble, and thereto more fkilfull in the warres. As for their faith & promise, they holde it with greatest constancie, as Heffor hath set powne. Towardes the Ulmaine lea, I find, that Scotland hath the Mers, sometime the molte which so long as the sayo people did inhabite it, was called Deera, or Dere, but after their erpullion it was named Shers, that is to lay, the Merches of limites of their coutrey. In procede of time also the Scottes extended their boundes euen onto y Twede, which now divideth Pozthumberlande from the Mers. On the other five of the countrey towards the deleft, sundry finall bournes descend from the Cheriot billes, Solne, diuiding Cumberlat from Innandale, fo being brought into one chanel, they fall togis ther into the Tride Ocean, and flande for the bounds of scotland upo that balfe of the cours rrep . The Cheriot hilles are in like forte taken for the middle Marches of the region, whiche with certaine final brokes that fall fro thefame, do separate both the countries, whereby their limites are knowen. The Mers hath buder mar-20 ches at scueral places whether it is extended)as fometime the Germayne fea , sometime Caft Lowthian, somtime the Twibe, & fomtime the forth, among many ftrong holos & Caftris, that frand vpon the bogders, is the towne & Ca. fiell of Barwijck in time pafte called Ordolne cium, as the invabitantes are called Ordoluci(f Hector be not decciued.) The Twede springeth out from a meane bead, and after bis augmitation, with other fmall waters that fall into the Scottill unighbours, at the laft they fel into er= 40 fame , it descendeth with a large course into the Almayne lea. Beyond & Twede, tothe middle March buder the Cheriot hilles lieth Temidale, that is to lay, the vale of Wiffe : Beyond it is Efficoale, og the vale of Effic, of a river fo called that runneth thosom the fame: ouer against Eiledale on the other fide lieth Eufdale, fo named of the river eas that pasteth thereby, a fale leth into the water of Innande : But Tif and Effe do runne into the Emede:furthermoze on nour of almighty God towards them, that Mill 50 the well fide oner against & Frish sea, lieth Innanvale, whereunto the Lunand water giveth denomination, which marcheth fomtimes with out the boudes of Acodefoale, where al the three rivers aforefayd, that is to far, Eus, Innand ? Sulwar descende togither in one bottome into the Irift feas.

In Innagale is a Loch of lake named Loch maben. ... mides in legth & 4. in breadth, net only very ful of fild, but of such kinde as few men are acquainted with . Belide this lake also there is a cafell of p faine name builded of purpole to restraine the furious dealing of threues whiche do great hurt inthofe quarters. Foz not only in Ananvale, but in all the Vales of Clales afore rehearled, are many firmg therues, which often spoile the countrey, and ercreife much ernel flaughter vpon luch as inhabite totte in any troublous time. Thefe robbers (bicaufe the English do botder bpo their dry marches, & are 10 their perpetual enimies) Do ofte make fozcible rodes into the English boundes, foz their better maintenaunce & full fration, or els they pilfer privily from them, as men leading in the meane feason a pore beggerly & very milerable life. In the time of peace alfo, they are fo mured to theft and rapine, that they tanot leave off to frale at home: e notwithflabing. that they be often very loze handled therefoze, yet ther thinke it peayle worthy to molest their aduerto palle, p many riche & fertile places of Scotlad lie wall a voyde of culture for feare of their inualion.

Pot far from the Sulway (a water where great plenty of fill) is to be had) are many quicke fandes, those so perillous that no man may well go ouer the fame, but with great difficultie e daunger of his life. This vale of Annand was fomtime called Ordenitia, & the people thereof Ordonices, whole auncient barbarousnesse is reported to be suche, that in times pall they refused not to kill and eate such pri- 20 ioners as had pecided themselves buto them. The bery wome in like fort would flea their husbands, if at any time they fled fro the field, and returned to thur houses, only to give occasion onto other me to fland to their tacklings at every fuch adventure.

On the Wiefl boyders a toward the Morth lieth Aiddeldale, so called of the water of Didde. It beginneth with a very narrow course, and increasing bioder in the middle marches of Scotland, it finalwhether it runneth with a fwift courle, as p Scottidi writers do report. In this vale stadeth a towne named Dunfrile, wherein many fine clothes clpetially whites are made, which are brought by & catud into England, Fraunce, Flauders & Bermany where they are had in great price and estimation.

The Description of Galloway, Kyle, Carricke and Cunningham, with the notable Townes, Lakes and Rivers in the same. Chap.3.

Mout Diodeloale is Galloway (named some. time Bzigantia) the people whereof were in tunes palt called Brigantes : this region is deuided by the water of Cree into two partes, whereof that which lieth mearest to Didoctoale, is called nether Calloway, the other that is aboue the Creeis namio opper Galloway . In nether Galloway is kitscowbyy, a rich towne & of a good trade in merchaundize, and in upper Galloway is dalbitherne in Latine Candida cala, an Ibbar Dedicated to S. Minian the Bishop, a there lieth his carcase, which is honored of the people with great superstition and errour. About Wibitherne is deligton towne, 4 not far from thence is the areat lake of Pyton, the one half whereof both frese by naturall congelation as other poles and plathes do, but the other is neuer frene to beare any Ice at all, whiche buto me doth freme to be great wonder. In Balloway mozeouer are two other lakes, the Sallet and the Meutramen, of equal length and breaoth with the Lochmysten: Is for Balloway it felfe,it peeldeth out a great point promontory or cape (which the Scots call a Mule of Auke) into the Irill) fea. The common forte name it the Mules Duke, the tounding of it felfe, it maketh two great lakes, named Rean and Lowis, except I be decepued, one of thele lakes of pooles is rrr. and the other rbj. mples of faries, as they cal the truer forte, whereby it cometh 20 length, e both full of Dyfters, Berring, Congers, Cockles, and other like kindes of fille.

Some are of the opinion that Brigantia was the same region of Britain p is now called Wales, wherein the Beytons inhabited many yeares after their expulsion out of Byptaine. But this opinio is falle, fith the Romagnes write how that Man the Iland lieth ouer against Brigantium and middes way betwene the fame and Freland: for albeit that the brayes or bayes are now worne wider and farder distant ech from other by the washing and wozking of the fea, ret the fame latitude and elevation of the pole that Ptolomy ascribed to the Biggantes, agreeth well to the beight of the pole ouer Galloway, which is very farre from Males, lithence the The of Man lieth allo 200. miles from thence, and in the fight of Falloway. In like fort by the testimo. ny of funday Authors both Frill and Spanill, we affirme that out of Brigantium, a citle of Spaine, (now named Compostella) there came a new comir reftragneth it felf againe, till it cometh at the fea, 40 pany of people into Freland called Spaniardes, & out of Irelad another crew of thelante nation with king fergus into Albion, and in remembraunce of the citic Brigance, wherein they inhabited whileft they were in Spayne, they called themselves Brys gantes. To this opinion in like fort Cornelius Tacitus both ferme to leane, who faith, that the Baye gantes descended from the Spaniardes, whiche in his time owilled in the ottermolt partes of Byytaine, including bnoce & name the whole Fland of 30 Albion. Thele regions afore reherled, that is to lay, Annandale, Pionelbale and Galloway, belide fine wolles and store of cattell, both also abounde with all kindes of graphe, wheate onely exceptes.

Aboue Galloway is Carrike, sometime a pojtion of the region of the Silures, of whole nanie it is not yet certainely knowne, whether it was berined from the famous citie Carricke, whole ruines Do get remaine, og not. Bilury is biulbed into three * A.li. *

the first as I lapd, was Carrick the noble citie: and in this countrey are many ftrong Callels, bothe by naturall fituation and pollicy of matherein allo are fapre kine, and oren whole fiell is belicate, and bery tender to be eaten, the tallow moreover of they? wombes is fo morft & fappy that it neuer wareth harde, but relenteth of the owne accorde, and becometh like onto ople. Beyond Carrick is Kple, fo called of Coile King of Beptame, somtime flaine to Beade in in the layd region, and therein is a ftone, not much the Natin aboue rij. miles from the towne of Air, ful xxx. fote Ficetor, high, & three elles of breadth, called the deafe flone, highe 30. not without cause: soz when a man is on the one foote in lide thereof, he shal not heare what is sayde or bone iength, & on the other, though there be neuer so great noyle made, no not if a Canon thould be bilcharged of let purpole, which to me both feeme impossible, neuer= theleffe the farder a man flaudeth from the fame, the better fhall be heare what soeuer the nople be. Pert 20 bnto Eple is Cunningha the third part of Silurie, whose inhabitats in time past were most nopsome to & Romaines. In Erle is a pole named Doune, from whence the river Doune, both runne thozow the middelt of that region into the Irille fea. In Cumningham likewife is a lake called Garnoth, equall in quantitie onto the Doune, and no leffe fa= mous tog the abundance of fifth that is dayly found therein: and not farre from the same is the towne Sociano of that name, sometime onercame the

> The situation of Renfrew, Cliddisdall, Lennox, Lowmund, Argile, Louchquhaber, Lorne, and Kentyre, with all the notable things contays ned in the same. Chap.4.

Panes and Porwegians, whereby it grewe to be famous, and of more reputation among bs.

rifeth out of the fame bill in Calidon wood, from whence the Annand falleth, and goeth with a long courfe into the Trift fea: fonce cal this river Bluda, 4 Cluba, but racitus nanieth it Glota. Pot far allo from the fountaines of Clive, arifeth the water of Forth, that runneth on the contrary lide into the Germaine Decan . In like forte after the water of Clube bath run for a leafon towarde the Porth, it gathereth somwhat inward til it come to the mous 50 out of the water early in the moznyng about 9900. taine of Brangeben, e from thence holdeth on with a fwilt courle, til it fall as I fayd into y Irifly feas. The courtey where it runeth is named Clidelbale. Bermirt Clive & Leunor licth & Barony of &m. frew, wheren are two poles named Dubinsouth & Teboth, of which the fiell is rij.miles in compaffe, the other rrand both very riche & plentifull of fill. But in Lennor that lieth next aboue Renfrew to= ward the Ocean (called by Ptolomy Telgonia'is a great mere of lake that hight Lochmond, of rmii. miles in length, teight in breadth, and within this Thin og pole, are co. Flandes wel replenisted with Churches & dwelling houses, am the same also are three things worthy confideration whereof the first is that the pleasant & very delicate fishe there biedde. doth want finnes. The fecod is, that the water will often fwell with huge waves though no windebe fiurring, and that in such wise that the best Maris ners in the country pare not aduenture to Caple thereon. There is also a very fruiteful and commodious Fle therein, very necessary for the pasturage of cattel, whiche flecteth hither and thither as the winde bloweth . This lake is lituate at the fote of the bill called Granzeben, whiche were sometime the marches or limites betwirf the Scots & Pides, s are extended fro Locklowinund to the mouth of Dre. Crites the Pickes had no parte of the country beyond the Granzeben, not toward the Ind feas, for this region was inhabited by the Scots. Eight miles fro Locklowmund is the castel of Dumbit. taine named sometime Alcluid, and here the water of Leuen falleth into the Clide.

Beyond Lochlowmud is Argile, an hilly coutry and full of cragges and mountaines, therin allo are two lakes Lochfine and Lochqubo, that divide the region into three partes, that in the middelt beyng called Knapdale. In Lochfine likewife is more called Lorgis, where Alexander the thirde King of to plenty of herring than in any parte of the coall that compasseth the Fland, but in Lochquho are suche kindes of affe to be blually had as are commonly bredde in freft waters. There are mozeover in Irgile two castels Blenunquhart and Enconell, and in it are 12. Ales, whole chiefe commoditte relleth rather in paffurage for cattell, than aboundance of grayne . In Ergile furthermoze are many ritche mynes full of mettall, but the people there have no faill to find and tric out the fame. The confrant te-Douth live from the Barrony of Renfrem, it nature, that if it be hidde in Araw foz a certaine feafon, it will kindle of it felle & confume the firaw to alhes. There are leuen other lakes in Argile, where of fome are thirty miles in length and breadth, and other leffe. It was told me once by Doncan Campbell a noble Knight, that out of Garloll one of the poles of Ergile, there came a terrible beaft in the peare of grace, 1510. which was of the bignelle of a Grephound, and foted like a gander, and illaing fomer time, did very cally and without any vilble force or ftreyning of bimielfe ouerthrew buge okes with his tayle, and thereunto killed three men out right that hunted him with there Arokes of his lago tayle, the refte of them fauing themfelues in trets there aboutes, whylest the aforcfarde Monter tes turned to the water . Chole that art given to the obleruations of care and uncouth fightes, beleeue that this beaft is neuer feene but agaynst some great trouble & milebief to coine bpo the realme of scotland. For it hath ben diferied also before that time, although not very often. Loine abutteth upon Argile, which was once a part of Ar= gile, and tracheth out into the Triffe fca, in maner of a cape of toug, full 60. miles. This poynt also was called Novantia, but now it is named Bentyer, that is to lay, the head of Lozne, whole Some Zuthozs affirme, that both Argile and Cantyre, were called Nouantia mold time, lith Prolony maketh no mention of Ergile in his Colmography . In this Lorne is great abundance of Barley whiche the Scottes call Beir: Beyond Loine is Lochanhaber herrtofore & portion of Murrayland, very riche in nunes of Fren & Lead, o no lesse beneficial to the country mall kindes of cattel. There are like wife many them are molle notable for the plenty of sais mons. tother delicate fille, afwell of the fait an fresh water, which is there taken e almost with out any transile: neyther is there any where els in all the He fuch floze. The one of thefe is uamed Lochty, and the other Spange, but bpon what occasio these names were given buto the I finde as yet no certainty. The Lochty rifeth not about eight miles from Lochnes, & falleth belide it, there is a rocky cragge, running out at length into the sea, named Hardnemozth. In F mouth of Lochty likewise was somtime a riche towns named Invertochty, whether the marchaunts of fraunce and Spaine did make their darly resort, till at the last it was so befaced by the warres of the Panes, that it never was able lithence the layou time to recover hir pristinate tmowne. But whether the negligece of the due our people, or hatred that some envious persons do beare to cities & walled townes in our countrcy, as yet it is buccertayne. Beyond Lochty is the castell of Dunstafage, in time past named Euonium: bepod Dunstafage also is the mouth of the water of Spange', whereit falleth as 3 heare into the Germaine Deean.

The discourse of Ros, Stranauern, and Murray townes in them. Chap.5.

Seyond the water of Spanze lieth Ros lomtime called Lugia, a very narrow res gion God it wote, but running out in greate ligth thosow the middelt of the Flande, being thurrence on both fides with the Ocean. That postion thereof whiche lieth nearest to the Arith

feas, is very difficulte for fuche as travell by the countrep, by reason of the high Mountaynes, whichewaketh the country more apt for wilde beaftes than manking to inhabite: neuerthelesse waring moze fertile on that part whiche firet= theth toward & Germaine fea, it peelocth it felf to culture, a rendzeth some grayne. In pasture also it is not: altogither bupyofitable, lith there is god graffe, and very batable for their heards: hitermost part is not full is miles fro Ireland. 16 for the baleys there, being watered with fundep pleasant ffreames, do pecide a sweete & very lanoury graffe, where with all forces of cattell are very muche delifed. In Ros are fundey lakes. but Lochbann is the greatest. There are also many fresh rivers, fraught with excellent fishe. and finally a notable Firth og lafe hauen called Cromart, wherento divers in time of necessitiedo refort, to anorde the daunger of flin wrack. that otherwise would assuredly annoy the. The modes, many lakes, e many riners, but two of 20 Scottiff me rall it heill of Chipmen. In this region mozeover is p towns called Thans, where the bones of Dutho an hely man (as they fap) dorelle, a are havin greater effimation amone the superfitious sozee (as sometime over the wivit Fland) than the holy Golpel of God and merites of his Sonne, whereby we are onely laned! Two apprecent houses are likewise maintained in one bale of the Ros, whole formes refriedle so many belies, but to what ende as pet beneath the same into the Germaine Decan, & 30 Idonot find Dert unto the sayd Ros lieth the Stratuaneene, as the ottermost regio of Scotland, p coaftes where f abutting for a while bud the Deucatioon lea, do afterwarde turne againe towards the Almaians leas, having partly the Deucalidon roaft, and partly Cathenese byon the Porth fibe, Sutherland on the call, Rollia on the fouth, Deucalido againe bpo the well. There are three great cragges or pointes lying on the bitermoli lide of Stranauerne, that is to repayee of this towns, procedeth of the flouth of 40 tay, the Hope, Howbrun (the greatest of & three) and Downifby, which bicause they flote farre offinto the ka, to make two great firthes and lakes, eche of them being fenerally diffinguiffed from other. Rert buto Cathenele lieth Sutherland a profitable region both for grayne and all kindes of provision, but chiefly for the nourishment of belial wherento it chiefly enclineth.as do the other two last before rehearled. On the faroer fide also of this, lieth Murray land, somland, with the lakes, rivers and notable 50. time called Vararis, although the marches there stare changed from that they were of old. For whetas in time past all the regio lying betwene Spap and Deffe to the Arciad ka. was named Murray, now it is knowen to be onely beyond the water of Spap e Klocke, eteacheth on butill it come to the Iriff fea. Betwirt Ros and Murray land, is a great Bate, & likewife a dis cet of fundip waters: for theunto fat the Peffe, * 8.iii.* Mardin, Pardin , Findoin , Los and Spay , whereof this latter runneth with so fierce and violent a Arcame, that the force of the fea at the floo Ariuing to enter into the fame, is put backe e may not reuft g inuincible fal, e beatsbacke the water that Delcendeth into the Deran . The Pelle iffieth out of a lake of the same name (which is not palling tight myles from the lapte plathe, from whence the Lochtie runneth) and thence gorth into the Irithe feas: Ind this property it 10 hath, that neither the fireame, nepther the lake it felse will yector to be frozen in the very deepe of winter. Such allo is the force therof, that if any Breog whatfoeuer frofen fubstance be caft therinto, it will by and by relent and diffolur agains to water, whereby it becommeth bery profitable for fuche cattell as are benumed with colbe. In the mouth of the Relle, frandeth a towne calles Inuernelle, where fometime was great abus Dance of herring taken, but now they be gone, so of paye, and therin is a Cathedgal church fire by the fecrete working of God . The common prople put the fault in the riche e men of higher calling, who enuying the commoditie of the pore inhabitantes , will often feente to bereene them of this emolumet, by force and Caughter. Wherebpon (as they fay)it cometh to palle, that the encreale eftiones becapeth, e bery imal foge is taken thereby many yeares after fuch iniurie offered. But to proceede: belide Lochmelle, which 1824.miles of length $4.in breadth, by reason 30 of the great woorsthere flaving , is great flore of lanage bealls, as Barts, wild Borles, Roes, and fuche like . There are likewile Martirnes, Beuers Fores, a Wielelles, whole fkinnes and cales are folde unto ftraungers at huge and ercessiucppices. In Murray land also is not allonly great plenty of wheate, Barley, Dies, and luch like grayne, belibe Duttes and Apples, but likewife of all kindes of fiche, and especially of Salmon. Che prople thereof in like fort bo vie 40 Douerne water, which is a river matuerloully a ftrange maner of fifbing: for they make a log Wierle of wicker, narrow neckeb & wibe mouthed, with fuch cumning, that whe the tide commeth the fifte dote themfelues into the fame, & fourthwith are so inclosed, that whilest the tide laffeth be cannot get out, no; after the water is gone, eleape the hands of the fifters. In this region moteouer is a lake named Spinep whrte. in is erceeding plenty of Swannes. The caufe of their increase in this place is ascribed to a 50 cept the Rattra onely, wherein it is not hearde certaine hearbe which groweth there in great a. bunvace, and whole leeve is very plealant unto the fayor foule in the eating, wherfoge they call it Swan Gris: herebnto luch is the nature of p fame, that where it is once fowen or plated, it wil neuer be bestroped, as may be proued by experience. for albrit that this lake be fine myles in length, & was fonutime within the remembrance of man bery well flored with Salmon and other great fifte, pet after that this bearbe began to multiply bpon the lame, it became lo hallow, that one may now wade therowthe greatest parte thereof, by meane whereof all the great fillie there is beterly confumed. In this poztion furthermoze, is the Churche of Bette. where the bones of little John remaynein great admiration . Certes this carcale hath bent 14. fote long, his members well proportioned according to his Clature, and not fully Gre yeares Chie Ses before this twic was written (by Boethus) het en English was the whole thighe of a man, and he did think and the did think the feethus his arme into the hollownells thereof, whereby bestland. it appereth what mighty people grew op in our region before they were overcome with gluttony and excelle. In this quarter finally is the towne called Elgyn, not farre from the mouth niffed with Chanons: there are thereto fundep riche and very wealthy Abbayes in Murray, as Epllos of the older of the Cifeaux, and Pluseardy of the Cluniackes.

Of Boene, Anze, Buchquhane, Mar, Mernis, Fiffe, and Angus, with the lakes, floudes, Abbayes, townes, and other notable things conteys ned in the same. Chap.6.

NExt unto the Hurray lieth Boene, and Inge, two fertile and plentiful regions, whiche extend their boundes enen bnto the leas. They are both very notably indued with bateble pallures, and by reason thereof are very full of cattell, they yeelde morequer excellent corne, e by meanes of they large wodes and forths not without great floge of wilde bealtes, of fun-Bry kindes and natures. Reare allo unto the Stored with fill, Stadeth a towne named Bamt, and buter their two regions aforelaybe lieth Buchquhane, a bery batable foyle foz all kindes of cattell, but especially of theepe, whole woll exceedeth that of the like beaft of all other countries there aboutes for whitenelle and finenelle. The riners that are in this countrey do in lyke maner abound with Salmons, fo that there is no one of them boyde of this commoditie, erthat any bath ben feene: herein alfo ffanbeth the castell of Slanis, in which the high constable of Scotlad dwelleth, and neare bito the lameis & marueplous cauc: for the water that broppert into the fame, in a flort proceffe of time become methan barde white flone, and ercept they hab bene oft remoned heretofoge, the caue it felf hab bene alled by with the same many yeres agone. This region is voide of rattes, fluch is the nas ture therof, that if any be brought thither from other places, they are found to die immediatly: finally it is most marneylous of all, pas Dtes bo growe there in many places of themselues without culture & tillage, fo if a man come this ther of let purpole to mow downe the same, he thal find nothing els but enipty bulles & fraw: but if he chaunce byon the fodaine and without premeditatio of the thing to cut downe any (& matter impossible in my minde) he thall finde them fo good & ful as any are elcohere to be ga= thered & ledde home. Eertes it appeareth hereby, that this is nothing els but an illusion, wherewith the wicked fends do captinate & blinde the fenles of the superstitious fort: for that it thould be so by nature, it is a thing altogither impossi-

Perte bnto this, lieth the greate region of extendeth 60. miles in length, fro the Almaigne stag to Badzenoch.

Ju this is the Citie of Aberdene, wherein isa Billiops lea, and noble Ulniuerlitie, Cometime founded by Milliam Elphintion Bifop there. This citie lieth betwirt two riche tiuers, the Done e the Dee, wherin is the greatelt flore of Salmons that is to be founde againe within the compatte of Aibion, and likewile the greatell & longelt if you refpett their quantitie. 20 Dert bnto Marre, we haue Mernis toward & fea, a very fatte fople ful of pafture, abundant. ly replenished with enery fort of cattell. In this poztion standeth Dunnother the Markiall of Scotlands house, & likewise the towne of fozbon, in whiche the bones of Palladius do reft, who is taken generally for the Apolite of our nation. The water of Elke is bound buto this tegion, whiche is otherwife called Porthelke, a perilbed for default of a bridge, as they have attempted to palle e repalle ouer the fame. Ingus bosdereth opon the Mernis, it was sometime part of Hogreflia, 4 now watered with three notable rivers, as the Porthefte already mentioned, a marueyloully replenithed with Salmos, likewise the Southeske, & finally the Tay, the noblest water in all Scotland, and remembred by the Romanne writers under the name of Tau.

In Ingus also is an highe Mountayne of Promontory, called the redde Brayes, whiche lifth out farre off into the Almayne leas. The Cap also riseth farre beyond the Mountagnes of Cranzeben out of Loch Tar, whiche is a pole of 24, miles of length, and 10, of breadth, wherein are not onely dinerle Allandes with Callels in them, but the water of the lake it felf (beying moste fine and subtile) is notably repleat nithed with great floze of fift, and therfoze very commodious for fuch as owell about it. It falleth into the Almayne fea beside Dundee, a towne called in olde tyme Alectum, wherein I was borne, and in whiche the people trausple bery painefully about weaving and making of cloth. There are in Angus also many other cio ties & riche Abbayes, as Mountros, Brechin & Forfayz , belide fo many Caffeiles as lieth not in me to number. This likewife is not to be palled ouer with filence, that whereas forfair was in tyme palt a notable Citie, frengthened with two royall Castelles, as the ruynes do yet Declare, now it is brought buto litte more than a countrey billage, replenished with simple cotages. Many lakes and poles are allo in Ingus, and these well fraught with alh. There is also in this countrey one place called the vale Mar , whiche is very plentifull of cattell , and 20 of Elke, whole theepe baue fuch white, fine, and excellent woll, as the lyke unto it is hardly to be founde againe within ibe whole Jiande.

After wee be oner the Cay, we come buto fife, fometime a parte of Dttoline: In this region groweth all maner of grayne fo plentiful-Ty as elfwhere in any part of Albion, and where no come, is there is no leffe fopfon of cattell. There are blacke Rones allo bigged out of the Such are to grounde, whiche are very god for firing, and in Luke. fuche is their intollerable heate when they are kindled, that they resolue and melte youn and therefore are very profitable for Smithes, and fuche Artificers as Deale with other mettalles: nepther are they founde any where els (that 3 do knowe of) but betweene the Cay and the Tine within the whole Flande. Salt is likewife made in this region in great quantitie of Sea water, whiche they boyle according to they maner. There are furthermore funday cibery danngerous chanell, e wherin many haue 40 ties in the same , of whiche S. Andrewes is the cheefe, wherein is bothe the fee of an Archbishop and a famous buinerlitie. There are mogeoner funday takes, as Loch Topre and Loch Teuin. and in this later are dinerte Jies , and in one of them alfo the Churche of Saint Phillane , & Scottiffe faint, of no fmall name and reputa-

Fife is diaided of Lowthian by the river of Forth that runneth a large and broade chanell 50 into the Decan feas. Certes it is a water be= ry plentifully indued with Cockles, Dyllers, Mufkles , Stales, Bellockes , Merchwyne, Mibales, and greate foylon of white fille: and among many other-Jies that are to bee founde in this frith, that of Maie is of greatest fame , byranse Adrian and his sellowes were killed in the same. In the middest of this Ale lyzingeth by a fountayne of frethe and cleare water, from an high rocke, whiche is not a litle to be marueyled at, considering the quan= titic and lituation of the Ale. Belide this allo is a wonderfull cragge, ryling within the Sca, whereouto is to firite and narrow a passage, that a man fiall hardly come entout by a fisher boate, and thereto but at one place. This rocke (called the Balle caltell) is invincible, and therin are many caues very profitable for defence, made heretofoge by great labour and industry is of man. Certes, there is nothing in this rocke that is not full of admiration and wonder:there in also is great flore of Soland geese (not bnlike to those which Plinie calleth water Egles oz as we, fea herons) a no where els but in Zillay and this Rocke. It they? first comming which is in the foring of the yeare, they gather fuche great plenty of flickes & bowes togither for the buyloing of their nestes, that the same both suffice the keepers of the callel, for the yearly main- 20 The description of Lowthian, Striveling, Mentenaunce of their fewel without any other prouisson. Chese foules do feede they young with the most delicate fish that they can come by. For though they have already praied byon any one, and have it fafte in their becke og talons , pet if they happen as they flie toward the land to elpy a better, they let the first fall againe into the fea, e purfue the later, with great e egre twiftneffe untill they take holde thereof. Sometimes their pray is taken from them by the keepers of the 30 kingbome, and thereto for bounty of tople & callel, as are also their flickes from time to time for the aforefarde vie: but they making finall or rather no relistaunce, do turne agapne forthwith, for more woo or fishe (as their losse requireth not ceasing till they have burloed they? neffes with the one, 4 nourifled by their young with the other, so that what by the timber of their nests, the bequiling them of their pray, and stealing away of their young, they bying yeres ly no finall commoditie onto the owner of the 40 plets the renowne of the aforefayde citie. Rot castell. Within the bowells of these geele there is a kinde of greace to be had of lingular force in Medicine, and flaging likewile the fkinne from their bodies with the fatte, they make an ople very profitable for the Gowte and many other discases in the haunches and groynes of mankinde. In this cragge moze, there groweth an hearbe very pleasaint a delicious for Salades, but if it be taken by and planted elswhere, it ep= the vertues wherewith it was earst indued. There was sometime a stone found here in this rocke muche like to a water sponge og pumise, hollow on the one five, and of fuch nature, that if any falte water had bene powerd thereinto, and suffred to runne thosow, it woulde forthe with lose the natural saltnesse, and become fresh and very pleasant buto the mouth and taste:

me heare in these dayrs that this stone is to be feene in falt caltell, whether it was brought after it had palled many handes for the triall of this matter.

In this futballo is the Ile Aymon, where in is an Abbay. There are likewife diners other Flandes, and those very full of Conics: and in the fayde Firth are fundry fifthes oftentimes feine of monitrous thave, with cowles hanging ouer theve heades lyke buto Monkes, and in the rest resemblying the body of man. They shome themselves likewise above the water to the nauell, howbeit they never appeare but agaynst forme great Pestilence of menne, or Wurrern of cattell: wherefoze their onely light both breede great terrour bnto the Scottiffe nation, who are very creat observers of uncouth lignes and tokens.

teth, Caliden wood, Bowgewall, Gareoth. with the notable Cities, Caftels and Floudes thereof. Chap. 7.

The Southfive of the Forth lieth Low-thian, so called of Lothe or Loth, one of the Kinges of the Bides, it was fometime named Difflande: but now it is parcell of the cotting not inferiour to any region of Scotlande. In Lowthian are many Ibbapes, Caftelles and townes, as Padington, Dunbar, Porthber. wije and Leith : but Edenbozew paffeth them all, afwell in pollicy of regiment as in forms of buylding and wiscome, and riches of the inhabitantes: therein allo is the callell of Maydens remembeed by the moste renowmed Authors, and also the Kings cheefe pallace, whiche this farre from thence mozeoucr, is a certaphe oply spring which riseth out of the ground in suche aboundance, that the moze is carried from thece, the more is reffored: and the people are perfore ded hereof, that it is very niedicinable agaynft all Cankers and Malles. Dot farre from the mouth of forth is the castel of Dunbar, whiche by natural lituation and industry of man, is now become one of the chiefe holdes in Albion. ther groweth not at all, of otterly giveth over 50 It was sometime the principal house appertayning to the Earles of Marche: and there harde by is a towne of the fame name, wherein is a rich Abbay, of Colledge of Chanons founded by those Earles. Perte unto Lowthlan lieth Mers; whereof I baue woken already. but wee will nowe goe by higher into the lande . Beareft unto Bers therefore lieth Teuidale, and aboue it is Twedale: nerte buto

Twedale is Druy toale, Walcopdale, Douglasse= bale, and Clivisvale, and all these are suche names as the nuces have that runne along their botomes. The principalitowne of Clivdelvale is Blasco the Archoishops sec, wherein is a notable Church erefied in the honour of Saint Mungow, and buyl-Ded with great magnificence . In Blacco allo is a noble Cininerlitie wherethe liberal Artes and Sciences are very realously taught. In this region moreouer is a very riche mine of Gold, and another 10 of Liure, the commoditie of whiche later is reaped with small trauayle. There are sometimes founde divers precious stones also, as Rubics and Diamodes. Certes this myne was disclosed in the time of Faines the fourth, who would no doubt, hauc brought it to full perfection if he had longer lined. whereas now little profite redoundeth thereby to the common wealth, bycause it is epther btterly ne= gieded og not very much regarded. Pogth of Blafbyon Traile & Lennor. In Strineling flyge is the towne of Striueling, and aboue it is the Castell of Striucling, which was sometime called the doloious Mountaine. At this towne also began the great Calidon wood, whicheranne thozow Mentrith and Stratherne, to Atholl and Lochquhaber, as Ptholomy writeth in his first table. In this woo were sometime white Bulles with thack hears and curled manes like fierce Lions, otherwife they fauage, that they woulde neuer be made familiar. not tail of any hearbe or graffe that mans hande had once touched, after many dayes. Being taken allo by the industry of man (whiche was very hard to bo' they would refuse all sustenaunce, and sterue themselves to death. As some as any did inuade them, they would rulle byon him with great vielince, and beare him to the earth:) as for Dogges, Actics, or any kinds of weapon they feared not, that Robert Bruze after his Coronation did hunt one of these Bulles in the aforesayde wood, being accompanied but with a small trayne, in whiche boyage he escaped narowly with his life. Foz after the beack felt himselse soze wounded by the hunters, berulled bpo the King, who having now no weapon left in his hande where with to defend him felfe, be had furtly perifficd if restue had not come: how= beit in this diffresse one came running buto him him downe till the Hunters came that killed him out right. for this valiant affe allo the King in= bato the aforefaid partie with great policitions, and his linage is to this day called of the Turnebulles, bicause he ouerturned the bealt, and saued the kings lufe, by fuch great prowes and manhood. Certes tie Sell of thele beaftes were reputed in old time as a most delicate fode, and onely meete foz the nobis lity, notwithstanding that it be very ful of sincwes and griffles, whereat some delicate treders do often take offence. In times paste also they were bredde in many places of the Calidon, but now they be all columned by the cluttony of the inhabitants, lo that none of them are left, but only in Comernalo. In the east side of Menteith lieth Stratherne, a bozdereth also byon fife: thosow the valeys likewise of this region runneth the water of Ern, that falleth into Tay. This is morcourt worthy to be noted, that not foure miles from the confluence of Ern & Tay, there is a frome of small quantitie, and yet of great wonder, for in what place foeuer it be layde, it wil not be removed from thence by manuall prafile, arte oz engine, and yet one man may lo lone moue it as an hundred. On the other five of Cap beyond Angus and Gowzap lieth Stermond, a region plentifully indued both with graffe and come. Pot farre from Stermond is I thole, wherein are co lieth Menteith, and Striveling Gire bozdering 20 many noble valers and ryuers full of fille, as pikes Lampernes. ac. The foyle there also is so boutifull, that it prelocth come in manner without any tillage: there is likewyle therein a towne called Lub, whose fieldes are so plenteous that (if they be well tilled and dielled) they will pecide greate floze of Barley without any fowing of leede. Howbeit as this is in that parte of the region often beriffed, fo in other there is a contrarious disposition to bee founde in the earth, whiche turneth wheate fone were lyke onto the tame, neuertheleffe to wilde and 20 into good & perfite Rye, the like whereof I heare, to be not farre from Luke and in the countreys thereaboutes. Well of Buchquhane and Boene, lieth Bollgewell, and Gareoth bery plentifull foyles bothe for graffe and corne . In Barcoth allois an hill called Doundoze, that is to lay, the Golben mountagne : for the Sheepe that feede thereon are pellow, and their treth of the faine heme, refemblyng burnithed golde . They? fledje mozeouer is redde as it were tygned with Saffron , and lo is neyther cared for any maner of engine. It is sayd 40 their woll n:uche after the same maner . There is furthermore in the fame region, an heape of fones lying togither in maner of a Crowne which peclo a founde when one of them is ftricken as if it were abell. Some are of the opinion, that one Jooll Temple or other fore beretofore in that place whylest the Scottille nation was addiced to the wordippying of Dincls. Many other regions are in Scotlad, as Bradalbanc, Strabraun and Bad. zenoth with divers small territozies and floudes, who overthere the Bull by playne force, and held 50 howbeit they are not so notable as those which we haue already touched, and therefore I thinke it but folly to deale any farther with them.

> Of the great-plenty of Hares, redde Dere, and other wilde beaftes in Scotland, of the strange properties of fundry Scottish Dogges, and of the nature of Salmon. Chap.8.

Hauing

Trying made this speciall vescription of the Realine of Scotland, nom will I touche luch thinges as concerne the fame in generall. Fielt of all theretoge in the fieldes and wilde places of the countres there is great plenty of Bares, red Dere, Fallow bere , Roes , wilde Hogles , Wolfes and Fores. Thele boiles are not gotten but by great flight and pollicie: foz in the winter fealon the inhabitants turne certapne tame hogles and Mares aniongil thein , wherewith they growe in the ende to that who to denieth entraunce or fute of a Sleutto be to familiar, that afterward they go with them to and fro, and finally home into they? Maisters pardes, where they be taken a fone broken to their handes. The Wolues are most fierce and noylome buto the heardes and fleckes in all partes of Scotland, fauing in one parcell of Angus, cailed Glennote dale, where these beatles do no maner of hurt binso the boniesticall cattell, but pray onely bpon the wilde. Fores vo much mischiese generally in all strades, but chiefly in the Mountaynes, where 20 they be very hardly hunted, howbeit arte hath deuifed almeant to prevent their malice, and to preferue they pultrie. Certes there is almost no house that Dothe not for certayne bayes cheriste by a yong Fore, which the Scottes do call a Coode, and then killing the fame, they mince the fledhe thereof amongst fuche meate, as they give onto their foules and other litle bestial, and by this meanes so many foules and cattell as cate hercof are preferued from baunger of the fore, almost by two monethes af- 30 ne leste belicious in talte and sauour at the table, ter, so that they may wander whether they will, for the fores as it were winding of smelling the fielhs of their fellowes get in their croppes, will in nowife menole with them, but efehere and knowe luche & one, although it were among an hundled of other. In Scotteno morconer are Dogs of mernaitous condition: for belive the common nature and buis nertall properties of Dogges of all other countries, there are three fortes with vs, whiche are not feene elimbere in any quarter of the worlde. The firste 40 to have bene touched in they? ablence by many had is an Bonnde of greate fwiitnelle, bardineffe, and Arenght fierer and cruell poon all wilde beaftes , & eare against theenes, that offer their Maisters any violence. The fecond is a rache or hound very exquifite in following the fote, which we call draw= ing whether it be of man o; beaft, pea be will purfur any maner of foule, and finde ont wh thosuce fill is call up of lurketh among the rockes, by that excellent sence of smelling wherewith he is indued. The thirde forters no greater than that of Baches, 50 in collour for the most parte red with blacke spots. or els blacke and full of redde markes. Thefe are fo theifull that they will purfue a theefe or theefe flolen godes in most e precise maner, and finding the trefpasser, with great assurannce, they will make a raple opon him. Drift be fothat he have taken the water fo; his fauegarde, he fliginketh not to follow him, and entring and illuring at the lance places where the partie went in and out, he neuer cealeth to raunge til he have noted his foring, and be come to the place wherein the theefe is Mowded. The Dogges of this kinde are called Sleuthoundes. Certes this report would feeme mere incredible, ercepte it were dayly had in experience bpon the bo1= ders of Englande and Cotland, where pillage is god purchale indifferently on both flocs . There is a lawe also among the botocrers in time of peace. bound in pursupte made after fellons and stolen godes, Chalbe holden as accessary buto the theft or taken for the selfe theefe. Of foules suche (as I meane) as line by prap. there are funday fortes in Scotlande, as Egles. Faucons, Golhankes, Sparhankes, Marlions and such like, but of water Foules there is so great flore that the report thereof may ferme to exceede all credite. There are other kindes of birdes also in this countrey, the like of whiche is no where els to be feene, as the Capercailge or wilde Pople greater in body than the Rauch, and living only by the rindes and barkes of the Pine trees. Wie have in like maner many Moze cockes and Hennes , whiche ab. stepning from coine do feede von nought els, but the leaves of Cytifus, whiche the Scottes do commonly call hadder. Thele two are very delicate in Cating. The thirde logie is reddith blacke of colour, in quantitie comparable to the Phelaunt, and our countrey wien call them wild Cockes, and their cheefe luftenaunce is by wheate . Belide thele, we hane mogeoner another foule in Mers moge frage and bucouth than all thefe afore mentioned, called a Gultard, fully to great as a Swanne, but in colour of feathers and taile of flelle, little differing from a Partriche, bowbeit these byzdes are not bery common, neyther to be seene in all places, suche also is their qualitic, that if they perceive their egges (whiche lie commonly on the bare earth) they forfake those nestes and lay in other places. All other our foules are common to bs and other nations. Salmon is moze plentifull in Scotland than in & ny other region of the worlde, and bicause the nature of this fill is strange, I wil let downe somuch as I do knowe hereof at this prefent time as followeth. The Salmon in Baruell time, commeth by into the small rivers, where the water is motte fiallow, and there the male & female rubbing their wombe one agapust another, they siedde they? spawne, which forthwith they court with land and granell a fo depart away, from henceforth they are gant i fleder, im apparance so leane o thei appeare nought els but fkin a bone, a therfore worthely fayd to be growne out of vie and feafon, it is lago allo & if they touche any of their full fellowes, buring the time of this they? leannelle, & lame five which they The description of Scotland.

fouched will like wife become leane, whereby it conteth to palle, that a Salmo is oft feene to be faton the one live of y chyne, t leane on y other. Burto piacrede, the aforelago fpamae & milte being hisden in the lande (as you have heard) in themest loging doth pecloe great numbers ollis elefite, but lo ne he & tender, foz along time that till they come to be fo great as a many finge (if you catch any of the you hal percepue them to fit were gelly,og if layo forth against y funne. Fro henceforth they go to the lea; where within the space of ce. dayes they grow to a marucys lous greatuelle, & then returning againe toward the place of their generation, they fiew a notable ipedacle not unworthy to be confidered of. Cettes in Scotlande there are many linnes of pwies, winche being in some places among the rockes very findlow about a pet deepe beneath, notable to pearce thozow the Chanell, either foz fwitnesse of the course of depth of the discent, of fuch water as cometh against him, he goeth fo ileare unto the five of the rocke or damme, if I chall fo call it, as he may, there adventureth to leape ouer a by into the lin, if he leape well at the field, he obtaineth his desire, if not he, assayeth eftlones the lecond of third time, till be returne now into his coutry: a great fifth able to fwimme e maugrehis reliftence, carted with the violent course of the water into the mapne Dean, such as allay often to leape, and cannot get ouer, ov biolithélelues & become Mealelled others that bappen to fal byon dry land a thing oftenfecue, are taken by the people (that watch their thancs) incampions of hote water, which then let opon the finallow e day plottes with fire bader them, in hope to catche the fattest, a luche as by reason tes y tast of these is reputed to be most delicate, and therfore their price is comonly greater than of the rest. It is inhibited in Scotland to take any Salmon from the cight of September, butill the ro. of Pourmber. Finally there is no ma that knoweth readily whereon this fishe lineth, for never was any thing pet found in their bellies, other than a thicke Apmy humour.

Of the fundry kindes of Muskles and Cockles in Scotland, and pearles gotten in the same: of the Through and strange fish there to be seene. and of the nature of the herbe Cythifus commonly called Hadder. Chap.9.

Cre it resteth that I shewe the nature of Multiles + Cockles, wherof we have many flunded kindes amongst bs: of these also some are finall, and pet if they be eaten fresh, are not without a naturall delicacp in fast. Others are greater anot unlike in forme & quatitie to thole that bauethe purple: a albeit that they are btterly boyde thereof, yet is their meate and sub-Agricericht pleasant in the eating. There are of an otherforte whiche are longer a greater, than sither of thefe, called hopfe. Dufkles, to be had in the Decathe Done, in thele are the pearles ingended. Eertes they love to be resident in the milt their lubitance to billoine & fabr euen as 10; deeprit and rieerest waters that are boyde of mupde salth, s fuch is their estimation among the deintiest kindes, of fode, that they were not humogthely called of old time, widowes luftes. Their flelles allo are as it were wrought euen fronthe very toppes, and thereto ful of spottes, wherein (as in yeld of gaine) they farre exteede al other. These early in the moining, in the ges Caroane bes tle, cleere, a caline agge, lift op their opper Wells nieth this, & mouthes, a litte about the water, and there res ciliato. with the fall of the water, thereto the Salmon 20 ceine of the fine e plealant breath or dew of heauens, & afterwardes according to the measure & quantitie of this vitall force recepued, they firffe conceput, then fwell, and finally product the pearle. They are to tentible quicke of hearing, h although you standing on the bray or banke about them, do speake neuer so softly, or throw neuer fo. small a Cone into the water, pet they wil descrie you, and settle agains to the botonie, without riturne for that time . Doubtlelle they against the streame, that befoze was a little hod 20 haue as it were a naturalt carefulnesse of their owne commodity, as not ignorant, how great estimation wee mortall men make of the same amongst vs, anotherefoze so sone as the fisher men do catche them, they binde their Melles togither, for otherwise they would open, and thead they? pearles of purpole, for whiche they know themfeines to be taken and purfued. Their maner of apprehention is this, fielt foure or fine perfons go into the river togither, by buto the of they weight no oftenest leape flogte. Err- 40 thoulders, and there stand in a compasse one by another with poles in their handes, wherby they reft more furcip, fith they fire the in the ground, flay with one hand byon them: Then calling their tyes downe to the botome of the water. they einic where they lie by their Winging and electenelle, and with their foes take them bp (foz the deapth of the water will not luffer them to Stoupe for them (give the to luch as stand next them. The perles that are lo gotten in Scotlao, are not of finall value, they are very ogient and bright, light & round, & fomtimes of the quantitie of hinaple of ones,litte finger, as I have hav e fecue by mine own experifee. Almost fuch another mulkle found on the coast of Spaine, the ficls whereof are gathered by fuch as goin pilgrimage to S. James . & brought into Srotlav, but they are wont perles, picante thei live in falt water, which is an enung to & Margarite:

but Caronne also bentethit. In all the lea coalles allo of Scotlad acc Cockles & Bulkles of the fame forme, but without this commobity. Many bicouth and ftrange Chapes of fill likewife are feene there, whereof fome are are med with feiles, fome with barde fkales, and Diuces round as a bali Kinned like an Freheon or Geogehauge, having but one conduct bothe for para ition of their excrements, and reception of their fultenauce. To thew enery kinde of fift to that is in Scotlad, it were but a vaine, tranaile, fith the fame are knows almost in euery region. In like loste we have fuch plenty of fills boon our senerall coastes, that although Willions & infinite numbers of them be taken on the one day, pet on the nert their loffe wil fo be supplied with new Core, that nothing that be milling by reason of the yesterlang: so bountifull is God in thefe his benefites bnto bs. Aurthermoze,there is another geft bellowed upon vs by the fingus 20 lar providence of God. for the greater dearth and penury of flelh and come is feene in Scotland, the greater floze of lift is taken bpon our Motes . In like forte in the defertes and wilde places of this realine, there groweth an hearbe Galenlib r de ofit felf called haboer of hather very belicate, Anti bus fatth as Columella lib. 2.cap. 4. lapth, for Boates and to no hearte all kinds of cattell to feeds bpon, and likewife but ichnibbe, fog biners fonles , but Bees elpretally. This berbe in Jane geeldeth a purple floure, wrete 30 were commonly burled from the time of fersitted of dus as hony, whereof the Piles in time palle did cap t lib 1 i. cip 24 2016 make a pleasaunt deinke, and very wholesome Commercial for the body: but for almuche as the maner of CI: 8: 31:10 therend of his making bereof is periffed in the hauocke made 5 boile, where of the Picies, when the Scottes Subdued their traning trees. country, it lieth not in me to let downe the ozder of it, nepther thewed they ever the learning hereof to any but to their owne nation. If male ly there is no parte of Scotland to barren and fome other kinde of mettall, as may be proued eafely thorow out all the Fies that are annexed to the fame.

> Of the tles of Scotland, and such notable things as are to be found in them. Chap. 10.

Sing fillen at the laste into mention of our fles, I wil apozesse my self to describe the lame, in inspeciand forme as followeth. In 50 the Friffe les betwirt Treland and Scotlande are leger and there 31 co. tohereof some are xxx. mirles leng. diuers rit, and others moje og leffe. Chele are called by fome writers Eubonie, and by other Hebrites. But the principall of them all is that of Wan , whiche lieth ouer againt Gallatray, and was fometime the prinquail teate of the Dringies, as Cornelius Tacis

The description of Scotland. tus, Celar in bis Comentaries, and other Rn. manne weiters do tellifie at large. Porth from the Alc of Man lieth Arran, otherwile named Botha, after S. Brandons time, who dwellen there in a little cottage, whiche (as all other the like were in those dayes) was called Bothe. Ird Arran wee go to hellaw and Rothelay, whiche latte is lo named of p Scot, which brought the Scottes firfte out of Ireland into Beptaine. Dot farre from this Ile is Tillay, where there is such ftoze of soland geele as the lay be before to be in Bas. Berond Tillap lie many other diflinguifed by their fenerall names, but full of mones, as of Fron, Tinne, Lead, and funder other mettals. Powbeit the most e notable Ale belonging to Scotland is 3la, that lieth beyond the promontory of Pouant cliffe, (in Scottiff the toug of Lorne) within light of Lechquhabre. Certes it is a riche parcell, rrr.miles of length, and full of come and mettall if the people were cumming to finde and trimme the fame. Pot farre from thence is Cumbra, and Bula, fully to large as Ila both for length and breadth. In Wulais a fayze fpzing two miles from the fea, from whence runneth a little broke or Arippet, whereof you thall reade more in the defeription of Bygtaine, lib. i. cap. 8. Reare bnto this is Jona, otherwife called Columkill,in whiche is an Abbay , wherein the Kings of Scotlande gusthe Ccond, bnto Malcoline Caminoz, who ereited the Monaltery of Dunfermelin , where lithence that time the molte parte of our Kings baue bene of cultome interred. Palling fogward to p Porthnorthwell feas, ouer agapuli Rolle is an Ile named Letois. Ir. mples in length, in this Ile is but one fifthe river, and it is lago that if a woma wave thosow the laine at the fpging of the pere, there Call no Salmon be feene there puppontable, but it produceth cyther gron or 40 for atwell mouethafter, wheras otherwise that Afte is knowen to abounde there in bery great plenty. Beyonde Lewis lie the Sky and the Rona, in the later wherof, it is incredible to lay what of Scale, of Pellock & Pozpalle is to be feene, whiche are nothing abalhed at the light of any man. The laft and betermoff Ble is named hirtha, where the eleuation of the pole, is Iriii degrees and lithence the latitude of Man, is but loif. I conclude , that from the Ile of Man the fielt Fle of Albion to Birtha the latt Ble hercof are 277.mples, after 62. miles and an halfto tebe degree, as Ptholomy bath let down. It is named hirtha, which in Trell foundeth fo much as a Sheepe in Englist , for herein that kinde of cattell aboundeth, echt one being greater than any Bucke, their hoines longer and thicker than of the Bugle, and thereto they have fide tailes that reach buto the earth . It is enui-

toned on every part with rochy of rocky crags, niverchy tewe vesselles may lande there but at old place, where the working of the fea is often times to terrible and rough, that no man dare abuenture thither without daunger of his lyfe. They that go thither therefore, do watch they? times when the fea is calme and fill . In the moneth of June allo , a Prielt commeth unto them out of Leuissa, and ministreth the sacras ment of Baptiline to all the children that haur i bene boine there lithe that moneth in the peart precedent : whiche beyog done, and a cretapne number of Maffes layde, he recepueth Tithes of all their commodities, 4 then returneth home

In the Fle of Lewis are two Churches 02 Chappels, wheref one is dedicated to S. Peter, another to S. Clement . The fame is, that to fonc as the fire goeth out in this Tle , the man that is holden of most cleane and innocent life, 20 gotth to the Zultare with great folemnity, and there layeth a wilpe of fraw, which being bone they fall all to mayer, in the miodell whereof fire commeth bowne from heane and kindleth or letteth the lame on fire.

Beyond this, is yet another Tle, but boyde of prople and all other living Creatures, fauing a certen kinde of bealtes like bnte Sheepe, whole nature and forme I have already touched in the here, for halle and breuftie fake. Betwirt thefe Iles also is a right daungerous passage, sith the fea by working of oppolite fiteames bath ingendzed a goulf, whiche fonutime taketh in an incomprehensible beale of water, and fomtimes calleth it forth agayne, by meanes wherof inany flippes that by rage of winde and weather are inforced to come that way, are cother twals lowed up by the wanes, or throwen against the greatest rage of this confluece is at a place called Cozebzecke, where it will eyther linke of at the least wife draw any thin buto it, though it be a full niple distant from the same.

Of the nature of the Claike geefe, and fundry maners of their procreation, and of the ile of Thule. Chap. 11.

of those Grese, which are ingendred by the lea, whole procreation hath hitherto bene thought to have bene made boon trees. But the opinion is falle, and pet fith they? generation is flrange moccoc, I have not a little tranapled, and with no small orligiesce indenoured to search out the fruth hercof, wherby I learne that their ingenture is rather to be referred to the fea, than any thing els, if my conichure be oughtes: for although that they are in fundin wife producted, pet I finde the fame to be performed continua ally in the fea, and not elswhere, as flial appeare hereafter. All trees cast into the Element in processe of tyme become worms eaten, & in the poles thereof are the lay de wormes to be founde though very little and finall (in comparison to that they be afterwarde) to be percepued at the fielt. In the beginning, these weimes bo thew their heades and frete, a last of all their plumes and winges. Finally when they are come to the full meafurcand quantitic of Brele,thep fipe in the agre as other foules oo. This was notably prouco in the years of grace 1 490, in light of many people, befide the Callell of Petilego, whether the body of a greate tree was brought by working of the fca. This tree beying taken, it was carred to the Lard of the forle, who fone after cauled it to be flitte in funder with a fame which being vone, it is incredible to fee, what a multitude of wormes came out of thele holes. Of these also some appeared as if they had bene but newe Mapen , diurtle had head , febte and winges, but no fethers, the rell were formed into prefite foulis. At the last when the people had gazed thereon by the space of an whole bay, they caries it to S. Indertues Churche belibe Efre, where the laive blocke remayneth fill fo Description of Baytaine, and therefore omittelt 30 be frent. Allfthin two yeares after there hapmes fuch another tree to come into the fyrth of Tay Bellot Dundee, worme caten and fall of young geele after the fame maner:the thirde was ferne in the haven of Leith belive Chenbozow : alle within a lewe peares, in like forte a Chip named the Eriftopher, after the bad lien three yeares at ancie in one of these ples was brought to Leith. where bytaule hir timber was found to be rote fin thee was taken in funder , and in bir keele tockes to their beter daunger and ruine. The 40 were found infinite holes as if they had bene eaten with wormes or bored with a wimble, and eche one of them filled with fuch creatures as haue farde befort . Bere if any man will alledge that the Cha: flopher was buploed of furh finiber onely as grew in these Fles, and that all retes & trees there growing , are of luch nature as in their togruptio do turne into thele foules, 3 will vilptone bis affertion by one notable erample fheweb befoge mint epes. Safter Mer-97 Dw it is come to hande that I entreate 50 ander Balloway parlon of Kinkell, was with bs in thefe Iles, and giving his minde with attentiue viligence to fearche out a full refolution with by of thele obscure and hidden matters, it hapned on a tyme that he toke by a braunche of Alga, called in Scottifte, Scatangle, whiche hanged ful of muftele ficiles from the rote enen to the very top. Bring allo belirous to fer what was in them , be grewe to be more alloniffed than than beforettor when he had opened one or two of them, he law no fill but a foule perfitely thas pen, fully answering to the capacitie of the fiell.

Finally, knowing that I was very inquilltine of these and the like care nouelfies, he came halfily with the layor hearbe and thewed it bn= to me, who founde no leffe by experience than $ before reported. Bo thefe and many other reafons and examples I cannot beleeve that thefe Claikes of Barnacles as I call them) are pro- 10 bucked exther by the qualities of the trees of the emtes thereof, but only by the nature of the lea, whiche is the cause and productive of so many wonderfull creatures . Furthermoze, bycaule the ruot and ignoraunt people law oftentimes the frugtes that fell from trees, which flode neuer in the lea, converted within shorte time into geele, they beleened that thele geele grewe voor trees, hangong by their nebbes as apples and other frupte bo by their falkes: but their opis 20 there, neare unto the whiche by many miles. nion is utterly to be reieded. for lo lone as these apples of frupte fall from the tree into the Sea, they grow first to be worne exten, and in procelle of time to be converted into getle.

Thus have I fpoken fufficiently of the Ales of the Peblides adiacent buto the realme of Scotland, and therewith all would that up my discourse of the same, were it not that I have sommhat to sap also of Toule, not brisnowin eur, who telleth how the Romaine naup by the commundement of Agricols, was fent to bewe the coastes of the whole Ilmo of Byytaine, and in their returns reported how they had feene the Thule, with other Flandes lying aboute the fante. Peholomy writeth that the fle of Thule is one of the Shetland Fles, whiche lie nearg buto Pormay, and beyond the Occhades, but this cannot be proned to by late experience: for Some far that Chule is the same whiche wee call Adand: other write that it is the lad Ale of the Ocean lea, and fo is Ifland, which lieth in the color frolly fea, beyond the Artike circle to. ward the Porth pole. The people of Idande by cause no come growith among them, lyue onely by fifte, whiche they drie and powder fo finall as incale both come backe from the mill, afterward they mure it with water, and worke it un for terad.

Of the description of Orkenay, and Shetland with fundry other smallles, and of the maners and conditions of the people dwelling in the same. Chap.12.

Crown the Fles of Scotland lie those of Skenay partly toward the Morthwest, and partly toward the Il maine leas. The prins cipall Lie of these is called Pomonia, wherein is a Biffiops fee, and two firong caffels. In these acometh no wheate, they are in like forte boom of wwo, howbeit al other graine groweth there pery electifully, they be without all benemous bealts: also neither can such as are brought this ther live any while, moze than in Frelad, which fultepneth no ercature that is adversatic to makinde: over and belide this, there are no frogers: as for Ecls thep are seldome found a to be frene in the Dechades. Hauing thus fallen into the mentio of Ireland, I thinke it good among of uers other rare gifts of nature to remember one thing that I have proved by experience to be pone there (although the tradation of Ireland thir connicolities appertaine not to this place) Whiche farre pasteth all that euer I have redde in bokes. Certes there is a Loch, finne, or note there groweth nepther bearbe not tree, howbeit fuch is the qualitic of this water, that if a lake be pitched in the same, the nature thereof bothe mithin one preres space, alter and change exceedinaly, for that parte thereof which standeth in the grounde is connerted into hardestone, the fame that is engironed with water turnethinto tough year, onely that poetion whiche is about the land Element retaining his former woodog bnto the Romaynes, as may appeare by raci- 30 lubitaunce, whereby it is often freme bow in one and the lame body, there dilling lublances are found, that is to lay, stone, year, t wood, which farre erceedeth all credite . But to returne & gaine to our Dechades, whereof things of litte of no lelle importaunce are to be rehearled, for lith there is great abundance of Barley wherof they make the Arongelt The that is to be founde in Albiour, and thereto knowen, that they are the greatest dynkers of any men in the worlde, Chule is many miles diftant from Shetland. 40 pet was there neuer bjonken og man bifguiles with blinke scene there, nepther any fole, or person otherwise berefte of his wittes thotow phienelie of madnelle. There is herebnto imail ble of Phificke: for mankinde liveth there molt commonly buto extreme age in found & perfite health, whole bodies also are of strong conflitution a very white of colour. The Ewes that ace to be found in thele Ilandes have for o mot part two or three Las a prece, at enery eening, 50 and therewithall they have in this countrey fuche plenty of foules bothe milbe and tame, as the lyke number agapne is not to be foundein Biptaine. They hogles are litte greater than the French Affes, but in their labour they exceede all other, what Moulde I speake of the plenty of alle there to be had, which paffeth al credite: among whiche there is one logte greater than any hople, of marueylous and incremble dugge delire to fleepe. This fill when the promoth to fleepe, fasincth hyz huge teeth bpon forme cragge that lieth aboue the water, & then fumbgeth og falleth into a molte founde refte, whiche the leafaring men elpying, they forthwith cast ancre, and then letting downe they? Suppre boates, they conneigh themselves to the filie, and hore a greate hole thorow hir tayle, whereinto they put one ende of a cable, and fo maicit fure, the other ende is falined to a great 10 ancre, whiche is let fall of purpole into the fea, and thus is their enterpile attempted crelong to be archieued. Loz after this wounde, it is not long ere the fiche awaketh, who feeling hir selfe to be hurt, leapeth at once into the fea, thinking to bide and Mowde hir in the deepes: but being flaved by the weight of the ancre, and indeuous ring in payne to breake the cable, the laboureth fo vehemently, that at the last the windeth hir= monly taken) and some after also turneth by hir belly, preloing hir life bnto the waues, and hy? body to the Mariners, who make an excellent oyle of hir greace, and palling ftrog cables of hir hide og fkinne. Certes fuch is the fogce of Rope made of the skinne of this fishe, that they will holde at a plunge no lesse than the Spanishe sparto. herein allo they erceeve glame in that they will continue very long without fretting alunder.

In hundled miles beyond the Dichades are the Schetland Iles, whole chiefe commodities stande onely by sist which is dried in the sunne. There are brought also into Scotland out of thefe Handes great ftoze of Sheepes felles, ore bices, Goate fkins, & cales of Martirnes diped utibe funne. Ind in the fame maner the Marchaunts of Pollande, Zeelande and Germany, fetch them yearely by barter and exchaunge for people of that nation, who for maners and conditions resemble much the Dzchanois. The fame in like force that is sappe of the Drchanors, concerning drunkennelle and frencly, is benfico on them, as is also their length of lyfe, although not in so rare maner: Sith these in there of strong Ne, content themselves with water, and very flender diet. Bepod the Schet= landes there are divers other Jlandes, of lyke fieste to seede byon. These dep their sille at the Sanne, and when they are thosowe stiffe, they grinds them to smal powder, which they worke though water into loanes, and so ble the same mice of other bread. Theyr firing confifteth of the boanes of suche filles as they take, and yet tion content themselnes in suche maner with this their page kinde of lyuelwde, that they thinke their estate most happy in respect of such as inhabite in the Maine. Certis there is no quarrelling amongst these for wealth or game, but eche one providetly suche stoze of fishe in Somer whiche he taketh himfelfe, as thall finds his family, or keepe his house in winter. They are boyde of all ambitious mode, & neuer trous bled with civile or forcen warres, as men that deeme firme peace and quietnelle, with mutuall love and amity, to be the chicle felicity to be fought for in this life, and to remaine herein, ech one to his power dothe Chewe his whole indes uour. This finally is to be added unto their comendation, that they are simple, playne, boyde of crafte, and all maner of Serpentine luttlety. whiche endeth commonly with mischiefe, and reigneth in the Maine. Dnce in the yeare there commeth a Prieft bnto them from Dikenay (of whiche Diocesse they are) who ministreth felle out of hir kinne for the which fie is com- 20 bnto them the Sacrament of Baptilme , and after accrtayne tome (hauing taken bp in the nieane time his Tithes in fifthe, whiche is their fole increase, and very truly payde) he returneth home againe the same way that he came. If any giftes of nature are to be numbeed as parcelles of worldly riches and renowne, they are not without these also: for the people of these His are lufty, farge, ftrong of body, and highe of ftature, fo p nature hath not fayled to indue 30 them with thefe things, and that in moft excellent maner. Wihat Goulo I fay of their helth, whiche is and may be preferred about all treas fure, as they well know that are oppressed with long and gricuous infirmitics : for here among thefe men, pou fhall very feldome heare of fick. neffe to attache any, butillertreame age come that killeth them altogither, and this is that era creding benefit naturally appropried buto their carcales. As for their quietnelle of minde, it is other common and necessary wares, with the 40 alwayes suche as is constant, buchaungeable, and therefore incomparable unto any riches or juge masse of worldly treasure. Perconto furthermoze, if it be true riches (as itis in deede for ech one not to couet other mes goodes, but to content himself with that which is his owne, and not to flande in neede of any thing, can any men be founde in any other region moze riche and foztunate than the Shet= land men and thele Ilanders ? Finally, if thole condition, but without come and all maner of 50 be the true honors, and reuerent dueties whiche the obedient fonne with greate fincerity and boyde of all flattery, both thewe unto his good parents and wherewithall the belt fast do meruaplously reforce and delite themselnes, & that thefe are also not wanting in thefe regions, can we infly foy that thefe me no lacke any thing, or Wall we not rather affirme with great affurance that they rather fland in nerve of nothing * b.ii. *

that any mortal man can fulfly will or delice? But if there be any man that will accule me of putruth in the recitall of thele things, as one that lieth lowde and by authozitie of a people pwelling far off, for fo much as I my felfe was neuer in those Flandes, he Mal vnderstand that I learned all thefe things of the reuerent father Coward Billion of the Ozchades, with whom one of these Jlanders dwelled, who not onely made a like rehearfall of thefe things with his 10 lour bnto the purest golde, & chined as if it had owne mouth, but also verified the same in his owne person, for his height farre passed the comon flature of men, thereto be was excellently well featured in his limines, to white of fkinne ouer all, that he might contend in beauty with any lady of the lande, & finally to wight & firod of body, that no man in all those quarters durit rune og wreftle with him. Hereby allowe may fee, how far they are decepued whiche indge the to be barbarous , & milerable creatures that in- 20 2But I haue made choile onely of the most care habite far from the Tropike lines, for there are no people more happy than those that dwell in fire Marthio-+Diolcorides, capite de populo alba &

thefe quarters, as I have proued already. Furthermore, among the rockes & cragges of thefe Ales groweth the belevable Amber, called firt booke of Electrum, Chrysolectru, C1 88 Dioscorides hath Pterygophoron, indued with to vehemet an attraffine force, p being chafet it drameth fraw, flore, and other like light matter buto it. This gunime is ingenozed of the lea froth whiche is 30 fiandeth the cale, being dzinen, as I fay de, bpon throwen by by continuall repercussion of crags e rockes against the sea walles, s through per= petual working of y wants growith intime to become tough as alew, til it fail at y laft from y rocke againe into the fea . Suche as haue often biewed a marked the generation of this gume, whilest it hageth on y rocke, affirme it to be like a froth a bubble of water without al maffy fadneste, bycause that as pet it is not sufficiently hardned by the working of the Element. Som= 40 the night they would by great companies intimes p Scarangle is found enuironed allo &. al, bicaufe it is bame bither & thither by the working of p waues, & lo log as it flectes to & fro in this maner, folong is it apte to cleane to any thing that it toucheth . Two peeres befoze 3 wrote this boke, there came a great lompe of Amberinto Buchqubane, in quantity fo bigge as any horse, which the hearding that kept their cattell neare hand caught by, a not knowing in a portion thereofinto the fire finally perceiving a fweete & delectable faugur to proceede fro the fame, they ran by t by to the Price of y towne where they dwelled, telling him bow they had found a prece of fluffe whiche would ferue bery well in fleede of frakenfence, wher with to per= fume his fainites or rather Tools in the church. Thefe me supposed that fir John had ben moze cunning than themselves, but contrary to their ernestation, it fell out that he was no leste bue skilful a voyde of knowledge than they, a therefore refusing the whole lumpe, he toke but a fmall postion therof, and returned the reft unto the, whereby it came to little pimte & leffe gapne among the common logic, who fuffred it to betill by reason of they? bulkilfulnelle. Certes when they brake it in peeces, it refembled in co. bene the laie oz flame of a caole. Herein alfo the Beourb was proued true, that the Sow reckes not of Baline. But lo fone as 3 bnderftwoe of the matter, I vled luch diligence, that one poztió therof was trought to me at Iberben. Ind thus much of the Hebrides, Orchades & Schtte land Ales fubicat unto the Scottill regiment. A might no doubt haue made reherfall of diuers other things worthy the noting in this behalfe. e ercellent, and so would finish this descriptio, were it not that one thing hath stayed menght pleasant to be remembred, as an uncouth and Arange incident , whereof mafter James D. gilby Ambassabour from James our King, (among other) buto the King of Fraunce, bath certified me, & whereof he had experience oflate at fuch time as he was constrayned by tempest of weather to get to land in Pograp . Thus the flore of Porway, he and his company faw a kinde of people raunging by a downe in the mountagnes there, much like buto those which biners pictures give forth for wilde men, heary and vgly to behold. In the end being aducttisco that they were fanage & wilde beaftes, pet nes uertheleffe deadly enimies to makind, they buderilod therbuto that although in the day time they abhorred a feared the light of man, yet in uade the small villages & countrep townes, kils ling a fleging so many as they found, or where no dogges were kept to put by their rage fury. Certes fuch is their nature, that they ftande in great feare of bogges, at whole barking & light they flic and runne away with no small halte terrour, wherefore the infrabitants are inforces to cheriff) great numbers of the faid beafts, there by to keepe off those will emen that otherwise deede what it was, they caned it home, a thiew 50 would annoy them: they are moreover of fuche Arength, that formings they pull by yong trees by the rotes to fight withall amog themselves. The Amballators forng their encouth creas tures, were not a tule allonnien, a therfoge to be fure fre all inuation, they procured a fireggato, to watch al night about tie, with great fice to gine light over all that quarter, till on the moje town that there twice the fia of to beparter theme.

finally the Porwegias thewed the, that there was another people not far of, whiche lined all the Somer time in the scalike fill, 4 fed of luch as they did catch, but in & Winter half (bicause the water is cold) they prayed byon such wilde tralis as fedde on the mountagnes, whiche cos ming downe from the snowy hilles to grafe in the valeys, they killed with dartes & weapons, & carried unto their caues . In this exercise also ther the certains little bouldes to their feete, which 10 beare them up from finking into the fnow, & fo with a fraffe in their handes, they make the better white to cline by and come bowne from the rragites and mountaines, wherof in that region there is very great plenty and aboundance.

If the moners of the Scottes in these dayes, and war comparison with the behautour of the eld, and such as lived long since within this Iland. Chap.13.

of Stalmuch as divers noble men have dell= red me to thew apart the old maners of the Scors touched in my history, to the end it may be knowen how far our nation in these present payes are different in their maners & behauiour frothole of our forefathers, therebuto although I affure my felf already b the renealing of thefe things will procure buto me the hatred of fundep worthy or renowned personages (of which few wil yeelde to heare their doings touched, of 30 their errours reproned) yet bicaule I owe fuch dartie & feruice buto those that have made this request unto me, a least I should feeme ingrate not to herken unto the in this behalf I haue coa teleended to the performance of their delires, & famuch the rather, for b they alledge how it wil be nery profitable unto al readers, but especially fathas are not immoderately given over buto their owne affections, not to wholly drowned confideration of wholsome admonition will be very willing to leave what soever offendeth in them. first of al therfoze, I will declare what blages baue ben among our cloers both in time of warre a peace, and by what wisedome eimdustric they have prevailed so long time against luch t lo many mighty adversaries, as field the Biptons, then y Sarons, next of al the Danes which have entred into this Iland with huge arnues to sporte and subdue the same. Forther= 50 more. I wil fet vowne with somuch hreuity as Can, how the falling by little elitle fro the frus Thitis and customes of their Forefathers, their vertue a force also began in like order to decay. and finally how in these vaies either by the cles mery of our neighbours, oz by their velicate nt= digence rather than by our owne prowes, wee me in security, a thereby as it were overwhelmed & wrapped by in al auarice, & excelle, where into our want of exercise and martiall prowesse Doth marueploully impell vs. Certes I beleue that by this meanes such as are of p moze cous ragious fort (pet reterning a fanour of the teperancic of they? elders) will reiopce to heare their manhode and great proves comended in this wife, as others of the cotrary fest (in scruile maner addicted to gather god, and wende their times in idle excelle a riot) freing their errours infly repetended, the diffionor gotten thereby openly reuealed, will the rather addresse them= felues to reformation of their estate, thereby to recouer the auncient renowme of their Horefa= thers, in answering to their prowes, than proue a reproche buto their fuccessours, thorow their lewde behausours neuer to be fozgotten . This also I protest before at men, that what somer I Mall fpeake of the cuill maners of our times, I 20 Do not meane it buto all, but those only whome blind felf loue, couctoulnelle, intemperancy, ex= ceffe and abule of al Goddes good giftes haue fo touched, that they defire much moze to be reprehended then I will vouchlafe to attempt in this my lateward treatize, therefore if any man fiall thinke him selfe to be rubbed on the gall by me; I counsell him that he conceale not his infirmity, by lecking revenge on otherme, but rather indeuour to procure the remedy in first ac= knowledging his mildemeanors, whiche is the one and better halfe of his cure.

Dur elders although they were right bertuous both in warre abzode, and at home in peace, were pet neuertheleffe in conucrsation & behauiour very temperate, whiche is the fountaine & oziginall of al vertues . In fleepe thep were co= petent, in meate & deinke fober, & conteted with fuch fode as was ready at hande and prepared with little cost. Their bread consisted of suche in their orone sensuality & pleasures, but opon 40 stuffe as grew most readily on & ground, without al maner of lifting and boulting, wherby to please the palate, but baked op as it came fro the mill without any fuche curiolity, whiche is a great abasing of the force therof unto our day= ly nourisment. The flesh whereon they chiefly fed, was either fuch as they gate by hunting, wherin they twke great velite which increased not a litle their flrength and nimblenesse, oz els fuche tame cattell as they brepde by at home, wherof beefe was accompted the principall, as it is pet in our dapes, though after another mas ner & far discrepant from the ble and custome of other tountries. The flirkes or young befettes bugelved, we either kill youg for beale, or gelo, to the end that they may ferue afterwarde for tillage in earing op of the ground, but the cows calfes and heighfers , are neuer killed till they be with Calf, for then are they fattelt & molt belis * b.iù. *

The description of Scotland.

cious to the mouth. The common meate of our closes was fifth, howbeit not only or fomuch for the plenty therof, as for that our landes lay ofte wast and bntilled, bicause of the great warres which they contonly had in hand. They breake also their fast early in the morning to some se= der repalt, & lo cotinued without any other dict butill supper time, in whiche they had but one vill, whereby it came to palle, by their stomackes were neuer ouercharged, noz their bones dell= 10 rous of rest thosow the fulnesse of their bellies. At fuche time as they determined of let purpole to be mery, they bled a kinde of Equabite bopde of al spice, 4 only consisting of such hearbes and rotes as grew in their owne gardens, otherwife their common drinke was Ale: but in tyme of warre when they were inforced to lie in campe, they contented theselues with water as redieff for their turnes. Eche fouldier also had so much meale as might serue him foz a day, whiche he 20 thought them surthermoze not to be kindly for made by in cakes, and baked on the coles, as the Romaines sometimes bled to do, and the Em= perour Caracalla himselse as Herodian hath remebred. Seldome did they eat any fleth in their tentes, except they gate it fro their aduerfaries, fuch as they had likewife was eaten halfrawe, by cause they supposed the super therof so bled to nouriff very abundantly. But fishe was much more plentifull amongst them, especially when they water their viuali prayes, or could not at- 30 barefwted, e in time of warres the me had their taying binto them. They brought furthermore from their houses to the field with them, a vessel of butter, cheele, incale, milke, t vineger tempzed togither as a flote ancre against extreme hunger, on whiche they would feede & fucke out the morsture, when other provision coulde not be gotten. In like maner whenfoeuer they had entred into league and amity with their enimies, they would not line in such security, that therby they would fuffer their bodies and forces to de= 40 cafes, that butil they had required the like with generate, but they did keepe themselues in their former activity and nimblenesse of limmes, eyther with continual bunting (a game greatly effectived among our auncestoes) of with running from the hilles to the valeys, or from the valeys to the billes, or with wrestling, and such kindes of passime wherby they were neueridle. Their hears were alwayes Caue, after the maner of paneieut Syamardes, with a litle tuft of heare only left on their fogepartes, incuer coutes 50 Somtimes it hapned & their Captaine was to red, erecut whe they were troubled wackeneffe. by which meanes it came to palle that fewe of our nation in cloe time was feene to be baloe & hearelesse. They went also bare force, or if they han any flione, they dipped them fielt in y was ter ere they did put the on, especially in delinter when Charpell weather the wed it felf, to the end that y foles of their feete (which were wel hard-ned in Sommer with heate and in winter with colo, might be more ftrong and able to sustepne great labour and dayly transile. Their apparell was not made for branery a pope, but as fouls feenie belt to couer their bodies & ferue their anpointed bles, their holen were flaped also of linnen og wollen, whiche neuer came higher than their knees, their beeches were for the most part of hepe, clokes also they had for winter made of course woll, but in the commer time they ware of the finest that coulde be gotten. They slept moreoner cyther boon the bare floge or pallets of ilraw, teaching their childee euen from thepe infancy to elchew eale, e practife the like hardnelle: 4 lith it was a cause of suspitio of the mothers fivelity towards hir hulbande, to feeke a Krange nurte foz bir childze (although hir milke fapled)ech womā wold take intollerable paines to being up a nourish hir owne children. They ffered, except they were so well nourished after their birthes with the milke of ther 2 breffes, as they were before they were borne with y bloud of their owne bellies, nay they feared least they Moulo degenerate & grow out of kinde, except they gaue them fucke themfelues, and elchewed frange milke, therfoze in labour e painefulneffe they were equall, and neither fexe regarded the heate in sommer of cold in winter, but trauaiko cariages & victuals truffed behinde the on their horses, or els upon their owne shulvers without refusall of any labour, eniogned bato them by their Captaines. If it hapned them at any time to be vanquished, they fled with such sprede to & mountaines, that no horse might ouertake the, e very oft elcaped. The violence that was done to any one of them, was reputed comonto al, fuch was their deadly fude concepued in these more extremity, they would never be quiet not let go their displealure. The noblette moit couragious Gentleman would sonell belire to be. placed in the forewarde, where his vallalage of fernice & manhood fould readilieft be feene, and fuch was the friendship of the nobility amongs theselnes, that whylest they contended which a them thould be most faithful & frendly to ether, they would oft fal out, a quarel one to another. fet to extreme peril, og peraduenture fome other of the novility, in which cales they b were of the bab wold luddenly ruff) in thozow o thickell of their enimies buto him , a veliuer him , oreis if they could not fo do, they would altogither loft their lines with him, thinking it a perpetual note of reproche to ouerline their leader. The graues a fepulchies of our noblemen, had coms maly to many Dbelifkes & Cpires pitched about them, as the deceased had killed enimics before time in & fielde:if any fouldier had ben found in the fielde without his flint & tinder bore, or had walked of gone op a downe with his sworde at his five, and not naked in his had, for then bled they light armor for & most part, he was terris bly scourged:but he that solde of morgaged his weapon, was forthwith cut fro his company & battayle without leave of his Capitayne, was flavue wherefoeuer he was niette afterwarde, without any judgement of fentence, and all his godes conscated to the Prince: Their light armour in those dayes consisted of the launce, the bow, the long twoed which hanged at the five of powner, e therto a buckler, but afterward heauier armour came into generall blage. In thele payes also the wome of our country were of no leffe courage than the men, for al fout maydes 20 e wines (if they were not with childe) marched fowel into the field as did the men, co fone as the army dio let forward, they flew the first li= ung creature p they foud, in whole bloud they not onely bathed their twozdes, but allo talled thereof with their mouthes, with no leffe religio eassurance concepued, than if they had already benefure of some notable & foztunate vistozy: when they saw their owne bloud run fro them in the fight, they wered neuer a whit aftonnied 30 with the matter, but rather boubling their courages, with moze egernelle they affailed their enunics. This also is to be noted of the, that they neuer fought any victory by treason, faithed or fleight, as thinking it a great reproch to winne the fielde any otherwise than by mere manhod, prowesse, playne bealing. Allhen they went forth unto the warres, eche one went with the King of his owne coll (except the hyzed foldier) which custome is yet in ble . If any were trous 40 bled with the falling Eupll, or Lepze, or fallen frantike, or otherwise out of his wits, they were diligetly fought out:4 least those diseases should palle further by infectuous generatio bnto their illue a policrity, they gelded the me. But y wome were fecluded into some odde place farre oft from the copany of men. where if the afterward hapned to be gotten with childe, both the ethe infant were runne thozow with a launce: glut= ters of vidualles, were punithed also by death, first bring permitted to denour so much as they lifted, s the drowned in one fresh river or other.

furthermore, as fullice in time of warre was comonly dring to perke, to in daics of peace our countrepmen that offended, were oft fenerely punished with inconvenient rigoz. For they wel considered that after their people should returne and come home agains from the warres, they would be give to to many enormities, that the fame they, excelle found hardly be refleay. ned but by extreeme fenerity: fuche allo was they nature, that so some as they know themfelues guilty of any office committed agapate the effate op. comon wealth, their fiell attempt was to let vilcord amongst the Pretes & Puinces of the realme, neverthelelle when they are banished as an exile: he that fled of went fro the 10 gently intreated, with courteous moderation, they are found to be very tradable, e pliant onto reason: in private bargaines & contrades they are to willing to give every man his owne, that they will perloe the moze. Ind fo farre is it growne into a cuffome euf in thele dur bapts, that except there be some furplusage abone the bare concuaunt, they will breake of and norgo forwarde with the bargagne. They vito at the firft the rites and maners of the Egyptians fro whence they came, ein at their private affayres they bled not to write with common letters as other nations did, but rather with Cyphers and figures of creatures made iti Manter of letters as their Epitaphes opon their tembes & lepultures remayning amogit ve do hitherto Declare. Deuerthelellein our times this hieroglyphical maner of weiting (I wote not by what meanes) is perillied e loft, and yet they hatte certaine letters propre bito the lelues, which were fortetime its comon ble:but among luch as retaine the autho cient fpech, they have their afpiratios, dipthogs e pronunciation better than any other. The comon forte are not in bre withall, but onely they which inhabite in the higher part of the coutry, e lith they have their language , moje eloquent and aut than others, they are called Boetes, they make allo Poetes to great folemnity Chonour, being borne out therein by the authority of the Prince. Belive p tail allo of many other artes & fcieces, whole rules & Methodes are turned into g lay blanguage, are giuf by tradition fro they? elbers, they chickly excel in Philick, wherin they go far beyond many other, who learning of the p natures qualitie of fuch brarbes as grow in thole quarters, do healt al maner of bileales en & by their only applicatio. Certes there is nortgio in y whole world to barre e vafruteful, through diffauce fro the Sunne, but by p prouidence of God all maner of necessaries for the sustentatio tons + raueners, Dzőkardes, e egregious deuou- to of mankind dwelling there, are to be had theriti, if p inhabitants were luch as had any lkil both to vle p lame in opber. Deuerthelelle our elbers which owelled continually byo the Marches of England, learned & Saron toung through co. tinuall trade of marchandise and hasard of the warres, long fince, whereby it came to patte that we neglected our owne language , and oue Owne maners, and thereto bothe our auncient * b.iiii. *

odder in writing and speaking is otterly left among bs. that inhabite neare buto the, wheras contrary wife those that wwell in the montaines retenne fill their auncient speach eletters, almost all their olde ritestwherebutoin time past their Kozelathers baurbine accustonied. One thing hereof also may eniomily be seeme cfoz an example) in their boates whiche they call Cars rockes, for being made of Ofices a concred with Bull hides, they ble to palle a repalle with them to ouce their riners Twaters in catching of Salmons, 4 when they have done, they beare them on their backes buto what place foruer it pleas feththem. But we will now leave the maners of our auncient friendes, a intreate of our later countreymen. In piocelle of time therfore, and chiefly aboute the dayes of Malcolme Cammor, our maners began greatly to chaunge & alter. For when our neighbours the Birtons began. after they were subdued by the Romagnes, to 20 benerages and reare suppers, so that small time ware iele t flouthful, and therebnon driven out of their countrey into Wales by their enimies the Saros, we began to have alliace (by proris mity of the Romaines) with Engliffine, cipecially after the subversion of the Bides, & thorom our dayly trades & conerlation with them, to learne also their maners, & there with all their laquage as I have layo alredy. Hereby Mogtly after it came also to passe, that the temperannce and vertue of our anneestoes grew to be indged 30 e of the sea for fille, for wine also they tranaple worthy of small estimation amongst vs, notmithstanding that a certapne ible defire of our former renowne did ftill remayne within bs.

The description of Scotland.

Furthermoze as men not walking in v right pathe, we bega to follow also the hame spadow of the Bermaine honor + titles of nobility, and boalling of the lame after the Engliff maner, it fell out ere long, that where as he in times past was accompted only honozable, which excelled othermen not in ritches and possessions, but in 40 poylon and destruction buto their countreyme, prowesse and manhode, now he would be take most glopious that wet loven with most titles, whereof it came to palle, that some were named Dukes, some Erles, some Lords, some Baros, in which bain puffes they fixed al their felicity. Befoze time the noble men of Scotlad were of one condition, and called by the name Thanes, fo much in Latine as Questores regif, gatherers of v kings duties, in English; and this denomi= nation was ginen buto them after their defert $ 50 merite. But how far we in thele present dayes are fwarued from the vertues and temperannee of our elders, I beleene there is no man fo eloquent, nor indued with such otterance, as that be is able sufficiently to expectle. For whereas they gave their mindes to doughtinesse, we apply our sclues to dronkennesse: they had plenty with fufficiency, we have inogdinate excelle w fumerfluity: they were temperate, we effectione and to is the cafe now altered with by that he which can devoure & Drinke most, is the noblest man and most bonest companion; and thereto hath no peere if he can once find y baine though withing great travaile to puruey himbliof the plennfullest number of areme fine and odicate diffies, and best proude his stomacks to receive the greatest quantitie of them, though hencuer make bue diceftio ofit. Being thus Browned in our delicate gluttony, it is a world to fit show welluffe our sclues both day and night; never realizato ingozar and poure in till our belies be fo full that ine mult acedes depart. Certes it is not supposed meete that we should now content our falues with breakcfast and supper only as our clocks have done before by mor insuch that he have added our dinners buto their aforelayo meales, but we mult have thereto our is spared wherein to occupy our schoes buto a= un goody excercife, fith almost the whole day & night do feareth inflice for the filling of our paunches, fille have also our marchants, whole charge is not to loke out, and bring home suche things as necessarily appertaine to the maintenance of our lines, but onto the furniture of our kutchen, and these fearch al the secrete corners of our forrestes for benison, of the appe for foules, not onely into fraunce, whole wines do now grow into cotempt, but allo into Spaine, Italy and Greece : nay Afrike is not borde of our factours, no noz Afia, and only for fine and delicate wines if they may be had for money . In like forte they gad ouer all the world for freete and pleafant fpices, + daugges (prouokers buto all lust and becomious rests of behaviour) as men that aductions their owne lives to bying bome as if the minde were not already sufficiently bereft of hir image of the Dininity ; but mult pet more be clogged a ouerladen with fuchs frame ked cale, ther with all to be extinguished outright whiche already dwelleth or is buried rather in fuch an bgly sepulchee. The body likewyse being oppressed with such an beape of sweetherus fwde, although otherwise it be induce with an crcellent nature , cannot be able to erecute bis office, not keepe it felle bpzight, bue muft nepes prelot as outrome, 4 to be tome in weers and rent with fundey maladics.

. Hercof allo it commeth to palle that our coutrepmen tranapling into the color regions are now a dayes cotrary to their former vlage taken sometime with severs, whereby their inmaros partes do burne e parch as at were with continual fire, the onch cause whereof we that afcribe buto those hoate spices and djugges which are brought buto be from the hoate coutrens. Others of them are to twollen & growen full of bumors, that they are often taken foden= ly and die of vehemet apopleries, and although here & there one of two recouer for a little while. retare they but dead people reutuing agapue, leading the refe of their lines like Chadowes, and walking aboute as if they were buried already. Our youth also following these onhappy steps 10 ption of Scotland out of the Scottish into the of there parentes, give themselves wholy to lust e licentioulnelle, bauing all bertue and knows ledge in contempt, and eschewing the same as a Belidence and Cubuction of their pleafures. wherevoto they apply themselves as unto the moft ercellent trade. But fithence they are now inured and as it were haunted with thefe vices. with tyme both come of scruice and that our countrey hall fland in necde of manhod, thefe will be becomen to effeminate, that they muste 20 only to wepte more at this present, but for ener now ride on horsebacke as cladde in heavy ar= mour, for on fwte they cannot go by reason of their fatnelle whiche choketh op their vitall fozcis, neyther be able to performe any thing at all in comparison of the sourraigne manhode and proweds of there closes. So lone also as they returne home, bicause their pollesliens are not otherwise able to nourishe them bp in pleasure and pampering of their maines, they mult fall riche themselues, or els proue strong therues, or finally fowers of diffention and discord among the Poble men, thereby to pray some commoditie. Certes these and other vices following them necessarily, proceede generally from none other fountagne than voluptuous life & intemperancy, the which if we would refraphe, there is no regio under the Sunne that would prove more wholesome lesse subject to Bestilence, no; tation of hir people. Erres I dispayee not of the rediesse of these things, but still hope that in Moste tyme thefe corrupted maners of my coutreymen will be turned into a better frame, wee ate not yet become impudent, nepther altogie ther have call of unchancefastnelle, sithe that in a great many some remaynder of our auncient sobernelle and manhood doth pet appeare, and thereto newnesse of lyfe with feruent devotion increase enery day, through the working of the 50 stale of our Christian religion in bs . This alo will I adde, without offence I trust buto other nations, that there was never people more fledfast to my knowlege in the Christian faith, not more constant in they? faithfull promises, than the Scots haue bene fithence their firft beginning: and for a conclution I will fap more, not onely for their prayle, but also in exporting them buto perscuerance, that as our people now liuing de paffe their aunceftogs in fumptuous & curious attyze, to they are moze nette and fine in their houses, better given to learning, a much more magnificent in buyloing and decking of they! Churches. God graunt them also to returne to their former frugality, and that with ipcede. Amen.

Betherto baue I translated Hectors descris English toung, bring not a litle apord therein by the Latine, fro whence fomtime the translatot fwarueth not a litle, as I have done also fro him, now and then following the Latine, and now and then gathering fuch lence out of both as most did stande with my purposed breuity. Pow will I fet downe the description of an Auncient Did, as I have gathered it out of He= rodian & other, and then I will gine oner not hereafter of any Billogicall matters, fith Ifce that this honest kind of recreation is benefit me, and all time frent about the faint in thefe mapes btterly condemned, as vayne and faucuring of negligence, and heathenith impiety.

The description of an auncient Piet. Chap. 14.

The Pid (laith Herodian) hath generally no vole of apparell, howbeit the nobler lotte of to couctous and greedy practizes, thereby to en= 20 them do wrappe they? heades and wombes in houpes of yeon, which they take for great beauery, effeeming this kinde of attrae in luche as weare the fame, to be a token of wealth and rithes, and fo great an omament, as if they had worne Golde or any collly iewelles . Befive this, and the Cauing of they? nether lippe, they paynted ouer their bodies with the images of al kindes of bealles, to that he was the gayeff ma, that had his Kinne most disquised in this mamore commodious and profitable for the full f= 40 ner. Certes none of them regarded to weare as ny apparell, bycaule they effeemed it a greate glozy to have thele paintings feine. In warres they were volve, and defirous to fledde bloud, contenting themselues(in ficebe of other armour) with a florte launce, and narrow target, or buckler, they? twordes were tied to their naked fides with a thoug, and as for Jacke, flyirt of Mayle, or helmet, they made no regarde of them, by cause they would trouble the in wimming, oz otherwife at a pinche, whe they fhould be compelled to wave. Dion wayting general. ly of the whole countrey, viuideth it with herodien into the Calidons, and Meates, saping that the laybe country is bery lauage, their Cities veyde of walles, c fields, without townes: they live moreover (faith be) by hunting and pray, and often times with the fruite of their trees: e albeit that they have exceeding plenty of fift, yet they eate not of it. They live naked in tents and without hoes on they? feete, they? wines are common, and children generally loked bn= to:they have mozeover a populous regiment, are very ready to feale : they fight in wagons, e haue little light & fwift hozfes, whiche runne also very swiftly, and stande at their feete with like ftedfallneffe. In o nether end of their launces they have hollow bullets of Brasse, in eche is a little peece of two of rion , whiche ratteth to Mernis. when they Make it , & maketh a strange nople where many of them are togither. They have also narrow daggers : but chiefly they can suftepne hunger and colde belt of all men, & likewife fore labour: and if it happen them to hun= ger and have no meate at hand, they wil litte in the marrilles by to the chinnes by many dayes togither. In the woodes they feede on rotes or barkes oftrees, and they have a kinde of meate among them, whereof if they take but fo muche 20 Duglaffe. as a beane, they nepther hunger noz thirffe in a long time after. And thus much of the meates (whiche were the nearest by) and the Caledons that owelled beyond the wall, and both in their province called Maxima Cefarienfis, wherof let this fuffice.

> The number of Bishoppes in Scotsland. Chap.15.

Dialqueu.
Dunfalven.
Dunfalven.
Dunblanen.
Aberden.
Bercheu.
Hozany.
Kos.
Chitherne.
Cathnes.
Argadie.
Progone of the Fles whiche are exempt and pertayne unto the Pope.

Slasquo. Dukedomes.

Int Indiewes.

Malbany.

Therden.

Erledomes.

Catnes. Sotherland. Rolle. Mozaup. Buchguban. Garuiach. Garmozan. Mar. Angus. Gowzi. Fiffe. Marche. Athole. Stratherne. Menteth. Leuenor. Wigton. Carryke. Crawford. Amnandale. Durmonth. Duntley.

Visconties.

Erwijc, alias Potth Berwijc. Selkyzk. Twedale. Munfrile. Diddilpale. Wigton. Arc. Lanarkc. Dumbzitten. Steruelin. 40 Lowthan. Clakmanan. Krmog. Fiffe. Derth. Angus. Marnis. Aberden. Bamph. fores. 50 Inucrucs.

FINIS.

THE HISTORIE of Scotlande.

THE Scottishmen, according to the maner of other nations, effectning it a glorie to fetche their beginning of great auncientie, say that their oxiginal discent came from the Greekes and Egyptians. For there was (as the Scottiffic olde Hillozingraphers haue left in writing) a certain moulte man a= mong the Greekes, named Gathelus, the somme Gathelus. of Cecrops which builded the City of Athens: or as some other woulde, he was the some of Argus Nealus, the fourth king of the Argines. This Gathelus playing in his pouth manye Gathelus ex-wilde and buruly partes in the Countrie of pleasure. Maccdonia and Achaia, was dyuccie iymes Charpely rebuked by his father and other of hys niends: so that in fine dildeining their correcti= on and wholsome admonitions, he was banihed by his father: after which he got togither a number of strong and lustic young men, such as had Gathelus went thed by his tather: after which he got together a number of trong and time young their, with as had in to Egypt, whed the like trade of living, and together with them fled over into Egypt: comming thither in the Anno mundi. rriff. yeare of Pharao Daus, as then king of that Countrey, was recepued of him in most glad= 2416. forme wife, for that his fernice (as it was thought) might flande in great stead, in those warres which enterteyned of the Egyptians helde the same time with the Ethiopians that had inuaded the realme of Egypt, e Pharas. uen bato Wemphis. This Bathelus, to bee Most, went forth with his bandes agaynst the same Gathelus went Cruiopians, buder Moles the Captaine generall of the armie, cholen thereto by divine Dracke (as agaynst the enimies. Josephus wyteth which Moses obteneo the victorie, and conquered Saba by force, he the chiefell Moyles Capand principall Citie which flove in the Ille Meroe.

for such tokens of valiancie and worthis prowes as Gathelus shewed, both in this Country, Lib.2. Cap. 7. in other places, he grew also into such estimation with Pharao, that he gave him his daughter in Gathelus his mariage. But Moles was rather envied than honozed for his downg, by caule the Egyptians boub- doings admanage. Dur Mours was rarger envisoring nonvisoring one puying, operatic the and they might be mailes doings telleaft the Ilractites flouid encrease to such a puysiant multitude, that in the ende they might be Moises doings furpe and chalenge the gouernance of the whole Realme, and being it by rebelling into their owne not alowed. handes: wherefore diverle informations were made to the king against him, so that when he once percepued himselfe to be in daunger of the lawe, and loked for no mercie at their handes, fled from Moyses fled. thence out of the Countrey, and gate him into the lande of Madian.

Unto Bathelus and his people, there was given a Citie called Thebes (Egyptiaca) being ta= Thebes was ken from the Alraelites.

Perc mult you bnoerstande, that Pharaos daughter whiche Gatheins thus marged, was called Sectadinghier? Scota, of whom such as came of the posteritie of that nation, were after wardes, and are at this pres to Pharao. fent day called scoti, that is to lay Scottiff men : and the land where they inhabite scotta, that is to lan, Socotlande.

Gathelus thus being aduanneed by fuch honourable maryage, bued all the dayes of his father this historie of in law Pharao Drus, in great hondur. But after his difceate; and in the thirde griferation, an os leane to the ther king named Pharao Chenicies, lucceeded in his throne, who opprelled the people of Itael then authors. aboding in Egopt, with moze bobage, than euer his father, oz geanblather had ben befoze him. Dit- ifrael opprefther was there hope of any revelle, till Moses returned by Gods appointment from amongs Moses called the Davianites (where he had remayned in erne) into Egypt, and there veclared write this Pharad our of Madian Gods commaundement, touching the delinerance of his people.

But forloniuch as his wordes were reguloes, neether with the king nor with his lubieits; that Males nor lande was plaqued in most horrible and tereible maner: and moreover it was signified onto such as fegueded. lought to know what was meant by way of Deacles, that lover and more grienous plagues thould Exodue 5. after follow, if remedie were not founde the loner.

Othelus be ing intitaird

by the name of a king, de=

uised and vi=

depned lawes

for his iteaple

to live by.

that the City

Gathelus lescountreyes.

Gathelus departing was, Anno mundi 2453. W.H. 111028. 3643. H.B.

He landed in Portingale.

The inhabitants refilt Gathelus. Were ouerthrowne.

Portingale,

He builded a Citte called

nowe Com-

postella.

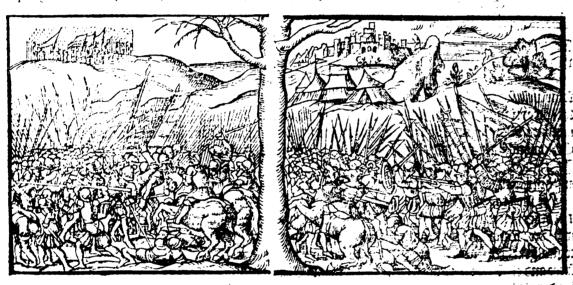

Galitia.

Cathelus therefoze being certifico hereof, and giuing credite to the Drackes afozelande, determined out of hande to forlake the country, and feeke him a new place of above in some other partyes. of the worlde. Ellherefore he caused's number of thippes to be rigged, and all necessarie puriers ance to be provided,, and when the fame was once readic and all things let in order, he twke with him his wife and children, and a great multitude of people both Greekes and Egyptians, whom he embarated in those shippes, and hopsing by layles, departed out of the mouth of the riner Dilus, in the years of the worldes creation 2 453. when her had dwelled in Egypt. 39. peares and

Beeing thus departed, after some trouble in the boyage, they arrived first on the coastes of Aumydia, whiche is one of the regions of Affrike, now called Barbarie: but beying put backe from thence by the stower relistance of the inhabitannes, they twee the Seas agayne, and landed in a part of Spanne, whiche long after was called Lusitania.

There be that have written how it floudd be cleved Bort Bathele of this Bathelus, and certains peares after Lulitania, and efriones agaphe in a maner to have got the former name being somewhat corruptly called Postingale. But who is able in a mater of fuch auncientic to anowiche any thing for truth?

Gathelus with his companie beyong thus come to lande, fought abrove in the country for bytayles and fuch other necessarie things as they wanted (for their long being on the Seas had mathed all their puruspance: whose arrival being once knowen in the countrey, the people assembled togither, and fiercely encountring with the fraungers, after Carpe and chall fight, in the moe the Spannardes were put to the worle and chaled out of the fielde.

This victory put Gathelus and his folkes in hope of god fuccesse to have their a place for them tent they might bring their purpose the more casily to palle, they found meanes by may of commu-

It chaunced after this, that the Spanvardes percepuing thele traungers to inexale further A consultation was as ready to bescut, as they were to inuade, they estimes sell to a communication, and persons: Cathelus left adding that if they would to do, they would ande them to the bitternoff agapult all such as similar attempt to disquiet their indenours in any maner-of mile. and went into

This offer Gathelus gladly accepted, and caufing publike facrifice to be celebrate in honore the Boddes, he departed with all his people into Galitia, and there concluding a league with the inhabitants, buploed a Citic, which he named Brigantia, but after it was called Ponium, astendia! Brigantia, and to inhabite in, and to to end their long wandering in straunge and bucertaine places. Ind to their nication to joine in frienoffip with the Spannardes, and obtaining of them a plotte where they might buylor a place for to inhabite in: Morely after they began the foundation of a Eitle neare to deth the Citic the bankes of the Riner called of auncient tyme Hundus, and afterwardes Bracehara.

in pursannee, than (as they thought) stove well with they? securitie) sought viverse occasions to fab at debate with them, and to make warres byon them: But when they binderstode that Bathelis ped with Gathelus that it Mould be belt for him and his people, for the anording of pariance, to use mone buto the Porthlive of spayne, lying buon the coaffes of the Cantabrian fear noise saleds Balitia (where be flould finde much voyde grounds, by reason of the final number of Inhabitants);

Compostella.

impante not only be lenced with ffrong walles, but also with god and holesome statutes and ordinaunces, the chiefest fortifications that may be for al Cities and Countreys. And by cause he would not on ly have his tayor people to live whore one lame, but also to be knowne and called by one name, he cane commundement that they Hould he all talled Scottiffmen (as before is farde) of his wife Scota.

In continuance of time, this nation grewe to a woverful multitude, to that the Spaniards The Spaniboubting the worlt, offermined to forefee reme ardes fight with the Scots Die in tyme, and herebpon purpoling biterly to infortunately. beltrop them, but them agains to armour, and so with their whole puillance comming buon the Scottiff men, caue then a fore battaile, though in the eine they were put to flight, the victorie remarning with the Scottiff men, albeit not without great bloudfled on withcr part, as the Scottiff Pollogie Capth.

It length a necessarie peace was agreed bycubificist both parties, the conditions whereof niaids frould line after their owne lawes, and ncience of them to inuade other.

Mari- Cathalus baving peace thus with his neighhals late boon his Marble ftone in Bzigantia, twhere he gave lawes, and ministred instice bn= to his prople, thereby to maintegne them in wealth and quietnelle.

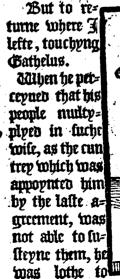

This stone was in fashion like a scate of Charge, having such a fatall politimie, as the Scottes far, following it, that whereformer it flould befounde, there houlde the Scottilly men raigne and have the lupterne governance. Here of it came to palle, that fielt in Spaine, after in warethele: that alwell Scottill men as Spa= 30 Irelande, and then in Scotlande, the Kings which tuled ouer the Scottill ment recepted the Crowne litting buon that stone, untill the time of Robert the first king of Scotlande. The inscription also of the stone though ingraved long. time after, as Coulde appeare mas this:

Ni fallat fatum, Scoti quocung, locatum Inuenient lapidem, regnare tenentur ibidem.

Misch may be thus translated: Except olde lawes do fayle and wifards wittes be blinde, The Scortes in place must raigne, where they this stone shall finde.

Galitia not infficient to find the Scott

breake the peace whiche he had established with the spaniards by freking to enlarge the bounds of his dominion with breach of conengunt: and therefore understanding that there was an Illad lying north ouer agaynit Spaine, wherein were but free Inhabitours, he caused all such thippes as he was able to make, to bee brought togither into an Qauen neare bitto Brigantia, and commaunding a great armic of his owne people and subjectes to bee assembled, he appropried his two to Counce whome her had by his wife Scota, the one named Opberns, and the other Himeeus, to conney them over into that Illande, whiche afterwardes they named Hibernia, after Hy= berus, but nowe it is commonly called Frelande.

The Scots 2riue in Ireland

At their field arrivall there, they came into the hauen of Dundalke, where getting a lande, they first encamped themselves neare unto the shope, fearth if they could learne what people inhabited in the countrey, by whom at their returne, and by fuch as they hav happened byton and hought with them, they understode howe there was no Lish men line great number of Inhabitants in that Isle, and that they which dwelled there were besie simple, fuch I meane as lined onely by mylke and hear= bes, with other the like things as the earth by na= ture brought forth of hir owne accorde, without mans helve or vie of any tyllage.

gently en-

hearbes.

Herevyon hiber with his brother Himeens, went not aboute with force, but by gentlenesse to wonne those people, insuding to iosne than in friendshippe to with their Scottistie nien, that bothe the people myghte bee made as onc.

Pepther was this harde to bee done, lithence the Inhabitauntes (percepuing the Scottishe nien not to goe about to harme them came flocking in wholy about them, submitting themsel= 40 but that after his decease exther of them woulde Dissenie ues into their handes with gladuelle.

Hiber.

better bringing torth of luche tungs as letue for mans fustenance, hiber leaung bis biother in ned into Spain tharge with the governaunce of all those whiche were appointed to almoe there in Frelande with the most part of the ships and residue of the company, farked backe into Spaine, where finding his father Gathelus Deade, hee luccerded in bry Hiller place of gouernment, to the great reiopeing of all dea kir : Gathelin the people there.

This Hiber was a man of great courage. and more gruen to the warres than his father before him, so that where his father contenting himselfe with the boundes and limittes of the Countrey afficined him by composition, sought no further (as is Caybe) to enlarge the fame : hi= Hiber 200 ber ceassed not to conquere Cities and townes querout, neare adjournment to the borders of his subjectes. by reason whereof hys same spreade our all those parties: And in the ende constrevned his enumpes to leeke for peace, whiche hee willingly A peace. graunted: so that a league being concluded betwirte the Scottes and Spaniardes, the same twice suche good successe, that within certagne Speninder peares after both the Pations, what by mariage Scots bea and other contractes whiche they exercised togy= one people and then lente forth certaine of their folias to 20 ther, became one: The succession also of the Kings continued after Hibers deceasse in hys posteritie a long scason. Amongest the whiche, Metellus, Hermoneus, Ptolonicus, hibirtus, and Simon Becchus, were of most worthie fame, as is recorded by suche as have wrytten the Pyllozics of that Pation moze at large. the meane Hem whyle that these things were thus a dos CWs. ing in Spaine, Hemecus beeing left, as is be= Hemecus foze remembred in Ire= in Ireland lande, to have the gouernaunce there, ruled bothe the people of Scottische men, and the founce Inhabitaunts, with as muche indifferencie as was possible: pet coulde he not toyne them so in one, have severall Rulers of their owne Pation to gouerne them : by reason whereof, falling eftlos nes at discorde amongst themselves, there ensued Harpe and cruell warres betwirte them, whiche bering ended some tymes by truce (when boths partyes happilye were throughlye wearer,) they renued notwithstanding they? malicious Aryfr agapue, to kone as they had once recoues red they? decayed strengthes, so that the one lees converted unto so king the others destruction, they continued in great disquiet for a long time.

Thele Scottish men being thus troubled in The Sant Irelande, finally addressed an Ambassade unto feede an Metellus, who as then raigned amonged to Mere the Scottische menne in Spaine, requiring him in Spaine of ande and fuccour againste they enimpes, who went aboute with tothe and nayle to erpell all the Scottidge Pation out of Jeclande, which they were like ynough to bring to passe, if minute there were not spedy remedie through his mos provided for the contrarie. Actillus hearing thefe newes, as a man mo= ued with a naturall zeale towarde all the Scottill linage, gave care to their requelt, supposing it fould be his part to defende his kinnel folke from all wrong and iniuries: inunediately therefore he fent his thre fonnes, Hermoneus, Ptolonieus, and hibertus, with a cholen power of warriours 10 ouer into Frelande, where vanquishing the eni= muss with fierce and cruell battailes, they let the Scottill men in lure and quiet policition of all their lands and livings. This done, Ptolomeus. and Hibertus remagned there to rule and inhabite the countrey, but Hermoneus who was the eldelt brother, refurned backe againe into Spain, there to succeede his father when time shoulde ferue thereto. After this the Scottiffe effate conprople fill increaling in welth and puillance, till prosperitie the mother of confention, stirred by grudge and partialities amongst them, whiche flortly would have decayed the force of & Scot= till) nation, if the auncient Lozds had not prouided redresse in time, which was to perswade the people to have a king of they? owne, who beyng partaker with none of them in their factions, might haue the absolute gouernace of the whole: fo that by common colent they lent into Spaine 30 for one Simon Brek, whole name was right famous amongst them in that season, both aswel for that hee was lineally descended of the bloud royall, as also for that he had thewed many proues of his noble valiancie in sundzie affayzes and businesse.

This Simo being glad of thele tidings, sayled quickly into Irclande, and brought thither with him amonalt other vincely iewels and regall monuments, the fatal stone of marble, wherein he 40 but the Inhabitantes at this day call it Arguyle. raused himselfe to be crowned, in token of his full possession, and establishment over that kingdom.

Rechus beeyng thus crowned, was p first king b rai= gned ouer the Scottish men in Irelande, who began his raigne there, in the peere from the creation of the worlde, so the Goddes. 3270: which tyme by mailter Harisons ac--count is after the floud, etal: from the first burioing of Rome. 55. after the entrie of Brutus into Brytaine, 870. and before the Incarnation of our Saujour, 697.

Ind having ruled his lubicits with great inficely the space of.xl. yeres or therabout, he died, after whose decease succeeded Fandusus, who Fandusus. had issue Ethion, and he begat Glaucus, whiche Blaucus begat Poitafilus, the father of Roths fay: all of them raigned successively over the Scotiff men in Irelande, as in the description of that land more plainly may appeare.

The Historie of Scotlande.

This Rothsay (perceyuing the Scottill) na= Rothsay. tion encrealed to a greater multitude in Ireland The Scottes than the country was wel able to fullaine) trant- ferie ouer into ported over certaine numbers of them into the the westerne Alex aunciently called Ebonides, afterwards He- 19cs. brides, but now by the Scottes, the weltern Tics. by cause they lie on the west halfe of Scotlande: and there they placed them to inhabite. He named They inhabite also that Alle which he first beganne to possesse, the isle of Rothlay, after his owne name. Which transla= Rothlay. tion of thele Scottill men into thole Illes was 133. peares after the coronation of Brechus.

This Rothlay had not beene long in those many yeares in good quiet in Ireland, the 20 Ales, but that hearing of his fathers decease, he returned into Irelande to succede in his place. Withere the Scottish men pecepuing the fertilitie of the Illes, and how the fame ferued wel for the breeding of cattel, became so desirous to inhabite the same, that they went over thither dayly in greate numbers, with their wives, children, and whole families, so that within a shorte time, they multiplied in such wife, that the Files were not large ynough to finde them fustenance, by reason wherof diuerle companies of them got The Scottes them over into the maine lande of the Posth inhabite the part of this our Beyttaine, called as then Al- Scotlande. bion, where they first inhabited a waste and de= fert portion thereof, lying towards the west, os uer against the fozeremembred Iles, by them alreadic inhabited.

That part where they first beganne to settle They inhabite the country themselves, they named Argathelia, after the called Arguile. name of their first Captain and guide Bathelus,

At their first comming bycause they perceye They make ned they coulde not line without lawes and civil dinances. government they scuered themselves into tribes, oz as it were into hundreds, or weapentakes, e= uery of the same having a speciall governour to fee their lawes ministred, and inflice maintey | Gouernours ned: whiche governours were had in suche reue- had in seuerence, that they were as much afrayoe to tweare by the name of any one of them, as they were by

In this state they continued many a yeare, They limin encrealing in procelle of time buto a mightie na- Peace. tion, and lined in good rest without trouble of warres of inuation made boon them by any forraine enimie.

In this meane time allo, the Pilles , whiche The Pictes were a certain people of Bermanie, as most wit - Scotland out ters do agree, came and let forte allo in another of Germanie. part A,iii.

part of Bertapne, which nowe is comprehended likewise mithin Scotlande.

Some lay that they came forth of the livther part of Scithia, and other there be whiche holde opinion, that they discended of the people named in olde time Agathirsi, whiche inhabited in a part of Sarmatia, & were called Pictes, bycaule they vieo to paynt and colour they? faces, or as some suppose, for that they pled gay apparell of ters generally confesse, that they first came into Germanie of hyther Scithia (that is to meane Denmarke) many yeares before they entred into 231vtaine.

The Pictes Orkney, chaunging their feares came into the maine lande of Scotlande. Pistlande, Pictes came out of Den-

marke.

Truth it is that they first came out of Germacame first into nie, into the Illes of Dikenep, and there inhabiting for a leason, ferved ouer into Cathenele. whereof it came to palle, that the strepte there at this present is called Pidland firth: and so in cofed further into the lande, and got possession of Rolle, Hurray land, Merne, and Angule, and after that, entring into fifte, and Lowthian, they drove such Bertagnes from thence as inhabited there before, whiche were but a simple kinde of people, as those that applyed nothing but onely nourifling and beceding of cattaile.

These Pickes, as by conference of typics may appeare, entred hell into Scotlande, aboute the rowes, no otherwyle than if it had beene in 0= ring and some after the creation of the worlde 3633, and 30 pen warre: For in this exercise they placed all ling. being once armed, they began to creft and builde certaine fortes, wherein they might defend them= schues, if any force of enimies floulde chaunce to put them onto fuch fluftes; but percevuing they could not continue any time without wines to mainterne their flock and progenic by bringing forth issue, they thought it expedient to require of the Scottiffic men some number of women to quyzed, they might the better defende them from their common enimics the Bertaphes, whome they knowe woulde be lotine to fee the energale of epther Scottes of Piece, as those that were

Araungers to them, and blumers boon there

The Pictes require wome marrie with, that thereby a fure alliance might

A league

The Pifter

boldes.

confines. This request was graunted, and a ful league ratified betwirt the Scottifle men. and Piffes. with concuauntes, that neither of them Moulde feeke to vlurpe anve peece of that whiche the 0= 50 that the Scottes through treason floulde ofter= ther helde, but content themselves worth there owne marches. Indfurther, hee that attemps ted to wrong the one, shoulde bee accompted an enimic to bothe : and againste whome they Moulde bee readic to some there powers in erther others defence.

Also it was accorded, that if at any true it The succession of the govern- were doubtfull who ought to succeede in the gourmment of the Pickilhe kingdome, some one discended of those Scottish women should be adnutted to the throne.

This allyaunce was even at the first mil-Theirally lyked of the Brytaynes, who doubted that if miliked these two Pations thouse once bee ioned inseparatly togyther, they might in tyme to come. enereale to greater puillaunce than Mould stand well with the suretie of their estate. There- Dissension dyuctle and lundrie colours: but the same wry= 10 fore studying howe to prevent that daunger, present de they thought the readyest meane to destroy both stroyer. those Pations was (if they might bring it to passe to sette them firste togither by the earry amongest themselves, that afterwardes when their powers were by fuche meanes fore abated. they might the more easily suboue them at their pleasures.

This denile the Bytaynes kept secrete for a time, till occasion served to worke thepr intinuance of time encreasing in number, they pal- 20 tent. In whiche meane while the affinitie betwirt the Scottes and Pickes increased to the welth of both nations, and for the iffue take great loue and frienothippe was maintepned amonoff them: the Pickes applyed themselves to tyl-ling the grounde, and buylding of fortresses: the good had Scottes sette all their delighte in hunting and bandmen fowling, bling about the same to go armed in the hope of the defence of their possessions, lands. Good bon and liberties.

At length, the Baptapnes percepuing happily some grudge or enuie to bee entred amongst The Bran them, they fende folenme Ambassadours buto fend an Ac the Diffes, declaring that it were moze honou- biffideur the Piete. rable for them to joyne in league with the Brytapnes, than with the Scottes: whiche Byptagnes were knowne to bee right famous, both be had betwirt both nations, and that if neede re- 40 in peace and warre, and inhabited a Countrey A craftic fa most fruitefull and replenished with all commos gestion. Dities necessarie, having therein riche mones of dincerse kindes of mettall, where the Scottes being a rude Pation, wilde and lanage, inhabi= ted a varraine Countrey, full of roughe and fruitlesse mountagnes, delyting therto in nothing but in the flaughter of men and beaftes : Ind hereunto they added that, (whiche most mourd the Pictes howe it was foretolde by prophecies, prophecia. ly in time to come extinguishe and vestivope all the Pidille bloudde, whiche persmallons in A league of Duced the Pictes at the last, to make a league cluded with the Byrtaynes, who promised their apoe the Byrys at all trines in whatforner enterprife the Picts Mondoc take in hande against the Scottes, and as chien as occasion should require,

Toy's league thus beeying confirmed with the Birtaynes, encouraged the Pickes to, that they fought dayly howe to pyke quarelles, and fall out with the Scottishe men : wherebypor making Proclamation that no Scottiff man moules enter into their bozders, bpon paine of beath: fome fuche as they twke within the fame? they crucily flue, other they ranfomed at excelline finnes: whereboon the Scottes beeing kondho with full displeasure, on the other side, reque to ted them with the like, cuer as they caught any of the land Pids by hap or otherwise amongs them or in their walkes.

The one nation lecking thus to bee renenced of the other, there encued open warre betwerte them: wherebyon the Scottiffe men, to the ende they mighte bee the better able to maintaine their quarell, lent ouer their Amballadours vito their kinnelmen in Arclande, tequpzing them of not onely warres with the Dickes, but also with the Birtaines, who mynded nothing, but the viter destruction of them and their linage, er= cept speedie remedie were founde. And for that they law it needefull, to have one onely head and governoz, they made fute also to have some can= tarne of honour worth them into Albion, buto whome as onto their king they woulde fubmyt themselves.

In that scason amongestithe Jeith Scottishe 30 men, there raigned a king named ferguhardus, who including to the petition of the Beptishe Scots, caused an huge army forthwith to be le= uied, thereto he appointed his owne some ferpale for gulius to be general of the fame, a worthie yong getleman, and an expert warriour: whom he fent our with this millant copany, with such weede as was possible. He had also with him the marble stone, that he might concepue the better hope to raigne there as a king, bycaule he went fouth 42 onto such a daungcrous warre.

such allo as went with him in this fourney, had there wyues, their children, and all there fubstance with them, as the maner of the nation then was, when they went forth into any foreyn countrey.

Powe it came to palle that this Fergulius was no conce come into Albion amongest the Scottiche men there, but that in a Parliament called and affembled in Argile for the purpole, 50 they first consulted after what soft they myghte mainteyne themselues against their enimies, and what oeder for government should be observed as mongst them: where finally for anording of such inconneniences, as might rife through many gousmours, they occreed to chase onely one, whom in all things as their king and heade, they would f.om thenseforth follow and obey.

droughte worli ad thim: they cocha-

Mit bicause Fergunone thought to sus. nucte to beate that office, as Fergusius the Fergulius, and first king in that the chaire of Scotlande. hope was also

-ded by whole cox fent to commit that charge into him. & fo to the creat recording of the people, he was placed boom his marble flone, and crowned king, being the first of the Scottish nation that ever ruled in Albion as absolute governour, who began his raign in the yeare after the creation of the mozine 1640. which is (as Barilon layth in his Chronologie) before the incarnation of our Samour 32 7, after ande in that prefent daunger, as having nome 20 the buyloing of Rome 420, and after the entring of Brutus into Brotanne 799.

> The kingdome of the Scottiffe men beeing thus becume in Albion, Fergulius toke bonon him to rule as king, making provision on al fines to result his enimies: who whylest these things were adming in Argile; had affembled thep? The Brytaines powers : into inhome also the Beptaynes had and Pictes aioned themselves, and were now entred into the gaynst the Scottish bozoers.

Fergule having hereof knowledge, speedis iv got together bys people, and came muth Banners dilplayed to encounter has enimpes." In king Femules Banner, there was a replie Lion portraped campant, much hus thule folden towardes his barke, as thoughe hee dyn beate the same, whithe is the maner of them. when they bee moved to displeasure.

Fergule was the first that have this counifance in Albion, which ener lithence halli bette bozne bo those Kings that have successively raigned after him there.

fame, as their cultome is, with al moner of crueltheropon determined to prove whether he might with oven warres atchieue his wurnose, which he could not bring to pas by his former cloked pras

into the Scottish borders lying tomards the T=

rish leas, walting with fire & twords whatsomer

he founde in his waves, till he came even to the river of Dune, where encampying himselfe byon

the bankes therof, he fent forth companies of his

Souldiers to delitor the countrey, and to bryng

in all suche personers as they flould lay handes them with there godes and cattaples buto the Mountaines, except fuche as were able to beare

armure: whom he appoputed to attend byon him, to defende the countrey as occasion served.

Wilherof Coil having knowledge brought by an espiall, he sent fouth about five thousand nimble men, and such as had bene bled to clyme cracrie hilles, to go before and winne the pallages, pur-of also by their spies, they first fell in consultation

what they were belt to do: s in the ende agreed

Bepttiffe camp: Ferqule with his Scottishmen on the one live, and the kying of the Billes on the other: so that in the dead of the night the Scottill men killyng the watche, were entered into the Bzittishe campe, ere Coil had knowledge

whilest the Bryttaines (awaked with the nopse) drew onto that parte where the Marme role, to beate backe the Scottes, the Willes communic over the river of Dune, by a certapne vinde fourde, allayled them on the backes, to the exect confusion of the whole armie: by reason whereof the Bypttaines (seying mone other remedie but to lave themselves by flight,) turned their backes and fled, in whiche turmople they were ther and were not able to helpe themselves, not are about to deceyne the Pictes.

Both the armies were nowe come within light of other, and readie to have given the onfit, when there went a murmuring amongelt the Pictes, that their companions the Bry= The Brytayns tapnes were gotten to a holl a little belide them, minding to fee the choe of the battell before they bid flurre, and then if occasion served (as they? home was it (hondoe) they purpoled to fall opou both partycs, as well pittes as Scottes, and fo to destroy them both, the vanquishers togy= to power under so log as was possible, a not to en= ther with the variouilled, as they founde them out of aray in following the chafe.

The like report was brought buto Fergule,

by one that fird unto his lyde from the enimics

campe, touching this treason of the Brytaynes, conspiring the exterminion of both the people.

By reason whereof, epther parte bering put in

had to informe him of fuch matters as pertey= med no lesse to the safegarde and prescruation of the Pictes, than of his owne people the Scottes.

to this message, and so a little beside both the ar-accompanied with a fewe of their nobles mette togither, where in the ende the danger in whiche they both stode, beeing plainly visclosed, and throughly wayer, they condifeended to have a further treatie of peace, whiche the King of the Pictes alledged hee mighte not conclude without the publike consent of his subicits, and therfore he appointed on the day following to returne to the fame place againe, there to give mindes of his loads and commons in the fame.

called his countaile afore him, beclaring the fub-betwirt king Fergule and him, whiche was in effest tending to this ende. First consporring the present deuises of the Beptapnes, there was nothing more expedient than a peace to be agreed the truminent perill of their otter ruine and come mon destruction intended by the Bzytapnes.

a resolute answere, after he had bnderstode the 40

Herebvon therfore returning to his campe, he

The king of the Billes willingly gaue eare

Tressonrenealed vnto Ferguse.

Pictes.

feare of that whiche might enfue through the malicious purpole of the Beytapnes, they kept their tents certaine dapes togither without ma= 20 king any halte to battaple. And in the meane while Ferquie fent a mellenger bnto the King Fergule sen-deth to the of the Pracs, requiring him to come to a communication before they should fight, for that he

the Pictes called his counfaile and com- Claunce of the communication which had bene

> Percopo also he required their aduite what they thought good to be don: declaring that according as they counsayled him he would worke therin. This matter being thus propoled, as there were diurrle heades, so were there sundzie opinions. Some judged that in 110 wife they coulde enter frienothip agains with the Scottes, who had so cruelly flaine and murthered a great number of the Piciff nation: and had the wed fuch tokens of a heaftlyke furious nature, that there was no hone to continue long in amitie with suche a raging kind of people: thereto they held that it was not unknowne how the prophecie went that the Scots Moulde in the cade destroy all the Wisish A Prophe progenie. So that it were wildom to keene their crease the same by copning with the in frenothin.

Dther were of a contrarie minde, elemino that in no wife the Scottilly mens friendhippe ought to be refused, bulesse they would determin to feeke newe dwellings in some other forranne parties, lith the Brytaines would not taple, but boon occasion take what vantage they could to expulse them both, alwel Scottes as Pickes, out of the countreys now by them polletted. And as for that, which was alledged touching the prophecie, if the Goddes had so determined, then might no policie of man prevent it: and if there were no such thing appointed by the same gods. what follye then were it to cast suche dreadfull doubtes where no cause was. Duer and besides this, they had taken them wines of the Scottill nation, and therby maraffed their feede (the hope of their posteritie in that stock, which is the nearest meane and forciblest occasion to nourispe. mies flamoing in battaple array, the two kings 30 friendship, that is of may be amongst people deuised: therefore it should not be onely profitable but necessary, also, to have peace with the Scots, to renue againe with them the former league to the perpetual Arengthning and aquancement of both the nations.

Colhilest the Picks were thus in vehating the The Pick matter, their wives also being preset there in the by their armie, came in amongest them with their this to peace ozen, & in most lamentable wise besought their husbands to have pitie boon them, in their to to= rowfull case, and not to suffer their handes to be defiled with bunaturall murther, lithe it were leffe discofort to them with their fillie little ones to die any kynd of death what soener it were, tas ther than to behold they? hulbands with their fathers, their brethren, and other kinnel folke iopne togyther in battaile, and there to kill one another wythout all mercie and commalion.

The Pobles and Bentlemen of the Pilles The Pill as Scottes, if they would yeeld with all to auoid 50 hearing the cries of these women, and being now the truminent weell of their better mineral of the cries of the cr somewhat moned to pitie, consented at laste to have peace with the Scottill men, and to rende againe the olde league that was herrivioze betweene them: And for mutuall intunies hereiofore committed, that there should be had a mue fuall recopence according as might fanne with equitic & reason. So that where the Bepttains had bene the chiefe procurers of all that milchiefe and discorde bestwirt them, in hope therby to des ilror bothe the parties, they should now be reputed from hencefweth as comon enimies to them. both: as for all other acticles or conditions of a= arrement, it was ordeined that their king thould do therein as onto him might feente god.

In the morning therefore, as was appointed. the king of Pictes meeting with king Fergule. perlared what his subicites were agreed buon : & further opening his mind touching the establish to disc. And herwith assembling an army, he entired ment of the peace, thought it convenient to have a day of meting befoirt them to ratify thesame. Witherwith Fergule being well contented & glad that through his motion a peace flould thus enfue, a day was appointed betwirt them and kent accordingly, fo that comming together, the aun= cient league was in all poynts renewed, with fome conditions added therto, anaplable as was thought, for the Aronger confirmation thereof.

Befoze this, & after the first meeting betwirt 20 he caused all the people in the countrey to gette Scottishmen. the Scottes and Pictes, I meane to come as the Bytains had understanding of this agreement. they had no lust to tarielonger in the fielde, but ranfing their power, they departed their waves homewardes, doubting least the sayd agreement might turne smally to they gapne.

The Pides and Scottill men also after they had thus fully ratified the peace and league bestul.

The Pides and Scottill men also after they had thus fully ratified the peace and league bestul.

The Pides and Scottill men also after they had thus fully ratified the peace and league bestul. rwirt them, brake by their campes, every man reparging to the place of his above.

The kying also of the Beptiaines named Coil soiournyng in that scason neare aboute Pozke,) beging informed of this sodegne renox other nation of the league betwirt the Scottill men and Pictes, was nothing toyfull of the newes: Herame for he doubted least in time to come their confederacie might be occasion of their further increafing in puillance, and after that some new occation of his trouble. Withcrefore Kudying by what wayes and meanes he might best provide renies 40 of any such thing: whereby it came to passe that die for suche inconveniences as might ensue, he attempted nothing openly for the space of two yeares, but onely watched his time, to the ende that if he might in that featon channes (through the infolent courage of eyther nation) to espica= ny occasió serviseable foz his turne, he might let bpon and be a plaque bnto them bothe.

intious diffirmulation, afwel Scotts as Picts be. The Scottes ing not a little offended, they entred lone after in uade the Brytto the Beptish confines, robbing a spoyling the rains.

tie. When Coil of Beyttaine had notice of thefe Coilus entred doings, he toke grienous indignation thereat, with an armie.

byon. But in the meane tyme, and follone as Fergule af-Fergule heard of the approche of the Bryttons, sembled a poling the next day to follow himselfe with the 3° whole army. But the Scottillmen and Pittes being now affembled togither, and certified here= that the fame night they shoulde sette boron the

It length also he caused his subjectes (such I meane as bordered neare to the marches of both by trains the people) to fetche prayes and boties out of the 50 troden botons and fell by heapes one opon an a-Pictell) confines. So that when the Pictes lent thither with requell to have relictution made, it was by and by aunswered that the Scottes had done such trespasses, (being a people inver binto fuch feates by nature,) and not the Beyttaines, who were nothing guilty in that kind of matter: 4 thus would the Beyttans do in like fort when they had robbed the Scots, to that with fuch in-

yet to make thifte to anoppe the handes of their Coil was aductiaries . In this bulinelle allo Coil flayor and his himselse chaunced to be oppiessed amongst the discomfitted of relt, to that he was founde dead in the learche of whom as Hefuch as were flanne, & after tolemnly burier ac- ftor Boetius fayeth, their -cording to his estate in Tropnovant, leaving country of the kingdom buto his konne Sikellins, who with Coil rooks his mother Mertia gourned the same together by the wace of many peares.

Diuerle beads.

Such Beytains also as cleaped out of they? rnimics handes, gote them togither in the nexte morning, * percepuing what losse they had su-Aconeo not only by the death of their Prince, but also in the flaughter of a greate parte of they? Peace conclu- whole armie, lent an herault unto the Scottes ? Pites to require a peace, which though the most ted unto, yet perswaded in the end by their Princes, they were contented to yeeld thereto: lo that a generall peace was concluded, and speedily publiffied betwirt them.

Immediate herebpon the Pickes with they? part of the spoile gotten at this iourner departed to their homes, & Ferquse returned into Argile: where studying daily for the quiet advancement A parliament. of the Scottill connine wealth, he called a parliament of his nobles, & fielt declaring to the al= 20 he passed in reste and peace with his nepghbours fembly how much bound they were to the Gods for giving them this victory over to puissant enimies as the Bertains were, he exhorted them to live in friendly concord amongst themselves, and to abstance fro violating the leagues, now concluded, as well with the Beytains, as before hand with the Diffes. Also for the anording of emilious contention, and for the better affurance of every mans estate, he inogeo it necessary to have a particion 30 where he perished, after he had raygned as kying made of al the landes belonging to the Scottill dominion. For before they occupied the whole as in commune, without knowing to whom this perce of that did belong. Whiche politike aduile of Fergule, the Scottiff) men prailed molt high-Obedient sub- ly, promusing not onchy to follow his countable herein in all that he floulde withe, but also in all that he flould otherwise commaunde.

Withervoor Mostly after there were chosen by the lande into conscience i great experience: which were apointed to be Surveyours of the whole country, f to decide the fame as neare as they coulde into a fet number of equal portions, but with this cofiveration, that according as the fruitfulniffe or barray melle of the look required, to they flould enlarge or diminish the circuite of their bounds.) With they had vewed the countrey, 4 according to their commission, severed fouth the same into vito the no- of al his noble men that were reputed as Gouerbles by lottes, nours were put in lottes, energ of them to have fuch parte of the realine for his our ne, as floulde fall to him by good lucke and present happe.

By this meanes eche of them being placed as his chance fell, they inhabited their quarters with fuch people as they had the leading of, so that afterwardes the countreys take they names of those the first Governours: which names for the more parte (being a little chaunged) remanne a= monalt them even buto this day.

Ferguse having thus without occasion of ennic denided his countrey amongst his nobles and subjects, studied furthermore to deinse lawes for lawes are the mayntenaunce of commune quiet amongst made. them. Ind therfore amongst other ordinances he part of the people were not in will to have colen- 10 made statutes against murder, roberies, burning of houses, and specially against thefte.

he buylded also the castell of Bengonin in Berigonia Loughquhabee on the weste side of Albion, over against the westerne Isles, where he appointed a courte to be kept for the administration of in- A place applice: that both the Albion Scots, and also those ted for inof the same Ales might have their accesse and relocte thyther for redrelle of wrongs, and enoving of all controversies. The residue of his life. the Pictes and Bytaines, endenouring by all meanes, to knit and couple the hartes of his lubicites in one friendly bande of inwarde love and amitic.

finally, saylyng afterwards into Irelands to Fergule at the arbitratour in a matter of variance betwirte and in his the Pobles of that lands, as he returned homes turneway wardes, by force of tempelt, the thippe wherein drowned he was embarqued, was depuen byon a wekt, amongst the Scottish men in Albion aboute rrv. yeares. The rocke where he was thus call Rocke feramap, hath bene euer lithence called Rocke fer gule, others guse, after his name.

In the same season there raygned amongst the Beptains one Clanius, named by hedor Edadus. Bottius Cloadus, and amongst the Pittes one Cruthreut. Cruthneus Camelonus, that buyloed a famous Camelonus Citie, ppon the banke of the riuer called Carone, This citie his aduile, vij. auncient personages, men of god 40 as the Scottill weyters affirme, appointing it Scottille to be the chiefe Citie of all the Pictiffe kyng- cameiode bome, where in times paste there was a fagte of the white commodious hauen aut to herbzough thippes in there is loo at all featons, but now it is damned by in lucke in the Rem forte, that bimeath there appeareth any token writers be where that hance was: and the citie it selfe was verily bed they do grafinally suburtted by Kenneth kyng of Scotland, ly ene. as after fiell appeare.

The forenamed Cruthneus buyloed also parts, they returned into Irgile where Fergule 50 the Towns of Agneda, afterwardes called Especially then followed by their following, it there in his preferee, the names of al his noble men that were reputed as Govers called was named, the called Maydens, for The called was named, the called of Maydens, for The called was named, the called of Maydens, for The called was named, the called of Maydens, for The called was named as the ca that the daughters of the Pickille kings, were maydens. there kept onder ftragte custodie, appognited to learne to fow and worke, till they came to years of mariage.

But nowe to retuine to the Scottill men. After the death of Feigule, the Pobles of the Realine affembled togyther, to take councell whom they might choose to succeede in his place. 93any of them in respect of the highe benefites whiche they? nation had recepted by the politike gournment of kyng Fergule, would not in any wife that his formes, though young of yeares, flould be forgotten, but that according to reason + equitie, the elvell of them fould be elected, fith they might not otherwise deliver themselves of the note of ingratitude towards his father, onto 10 ded from obtaining the crowne, least the puwhom they were more bounde than with toung might well be expressed.

Sther having a speciall regarde to the quiet of there common wealth, doubted least if they cromned a childe to they king during his mi= noutie, it coulde not be, but that there Moulde fellow strefe, enuic, and contention, for the gonormanice of his person and realine amoust the Pobles, and that in suche wife, as the people be= natration of instice shoulde be neglected, the Pobles bearing and bolltering by all kindes of maries done or committed by any of their par=

Ind though it might to happen that they a= greed uppon one speciall governour, as reason was they Moulde, pet Moulde he fecke to ad= nannee his kinffolkes more than reason happely required, and peraduenture do things other= wais muche displeasant to no small number of 30 them, by that his private authoritie.

Ind agains the King Monlde no source come to reares of any differetion, but one of 0= ther would not him in minde to take boon him to rule the whole himfilfe, befoze he bnoerst we what charge he had in hande: and by reason of instrayle routh he lightly woulde not followe the councell of any, but suche as consented bu= to hum in his fenfuall lufter and inordinate fan= hes which commonly raygne in suche Princes 40 lawes with equal instice trucky ministred. at take uppon them governance of realines befor they knows (through wants of sufficient reares how to governe themselves.

For these and the like considerations, allea= gid by fome of no final authoritie amogil them, it was agreed in the ende, that one Feritharis the brother of the late deceassed Fergule shoulde Moulde be crowned King and have the gouer= nance of the Realme ouring his life: and here= hing frigule his somics brought up in prince= lo mature and discipline, as appertagned to the Sounces of a king: that after his occeasie, if he line till any of them were come to type yeares, the might succeede him in the estate and king=

This ordinance also they decreed to be oblauce as a lawe from thence fouth ever after, that if the king died leaning no issue, but suche as were bider age to succeede him, then shoulde one of his nearest Conlins, such as was thought moste meete to occupie the rome, be chosen to raigne as king during his life, and after his de= cease the crowne to reverte unto his predecelfor is illue without controuerlie, if the fame were ones growne by to lawfull age.

By this meanes then were children exclublike libertic of the realme might chaunce to be put in daunger. But yet was it afterwardes per= cepued that this denile for choling of kings, mi= nistred occasion sometimes to the uncle to seeke the destruction of the Pephew, and likewise to the Pephew to procure the dispatche of the bucle and buckes Sounces, with the committing of many harmous murders of right worthis print of kings was ces, to the no finall damager of ouerthrowing nor alowed. ing divided into fundzie factions, the due admi= 20 the whole state of the commune wealth, so that finally that ordinance was clearly abrogated, as you finall heare hereafter.

Tit nowe Feri-pote. Ister Feri- tharis. tharis with the full consente of al the people was thus cleifedking. hec was inthronized with all co= lempnities in re= ceining his king - A two edged

ly ornamets, as his two edged fword, his Scepter royal, this crown of gold fallioned in forme of a rampire made for defence of a towne or for= tresse, signifying that hee twice bypon him to preserve the libertie of his countrey to see offendours ducly punified, and the execution of

These ornamentes of inuesture remapned buto the Scottiffe kings, without being in a= ny point chaunced, till the dayes of Achaius kyng of Scotlande, who establishing a perpetuall league with Charles the greate Empe= The crowne rour and king of Fraunce, to endure for cuer chaunged. betwirte the Scottes and French menne, ad= ded but o the crowne foure Flower de Upces to= wither with foure croffclettes devided in funwith in the means time to fee his Pephewes 50 der by equal spaces, rising somewhat higher than the Flower de Loces, that thereby the obferning of the Christian Religion and sincere faithe, maynteined by the Scottishe nation, might be the moze evident to all men that behelde it.

But now as touching freitharis, Mostly af- The league ter he was thus inueffed kyng, he came to an en- with the Picts terucw with the king of the Pides, where many confirmed.

portions.

An exhorta-

etnesse and

The lande is parted.

peace.

things being communed of, touching the wealth The league of bothe nations, the league was in solempne with the Picts wife confirmed, and suche punished as had done any thing founding to the breache of the same.

After this, beyng returned home, he ozdered himselfe in the administration of his charge very byrightly, without ginging rust occasion buto aup to finde himself grieucd: and thus continued he certaine peares in such love of all the estates of the realine, that afterwards when his Pephewe 10 purpoles: It what time also suche as were no-Ferlegus the cloelt sonne of king Fergule, beyng nowe come to full age, through infligation of fome insolent persons, and such as by alteration hoped for advantement, required contrary to the ordinance before established, to have of him the crowne: the mater was taken in such ill part, that where before the fame Ferlegus was highly beloued and honozed of all the people, they were now ready (if Feritharis had not with authori= tie and gentle perswasions staped them to have 20 licies were but bayne, denised sundry new ceretorne bim all to preces: but although their rage was formulat appealed by Feritharis as is lapt, pet woulde they not be pacified thosowly, till that all fuch as had bene of councell with him in that practile, had luffred death, and new gouer= nours appointed to have the overlight of him.

Feritharis lyued not palling a three moneths after this businesse, but vied sovenly in the night, the tructh not beging knowen whether by naturall death, or through treason of Ferlegus and 30 to this day certains of those greate stones stancertaine of his complices, whereof there was no finall fuspition rayled) for that he togither with them found meanes to flee fielt to the Pictes, and Ferlegus exi- after to the Byptains, were he passed the residue of his lyfe in great flame and ignominic.

Feritheris being thus dead in the.rb. yeare of An election of his revene, the Pobles affembled together for the anew king. election of a new king, and in the end they agreed pron Mainus the ponger sonne of king Fer= gule, as then beying about.xxiiij. yeares of age. 40 exercise.pastime and delite.

Mai-11115.

tayned.

Feritharis sud-

dainly died.

frellie memorie the noble government of his faluftice mayn- ther Fergule. De therfore Audring to answeare the peoples expectation in following his lappe fathers moethic aires, mainterned inflice in ell points without fuffering any bearing or bolftering of wrong. It there were any controucific redreft among ting of wising. It issees that and contributing neighbours, riften between neighbour and neighbour within one hundred or kandrede, he willed that the lance might be taken by and ended amongst them at home by order of some authorized courte there. But if the mater were of such importace as that Great mains But if the mater were or each important and oritie of determined it could not well be decided without audioritie of by the king. fome higher courte, he would then have the hearing thereof himself, at such time as he bled every rearc once to have a publyke affemblie out of al partes of his realme, to conferre togither for fuch tozious offenders, were arraigned and punished by death or otherwise, according to the faulte which they early had comitted. Also for the more Mainus con quiet of his subiects he costrmed the anciet league league wit with the Pictes, they king named Chrinus, re- the Picter quiring the same by his ambassadours sent onto him. Sporcouer this Mainus opo a religious de= notion towards the Goddes, having an affured beliefe, that without their favours al worldly vomonies to be added but othe olde: and also caufed certaine places in fundric partes of his bonis mount in uous partes of his bonis nions to be appointed out, and compassed about his religion with great huge stones round lyke a ring:but to= wardes the South was one mightie stone farre greater than all the rest, pitched by in maner of an aulter, wheron their paicles might make their facrifices in honour of their Goddes.

In witnesse of the thing there remayneth onding rounde ringwife, which places are called by the comon people the old chapels of the Gods. I mā wold maruel by what fluft, policy of firegth fuch mightic stones were rapled in that maner.

Amongst other the Goddes also, whiche the Diana home Scottissmen had in most renerence, Diana was red of the Scots. thicke, whom they accompted as their peculiar patronesse, for that the was taken to be the God= Diana Go delle of hunting, wherein consisted their chiefelt desse of h

Cluto by: therefore he inflituted monethly facilities by reason wherof this vie was take up, that io lone as any of them got light of the new Pone nerte after hyr chaunge, he faluted hyr with certaine prayers or falutations most rene= rently. Telliche custome endured amongst them many hundred yeares after.

Annus vio also appoint forth livings for the Priests to be taken of suche sacrifice as was offered by to the Goddes.

finally, when he had thus instructed his people in lawes and ordinances, afwel touching the religious litrice of the Goddes, as also for polithis government of his countrey, he ended his life, after he had raigned about. rrir. peares: leaung the estate to his some Dozuadille, Eliourus rayoning the same time in Bytaine, and Thaara amongst the Dides.

Druadille being Doruathe Scottes, established dille. a newe league with the Byytaines by fin- Dorusdille a ding his Ambassadours lover of peace. onto them: and with the Pictes hee renewed and confirmed the aun= cient aliaunce.

He set all his plea- Doruadill had fure on Hunting and keeping of houndes and pleasure in greyhoundes, oxdayning that every householder hunting. Moulde findehim two houndes and one areys hounde.

It a hunter chaunced in following the game. to lose an eye or a limme, so that he were not able to helpe himselfe after that time, he made a sta= tute that he flould be found of the common trea = 40 lent, a judge to determine of the matter.

is that killed a Wolf Mould have an ore for bis paines. This bealf in deede the Scottilly men even from the beginning bled to purfue in al they might deuise, bicause the same is suche an entinie to carrayle, wherein confilted the chiefest poztion of all their wealth and substance.

Thus the Scottill men in this leason, set= ting all their delite on hunting, began also to ble ring the fame. And first it was orderned, that he whole dogge did teyle & go through to the end of the course with & Deare, so that he were scene to be at the fail, should have the skinne: the head and the homes to remayne to him whose dogge dibbest next. The bosie being deelt and proken by, floulde be distributed at the pleasure, and distunen of the Mailler of the game, The homels and paunche were call to the dogges as the case The dogges required. And if there role any odubte in any of rewarded. these points, they flould chose by common con-

But whether these devices were lawes made by the kying as then for the further advancement of his pleasure, or rather customes gromen, and ratified by long and continual vie, I can not tel. but certaine it is, they were observed through all the Scottish regios as having the force of lawes. and lo are bled even but o thele dayes.

Belide thele ozdinaunces for hunting, Dot- Old lawer alnaville commanned also that all such statutes lowed. & newe lawes and Catutes in processe of time concers 50 as Fergule had made thoulde be kept and oblers ned: wherebuto he added certaine new, namely divers fortes of punishments for landrie kindes of transgressions, according to the qualities of the same: whiche hee caused to be ingrossed in bokes of recorde, and committed to the custodie of a grave counsellour, who by a common confent should have the interpretation of those lawes if any doubt arole, and that when any offender

Nothatus.

Mould come before the indge, 4 heare the sentence redde by him, the same offender might understäd that he recepued nothing but right at the judges handes : by reason whereof it came to passe, that fuch offenders without repining willingly were contented to fuffer any punishment what socuer it was that the law did so appoint them.

This cultome grewe into luche force, that it never might pet be abrogated amongst them of the wellerne Fles, but that even unto this day to they have there Lawiers amongst them, without whose benunciation of decree taken out of the register, no inogenient is reputed lawfull.

These were the after and dopings of king Dozuavile, who in the exchij, peace of his raigne penarted this world at Berigonium, now called Dounstafage, leaving behind him a sonne called Reuther as yet not of fusticient age to surcecde in the effate. By reason whereof Dothatus the Bealine in governaunce, was crotoned king by force of the law about remebred, debarring thilde buder age to inherit in luccellio of p crowne.

This Pothatus had branch raygned from yeares, when all the people beganne to me out buon him, for suche treannicall partes as he machiled afwel against the meane clates as the highe. And for so muche as he being admonished of his ductic and required to reforme certaine di-Monozable vlaces by him exercises, he woulde mine no care thereto: Therfore one Doualus gobrother of Dozuadille a man of comely perso= 20 nernour of Brigantia, conspiring with other Brigantian nage and witte, apte (as was thought) to have a Pobles of the Realine to depose him, entired Scottersy Reuther kong Dozuavilles Sonne, to take Galloway parte with them, and to clayme the crowne as newe to hym by discente from his Father.

No.

thatus

Nothatus murdered.

And so assemblying a companie of their fossion, fufficient for their enterpails, they entered the palarce where Pothatus lan, and after realoning with him of certapne points touching his misconcrument in the estate, mucrs of they? companie not tarying till they were commaunded, rallily fell poor inm, and inurthered him to= 50 wither with divers of fuche Pobles and Emilemen, as ther knewe to be enimics to Donalus and his friendis.

After this they pro- Reuking, and crowned him ther. with all due folephitit, oiners of the Pobles Reuthered velking of prealme being have Diagra Lo ly inspleased therewith, offended. Troz that they tudged it not only a gret offence to have the king thus traiteroully murtheto, but also saw hereby the ancient oromace of chw= fing their king through consent of the people, to be broke by the wicked attempt of a prinate perfon, san bulkilfull youg man aduaunted to the mount. contary to y decree of an autentike law. amongst other one Kerquhard the sonne in Land Potnatus gonernour of Loine & Canty2 called an affemblie of the people, and beganne to at- deflare what enormities were like to enfue thorow this tirannical attempt of Donalus.

Doualus hearing whereaboute Fernuhart ment, haffly came to the place where this affem= the was made, t there flaying divers of the chiefe. the did put Ferguhard also in great hasarde of his 10 lefe, who by flying pet eleaped his hands and . oot him ouer into the Ille of Ila, whither relocted rated burn divers of the Pobles (that kaused not Dougle with a great number of the commons.

In the end, Ferguharde per twaded his copa=

nions to let al feare a parte, and to returne with Ferquhare rehim into Scotlande to take renenge of Douale Scotland for and his complices, being traytours and enimies to revenge his to the realme and common wealth, to that firste iniurie. iorning handes whiche they did wette in mans bloud according to the custome then bled they promifed one to an other to live and die in the quarel: and after embarquing themselves in certaine beliels, they entred the fea and palled our into Scotlande, where gathering togither no small number of such as willingly resorted unto them to their avoc, they encountred with Dauale in battarle, whose hoste tippee in one day was put to flight neare to the citie Berigonium Berigonium with the losse of an erapt thousands men.

The night parted the fray, but in the nexte mozring Donale & his partakers through greate indignation conceined for that they were so beaten basse by Ferquhard (having in all his holle not pall a r.M. persons) fiercely came forth of they? minist ready to recepue them, there was fought to cruell a battaple betwirt them, that in the guo triber parte being foze trauapled with flaugbter enalong fight, was glav to give place to the vthe not palling an eight hungen of all thou hat to repetent that day in the fields, as then being Ift chue. Cipen Douales parte there was flaine Cithus kong of Picies, whole daughter fong Reuther had maried, with a girat number of pie Coiles of Scotlande, befior Gentlemen and commens that twke parte with him.

In the cotrary lide there vied allo fergibaro limstife with divers governous of Trybes, bethe relique of the Petites, Dentlemen and an nons of Rolle, Cathaicte, Parne, Argile, and Loine, with them of the wellane this waich were there with him.

Reuther estaving with lyfe from this bloubdie encounter, in the night following bewerten keutner the king fledde. his waves with luch of his people as were left aline. Colherof his enimies being appertited up the next morning, purfued after him with fuch pile tentes to gine battaile afrellie, e finding their e- 40 gence, that in the end they toke him within a ca- Reuther purstell in Cathenele whither he was Hedde for the auch and take. cour: he was parroned of life, parrly in respect of He is pardohis fathers mentes, and partly againe for that it ned of life. was knower bow his tender pouth was luch as had not velenico death by any fair, otherwise tha in that he had followed the councell of malicious perions. To this cruel muiver a huge flaugiger thus committed betwirte thefering marions of Scottilly men e Pilts, bothe their forces were fo land: also Douale himlette with divers of the 50 greatly enterbled, that they became an ealle pray to their aucient a comon entimies the Beptains. who in furth aportunitie of occasion thought not to At Wil til the fame might hand be past & gone.

First therfore with a mightle armie the Bay = The Brytains tains innaved the Picts: the noves of which na uade the picts. tion percepuing themselves not able to make re- The Picts exfillance, fled with they wines, their children, and Brytains flee in the most parte of their goves, over into the Illes to the Isles of of Orkeney.

bycaute the

foote in Bryinude the

The Scottes

Scottes.

of Dikency, and there affembling togither, they created them a new king to have the governance Gethus king. ourr them, who was also named Eethus, and brother to the other Gethus a little before mentioned. Here also they remayned certaine yeares after, liung in peaceable manner with the former inhabitants whom they found there, wedging them by no injurious dealing at all if the Beottiff Liftorie be true.

ne was called passe, that these Jiaos of Cikeney are named by fome suppose, viners wepters the afficient kingvome of plus.

In the meane while the Bertains leafing be but the trueth thoulde feeing pon fuch countriers as these plifes had forlaken, to be that they pon fuch countriers as these plifes had forlaken, were so called that is to lay, the Hers Louthien and other, they left in divers places wher they thought expedict, ted there be- garpsons of men of marre, to krepe the same in due subiection: and after entred into the confines of the Scottill kingdome, befining and walting The Brytaines all afore them, wherewith suche Scottes as yet 20 in the ends bothe he and his whole bande were remayned aline, being highly moned to indignation, came flourly into the fielde to defende they? countrep, tencoutring with their enimies neare to Kalendar wood, they loste a ij. M. of they? oueithrowen. companie: the relidue also being fore chased, fled into sundzie parties for laurgard of their lives.

This discomfiture put the Scottiffe nation into such feare a terrour, that they veterly vispai= red of al recourrie, where contrary wife the Biy= tains were to aduaunced in hope otterly to expel 30 all aliens out of their Itles that pursuping the victory in most carness wise, they forced Reuther and all the Pobilitic of the Scottiff nation that was ret lest alure, to flee for laurgaide of they? lines into the castell of Berigonium, where they helve themselves as in the furest holde.

The Bertains being certified of the repaire of their enimies to Berigonia, enuironed the castell with a firong and behement fiege, untill that the Scots within the constrained through wante Scots beiles of vitaples to estevach other, according as y lots decourses fell by a comon agreement made amongst them.

But when it came to palle, that even those that were reputed as heads and governours, in whom consisted the hope of they whole defense, did now and then come to the Mambles awell as other of lesse reputation, they thought it beste to tric by issuring forth, if any of they, happes Fercof moreover as some suppose it came to 10 might be so god as to escape the dauger present, whereas by tarying still within the fortrelle, they Manua but denoure one another without any reucher for loffe of their lines, had byon their fierce and cruell enimics.

edihercopon by common consense there if- The Scores furth fweth, firste one Colane Loede of Can-come formity with an hundeth of his owne Souldiers, and fiercely thy mithing with the Brytains, ocfended himself a god space right mafully, though boane downe and flagne with preasse and multitude of his enimics that affailed him on each fide.

In the meane leason, whilest he thus occupied the Beptains in fight on one fide, Reuther with Reuther the residue of his people brake forth by an other pend. way, and escaping to the sea side, got shippes and fled ouer into the westerne Fles, where he found a great number of other Scottill men, that were gotten thither, being compelled by Denus king of the Bytains, to anoyde forth of the countreps whiche they before inhabited.

Reuther remayned not long in the Mes, but Reuther passed ouer into Ireland. The Beytains not a sechintol littell moneo for his escape with the other of the Scottist Lozdes, reuenged theyz vispleasure on fuch comons and other means people as fell into their handes, to that luche as might cleape, gotte them into the montagues, thuch thereby rotes, They ish berries, + other wilde fruytes in former, and in the mest as they killed in the wildernelle: and fometimes ther came downe + made replies upon the Bzy= times that occupied they? houses and landes, facility great botics very often from amongst This cruell warre laffed a. rij. yeares, till in witter by fuch vehilon and fells of wilde beaffes

maner all fuch Scottes and Pittes as remapned il Albion were brought bider seruitude to the of the Pilies kepte his liege royall in Pomonia the chiefest The of the Dekeneys. Reuther also begot of his wife a sonne named Thereus, and Morthy after being procured by letters and melfengers sent unto him from the forelayd Gethus and fuch Scottes as were pet remaphing in Albion, he affembled a number of thippes togither, o first with a chosen power of warriours sayled to the western Ascs, where increasing his num= weste halfe of Rosse at Lough Bruum, & there comming a land, the first person that they mette with according to a custome bled amogst them in those dayes) they sew, & wetting the pointes of they? weapons in his bloud, they firste tasted thereof after they, manner, then holding op their weapos into the apre, they defired of the Goddes that they might reuenge the bloud of their elders with happy battaile against the Bertons their enimics. After this bearing that Gethus king of the Pids was also entred the lad with a mighty power of Germains which were come to his and The Gerand was not pall a.rrr.miles of, he stayed there of the Pictes. abidying for his comming, to the intent that ioy= ning they powers togither, they night be the better able to furnish they enterprise.

The third day after they niette togither with Reuther and In Amon were brought state technical feethus king 10 great ion and cogratulations, buto whom with Sethus meete Systalus. In which means while, Gethus king 10 great ion and cogratulations, buto whom with Sethus meete all speede a great number also of those scattish = powers togimen and Pictes that had fill confinued in the ther. countrey (during the time of the perfection by the Birtains) dayly relocted and came flocking in from eche lide buto them.

Sililius king of the Byptains who luccee= ded after Denus, as then lately deceaffed, having knowledge hereof, affembled a great army of his fubicites, and hearing that the Scots and Bitts The Brytains bers, he palled oner into Albion, landing on the 20 were entred into the boxders of his Realme, liee are disconied halted fourth to encounter with their powers, and Pickes. fo joyning with them in battaffe, after long and cruck fight, in the end the victory remarked with the Scottish men and Dictes, by the create valiauncie and manfull promes of Reuther: where Whereof Rebponthe place where that battaile was foughte thirdail tooke hath bene ever fince called Redirdail, as ye wold fay Reuthers valley.

Chis victorie was not very pleasant to any, were gladde to fall to agreement immediatly after. From cluded a peace, with conditions that the scottish men 4 Pictes Could be restored againe buto their auncient policilios & lands in Albion,.

This peace cotinued a long time after fund late betwirte these nations. The yeare that Renther returned thus into Albion, was before the buth of Chailte, 216, after the buying of Rome. 529 and from the creation of the month. of the parties, by reason of the greate numbers of 3750. Reuther by Beda in his Ecclessifical 4295. H.B. men flaine on bothe sides, in so muche that they 50 historic of England is named Reuda: who side. improteth hint to be y tielt of al y scottily using Beda is named ces y let any forte in Brytain there to inhabite, Reuda. his compling thither was (as feeineth to lame) his after the supposed time here before allenged. And berily there is great cause to move a doubt of the truth of that which Prifee Bornus bath myste in following (as he laith) other authors, toushing the little comming into Biptaine, atwell of the Stots + Dids: for if it were true that to long before the comming of the Romains into this Ide they were here plated & growe to luch puillance, it is strange that no mentio is made of them in any of their writings, till aboute the yeare, 360. after Chaff, as in place convenient it Hall more plainely appeare. Reuther passed the residue of his dayes without any further warres, forragne of civill, and so departed this worlde at Berigonium, in the expl. years of his raygne.

4997.H.B. Reu-

tha.

An, mundi.

After Reuther his deceasse, his bucks Sonne called Reutha fucceeded in the kingdoine, chosen thereto by the common agree= ment of all the citates, bycause that Thereus Sonne to Reuther buof tenue yeares, was thought unable to take the charge buon him.

Reutha therfore being thus elected to rangue An ordinince as king ouer the Scottill me,ogdained that luch theyr Princes, noblemen as had atchieued any notable exployte in defence of their countrey, flould be had in per= petual memorie, * buried in solemone mise in se= pulches aloft byo hilles of mountaines, byo the Obeliskes or which were let so many Obelisks or log pointed Craftes men instruct the people.

for buriall of

rurgions.

This Reuths also bnocklandyng of the brought into lacke of all maner of craftes men in his Bealing. Scotlande to sof fuche as were expert in the liberall feiences, caused a great number of moste perfeit artificers to be fent for, to inhabite amongst his people, the better to instruct them in their occupatios. Unto these also as buto other professing any liberall fees alligned to be received, of fuche oren & beefes as were killed, to every man of science + actificer his parte. Ind further eche of them had certaine measures of Dtes and Barly in steede of yearly annuities. For as pet the vie of coigne was not knowen among the Scottish men. The whiche cultome of villributing they; bealts, which they killed in this wife, is still bled in the Wiefferne Illes euen buto these our dancs. Reutha nerfitions & Chi- rurgions + Philitions many wounded + discased persons were oftentimes cast awar, oedeined by the aduice and consent of his counsell, that none Mould take bpo them as a Chirurgion of Philition, buleffe they were by long experience well practiled aforthand in those sciences. For before that time they bled to earie fourth luch persons as were ficke or otherwise burte, and to lov them in fome open place in the firectes of market fledde. that al fuch as came by, might according to their knowledge declare their aduite, and them if they had bene vered with the like disease) by what meanes they had escaped the daunger, & recourse red agayn they? health. For no ma might without the note of high reproche palle by in keeping filence in this behalf. And this was according to the custome of the olde Egyptians.

Routha thus Audping for the aduauncement of the common wealth of his fubierts, continued in the estate with great prosperitie, til finally perceruing himselfe farre growen in age and not so able to travell in the affapres of the realme as he was before, he caused a parliament to be affema bied and there in presence of all the estates he required to be discharged of the government: and that the same might be comitted onto his cousin Thereus, who as then was not onely of fufficis neath come to the age 20 entage to take it byon him, but also of suche fra wardnesse as that in eche mans opinion he was thought likely to atterne buto the prowelle of any of his noble progenitours.

> Thus, Reutha after he had rayoned a. roii. peares, returned to a primate lyfe, religning the Reuth neces tohole rule of the realme unto the foreland The ned the char reus being through his perswalion recepued as Thereus. king of all estates by common consent there in that present assemble. pointed stones, as they had slaine enimies in the warres: 32 his Thereus for the sirst by . yeares was e- The wherof some remaine there to be seene even unto any of his predecessors, but afterward he changed reus. his copic in such maner, that inslice and all other kindes of bertue being fet aparte, he neyther re- luftie mele garded the lawes of the Gods not yet of men, embraces but gave himfelfe to al fortes of filthinelle & most detellable vices, so farre fweth, that his subjectes (as their customers in following the maners & blages of they Princes, became lo outracious pointed forth arte, were appointed honelf livings, by way of 40 in they licentious livings, and namely the Pobles and Gentlemen, that thereof ensued thefte, murder, rape, spoyling, and all kindes of oppuelsion of those serly soules that had not meane to relist, so as in fine divers governours of the tribes perceyning no hope of amendmet whilest The nobles reus fould rayone, conspired togither, denising cospicazing meanes how to depose him of al kingly authoritic. But he having notice of their purpoled intentions, and doubting the sequele thereof, conceining furthermoze that through bulkilful This 50 neved himselfe out of the way, in molle secrete wise, fleping for succour onto the Beptaines, on-Thereus del to whom though he made carnell supte for appe to the Brytains to be restozed home againe, pet coulde heepurchase no suche favour amongst them: so that: leading a miserable lyfe long time after within the citie of Porke, hee finally there ended his daies. He raigned in Scotland about rii peares

02 111028.

Immu=

Momes diatlye after this his auording b Realme, the Pobles and pecres chose one Conanus Lord of Galoway to:10 rule vestate as Bouernour, whose authoritic had bene eucr great amoult the people. His studie was thickly imployed how to reduce the Loxdes & Pobles of the Realme, into concorde and friendly amitic, where before through the negligence of Thereus eche fought others destruction. Also he caused due punishment to be executed byon all such as lived by robbyng & reuing, of whom in the beginning of his government there was no final nuber: but secureth ofhe weeded them forth, in suche wife that ere he fendours. lefte off, there was not one of them to be founde.

It length, after it was bnderstood that Thetrus was deade, this Conanus renounced the executes administration in mesence of all the estates als senwled in parliament at Berigonium, where by common confent Jolina the brother of The= tofina elected reus was chosen to raygne as king, for that king. Thereus had lefte no issue behinde him to suc=

Alais Jolina, being proclaymed king, rerewood the auncient leagues with the Pius and Bertames.

Fr had Philitions in greate estimation: for tat during his above in Treland, he was nouriArd of a chiide amongst them, and by reason thereof had some knowledge in their facultic, specially he budgethode the vertues and properties of hearbes, wherwith in those dayes the Scottes bled to beale and remedie all maner of lozes and 23.ij. discases. 20

recevued of the king.

diseases, which as then were from in nuber in refped of the fundite kinds which are now knowe amongst bs: and alby reason of the superfluous freding and excelle of meates and dzinkes bled Surfeiring the in our time, where as our elvers suffiled with a caule of firage little, lined without lurseyting, the chiefell breedierles, which to commonly der of suche straunge and manifolde sicknesses. now raigne. In this Jolina his dayes it chauced that a Poz= fingale shippe was driven and drowned by force of a streyneable tempest, neare onto the shore of 10 one of the Scottill Ales, where divers of thole that were within the same suppe, Haryners and other, escaped to land, amongst whom were two philosophers auncient and fatherly old men of right reucrend through thip- afpect and countenance. Thele two in compa= wracke arrive nie with some of the inhabitaunts of that The in Scotland, & nie with some of the inhabitaunts of that The are joyfully came ouer buto Berigonium, where the king as then folourned. They were Spanish priestes of the Pagane religion, whose purpose was to have gone unto Ithens in Grecia, as lome warte: 20 But whence focuer they were, and what purpole focuer they had, certaine it is, they were Philosophers: and therefore the king recepued them most iopfully, boing them al the honour he could deuise, and commaunding that they Coulde be lodged within his owne palagee, where they had all things needefull, and accordingly ministred bnto them.

Thele Philosophers after they had refreshed themselves at there case for the space of rule. paper, the king caused them to come befoze him, recupring them to flicto their opinion what they thought by the nature of the forle, the maners 50 and customes of his people, to farrefurth as they had beene and heard. They without pauling for answere declared, that as pet they had not had time to learne those things but onely thus farre, by conicture they supposed that the ground was more likely to be fruitefull of metall nunes, than of corne and gravne, as conterning farre more riches huberneath the earth than abour, and this they favor that they gathered by the influence of the Deaucus buder the whiche it lay. And as for the rites and blages of the people, in one pointe they coulde in no wife commende them, for that The Scorich in religio they followed the superstitious rites of religion rethe Earptias, worthipping the immortal Gods in the shape of beattes and foules, where as God was even the same that did comprehende bothe heaven and earth, with the waters and al things in them conterned, whom they named Pature. and as it were the promordiall cause or beginning of all things, buto whom it was not polfible to deuise any similitude of living thing that might in any wife represent him. Therfore (lapo they me ought to world in the living God with fire and devoute praper, buploing him a temple for that purpose, and onely onto him to burne incense, and to persourme vower : at whole hads fuch as lived chaffly, bpzightly, and according to the rules of inflice, ought ener to loke for some Vpright lihigh benefite, where other that lived contrarily warded at might cuer stande in doubte of confrary reward. Gods hands

With these they sensible instructions they perswaded many of the Scottishe nation buto theyz opinion, though the greatest parte woulde by no meanes follow any other kinde of religion. than that whiche they had recepued from they? closes: nepther coulds any of them be brought to thinke otherwise of the Sunne, the Mone ? Starres, but that there was a certaine denine power or goodead in enery one of the. And thus much of these straungers briefly and by the way, who came into Scotlad at this prefent, but now Tofins der to proceede with our purpole, when Jolina had rech this lite. raigned. exiiij. yeares, hee departed out of this moelde at Berigonium, beyng a man of greate age. He lefte behinde him a sonne named fin= nanus, who a little befoze his Kathers becealle was by consent of the people proclaymed king o of Scotlande.

This finnanus had the nobles of his realme Finnal in such estimatio, that he orderned that no thing should be decreed or practited touching the nul. publike affagges of the realine, except they were first made privic and of counsell in the faine. He fought also to winne the favour of his people by meekenelle & gentle intreating of the, in Comuch that though he wente aboute to restore the olde rigion so, newhat defaced by his father through information as is fayde of the two about mencours lage Philosophers, yet did he not confreme any man to worthip the Goddes, otherund than his fansie served him.

190 was the first that instituted those 1920lates whiche gouerned after the manner of Bichoppes, in all maters pertayning to religion. and were called in the Scottill tounge Durcer- 10. custand in Latine Druides.

These Druides were appointed to be resident within the Ille of Man, as the Scottish menne holde opinion, but other thinke rather that they were refinent in Anglesey in the Beptish tonque called Mon.

Cinto these also having great livings assigned them, were the inferiour puelts lubient, as recepung at their handes all iniunations & orders for the ple of their facrifices and other ceremonies. 20

These Druides afterwardes applied theselucs focumular to the Audie of Philosophy, aswell navirall as mozall, that they were had in no finall renerance of the people, as they that were forthe accompleted and knowen to be men of most: pristing in the pristing in th they authoritie dayly to farre forth increated. that finally inderments in moste doubtfull mas ters were committed buto their determinations, offenders by they? discretion punished, and suche 30 as had well deferred, accordingly by theyre anporntmentsrewarded.

Morcouer suche as refused to obey they? de= incs and ordinaunces, were by them excominunicate, so that no creature durite once keene companie with such till they were reconciled a= garna. t electedy by the same Druides assoyled.

Plinic, Cornelius Tacitus, Strabo, and Ju-Lus Celar, with diners approued Authours," make mencion of these Dinides, signifying how 40 the first beginning of their religion was in Bep's tame, (which some comprehende all wholly onder the name of Albion) and from thence was the fame religion brought ouer into Frauncezon Imnanus was not onely prayled for his letting fruth of that Heathen religion, but also for this Politike government of the cleate in toyfull refte a quietnelle. Peyther was his fame a little avnaunced for the mariage concluded and made berwirt his sonne Durstus and Agasia vaugh- 50 ta to the kong of Brytains, for by that allaunce to wanne divers of the Beyttilly nation buto his

Finally, this Finnaning bied at Camelon forma come thither to vilite the kying of Pices es then fore discased, after hee had raighted atout the space of a.rrr. peaces. His bodie was connected unto Berigonium, and there backed amongst his predecessours.

furceeden Aus. his fonne p forena= med Dur flus, farre difference from his noble fa= ther in all

hermous demeanour as he that mascaltocether

apuen to banquetting and excelline dennichnelle. Suche of the nobles as his father had in highe reverence he made light-accompts of: ic= cepting anely those that of they wicked deuites could finde out new kindes of voluntuous pleafures, through whole perfinations forme of his Wicked counpeares he colined, some he sported of al their lib= fellers. stance einheritance, other he put to death without inflerance of any kine of lamical means.

Furthermoze he forloke the covanie of his lawfull wife Agalia, canling tipt to be forced and abused by diners vile persons in moste vilanous

23.üj.

Collitte

A conspiracie. Tiles he procured the indignation of his people cloked difsianulation.

Wilth these and the semblable inordinate pra= to farre forth against him, that those of the we= Nerne Alles with them of Cantry, Loine, Er= gile and Rolle, conspict togither in the reformation of luche disorders as were darly vsed in the administration of instice, by the wicked sug= restion of cult disposed councellours, against whom they pretended to make they, warre, and not against they? king.

There were to many also that favoured them in this quarell, and so fewe that leaned to the king to apoc him against them, that he was constreyned to dissemble with them for a tyme, in promiting not onely to remoue from him fuche as they woulde appoint, but also to be oz= dered in all things according as they floulde thinke god. And to put them in beliefe that hee ment as hee wake, he countted some such coun-other some (of whome he little passed) he felit buto them as payloners, to receive fuch punish. met by oeath of otherwise, as they should thinke connenient.

De further also in presence of Doro the goucrnour of Cantyz, sente to him for that pur-pose, sware in solenume wise afore the image of mularia. Diana, to performe all suche promises and coneuantes as he was agreed opon and had made 10 buto the conspiratours.

With whiche cloked distimulation they being decenued, came without suspect of further quile unto Berigonium, where at their fielte comming he was readie to recepue them (as feenico by his farned countenance) with daolome harte and moste friendly meaning: but they were no somer entred the Castell, but that a number of armed menue appointed for the pur- A cruell m pole, fell vpon them, and lewe them all without ther.

besieged.

Durstus is flaync.

in their countreys amongst their friendes and A new turnale, kintfolke, cauted a new commoció, forthat within a fewe daves after, many thoulandes of men King Durftus in furious race came before the castell, and bes Acaco the king most extraitly therein. Who per= cepuing himselfe in Aiche daunger as he knewe not well home to cleape, came forth with fuche companie as he had about him, and encountring with his emmies was straight wayes beaten bothe kingdoine and life in the. ir. yeare of his flus his race to raygne ouer them, isalfithed woulde feeke by fome: meanes to: rearinge his bowne amongst them, and so at once loste there 50 dion buto the same Cozanus, promising finne Durffus being thus dispatched, his childzen poubting the indignation of the people concepned against them for them; fathers faulte, to a= norde the peril, fledde ouer into Freland, and im= the realme by him, for that he coulde not away mediatly the Nobles of the Realme assembled thanklues togither for the chading of a newe with his corrupt maners.

nenth: howbeit at length when they mere at poput to have fallen at variaunce in full equing of contrarie opinions aboute the election of their Prince, through a wittie oration made by Coramus governour of Angile, who allenged mas ny weightic reasons for the antipoing of fepis tions they all agreed to committe the free cles ly to accept whome to ever her thoulde name. Herrupon Cozamus confulting a little with the peares of the Realme, named one Gwin the Ewelled uncles forme of Duritus, who as then minay for king ned in Picce lande, whither hee had withdrawen himselse in Durftustis bapes, berng benished

This election was acceptable to all effates, for that thereby the administration of the kings beine continued in the lyne of they? former

£;;;;;.

CLO Ewin shortly after was brought forth of pin lance with al regall folempnitie, and at Berigonium placed byon the stone of Marble to the great reiopling of the people there alfembled. Herewith also the nobles of the realine 20. cifes, Chould be no payne but pleasure buto them: putting they? hands in his, bound themselves by othe to be loyall and faithfull subjectes, buto him in all points, which cultome of twearing fealtie then firste by Ewins commaundement begon, and continued many hundred of yeares after amonalt his and their policritie: in somuch that the Captaines of the Trybes also required, the fame kinds of other of them that inhabited within there liberties, whiche in parte remayneth pet Alles, and fuche as inhabite in the mountagnes. for at the creation of a new governour, whom they name they? Captaine, they ble the like ceremonics: whiche being ended, at the nexte fapte kept within that countrep, proclamatio is made, that no man inhabiting within his juridiation, flail name this news governour by any other name from thenceforth, than by the aunciet and accustomed name as suche rulers aforetime have bene called by. And that so ofte as they heare him named they shall put off they? cappes or hattes. and make a certaine curtelic in sione of honour due to bim, in suche maner as we ble in hearing dinine fernice, whe and hold millerie is in boing, or any facted name of the almightie creatour re-

But now touching king Ewpn, his chiefelt fludic was to maintepne inflice throughout his bominion, and to weeve out suche transgressers lubicais.

furthermoze confidering what inconvenien--: c:- tie proceeded through the vic of voluntuous pleafures and wanton delytes, he orderned that the routh of his realme Houlde be trapned to endure tarenette. papue and trauell, as to lie boon harde toed s without any feather beddes of pillowes under them. Also to exercise themselves to theow the darte, to shorte, to wealfell, and beare armure afwell in time of peace as of warre: that when neede required, travell and suche kinde of exerwhere otherwayes lacke of ble, might make the fame intollerable. Whilest Ewyn is thus occupied aboute the letting fouth of necessary ordin naunces for the wealth of his Realme, the kong of the Pickes did lende buto hom Amballadours. torequire his appe agapult the Beptons, who were entred his countrey in robbing and fuorling the same.

Ewon consenting quickly to that request, unto this day amongst those of the Welterne 30, leuico an armie forthwith, and with all speeds palled forward to ionne with the wiftes, in purpole to reucnae the olde injuries done to his nat tion byithe Brytayns, who likewise were as readie to receive battaple as the Scottes and Pictes were delirous to give it, so that bothe the armics encountring togither (the Scottes and Dictes on the one live, and the Beptapus on the other) there ensued a soze constitt betwirte them, continued with binnercyfull flaughter, 40 till night parted them in funder: Po manas Adoubtfall then able to judge who had the better, but either battayle. parte being prime to their owne lolles, withdrew themselves further off from the place of the battell, fo that the Scottes and Wiften the fame night gotte them into the mountagnes of Dicke lande, and the Biptons so some as it was day made homewards with all speece towardes their countrep, leaving no final way and botic behind them, which the Scottish men and Dists recousas went aboute to trouble the quiet clate of his 50 red coming downe withall speede fro the mountaines, when they once heard that their enimies were bevarted.

Tking Emph being returned from this iour ney, determined to palle the relidue of his lyfe in refle and quietnelle, appointing judges in every parte of his Realnue, for the ministring of iustice and executing of the lawes according to the due forme and ordinance of the lame.

B.illi.

The crafty

Gillus.

working of

ionnes are

He appointed also such as thouse watche for the apprehension of thieues and robbers by the high waves, affigning them livings of the common treasozie to live by. And there be even buto this day that holde still such livings, though the office be worne out of vie and forgotten.

After this, he buyloed a callell not far villaunt from Berigonium, whiche hee named after his vone name Euonium: but afterwardes it was Dounstafage is called Dounstafage, whiche is as muche to fay, 10 as Steuennes castell, whiche name it beareth at this present. Kinally, this Ewyn after in had raggico to the great weale of the Realme, about rir. peares, he departed this life, leaving behinde him a sonne base begotten, named Gillus, who causing his fathers funerals to be executed with all folempne pompe and ceremonies, railed bp fone after lundzie Dbelifkes aboute ins graue neare buto Dounstakage, where he was buried.

of Durflus his sonnes, whome Ewyn in his life time had remoked home out of Freland where they were in crite. Bothe these, aswell the one as the other, bicaule they were twinnes and not knowe whether of the came first into the world, loked to beking after Ewyn. Their names were Dothan & Doggal. And luch malicious e= mulatio and envious spite, rose betwirt the two biethien for the attayning of their purpole, that a craftic & lubtill Fore, by court meanes lought full to augment: and in the end causing them to come togither for some conclusion of agreement, at length when he had let them further at oddes than they were before, he procured a number of Souldiers appointed for the purpole to rayle a tumult, as though it had bene in taking of contram partes and there to flea them bothe. Thus Gillus having brought to purpose that he came Durstus twoo bette much offended therewith, and done what he coulde to have appealed the matter, and herewith he commeth running fourth with a highe voyce, beclaring to his copanie, that if he had not made and flufte for himselfe, he had bene flaine by the handes of Dothan and Dorgall, who fell into fuche nuschiefe themselves, as they had perpared for other. Derevon also he required his friendes and scruaunts most carnelly to convey bim in-ger, and in better fecuritie : in fo much that many of those that hearde him, giving credite to might enfue to the common wealth by civil hinision, he perswaded them to committe the rule buto his handes, butill it mighte be cortained knowen, into whom the fame of right appear tapned.

The Historie of Scotlande.

Those that were present, percepuing to what issue his paynted, processe tended, and boubting The Nobles least if they shoulde seems to stande against him consensed at that instant in this his demaunde, they might create Giller happely be the first that southe repent the bar- king. gaine, consented to proclapme him king: wher= buo he required at fuch as were prefent, to tweare to him fealtie, and to do him homage according to the custome. Ind herewith agreably as he had before promised, and according to his fathers will, (as he allevaco) he distributed among them all suche cattell as belonged to his saide father. Whereby he wanne the greater fauour of many. but pet not indania himselse altogether in sure= There were present also at the buriall, two 20 tie, by reason that Dothan had left behinde him three somes, as then remaining in the Me of Man in the bringing by of the Deuides, he pur= Gillus goet poted therefore to dispatche them also for the bet= about to ma ter affürance of his estate, and therebyon made a some sign iourney thither himselfe, fayning as though he meant nothing but allowe and friendly affection fowards the children, by whiche meanes he gate now of them into his handes, the one named Lifmorus, being about twelve yeeres of age, and greater could not be deuised, whiche Gillus, like 30 the other Comacus that was two yeares ponger. The yongest of the three named Coerus, being aboute leuen peares olde, as his better happe was, chaunced to be licke at that time, by realin wherof he eleaped his hands : Billus feyning as though he willyed to have the other two brought op like the chilozen of a Pzince, he ledde thin a: way with him into Scotland, leauing cortaine of the fernants behinde him, to ridde Ederus the rongest out of the way at lepfure, and as for the for, the with in countenaunce as though he had 40 other twaine, the night following after his comming home to Dounstafage, hee caused them A decenable to bee murthered, euen in their Cutois atmes, muitaer. whose and most pitifully they belought and reauired.

But the woman that hav the keeping of Co derus now in his ficknesse, pronided more water ly for his fauegarde, for thee ancilling out what was the kings purpole, in the vend of the might Edemseles gotte hir selfe togither with Everus into Allie, peth. to some sure place where he might be out of dan- 50 and palled ouer into Ergyle, where being let & lande, the earied him on hyr Moulders by this the mountaines, and there within a terrete rame fullerned his languishing life for certains monothes in great care and mistry.

Gillus notwithstanding thele his crittalis. flictned per in outhourd appareunce, that roman constitution was more desirous of the quiet state and prospes realers rous fuccesse of the common wealth than hir:

euer reasoning amongest his nobles, and that in the presence of his comons, touching the maintenance of inflice, and punishment of milvoers, whereas hee himselfe thyested continually and most of all after the bloud of those who he boubted any thing likely to attempt the revenge of his wicked miligouernance: informich that he cauled in one place and other, all fuch to be murthered and flaine as bare any 5000 wil foward the lawfull line of Durlius.

Powe the people feeing the dayly flanghter of the novilitie, and at the last growing to be be= tic fore mourd against him, namely those of Balloway, Kyle, Carrike, and Coningham, wyth them of Canty?, Lozne, and Argyle, they allembled their powers togyther, and with all speede marched forth towardes the place where they thought to finde the Typant: who hearing of this their conspiracie, allembled such puillance as he could make, and having no other refuge but to 20 trie the matter by battell, made towardes bys enunies with moze speede than good successe; for ere the two armies came to iopning, a greate number of Billus his friendes fled to the contraric part, so that herebyon doubting the issue if hee were constrayned to fight, hee stale minsty from amongst the relidue of his folkes, and getting into a fiftiers boate, conveyed himselfe-over into Irclande: whose departure being once knowne, control of Balloway, who was Captain gefactions lint of all the cliates created governour of the realme, till they hav cholen a king.

This Capall immediately boon the greate authoritie giue him, gat first al the best fortrestes into his handes, as Berigonium, Duiffafage, and other: then hee passed over into the Afte of Ila, to provide the better for the reliting of Eilfing arde amongst them of the westerne Ises. Thither was brought unto him allo, the pong Corrus by such of Durstus his friendes, as hav cleaped the cruel handes of Billus) whom "Ca= vall caused to be honourably conveyed buto E= Plake the chiefest Citie of Balloway, there to bee brought op in princely nuriture, that coming to full age he might the better bee able to take bpon him the governance. In whiche meane while Eillus made all the friendes in Frelande that he 50 rould, infomuch that bron such golden promises as her made buto the chiefelf governours there, they consented to ande him with all their forces. Circust Cavall being advertised, he thought it best that a king thoulo be chosen, and thereby an tritie to be framed amongst all the estates of the traine, wherebyon causing a counsell to be alkmbled fez the same intent, by common agree= ment, one Gwen, a man of worthie fame. ne= Ewynthe fephen to king finnane by his haother Douall, conde of that was in the end proclaimed king: who was lately king. come fro the Alle of Bowere into Albion, in copany with Cavalla kente himselfe close hitherto within the lapde Ide, for voubroof Billus that fought amonalt other to have destroyd him also.

This Ewin Ewin. seconde of that name, made great provision in the beginning of his raione to relife the sample Billus his eni= mie. And hea= ring that he hav bene in the Alle of Ila, and put the same to fire and Ewords, he prepared an army and flips allo, to transport therewith over into Irelande, there to revenge that injurie byon suche as had apoco Billus therein, to the hinderance of his countrey.

The forenamed Cadall, gouernour of Gal- Cadal with an lomay, was appoynted also to haue the leading armie is fent into Irelande of this armie: who taking the sea at Dunla= face, directed his course strength over butto the coaffes of Irelande, where taking lande and encountring with his enimies, he put them to the his Souldiours pelded themselves byto Cavall, 30 morse, insomuch that Gillus fearing to fall into his adverlarges handes, fled out of the fielde into the next woo, where hee thought to have fauco himselfe. His souldiours also percepuing him to bee fled, gave over the fielde, and perided themsclars buto Capal, who twke them to grace, and forthwith lent out certaine companies to leeke Billus, who foud him in a den closed about with Gillus is take. thicke woodes and bulbes, where he had lien bid certain vapes a was almost sterued for hunger.

lus, if hee Coulde attempt any thing by purcha= 40 ... Those that found him immediately stroke of his heade, and presented the same buto Cadal, to headed. the great reinscing of all the companie.

his wordes, went with him with all speeds unto Dounstafage, where being recepued into the caffell with divers of the Oobles that followed him, he gotte him into a galery, and there making an murfine oration againff the Sonnes of Durftus, and touching by the may what profit

The Historie of Scotlande.

good and mice is rewarded,

to returne into Scotlanor, but by meanes of a by a tempelt. grieuous tempelt, he lost the greatest part of hys armie, with all the worle and ryches that they had gotten in that voyage. Whiche milihaunce fore blemilled the glorie of so famous a bidorie, fo that the recogling of many, was turned into dolefull mourning for the lotte of their friendes andkinnelfolke, but namely Cadall torke it fo 10 Cadal for his grienoully, that nothing coulde bee moze offenfavth ul ferfiue buto him. Howe beett, after he was come a lande, the King and other of the Pobles recom-

Thus after that Cadall had archived his ma

ferville with good fuccesse, he toke the sen aggine

many him also much fagge landes, with diverse Callelles in Galloway in recompence of hus good and faythfull fernice at fundzie tymes the med in defence of hys Countrey, and made bym Covernour of Galloway allo, whiche ber berve thankefully accepted.

After this king Ewin came to an enterpiew An enterpie with the king of Pictes in the bozoers of Gallo- betwirt the with the ring or pluce its the auncient league be and Pice. twirt the Scottille men and pintes. Formore corroboration whereof, Sijora the daughter of Gethus the thirde king of the Pides, was ionned in maryage with Everus, the Colemnization being kept at Epiake.

forted him in all that they might, and the king

uade Cath-

Thefetings thus accomplified, Ewincefurned buto Dunstakage, where beeing certified by letters from the Lieutenant of Rolle, that the The people of Flanders of Diency had valled Pilliand Frith, and were entered into Cathenele, robbing and fpoyling that Country with a greate part of Rolle be leuied an armie with all speede, and has 40 be seene in that place where it stode, euen with fled towards the counies, constraying them by his focaine committed to fight whether they moules or not having no lerfure to gette away, fo that with finall relifiantice they were vanqui-Mico and chales, forme into the mountaines, and other to the Scaffde: of whome part eleaped by Boates over into their Countrers, the relidue of them in this their lodaine ouerthrow being ep-Bladusking of ther flaine. dzowned, og taken. But Bladus the Orkney fled- king of Country, for that he woulde not come 50 and other fuch furres, where with they made their into his emmites handes, flue himfelfe. Ind thus ended this enterpile against the enimies of Openenigreatly to the enercale of Swins fame amonalt the Sestriffination.

After this he visited the wealt partes of his Realine, and at the mouth of the rener of Locktey he buy loed a Citte whiche he named Emuerlochten, emianchiling the same with a hance Enuciles try tuarie for the refuge of offenders. Thys Citie afrecivardes was muche frequented wyth Warchauntes of Fraunce and Spaine, by reafon of the great aboundance of Salmons, perrings, and other fide whiche was taken there. The olde ruines of this Citye in part remayne to toe likewise buylt an other Citie in the Calt parte of the Realine neare to the water called Enverede Lochnesse, which he named Envernesse, after the buylded. name of the fame water. Whither in tymes pat there refezed many Marchantes of Germanic, with fuch marchandife as the Inhabitantes of the Countrey there Awde in neede of, erchamging the same with them for Marterne Kinnes. returne. This Citie is as pet remayning, and beareth the olde name, rich and well floged with diverfe kinds of Marchandife, to that this Ewin proned a moste famous Prince for his worthe explortes right fortunately atchieued, bothe in prace and warre. Ind finally understanding the Cadillate death of his deare and entryclye beloued friende ceafics. Capall, her reparted unto Epieke, as well to quie other for the pacifying of his formes beeing at variance for their fathers inheritance, as also to doe the more honour to his friends nome des croffed, by creating some monument neare buto his Semilchie.

Comming therefoze to Eplacke : and letting an accorde betwirt the young men, hee caused an Amage to be made in all poyntes resembling the personage of Caval, as neare as might be: which he placed in the myddell of the Market fleede, 10 commanding the fame to be honoured with hurning of Fuccuse and other dinine Cere-

Within fewe dayes also, through inwards forrow, as was thought, for the loss of so deare a friende, he began to ware licke himselfe, and at length percepuing he shoulde not escape present prati, he caused Ederus (of whome befoze mention is made to be brought but o him, into whole handes with many wholsome aductissementes 20 Houndes and Greyhoundes, to chase and purhowe to ble himselfe in government of his link liwin resignesh icurs, he wholy religned the effate, the which after the chare. his decease he know to be due but o him turbout all question and confroncessic and afternative des Emins decease. parted this worlde when he had reigned fewers tens yeares continually for the most part in high wealth and felicitic.

If for the Ederus. Ewin, Ederns was in maner before expresled recepted for king by the whole affent of all the Scots tillme. Whole chiefe delighte was attogether in handing and keeping of heromans foe, by meanes whereof his advancement was muche the more acceptable amongelt the Pobles, who in those payes were whollye gruen to that kynde of pleasure and vastyme.

In the bearining of his raigne there was 110 trouble towardes, the publike state of the Realme being maynteyned by byzight iustice, and all transgressions through terrour of due pu= nithmente politikely repressed.

The first that went about to put him to any 50 notable trouble, was one Bzcous of the Jales, neare of kinne to Gillus that viurper and niurtherer, who with a power of Irish men and other of the welterne Files landed in Argyle, wasting and Corling the countrey with fire and twozde, Vierror Ederus bring advertifed (who was the fame fines in those partes a hunting amongst the mountarnes)gathered an armie with all speede, fue wilde beaftes, and namely the Wolfethe 40 and halting to the place where his enimies thips Ederus burlay at ancre, he first burned y same, to take away mics ships. all meane from them to escape by flight.

Ederus went western Isles.

king of the

Brytaynes, re-

cruelly executed to the crample of all others. After this, he pasted ouer into p weltern Ifles, where hee did execution open such as had anded Becous, putting some to death, and causing o= ther to fine at his pleasure, and deprining some otterly of all that ever they had.

The morning next following he did let byon them also at unwares : of whome some hee flue, and the relique being taken, either in the fight or chafe, by his commandement were hanged, and

At his returne againe into Scotlande, there met him Amballadours lent from Callybilanc king of the Brytannes, requiring him of ande quireth of the against Julius Celar, who (as the same king Scottish men had persite biderstanding was appopited very the Romaines Choeffy to passe the seas from Fraunce, ouer into this Ille, with a mightic power of Romagnes, to subdue the Inhabitants buto the seigniorie and inviloidion of Rome.

chiele Ambas feit of his millage.

courteoully: and forlomuch as their mayllers request required countell, hee caused his Lozdes Bigrannes, de whiche were then present, to assemble toap= clureth the cf- ther the nerte dane, afore whome he willed that Androgens chiefe of the British Ambassadours, Moulde declare the effect of his inclage, which he did to eloquently and bettering such sensible mat= fer, how it stode the Scottist men byon, to ande the Bertannes against suche common enimics to all nations as the Romannes were that in the 30 ende it was concluded by the king with the adnice of his nobles, that he shoulde not onely sende a power to arde the Bertagnes against the grannt to ay de Romannes, but also sende some of his Lozdes the Brytavaes with Androgens and his affociates buto Gethus king of the Pices, to moue him to doc the lyke: who hearing howe reasonable their demaundes were, promifed further to accomplish the same.

Thus the Britishe Ambassadours having fuedde, according to their delires, repayred home= 4 wardes: immediately bypon whose departure both the kings. Ederus, and Sethus, leuied their armics, and lent them forth towardes London where as then Callybilane foiourned.

I finde that the Scottes were a ten thousande men boder the leading of Cadallane go-Cidallane and urmour of Galloway, the forme of Caball before Devald with remembred, and one Poualde gonernour of Ar= ren thoulande aple. But what fucces followed of this first iour= scottin men fen lito ayde ney which Celar made into Biptagne, ye shall so their resolution if they were putte to the tryall, the Brytaynes. finde the same in the Poplogic of England more at length ervielled.

The peare that Julius Cesar came to in= uade Bertaine, was the fourth of Ederus hys 5129. H.B. raione, from the creation of the worlde 2912. complete, whiche is after maifter Harisons account 54. befoze the comming of our Samour. and 692, after the buylding of Rome.

The Scottiffe men and Pictes having there part of the Coyle which the Romannes at there devarture left behynde them, were fente home to their Countreys with great thankes and rewards for their paynes, but the Brytaynes were The Brytaine fo crafted in pepde by the departure of the Ro- exalted in maynes, that they believed verily they Moulde Pride. have no more to do with those enimies, or if they had, they thought themselves strong yrough to 10 repulle them without appe of other. By meaner whereof when king Ederus was informed home The British the Romagnes prepared to inuade them afrethe, refule avie and had lent them word thereof, offering to them being effect his ande: they made no account of that offer, but them. answered b it was not necessarie for every light inuation of forraine enimies to fecke belve at other mens handes, being of puillance lufficient of themselves to relift the same well prough.

But of this refusall of so friendly an offer, it Ederus recepued thele Ambassaiours bery 20 was not long ere the Baytagnes soze repented sulius Cris them. For Mortly after Julius Celar with a far inuadeth thas greater power than that which he brought with conseins him at the first time, landed here in this Isle a= monalt them againe: and being at three sundris times fiercely encountred by king Callybilan, at length hee put the same Cassphilane worth hos Beptapnes to flight, flaping and taking a great The Bryuye number of them. Amongst other of the prisoners, are outsthrowne, were three of their chiefelt Captaynes, Inorogeus, Cisentoziges, and Tenantius. By reafon of which overthrow Callibriane was to difcouraged, that doubting further milchief, he perl- Castybilian Ded himselfe buto Celar, accepting fuche condi- yeeldeth D tions of peace as were appoynted him, and for Cxiac. performance of covenants, delyvered sufficient pledges.

Tefar having thus conquered the Byptayns, folius Cris Cent his Ambassadours buto the Kings of the his mellige Scottill men, and Pias, requiring them to lub- vuto the South mit themselves as Callybilane had done, or else he had them loke for open marres at the Romarics handes, which they might affure themsclues they should in no wise be able to sustains, confidering their mightie and huge puillance, has ning the most part of the whole worlde at they? commaundement alreadie. Wiberebuto afwell The answere the one king as the other, made this or much- of the Scones what the like answere, that they were bent so casishin ner to lose they? lives than they? lybertic. Which Ambasisdor Moulde be enidently proued by the decoit selfe.

Celar having recepted this answere from these two nations, he sendeth news wellengers Cesar sendeth buto them with a more roughe emballe, who new mellennot onely by threates, but also by great reasons scores and went about to persuade them unto submission. Pies but the But they perfelling in their former opinion for ike wike defence of their liberties, and utterly refusing all former.

maner of bondage, would encline by no meanes to come in any bonde of friendshippe with the

After the returne of these last mellengers, Cefar was fully resolued to enter into their Countrevs, to force them unto that by dynt of fworde, ion wherebuto by treatic he might not enduce them: and had let forwarde on that iourney thorthy after in deede, if he had not beene called backe into sources fraunce, to pacific sundzie commotions there so rayled by the revolting of the people inhabiting those Countrers, where the picardes and Pozmans, with other the inhabitantes neare aboute

Chartres, now owell. The common Scottishe Chronicles record, howe Julius Celar came as farre as Kalendar ed wood, there wan by force the citie of Camelon where the Praid kings bled molt to loiourne.

Perconto the same Chronicles adde, that bites in heigth, and of .rif. cubites in breadth, of square bewen stones, right workemanly framed. which house they saye Tesar caused to be bled in flecte of a indogenunt Hall, and here placed it neare the Rouer of Caron, ouer against the formamed Citie of Canulone, as a witnesse that the Romannes armie had beene fo farre for= warve within that Country.

Suche an house there remayneth to be kene cuen onto this day, and is called Julius Hoff, Iulius Hoff. that is Julius Hall, or Julius Court. Howbee it, other more agreeable to the likelyhode of a troth, warte that this house was sometymes a Temple, buyloed to the honour of Claudius Celar, and of the Goddelle Cliforia, by the Romaine Captaine Mchallan, at luche tyme as be made warres in that Countrey, before hys aduauncement to the Empyre.

But to returne buto Ederus. About the same time in which he loked to be inuaded by Julius Cefar and the Romannes, and for that purpole had lent for them of the wellerne Illes to reenforce his holt, he was now inforced to connectit another way, for there was one Murketus,ne- Murketus ne phewe buto the aboue remembred Billus, that Gillus inuacame with a namie out of Irelande to robbe and derb the we-Cefar buylood a great stone house of. rriiij. cu= 20 spoyle those Illes, being destitute as then of men Rerne Illes. to relift him. But Everus hearing thereof, dis patched Cadallanus with an armie into thole parties for defence of his subjects: which Cadal= lanus behaued himselfe so politikely in this exployte, that letting byon the enimies as they lap at ancre, he toke the in the night leafon without? making any great defence, and after hanged the

by alling the flipse fide within palle of Gowse: Surket bimlelle being honoured with an higher place to hang in than al the rest, oue to him that was their chief head and leader in that voyage. 50

The reinnant of Ederus his raigne palled without any other notable trouble: and so after el H.S. he had raigned : 8, yeares, he deceassed a very olce man, about the 23. peare of the Empyre of Augulius Celar. He was buried also at Duntatage with all one pompe and folemnitie, having druttle obelythes (as the cultome then was) executed and lette by aboute the place where hee mas to intumilate.

After byth some Emp the third of that name, nothina loke in anve princelpe qualityes buto bys noble progenitors, but contranimile infa=

Ewin.

A licentious

king.

med in all krnde of bices.

In the first yeares of his raigne he was wholy drowned in lascimous lectione, abandoning himselfe altogether to be waltring amongst a sort of vile ftrumpettes, bos lust being neuer thorowely fatisfied, thougheneuer so often awea=

The nobles of the realme he had in no regard at all, of whom some he confined, and some hee canled to be murthered, onely bycaule hee might the more freely without gainlaying haunte has vile trade of living with their wives and coluis.

Such belief be ben also in his filthic and most maintenance of the lik amongst his subiedes, as thus: That it might be lawful for euery man to marrie diverse and sundzie wives, some sire, forme ten, according to their substance and onalines. And as for porte mennes wines, they were announted to be common unto the Lordes of the forle : and further that the lance Lordes flighter first deslower the Beide after hir mariage: which last ordinaunce twice such effect, that of manye hundred years after it coulde by no meanes be abrogated, thoughe the two former liberties were by authoritie of the Kings lucceeding. shortly after this Ewins decease taken away and revoked.

But now to coclude touching & doings of this Civin, ye final understand, y at length such loods Ewin is recast greatly abhorred his vile conditions and via- such as greatly abhorred his vile conditions and via- such and region and ar- such such as suc with him in the fielde, and there twke him prifoner, being destitute of all ande and succours: for fuch as he brought with him not once offered to o frike one stroke in his quarril.

Emin being thus taken, was by and by con- Ewin conce dennied to perpetuall prison: and Cadallane of ned to per whome re have heard before, immediately pro- tual prison. claymed governour of the Realme. Howbeit the night following after that Ewin (according to the inogement pronounced against him, was committed buto warde) a presumptuous your man, in hope to have thankes of Cavallane, entred into the chamber where he was enclosed, and Ewin is Pylibic lawes, abhore, sible ribaldie, that he made lawes for 30 there strangled him. But in steeds of thankes he strangled mas reconvenced with death: for Cadallane detelling such a wicked deed, caused him to be hanged in oven fight of all men.

Such was the ende of Ewin: beeing thus dispatched in pailon, in the seventh years after he began his raigne ouer the Scottiff men , beeing their. yeare of Augustus Celat his gouernment of the Romanne Emprie.

Ster Ewin lucceeded Metellanus, Conneto Metel Flore Carranc, the brother of Everus a prince of most gentle behaniour.

This Metellanus mainteyned his lubied's in great quietivile and rest, without any maner of warrs, either forraine of Civill.

such wicked lawes as his prederessour had effablifico, he did what he could to abolifie. 28ut incovering Sentlemen as delited in fenfuall luft, and becentious libertie, flode to fliffely therein a= garial land, that in the ende be was glad to leave eaths hunhole.

Ibout the same time also there came buto Tymbaline king of the Biptayns an Amballa-do: from Luguitus the Emperour, with thanks. to: that entring into the government of the Buin wine late, he had kept his allegeance towards the Romanic Empre: exhorting him to keepe hys lubicas in peace with all their neighbours. Tithe the whole worlde through meanes of the fame 30 Augustus, was now in quiet, without al warres o: troublesome tumults.

These Ambassadours went also bute 9985 tillanus the king of the Scottill men, exhorting. him to acknowledge a superiozitie in the Ros maine Emperour, buto whome the people inhabiting in the furthelf partes of the Caft, ban fent their amballabors with rich iewels to prefent his person withall. Where with Metellanus beeing Romaines, he fent into Kome certaine rich pre= lints to the Emperour, and to the Goodes in the Capitell, in figne of honour, by whiche nteanes he obteined an amitie with the Romaines, which continued betwirt them and his kingbonie for along time after.

Thus a generall peace as then raigning thorowout the whole worlde, it pleased the gyner and authour of all peace to bee borne at the same of Sithleem in the tribe of Juda. Which bielled and falutiferous byzth came to passe in the rij. Pears of Metellanus hys raigne, and in the thi, of Lugulius has Empyre: from the fyrite thablishing of the Scottishe kingdome by Fer-Sulius 324, yeares, and after the creation of the worlde 1966, as Harison in his Chronologie both manifellly conclude.

After this, Metellanus raigned certain peares in continuall prace and quietnelle, euer readie to do the thing that might bee to the contentation and weale of his neonle.

Tinally, hee passed oute of this life in the Metellane derrir. years of his raigne, which was the rewill worlde. after the brath of our Sauiour, and. rig. of Tp= 29. H.B. berins the Emperoz. Powbeit he left no iffue a= 14. H.B. line behind him to fucceede in the government of the kingdome : for those children which hee had Caratake is begotten, bee buried in his lifetune, by meanes proclaymed whereof, one Caratake, some to Cavallane, and This Caratake nephewe to king Metallane by his lifter Eu- all the Brytish ropcia, was proclaymed King, as he that erecl= and Englishe led in tyches and puyssaum aufhoritie about all be a Biytaine, other the pecres and highe estates of the realme, and inhabiting and had not a little to bot in the administration within that of publike affagres in the latter dayes of his uncle ille now called Englande.

The first thing he did after he was established Cara-in the estate, he sailed into the western Isles to appeale a rebellion moued by the Governour take. there. Which done, and the authours ministed. he returned into Ilvion, and came unto Cariffonum, whiche was sometymes a famous Citie. and Metropolitane of Scotlande, lituate within the Countrey cleved Carrocke, as it ameareth by the cupnes there remayning even buts thys bapt.

In this Citle was Caratake borne, and there fore fanouring it the more, her lay there moste Caratake was commonly, and did what he coulde to advisumce Carricke.

all hilest these things were a doing in Graff lande, Kymbaline king of the Bzytapines swed, Kymbaline who for that hee had beene brought by in Rome, king of Bryobserved his promised obsoience towardes the Empyet : but Buidering incceeding offbirdien Guiderius the to fee the libertie of his country opperfied by the British king partly mouted to have a friendly amitie with the 40 Romaines, and therfore procuring the Byptaine gayaft the to affilt him, affembled a power and imiaber 450 Romaines. Romaines with fuch violence that none encoded and all with life, but fuche as faurd theinfelnes withan Calicis and Forteelles. The Eniperson Clause dins that then governed the Romaine Emple advertised herrof, fant two Captapries, Allusi Plandius, and Cueus Sentius to appeale that Planctive redellion. They landing in Biytaine with their Plautius. armie, banquillet Guiderius in battaile, fotist tyme, of that blelled virgin Marie, in the Citie 50 he was confrayned to fend buto Caratake king Guiderius fea: of Scots for ayde agayust the continent entimes take for ayde. of both nations. Caratake bauing confrogio the effect of this 99 cllage, gane countaile to the Beptaynes to lende into Fraunce then called Ballia, to practice with the people there to mone come rebellion agapust the Romaines, in hope of helpe, whiche they were affuren to have by the Brytaynes. This countails was tollowed, to:

immediately

raunce in thofe dayes Gallia.

Guiderius flainc.

The Emperor Claudius com Brytaine.

1cth into the Orkneys.

Now Kirke-

Claudius taketh the king. acys.

The doubt of Claulius go-Orkneys.

immediately byon the Ambalfadours returne, there were lent ouer into Fraunce certain intelli= genfaries to mone some conspiracie which had taken effect, by reason of the generall have of seruitude wherein the Romaines kepte the people fubicat to them in those vapes) if Guiverius had not beene constrayned to give battayle, and chaunced to be flaine in the fame ere the Gaulles coulde bee resolved uppon any determinate pur= Fraunce, caused the Gaulles to Stay they? intended rebellion. Shortly after Claudius hym= selfe came ouer into Baytayne, and recepuing the Beptapurs under his oversaunce, oedered things among them at his pleasure. And after preparing his name and armic with all purueps aunce convenient, her let forwarde towardes the Ales of Tikney, purpoling to conquere the same, for that they had apped the Biptapnes in these last warres agapust the Romaines. But 29 approching neare to those Isles, he was in dan= ger to have beene tast away by a tempest rysing by chaunce, euen as he was entered the Arcyte betwirt the Dikeneys and Dungsbie heade in Catenele called Picklande Frith: pet at length getting to lande, hee founde in that Ide where hee frast arrenco, no boose at home, all the people through feare byou the first light of the great multitude of Hippes beeing fled to hyde themsels

Claudius therefore leaving this Ide, palled into Pomonia the chiefest of all the Dykneys, where discomfitting suche as appeared abzode to make relistance, he belieged the king of these Iles named Ganus, within a Castel whither hee was withdrawne, and finally cauting him to pecloe himselfe visioner, lea him with other nobles of Bertavne (whome her had for pleages) buto Rome, the moze to fet forth the gloric of his tri= 40 of were readie to betenbe the Directie agagnife umph at his returne buto the Citie.

and mountagnes.

But whatfocuer Helfor Boctius and others write of this pallage of Claudius into the Dik= reps, it is not like that he came there at all, for if he Caped not walt.rbi. dapes in Biptapue, as by Dion Calsius. Wion Cassius it appeareth that her did not in deed how flould we preagen that he could both pacific the South partes of Byptayne, and after go into Dekney and conquere the lame mitim fo (mall a time, being readie to returne towarms Rome at the ende of those roj. dapes, as the fand Dion affirmeth? But this discourse have I made according to their owne Hilldries, teall Though feeme to defraude them of sobattoeirer atorbite in be gotten by errours, as the maner is of themas pose. This ouerthrowse beeing reported in 10 well as of other Pations, whiche to avigunce their antiquities and glorie of they auntetons. take the advantage oftentymes of wepters fram worthie of credite.

The Historie of Scotlande.

But nowe againe to our purpole Amiragia Amiragia being eftablished in the kingdome of Beptapne, akendin named Cloada, the filter of Caratake kind of the Scottill men, and marged one Benilla & Romaine Ladie, whiche afte manpe of the Bretapnes visallowed, the more in deede, by cause he had fapre issue alreadic by Cloada, as a sonne and two daughters. But this was done, as all men judged, by the counsell of Autus Plandius, thereby to breake all friendly and alliaunce betwift the Bzytayres and Scottes, to the ende that in no case of tivellion they thould joyne their ubmers togither.

Pritier vio he onely refuse Cloava, whom a itter knewe to be his lawfull wife. but allo can - Voids in ues in caues and denues amongell the rockes 30. led hir to be kept in prison, till that the Beptayns fence. (hauting indignation thereat) got hir out of the Voiding place where the was kept, and conneped hit into ucred ou Males togither with bir children.

. Wilith which vealing Aruiragus being highly Wile. nioued, determined with force of armes to punill) them that had thus miluled him : but percepuing that not onely those people which inhabited the Countrey, nowe called ditales, and other that adiogned on the Porth Marches thathis malice, he was farne to require appe of the Romaynes, who with their Captaine Inline Plandius allembling togyther with tuch of the Byptayns as toke part with Armianus, let we warde towarde the enimies, and towning with Aming them in battail, did give them the overtheon.

Timmet day after this bistopie thus gotten, moses was brought that the people inhabiting the countrys, which we now cal Lancaffire, grant the king and the Romaines, by reason whereof Truitagus and Indus Planetius withindictowards London, that besending the lea coaffes towards fraunce, they might pet haue the sea open at all tymes whatsoener chaunced.

us fem ouer for roo Legions of Souldiors into fanner, to come with all fperde to his apoe.

The Beytagnes who had gone so farre in the matter that they could not well without them= films, now being certifico of al their enimies Doings, thought belt to make themselues to strong as was politice. And to the enve that they might Proceeds in some oposity means, all the greatest or Holdes e effates affembled togither at Shiews they concluded bypon-a league to ayor one another with all their might and maine against the Romaines and Truiragus, who went aboute to bung them wholy buder fertile subjection and thisloome of the fame Romaines.

They beeing thus agreed to make warres in this quartil; and for the fame purpole to joyne there whole pupilance togither, there role a doubt wheme they mught choice for theyr generall Captaine, for that it was feared least there might 30 growe forne fecrete enuie amongelt, the Pobles being of equal power, if one flould be in this cale preferred before an other.

fer the anopoing of which mischiefe, by the trans admonition of one Comus, a noble man paledies of the parties of Meales, they accorded to lende 40- Mulengers buto Caratake the King of Scotlande, requiring him to avoe them in their right and infl quarcl against Arniragus and the Ro-Done to his lofter Ducene Moada, and hir iffue, whome the father throughe countable of the 180maines purpoled to disenherite, to the ende, fuche children as he had by Genissa Cfor that then were of the Romain bloud) might eniop the kingbome.

> They further declared, that all the Baptille Lordes, whiche were confederate in this enterpule, had cholen him by common affent to bee him to take it byon him, as their trust was hee would confidering the inst causes of their warre, and the furetie whiche by videocie gotten might their onto al the inhabitants of the whole Ale of Albion.

Caratake having hearde the fumme of their mid.and throughly waying the fame.promi= to them to be readic with his whole puillance in the beginning of the next spring, to come to they? apoc, buto what place foeuer they Moulde thinke expedient : and thereof bee tolde them, Gestlurg, and Parbillice, were op in armor a= _ they myght be most assured : wylling them in the meane time to to prouide for themselves, as they, enimpre myght have no advantage at their bandes.

Wilth this agreeable andwere the Bentille Mellengers returned unto Sprewelburie to And to reenforce their power, Aulus Plandi- 10 the confeverates, who reiogling at the newes, made providion against the next Spring to goe agapult the Romaines, in hope of good fuccille, fustfallpe throughe apoc of the Scottes and The Pictes Diffes, who also with there King called Con- ioyne with Scottes and koft were willing to helpe towardes the dely= Brytaynes, 4ueritic of the lande from bondage of the Ro- gival the maines, whose nellling so neare their notes, they were loth to fee or heare of.

So force therefore as the spring approched, burie, in those dayes called Cozimimum, where 20 all those three people, Brytaynes, Scottes, and Bittes, gathered they powers togither, and met in Pockellyze, in purpole to encounter with they enimpes in battaple, wherefoeuer they founde them. Arnipagus * Aulus Plandius baning know= koge of all the voings of the confederates, like= wose assembled their power, and comming towardes them, for a while forbare to copne in battaple, throughe countails of Plandius, who percepuing the most part of the Beptapnes and Scottes to be but name Souldiers, taken op of late to fil the numbers, knew that by protracting tyme they woulde be some out of heart, throughe -watching and euill harbozough, in such lost that in the ende they floulde be easie ynough to deale with : and even so it came to passe. For the Romaines refusing to fight a generall battayle, pet scoured so the fieldes on eche side abzode, that nepther the Beytapnes not Scottes coulde goe mames, whereby hee might reuenge the iniurie 40 forth any wayes for forrage or vittailes, but they The Bryraynes were stil snatched by, so that what through hun- awearied ger, lacke of fleepe, and other viceales, many of the through tra-Beptaynes began to conney themselves from the campe home to there houles, of whome lome beyong taken by the enimies, declared of the whole armic of the confederates was in great diffreste and fore enfectied by fuche bnaccustomed traunile and difentes as they were enforced buto in the campe. Wherebyon Arniragus and Aulus their general and chief leader, if it might lo please so Plantius determined the next day to give bate taile. Ind to in the morning they arrayed they? people and marched forth betymes towardes the can we of the confederates.

Caratake who (as pe bane hearde) was generall of all the confederates, inderstanding the give battail to enimits intent, was as readie to recepte batt the Brytaynes. tayle as they were to offer it: wherebyon there ensued right great and bunvercifull slaughter befroirt them on both partes without sparing at al tell fuch tinic as the right parted the frap, with suche lotte on exther side, that after they were Nige once got in fuber, neither part had ann haft afterwardes to ionne againe: to that in the morning there appeared none in the fields but onely the deade bodyes, those that were left aline as wel on the one part as the other being fled and feathered into the woodes and mountaines.

The Historie of Scotlande.

Caratake toto Carreto-

Ambaffadors are fent vnio Aulus Plan-mum.

Caratake his aniwere yeto the Ambai.

Truiragus and Planctus got them buto London: and Caratake commaunding his procaratake re-turneth home ple home ech man into 3.14 Countrey, he himselfe the Citye of Carrike. Wilhither Mortly after there came buto him Ambassavois from Aidus Planifius, sent to knowe upon what occasion Ciratake from heedid ande the Bintiste revelles against the Romaine Empree, declaring that if he woulde not be conformable to make a worthis amenors for so presumptuous an enterprise, he shoulde be fure to have the Romaines his enimics; and that in suche wife, as he Moulde percepue, it were than to above their enimitie. Derevnto Caratake answered, that he had just cause to bo that which he did. Confidening the imuries which his fister Cloads with hir son Euidenius had & mere luke to receive by their counsel & meanes: 4 therefore he was to little mynded to make any amendes for that was done, that he thought it more reason that the Romaines Moulde clearly auoyd

> The Romaine Ambassabors being returned with this answere, Plandius toke no small indignation therat, fore menacing to be revenued of fo high and cotumelious wordes pronounced a= gaynst the maiestic of the Romaine Emprie.

> out of the whole possession of Byrtaine, exther

the Bertapnes, as also the Scottes and wifes to be their perpetual enimies, and that onely for the chalenge of their auncient liberties & freedont.

About the same tyme Aruiragus boon frust concepted by forning his power with the other Arnings consederate Bertaynes to expulle the Romainis revolue quite out of the realme, and to to recover the entric estate revolting from the, fled unto Shiewlburie, where the lame time luch Beptifi Lordes as were entimies to the Romaines, were allembled againe in coulail, by whom Ituicagus was withdrive first towardes Porte, and after buto 30 recepted with great gladuelle (pe may be luce) of those Lordes, trusting by his meanes to have their force in maner poubled.

his wife Genilla being the lame lealon great Genille i with childe, twke such thought for this ecuolting wife of A of hir hulband, that trauayling besoze hir tyne, ragus die fle immediately dyed therewith.

But Aulus Plansfins percepuing now thorowly how little trust there was to be put in the A mile Beptapnes, dispatched a meffengerin all halle lent vas muche better for him to feeke their friendshippe, 40 with letters buto Claudius the Emperour, who dius the as then folourned at Rome, from fring but ohim Planchis in what dannaer the state of Bipfaine stove, if tymely providen were not the foner made.

Claudius waying the matter by good adule of countaile, orderned by decree of the Senate, that Clespasian (of whom ye have heard betope) Mould be lent hither with an armie to tame the prowde and lottle stomackes of the Brys taynes, with their confederates the Scottes and else they might assure themselves to have aswell 50 Pictes.

Elespasian herevoon departing from Rome, commet came into Fraunce, and encreasing is legions, to Byuy with a supplie of such solviers as be found there; palled ouer into this our Beytaine, where coils frame to the report which he had heard afore by comming he founde cuery fortresse so wel furniflied after y warlik ozder of the Romaine blagt; and moreover all fuche companies of mennt of warre as kept the field, to well appoynted and ordered, that he coulde not but much prayle the greate diligence and politike gouernment of Dlantius.

Powe when Elefpalian had a little refrelled his men, and taken order howe to proceede in the reducing of the Beytagnes to theye former obepience, he set forwarde towarde Aruiragus and other the enimies, whome he understode as then to be at Porke making their assemble, not gene= 10 tally of all that were able to beare a Clubbe, as they did the years befoze, but out of all parties a cholen number of pyked men were lent foz, as out of Denonshire and Cornewal there came fix thousande: forth of dolates and the marches rif. thousande, and the lyke number forth of Kendal, Welclimerlande, and Cumberlande. Dut of Dr= foldshire and other the partyes of Bzptapne subient unto Eruiragus, there came a.xxxv.thoulad. enery man beinging hyspeonision with him to scruc him foz two Monethes space. Unto the fame place came also Caratake with. rrr. thoulande Scottiste men : and Illothara otherwose called Tharan, king of the Pides, with almosts as many of his subicas.

Welpalian being certified still from tyme to tyme of all the voings of hys enimies, halted with all weede towardes them. And by the leading of trustie guydes comming to the place where they were encamped within a Warrishe grounde not palling.rij.mples from Porke, hee Vefpalianalfiercely upon a sodaine setteth upon them with ayleth the Brytaines in in their campe ere they thought that he had beene their campe. neare them. But yet notwythilanding they manfully stode to their defence : insomuch, that those in the right wing of the Romaines armie, were loke to haue beene distressed, if Tespalian percepuing the daunger, had not lent a Legion to their appe in trune, whereby the battaple was newly in that part restored.

The Cautapucs on cother fode did what they coulde to encourage their folkes to flicke to their Al which numbers affembled neare unto Porke, 20 fackle without giving over by any meanes, confivering what game came by victoric, and what losse ensued by recepting the ourthzow.

> The Beptaynes, Scottes, and Piffes, lyke enraged Lyons, ranne byyon the Romaines, tive with such cruel vesire of reuenge, that tuen when they were thrulf through boon the poynt of any wayon, they woulde runne fill buon the same, to come but o him that helde it, that they might require him with the like againe. But yet would ing bent to aduaunce the Romains unto the dominion of the whole worlde, thewed hir feife so faucurable unto them in this battaile, that in the mee, thoughe the Bertarnes with the confedirates did what lay in men to do foz attayning of vistogic, per were they beaten downe and flain. turne motiers sonne, a sewe onely except, which eccaped by flight.

Armragus freing the flaughter of his people, moulde have flaine himselfe, but that some of his feruantes carped hym by force out of the ficioe, that hee might bee preferued pet onto some better fortune.

not all that their sierce and vesperate hardinesse Caratake estaping by slight, sied into hys Caratake estaping by slight, sl ueting to line after such loss of his people, threw Tharan king away his armor with al his kingly ornaments, e of the Picter litting down vpon a stone, as a ma past himself, is flaine. was there flain by fuche as followed in the chafe.

Armiragus being conneped out of danger, and gotten into Porke, consodered howe by reason of this great discomfiture, it was bryoslible to resplitte Romaine puillaunce, and therefore to his former

Aruiragus

The Brytaynes

but yet deli-

Theirliwes

abrogated.

New lawes.

dignitie.

net news

hostages.

Messengers with consent of theresione of his Pobles that fent by Aini- were escaped from the vattaile, hee sent an He= ragus vinto Welfraffe with ralde binto Elespalian, offering to submit him= tubmission. selfe in moste humble wyse unto any reasonable conditions of peace and agreement. Wherebpon Clespalian comaunded that Truiragus flould in villate apparell come in buto him, for he would not talke of any peace, except he had Arniragus present, and therefore hee sent unto him his safe=

Aruiragus fecing no other remedie, came in cometa in en- unto Clespasian, according to his appointment, to Verpissan. and open his submission was pardoned of all his restore l'again trespasse, and placed againe in the kingdome.

The Cities and and townes also that were partakers in the rebellion, were in semblable well forginen without fining or other indenmi= are pardoned tie, and so likewise were all the Pobles of the Countrey. Dowbreit for the better assuraunce new hollanes.

The rauncient lawes also were abzogated, and the Romain lawes in their place established. For the administration of the whiche, in energe province was appointed a Romaine judge to fre and orders observed according to the fourme thereof. By which meanes the Bzytishenation efficiency returned buto his former obedience of the Romain Emprie.

all the winter following, Welpalian lave at Porke, making his apprelles againste the nerte fpring to go against the Scottes and Pictes. So conduct to affure him fafe both to come and goe. 10 fone therefore as the Sommer was come, Clefpalian letteth forward with his armie, and entering into the marches of his enimics, hee did but them in such feare, that the Pides were glad to reeld themselves buto him, a few of the nobles & forme other except, which were withdrawne into Camelon, in hope through strength of that town to defend themselves from all assaultes.

Clespalian being certified therof, came and befieged them within the same city, not minding to Camelon's. of their localtic in tyme to come, they delynered 20 depart till he had them at his pleasure. This liege lieged by cotinued til they within being in dager to famish Velpatian. through want of vittailes, furrendeed themselves Camelon with the towns into Uespalians handes.

rendred.

The kings re-

In this towns were tounde all the regall oz= gal ornaments naments: as the crowne, and swords, with 0= taken. ther rewels velonging to the bings of the Piffes. The finders baining the heft of gelde, and a purple scabbarde verie fynide wjought and trim= med, Clespasian vied to weare in all the warres wherein he afterwardes chaunced to bee, in hope to follow thereof.

> The Princip Lord's which were within Camelon, force commanded to believe pleages: and after liefeed to bepart without any other domage

Clefpafian binifelte remarning at Camelen, Come lon peo- twic order for the peopling of the towns with Romaines, graunting them the vic of the libertres and privileges which the Romaines inhas bitng in Rome enioped.

Also oner agayust the towns opon the banks also oner against the fowne opon the value of the Ryucr of Carone, he buylded a Temple, This was in honour of the Emperour Claudius, wherein Colchaier he lette by two Images, the one representing the Brillian Claudius, and the other the Goddeffe Hinoria. recisdo gela delhilest he was thus occupied, tidings came Frannot tell of what god luccelle and lucke 50 to him, that Caratake king of the Scottil men Carake had assembled in Galloway, a great armie of semblet Scottes, Pictes and Beptagnes, in purpole to come agaruft the Romaines, to reuenge the laft ouerthzow. Telhervpon Telpalian with al fpeede fent forth a ftrong power under the leaving of planting Lulus Plancius to encounter the enimies. fentente

Plandius bring approched within foure miles an amie of them, encamped himsels in a strong place, gryph Co. Ciespalian with the residue of his whole puil= fince were come to his ayde. Peuerthelelle night mas no fonce come on, but that her gaue genetail commaundement through his hoft, that enc= ne man fhoulde make him readie to depart at a certaine houre under the Standarts of their caps tarnes in order of vattaile. And fo in the fecond watche of the night, he let forwarde, following certaine gurdes, which knew all the strapts and 10 Scottes with the Pices, and suche Beptapues

as thoughe hee minded not to passe further, tyll pallages of the countrep) till he came to the place where Caratake with his armie was lodged: and first killing the watche that stode to defende his Plancius setentrance, till the armie was rayled, he let upon Scottish camp. the whole campe, and though he founde suche refishaunce, that the battaile continued right fierce and cruell from the dawning of the daye, tyll it was highe Pone, yet in the inde the victozic remarked with the Romaines, and the fed. Caratake escaping out of the battaile, fled Dio- into Trayle, and got him to the Castel of Dun-Dructle of the Bertarnes and Dides which as not had not submitted themselves, were put in fuch dread through brute of this ouerthrow, that immediately therebyon they came in and yeclded themselves buto Elespasian. Ind in sem= blable wife the people of Galloway utterly dyle: ganuft Plandius (who was nowe entered inta their confines, and had taken the Citic of Carricke offered to become subjectes buto the Romaines, which they might never be brought bu= to before that tyme.

These newes being certified bnto Uespalian by a Purceuaunt, he rove streight wayes buto Carrike, and there recepted the other of the nobles, and other the inhabitants of the countrep.

That done, he fent Ambassadours buto Ca= 50 ratake, to trie if he might personade bing by any meanes to become friends buto the Romaine Cuppie, in acknowledging some maner of subiemon therebuto: but this device was to finall purpole, for Caratake was determined rather to the irs lufe as a free Scottiste man in define of libertie, than to become theall onto any tomagne Nation, in hove to live long tyme in as were on their parte, put to flight and that 30 feruitude, doubting least if he came any waves forth within the daunger of the Romaines, they woulde blurve the whole dominion but othem=

Whole mynde when Welpalian buterstwde by his answer made to the Ambassadours which were fent buto him, he was minded to have gone with an armie onto Dunttafage where Caratake lay, but that he was infournicd what daun= gerous passages he must marche through, all full parting longer to defende they? Countrey a= 40 of defart Mountapnes, bogges and quantingles, without any provision of vitailes or forrage to be found by all the way as the army thould passe.

Leaving therefore this enterpryle, hee caus fed so many besselles to be assembled, as coulde bee provided on all partes, purvoling to have passed over into the Ide of Man, into the which there were gotten togither a great lost of Bertapnes and Pictes, that had escaped the Romaines bandes. But this journey was also broken by an other incident, for even the same tyme The Isle of newes were broughte that the Bertagnes of Wight rethe Ile of Wlyght, with the Bentilly men, and bellerh. diuctle other the inhabitantes bypon the South coast, were revolted, and had flaine diverse Box maines, which lay in garifous in those partes.

Tlespassan therefore mynding to cure thys wounde ere it should throughly fester, hasted this peaseth the ther with al speed, a with little a do pacifying the Rebeller.

C.iii. rebellez.

Velpalian returnerly to

Rome.

reveller, caused the chiefe offenders to be punished in his respect according to their deserts.

Shortly after being lent for by the Empe= rour Claudius, hee returned unto Rome with great glorie for his noble and high atchieucd victoxics. Julus Plandius was left in charge with the concernment of Bertapne after Clessalians departure: who hearing that Caratake had af-Planching les fembled a great armie of Scottes and other fuch " gouercon. Beptaynes and Pices as had not yet submitted themselves unto the Romains, in purpose to re- planting product agains those Countreys which Cicipalian pareth to me had lately coquered, he like wile prepared to meete the Scotter. them, to that both the armies encountering togi=

through polithe Scottish men.

ther, there was foughte a righte terrible battaile The Romain, with great flaughter on both partyes, tyll fis 30 blage of the Romaines in those dayes, the allies nally the victorie enclyning to the Romaines, more throughe skilfull policie than puissaunt force, the Scottes, Pittes, and Byrtapues were discomfited and chased into the bogges and manshes, the common refuge in those dayes for the Scottes, when by any adventure they chaunced to be put to flight.

After this overtheorde the warre was continued for a two yeares space by rodes and incursions, made one oppon another in the con- 40 lage in Merne, fine miles distant from Aberdine fines of Kyle and Galloway. In whiche meane tome Planifius fell sicke of the Flire, robiche styll continuing with hymi, brought hrm at length in suche case, that he was not able to tranaple at all in the publishe affapres of hys office. So that hee wrote his Letters bn= to the Emperour Claudius, signifying buto him in what case her stode, and therebyon required that some sufficient personage might bee sent to occupie his rome.

Claudius hauing recepued his Letters, and processanding the effect of the same, sente one Odorius Sca- Oftozius Scapula, a man of highe lynage, and of and experience both in peace and warre, to have the governance in Birtapuc.

About the truce of whole arruall into Bip-Aulus Planc- tapme, Aulus Planctius departed out of thys morlds at Camelon, where bee then forourned.

Hys bodye was burned, and according to the were closed in a Cheft, and burged within the Thevisees Church of Claudius and Clistoria, which (as is moog son fayde Clespasian buyloed neare wnto Camelon, to burne the decide bodies buon the River five there. Hercof was a cultome taken by amongli both Scottes and Pides, as forme thinke, to burne the bodies of the deade, and to burie the ashes. Colhercof there hath beene founde dinerse tokens and monuments in thys our age. Is in the yeare 1521. at Findour a vilthere were founde in an olde grave two Chelles of a straunge making ful of ashes, either of them bring engrauen with Romaine letters, whiche fo some as they were brought into the agre, fell to dust. Likewise in the fieldes of an other town called Kenvacken in Marre a ten myles distant from Abcropne, about the same tyme were found by certaine Ploughmen two Sepulches made of cut and squared stones, wherein were a some 50 Chelles, of workenianshippe, bignesse and infcription lyke to the other two. Many the femblable monumentes have beene founde in diverte places in Scotlande in tymes patt: but it is to be thought, that in these Semiltures there were Romannes burned, and neyther Scottes not Piffes.

But nowe to our purpole. Immediately ope pon the comming of Offorius into Brytagne, Callomay, and all the pittes to doe the like. They fent also buto Caratake, requizing him in this common quarell agaynst the Romaines to put to his helping hande for recourrie of the cunng the Potthien men with the Scottes of suncient libertie of the whole lande of Albion, confidering it was like they floulde matche well viough with this new Romain captaine Offo= ners and plages of the Baptapnes.

the people of the well Countreys rebelled, pro-

But this notwithstanding, Dstozius beeing enformed of all these practiles, and remembring what furtheraunce it were for a captaine in the bearming to win a name by some yearse wolthy enterptile, he made first towards the western The Brytayns Baytagnes, whome he thought to surpaile ere part are chased they should assemble with the other rebels, and fo meeting with them, he chased and toke a great number of them as they fled here and there, out of all oeder.

Ifter this, he went agaynst the people called Iceni. Iceni, which as some think inhabited the Coun- Oxfordshire tius Scapula, that understwe little of the ma= 10 trey nome called Orfordsire, but others take is affryled. them to bee Douttolke men, who beeing gathe= Iceni to bethe red togitizer, were gotten into a strong place, en= Norffolk men closed about with a great ditche, as they be to fence pasture grounds, that no Horsemen should breakens opon them: vet this not with standing. Closius affayled them within their frength. and in the ende breaking downe the rampper. with fuche ande as he had, built in at length a= mongst them, sleaing and faking the most part 30 With which insurie Caratake being not a little Caratake afortham: for few or none escaped, they were so kindled, he assembled a mighty army, wherein he sembleth an kert in on eche side. But of this battaile, and like= wife of other enterprises which Offorius and other of the Romaine Lieutenants atchieued here in Bartapue, ve that find moze thereof in the hy= flore of Englande according to the true report of the Romaine wepters, the which verily make 113 mention either of Scottes or Pickes toll the peare of our Lorde 320. at the somest. And as Pellor Boctius fo farre Porthwarde, it is eui= dently moned by Humfrey Lluyd and others, that they inhabited Countreys conteyned nowe watein the lympttes of Englande. The lyke pe haue to understande of the ordonices where Caratage gouerned as king, and not in Carricke, as to the well admiled Reader I doubt not but it may sufficiently appeare, as well in the vesteription as lipitozie of Englande afozelayde.

But nowe to returne where wee lefte: 50 enter. the bante of this late victorie quieted the bulle mrubes of fuch other of the Bzytaynes, as were redie to have renolted. But they of Galloway woulde not at the fyell give over, but in truit of ands at the handes of Caratake continuto in them rebellion, till Offozius came thy= ther, and beate downe suche as made resp-Caunce, whereby the other were some pacifyed.

After this he entered into the confines of Bile Kile and Canand Cantyre, spoyling and walting those coun- tyre wasted treps, and brought from thence a great number and spoyled. of captives; had at the least. rl. thousand me, what of his own armie. subicity of other such as came to his ande. For atter he was entered into Pictland, there came buto him out of all parties no small number, of fuch as defired either to be reuenged on the Romains. either else to lose life and libertie both at once, for the tast of bondage was so, bitter buto all the inhabitants of Albion in this lealon, that they in for the Silures and Brygantes removed by 40 maner were wholy conspired togither to remove that poke of the aloom from their Moulders which so painfully vinched them.

Caratake thus furnified with an armie, choic The Arength forth a strong place to longe in, senced on the one of the place and on the other fides it mighte not her annea-camped. thed unto for the licepenelle of the cragges and Of this matter fuch fencing as they had made with great sto- ye may reade nes, in places where there was any easie way to lande.

Ill luche women as were somewhat less Women esin age, and came thither with them, in greate camped. numbers, were by Caratake placed on cyther lyde hys battaples, both as well to encourage the men to doe valiauntly with flowting and hallowing buto them, as also to assayle the Ros Women plamaines with stones as they should approache, ced in order. Other suche as were your and lustie, were of battayle.

pulars feat in-

Planctius fal-

40

appointed to keepe aray amongest the men to tight in the battaile.

Caratake having thus ordered his fielde, and Caratake and hearing that Oftozius was come to giue battail, he exhalted his people to flicke to it like men, and continent foin semblable wise did all his Captagnes and Sergeantes of the bandes, going from ranke to ranke to encourage their Souldiers, declaring howe that thys was the armie that must eyther being libertie of thealdome to them and there po= 10 ffancie. steritie for eucr.

On the other part, Offozius minding to trie

the matter by battaile, lette his people in araye Offorius en. after the auncient maner of the Romaines, wil- Romaines. ling them to confider that they were discended of those parents and auncetours whiche had subdued the whole worlde: and againe, that those with whome they should now matche, were but naked people, fighting more with a certapne maner of a furious rage and a disordered violence, than with anye polityke discretion of con-

Herewith upon commaundement given on both partes, the battaile began right bote, and for the Romains. His Queene was taken.

a god space verie voubtfull, till the practifed Caratake over knowledge of the Romaines vanquilled the furious violence of the Scottes, Piffes, and Bye tapnes: who being put to flight, fledde into the Sountagnes to cleave the chimies handes, who purfued them most egrely.

Amongeit other of the prisoners there was taken Caratakes wife, with his daughter and Caratake be- brethren. De himfelfe flevde for fuccour onto his stepmother Cartiniandua:but as aduerlitic fin- 40 Carricke and Cunningham. beth fewe friends, file caused him to be taken and delivered buto Efforius.

This was in the ninth yeare after the beginning of the warres.

Mogius vico him verie honourably, accozring to the degree of a king: Finally he lent him onto Rome, together with his wyfe, his daughter, and beetheen. typs fame was suche through all places, that where hee passed by, the people they had bearde for muche report for his stoute relistannee made to long a time against the Ros maine pullance.

At his comming to Rame her was shewed in tryumphe, all the people being called to the is mewed in fight: for the victorie and apprehension of him in a triumph. Was moged equall with anive other atchiened enterpaple agaynst whatsomer the most puissant enimies of former tyme.

The Emperour Claudius bppon respekte as was thought of his Princely behaviour and fored to hotifyed valiancie, restored hym to libertye, bertie. and recepting hys daughter and elvest brother at Rome as pleoges, vpon his othe receputo to bre a true fubicit unto the Empyze, he fent him home into his Countrey againe, alligning buto hym the gourrnance of Galloway, with Kile, the lyned not palling a two yeares after bys returne into Scotlande, studying most chiesily Caratale deputed buring that typic howe to preserve hys people this like. in prace and quietnelle. Her beparted thes woulde one and twentic yearts after the deceasse of hys uncle Metellane, in the yeare of our L0108.54.

A little before hys falling into the handes of the Romaines, there were simblye fraunge scrauoge came flocking in on ech lyde to see him, of whom 50 syghtes seene in Albion, as fighting of horse sightes less menne abzoade in the fieldes, with greate flanghter, as seemed on bothe parties: and forthwith the same so vanished aware, that no appearaunce of them coulde any where bee nercepued.

Also a fort of Colwlucs in the night season set byon luche as were keeping cattaple absoade in the fieldes, and caried away one of them to the modes, & in the morning fuffred him to cleape from amongst them againe.

was restored to his libertic and countrey, all was interpreted to the best.

Mfter Caratakes decease his youn= ger brother Corbreide ccede in his place, in the. lbiij. peare after Christe, for his elder brother was departed at Rome throughe chaunge of aire not a= greable to his nature.

This Corberto was a foute ma of Comake, much resembling his brother Caratake. In the to purge his dominion of luche as troubled the quiet state thereof by robbing & spoyling the hus= tande men and other the meaner people of the contrer, of the which robbers there was no small number in those dayes, specially in the westerne Alles, also in Rosse and Catnese.

In the meane time the Pilkes having created there a newe king called Conkilt, governous of Mers & Lothian, they fet vuon the Romains The Pictes being aboute to make fostrelles in those parties. gainst the Ro-And but that succours came in time from the mains. next Townes and Caltels adiopning, they had flaine all the whole number of them, and vet av= ded as they were, the mailter of the campe, and eight other of the captaines, with diners officers of bands, belide common fouldiers, lost their loues there.

Shortly after allo, the same Picks ouerthrew The Pickes oa number of foreagers with suche companies of verthrow the Romaine forhorlemen as came to defende them. ragers.

Herrwith Offorius being not a little moued. made ready his bandes, and fiercely encountred Offerius enwith the Pictes, who defended themselves so vi= countreth the gozoully, that the foze warde of the Romains was neare hande discomfited. Whiche daunger Difozius perceining, speedily came to relieve the Offorius is fame, but preasting to farre amout his enimies, wounded. he was fore wounded, and in greate daunger to have bene flaine. The night comming byon parted the frave, not without huge flaughter on both vartes.

After this, the warre continued still betwirte them with often incurlious and skirmishes. It length the Piacs with suche other Bertains as were come unto them out of the Alle of Man & other parties, encountred with the Romains in The Romains battayle, and byon the firste iopning, of purpose trayned forth put the people 30 gaue backe, trayning some of the Romains to and so diffrespurfue them buto fuche places, where they had fed. lapde they ambufles, and so compassing them about, sewe a great number of them, and chased the relidue into the straptes of the mountaines. where they were also surpepled by suche of the Pices as returned from the battaple.

Offorius bnderstanding how the mater wet, withdrive with the refle of his people buto his campe: and thortly after fent a Durceuant buto was chosen to suc= 40 Rome, to ensozine the Emperour in what state things stode in Beytaine, by reason of this rebellion of the Pickes, who neyther by force nor gentle perswalions could be pacified.

The Emperour determining to viouide re= medie therfoze, lent worde againe that he would not that the Pictes shoulde be eftsones recepued bpon they? submission, if they were driven to make supte for paroon, but betterly to be destroyed and exterminated. For the accomplishment full beginning of his raigne he did his endeuour 50 whereof, he appoynted two legions of suche men of warre as soiourned in Fraunce to passe over into Bertaine.

But in the meane whyle Diforius departed Offorius dierh this worlde, whether of his hurtes as the Scottille chronicles make mention, or through lick= nesse as spoulde rather seeme by Coenclius Tacitus, it forceth not.

After whole veceale Manlius Clateus hav C.v.

siegmother.

Caratake is fent viito Rome.

the chiefest charge, who bringing his army fouth to encounter the Pittes that came to feeke battell was fiercely fought withall. Potwithstaving the victory had abide on his lide, if at the very point there had not come fuccours to the Dicks, that is to witte) inj. C. hozsemen out of the countrey of Kendall, by whole fresh onlet the Romains were discosited and chased but other The Romains, there being slayne aboue.iij.thousande of are discosite by the Pid them at that overtheowe, and on the pickes fibe there wanted a five thousande of they numbers at the least.

Bry taine.

About the fame time there arrived in Bertain an other Romain captains to be general in place Aulus Di lius of Offornus nom decealed, his name was Aulus 20 Thele newes put the Herauld in no final danns commeth into Divius. With him came the.ij.legions afozere= medico. It his first coming over he mustered the old crows of the Romaine fouldiers first, much blaming them for their negligence in luffering the enimies to to encrease boothem, to the great paunger of losling all that, through flouth and farntnesse of courage) whiche lately befoze in Birtaine had bene wonne and coquered by high prowes and valiant coduct of his predecessours. In the ende he exhorted them to put away all 30 before. This Wenusius was of councell with his feare, and fully to determine with themselves, to recover agains the honour which they had lately lost which he savde would easily be brought to palle, if they would take unto them manful flos makes, and obey him and fuche other as had the governaunce and leading of them.

The Wiftes being enformed that this Julus Divins was arrived with this newe supplie of men, and perpared to come against them, they The Prites fent thought good to fende unto Copheede king of 40 with certains of his kinffolkes, and layed them to the Scotte, Scotlad to require his and against the Romains reputed as commune enimies to ai fuch as loued libertie, and hated to line in service bondage.

For whicherespect Corbrade was the sonce moued to codificend buto prequelt of the Pints: a theropo affembling an armie entred into Galloman. Colhercof Inlus Divius being certified, fent an Peraulde unto him with all speede, com= manding that he flould depart out of those quarters, little ber had no right there, confidering that so and the Romains in hope of god incerte, to that Gallowar was affigued unto Caratake but for terms of his own life, by force of the Emperours graunt, and now by the death of the same Caratake was renerted againe unto the Empire.

The Deraulde had brineath done his message Ceius Nusco when wordt came unto Corbierde how an arentre i wit can mit of the Romains under the guiding of Jafim reside than entred into b marches of Galloway to the great terrour of all the inhabitants, doubting to be spoyled and robbed on eche hande. ger of his life, had not Corbride upon regarde to the law of armes licenced him to beparte.

The holic which Corbreio brought with him into Galloway, he bestowed in castels and foz= treffes abrode in the countrep, for more laterard, but he himselfe rode in all haste bnto Epiake, to have the aduite and of one Tenulius, that had venulius is maried the forenamed Cartiniandua that bu- husbande of kind stepmother of Caratake, as ye have hearde Cartinacia wife Cartimandua in the betraying of king Caratake, therfore was growen into much hatred of the people for that facte, but through support of the Romains he was for a time defended from all their malices. Portwithstanding in the ende venusius being awcried of the proude gouernment of the wolteth. Romains, he renolted fro them unto Cozbzeide. delherewith his wife being offended, founde meanes to apprehend bothe him and his brethem fall in person.

But nowe Cozbzeide at his coming thither, Carrimant did not onely fet them at libertie, but also tokes is buried quicke. caused Cartimandua to be buried quicke.

In the meane while a certaine number of Scottes distressed a feine foragers of the Romains, but following the chalc formwhat raility; they were enclosed by the enimies and slayne. Chis mischaunce put the Scots in great feare, Palica was in purpole to have affapled a cmtaine frog place, wherin a numbre of the Scottill) me were gotten, a had fortified f entties, had not other newes altered his purpole: for hearying howe an other armie of the Scottes was toyned with the Pickes, and were approched within a three meles of him, hee brought his holte forth into a playine where hee officed his battaples The Historie of Scotlande.

ready to recognic the . Whereof the Scottish men hanning knowledge, hasted forth towardes him, amereno foner come in fight of the Romains, but that with great violence they gave the onlet, most fiercely beginning the battaile, which conthuce till funce fetting with great flaughter on toric fides: It what time the Romains were at the point to have discomfitted they renimics, had not those Scottiffmen (whiche were left in fozat that selfe instant to the ayor of their sellowes. by whose meanes the battails was renewed agame, whiche lasted till that mirke night parted them in lunder. The Romains withdrewe to there campe, and the Scottes and Dides gotte them by into the mountagnes.

shortly after a peace was concluded betwirt the parties, with these conditions: that the 1Ro= mains flould content tipffelues with that which lat warres, and lufter Coebscide to eniove all fuche countreys as his brother Caratake helde. Indlikewise the Pius paping they? former tri= tute for the finding of suche garifons of Romains as lay at Camelone, they floulde be no further charged with any other exactios. More our it was acreed, that neither the Scottes noz Prites from thence forth fould recepue or fuc= cour and revelles of French men or Bestains. inhabitantes of the Ide of Man, who had done many notable displeasures to the Romains during the last warres.

This peace continued a.bi. yeares during the life of Julus Didius, who at the end of those bi. praces, departed this life at London, leaving be= hande him all things in good quiet.

After his deceasse the Emperour Pero who lucceeded Claudius, appointed one Ucrannius tious and muche defirous of honour, by meanes wherof, in hope to aduaunce his name, he fought occasios to have warres with the Scottilly men: Ind at length hearing that certaine of them being borderers had fetched boties out of Picte land, he fent a great power of Romains to make arode into the nexte Marches of the Scottes, from whence they brought a great spoyle, bothe of men and godes.

ned, fought daply in semblable sozte to be revenged, so that by suche meanes the warre was renawa. But before any notable encounter chauted betwirte them, Elerannius died. His tafte www.dcs were full of ambitious boaltes, willing to have lived but two yeares longer, that hee unght have subduce the whole Ale of Albion Inisthe Komaine Emppre, as if he might hane had so muche trine he doubted not to have done.

Panlinus Suctonius succeeded in his place, Paulious Suca man of an excellent witte and very delirous of tonius. peace. De first costraicd the auncient league with Corbreide king of Scotlande: a recompence being made in enery behalfe for all wrongs and iniuries done on cyther parte.

After this, as Dector Boetius hath gathered) Anglesey and he conquered the Ale of Man: but for asinuche thus invaded reales as is layde abroade in the country, come 10 as by probable realons it is apparant mough by Succonius. that it was not Man, but the Ide of Anglesev whiche the Brytaines name Mon, and at this time was subdued by Suctonius, wer have here omitted to make report thereof, referring you to the place in the Englishe chronicle, where wee have woken sufficiently after what sorte Suctonius bothe attempted and atchieued this enterprife, whiche being brought to ende, he was sent for into Ballia, to represse certaine tumults ray= they had in possession before the beginning of these 20 sed among the people there. In whose absence the Beptaines thinking to have a meete time to their purpole, moved a new rebellion, but by the relation of Cornelius Tacitus, this chaunced whilest Suctonius was busie in conquering the Alle of Anglescy, as in the English chronicle it likewise appeareth, with the straunge sightes and wonders whiche happened about the came time, wherespon the Sothlapers (as Hector Boetius hath declared that the Romains should recepte not floulde ande by any maner of meanes the 20 a great overthrow. Ulton trufte of whole words the Pictes and other Beptaines inhabiting in The Scots and Camelone and in the Marches thereaboutes, let pictes kill the vpon fuche Romains as inhabited there, Tlewe Romains. a great many of them ere they were in voubte of any rebellion. The relious whiche escaped gotte them into an old churche. Where they were flaine eche mothers forme.

Alto Detus Cerialis comming with a legion Petus Cerialis of fortemen and a twoupe of hoglemen to thep; his men being to be licutenant of Beytaine, a man very ambi= 40 fuctours, was encountred by the Pides, and be-flaine recuring put to flight, lotterall his sweemen, haroly cleaning himselfe with the horsemen to the cape. Shortly after he toke bu his tentes and returned towardes Kent, where Catus the procuratour Carus the proor receputer as I may eall him of Brytaine as curatour of then soid med, who buderstanding howe the into Fraunce. whole Ale was on eache live in an byzoze; fled ouer into fraunce then called Ballia.

This meane while Ducene Cloada fent bitto Queene Vorda Clitin which iniuries the Scottes being mo= 50 hyt brother Corbreibe king of Scotland, requis delireth ayde ring his apoe against the Romains, who had to Corbreide. tricly bled the and her boughters, to the greate diffionour of hyr and all hyr linage, and nowe was the time to be revenged of fuch injuries the whole nation of the Beptains through the conetons dealing of the procuratour Catus being rilen in armes to recover thep? ancient liberties.

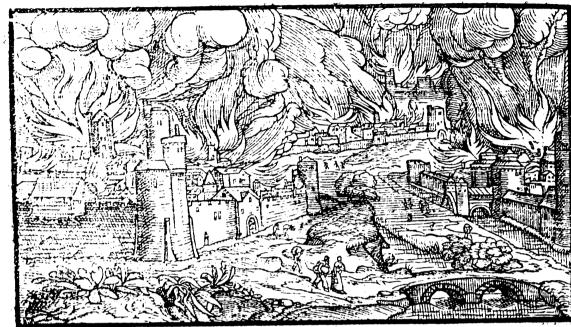

Eorberide being highly displeased towardes

The Historie of Scotlande.

the Romains for peutl intreating of his Siller, determined either to fee hyr fantiaed by worthie recompence, or classo be reuenged on them that had milused hrz. End hereof gaue signification buto Catus the procuratour that was as then returned into Biptaine with a power of men of

Coedicide recepuing but a scouncful answere

from him, found meanes to joyne in league with Chiran-Charanat king of the Pictes, and gathering to- king of the aither a mightie armie of one and other, pursuch the Romains and their affociates, flaping poing a monderfull number of them. De also brennen and destroyed divers townes, suche as in keeping their allegiance to the Romains, flode earnefly The Roma to their defence as Barwike & Carlile with other, daige, Aboute the same season there arrived in the Darchmen ar- Frithe a number of Dutche thips, fraught with prople of Merherne og Mozonia, a regió in Ber= 30 pon, to beithe first that should gine the onset. manie situate berwirt Boheme and Hungarie. They were driven out of they, owne country by the Romains, and affembling togither under a famous captaine named Robertke, came boton to the mouth of & Rhine, where making hift for bessels, they twice the seas to leke them some new habitations : and thus arriung in Picke lande, were jorfully recepued of the Piffes and Scots, for that they were reputed right valiant men, # glad to reuenge thepe owne iniuries against the 40 his ayde forth of Gallia nowe called Fraunce. Romains. Pamely with the Pickes they were much effectived, for that they came forth of the same countrey from whence there auncetours were discended.

Merhernes

There have bodies and mightie limmes did were men or greatly commismo them in the light of all men before whom they mustered, to that comming to the place where the kings of Scottes and Picks were encaped with their people ready to marche fourth towardes the enunies, they were highly so taines having atchieued this victory, purfued welcomed and upon they, offer recepued into companie and appointed to goe fouth in that iourner, in arde of Ducene Cloada against the Romains.

Women come queene in ar-

Celith this Toaba was assembled a mightie hoste of the Bartains: amongst whome were a v.99, women, wholy bent to revenge the villanies done to they; persons by the Romains, or to die in the payne. And for this purpose were they come well appointed with armor and wea-

Cloada hearing of hyz brothers approch with the king of Pittes and their armies, met them on the way accompanied with a greate number of the Pobles of Bertaine, and beought them to hyz campe with great joy and triumphe.

After taking aduile how to behaue themselves in there enterpaise, they thought it good to make halte to fight with the Brocuratour Catus, ere ann new power of men of warre might come to Wherebyon marchyng towardes him, they met togither in the fielde, where betwirte them was striken a right sierce and cruel battayleibut in the are put to ende the holdemen of the Romains, parte being flight and first put to light, the fateme were beaten bowne ueribrowe on eache live: Catus himselfe beyng wounded Citus wis escaped hery hardly by flight, and though after wounded. got him ouer into Fraunce.

The Scottes and Dids with other the Bretheir enimies fro place to place, to that there view by the Cowyd. what in the bataple and els where 70000. Ro in the chale a.lrr. 29. Romains 4 other Hearing and 3000 gers which ferued amongst them, and of scots, Bywas Pides, and other Byrtaynes, were Akine. rir. thousands.

The Courmour Suctonius being then in Gallia, hearing of this ouerthrow, and in what runger things flode in Byptapue, by reason of the faire, came over with two Legions of foultions and .r. thousands of other Bygants , as anders to those Argions.

Cleada the Queene understanding his armuall affembled agains hir people, and fent unto the Scottes and Pilles to come to hir ayde: who regither with the Moranians came with all speeds but ohir. Wilhen they were thus assembled, Beptapnes, Scottes, Pides and Moeauians on one part, and Romaines with they? aydes on the other, they marched forth to encounter together with deliberate inpudes to trie the matter by dynt of fivoid, being earnefily ex= hosted thereo by they a quernours on either five. So that isyning puissance against puissance.

they fought a right cruell battaile, manye in the beginning being flaine and borne downe on both fides. But in the ende the victoric abode with the Romaines, the Bzytaynes worth other were flaine of them at the point of a.lrrr.thous finds persons as Tacitus toepteth. The more part of the Mozaulans, togither with their cap= taine Roberike were in that number. Moada the Queene doubting to come into the handes of hir cumes, flue hir felf. Two of hit daughters were taken puloners, and brought armed even as they were founde fighting in the batteile, bnto Sur-

The eldest of them within a frive monethes 40 after was marged buto a noble, Romaine named Marius, who had defloured hir befoze time. he was also created king of Britaine by the Comperours authoritie, that thereby the state of the Countrey might bee reduced onto a better quit. He bled to lie most an ende in the partyes C Tempale, and named a part thereof (where he policy the most eparts of his tyme altogither in hunting Edlestmerlande, after his orone name, expulsed, a postion of the same adiogning nexte to the Scottes, was called Cumberlande.

The Popaulans which escaped from the dis comfiner, had that postion of Scotlande allignot forth buto them to inhabite in, that lyeth be= Witth Rivers of Tome and Spey, called eun unto this day Mourrey lande.

Corbierd bring thus overthrowne, and has uing his power greatly infeebled thereby, passed the refidue of his life in quietnelle t. For the ikomaines being troubled with civill warres, neoled neither with the Scottes nor Biffes, but onthe Albians were chased out of the fielde. There 30 ly fluvied to keepe the south partes of Bzytayne in due obedience. Prin Charle

> Finally Corbreyd departed this worlde, afe Corbreid dead ter he had raigned a .xxxiiij:peares, and was bus ried amongst his elders neare buto Dunstafage, Anno Christi. with many obelifies fet by about him.

Alfter Cor- Darceved one Dar dan dan his huge stature was after warde furnamed the great. he was innes ally descenden from Metel= lane, who was his great grandfather.

The Pobles and Commons of the Realme shole him to their king, onely for the good opithough afterwardes, when the Romaines were so mon they had concepued of him in his predecelfours dapes, by whome he was had in great clifmation, and had atchieued buder him manne worthic enterpiles, so that he was thought most meetell for the come, confidering the forince of Corbreyd were not as pet come to ripe peares to enion the lame. For the layer Corbrevo had three Corbreve hisfonnes in all, Cozbrevo, Tulcane, and Breeke. three fonnes, The clock had beene brought op with Woada, leth into all kind of vices.

Duccus

Queene of the Beptains, whereby he had learned the mancrs & viages of the Beyttill) natio, and thereupon was furnamed Galde: for fo the Scottill nich vic euen onto this day to name a= ny of they? owne countrey men that hath lear= ned the courtefic and manners of straunge countreps. But to returne to Dardane, in the beginning of his raigne he gouerned the estate by god indifferent iustice, but after he had cotinued ther= Dardane fal- in by the space of two yeares, he began to fall in= 10 to all kinds of vices, removing from offices such as were byzight bearers of themselves in the fame, and aduancing to their places bypbers and ertolcioners.

The nobles he had in suspect, fauouring onely suche as through flatterie were by him prefer= red: And where he was drowned beyond all the termes of honestie in fleshly and sensual lust, pet was his conetousnesse so great, that all was to little which he might lay handes vpon. He also put to ocath diners honozable perso= way the Sonnes of his predecessour Corbreide, but his trapterous practife being viscloste, the moste parte of the Pobles and commons of the beating downe all suche as made resistance, they gotte that cruell treant Darbane into their handes, and beinging him fweth before the multitude, they caused his heade to bee openly Aris

His cosin Car- nages, suche as hee perceyued to grutche at his derus & other doings. Het likewise purposed to haue made a=

The commos

Realme revelled against bim, and sending for Corbreide Galoe the elvest sonne of the former Corbector, remapping as then in the The of Man, where bee Moulde haue bene murthered) 20 they chose him to their king. And at length

Dardane is

This was the lirry, peare after the birth of 75. H. P. our Samour, bring the firfe of the Emperour 6. of Velpa- Domitian, and the fourth complete of his owne fian. H. B. raygne ouer the Scottill men.

Propriete Galde Corbre being thus chosen (as I have sayoe) to Galde fucceede in the government of Scotland afd ter Dardane, is called by Cornelius Tacitus Galdus ort Balgacus, a prynce of wife called conscly personage, and a scotte be of right noble porte. In Brytaine at the first beginning of ther chinke his raygne he punished suche as had bene furthe = him in Edge rers of his predecessours milgouernment, and afterwardes her passed ouer into the Westerne Alles, where he appealed certapine rebelles, which went aboute to disquiet the state of the common wealth there. From thence he sayled but the sen such as Alles of Lewys and Skie, and put to death cer= furbe the faine offenders that woulde not be obedient bu= et state 20 to their gouernours and judges. After this hee subiectes, returned by Rosse, and set a stay also in that countrey, touching certains missemeanours of the people there.

To bee flozte, her purged the whole realme of all suche robbers, theenes, and other the loke offenders agapust the quiet peace of his subie=" Acs, as were hugely increased by the licencious rule of his predecessour Darbane, and here= onto hee was mightely apped by the Mora= The Mora uians, who purfued suche offenders moste ear= help to in hende neilly, and brought in unto him no small num- and chief ber of them, euer as they caught them.

By this meanes was the state of the com= mon wealth brought into better quiet, and the peare next ensuing being the thirde of Galde his raygne, her called a counsell at Dunstalage, wherein her labored muche for the abrogating of the wicked lawes instituted by king Ewyn, Galdelia as befoze is partily specified: but hee coulde not wicked obtaine moze than that pozemen from thence forth Mould have their wives free to themselves without being abused from time to time indifferently by their landelosdes as heretolose they had bene.

Whilest he was thus busied about the ellablishing of holsome orders and statutes for the wealth of his subicites, wonzde was brought Petifus O him that Petilius Cenalis a Romaine Cap- lis 2 Rom taine being lente from Clefpalian the Empe capeans rour to have the gouernment of Biptaine, was by velps landed with a pursant armie in the country, and minded floatly to muade the borders of his traine, as Innandale and Balloway.

With these newes Galde being somewhat The Ord allonied, thought god to bnderstande the tite cesants taintie of the chimies doings, before her made by the sa any sturre for the leanying of his people, there with was fore appopuled certaine light horsemen to not with, and to bigng certains newes of that minche they might heare of fee: who at thep? returne declared that the chimies atmue was a-- Files or broade in the fieldes, upport the borders of Pitte lande, and had given the Piece autemp'a great ouerthrow, and further, howe they were kurlied weltwards on the lefte hande, in purpole to entet into Gallowan.

The Historie of Scotlande.

Galoc being thus certified of the Romains ole deer- quie them battayle before they entred into the umer partes of his Realme, and therefore with all freede hee assembled his people, to the num= ber of fiftie thousande menne, all suche as were able to beare armoz, being readie to repayze onto him in luche present necessitie for befence of they countrey.

It hath bene reported, that as hee marched forth towardes his enimies, sundrie straumae fights appeared by the way. In Egle was feene Strange fights almost all a robole day, flying by and downe come for the Scottishe uer the Scottiffe armie, euri'de though the had armie. laboured hy telfe to eary in the and Allo an armed man was frine flying round approche towardes his countrey, betermined to to aboute the armye, and knowetly banished as mar.

There fell in loke manner out of a parke cloude in the fictoes through the whiche the ark mie Moulde palle, diners kindes of birdes that were spotted with bloud.

These monstruous sightes troubled mennes mindes divertly, some constraing the same to lignific good successe, and some otherwise. Also the chiefest captagnes amongst the Scottes were not all of one opinion, for some of them 4 waring the great force of the Romaine armie, being the greatest that ever had bene brought into they countrey before that day, counfelled that they thoulde in no wife be fought withall, but rather to lufter them to weary themselves, till vitagles and other provisions Coulde fagle them, and then to take the aduauntage of them as occasion scrued: Other were of a contrarie numbe, judging it beste (sith the whole puissaunce taple, least by descriying time, the courage and great defire which the people had to fight, Mould ware faint and occay: so that all things consis 1- dired, it was generally in the ende agreed by= post to give battaple, and so comming within light of the enimies hoste, they made ready to the unter them. It the fielle the Scottes were fourthiat amazed with the greate multitude of they adverlaries, but through the cheerefull exhortations of they? King, and other their The ptaines, they, stomackes beganne to remine to that they boldely fette unun the Romaines. owhereof enfued betwirte them? a righte flerce and cruell battaple, howbert in the crive the bis Morie inclined to the Momains, and the Scottes The Scots are were chaled out of the fictie. Balde huntlelfe was discomfited. wounded in the face, pet escaped hee out of the battaile, but not without offeat daunger in Deede. by reason the Romaines pursued most egerly in the chase.

There were flaine of the Stoffish menne (as they's chronicles make revolute) about a twelne of the Realme was assembled) to give bat= 50 thousande, and of the Romains about like thous fande.... ent de ditte genit fie

> This victoric beyng thus atchieved, the Ros The citie calmains gote pollellion of Evidke with the area-led Epiake, is test parte of all Galloway, and passed the re-Romains. floue of that yeare without any other notas ble exployee: but in the foinmet following Wes tilius the Romaine governous wente aboute to suboue the reste of the countrey, the Scottes oftentimes making diverte thirmuffes with him, but in no wife durite ionne with them puissance dir i not fight account puissance, tealt they shoulde have put any nei 1 vit : their Countrey into further daunger, if thep had chauced eftlones to have recepued & ouerthrow.

Here have wee thought god to advertise the Reader, that although the Scottiff wysters impute all the tranaples whiche Petilius spent in fubduing the Bipgantes, and Frontinus in conquering the Silures, to be employed chiefly a= 10 garnst Scottes and Prices : the opinion of the belt learned is wholy contrarie thereunto, affy z= ming the fame Bargates and Silures not to be fo farre Porth by the distance of many imples, as Touching al Hector Boctius and other his Countreymen do the Romains place them, which thing in the Hiltorie of Engis Bertain yes lande wer have also noted, where ye may reade ma unde lut-ficiently in the more of all the doings of the Romagnes here in hiddrie of En- Beptaine, as in their wepters we finde the fame recozded. But neuerthelesse we have here follo= 20 wed the course of the Scottishe Historic, in mas ner as it is written by the Scottes themselves, not bynding any man moze in this place than in other to credite them further than by conference of authours it Mall feeme to them expedient. In the meane time then, whilest Petilius was occupied as before ve have heard in & coquest of Galloway. Clovicia the daughter of Truragus (who newarh worres the Romains had before time misuled as before with the Ro-

giand.

and brenned

by Vodicia.

ther a crew of foldiours within the Ide of Man, partily of the inhabitants, and partily of luche Scottiff men of Gallowar as were fledde this ther for fuccour: with these spec twice the seas, and landing in Gallowar, byon purpole to renenge by injuries in times past received at the The Romaine Romains handes, fet oppon their tentis in the night leason, when they loked for nothing lesse than to be disquieted by reason whereof they were not caused suche fire beandes to be kindled as he had prepared and dreffed with pitche, rolen and tallow, for the like purpole, the whole campe had bene in great vaunger: but these tozehes or syze brandes gaue not onely light to see where to make relistaunce, but also bring caste in the faces of the enimies, Naved they, hardie forwardnesse, whereby the Romains having leafure to place themselves in array, besended the entries of they? campe, till the day was lyzong, and then giving 50 a full onlet bypon they; enimics, they put them quite to flight.

But Clovicia not herewith discouraged, ha= Epiake is take sted with al speece unto Epiake, and taking that Citie fhe letteth fire on it, and flewe fuche Romains as the founde there, whereof Petilius being certifico, leute forth a legion against byr to initistance bir attenuites. Those that had the charge of them that were thus lent, bled fuch his licence, that laying an ambulle for bir in a mare fitte for that purpole, they lo inclosed hir, that Cayng the most parte of hir companie, the mas taken personer hie felfe, and being brought aline onto Petilius, opon hir foute answears made onto him, as he questioned with hir aboute hyp vodice is bolde enterpeyles, fice was prefently flagne by fligne, the fouldiers.

Anone after Petilius was certified, that the inhabitaunts of the Isle of Wight, with other The Brui southerne Biptains, had rayled a commotion a= rebell. gainst king Warius, so that without speedy fucin this treatile is partely touched gathered togi= 30 coas they were like to drive him out of his king- The Breta pome: where'opon he halted thither with al con- are apeared uenient speede, and subduing the rebelles, let all things there in god ofter and flap. Ind foremayning there till the next yeare after, he fel licke of the flire and died. Immediatly wherebon Romancia the Emperour lente one Julius Frontinus to gate dud. succeede in his place.

This frontinus brought with him a two les Iulius Fro gions of fouldiours, and after he had taken order Brytains. brought into luche dilozder, that if Petrlius had 40 with king Waring for the keeping of the Brytains in due subjection of the Empire, he purpofed to beying luche unto obedience as inhabited The Silvan within and beyond the woods of Calydone, and Somithm as pet not banquillied by any man.

Therefore entring fielt into Balloway, and Frotieus biliting luch garrifons of the Romaines, as per polethio tilius had left there for the keving of that quarter, quelt of he commended their loialtie and diligence, in that Syluies w they had toked so well to their charge, that the the Scott Cake for cuimic had gapuco no aduauntage at there hans lowy mo des, whilest the armie was occupied in the Couth partes about other affayies there.

Dec also lent an Heralde onto the king of Frenticus the Pictes with letters, requiring him to reme jonne is by configuration the former league betwirt bys rie with d people and the Romaines, and not by any meas Pickes nes to appe the Scottes as before time they had bone to their great loffe and hinderance.

Derebuto

perconto the king of Pictes muche sulpe= fing the matter, made a direct answeare, that her lawe no cause why her shoulde in favour of the Romains luffer his confederates the Scottes to be subdued and brought to destruction without all reason or equiticiand therfore he was determined by the aduice of his peeres and counfellours, to apoe the Scottes against suche as fought nothing but the meanes howe to bring the whole File of Albion into thealdouse and so serule bondage.

frontinus little regarding this butowardly answeare, lette sozewarde to subdue such Scots as were pet bisobedient. And so entring into the bolders of Kile, Carrike and Coningham, had divers thirmuftes with fuche as king Galde had affembled to defend his countrep, but for co much as hee was difeated with fickenesse, hee was at length constrayned to withdrawe himselfe into. the enimies attemptes: but Mostly after his departure from amongst them, they were fought withall by the Romains and discomfited, three thousands of them being Claime in the fielde. By reason of whiche overthrowe those countreys submirted themselves to the Romains, perceyuing no hope otherwise howe to escape that pre= ient daunger.

There Scots of Carrike, Ikile, and Coningham, being thus brought into subjection, the ar- 30 her of the Citezens flaine.

mie was licenced to withdraw to their lodgings for the winter leason, during the which, Fronti- Frontinus benus fel ficke of superfluous abundance of fleume, wich fickpelle. which vered him in suche sorte, that the Enws-represed to rour Domitian, who as then gouerned the Re-Rome. maine Empyze, sent for him home buto Bongs and and appointed a right valiaunt personage, one sulfus Agri-Inlius Agricola to succeede as lieutenaunt of cola is sont id-Beitaine in his roume.

Aboute the time of whole arrivall there, the The Scots of Scotts of Annandall flewe a great number of Annandale the Romains, with which successe they prosu-beate downe red allo the Pictes with the inhabitants of Gale the Romains. loway, Kyle, Carrike and Coningham to re-

These newes bring reported unto Agricola, Agricola prehe made his promitio with al speede to go against pareth to goe them. And first entring into the borders of Dicke against the lande, he reduced such as inhabited about the co-Araile, leaunig his power behinde him to relift 20 fines of Barwike to their former subiection and after marching forth towardes the citie of Camelone. Karanach king of the Dids encountred Karanath king him by the way, but being fiercely beaten off by of the Picts is the Romains, he fled backe into the citic, with discomfited by the Romains. in three daies after having reenforced his power, he eftlones gave battaple againe to his enimies, but then also being vanquilled, her lost the most parte of al his men, & fo immediately thered non was Camelone wonne by force, & a great mine Camelone eaof the ken by force.

Agricola caused it to beinewly fortified; min so the suthanaking reastantible a time, at length further through fance of this discourse brainning, he recourred the most parte of althe railels and fortrelles of Pitte landen der mind aller

The forenamed Karmand, estapling out of that prefent caunger, got him beyonde the water of fictin for the more furetier his owne purious

Agricoln having spen thus in Politics, marchestouth, against them of Annamall: who at were total review to grad backen and to mobe to their ownerentles where in the night fellows the by their bank tanies they were murthered espe mothers tound: for looks wonner of that want being put atomy me where of their hillardies. The Scots of when the had at the state field out of the state, flaine by their from there enimies. Vallatnet aucis Dagul das wives. De Agricola bavecellanting making toining him fame in the beginning, it thould be no small furtherance buto him for the atchieuing of other enterprises in time to come, determined to pursue Here is a ma- his mod fortune. And therepon prepared to lubni ch errour the file of Man, but wanting wellels to cowriters, taking ney his armic ouer, he found meanes that fuch as Mag for An- Could foinime, and knew the figallow places of glesey.

Agricola win-

Agricola of that coast, made shifte to passe the goulee, and so tayleet the life got a land, to the great wonder and amazing of as Hector Boe- reliff suche thippes as they looked for, to have at= tius mistaketh rined voon they? shoze : but nowe dispayzing to relift such kind of warriours as endaugered the= selves to passe the seas in that maner of wile, they submitted the filues onto Agricola.

The isle of An ... althotaking pleages of them, and appopul gleley is sub-dued by Agrik ting certains garrifons to keepe diners holdes and places of defence within that File, palled 0= ner with the relidue of his people into Galloway, whiche being palled, and fommer once come, he allembled his men of warre againe, and vilited a great parte of that countrey with Kyle, Carrike and Coningham, the inhabitants wherof he put in such feare with the onely showe of his warlike armie, disposed in tuche politike order and wise conducte, that there was none to be founde that most advance themselves to encounter him, so That he spet that sommers scason in keeping such from attenupting any conjunction, a when winter was come, he affrinbled the nobles of the coutred, exhapting them by gentle perswalions, to Agricola fiu- frame themselues to a civil trave of living, aldiech to bring well in buploing of femples, houles, and other e= Differs after the Romaine maner, as alfo un wesring of conicly and descrit apperell, and above all things to let their chilors to Chole, to be brought bu in elevience and good nurture.

their accustomer sicremesse, to winterhan the concer to be coteted with bodage, though he colorestit with neuer la fapze a glosse of humanitie.

The thirde winter being thus frent, and the next sommer commen byon, Agricola inuaded futhe countreps as were per undiscounted by the Kile ar wood Romains, entring by the nether lide of Cali-Agricola com- voite wod, ruen unto the volozous mountaine, miche afterwardes by the Scottes was eleped for that in the night leason, there was beard right Illusion of spi-lamentable norse and cries as though the same had bene of some creatures that had bewarled they miserable cases: whiche budoubtedle was the craftie illusions of wicked spirites, to kreve mens mindes still oppgessed in blinde errours and superstitious fantalies.

Agricola confidering the naturall Arength of this mountaine with the life of an olderulnous callel that floo thereon, he caused the same with Agricolabe ealtel-that umo increois, we cause sie mine with de the ca all viligence to be repaired, a a bridge to be made of Sterling ouer the Forth there, by the which he palled with with the his whole armie ouer into fyle, and the day af bridge, ter hearing that the king of the Pids was withpramen into a castell thereby, standing byon an high mountaine cleeped Becnart, he environned Mour Become the same with a strong siege, how be it his hoved of Angleter, the inhabitants, who watched the lea coastes, to 10 peap was not as then within it, for Karanach king of the Wilts, enformed of the Romains anproche, gotte him fweth abrove into the fieldes, Karanach and affembling his power purpoted by night, to fayleth Sie haue broke the bridge which Agricola had made und bridge, which the R ouer the forth at sterling, but being repulled mains dela by fuche as were let there to defende the lame, in ded. his returns from thence hee was encountred by Acricola himselfe, who being certified of this attenut of his enimies, had levied his lieges was where he folourned all the winter following: 20 comming towardes them, so that both the holles meeting togither in the fictoes, there was fought a fore battaple betwirt them, though in the ende the Pictes were discomfited, and their king the Karmath forelande Karanach chaled buto the fluer of effloses Tay, where he got a boate, and escaped to the furtherlive of that water.

By reason of this overthrowe, Agricola brought in subication those counfreys, whiche lie betweene the waters of Forth and Cap, as Fyfe with of the Scottes as had bene aforetime Cubbued, 30 Kyle, Fothyke, and Ernedalle, and Tolourning ther coun there all the winter following he buplte fundzie subjection fattriffes in places most connenient for the kee- the Rom ping of the inhabitaunts in they? consensuated obevience, after bis departure from amongelt them.

In the means while the king of the Plates kept him at Dunder, whyther relocted butebint a greate number of the Pidathe monthie, fiche p in elaptimer and good nurture.

As had eleaped the Romains hands there fored by By this meaners he thought to trainer hem five comforted there king in all that they winder, nobles, increase with heart to be ediffered with bodage, though he color of the reconcrie of his followage and the summer of the reconcrie of his followage in the summer of the thirde winter being thus winter, and the come ere manufacture in the summer of the reconcrie of his followage in the summer of the thirde winter being thus winter, and the come ere manufacture in the summer of the reconcrie of his followage. rance therof al that in them lay, almost in councel as ayos of hande: Ind herecopped the lands admice, whiche way to worke, in Compele the at lemoth it was by guar deliberation though wo to fecke for fuccour at the handes of thore am-Sterling. It was called the dolorous mountain 50 cient confederates the Scottes, and former tinently there were contagne medlingers vil The fis pairthed with all species with Gaine the lends for king tishe kyng, requiring him in that commind icos Galle. parties to ispur in league with the manifest friendes the Diffes, agapuilt the ambitious aus malternell Romains, who tought nothing is but p beter subversio of the whole wind of Thion, as was marufility apparat by their pibradials.

having alreadic occupied and wzongfully furpulsed a great part not onely of the Putill king= point, but allo of the Scottilly dominions, minthe first to go foreward in such unrighteous coqueits at by timely relillace they were not flaied.

Salve opon this request and mocions of the wits gladly consented to toyne his power with theus, in common defence of bothe the realines Ro- Lagantic fach common enimics as the Romains his peeres and chiefelf countellours.

Thus whilest the kings of the Scottes and Philis were concluding a league togither for defance of themselves and they countreps, certaine Scottes entred into the confines of Kyle, Carand Coningham, & wanne divers fortrelles. wherin certaine garrisons of Komaine souldiers ferourned, whom they flewe downe right without al mercie, spopling the whole countrep.

flreightwaies thither with a power, and pursumarthem that had done those injuries, some hee toke amonait the hilles and mountagnes, whis that they were fledde, and the relidue hee chaled beyond the river of Clyde, but the castel of Dun= beyon hee coulde not by any meanes obtaine, mount he allayed to winneit cuento the bttermost of his power. It was called in those papes " Ilcluth that is to meane: All fone.

The Scottill) men being thus deinen backe, 20 Agricola repaired luche caltels and fortrelles as they had onerthrowen and beaten downe.

In the yeare following, being the fifth after the first comming of Agricola into Birtaine, he cauled his Chippes to be brought about from the The of Wlight into the water of Lochfine in Ar= gile, thereby to put his enimies in offer disuapre of cleaping his handes exther by water or lande: In thereupon palling over the river of Clyde fer upon the countrey of Lennox, in purpole to subdue the same. But after he had made sundzie the mulhes with the inhabitauntes, her was certitled by letters from the governour of Camelone, that the Pickes were ready to rebell, by reafan whercof he left off this enterprice against the Scottes, and derin backe into Bide lanve, leaung a parte of his armie to keepe pollection of the water of Clyde till his retuine againe into those parties.

It his comming into Pide lande, he appealed the rebelles with finall a do, punishing the chiefe authours according to their demerites. This dene, he returned binto the water of Clyde, lying al that winter beyond the same, taking order for the government of those parties, in due obediente of the Romaine Empyre.

The Commer following he appointed his na=

vie to fearch alongst by the coast all the bauens and creekes of Argyle, and of the Jlandes neare Agricola purto the same. Whilest he by land paffing ouer the terprise awater of Lenine, went about to coquere townes gainst the and calleds, though halfe discouraged at the first Scottes. by reason of the rough wayes, strayte passages, high mountagnes, craggy rockes, thicke wodes. decre marrilles, fennes and mostes, with the great rivers, whiche with his armie hee muste wire cilecined) having herebuto the affent of all 10 needes paffe, if he minded to attayne his purpofe: but the olde fouldiers beyond enured with paynes and transple, overcame all these difficulties by the wife conouit of they? worthie Generall and other the Captaynes, and so innading the countrep twke Cownes and Callels, of the whiche some they beate downe and raked, and some they fortified, and Auffed with garrifons of men of warre.

About the fame time by commannorment of All the Scottes Larriola haung knowledge hereof, wente 20 king Galde and other the governours of Scot affemble. land, all the able men of Cantyze, Lozne, Murrayland, Lugemarth, also those of the westerne Aftes, and of all other parties belonging to the Scottish dominions, were appointed to assemble and come togither in Atholl, at a place not valfine fine miles diffant from the castell of Cali-Done now cleped Dunkelo, there to abide the coming of Karanach king of the Picts, to the end that iopning foolther in one armie, they might mozke some high exploit. But be hauing allem= bled ro thousand of his me of marre as he marthed alongst by the mountaine of Gransbene, in times past cleved Mons-Grampens, there chaunced a mutinie amongst bis profile, fo that falling togither by the cares, Maratiach histofile Karanach king chuming anionaft them buartieb an hee was, of the Pictes flaine by mifto parte the fray, mas flayne pielently at bit fortune of one wares, by one that knewe not what her was! of his owne By reason of tilliche mischaunce that tourles subiectes. with his armie, and finding his nauie there, bee 40 was broken, for the Pices bring bittely ama-3cd and discomforted herewith, thated and ofparted in funder.

Balde with his Scottes notbe being thus dlappointed of the Pictes his chiefelt abbe. burlt not leoparor to trie the chaunce of Baffaple with the enimies, but vereinined with kintice fittemilles, and up withdrawing of bleavies dut of their walke, to floppe them from friether procesbing in conquell of the countrey, wife in the 50 meane tyme to promote agapite the nexte tommet newe appe and incomes to keepe the fielde, and to the encourter with them, milatite against pullance, if they ternamed to long in the coun-

The Scots relling wio this eelollieis, thought An amballage good to feno fome honorable aniballabe onto the voto the Picts. Pices to mour the bitto mutual agreentet & cocord amogit the letter, wherby they might be able a sumanti Dallifore, to relift the common ruine of their countrie as then in present daunger to be oppressed by the

The Historie of Scotlande.

The Piftes brought to 2-

Those that were lente on this mellage dyd so dilygently behaue them selves, in bringing their mongit them- purpole to paste, that the Pickes in the ende agreed to joyne in friendly amytic one with an o= ther, and to chale one Garnard to their king to fuccede in the roume of Karanach.

the Scots, and by there procurement fent melfangers onto the Polymegians and Danes, requiring them of ayde against the Romains the common enunies of all fuch nations as louco to line in libertie, where to ever the fame were inha= biting in any part on the whole sice of the earth.

Ambaffadours

There were also lent ambasadours buto the fent unto the Fully men from the Scottes for the same intent, Danes & Irish Fully men from the Scottes for the same intent, Rieu for ayde, and from both those places there was great ande halfe bounde by a naturall respect, to succour such as were discended of the same auncestours and countreys that they were of, and now lyke to be expulled out of those seates, whiche they? foretathers had got possession in by inste title of conquest, and lette the same unto their posteritie to eniop for ener.

collidest these things were thus in doing, Galdus deuiding his armie into lundzie partes vid what was possible to resist al the attempts of 30 the plaine vew of the whole Komaine armie, apthe Romans. Who standing in doubte of his puissaunce rather through fame thereof, than for anye apparaunt light of other knowledge had, durife not put themselues in daunger to enter into Calibone wode of all that fommer, and the winter following was so extreme, by reason of frost, snow, and colonesse of agre, that they were not able to enterprise any exployte on neyther parte: howbrit the sommer was no somer come (bring the sewenth after the comming of Agri- 40 Denmarke, but onely did what they could to be cola into Beytaine) but that they perpared to inuade one an other agains with al their forces.

fance, putteth

the Romains

Forth of Arciand there came (according as rish me, come was promised) a greate power of men of warre to the fucurs and ionned with an army of Scottill men in Atholi, being there alreadic affembled in greate nunibers out of all the quarters of the Scottiffe dominions. Thither came also Garnard king of the Pickes with his power.

Galde chosen against the

to be generall ther by comon agreement amongst them, Galbe king of the Scots was chosen to be they? gene= rail, who hearing that Agricola with his hoffe was entred into Kalendar woode, deuided the whole armie into three battailes, and so marched fwith toward the enimics in purpole to encoun= terthem. Ignicola being of this advertised by spialles, parted his people also into these wardes.

doubting to be enclosed within some coversome place by reason of the great multitude of his inimics, that were effermed to be in number about fiftic thousands of one and other.

Galoe on the other live understanding by frials this oforr of the Romains, in the dead of the night letteth uppon one of those legions whiche Galde lemi was longed next but o him, and finding meanes of his coin to flea the watche, was entred into the enimies in chearigh They also confirmed the former league with 10 lodgings before they had any knowledge of his comming, so that the fight was right fierce and cruell euen among the Romaines tentes and

But Agricola being certified of this enterprife of the Scottes, sent forth, with all speede a certaine number of light hozlemen and twienen to affayle them on the backes, and so to keepe them occupied till her might come with all the residue of his people to the rescue. They that were promiled, as fro them that elleemed themselues 20 thus sent, accomplishing they? enterprise accorbing to the denife in that behalfe appointed, gaue a right fierce and floute charge bpon the Scottes and Pictes, greatly to the reliefe of those that were by them affayled, and withall foze amazed and vilozdered by reason of the enimies subden inuation.

By this meanes the fight cotinued right flerce Agricolog and cruell on al lides, til at length the day begin- fuccount ning to appeare, thewer to the Scottes & Piles men. proching bnoer the conduite of Agricola, to the fuccour of his people, being thus in daunger to be diltrelled. Herrewith were the Scots and Pilles put in such feare, that immediatly they fel to ru- Agricole ning away towards the wodes and bogges, the enimical accustomed places of they? refuge.

This ourthrow did to abath both the Scots # Picks, that they ourli attempt nomoze the fortune of battaile till they had some aybe out of fend their townes a countrey, by making funding reples upon their enimies as occasion and opos tunitic scrued. But the Romains suppoling nothing to be to harve for their broaunited ball ancie, but that they were able to outer one what to ever thould franto at beforce against them, be termined at length, to find an ende of the life of Albion, and lo palling through Kalender wood, Chidon and ouer the river of Amound, they pitched their wood, All whiche forces being thus assembled togis 50 fielde neare to the river of Cay, not faire from Anome

The Pill's by reason that they? enumies take lodged to meare but the confines of thepe comtrey, boubting what might follow thereof, bien The P. ned the citic of Culine, least the same enimies breaded chauncing to take it. Would finnish it with some garnilon of menne, to the great baunger of the whole Pidilly kingdome.

This citic flove bypon the banks of Tay, nant beautifully burlte, with many fayte caficis and Comers, as may appeare euen buto 1915 day by the oldernines thereof, strong rather by the waskemans hande; than by nature.

The Scottilly men in our time call the place Inchtuthill.

Althory wines and children they removed puro the mountagnes of Granzbene for they? more suretie and safegarde.

About the same time the Romains were not elitele disquieted, by reason of a mutinie whiche chaunced amongst suche Germaines as were appoputed to come oner onto Agricola, as a new and flipplie to farmshe by furthe numbers as were de= cared in his armic. These slaving thep? Cap= taine, and fuche other Romains as were anpoynted to have the order of them for their trap= rong in warlike feates at the beginning, as the happened open in the cineriof Tamps, and lavling aboute the Cast and Posth coastes of this Ille, arrived in Tay water, offering themselves to the Scottes and Piacs to serve against the Romains, whose malice they dread for there offence committed if they floulde returns anto there owne countreys, whiche lav about the mouth of the Rhine, and was as then subilities the Romaine Empres, their babitants in those darce, being cleped Allipithes, the whiches 20 some suppose inhabited Eleveland and Gulick.

They, offer was accepted most ethankeful= ip, and in places appointed for them to inhabite amongst the Murrayes, bicause they were viltided as it were of one nation.

Whilest these things were thus a boing, there came also the long wished appe from the Dancs and Porwegians, to the number of tenne thousande men, buder the leading of one ind Gildo.

This Gildo with his natic firste arrived in the Frithe betwirt Fose and Louthian, but for the that the Romains kepte him off from landing there, hee calle aboute and came into their iver of amucch Cap, where he landed all his people, and prouis : " ::: lion whereof he had good froze bothe vittaple and Garnard king of the Piacs hearing of they? n of arrivall there, forthwith opon the newes deparnumber of his Pobles, and coming to the place Where Gildo with his armic was looged, receyued him in molte iopfull wife, featted and ban= quetted him and his people, and thewed them all the tokens of moste hartie love and frienoship that coulde be deniced.

Gildo himself mas led by the king onto Dundee, and lodged with him there in the callles his people were pronided for abrode in the countrep in places moste for they ease, to refusse them= selucs the better after their painefull iourney by the leas.

Shortly after there came buto Dundee the Galde cometh Scottille king Galde, who for his parte did all vnto Dundee the honour that in him lay unto Gildo, New-Gildo. ing himselfe moste iopfull and gladde of his coming, pecloing buto him and his people suche 10 thankes and congratulations as served beste to the purpose, and recepued no lesse at his and their handes againe.

After they had remaphed thus certaine dayes togither at Dundee, bothe the kings Balde and Gald, Garnard Barnarde togyther with this Gildo, wente femble a coubuto the Calle of Forfare, there to consulte sel at Forfare, with the Captaines and gouernours of they where they demenne of warre, how to magnitaine themselves proceede in in they thterprise against the enemic. At length they warre. maner was, got certaine pinnelles whiche they 20: they resultive not to goe forth into the field til the wings teaton were palfe, for bombte of the inconvenience that might enfue by reason of the extreme colde intemperancie of appe, to the topiche that countrepas greatly subject:

In the meane time they twice order for the They deterfurniture of all things necellarie for the wartes, mine to reft al to have the same in a pertite readinesse agapust the winter, & the nexte spring, and till then they did approprie warre onely. onely to keepe fronter warre, that the litomains Moulde not thray abroade to fetche in bittaples and other prouitions, to theyr owne gaynes and the bindoing of the pope inhabitants. June

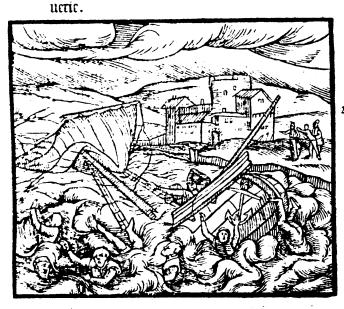

Upon this determination when the couns cell was broake bp, Galde withdrewe into 31= tholl, to octende those parties, and Gainarde with the Danithe generall Gildo, furnissed all the Castels and holdes in Angus, over agapust the riner of Tay, to stoppe the passages of the fame, that the enimies Moulde enter no further 40 on that five. Thus passed the winter for that pearitivathout any great exployte on either part Inthebeginning of the nexte sommer, Agri- Agricola sencola appointed his naute of this to layle aboute deth forth his the coaffes of the furthest partes of Albion, man to discouer the king diligant fearch of eucry creeke and haven as furthest poyut longst by the same. The Mariners executing of Brytaine northwarde. his donniaundement, layled rounde aboute the Posthe coaste, viscouering many of the ted from Dundee, accompanied with a greate so Wellettetne Illes, and likewile thole of Dekney, till at length they fourior out Picte lande Firth, being a strepte of Sex, of twentie miles in breaoth, whiche separateth the Illes of Dikney from the poynt of Cathireft, palling with Co fwifte a course athat without an expert pplote the llippes that Mall-passe the same are oftentimes in great dannier, by reason of the contrary course of the tydes.

D.iii.

54

The Romaine mariners therfore finding certaine bulband nich in the next Iles, confircined them to go a thipbozoe, and to guide them thorow that strepte, promising them high rewardes for they labour: but they byon a malicious intent not passing for their owne lives, so they might be revenged of they enimies in calling away suche a notable number of them together with they vellels, entred the streets at suche an The Romaine inconvenient time, that the shippes were borne 10 deprine them of that so greate a benefite. thips through with violence of the Arcaine against the rockes want of pylots and shelues, in suche wife that a number of the Pichlad Firth, same were drowned and losse without reco-

cacampeta neite to the

Agricola ma- Some of them that were not once haltie to king a bridge follow the fielte, leaing the prefent loss of thep? tir, paffeth by fellowes, returned by the same way they came r elamewich vinto Agricola, who in this means tyme had his holte, and caused a bridge to be made ouer p riner of Cay, by the whiche her valled with his whole armie. and encamped on the further live thereof neare mountagne of to the rotes of the mountagne of Granzbene, number of fouldiers to desende it against the e-

The Pickes being not alittle troubled here= with, dewatched forth a mellenger with all halte bnto Galoe the Scottille king, lignifping bnto him the whole matter, and therebyon required him of arde.

Galde hauing mustered his people alwell Scottifle as Frifte, affembled them togither to the number of richousand persons, what of one 50 nauntage, for those that were archerisco. and other, and incontinently with al speece martheth forth to come onto the ande of the Pickes. and so within a fewe dayes passing over the mountaine of Frankene, he arrivethin a val-Galdeking of ley beyonde the fame mountaine, where he findeth the Pistes, Danes, and Popuegians, enmen commeth camped togither not farre off from the hoft of the Romains.

Here taking aduite togither, and in the ende betermining to give battayle, king Galbe (bn. The Scott to whome as before is expressed, the governance mine to give of the whole was committed) assembling togic battayle to ther all the number of the confederates, made Romains, them in defence of libertie, (the most precious tech his positive) that ma might enion) to show they man ple cosses ip stomakes against them that fought onely to manually.

The Historie of Scotlande.

And fithe thep were drinen eventothe bffcrmoste boundes of them countred he werforenen them to make bertue of necessitie, and rather chose to die with honour, than to live in perpetuall flame and ignominit; which result needes have ensue to thepr whole nation, if they suffered thenselves to beer vanquilled in that inflamt. With these wordes, or other muche what of the semblable effect, Galde so moued the hartes of his people, that they delired nothing but to ionne with they enimies and to trie it with them by dinte of fredzoe, which they builded ly signified according to they accustomed ble with a great noyle, floute and clamour.

On the other parte Agricola, though he percepned a greate delire amongst his sendoins to fight; pet hee was not negligent outsits owne brhaife to encourage them with moste cheerefull ippoides and countenabnce, to that bothe the armies being thus berite to have battaple, the generals on bothe partes beganne to lette them in Agricola to the ende his armie being the leffer number foulde not bee affayled both a front and on the floes, provided (by disposing them in a certaine oyder) a remedie against that disabuantage.

In the other fide, king Balde, by reason of Galde by the aduauntage whiche hee had in his greate fon of his leaning the bridge garnised with a competent 40 multitude and number, ordered his battayles kerkwen thereafter, with a long and large fronte, plas his coinside cing the same bypon the higher grounde, of puts pole to compasse in the enimies on eche live. It the firste approche of the one armie to- The armi wardes the other, the battayle was begraine approach there is righte fiercely with thotte of acrowes and hurling of vartes, whiche being once palte, they iop- They iop ned togither to trie the matter by hande trokes, wherein the Scottes and Pictes had one dilad= may call them keener) comming once to light at hande blowes, had nothing but broade two toes and rectaine force light bucklers to defend themschies with, suche as serve to better purpose sor menne to type with abroade at home, than The Som to bee earied fouth into the warres, though the mem dil famehaue bene so bled amongst the Scottish of their men, even till these our dayes.

The Romains therefore being well appoin- 20 Pickes, Jriff) men, Porwegians or Wanes, that tro with armure and broade Tergettes, flewe retune right a greate number of these Scottes the ideas thus ilenderly furnifled, without reemung any great domage agains at their hads, thang Galde appointed his speare nienne to there touth before those archers and kernes, to forceur them, and therewith also the bill menne tame for charde and froke on to freffly that the Romains were beaten downe on heapes, in bene desconfited, had not a bande of Germains whiche served amongst the Romains) rusted iwith with greate violence vyvon the Scottiffe men where moste daunger appeared, and so re= flered agains the faynting stomakes of the Romains, whereby the battaple renewed on bothe lives againe right fierce and cruell, that greate ruther thas to beholde that blouddie fight and nielle bamerepfull murver betwirte them, Scottiffic fide than any warlyke fkill, till final--de to the night comming on take the dayes light from them bothe, and so parted the frap.

The Romains withdrewe to they campe, and the Scottes and Pickes with they? confede= totts the Danes, Polwegians and Irilly men, biche as were left alive not them into the nexte meuntarnes, having loste in this cruell conflict the moste parte of there whole numbers.

Counclins Cacitus agreeth not in al points Eth the Scottifhe Chronicles in a boke which to wrote of the lyfe of Julius Agricola, where the untreateth of this battarle. For hee speahata but of.rrr.thousande men, (which be comseidendeth under the generall name of Bye= tions to be affembled at that time agaynst the Lomains, making no mention of any Scottes, fould be there in their appe.

The number of them that were flagne of the The number of them that Biptains side (as the same Tacitus recoun- were flayne as teth) amounted to aboute.r.M.men, & of 1Ro= this battayle. mains not palling, iii. I. and. rl. Amongst whom was one Aulus Atticus, a captaine of one of the cohortes. But as the Scottish writers affirme, there vied that day of Scottes, Pices and other their confederates at the poynt of. rr. D. fuch wife that they were neare at point to have 30 and of the Romains and suche as served on their side, as god as.tij.M. Mozcouer the night following when Galous with the relique of his prople which were left alive was withdrawen to the mountains, a that the huge loffe was bnoerflode by the wines a kinneswomen of the dead. there began a pitiful nople amongst them, lame= ting and bewailing they? miserable case & losses.

But Galde doubting least the same Moulde Womenbecome to the eares of some espialles, that mighte wayle their whiche continued with more violence on the 40 lurke neare to the place where her was withdrawen, canted an huge floute and nople to be rapled by his people, as though it had bene in token of some reiopling, till the women bewayling thus the death of they? friendes might be remos ued out of the way. This done, they fell to take counsel what was best to do in this case: in the end at things confidered, it was determined that fomewhat before the dawning of p next mozow 50 every man should dislodge a withdraw himselfe The Scoulsh into luche place as he thought molte meetell for men and Picts his lategary, faue only fuch as were appointed to their campe. attend Galde & Barnard into Atholle whether they minded with al speece to go. Thus leaving a gret nüber of fires to diffimule their departure, they dislonged a made away with alspeede polfible. In the mouning when their departure was once discouered, a great nüber of & Romains fole

P.iiij.

55

lowed

the Scottish to the ayde of the Pictes.

Agricola sub

dueth Angus

Shippes scene

in the avic.

It rune!

ttogges.

lowed as it had bene in the chale, but some of the The Romains bitaduisedly aduenturing to farre forward, were enclosed by they, enimies and flague. Those sie distressed, that wrought this feat gotte them to the nexte hilles and so cscaped. At length when all the fieldes and countreys adiopning were discourred, and the same appearing to be quite delivered of all ambushmentes of the enimies, Agricola caused the spoyle to be gathered, and after mar= forumer was paste) he appointed to winter, and fo comming thyther and subduing the countrep, he twke pleages of the best amongst the inhabiand wintreth tants, and looged his people about him in places most convenient.

Aboute the same time Agricola heard newes, from his nauic 'as the riding at ancre in Argile; what milliap had chaunced to the fame in Pict= agricola 15 certified of the land Frith. But herewith being not greatly dismichaunce of couraged, he gaue ogder that the Chippes whiche 20 ning away, the Scottes and Pictes following in had escaped should be newe rigged and surnished with all necessarie provisios, a manned throughly, bothe with able mariners and men of warre. This done, he appointed them eftlones to attempt fortune, and to take there course agapne The Romaine to come rounde aboute by the Dakeneys, and fo fleete fayleth up alongst by the east coalle: whiche enterpise round aboute they luckely accomplished, and in the water of point of Albis Cape they brente the Danilly fleete lying there in herbrough.

Pere is to be noted, that befoge the foge remebeed ouertheory of the Scottes and their confederates at the fote of Granibene, there happened many fundey unkithes & strange sightes in this Straunge vin- Jue. Imongst other there appeared flying in the appe certaine firie visions, muche to be wondered at. Allo a great peece of Kalendar wod, feeined in the night time as it had bin on a flaming fire, but in the morning there appeared no fuch toke. fimilitude of certapne flippes. And in Ingus it rayned Frogges. It Tuline there was a childe A montinuous borne hauing bothe flippes, so siltime a sight to childeborne. beholve, that fourthwith they ridde it out of the war for offending others cies. Thele prodigious things were dinertly interpreted, according to the variable fancie of man.

After that the prosperous successe of Agrico= Emperour en la was once notified to the Emperour Domis sperous luc- tian, he twice suche ennic thereat, that Mortly af= 50 wondes recepted in the last battaple, they chose ter, buder a colour to lende him into Sygia to be lieutenant there, he countermaunded him home unto Rome, appoputing one Encus Trebil-Cheus Trebel lius to lucrecoc him in the gouernment of Byp= has appointed taine, but y armie bearing moge fauour bito oue Erebellianus being coulin to Agricola, cauled the fouldiers no final trouble amongst the southers, so that in romake a mu- the end after certaine bickerings betwirt them,

Trebellianus toke a fort of p belt foldiers aman with him, a went over with them into Fraunce

The Historic of Scotlande.

The Scottes taking occasion hereof, joyned The Scott with the Pictes, and entred into Angus. Where corde and of Encus Trebellianus being informed affem= the Roma bled his people, who percepuing no greate fore come fort wardnesse in they leader, created Caius Sisin- guinft then nius (brother to the forenamed Trebellianus) they? Captagne, but her woulde in no wife medched fouth into Angus, where for so muche as 10 dle with that charge, though they were very earness in hance with him to take it boon him. In the meane time came the enimies bnder the lea- The Score ding of Galde ready to give the onlet, wherwith vpon the the Romains being loze troubled, by reason of mains, this discorde amongst themselves, set forewarde pet, right valiantly, to give battaile to thep2 mi= mics : howbeit in the ende, by cause that Sisinnius recevued a mortall wounde, and so depart The Rome ted out of the fielde, they fell at length to run- are dices the chase right siercely.

This atchicued victorie after so many bn= luckic enterpryses highly rejoyced the appalled hartes of the Albions, having bene continually in maner now for the space of I. peares through aduerle fortune, arienoully oppressed by the Romains, who being not a little discouraged by this ouertheow, withosewe themselves wholly buto The des Tulyne, and shortly after for they? more safe-withdraw Tulyne. gard, they got them ouer the river of Tay, bea- They ret king the bridge whiche they had made there, to backe out the inde that by the lame the Scottes and Pills and brek Could have no passage in that place.

But Galde hauing got this notable victorie them. with the spoyle of the Romains campe, thought it best with the aduice of his nobles, to pursue the Romaius without delap, not suffering them to haue time to pronide for reliffance. Ind herbpon coming to the callle of Calicone otherwile ka-There was in lyke manner scene in the avze the 40 lendar, they gotte ouer the river of Tay, by a The Soul lendar, they gotte ouer the truct or way, of a ouer the bridge of wood layde ouer the same river, whiche of Tay, of in that place is but narrow, by reason of the to Cali rockes and clines forcing the bankes on either callel side to a strapfnesse.

The Romaine Capitanes also not ignorant The Son of the pallage of the enimies, brought forth their desoocs armic, and made themselves ready to encounter baruyles them, but for that the forenamed Cains Silin- romine nius was not able to ftirre by reason of his one Titus Telius, a valiant Getteman of Rome to be they leader, and so bower his conduite letting byon their enimies they fought right fleres The ly for a time, but yet in the cade they were put to areas flight, and chaled into Calidone.

There were flayne of the Romaine parte in this encounter to the number of h. M. and of the Scottes and other the confederates. 4.9.

After this victorie thus obterned by the states, a great number of the Bytaynes ree udico from the Romain obedience, as those that mainted the courtry which we now cal delales, with the marches, flaying and chafing aware such Romaines as lay abzode in those parties.

This done, they fent unto Galocking of the mottes certaine messengers with rich icwelles and arties, in token of their reloyeing and gladmore fuch and as they were able to make against to Romaines the common crimies of all the whole Ilbion nation.

Ju this meane while, did the Romains with= in Calpoone caftel direct their messengers with and letters unto Marius king of the Byytaines, figniding unto him the present vaunger wherein times flood in those parties by the cruel rage of p Scettislimen and Pytics, whom fortune had desimbounch that if timely fuccours were not the length lent, the loffe woulde be irreconcrable. Gereunto Marins andwered, that as the a como conspiracie, appeared to be in hand amongst his fubicits to far forth p he doubter greatly the furetie of his owne estate: And as for hope of apde to be fent from Rome, he fawe final likelihood, con= focusing the ilender provision there through the misgouernemente of cruel Domitian, who by rigardio nothing but howe to keepe them from because taking by in armor against him, and therefore he thought it necessarie that leaning the north parts to the enimies, they floudd all withdrawe to= - w moes him into the fouth partes, to keepe pet the more fruitfull portion of the Ide in due obedibruth ence, fithe their puillance might not suffice to reto keep tame and rule the whole.

These newes greatly abased the Romaine land time it was flitwed them howe king Galor with an huge armie of Scottill men and Piles, was come within terme myles of them. Wiberehan the Romaines not knowing at that inham what was belt for them to doe, in the ende ther concluded to withdraws into Cantyr, Where being arrived, and percepuing thentlelues expect to be in no areat furstie there, they went away from thence with specee into Belloway.

bell electiones to fight with them ere they mights lane and frace to reenforce their power, followed Gam with all viligence, not forcing thoughe hee all belande bim biuerfe Callelles and fortreffes handed with lendric garrifons of his enimies, to that he might discomfit and chase away their more power whiche hee thought might as then tally be bone, confidering the great multitudes of people whiche came flocking in oneshe lyde, prelenting themselves with offering their service unto him, the wing furthermoze great tokens of ion and gladnelle, for that it had pleased the good at length yet to declare themselves favourable in this their relicuing of the oppressed Brytanis. Herebute Galous on the other lyde cining them heartie thankes for their transple, hee recepued them very gently, myring his take with most nelle sot his victories, promising hun kurther- 10 comfortable wordes, therewith to put them in hope of fuch good and prosperous successe, as that Mortly they Moulde thereby bee restored intyrely buto there former liberties, and perpetually deloucred from all forcaone servitude and bon-

But to proceede, at length he vid so muche by his journeys, that hee came into Galloway, where the Romaines with al specde (seeing none The romains other remedie) resolued themselves to give him determine aaduaunced with the gaine of two foughten fiel= 20 battayle, and thereoppon exhorting one an of with the score ther to playe the nien, lithe they onely refude rested in their weapons pointes, they secretly egaue the onsette, and at the first, put the lefte wing of the Scottes and Pides wholy bufo the world. In whiche wing according to their maner in those dayes vsed, there were a greate fiercely assaile number of women mingled amongest the men. the Scottes. Balde therefore percepuing the daunger, fuccou= red them (with such as were appopulted to give reason of the hatred whiche the people bare him, 30 the looking on till neede required, and then to go where they Moulde bee commannoed.) By whiche meanes the battaple on that lyde was renued a frelie, the women thewing no lette baliancie than the menne, and therewith muche Straunge deamore crueltie, for they spared none at all thoughs and contrarie they offered neuer to muche to have their lynes to their napreserned.

In fine, the Romaines becing chaled in the left wing, their ourthrow gaue occasion to al the The romains armie, and muche the more for that aboute the 40 relidue to flee backe to their campe, bring pury flie to their lucd lo egrely by the Scottes and Dictes. that campe. they had much adoc to defende the entries-of they? trenches, where both partyes fought right egrely, tyll at length the night parted them both in funder.

Bring parted, the Scottes gane not there. The Scores felues to reit, but pronided them of all thinks wer faile the rocellaire agagnit the next morning to allayle their main campe. enimies a frell, and namely from the next mos In the meane time king Galde suppoling it so they fetched great plentie of fagottes and builts to full the trenches withold. But this they be The romains meanor and purpole being propertion of the Ros require a commaines, they require a commitmication, the munication. whiche (though forme perswaded Galdus to the contrarie.) bypon ocens confinerations of 101tunes frayle favour, was at length graunted buto them, and foure aunding Remainer clay in right honourable and besie riche apparel famu celle of A-Agricola is fente for to quiihed.

ons of peace

The Romains forth and were admitted to the presence of the the Pickes) unto whome with humble submisfub mit them- kings (Galde of the Scottes, and Garnard of fion they acknowledged themselves as vanquiflied, and that by the iust weath and revenge of the couall Goddes, which against them they had concepued for the wrongfull inualion of that which in no wife of right appertained but o them. Therefore if it might please those kings to brydle and refrance their displeasure against them, in licensing them bnoer some reasonable condia thing resonnoing so muche to they? fame and glozie, as nothing coulde bee moze, confivering so humble sute made to them by the Deatours of those people who were reputed as banquishers of the whole worlde.

Herrwyth falling profrate at the feete of those Kings, they belought them of pardon, in fuche pitifull wose, that the heartes of the hearers beganne somewhat to mollifye, and at length Galve twic uppon hom to auswere in 40 Louthian, the Marches about Barwike, fyste, kept within name of all the reasing of the Security and wife name of all the redfine of the Scottiff and Pictille Pations, and in the ende concluded, that they were contented to graunt a peace on these tonditions: That the Romaines thoulde cease presented to from that days forwards in anys wyse to inself the Romaines or visquict by wave of any inuialion the Scottithe and Pictiffic bozders, and also to departe wholve out of those Countrepes, restoring all fuch holdes and Fortresses as they helde wythin the same. And further to belyuer all pzyso= 50 stande the state of them, and to resource the ners, pleages, and fugetynes whatfocuer as then remarking in they, bandes, together with futhe godes and sporte as they had latelye taken.

> These conditions beeing certyfied to the Romanus by they? Diatours, were gladly accepted, lith ther favor no better means, howe to delyner themselves out of that present daunger.

And so delivering sufficient Hollages for perfourmannce of all the Articles of agreement, The Romini they departed without protracting time, mar- depart out thing Southwardes to come into Kent, where Galloway. Marius king of the fouth Brytagnes foioumed agthen.

Agricola as the Scottishe Chronicks retions of appoprtment to depart, it Moulde bee 30 post, left at his departure towardes Rome, to the number of. Ir. thousande men in the Romain armie what of one and other, but nowe at they? departure out of Balloway, there remayned inneath, rr. thousande, the relidue being dispatched by one meane or other.

By this conclusion of peace then, the Scottes The Roman and Piffes got againe the whole pollettion of all give pall fuche Countrepes as the Romaines had before and formise wonne and take away from them, as the Mers, which the and Angus, woth Kple, Cantyz, Coningham, or Pichin and Galloway: all the Romaine garilons des minicas. parting oute of the fortrelles, and leaving the faine by buto the former owners.

Galous having thus ended the warres with the Romaines, twice order to let good directions amongst his people for the quiet a no peaceable government of the common wealth, viliting dayly the countreys abrode, the better to budges fame where it was necofull. Further conswering fame where it was needfull. Further continering Galder further as warre breadeth god foulbiers to peace by ech to preiustice ryddeth them out of the way, if they bet serve his so not the better monided for.

Suche as had served long time in the laste ter the weite warres, and had not any trade nowe in toute of were coled. peace whereby to get they? lyning, he placed in garrifons neare to the borders of the Brytagius to: defence of the Countrep.

After this, her came to an enteruewe woth Garnatocking of Picces at Calidone, of Kas lendar, to redreffe certain troubles rapled betweet their fubicates being borderers concerning the lis mittes of their Countrey: where perceyuing afort of civil dripoled persons to bee wholy in the fault, pporta maughtie intent to ficale and trouble the peace whiche they had with fuch travaile and labour fought to reflore, they punished the pevarted in funder with great love & friendshiv.

Thus Galous applying all his Audic and diligence to advance the common wealth and quiet flate of his Countrey, lyned many yeares to bighly in the favour of all his subjects, that the like hath beene but seldome hearde of: finally to their greate gricfe and discleasure her ended hys lyfe, more deare to them than they? owne at Er Galde depart piake, in the rreb. yeare of his raigne, (whiche at Epiake. was about the rv. peare of the Empre of A brian, the 4098 years after the worldes creation, and from the broth of our laujour, 121, and 3. H.B. offenders, and fet al things in good quiet, and fo to was burged with greate lamentation in moste 5302. H.B. pompous maner, and layde in a goodly Tunibe 103. H.B. which was rayled with mightie huge flones, ha-ung a great number of obelifies let by round a= bout it according to the maner. Furthermore to the ende his mentozie fhoulde euer endure, the Countrey where hee fought laste with the Ro= recume mains was called Baldia, after his name, which by addition of a fewe letters is nowe called Gal= lowar, and before that tyme Brygantia, as the gree with a truth, ye may reade in the Hillogie of Englande.

Mfter this famous MPzince was thus departed hence, his fon Lugthake succeeded in rule of the Scottishe kingpome, no lesse abhorred of al men for his vices iopned with all kind of crueltie and co= -uctouincile.than bis fa= ther was beloved tor his noble and excellent vers turs. This Lugthake went to farre palte the boundes of all continencie in following his lens fuali lustes, that he forced and rauished not ones. h aunt, necce, and fifter, but even his owne daughters also. Such as were honourable perlonages and meete to gouerne in the common His small rewealth he nothing regarded, but committed the nobilitie: administration of things buto bile persons, and Fauor shewed fuch as coulde best denile howe to invent quarels to men of base agaynst the riche, , whereby thep might be fleesed of all what soeuer they had: and oftentymes byon Scottes do holde: but howe that feemeth to a= 40 some forged cause cruelly putto death. So little did he provide to lee oftenditstitt any wile coz- Offenders rected, that contrarily her maintenant them in mainteyned. fuche lozte therein, that instice was quite banithed, and nothing but thouse and raume exmalric.flam ercised.

Thus he continued about the peares, to the greate rapile of the commendicalth. finally, when he wient about to put build seath suche as in an affeiniste callen at Munitaface spake adetestable and filthye 50 gainst the misopored gonernment of the realme, Lugchake he was there murthered amongest the people, woulde have with a mumber of those also showne he bled to such as spake have attendaunt on his person for safegame of against his his owne booie was folenning burget by Lugthakeis appropriment of the Pobles, having respect to murchered with a numhis fathers benefites, but the earkaffes of hys ber of his me. Garne mere call out into the fieldes, there to bee

Mogall nephew to Galdus is admire ted king, and dindreth to redictio abudenoured of beafter and by wer of raupu.

After Lugthake was thus dispatched, one Associal the Pephetuc of Galous by his daughter was admitted king in his place. Hos chiefest studie was to refourne the decayed state of his Country, and first he canted such micken-Councellours of his prevecessours and Unde Luathake, as had escaped with life within there maister was made away) to be put to beath, atcording to their full describings. It is the second exectored also the due worshipping of the Goddes, in part as then neglected, by the wicked countaile of the former rulers.

The Scottiff men in like maner concepning an affired hope of a good redictle in all their grice. the use and oppicifions, by the meanes of fuch a wel. 30 % desposed Prince, began to beare him incredible loue and favour, even the lyke as they had done to his grandlather. Galous.

In the meane time came certaine Ambassathe arde of the vours from the pictes unto this Mogall, res the Romains qurying him of ayor against the Romaines and Bertarns, who by a fodaine inuation had done much burt in Pidlande, to the great diffresse of the inhabitants.

The Romains also by letters, that the same Romains had made a root into there Countrey, and ledde away a great botic of godes and prisoners.

Mogall hauing ampndene lesse apuen to peedes of chinalric, than to the fluoic of civil gonerument and uniqueus denotion, reiorsed that he had fust occasion amount him to showe some proufe of his valuer melination, and so hereby= pon fent an theredo at armes unto the Romains. requiring to have rellitution and amendes for 50 the injuries thus by their committed.

The Peralde boing his mellage, recevued nothing but sequefull worder, and desainfull menaces, whereby Hogall beeing throughly kindled with despite, assembled his power towther forth of all the parties of his dominions, and comming with the faine into Galloway, visited his grandfathers sepulcing, tomouring the fame with great renerence and folemue supplications. requiring as it were his appeadant thole enimics, which had biolated the leadue made be imirt him and them, by foleinne other and of ther accultonuo meanes of ratification.

This done, he drewe into Annandale, where Uniparies as then king of the Pictes above hys Scott ioyal comming. There toyning their powers togy their power ther, they marched forth into Cumberland, and weither to forwarde into deleftmerlande, with fire and landes of the fronte, walting and worling those Countreys, enimies. as then belonging to the Romaines.

Lucius Antenous the Romaine Lieutenant Lieuis Aus lying the same tyme at Pozke, beeing certified nous liest hereof by such as sledde for feare out of those participe The fame time they of Galloway certified bim 40 ties thus inuaded by the Scottes, gatherro & mightic armic out of all the Countreps of Baps tapue, and halted forth with the lame towards his crimics, of whose approche Hogal hauing Mogallanotice, he made a long Deation onto his prople mento doc to encourage them to fight mainfully against the valuely. Romaines, perswaving them effectually thereto by many familier examples brought in of the baliant enterpailes atchiened by their elders, in the fence of their Countrey and libertie of the fame.

In like maner Lucius Antenous for his par nous likend erbotted the Romains and other his fouldiours, encouraged to call to remembrance the victorious explosies his folker. of their predecessours, and how that as then thepthough fight but with a rupe and barbarous proplt, running to battaile more boron a furious rage and violent madnesse, than with any dilcretion of aduited ofder, faying furthermore, that it lay nowe in their handes with no great above to.

thers sonne.

Lucius Interious having thus recepted the cuerthrow, dispatched a post onto Rome with all halte, lignifying buto the Emperour Abeian recourt that which through the nigdigent flouth of Chais Crevellius was before lost, whereby. ther flould attaine great honour and famous renoume for enermore. By this meanes the armies on both fides be= ing kindled with delire of battaile, in hope of victoric, they drew neare togither, and began the fight right fiercely at the first with throwing and floting of dartes and arrowes to thicke that one might vinneth fee another. The place was more for the advantage of the Scots than of the Romaines, bycaule thep were compelled to fight as if were by companies and partes, by reason of bogges and marifhes, with fuch fincling bankes on the Cydes that they could keepe none aray: pet all thefe impediments norwithstanding, this battaile was fought so farre forth to the utterance, that in the enve after a wonderful flaughter on both flocs made, when there smordes and other weapons were spent, 20 the power which he had brought with him from they buckled togither with that daggers. Fis nally the violent charge of the Scottes & Pictes; termines was such, that the Romaines were constrained to retrie, which their generall Antenous perceys ning, did what hee coulde to flay them, and to bring them forward againe, but as he was molt bulie in the forefront to exhort them herebuto, he as was wounded with an arrowe, and therebyon departed out of the batfaile, which gaue occasion to directle other of his companie to followe him, 30 day of two, he found neither com, not other plo- Adrian finder by meanes whereof all the relidue fell to running away, and made towards the next woo, there to faue themselves as well as they mucht, thoughe some companies percepuing that they conto not reache thither without manifest daunger, closed themselves togither and departed by an other way, which they toke at adventure, not knowing towardes what vartes they drewe, to that they lay al the night following within two miles of the Scottes and Pirtes, who for that the day 40 flided them, and that in limboth maner. In the was in maner frent (before the Romaines were put to flight,) encamped themselves in the selfe fame place where the battaile was fought, and in the morning hearing that parte of their enimies were lodged to neare them. and knew not which way to draw, they fent a mamber forth of they? campe to fight with them, and to kil them if they relified, of to bring them capting to the king if they floulde sceme willing to peebe.

Those that were thus lent, founde the Remaines in verie good order of battaile for le final a bande, not minding to peeld themselves as priloners. By reason of which their oblinate wylfulneffe, they were flaine in the ende everie mo-

The Historie of Scotlande. the inhole maner of the discomfiture, and howe that by reason therof things stop in great daunger here in Wivtaine, if speedie succours were not the coner cent, for the enimies were never more cruell and firsts, than at this melent, not onch, readic to the the men, but also the women (as in the last bat = battail as men. taile he fame plaine prouse) who cared not for the loffe of their owne loves, so that they might die reuenged.

dalhen Adrian bnderfloo thelenewes, he pur-Adria the Emposed forthwith to got hinselse into Brytagne, reth to go incauling therefoze an armie to be levied, he palled to Brytzyne. forth with the same into Fraunce, then called

Ballia, and comming to Callice, he transported ouer into Beytayne, where her learned howe the poneth into Scottes and Pilles were neuer moze bulle than Brytayne. at this present, having of late walted and spoyled

the Countrep even to the Biver of Tine. Herewiff Adrian being fore offended, iopned Rome, with the other which he had caused to be Adrian comrapled in France and Beptapne. This done; he remousd to Porke, where foigurning certains dapes to refresh his monte, he afterwardes drewe tomardes the borders, and comming to the river of Tine, he nessed over the lance.

trop wherein was left no kinds of earthly thing ver the river feruing to mans ble, and to valling forwards a milion of hittaile, not any kind of kuing creature, nothing a-all the people being fled into the mountaines and brode in the marrill groundes, where no man might come his enimies. buto them, as comonly in case of extreme dautiarr they mere accustomen to lie abroade in the fame without house by any conerture ouer theb? heaves. Dowbeit for all that he game not mixe to What maner purfue them, but finding themout where they had to doc lurgen in the billes and thought, be grienoully # with. etwe elpping the barrensell of the tople, ru nesse of the people, and that there was no have lette to come by sufficient passations of the man-tenance of his arms, he appropriately to suppose any longer time in suche a haire annual size and therefore returned timo since with reto reflectue the Septement of the Repetation of the Beptation of the the Beptation of the the the the the second of the to the equipment the large, from the make and of Time to the equipment the large, from the model of the Britagues and the second of the Britagues and the second of the second

The Scottill Chronicles make mention that it was begonne by Abrian, but not finished the wryters do the dayer of the Emperour Severus, who made confirme the an ende of it, and therefore the fame Chronicles fame. name if the wall of Septimins Senerus.

The fourth day after, he came into a Count He paffethomade or the inner lyde of the fame, of time and gainst the Picts & Scots.

Mogall prepareth to the WATTES. Mogal visiteth his grandfati ers fe-

Mogal is be-loued of las Scots against

iouade the Mogall re-

intion of

quireth refti

wrongs done

by the Ro-maines.

Scottilli bor-

Inbiects.

--- Avianus having thus dispatched in the Adrian retur-Poinc.

Adrian com-

meth to Lon-

Aulus Victotorinus Lieutenat of Bry-

The Scottishe men and Pict double the: yonde Tine betwirt them.

pride abuleth of vices.

Porth partes of Brytayne, in hysrctume bifited Whales with the Marches of the lame, let= ting an order amongelt luch as had moued a commotion agaynst the Magistrates in those partnes, the Authours whereof hee punished accoroing to their offences, and fo then he came to London, whither at the same tome a great num= ber of the Byptagne Pobilitie relozted to doe hee for his parte shewed them suche friendlye entertaynment, that they coulde not wille any better.

After this he layled ouer into Fraunce, taneth towards king Lucius Intenous with him, bycause hee coulde not away with the agre of Brytagne, in whole place he left one Aulus Clistozinus Lieutenant there, who disposed dynerse garrisons of Souldiours in places neare buto the foreremem= beed delall, for veferice of the inhabitauntes a= 20 gavnst the violence of the Scottes and pictes. Telho freing this bemeanor of the Romaines, denided those landes and Countreys (whiche they had lately wasted on the further syde of Tine in suche sorte betwyrte them, that all whatsoener lage towardes the Triffe Sea, re= mayned to the Scottes, and the rest coasting upon the Ilmayne Seas, fell unto the Pittes countreys be- for their portion.

quiet without any trouble of enimics. But being Mogal throgh puffed op in prove by fuche notable victories as he had thus got of the Romaines the conque= numerican fundric kindes rours of the worlde, her coulde not in tyme of peace mailtet hys owne burnly annefores. but that drowned in the folthic lustes of the bodge, her spared neither Wayde, Allydome nor wrte.

Againe her was given to luche movenchable couetyle, that nothing mighte fulfice bym. fonding many forged matters against the riche, whereby to bereue them both of life and substaunce. Dee was the fysit whiche orderhynn honour, according to theyr duties. And 10 ned that suche as were banished or condems A courtous ned for anye cryme, thoulde forfeyte all they? and cruel dinance. landes and godes wethoute any confideration had, epther to work or cholde, whiche is obferued at the full even buto thele oure dayes, where before it was otherwyle in that Countrey.

But these so notable vices in the Prince soulde not long continue bupunished, for at length a conspiracie was pradiled against him, whereof hee having knowledge (whether by A coassis witchcraft or otherwyle by relation of friends, attempted the certaintie is not knowne) in the deade of gayoff Ma the night her armed himselfe, and with two of Mogali & his fernauntes onely fledde to the next wood, out of his not gruing notice of his departure to any other ownelow of his householde.

The morning being come, and knowledge had how he was thus departed, the confpiratours pursued after him, who percepuing them to av-Afrer this Mogall lived many yeares in god 30 proche, lought waves how to have escaped their handes: but such was his happe that heefell amongest other that were as readie as the fyell to weake their malice oppon him, and to by them Mogalia hee was immediately murthered in the tribi, thered peare of his raigne, beeing the. 4136, of the world, and after the brith of our Saufour 169. Antonnis Hius then governing the Romaine Emprer, and Phiatus furnamed Albus, raig-धीवतिः, १०० छाल्यः विवासः ning amongelt the pides. Dis heare beite inuiters off, was fet bypon a poles subt, and carred aboute in decidion : but afreiwartes inrespect of his lyringett was burged top: to the boote by appropriment of the nobles, not= 20 withstanzing the commons thought it moste omogethic of any fuch honour.

The Historie of Scotlande.

Ming thus dispatched, as pe haue heard, his sonne Conarus was ad nutted King. ported) was privile to the cospiracte des

viled agaphit his father, and as hee came to the gourmment by wicked meanes, to in the endehee vled hymselse muche what accordinglye in the same: for after hee had for a tyme dillem= bled hys naughtie nature, he benanne at the last openly to thewe himselfe in his right colours. publike affances buto men of bale conditions

His chiefe delyaht was altoayther in ban = Conarus given quetting and costly fare, not regarding the aun's to excessive worthie antecellours.

cient temperancie in freding vled amongst hys gluttonie. In wasting therefore has kingly reites newes uppon such rvotous excelle, her was nothing abalthed to require in an open affemble of hys Pobles, a sublidie to bee graunted towardes the maintenaunce of suche royall checre, as her indeed to frand with his honour to have who (as is re- 30 dayly in his house: Anotherefore whereas the tentes that belonged to the diame were not lufficient to furnishe the charges, he requelted a generall contribution to her lenied throughe the Realme, of enerie person according to they? ani= lities, for the maintenaunce of luche luperilhous expences as her dayly bled in excelline banketting.

The Lordes instruerling to heare hym make any fuch pemaunde, and rondverting wythall committing fielde of all the administration of 40 the occasion thereof, they asked respite to make they aunthorsety the next day whiche beding The Lordos graunted in the night following they commin conspire aned fectetely togother, and in the ende conclu- parus. ben, not onely to demie has requelt, but alle to proofe him that kingly gonernment, lithe his naughtie liteirequezed no leffe.

The next day therefore when they were != gaine let docume in the Countell Chamber, one of them in name of the relidue; take opon hym to speake, declaring that the Lordes and Come The answere mong of the Realme, marnepled not a little hood to the Lordes it thould conte to palle, that the king having no of Conarus. marres wherewith to confirme his treasure; thoulde yet bee enforced to bemaunde a tailage for maintenaunce of his effate and charges of hys householde, but the faulte was kusione well proughe to refte in fuche as hee molle betweethylge has preferred to mile thingen

Conarus is taken and com-

Congruehis

ministersare

buder him, who being come of naught, did no= thing but device meanes howe to cause the king to sworle his naturall subjectes of there awdes and possessions, therewith to enriche themfelies, but, (fayeth he) as they fiall be mouided for well proughe ere long, and so aduaun= ced, as they field not neede to thyest for other mennes lyuings, that is to mitte, even to a faire paper of Ballowes, there to ende their lives with fliame, as a number of fuche other lolengers 10 had often done befoze them: so it is convenient that the King lithe his skill is so small in the administration of his office, soulde bee thutte bu in some one Chamber or other, and suche a one to have the governaunce of the Realme as may be thought by common affent of the Lords most meete to take it byon him.

The King hearing this tale, started by, and with a loude popce beganne to call them tray= tours, adding that if they went about any hurte to dition amongst the nobles, supposing it to make to his person, they shoulde deare abre the bargaine. But notwithstanding these wordes, such Bitted to close as were appoputed thereto, caught him berwirt them, and had him forth to a place affigued where they lapde hom uppe manare all his re-

In lyke maner, all suche as had borne offices hinder him, were attached and had to villou. Bunished for tohere the most part of them byon examination taken of their offences, fuffered beath according to their iust demerites.

Then was the rule of the Resime comment = Argade ted buto one Argadus, a man of noble byth, and cho'ento ruler of Argyle, who buder the name of a Go-Reilme. nernour take byon him the publike regiment till other aduile might be taken.

his studie in the begynning was oncly to clenic the Countrey of all mylovers, and to fee the veace kept to the quiet of the people: and finally in all his doings flewed a perfite natrone of an buzicht Jufficier. But within a fem peares after (as it often happeneth) prosperous successe Argadus chaunged his former mynde to an enill dispoli-finer, tion, whereby he ordered things after his owne felfewill moze than by reason, without the abuile Profesion of his peeres.

And further to the manifelt mone of the common wealth, he nouriffied civill discorde and sefor his welfare, so long as they were at oddes. he also marved a Dictill Ladie, the better to frenc= then himselfe by this his forraine aliaunce.

Herenvon the Pecres of the Realme buderstanding what mischiese might ensue by these manifolde and fundzie abuses of the governour. caused a Parliament to be called, where in pre= fence of the whole affemblie, they laybe buto his charge, howe (that through his milgouernment and prefumption, not onely in coupling himfelfe in marrage with a wife of a ftraunge Pation, but also soz attempting many other things pre= 50 judicial to the estate of the Realme, without con= fent of the Pobles of Commons of the same) he had defermed overmous punctument, his trefpasse being so much the greater, in 's considering the meane howe he came to that dignitie, he an= Apered not their expediation, not performed the trust which was generally committed but bini.

Argadas is

Argadus hearing himselfe thus charged, and not able to lay any likely excuse, fell bippon bes Ar knecs, and partly as it were confesting his faunt with traces gulhing fro his eyes, belought them of parron, wholy submitting himselfe to bee ofbered at their discretion.

The Lozdes being moued with this humble fubmission of Argadus, byon promise he shoulde Argad redictie al his former mildemeanours, were con comme tented that he fould continue fill in the admis bisels nistration

The Historie of Scotlande.

militation of the Braime, but lucheas had beene us circlest Councellours were committed to or and of the Market Market Breeze

Mitribis Charpe admonition and marning thus miren. Argaduse indunothing touching the querroten of the common which, without the admice of his Petren papalinge: after amougelt other things, he take order for the limitting how farre the authoritie of inferiour officers, as Bay= liffes, Bosonghmaisters, Constables, and such other Moulde extende. But especially he trauai= led moste viligently for the punishing of thecues and robbers, of whom none escaped with life that fell into his handes.

Moreover het orderned by statute, that no man ererciling any publike office, thould talk of any dinke that might make him drunken. Hee fing of velicate meates, and as I may call them, Deputie diffics, or banketting cheare, to alluve mennes appetites from the olde rude face accus flomed amonall their clotes, who fought not to follow they? delicious appetites, but orthypisuided to fultayne nature, which is fatisfied with alittle, and that boyde of tollly furniture.

Argadus thus beeing occupied in reforming the state of the common wealth, brought many were voright livers of themselves, endevozed still to proceede forward to better and better.

It length in the eight yeare of his gouern= ment Conarus beeing confunito with long im= pulonment, departed onte of this life, in the fourtenth yeare after the bearining of hys

After whose whose the estates of the realine alebling themselves togi= ther, chose one Ethodius, De= phew to King Mocall by hys lister, coraigne ouer them.

Bue Acgadus being highly rewarded with landes and lyuings for his faythfull and diligent also vanished all suche persons as vied with dress 30 paymes taken in the adulum cement of the publike wester during the time of his government, mas thereto Cone after created as it were Lorde President of the Countell, thereby to bee chie Argadus is fest in authoritie nert to the king, in the ordering president of and rule of all publike affavres and causes.

bhoetly after Ethodius (as the cultome of newe kinds in those dapes was) went over into the mesterne Ties, there to take order for the ladministration of instice, where tunnediately bron tuill doers into good frame and order, and luck'as 40 his arrival, it was the wed him that not palling timo on three dayes before, there had bene a great collict fought betwirt b nobles of clamps of the Civil discorde countrey, by reason of a trife that was stirred a amongst the monall their letuants, being a copany of naugh- iles. tie and puruly fellowes, to the great disquiet of Herebpon was Argadus lent forth incontil Argadus is fent forth to neith with a power to appeals that bulinelle, and apprehend the to being in the offenders, that they might recepue rebelles. nobles and other 50 rewarde according to their denterites. Argadus forthwith halten towards the place, where he but deritord the rebelles to be remayning, and appres hending their whole nuber of the, some by force, and some bod their humble submission, he retur= ned back with them to the king, who canling the matter to be throughly heard, flich as were p thie-fell beginners, a most in fault, were pumished by belies are pudeath, and the other fined at the kings pleasure. nished.

The Flande people beeing thus appealed, the king returned into Albion, where as then lying at Ennerlochthee, a towne (as is fayde) in The Romains Louchquiaber, worde came buto him, o the Ro-Pietith & Scot maines had broken downe the Wall buylded by tish borders. the Emperour Zozian, and made a greate rode into the Scottille and Pickille bozders, where meeting with the Inhabitantes affembled toayther in defence of they? Countrey (after a loze conflict the victorie remayned with the Romaines: by reason wherof they led a great botte of cattel and other godes away with them to the places where they foiourned.

Ethodius beeing moued herewyth, tente quyreth restitution of his fwethweth an iperalde buto Clicoque the subiects goods Romaine Lieutenant, requyzing that his subtaken away by iectes nipghte haue rectitution of theyz gwoes the Romains. wronofully taken from them, or elle to loke for warres within.rv.dapes after.

Victorines. Ethodius requeit.

Ethodius re-

Scottes and Pictes had forft begonne to breakt bosone the foresayor Mall, and to buyloe a Tower oppose the same, fortifying it with a number of menne of warre, who running day? lve into the Birtishe confines, fetched prayes thence from amongest the Romaine subiects, and thoughe hee had lent dynerse tymes to the Scot= tishe and Picishe Wardens for restitution, yet coulde hee neuer have anye towardly answere, so that hee was constrained to beginne the 30 warre in manner and fourme as hee had done alreadic.

Ethodias exhorteth the king of the warres again it the Romains.

Ethodius not a little kynoled with this an= fwere, wrote strength waves buto the King of the Pictes, exhorting him in reuenge of fuche in-Picts to make juries as his subjectes had lately recepued at the handes of the Romaines, to inuade the Wall on that fode where it devided his Countrey from the Bertannes, and to becake in bypon the enimies by the same, and for his parte hee promised 40 Brytaine. Mostly after to come, and to iopne with him in such a necessarie enterprise against the common entimics of both their Countreyes.

> The Picish king giving thankes to the melsenger for ins paynes, promised with all speede to lette forwards according to the advice of E= thodius.

The Romaines in like maner having knowledge of the whole intention of the two Kings. with all specde made preparation also for the 50 not a house left standing, nor a graine of come, warren, but the Scottes and Pickes firft brea-The Scottishe king in byon them, did much burt absode in the Countrepes next adiopning. Which when the Romains percepued, they passed by the entinies campe in the night scalou, and entered into the Pickfile borders, walting and sporting all a= delhen the two Kings biverstode this, they

halled forth towardes them, and were no lune come within light of theme, but that they make eche towardes other, and so encountering then The Ros ther, there was fought a foze barraile with boult - cocoacin full vidrozie, for the right wings on spring that were p banquithed the leave other breakes unibottenthe dattaples keeping theppeground, stheorem once theinking backe from the other toll night highepa tenered them in lunder, but not without suche Haughter made on bothe fodes, that being once parted, they made no greate halfe toigpue agarne fogyther: for as well the one parte an the 10 offer beging thus offenced, drew inconfinently homewardes without abyding for the morning. Peither vid they attempt any further exploite of all that yeare following.

In whiche means tyme Willopine lent let. Victoria ters buto Rome to the Emperour Marcus In- deth len toning Ancelius, who as then gonemen the Microzine answered herebute, that the 20 Empyze', signifying buto him in what flate things stode in Byptaine: Kurther beckaring that if convenient fuccours were not fink in tome, it woulde bee harde to relift the finious rage of the enimies, by reason of the small trust hee percepued was to bee had in the Busines, beging no lette readie uppon occasion to make warres in recouerie of their libertie, than the Scottes or Pickes were too encreche hupon them,

The Emperour boon recent of their lefters. thought in his minde that Willozine was not so valiannt a Captaine as the cale requiped, and that therebypon the Scottes and Picces became the more emboloened to relift, therefore hee linte for him home, appoynting one Agricola Calphurnius to succeede in hys rune, who was purpera (as some haue lefte in weyting.) the Perhem Romen of Julius Agricola, the moste famous Cap- fentus tapne of the Romaines that ever came into raine 10

This Calphurnius comming into Beptain with an armie, iopned to the lame the power which he founde there, as well of the Bentagnes as of other ferning under the Romaine enfigues. Which done, he revayed to Poeke, and after Calphan towardes the River of Tine, where beeing arys entirch ned, he marched forth into the borders of his enimyes, finding all the Countrey rounde aboute him to clearly walted and burned, that there was of one heade of Cattell to be founde therein. Pet not with standing al this, forth he passed through Porthumberlande, and entering into Dictiande walted al that was before him with fire e fword. And for so muche as Winter came byon, when hee had done his will in that behalfe, heeretur ned buto Pozke, where hee Colourned butill the recursed Spring. When

When Sommer was once come, having made his providion to warre on the Scottes and : Pilits, wolde came buto him, that the Welch= men were renolted, and beganne to raple warre agapust the Romaines, so that taking order for the repaying of the Wall made by Adrian, which the enimies in dynerie places had broken downe, and leaving a sufficient number of men of warre for defence of the same agapust all in= residue of his power agaynst those Welche Rebelles, whome in the ende, though not without much ado he reduced to obedience.

Immediately after this, Te heard also howe the Brytaynes of the Ille of Might were vnin annot agaynft fuche Romaines as ruled there, fundzie noble men of the maine I fle faking their part, but they also were at length brought againe to their former subjection, and the authours of that revellion punished by death.

In the meane tyme the Scottes and Pictes determined not to attempt any further exployte agaynst the Romaines, doubting the verie name and linage of Agricola in the Lieutenaunt Calphurnius, by calling to remembrance the noules me Sent atchieued conquelles of his grandfather Juking Agricola, of whole victorious exploptes, belyde that which pe have here befoze heard: the English historie also both make a long rehearfall.

to re- intended wholy to reform al milorders amonalithe Bartagnes, which being brought to indiffe rent god palle, he was lent for home againe bue to Rome by the Emperour Antonius Commodus, the sonne and successour of the fozerement= but Marcus Aurclius, sending one Publius Exclusion Brytagne there to supplie has

This Trebellius comming into Beytain, at Miching all honor and love towardes the Brys taynes, subjectes to the Romaine Empyre, and namely to Lucius, who raigned as king of the lande, buder the name and authoritie of the Romaine Emppre.

But after that he had once wonne him a peece of credit amongst them, he chaunged his maners, or rather discourred his naturall inclination, so wholv given to covetousnesse, that his only stucaring howe untruly hee forged acculations a= garnife the riche, so that eyther by death or banistiment, their godes might be confiscate, and so come to his handes.

By this wicked government, the Bertaines biganne so soze to hate him, that had it not beene for the loue of their king, the forelayde Lucius, who holds to appeals them) there had beene some Rebellion practised agapuste him in the South part.

Powthe Scottes and Pickes hauting know= ledge of this milliking in the Bzytayus towards The Scottes the Romaine Lieutenant, thought it a time con- nue the warre ucnient for them also to be boing, to the ende they against the might renenge their former iniuries: and bere= Romaines. byon longing an armie, they came to the oft remebred wall a sycrthrowing the same in diverse ualions that might bee attempted, he turned the 10 places then entred into the British collines with great spople and crueltie.

Trebeilius being hercof infozured, halled fazth with all the power he coulde make, to relist their inualions: but finding the enimies readye in the field, and encountring them concerts an he loked for he was even boon the first topning abadoned Trebellius of the moll part of his whole armie, whiche con = fighteth with filted of Butains & frenchme, the called Gauls, his enimies, is fortaken of his fo that the relione beeing beaten downe, he was owne men, and 20 glad to lang himselfe as well ag he might by fet= chased out of ting the finits to his horse, and galloping away. the fielde.

After this gathering togither his people again Westmerland as they fled from the piscomfiture, he retired back, and Kendall with them onto Pozke, having loft in this bicke-spoyled by the ring a great number of his balt Coldiers, and men and Pictes. of warre: for the Scottes and Pictes milling no finall number of their frends in that battaile, wer not latisfied with those whom they had like wople. Cain in the fight, but also fel opon their prisoners Calphurnius being thus at quiet on that Mor; 30 which they had taken, and flug them also in renenge of their fellowes whom they had loft.

Afterwards they harried the coutreys of dileftmerland and Rendal in most cruel wife, Trebels lius not being so hardy to fight with them again, for doubt of some traine that might bee prafiled by the Bytaines . Pether was his suspition grounded bean the credite of any light information, as may appeare by that which followed: for immediately after, the Comons of the countrey. the first vico himselse very vpzightly in his office, 40 rose against the Romaines, in purpose to have driven them all out of the land.

The Brytisha The captain was one a slooper a Did born. Comois rife There were also diperte of the Britille nobilitie against Treamongell them not knowne, for they were dis bellius, one Caldorus 2 quiled in strange apparel, counterfeiting them. Pict beeing relues to be of the buildar wire. Appe to the politike people was great, but yet in the ende the politike. The same comorder of the Romains banquiffed them, howbeit mons are yanguished. felues to be ofthe bulgar fort. The farie of their captaine.

Talpozus flet whiche way to fill his bagges, not 50 Calpozus escaping the handes of his entimies, fled into his native countrep. of Pictiand, not a little reiogling that he had procured luch Caugh- ioyceth at the ter among the Romaines and Brytaines, both flaughter as being enimies to him and his countrep

Suchepuloners alle af the Beytaynes as part as of the fell into the hands of the Romains, were hanged by, opon lundzie trees and gibets : wherest other of the Bertains being afterper in p night feston men & Pictes inuade the Brytish borrhe Biytaynes fliewed towardes the Romaines.

twice bowns those deade bodies, and hanged up as many of the Romaines in they, places, the truth becing never knowne who were the doirs of that act.

Trebellius writeth to the modus jor ayde.

the Scots and Pertinax is chosen Emperour.

Argyle infe-fied by the Hand men.

The Vicutenant Trebellius perceyuing thus what vaunger he stode in on euerie part, weste buto the Emperour Commodus, that withoute Emperor Co- some resognation were hav, the Romaines were not like to keepe fote any long fealon in By tapne, and therefore required to have some appe fent ouer unto him in time. But the Emperour boubting leaft the fault refted moft in the Licu-Pertinax sent tenant himselse, appoputed that one Pertinax an 30 him by battaste, if he minded to offer it. In which as Lieuctenant auncient gentleifiah, + one for his high and no= table vertues greatly ellermed both amongst the men of warre, and also in the Senate, Could go into Bertaine, to bee Legate there in place of Trebellius.

This Pertinar comming into Biytain, accozding to the Emperours appointment, take vpon him the office. And fielt letting a flave a= mongst the Beptaines, by right pendent and wel aduised gouernmet, he afterwards made a jour = 40 did what in him laye to bring them againe into Pertiaux dri- ney agapult the Scottes and Piffes , depuing uethback both them by great flaughter beyonde Loziaus wall, and to constreyned them to remaine within their own confines, purlaing them no further, for that her was sente for home onto Rome, where the Emperour Commodus breing murthered a= mongst his owne nien, he was against his will preferred to his place.

About the same time the fate of the Scottish common wealth was brought into great daun- 50 woulde gladly haue bene gone, but by realou of a ger through an other incident, as be reason of a rebellion stirred by them of the westerne Iles, who not quieted in their fomackes for the Death of their friendes erecuted by Argadus as before pe haue beard affeinbled thefelues togither, and comming ouer into Argyle, spoyled and harryed the countrey in pitcous wife. For redreffe whereof, Tryadus was sent thither agains with an arme, and in the means time Ethodius the king with a great holt of Scottille men and Bides lapin campeneare unto Adjians wall, torelift the invalion of the enimies on that lyde, if happe= by they floudo attempt any new exploye against him in those partes.

The Flande men hearing of Argadus hys approche, viewe themselues togither to recepue meane time two thousand Frishe men were lan- The Frish ded in that Countrey, in hope of spople, and hea- lande ring that Argadus was comming that wayes Arey forth to fight with his enimics, they lay be theinselves secretely in ambushe by the way where hee The Triff Coulde patte, and when he was patted by them, lay an amb they brake forth bypon his rerewards foodinly, to entired mutting his mondain free fooding, Argadus, putting his people in suche disorder by their biolent impression at the first brunt, that though he aray of battaple, yet in the ende hee was there Argidusis flaine with two thousands of his armite, the re-flaine. sidue escaping by flight out of the handes of their wilde and cruel enimies.

Ethodius hauing knowledge herrof, with an armic of. rr. thousand men hafted forth towards Argyle to renenge the death of his valiant Cape taine Argadus buon the rebelles. Colho hearing of his comming, made towardes the sta, and contrary winds they were forced to stay agayus their willes, so that hee finding them still in the Countrey, wrought to warrly by cloting them by among the Hilles and Mountagnes, that is men yee! nally constrained through famine, they sminit = chemiciacited thenefelues byon thefe conditions, that their heade Captaine with two hundred others of the chiefest, foulde perlo themselnes simplie to the kings mercie, and the relique to be licenced to bepart againe into their Countreys.

Those that were appoputed to bee delivered to the king with their captaine, suffered death by Execution.

fentence of the Pobles and Peeres of the realme. Cothereat the other taking indignation, thoughe they hav alreadie yecloed bype they? weapons, pet beganne they to fall hppon the Scottes with burling of stones, and other suche things as came to hande, tell finallye they were beaten downe by the armed Souldiers, and a greate number of them slapne: the residue els caping as well as they myght, fledde into the 30 Mountarnes.

The Illande menne beeing thus banqui= flied, and the Romaines attempting nothing a= garnst the Scottiste men of Pictes, Ethodius vilited all the partes of his Realme, taking offer for the due execution of Justice amongest hys lubicits.

Ind for that her woulde not wende his time in idlenesse, beeing nowe at rest from warres, hee beganne to exercise himselfe in hunting, and 40 for the better nourishing of game, hee toke or= der that all suche ordinances as had beene deui= -u- sed by his cloers, shoulde straptely bee observed and kept: as that no man (houlde bee so harvie to goe aboute to destroy any Pares with nettes, grennes, or harepppes : Peither to kill them in they, formes by anye meanes: not after that they had beene once coursed and escaped, to follow the fute, to the entente to flarte them a= kyll anne Harte or Hynde, during all the dilinter feason, at what tyme they were accustomed for hunger to leave the Mountagnes, Fozrifles, and delimbors, and to come downe into the fictors and courtes, neare buto the townes and houles.

the orderned moreover therunto, that no man fioulde presume to kill any hinde Calues, Des testing nothing more than to have suche game destroyed, as served for the exercise and solace of him and his Pobles.

The other vacant tyme, whilest hee rested from bunting, hee spent for the molle parte in bearing of Mulick, having diverte cuming play. ers of fundzie kindes of Instruments attending in his court.

At length letting all his pleasure in hearing of a Musician beging borne in one of the gapne. Also that none houlde goe aboute to 50 west Ales, hee was murthered by him in the Ethodius must night time within his owne chamber. The mur Musician. therer bering apprehended, and eramined won 194.H.B. what occasion hee did that hepmous task, for the which he had deferued the most extreme kinds of, punishment that might be benised, he autwered: that in revenge of the beath of luche his kills men and friendes as the King hadde cauled to bee executed in Argylt , hee purposed long before to doe that deede, and nowe that hee had accomplished hys purpole, hee was readie to tetique what kynds of death they woulde adjuoge him to. For fure Jam of this, fapeth he, that howe terrible so ever my execution thall be, peteran it not be so paincfull, but that I shall reionce even in the berie inffaunt of nin beath for that I have in suche notable sozie renemard the mathes of all my kynlings and friends. Finally by commaundement of the Magiltrates he mas deawne in peeces with wilde horses in moste violent wise.

The Historie of Scotlande.

Septimus Seucrus. H.B.

Ethodius raigned. erriif. yeares, untyli the latter payes of Caracalla the Emperour. Dee was buryed at Dunstafage with all fuche pom= pous ceremonies as was accustomed about the entercement of kings in that age.

In his dayes Lucius the King of Bzytaine Brytaynere- recepued the fayth with a great part of his people, beeing the years after the byth of our Sa= uiour, as the Scottes Chronicles haue 18 7. but after the Bartill 177. Alfter the Satrahel.

in the yeare

Adocath of Ethodius, his biother Satra hell as some write hom, was chosen to fucceed by the common contes of al the estates of the Realme. For although Ethodius left a sonne behinde him, pet bycause her was very rong in yeares, her was thought insufficient to have so great a charge (as the rule 50 of a kingdome' committed buto his handes.

Thrs Sattabell was fubtile of nature, and a create dissenibler, whose purpose was to de= fraude the issue of his beather Ethodius from attaphing at any tyme buto the rule of the kingpome, and therefore to bring hys purpole the better to paffe, bee founde fogged matter agaruft all fuch as were familier friends onto Cthodius, thereby to put them buto death. Repther dealt hee any thing more fincerely with a great number of other of his wealthie subiedes, whole landes and quotes her onely lought to enioge at 30 his owne will.

By nicanes whereof luche milchete enlued Discard through the Realme, and such civil sedition days among the ly rose amongst the people, that pitie it was to people in beholde it: the king bering not so bolde all the government while, as once to flicine his face abzode to; n= dielle thereof, by reason hee understwie well ys noughe what hatred the people bare towardes hym, neyther did his keeping within dozes gledroid fauc his lyfe any long tyme, for in the ende his by his on hel of Serra- 40 owne servauntes founde meanes to trangle servant him, and that before hee had raigned fully foure 197. I peares.

The Historie of Scotlande.

112 place fucceeded his brother Donald, a Sprince of far cotrary nature and conditions, for he was free, curteous, and without al decepte, more rightcous than rigorous, & afore all things delegous that peace and concorde might profper among his subieds. Peither bare he with offenders, but suche as were disobedient against the lawes t whollome ordinances of the realme, he caused to be duely punished: finally he toke such 20 offer for reformation of things, that hee reduced his subjects as it had beene from a wolde and sanage rudenelle, buto a perfect civill trade of hu=

Aboute the same time Lucius king of the Birtapnes beeing deade, the Romannes percryuing that a Kings authozitie amongelt the Bertapnes, did nothing else but diminishe the maiestic of the Imperial iuristician amongest Byrtishe Pation to enjoy that title.

This thing moued the Baptaynes to inche indignation, that by procurement of one fulgentius, opuerle of them rebelled, and choling the fame fulgentius to they arenerall, they ove reffed a Mellenger with letters unto Donalde King of the Scottes, requiring him to forme with them in league agapuste they auncient chimpes the Romaines, whole endeuour (as howe to bring the whole Flande buder: Geyr subjection, and to extinguishe all the Pobilitie and auncient inhabitours of the same. Indiana furthermore, that if he wonlive nowe put to hose helping hande, the time never ferued better for the dispatching of them whollo out of the Alle: confidering the fundrie revellions attempted as will by the people of Germanye...and Fraunce, as also of the easterly Pations and Countrys.

Donald recepted the Mellenger molt friendelr, and being glad to understance of these newes, hee promised to appe fulgentius with all the rower he was able to make, and to meete hom at suche day and place as bee shoulde afterwards appornt. The lyke answere was made also by the king of Pittes, buto whom in Cemblable wife fulgentius had directed his letters.

Thus the Beptapues being confirmed with The Brytaynes hope of great appe from the Scottes and Pictes) ans wall, and assembling their hoste touther, resorted buto the pull it downe wall of Adrian, which they ourrthrew in diverse to let in the places, that their friendes might have the moze free accesse and entrie buto them by the same. Prither were the Scottes and Pilles Come for The Scottiffe thepz part to make forwarde: fo that they like = men & Pictes wele comming thither, holpe to throwe nowne come to the while comming thinker, hothe to the death and of the ande of the Biggaynes. ment alonalt the lame.

Thys done, iopning they powers togither, they valled fouth towardes Porke, inhope to The Scors and have sounde the Romaine Lieutenaunt Tre= Pictes inuade bellius within that Citic, and to haue besieged the Brytayness him therein: But having knowledge howe hee was withdrawne into Keut, there to gather a power, they lefte they? purpose of besteging that The Scottes Citie, and fell to spoyling and harrying of the helpe the Bry-Countrey abzoade on cueric lyde, constrayning tayns to spoile the moste parte of the people to come in and countrey. peelde themselues under they obersance.

Thus they continued in palling from one quarter of the Countrey to another, till Winfer enforced them to breake bype their campe, and to lycence the Souldiours to departe home into they? Countreps, tyll they had newe summonance to assemble and meete againe.

In this meane tyme Crebellius certifped Trebellius them, determined not to suffer any moze of the 30 the Emperour Senerus of all thys trouble and errificis the British Dation of All thys trouble and Emperour of rebellion in Baptaone, wherevevon Senerus the flate of with all speede leuged an armie, and lette foz= Biytaine. warde with the fame himfelfe in person towarde-Beptayne, as in the Englishe Hiltogie morg nlainly it may appeare.

At his comming into Bertaine, hee flacken notime, but affembling his power, prepared to go agapust the enimies.

Fulgentius poubting the force of his enimies becknewe) had euer beene from tome to tomes 40 fent Imballadours onto him to treate for peace, but Severus woulde not graunt to any, wherebyon fulgentius confirmed the myndes of the Fulgentius end Beptaynes with all comfortable wordes, in the courageth the bell wife her coulde, exporting them to flicke to Brytiynes to flicke ynto they negellarilye begonne enterpiple, tog te their begun couerie of they? long wolled libertie, whiche enterprise. he doubted not, but by panquilling the Emperson at that prefent, they Monlae affincealps attayne: And as for vifforie, ber was in ma 50 boubt, so that they woulde plucke their beartes buto them, and trie it footh, manfully by dynte of Swozde lyke fellowers and brethzen knifts in one faythfull bande of trulipe concorde, confydering the enimyes armie berpng gathered of to many fundric nations and languages, that conlent in one opinion, the chiefelt meane for the atterning of victorie, mult needes ber wanting amongst them.

keth to dethrey fuch as deceilor.

Satrabel fee-

Seuerus setteth forth towardes his enimies.

countered by

withdraweth

The Byrtagnes moned herewith, promifed hom to line and ope in the quarell. delhere= upon he take aduice with them, whiche way to mainteyne themselues agayuste Seuerus, of whose comming they were alreadie certified. For Severus having dispatched the Brytiste Amballadours from him, fet incontinently fozwarde towards Poske leaving his yonger some named Geta in the South partes to have the gouernaunce of the same in hys absence. Hys 10 ring the puyssaunce that was readie bent against elvest sonne Autoninus he twke with him in this iourney agaynst his enimies.

At his comming to Porke, hee vid facrifice severus com- to the Boddes, according to his Ethnishe cufrome, and also twice addice with his Captaines howe to proceede in his enterpile against hys enimies.

This done, he marcheth fouth with hys armie towardes them, who beeing alreadie iopned with the Scottes and Pides, were determined 20 to the lubiedes of the Romaine Empyre, and Severus is en- to abrote him, in so much that those of the one five came no somer in fight of the other, but that they halted forth to joyne togyther in hattayle, whereof ensued great flanghter betwirt them, though the Bertiste part (nowithstanding their apor of Scottes and Piffes were not able long to endure agaynst the great multitude and practyled fkil of the Romaine Souldiours, to that in Fulgentius is the ende they were opened perforce and put to flight with the losse of err. thousande, what of 30 as his son Antoninus wished, in hope after him Beptapnes, Scottillmen and Pides.

Fulgentius himselfe seeing the discomsiture and huge flaughter made of his people, had run in amongst the thickelt preace of his enimpes, had not those that were aboute him ledde him away by force, and to at length he got him among the troupes of the Scottiste men and Pistes, and togyther with them palled ouer Tine, and so into the borders of his friendes, where he got togyther suche Souldiers as he coulde, that had 40 Politoxie of Englande it appeareth. escaped from the battail, and retayined them with wages so well as her myght, in hope upon occation to employ them eftiones againle his eni= nives. The Scottes also sent into Frelande for ande, and the Pickes into Denmarke and Norway.

Suche of the Beytille Pobilitie as fell in= to the handes of the Romaines, Senerus puniffed molle grienoully, but the Commons be bled mote gentlye, as it were making er= 50 enfe for them bering procured thereto by they? Cantaines.

After this, when Winter was come, bee appointed by menne of warre to drawe unto places concenient for them to longe in, toll the eieth it York, nert Spring. Der himlelfe wintered at Porke.

In the next Sommer there was little bone worthis to be spoken of, but that there were cer-tayne thirmithes betwirt the Romaines lying on the borders, and the Scottes and Pictes, &ner as occasion served, either of the parties to morke any exployte for they, aduauntage. But forsomuche as the Scottes had no apde sente them forth of Irelande, they were not mynded to icoparoc againe in a foughten ficide, lumofing it sufficient if they might defend their ofone. thoughe they gayned nothing as then, confidethem.

At length Seucrus fell licke at. Porke, and his some Intoninus lying on the bozders beyonde neth. Tine, caused the wall afore mentioned, deup= ding the Bystayns from the Scottes and pids The wallis to be repayled.

This wall was buylt (as is before recyted) first by Adrian the Emperour, to stay the Scottithe men from inuading the lands apperterning after ouertheowne in dyuccle places as well by Scottes and Pictes, as by the Brytaynes, in fort as before is partly mentioned. Antoninus caused it to be fortified with Baltilyous, one being placed to neare to another, as trumpettes being appointed in ethe of them, the founde might be heard betwirt to warne one another byon the first discrying of the enimics approche.

finally Seucrus opeth, though not lo lone Seucrus to attaine the Emperiall dignitie. Concluding therefore a league with the Scottille men and Antonious Pickes, and graunting peace to Folgentins, and Emperora other such Bertishe rebelles as were arode with cludethape bim into Pictlande, hee recepued inflicient pled- mies ges, and then returned towardes London, where his mother with his brother Beta as thim lap.

Shortly after, both the brethren departed forth of the Ille, and went to Rome; as in the

But now to returne unto Donald the Sort tillie king, ye shall buderstande, that bring bely. Dould for uered of forragne trouble, he studied chiefely how ous to man to presente his propiedar god peace and price ices in peace transmittie 300 belek minute propiedar tranquilitie. Which minde out Senion Christiand cocon the authour of all peace and concern hand were buto him, being lately afore converted into the true faith from his wicked pagaming and heaths. nifte Joolatrie, aus ein Constantion as engine for as we finde in heffor Bocting; in to Dayes of the about mentioned Comperoin State rus, he lent a mellenger with letters into Pope Cheifins Unitor (Zephirinus Caprth Harison) bering the liele in the rb.in number, as they lay, after Saint Beter, de Emperoce claring buto him that her was fully mynder to Severes. recepue the Chaiftian Religion, and viirty to for lake the superstition service of the peathwith Goddes, and therfore instantly reppyrechine

The Historie of Scotlande.

finde ouer into Scotlande some godly learned men to instruct hun in the right beliefe. The Pope hearing this, and being glad to parties of the faith of Chailt through all parties of the worlde, fent with all speede into Scotlande inch well disposed persons as he thought moste nucte for that purpose, who at they, arrivall there, did they? endenour in such viliget lost, that not only the king, but also through his ensample clearely toploke their former errours & idolatrie.

This was in the yeare after the byoth of our Samour. 202, from the creation of the worlde 4170, and after the fielle erection of the Scot= tille kingdome. 5 2 0. as Harrison in his chrono= logic bothe manifellly confirme.

Poteoner this Donald was the fiele as the Scottiflie chronicles alledge, that caused filuct and golde to be couned in his realme. The stamp which the denifed for the faine, was a croffe on 20 the one five, and his face on the other. Befoze that time the Scottes vico no copne, but epther erchäged and bartered ware foz ware, either elle, occupied with Bepttilije and Romaine money, as dinces marble cheffes full of the fame whiche have bene founde of late yeares in funday partes of Scotland, do very well witnesse.

I maily aing Donald in the III. years of ms raigne departed out of this life, and was buried according to the maner of our Christian religio, without any heathenich ceremonies.

After him succees ded Ethodius the the former Ethodius, whiche prince proned so very a foole, that the regiment of the realme was quite taken from him, and committed onto certaine Poble men, who being deuis ded into funder quarters of the realme, toke be= ry god order for the due government of the par= ties to to them limitted, and bled themselves be= ry vyzightly in all their doings. As for cause of warres they had none, for Seucrus before his death had given suche order for the government of the Beptains, that they durit not once stirre by reason of such pleages as were delivered and conneighed to Rome, whiche were the chiefest Ethodius benot only the aing, but and incoming his children. To of all the Brittish nobilitie. At length Ethodius coneconnesse, being aut for nothing but to fil his coffers, as one is flaine by his though doltish, yet naturally giue to buquench= owne servants able conetonincile, was flaine by those that were you him. appointed to the garde of his person, in the. rvj. Anno christi. yeare of his raigne.

231.H.B.

-Hen was his fon Tathirco elected by the generall voyces of co. all the estates, who in the beginning of his rapone themed himfelf very fober, gette, cours teps, and friendly of behaujour, exerciling himselse in all lauda= ble pastimes convenient for his estate, and herewith he was so free & liberall towardes all men, that hee wanne hing monderfull muche prayle and love amongst his people.

But thele his noble berfues encrealed notiff him togither with age, but contrarily decayed, in luche logte, that after he had raigned bill peares. Athirco chaitbe was quite altered : in place of liberalitie, en ged in condifeconde, and some of 50 bracing quarice: for courteste and amiable count to bad. tenaunce, be bled flerne and loftie lokes : for comendable exercises, he gave himselse wholly to filthic pleatures and centuall lustes of the bodie: & fuch as could further his purpose most in these his bealtlie affections, her cheristed & had them most in elimation, not recarding at all the nos Athirco regard bilitie of his realme, but was as ready to wrong deth pot his nobles. them by hillanous intucie, as hee was any other

It chaunced that a noble man in Argile (bring one of no small authoritic amongst the people of that countrey) named Patholocus, had two fapte yong Sentlewomen to his daugh= The villancus tersinow the king being very desirous to latitle acte of Arine- his lust opon them, forced them both the one af-2 Noble mans fer the other, and not so content, delivered them afterwardes to be abused in the semblable sozte

> Canding this billanic done to his daughters by they come immentable complaint, fente for his friendes, and opening onto them the whole matter, he requipted theps allskaunce.

They being in a wonderfull furie to heare of fuche an iniurie done to their bloud, promised in The kinfinen reusings thereof to spende bothe life, landes and and triends of gwols, and forthwith departing in sunder, they the gentlewomen conspire prepared themselmes to assemble they powers, against Athir- procuring a greate number of other Poble men to ionie with them in to necessarie an enterpile, as to rid the countrey of suche a caytife wietch, respecting nothing but the satisfying of his filmost brastly appetites.

Wilhen they were once got togither in a companie, they marched forth towards Dunftafage, bere they understwoe that the king as then did aurne, a great multitude of people fill relozing buto them by the way, after it was once knower whereabout they went. Athirco hearing of they approche, called togither his power suppoling at the first to have beaten powne his eni= mics, but when her had throughly waved the 50 Athirco doub- matter, and considered of what force and power ting to be foi- they were, and how feeble his part was through owne me, if it want of gwd willes in his people, hee prinily came to the stale away from tient, and woulde have passed triall of bat-taile, concycd oner into Ila, one of the westerne Fles, to haue himselse from procured some succour there, but being embars amogh them. qued and let from the floge, he was by contratie ting to come into his enimies handes, bee chose rather to flea himselse, and so ended his weetched Athires in luche miserable extremitie after hee had eth himselse. raigned the space of rij peares. His raigne continued till the dayes of the Emperour Gezdian the third, or as other fay, till the time of the Emperour Clalerian. But as Maller Harison hath gathered, her raigned in the dayes of the Enwerour Aurelius Claudius. Doozus the brother of Doorus the by his pages and scruaunts. The father under= 10 Athirco understäding of the death of his brother of a disquised himselfe in beggers weede for doubte of thire cones death, and went into Pictlande with. iij. of his out of the w Pephewes, sonnes to the same Athirco, whose names were Sindock, Carance, and Donald.

Howebeit Patholocus hauing knowledge Nathologi whither he was Aco, fent forth certaine of his fer- fecketh the uants with comaundement to fearche him out, commaunding furthermoze very fraightly, that if they founde him, they Mould dispatch him out of life, for feare of further mischiefe. But they that were lent, finding one in all features + proportio of body refembling Doorus, Urm the one in steeds of the other, 4 so returning home to their Malter, they made him very joyfull of y newes, although in occoe they came not neare to Doos rus. Then Patholocus cauling the cliates of the Realme to affemble, he handled the mater in fuch wife, by distinating the to chase any of A= thircos bloud to raigne ouer the, (for doubt least they Chould feeke any meanes how to renege his ocath,) that in the erroe, this Patholocus was c= Natholocus lested himself, more by sorce, than by any comon king. colernt of the nobles: for divers of them doubting g craftie nature (whiche they knew to be in him) wither rather that the issue of Athirco (hauing described nothing why to be defrauded of y kingvonte, saue only in respect of the fathers offences) might have enioped that whiche of right they ought to have had, that is, either one of the to be thie carnal lustes, and the accomplishment of his 40 king, of els some neare kinkman of theyes to raigne as king, til the clock of them might come to sufficient peares, to beare the rule himselfe.

Tit Patholocus beyng once proclaymed Na-king by the multitude, and Athiccos bloud attayned of treason, and so published, according to the custome, he twice the other of those that were present, and then repayred bitto Dun- Nubolocus stafage, there to be inucled according to the Dunkings manner.

This vonc, hee called luche alive as he fulpe-led. ded, and talking with them alone, hee erhouted them to be faithfull, promiting to be they alla- Nathelocal red good Lorde and Mailler, and for an carnell leeketh 10 thereof, he gaue unto viuers of them very great cure love remardes.

Generally buto all men he thewer himlelfe bibes. very gentle and tractable, thereby to wirms their loues, for the better establishment of his newe atchicued ellate: And hereto be employed furhe nehes as the former kings had heaped togither amongst the Pobles, studying by all meants to anorde all feditious quarels and fecrete ditcordes amongst them.

The Historie of Scotlande.

Thus ruling the realme at his will for tertaine yeares, at length fortune began to firence a chaunge of countenance after bir olde accultoto med guille. For Doozus the brother of Athirto whom as pe have heard Patholocus supposed i to haur bene dead woote certaine letters ligitfoung his owne estate with the welfare of his Pephewes the chilozen of Athieco unto certaine Scottisse Lozdes, whome hee knewe to fauour

Whiche letters hee delinered buto a Pictupe woman, appoynting hyr how and to whome the Moulde deliner the same, but the woman apprehended by the way, and brought unto Pathotheorem into a riner.

Atterwaives fending for suche of the Palles as the direction of the forelay de letters had ni= Natholocus as the direction of the toletayor letters have give purrech such uen him occasion to have in some suspicion, to death, as he locus, her caused hyp secretely to be sacked and 20 he committed them first to ppyson, and at length suspectes to caused them to be secretely strangled.

fauour Doorus.

with the wicken deede being once notified a= broade, moved to the hartes of thep? friends and alies, that they procured the people to revell: and lo gathering them togither, they rayled open and crucil warres against him.

Patholocus enformed of their determinati= ons, withourse himselfe minily into Murray lande, there to get togither an armie to relift his enimics, and for that he was delirous also to bn= he lint one of his trustic servaunts being a gentleman of that countrey, buto a woman that dwilt in the File of Colmkil (otherwise called Iona estermed very skilfull in forethewing of things to come, to learne of hyz what fortune floute happe of this warre, whiche was already declared in the ende howe it floulde come frozt The wirches ly to valle, that the king shoulde bee murthered not by his open enimies, but by the handes of one of his moste familiar friendes, in whom her had repoled an especiall truste. The metlenger demanding by whole handes that Moulie be, euen by thine faith she, as it that be well knowen within these fewe dayes. The Bentleman bearing these wordes, rapled against hor very bitderstands some what of the issue of this trouble, so terly, bidding hyr go lyke an olde Witche: for be trusted to see hyr brent before he soulde committe lo villanous a deede. Ind departing What happefrom hyz, her wente by and by to signific what ned by giving credite to the answeare hee had recepued but befoze hee came woordes of a where the King lay, his minde was altered, to Witche. that what for doubte on the one, live that if hee Moulde declare the truthe, as it was folde him, the king mighte happily concepue some greate windes drive backe agains to land, where doub-

The Witche consulting with hyr sprytes,

fulpition, that it floudd follow by his meanes as flice had veclared, a therebyon put him to beath first and for seare on the other side that if he kept it fecrete, it might happen to be renealed by some other, and then he to run in almuche daunger of life as before the determined to himselfe to worke

the furest way, and so comming to the king, he mas ledde alide by him into his prince cham: ber, where al other being commanded to anime he declared bow he had fped: then falling forthwith bpo Patholocus, with his dagger he flew Nathalocus him outright, a threwe his body into a minie : munhered and aftermardes getting out by a backe doze, and taking his horse whiche he had there readie, he fledde with all weede unto the campe of the conspiratours, and was the firste that brought newes buto them of this acke thus by him at= 30 menacing wordes.

252.HB.

This chaunced in the yeare of our Lord. 280. and in the.ri. yeare after the fall entring of Pa= thologus into the estate.

dock chosen

The Lordes of After Patholocus was thus dispatched, the the realme al- perres allebled togither to orderne for y gouernsemble rogi-ther to choose ment of the realme, where in the ende it was amonast them concluded, that the sonnes of A= thirco flould be fent for into piacland, and fin-The somes of dock receiued for king. The Boranian that flew 40 him. The occasion as he pretended was to n= lande. fent for, & the Patholocus was appointed to fetch them, who elden of them according to his commission, comming into Pict lande, conveyed them right honozably into Argile, where Kindocke bering already cholen was placed on the stone of marble with all to, exermonics in that cale apportagning.

Findocke.

Findocke his roble qualitics, and v-rmous disposstion.

his fin-dockwas in v flower of son most beutyfull, cleane made, and of a gwdlpstature: where with water iopned moste excellent gifts of the minde, not fo much belirous to feeme, as to be vertuous in ocede. He was curteous, meeke, and full of affabilitie, Audring alwayes to winne friendship and loue, rather by gentlenesse, than by feare and

The leagues with the Baytaines, Biftes and Findock ob Romains hee firmely observed. But as peace served the with sorragne enimies, breedeth ofttimes civil firmed of so discorde at home, so came it then to palle with mer tyme him at this present: for one Donald of the files, bours a noble man bozne, came over with an armie in- Tholeof the to Rolle and Qurray land, fetching from thence out liet is a creat woile & botie, not without great flaugh treys of ka ter of fuche as enforced themselues for to refilt and Munay uenge the death of Patholocus. But findock Findocke m bnderstanding his boings, prepared an armie kethaiour with Chippes, and layled ouer with the lane into into the like the Ille of Ila, where encountring with Dos rebelles. nalo and other his enimies, he banquilled & chaled them egerly without returning once backe, till cyther the Cowrde or the fea had made an end of them all.

Donald himselse taking a boate in hope to his age, of per= 50 have escaped, the preasse was such at his entring diorned. into the lame, that before they could get it off its the Moze, it funke by meanes of the ourrlading. and to be and all they that were on bothe were The Hand m

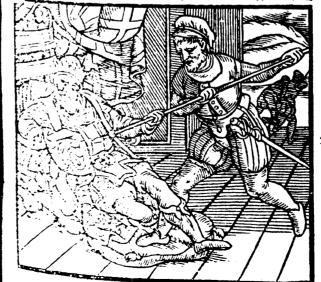

The king having atchieued this villozy, te kernet, mike turned into Albanic: but the Fland men not fuls she inustrated to unieted with the Aland men not fuls she inustrated to unieted with the Aland men not fuls she inustrated to unieted with the Aland men not full she inustrated to unieted with the Aland men not full she inustrated to unieted with the Aland men not full she in the inustrated to unieted with the Aland men not full she in the inustrated to unieted with the inustrated with the inustrated to unieted with the inustrated with the ly quieted with this flaughter of they; fellowes, into Argile, fent ouer into Ireland, and got from thence cere Sconish con

nanc Brenes, who buder the leading of an other Donald, the forme of the former Donald, made fertes now and then into Argile and Cantpre, boild many threwde turnes in the fame, cre ther could be suppressed.

But Kindock being some enformed of these noings, went over againe into the Ales, tuche chins connies as he founde, he caused to be hanged, to give other enfample, what to loke for not ouer into Ireland, where he remayned till he heard that the king was returned backe into Alhanic, and then be came againe. But perceyuing himselfe not able to worke suche feates as he hored to have done, he sente a messenger buto the king, offering to prelde himselfe & to become his true subiect if he might get his pardon, and be at his otone libertie. But being answeared that hee flould not be recepued, valesse hee would come plices, and to flante will at the kings mercie: he refused thus to do, denising an other meane how to be renenaed.

Therefore to beginne withal, he procured two naughtic persons to go over into Albanie, and to favne themselves to have fled from him, where also be willed them to offer they? feruice buto the king, and to disclose unto him certaine light se= cretes of the lavde Donalds, thereby to winne time to ridde him out of the war.

These eraftic mates, working according to Donaldes wicked instructions, at length with much a do they gate credite, a after credite they got place so neare the king by the furtherance of Caraunce the kings brother (whome they made prime also buto there intent) that finding all things correspondent to they a purpose (one day as the king hunted) the one began to feede him towards him, whereto he gaue very god eare, hold. If the other funte him to the harte with a Jaueline, and so leaving the iron sticking in his Findocke is bodie, he fled away in halle, with his trayterous flayne. companion and fellom.

Those that were neare, seing what had havned, some of them ran to him to see if they might relieve him, as then structing with the pangs of death, other followed the murtherers, and o= uertaking them, brought them backe to recepue they meede, according to that whiche they had most ther found revel, but Donald cleaped, and to justly deserved being also examined, they confesled how they were procured buto it, not only by The murche-Donald of the Files, but also by Carantins the by whose prokings owne brother, who of let purpole bring curement they out of the may at that present, & having know = did the deede. ledge that he was accused of the kings death, fled out of the countrey as a bauilhed man, first into A pretie indu-Bertaine, from whence (after he had remarned forged) to the there for a time, her went onto Rome, and fer= historie that uing in the warres bnoct the Emperours Aure followeth of vito Dunstafage with other of his chiefelt com= 20 ling Probus, Carus, & Diocletianus, he became Caraulius or right famous and a very skilfull captayne. But Carantius as if this reporte be true that Caraullus of whome wryte him. Eutropius maketh mention were discended of so high parentage, mernaile it is, that nepther the fance Eutropius, noz any other of the Romaine writers, could at no time come to the knowledge thereof, which if they had done no doubte they woulde have spoken somewhat of the same: for although he might hanvely byon the confidera= credite if it might be, and in the ende to espie a 20 tion afozeland counterfaite himself to be borne of some base kinred, & so for a time to distill what he was, pet afterwards that he attayned buto lo high degree of honour, as to blurve the imperiall robes of purpure, and to possesse the dominion of Beptaine, it is not like but that to aquaunce his credite and authoritie royall he would have let fazth to the bittermost the nobilitie of his birthe, if he had bene come of any, and that lo apparant= ly to the worlde, that aswell his enimies as with a tale of p hatred whiche the Flanders bare 40 friendes thoulde bothe haue knowen and tooken of it.

Andocus beyng Donald thus flayne in the r. yeare of his raygne, 6 and buried with great lamentation of the peo= Pple at Dunstalage, his nother Donald, thirde sonne to Athirco, was admitted to the kindnd dome, who immediated opon his entring into the ettate, prepared to go into the Ales against Donald that common enimie of Scotland.

But this Donald himselfe, delivered the king Donald of the of a great prece of that transple. Hoz to tome as Illes inuadeth he hearde that the murther by him cotriued was Scotland. crecuted, he allembled a mightie power of the fetieth vpo the tern this

Donald

worlde.

bedience.

enimies before that his coming towardes them was once lignified in their campe.

The king then understanding his aductionic to be at hand, bringeth forth his men, letteth the in array, and exhosteth them with many pithie wordes, to recepue their enimies with manly stomackes.

But the Jland men encouraged ails by they? Captaine, gaue the onlet to roundly, that the Thus coming into Murray land, he pitched 10 Scottilly men had not leylure to occupie they Motte, but were enforced euen at the firste to iongue at hand blowes, which were bestowed in fuche furious forte, that in the moe the Scottes being oppressed with multitude, were costrepned to give backe, some saving themselves by flight, and some standing at defence till they were hea- The Scotte ten downe and killed in the place.

4 whole intention, thought it best to assayle him Donald of the within his campe, befoze all his power Moulde come buto him, and being thus resoluce, her set forewarde in the night time, and was byon his

Pland men, and transporting with them over into Rolle, proclaymed bunfelfking, perfecuting with fire and from de all suche as denied him of Hing Donald being aductifed of that attept of his adversaric, speedily marcheth swith with fuch power as he had already affembled, fending proclamations abroade, that all other appointed volune his tents, purpoling there to abide the co=

nung of the relidue of his armie: But Donalde of the Files vivorifianding all his demeanour to ferue, flould follow him with speede.

There were flapne on the kings parte three thousand men, and ii. Shousand taken prisoners: 30 but with such regards that he alwayes enriched amongst whom were. rrr. personages of honorable estate together with the king himself being Donald depar- wonded so soge, that he died within iti, danes after the battell, rather through anguish of minde than of his hurtes, as some have written, in the same years that he began his raigne.

Donald of the Meshaning thus got the vi= icer, twice byon him as king, accordingly as he vpon him 15 king.

had caused himself at the fiell to be proclaymed. thus by bloud, he conti= nued still in doubte and feare of newe conspira= cies, being giltie in con= Science of his wrongful

A ciltie con-

viurpation. Those personers al=

perpetual cartinitie, menacing them prefent beath if any of their friendes and alies attempted any flurre against biar.

Rozconer ber noundled prinie factions amongst the nobilitie, supposing therby that their powers would be the more feeble in any publike explores that was to be moued against him : si= nally if any mischiese happened among them, he caused the matter throughly to be loked byon, his ofone cofers with the forfaytures and penalties which he take by amongst them.

He feldome times weut abroade, and when he stirred forth any whither, he had his garde about him appointed with weapon in warlike forte, for doubte of treason. He aduaunced di= uers of base condition to great wealth a honour, and behaued himself so in sundry sortes with his mistrustful crucitic, that many there were which Et bycause her 40 deadde him, & but a sewe that sourd him, so that in the end being in a maner runne into the deadly hatred of al men, he was murthered one night thecis at Enucrochthee, whither he was come to have thered. passed ourrinto the Files by certagne that had Annoch conspired his death in the rij. yeare of his reigne. 273.H.

The chiefe of the conspiratours was one Crathlynt the conne of king findock, who im- Crathlyn mediatly after the deede done, conueped himlelf chiefe co fecretely out of the chamber, and repaying buto murben in the battell, he kept in 50 certaine nobles and gentlemen inhabiting nerre of Domi hand in the countrey, he declared buto them the whole mater, exhauting them to ayor him in reuenging the iniuries done not only to them prinately as he knew very well, but also to y whole cureix to flate of y scottill coino wealth, by the naugh bles of the country to the naugh bles of tic luggestion of diners of the kings compliers, countries who as per budersion nothing of there Bais icrument sters death, but were all quiet in there bedoes, king the

The Historie of Scotlande.

as men suspecting nothing lesse than that which was now tappened.

The Gentlemen hearing the newes, and rewhing greatly thereat, got them to they? wea-10119, and early in the very dawning of the day, coming byon the kings boulhold meagny, they ilem about at. C. of them in the place where they lodged, the relidue eleaping forth of the house, and thinking to faue themselves, were beaten pic, who bare to deadly and mortall hatred unto tuclate king, that they not onely reioyced nuishe at his death, but thought themselves sufficiently reunged, when they could kill any that did belong unto him.

After this Crath-lynt, being certainly knowen to bee the sonne of king findock, as were shewed by him that brought him by, was (partely in respect of his inst title, a partly for consideration of his sod fermee in delinering his countrey of to deteliable a typaunt) ad= naunced to the government of the kingdome, by consent of all the estates, and so being confirmed king, he personaded with the people that all the 30 god will shewed by they? comming, and here miseth to obunage of the late tyzant Donald might be plucked up, enen as it were a tree by the rotes, least any of them haply remayning alive, flould find meanes afterwards to diffurbe & comon wealth.

The people colented lightly herebuto, as they that belide the mortall hate whiche they bare to= wards Donald, were now fodenly in love with Crathlent, not only for his witte and other qualities of the mind, but also by reason of his comely personage and passing beautie, setting fourth all his voings greatly to his high prayle & com= mendation.

The illus therfore with other the kinkmen and The kinkmen alies of Donald were lought foz, and those that and friends of were found, without any difference of respect of Isles are perage or fere, were cruelly put buto death.

Misithe done Crathlynt appoputed forth judges and other administratours of justice to nowne in the coursey as they passed, by the peo- to see the lawes executed, and the countreys gouer- The policike ned in god and quict order, curry man being als of Crathlyat. signed to his owne proper circuite. These her chole out of the most ancient peares and barons of his realme. The yonger lorte he reserved to attend byon his person. When he had taken di= Crathlyne gorection in this wife for the rule of his kingdome, eth to hunt in the mountains he went by into the mountains of Granzebene, of Granzbene, there to patte the time for a whyle in hunting anciently calthe harte, and other wilde beatles, whether came mons. by luche euident tokens 20 bnto him ambassadours from Thelargus king An ambassade of the Pictes, declaring the love whiche they? fro the Pictes. mailter had concepued for the flaughter of Donald, and the restozing of the right bloud againe bnto the estate, requiring that the ancient league quire the betwirt the Pictes and Scottiffmen might be league to be: once againe renewed.

Crathlynt received these ambassadours most iopfully, giving them hartie thankes on the be= half of thep? Master for this signification of his Crathlyne pro with promised, that during his life he woulde serve the aungladly observe the olde auncient amitie establi- eient amitie thed betwirt the two nations: according to the Scottishe men tenure of the old league.

Mozcover when the sayde Ambastadours Morcover when the layou Ammanaounts The present should departe, he toke but o them to deliver fro sent by Crathhim as a mesent buto thep. Mailler certagne lyne vnto the horles, with Houndes and Grephoundes, suche king of the as he thought that kyng Thelargus wanter.

mould be more honor a gaine both to the Scottill men + pius, if they could be cotented to re= new frendship, x ioune with him in apde against then comon enimies, than to feeke to destrop one another, as he lately understode they hav done for a dogge. Crathlynt hearing the wordes of ours amongst al the Romaine Captaines. Ind

Butaine to the ottermall of his power. Loving he doubted to have with the Picks, he would not onely lende him avoc of men, but also come with them himself: and hereof he assured the ambassa-dours both by words of mouth & letters. Who fler Carantius, he reioyced not a little, to buder= stand how well they hav speode, and so much the more for that he recepted aboute the same time ng the king of Scottes at the water of Eike, where findock, there was an affired friendship coche=

tius, Crathlyut was contented to come to a co=

munication with the king of Pide, for conclusio of a peace, to the intent, that both of them night

ionic their powers togither, in ands of Caratius against the Romains. At this communication

there, as a man indifferent, betwirt them bothe, and venily his presence there provide to much the adulte & difcrete of decel, will aunicia per ions: iiij. to be chosen où the ous parte, a lition

the other. Which bill persons taking the matter in hand, did so aduisedly gitte of ver for the andy-is to do what he could, to lieke the both in amitie.

is the both the kings-mette, & Carputius likewife was after he had purged himselfe with many wordes of crcuse, touching the murder of his brother

Shortly after he came to an enternew with the like antweare from the king of Pictes.

these ambasiadours, reioyeco not a little, that his on buck Caratius was not only aline, but also had through his valiacie atchieuco to high renowme te-herewith upo good admice he determined to appe his was him in that his enterprise for the conquest of further that if it were not for the warres whiche

Divers Piclish And Mortly after preturne of these amballa= Lordes come dours into they countrey, divers pong Gentle= men of the Pictiche nobilitie repayzed unto king vnto Crathlint to hunt and make merie Erathlynth, to hunte and make mery with him,

A prayle of the ceyung that the Scotuly dugges dis far excelle Scottish dogs. thepres, both in fayzenesse, twiftnesse, hardinesse, stale one belonging to the king from his keeper, the kings best being moze esteemed of him than all the other greyhoundes. whiche he had aboute him. The Master of the

The Scottes & to beparte with him, fell at altercation, and in Picts fight for the end chaunced to flrike the Master of the least

What mischief uenge the death of they? fellowe, there ensued a entued vpon to Merwoe bickering betwirte them, so that of the light an occa- Scots there died. tr. Gentlemen, besides a great sio, as the flealing of a dog. number of the commons, not one of them bnorr= This chaunded standing till al was done what the mater ment. as lo. Ma.no- flapne.

robbe the Pi- into the Pittisse confines, they began to robbe, each borders. Spoyle and kill after the maner of warre, where=

The Scottes discomfitted by the Pictes. supposed.

Of what conbroken between these two nations, who had contwist the Scots other cuer fithe the daves of king Reutha, being now broken a- the. vij. in number that raigned after Fergus. bout a fmall bate, it was wonder to understand with what matter, as bedogge.

Cruell warres, ther man, woman og childe that fell into thep?

The Historie of Scotlande.

but when they should depart homewardes, per-and also in long standing op and holding out, they got divers bothe dogges and bitches of the Scottill Lozdes, and yet not so contented, they leaste being enformed hereof, pursued after them which had fold that dogge, thinking in deede to have taken him from them, but they not willing presently, wherebook a noise and crie being ray= fed in the countrey by his fernants, divers of the Scottes, as they were going home from Hun= ting, returned, and falling opon the Pictes to re=

The kinknen and friends of the Scottes that were thus flame, were wonderfully moved with the inurie committed, in so much that without commannement of king of captagne, they al=

fembled in greate number togither, and entring with the Pickes bring let in a rage, came fouth

Scottes, there was fought a foze battell beiwirt them without Capitaine, ogder, og flanderd, till at length the victoric remarked with the piffs, of whome were flaine notwithstanding the day went on their fides, about. ij. 90. men, but of the Scots there vice aboue. iij. A. oz moze, as was Thus byon a light occasion was the league

These two nations berng thus fallen at de= crucitie the one fought to believy the other. Do pitic might mone their cruell hartes to spare ep-handes: Suche was they inordinate and lyke

delice which they had to shedde ech others binner It length Thelargus king of the Picte be. Thelag in ing a very aged ina, * perceyuing what mischief being a regular was happened through the follie of a few willist man, deficit persons, appointed certaine of his counsell to co- to have read as Amballadours buto king Crathlynt, to finde fendeth by fome meanes to have the mater taken by for the amballade auoyding of the imminent daunger that was vino Crathi like to ensue to both nations.

They according to they instructions com= beste kindes for breede to be given them by the 10 ming to the place where Crathlynt as then fotourneo, had much ado to get licence to come bn= to his presence: but at length being admitted. they vied fuche hunible perswasions arounded buon reasonable considerations, that although A truce grow no peace could be fully cocluded, pet a truce was red. graunted them for three moneths wace, whiche was but forply observed, for deadly hatred and inward delire of renenge was entred to farre inthrough with they bore speares that hee died 20 to the brestes of the commons on bothe sides, that neyther commaundement noz punishment might stay them from the invading of one an others confines, maugre they? Princes and all they love restraints.

trouble by Carantius, of whome a little befoze croubled mention hath bene made. Eutropins nameth eftue of B him Caurallius: he woulde not be acknotien at about the vere Of the Picces there were aboute an hundled 30 his comming to Rome of what linage her was of Christe. 288. Of the Picces there were aboute an hundled 30 Disce Ded, and so he was reputed to be but of some bale flocke, but yet through his worthie feruite in the warres, he atterned buto great honour, and was appointed by Diocletian to have the foueragne regards ouer the coastes of the french Decan, to defende the fame from Pyrates of the Saxons and other Bermains, that love moleffeo the fame in those dayes. But for that he vied The wif to luffer those rouers to take spoples and pryles, practices Piets encouter togither into the field, and encountring with the 4° to the ende her might in they? refurne take the fame from them againe, and connert the gagne wholly to his owne ble, without restozing that whiche was due to the owners, or femding, any Carantias poscion thereof to the Romaine Emperous, her reth 10 cm to make in was complayned byon, and fent for, but for that fwere to fa league was be- tinued as friends, the one still readie to apoe the 50 taine, and landed in Collestimerlande, where he meth in weden miled to deliner them from the grienous post to take 12 and hondage of the Romaines.

Thus having begonne the fundation of that whiche hee purposed to atchieue, for his further aduauncement therein, hee sent ambassabours buto his Acphewe king Crathlynt, bothe de-

In this meane time was the cleate of the Carantins medby kin Romaine Empres in Beytaine beought into pius Caraft he doubted to come to his answere, as one which matters as knew himselse giltie, he furnished his nang with was charged men hittanles and and income men, bittayles and ordinaunce, & with the fame Cirantius twice his course aboute the west partes of By= uoleing co ealily procured the people there to submit them & culc sclues to be buder his rule and obeysante, 4 110- people ding of all causes of grudge thatred, that bothe Peace confirwho- closury what he was, x also excusing the trespas partes held them fatisfied with their arbitrement betwiere the Commisd against him, for being of counsell touand direction, fo that a confull peace was confir = Scoutshinen chang the number of his beother Kindock, father med, and all variance offerly quenched. and Pictes. to the fame Crathlynt: & therefoze if in putting away al mistrust of his innocecie in that behalf, In this meane time Duintus Bassiamus the desire be would aros him against the Romains: hes Romaine lieutenant in Bertaine, viverstädirer denoted not but that he (!) ould in flogt time bt= terly expel them out of all Byytaine, * enion all these provinces within the same, (which as then hom Carantius was thus fenoited, and had not only canfed them of Westmerland to rebell; but olfo flavne and chafed the Romains out of that they policifed unto his owne vie # this, he layd, 10 countrey, he was not a little disquieted, & determined with all speece to go against him, & to renenge thele iniuries. Within a fewe bayes after Quintus Bafihauing his armic readle, herentred into Met = into Westween merland: but hearing that his enimies were si- land, but beaready come to Pocke, that won the citie by fire ring that his render, he turned his force thitherwards, in purpole to fight with them, though hee understood turneth thithey were in iij great battels, as the Scottes in therwardes. one, the Pickes in an other, & those of Carantius his retinew in the third. He lodged that night as to be accounted one of the worthick warris 20 within a strong place fensed aboute with mar= riffes. But Carantius understanding all the manner of his enimies by his espials, & being in cape within.r.miles of them or therabout, in the same night he raised his field without any great bruite, and by the leading of certaine auides hee marched straight towards the place where Balsianus was encaped, so that anone after o inzing of the day he came thither: whereof Baffianus returning with such answeare unto their Mai= 20 being aduertifed, and perceyuing he should have battell, maketh readie for y fanie, gining the best exhartation he could but his people to play the menibut for so much as the most parte of his armie were Brytains, all his wordes nothing a- The Brytains -nayled: for they desirous to fee the otter ruthe of berray the Roall the Romaine power, enen at the very poynt mains. when the battels should have corned, with brew theselues aparte without any stroke Uriken, and got the up into the next mountagns, to fee what ded berwirt them. And at the metion of Caran= 40 would infine. The refidue of the Romain armite, feing thefelues thus forfaken of their fellowes, * their fiors left bare & open for the coincle to entir their flors lett pare e-open to the thinder to tente The Romains boon them, fell to plaine running away, but by are disconted. reason of the marifle ground copassing them in on each live, lerning wel to purpole top & Scots, a other the tonfederates, agreat nüber of the Rd The flaughtes mains, tother of their patte were duertaken and of the Ro-Chine. Amongs whom Ballanies himselfswas mains. one, s Hirrius themperours mocurator an other. m fleede, that chiefly through his performance. The Brytains (who as is fayo reinfect of light grounds being the college college to mich the old league in such frances the such frances the old league in such frances the such fr in the beginning of the battell) preided the Clues - velide them buto Catamins, a Coare to behis mue liege me feluer voto Co Mindients. In like manner Carantius appointed rantius. al fuch of the abbilitie as were between ar years luch conitions, as Monitore phopopit reflecte to and. Iz to remaine with blorin hoffage : but the spoyle of the field be ocurred amongst his prople equally, to that a wel the Stottill, men & Pitis,

as also his owne conviers held the well content kingdome of

Carantius hauing got the Constantius

persecuteth

the Christians

fecution.

and satisfied therewith. After this victory Ca-Carantius or rantius caused himself to be proclaymed king of 23 rotaine, blurping the government therof whometh him, v. ly to himfelf, and retayining. 2000. of the Scots furpeils the and Pickes, to attend byon the lauegard of his person, sent the residue home laden with riches of the enimies spople. Dee sent also with them his ambassadours, to render thankes but o bothe the kings for they, and in this to prosperous a vidoric, alligning unto them as a portion of the con- 10 (where any Christians were knowe to inhabite) quest, the countrers of Westmerland and Cum-Aictory, deni- berland, with all that region whiche lay betwirt derh the gaine Lorians malle, and the citte of Porke, to entoy in altigoing to the their owne proper patrimenic for enermore. theird ne por- Finally the layde Carantius was flayne by his companion Accus, as in the English historie pe may finde moze at large.

After this Crathlynt king of the Scots deliucred fro troubles against the Romains, denifer funder good ordinauces for the quiet flate of the Scottill comon wealth, cauling the peace to be diligently observed betwirt him and the Diffes.

Also in his dayes the perfecution of the The perfer Chaistians chanced, which the Emperour Dio- of the Cocletian contaided to be executed in most furious cletian wife, so that there were fewe partes of the world that talked not of that his crucil ordinaunce and scourge in that behalf. In Beptaine also, as wel as in other places, there was no small quantitie of innocent bloud flied, with most evamerciful murder committed, to the greate triumphe of Christes crosse, that glorious ensigne of our religion.

In whiche time Constantius Clionis father to Constantine the great, was resident in Bevtains, to be adjudging the Scottisto be a people were in occoe, betermined with bimbille to have brought them to subicition. But ere he could atchique any notable enterprise be died, seawing be= thind him the fame of a right centle and worth Dunce, laving that in one point be lose flarned his honor, for that her was one of the chiefe that -perfecuted the Chustian flocks butter Piocle= tian, forcing no finall number of the faithfull as monalt the Birtains, to fice buto the Scottes 7 Dicks to auopde his verlecutio. Whom Crath= to anoyde per- limit recepued for his part most louingly, and affluned unto them (as the Scotsiap) the Ale of NAME of a place of indutation, delitroping al fact temples of the beather religion belonging to the temples of the Drudes which had cotinuo there fith the begins talke goldes in time. And otterly abolishing althe superflitious rites & customes of the lamie Drinder, with their inhole order and brotherhood, he are are at the there, which he dedicated buto Jelus Chail our Saufour, wherin the Christias might teicheate their deune feruice, according to their profetus. wholly given to pillage and flaughter, as they to This Church being richly endowed was the first The first 23 Miliops lea amonti the Scots, & theropon was thop fea taken foz the mother Church of the realine. It is Scotland. now called the church of Saint Soutiour.

Finally Crathlynt departed out of this life, Crathlynt after he had raigned rruij, yeares, being muche parcett out prayled alwell for his politike governmet as for his great scarned scale which he batt towards by . admancement of the true Chailtian teligioni

CINCOLNIAN Hat on the box bucht onne Dierteber in mak. the kingbom, and took placed on the fine of marble to the titel the opting of ally edales, who willhed it shift a prosperous taiglie, and ong to coficine thenit.

Constitued in hing Crathlynts dayes, a noble Spustian called Amphibalus a Byrtaine boine, who deceng fro the perfecutio then rayled in his countrev, came buto the same Crathlyut, & by amoines. S do politic first birth op of Samoines church in Sean, this Amphibalus did bery much god amongst the Scots a Byrtains in setting forth the word of life, * roting out of their harts all impetilitious errours, of blinde gentilitie.

The Historie of Scotlande.

mone aboute the same time, that crassed not in meaching, and instructing the people in the right blique, as Modocus, Prificus, Calanus, Ferranus, Lindianus, and Carnocus, called by an old anneunt name in the Scottiff tongue Culdei, that is, to understande Cultores dei, oz as pou moulds fay in English the worthippers of God.

But notice to the purpose touching Finco= mark, ye fhat understed, that he began his raigne mithe pere, (as CA. Harrison saith) after the birth 20 beuted throughout the realme, caused a greate of our Saniour. 325, after the creation of the world. 4292, and from the first establishing of the Scottiste kingdome. 652, and in the. 20. react of Constantine the Emperour.

It channeed that Ditanius king of the Bip= tains was vanquished by Traherus a Romaine il, is capitaine, i forced for his refuge to flee buto this fincomark then king of Scottes, who recepued him as a fried. And furthermoze though he were hands, as a traytone & a rebell buto the Romain Emprie, vet Fincomark refused so to do, chw= fingrather to fustapue all Traherus his malice, and to have warres with the Romaine Emperour that to betray his friend, who had put his life into his hands upo an elucciall trust of safegard.

Derewith Traherus being not a litle moued, cilimitled his power, a entred into wellmerlad, the which countrey had remayned in the Scotouer buto the. Fincomark hearing that the Ros manis would thus make him warres, had likewill rapled a missiant armie, to relist the, so that he had at the least. Ir. D. persons togither in one dancas.rrr. 99. of his owne country men, rr. P.Pias, e.r.M. of fuch Byptains as followed after Oftaums. Fincomark being thus furnithed, halled forth to encounter with his enimies before they shoulde have time to do any notable light of them, lent an Heralde onto Traherus, to inderstand the cause why he thus inuaded his scatter, but receiving fro him an ontoward an= fuere he brought fouth his people into the fielde morrisade to give battell, & so iogning with the initial there was fought a right fore & cruell conflict, which cotinued for a time with binner= und murder and flaughter on bothe partes.

Finally whan the Romains were at point to have got the upper hand, they were sodenly put in suche frare with the light of a number of hulbandemen, who had got togither they? cattell s were driving the same away, that supposing they had bene some newe succours comming to ande they enimies, they immediatly fled upon The Romains the fame leaving the pictorie to their annual flee. the same, leaning the victoric to their adversa= ries: howbeit of the Scottes side were slayne (as There were other also of right famous me= 10 they? chronicles report. cv.M. men, and on the The numbers Romaine parte about. rbj. thousand.

> Traherus himselfe cscaped buto Porke, but hearing that Fincomark, and Ddawius purlued after him, he for swke that Citie & got him into places of more furctic, to that when the counies came thither, the Citezins peelded themselves, & ded voto Octarecepued Difanius as their Prince, offering fro uius. thence forth to be bnder his rule & government.

The newes of these atchieued victories being number of the nobles to come in onto Difauius, Octavius chwho recepued them moste thankfully, and to cos rule of Bryclude wrought so by they? support, that he was taine. Mostly afterrestored to the governaunce of the whole realme, & established therein according to his owne withe. This done, Fincomark returned into his countrey, aswell himselfe as other of his nobles a me of warre, being highly rewarded for their paines & travaile fulleyned in that iour= required by Traherus to deliner him buto his 20 nep. There was allo promite made and confirmed by folemme othe, that the countrey of well- Westmerlands merlad with such other parties as were assigned assigned to the buto his predecessor king Crathlynt, by order of Scottish men. Carantius at the time of they? iopning togither in leadue against the Romains, should for ener remayne buto fincomark, and to his fuccestors the Scottill kings without any clayme or title to be made to the same by any of the Baptains: but this promile was not long kept, for thortly till mens hands euer fith Carantius deliurred it 40 after that Ditauius had once chaled all the 120maines fouth of the Brittill confines, and that Traberus was fled ouer into Frauce, there was A councel kept a councell called at Porke, where it was not on = ar Yorke. ly ozdepned, that from thence forth there should neuer any straunger be suffred to raigne over the Bytaines, but also that the boundes of the realme should be extended forth beyond the wall made (as before is recited) by the Emperour A-Delan, even buto the old auncient bounds, and li= comage unto his subicits. a so comming within 50 mites, expulling south the inhabitants of sozal raine nations.

Suthe an immoderate lufte of inlarging his Oceanius cobominion enflamed the harte of Difaulus, that ueters to coneither regard of his othe, not remebrance of be= minion. nefites received, might stay him from seeking to wrong them, whole and had rellozed him unto his former estate and vignitic, as before we have rchersed. For hereopon there were.r.M.men of compiracie is murthered.

Traherus returneth into Brytune. Oftauius is Traficius.

Fincomark.

Pictish king.

Emperour.

Emperours.

Romacus, Fea right to the

warre fent into Edlestmerlande, to the intent to conquere the same out of the Scottishe mens handes: but beying encountred with a power of Scottill inen a Pilites, they were tharply repul-fed and quickly put to flight. About the same time also, Traherus returned out of Fraunce with ij legios of Romains, and rr. M. of other aydes. And giving battel bnto Ditavius, he bavanquished by quished his armie, & constrayned him for his refuge to flee unto the mouth of Humber, where he 10 got certaine vellels & layled into Porway, there to faue his life, bicause that Scotland was now no fure refuce for him: And thus was Traherus againe in possession of Byytaine, as lieutenant to Constantine the Emperouribut shortly after he was by certaine conspiratours in fauour of Traberus by a Difamins murthered, and then Difamins retur= ned againcias in the English chronicle is mencioned more at large.

O tauius is re-

Immediatly boon his returne, he reconciled 20 conciled with himfelf with fincomark the Scottiff king, and was contented that he floudd quietly enjoy the courress of Celeftmerland & Cumberland, with fuch other territogies as Carantius had grauted Octavius en- in former time bnto Crathlynt. De likewise sent treth into 1- buto the king of the Pittes, & concluded a friend. mitte with the Min with him, to the intent he might have ayde fro him allo, if it chauced the Romains eftlones to innade his countrey, as flootly after they did, not realing til they had so aweried him with co= 30 tinual warres, that in the end to be at rest as his age a other necessities then required) he deliucred Octaniusbe- into then thandes, certaine callels & fortreffes, & commetheri- also became tributarie to the Emperour on conthe Romine dition he might ble the office and name of a king all the relidue of his dayes. These things being thus quieted in Albion, & Romains, Birtains, Scottill men and Pittes, continued in friendly 27.01 Constants peace without any notable trouble, till the.ir. yeare of the raigne of Clalentinian Emperour of 4 Rome: fuft of Damalus the Pope. In ' which peare Fincomark king of Scottes departed this life, after he had gouerned the effate aboue. Alvif. 358. H. B. peares. Chis was in preare of our redeptio. 72.

This fincomark, left behind him.ij. sonnes, Eugenius & E- the one named Eugenius, being as then aboute thodius fonnes rout peares of age, the other hight Ethodius, to Fincomark. was yonger that his brother by one yeare. Co that neyther of them might succeede they? father by reason they were not of yeares sufficient to rule, so life, landes, and godes, so that by suche his doaccording to the auncient ordinance.

Herevoon a councell was called in Tryle, thelinacus and where there was hard holde betwirt the .ii. Detonnes to three phewes to king Crathlynt, that were begotten fenerall bre- briff, of his beetheen, which of them Mould gouerne the lande : their names were Romacus, Kethelmacus, a Ingulianus. Romacus had a Pidiffilady of the blond royall of that nation to his mother, a for that his father was clock brather next unto Crathlynt, he loked to be meferred, though he himself was yonger in yeares tha epther Fethelmacus of Angulianus. fethelmacus gave his confent with fuche voyces as he had buto Angulianus, wher with Romacus being not a little offended, fought meanes to have distroyed them both: but his practife being disco- Romacus ucred, caused many to withdrawe theyr good to distroy is willes fro him, whereby his adverlaries were the coulins, moze encouraged: therebponthe councell brake bp, either parte deuiling how to ftrengthen thefelues against the others matiles. But so so Angustinus nuch as Angulianus vied plaine meanes with with sping out any fraudulet dealing, he got the more freds, dealing profession that Romacus was constreyed in the end to chase in more friend require and of the king of Pids, who being neare Anippe. of kinne to him, might not denie his request.

Angulianus therefore bnderstanding what daunger he was in, if he fell into his aduerlaries hands, got togither an armie of fuchas fauouted his cause, a encountring with him in battel was Romacus quisher's A put to flight, a socced to flee into the Westerne guisana. Alles with his cousin Fethelmacus, where remaining for a while, at length he was advertised that the inhabitants had conspired against him, for doubt whereof he got him ouer into Ireland.

Mgulianus beyng Roma thus chaled out of the realme, Romacus cus. was recepted by the most part of the nobles Romicus is and comons for they? recevaed to king: But as the accu- king. stonied manner of ty= rants coming thus to the governement of a realme, through cuil meanes is to rule with crueltie, so did he behaue himfelf, according to that femblable rate, to tone as her thought himselse to be sure of the estate. Wilherefoge suche as had bogne any suill will to fincomark, were out of favour in his dayes, those did Romacus call buto him, & afterwarde vico their councel about al other mens, abuaincing them also to moste high rule & riche offices. Agains those whiche had bene in fauour with Romacco Hincomark, of bare any affection towardes his verocib issue, he sought couertly to beceaue them both of nicelly. ings, there was gathered no light suspitio, that he would likewise ere long find meanes to dispatch Cthodius and Eugenius the formes of the fame Ethodius fincomarke, therby to be the more affured of the foones of crowner kingdome it felf. The two chilore allo comik in fraring asmuch on their owne behalfe, by the an- concept uise & help of their trustic friendes, conneped the felues into wellmedad, fafter ouer into the Ide of Man, where they remayned looking for a day. Then began baniffinients, confiscations of gwors, a flaughter of such as were thought to be fauourers of Angulians caule, without respecte eather offere of age, til the nobles of the Realine being not a little moued with such his cruell do ings, a tirannicall gonernment, conspired togis ther by secrete meanes how to deliuer their cous trey of so permicious a typant: And to being this that purpose the more speedily to passe, they to winight so closely, that they had assembled a great armie, & were come with the same within rindes of the place where he then lap, ere he had and understanding of their enterpayle, so that whereas he (being buppoulded of refiliance) alfaped by flight towardes Pia land to have elca= ped their hands, it prenayled him nothing, for he was taken by the way, and recepued such end as his former passed life had very well descrued, in the sing years of his raigns: his head was fet byo 20 Angulianus king of Scots was loze disquieted maketh fore the end of a pole, a caried about to be thewer bn= to the people to their great reiopling. There were flaine also at the same time belides him, divers Scots & Picks, who had bene of councell with himin al his cruel practiles. After which erecutio vone, they fente for Angulianus, who returned into Scotland, & was proclaimed king, aswel by consent of the Lozocs, as favour of the comons. Aboute the same time bicause the Bertons had flaine the Romaine lieutenant, the Emperour Constantius sent one Maximus thither to chastife the revels, with whom the same Maximus encountring in battell gave them a great over= throw. And within three daves after Difauins king of the Bertons, through griefe, age slong ficknesse, being consumed to the last point, departed this life. He left a sonne behinde him named also Difauius, who doubting to fall into v hads of the Romains, fled into the Juc of Man, ere= mayned there certaine yeares buknowen with Engening and Ethodius, the formes of Fincomark. The Baytons also persisting in their rebellion, were ekclones discomfited in battel by Maximus, and fore by him perfecuted til he had brought them againe to their full subiection.

Willieft thele troubles cotinued in Baptain, Nectanus king by Dectanus king of Picts, who enforced him- warres vpon felf to revenge the death of his coulin Romacus, the Scottes. making fundzie rodes a forrapes into the Scots tiff confines, a greatly endamaged the countrey, by spoyling of godes, murthering of the inhabitants, becaming of townes with the villages, & in the end having his power increased by the ayd of certaine Scottill men. which had borne gwo will to Romacus, he preasted to fore bpo Anguhamus, that he had no remedie but to trie the hapersualios to have peace of any agreemet could or hard, though Angusanus made hable suite to haue purchaled the lame. Wherefore perceiving no hope of attonement, he mepared an army, & met his enimie in the field, where after loze fight and much flaughter the victorie remanned with angulianus, e Meitanus with his Pittes were chafed and forced to faue themselves by flight.

Restanus himlelfe neuer relled till be came buto Camelone, where he called a counfell of his nobles to have they? admic by what meanes he 32rd of battell in a pitched fielde: loz no friendly 50 might be reueged of the inimites recepued by the Necessus de-Scots, wheref he was mole delirous, not regar- uenge. ping into what dannger he brought his dame realme, to he might formewhat rafe his cancour and displeasure, whiche he had thus contequed against his enimies the Scottes.

Peither mated there diuers great personages in that affemble which (to content his minde and to winne fanour of him) let foremend the menter F.iii.

deth the Scottilli confines.

in fuch earnest wife that notwithstanding what other could fay to the contrarie) it was ordepned that with al speece an army should be leuied, and ledge fourth into the Scottish borders.

Petranus having thus the confent of his no= bles to inuade the Scottes a new, cauled men of warre to be take by through all the parties of his pominion, 4 that of the choylest men that might begotte: the whiche being once assembled, hee Neckanus inua staped not long but set fozeward with them, and 10 entred into Kalendar wood, spopling & destrop= ing all afore him at his owne will and pleasure.

Angulianus knoerstäding his furie, * doubting lest the Beptains through setting on of the Romains hould sicke to joyne with the Pickes to the destruction of the Scots, thought good to ale fay if by any friendly meanes her might being Restamus to fal buto some reasonable point, ra= ther than by the warres to endaunger bothe the Piftill & Scottill ellates, in putting the same in 20 aductive to fall into the hands of they, ancient Angulianus fu- enimies the Romains & the Bzytons. Herebpo therfore he wrote buto Pedanus a getle letter, declaring therin al fuch daungers a incouenieces as might enfue by this warre thus by him at= tempted. Ind againe how necessary it were for both nations to have peace togither as then, co= sidering howeit was not to be thought that the Romaine legate Warinins (haning now all the Beytons at his comaundement) would rest (if 39 octalio were offered til that he had fully subdued both the Scottes + Pices: For the anopoing of which peral he offered for his parte, to accept any reasonable coditions of peace, that Gould by him Nectanus re- beprescribed. But Pestanus in no wise would fuleth al offers giue care to any treatie of prace, so that Angufiamus being forced to give battell for defence of

Argusianus & ioyne in battel with their arof peace.

flayne.

bowne daht.

On the other part Peitanus likewile encouraged his folkes to bo baliantly, so that the Arthers on bothe fives stepped forewarde, letting their arrowes flie freely one at an other, till at length comming to hand blowes they ftroke on freshly, beating downe and killing without sparing on either live, so that a good space the victory was doubtful. It length Angulianus perceiving Angulianus is his people to be put to the worle, rulled forth inwhere her was quickly choicd, oppressed with preffe and flaine out of hand, the most part of his people milling him, and not bnorffabing what The Scots are coas become of him, supposed i he had bene fled. discomfited. & therefore fell also to running away, but the refidue that flode flill at their defence were Claine his lubicits, brought his people into the field, and exhorting the to play the men with fundric co=

Thus the vidory remayned with the Pides,

but neither part had any cause to reionce for the chieftains on both lives were flagne, belives ma- Nettern i ny thousands of other, so that aswell the one na- also Layoe. tio as the other departed fro the place right nenfife & forrowfull, giving many a fore curle unto fuche as had bene the procurers a nurrishers of such detestable hatred between those two nation. which had so long a time bene conjopned in the faithfull bande of amitie, to the great quiet and wealth of both the countreps. After this bloudy battell, afweil the Scots as Pictes fat ftill for a fcason, not attempting any entermile of impoztance the one against the other.

Magulianus raigned not palle.ij. yeares be= Fethe fore he was flaine thus in the field, as pe before have herd in whose place succeeded his con- macus. fin fethelmacus with little better luccelle, for in p.ii. yeare of his raigne, desirous to be revered of the Pictes, he assembled an armie, & entring into Angus, began to spoyle & flea downe right all p mas before him, without regard to impotent, a= ged. tender infants, or other. The Pitts also being kindled herewith, gathered their power togi= ther. a encountring with the Scots, there was a fore battell fought betwirt them, but the Scots first putting the wings of their enimies hoste to The Son discomine flight, at length disconfited their mayne battell alpices. for being left naked on bothe lides of all appe of fuccour, great flaughter was made in the chafe of the Pictes as they fled hither thither tolane themselues. So that among other their king na= An other med Peitanus brother to the aboue remembred ctanus kin Pedanus, being wounded with an arrow died eth of hun within three dayes after that this cruell conflict receyued was ended. The courage of the Scottes nowe the fight ! being advaunced with this their prosperous furcelle, they palled forthwith over & river of Tay, to robbe, harrie, and spoyle the countrey of fyle.

The Pictes percepuing themselves not to be fortable wordes, he placed the in order of battel. 40 strong inough to matche with theyr enimies in playne field at hads firokes, betermined yet with thirm Hipes and light encountrings if it were polfible to keepe them off from the winning of any of they? fenled townes, callels or frong holdes. And to be the moze able to mayntaine thefeines in this they? purpoled intention, they chaft one Picrgust to they king, a man of subtill nature, choice kin and craftie imaginatio. This hiergult deutling picies how to deliner his countrey of fuch an infoller to the thickelt of the prealle amogit his enimies, 50 ble enimie as fethelmacus was, procured two flic fellowes piers by nation, to confectione the felues for Scots, a foi that they were runnying throwers of the darte, in which kinde of extreme the same fethelmatus toke great pleasure, they A precede were apointed to niake fute to be in feruite with hint, to the intent that when they might effit -they a time, they Would flea him, by one kind of meane or other.

They (according as they were instruited coming into Scotland found meanes not only to base place in the kings house, but also to corrupt one of his Nustrians an harper, a to being him to be of counsell with them, in this their wicked purpofe. By reason whereof, in one night as hee lav at Carryk, where he was busie to make his promition there for the warres against the Bitts, the fame Dufitian (having playde in the kings er let in those if Picish traytours, who swethwith flew hun even as he lay fo fleeping: but the king aroning arienoully at the deadly froke, some of them that watched befoze the chamber swze, per= corning what was happened, followed after the murtherers, who fledde with all weede buto the nert mountaines, where they fought to defende themselves with hurling downe stones byo the that came up towardes them : but in the end, be= manner of the same, they were drawen in peeces with wilde horses, the Mulitian being also aprichended a convict of the treason, suffered sem= blably the like kinde of death. Fethelmacus came he to his end in the .iii . peare of his raigne being the fecond peare after the death of the Emperour Clalentinian. In this feason (as in times paste hatin bene beleeued) certaine bones of the Apollle S. Indiew, were brought forth of Achaia, a Monke named Regulus Albatus, comonly calld . Reulc, a man in those dayes highly effeemed for the opinio which the world had coccined of him for his holy a vertuous life, to who king Durgust gaue his palaice that Awde in p part of file, where y same Regulus first laded: at whose contéplacion also, he trested a church in old time talled Kirkruil, p is, the Church of . Reule, aftrivards named polochurch of . Anorewes, nons were wont to be buried. But to leave this matter to y further report & credite of y Scottiff was invested king of the Scots by comon concent of all the nation. Ibout the same leason Barmus the Romaine lieutenat in Byytain, Micrifanding of the late diffention betwirt the this men + pids, deviled whiche wages he 13 3ht b. A subour both those nations, therby not and to mlarge the boundes of the Romaine Empgie, i to beliver the Beytains from inua-

> Chronicles, wee will proceede with our purpole. Litter the death of Kethelmacus the nobles & comons of the Scottiff natio lent into the Ide of Man for Engenius the some of king Fincomarke, where he w his brother Ethodius had remanied, during the dapes of the.iii.last remebred kings Romacus, Angulianus, & Fethelmacus. Dis Eugenius at his coming into Albanie 50

tions of those so cruell enimics, but also to have the fouth part of the Ille more obedient a loyall of the natios, til he had destroyed the other: for he colidered it would be an harde peece of worke to have to do with them both at one instant time.

him against the Scots, comon enimics not only Pictes. to the Pictiff natio, but also to all such people as loued rest & quietnesse, as might easily be perceiued by their continuall practile & place, euer fee= king to disturbe their neighbours with rodes and forrages, to that it flood with a general common wealth to have the utterly distroyed a extirved.

Hierqust right iopful of these newes, gaue harmy taken. t confessing the ocede, with the whole 20 tie thanks but o almightie God, that had mound the Romaine lieutenant to make fuch offer buto him, whereby the furious race of $ Scots might be once repressed, put away fro his people, and therfore willing to coffrme a friendship with the fame lieutenat, he promifed to renew the aunci= Hiergust his ent league betwirt the Romains & Dids, bpon answere voto any reasonable coditios, which he sould deuise, Maximus his not only requiring his ayde at this time against message. the layo Scots, but also at all other as occasion mouince in Grecia into Scotland, by a Brekiste zo fould bemaund. Maximus and this answeare, he folid meanes also to come to a Hiergust iogra-comunication with Hiergust neare unto Pozke, in triendship, where the league was commed betwirt them, & proclaymed therein $ $cots not only adjudged for comon e= enimies to the nimics, both to & Romains & Biptains, but allo both. to the Pias. Ind further ther with were certains orders apportted how the warre flould be purfued with al expeditio against the. These things thus finished, 4 both the Princes returned to their flading in the abbey churchyarde, where o Tha= 40 homes, Marinius lente an Heralde bnto Euge= An Herald fine nius the Scottish king, comaunding him on the tro Maximus behalf of the Romaine Empire, to make reffitu= vnto Eugenius tio for al wroas & injuries done buto the Dicish nation. And further to deliver into the handes of Diergust the king of the Pias the authors of the same wrogs & iniuries, to be punished at his discretio, or if he would refuse thus to do, that the he should lake to have the Emperour and the Romaine people enimies buto him & all his nation.

> Eugenius for antwere herebnto, declared that The antweare fith his entring into the gouernmet of the Scote of Eugenius tish estate, her had done nothing that might be unto the Hethought pretudiciall either to the Romains or to the Beptains their lubicas: And as for the Pias he would be gladde to have a peace with them if there might bee amends made for all displea= fures done on either parte, according as foulde be thought to stande with equitie and reason.

F.iiii.

buto the same Empyze than heretofoze it had The practise of bene. He thought good therfore in y beginning to destroy the allay if he might toyne in friendly with the one Scottes. delhervpo direding his letters buto hiergust He sendeth vabid chamber, till he had brought him a fleepe did 10 king of the Pictes, he required to renewe the old to Hiergust league with him this people, promiting to ande king of the

Perthec

Perther vio her les what cause the Romains Moulde haue to make warres for the Pickes, a= garnst those that had done them no displeasure: but if it were so, that hee muste needes haue warres, he would be what in him lay to defende the libertic of the Scottish natio, truffing chiefly in the fuccours of almightic God, who vled to fauour the cause of the init and innocent, against fuche as fought to wrong them vpon fagued

feth a mightie che Scottish ខេត្តខែមុន

Eugenius gapower, fightoth with his

breaketh vp

quarrels without occasion given.

Maximus recepting this answere from Eu-Miximus ray- genius, affembled with all speede a ffrong and mighty armie of Romains, Bzytains, & French 11: muideris men, with the which entring into Westmerlad, he spopled that country most miserably, taking divers castels & strong holdes by force, the which he furnissed with garrisons of his people, and Cruell warres, then palling into Annanvale, brinned and harred the fame: from thence he entred into Galloway, omitting no kinde of tyrannie that mighte be 20 Scots buto & Pids, suppoling it to make chief= flyewer against the inhabitantes, so that the fear was greate throughout all the countrey : for of many peares befoze, so great an armie had not bene seene in those parties. Eugenius norwithstanding, gathering his power togither, determined to trie the fortune of battell, * so iopning with his enimies neare unto the water of Cree, his prople were quickly put to flight, i chased, by reason that they were muche inferiour in number: but the Romains pursuping 30 The Romains the chafe, hapned to light amongst the of Argile, forewardly in whiche had not bene at the battell, but were cothe chate, re- ming towards it, and now fiercely encountring ceme comage. with suche as pursued they; friends, they caused them to retyle backe with fome loffe, wherepon the other secottes also which were chased returned, and gave a freshe onset, so that if night had not come on the foner, there had bene a far greater multitude of y Romains flain in that bickering than they theinselnes did thinks of. Herebyd 40 the Romains voubting what they enimies inteded to do, they fortified their campe that night very strongly but Eugenius understanding what a multitude of his folkes were flaine in the battell, so that the very streame of the water of Cree was stopped up with dead earcases, he thought best with the adulce of his peares, to licence his people to departe to their homes, and not to fight any more with his enimies for that time. delhiche being vone, he himfelfe repayzed the so same night unto Carricke, where he remayned for a fealen, making promision for belince of his realme the best he could deute. Marimus ha= uing knowledge in the morning how the Scots were quite gone there wares, he determined to have felletwed the, but being afcertanned of a ice bell a amongst the Bertams in Kent, be thenged his per, ofc. a returned chitherivarace, to ap-peale that tumulte, leaving in Galloway a con parte of his armie to keepe fuch holdes as he han got in that voyage. The perre following Warimus was to bulico in & fouth parts of Beptaine. that he could not atted buto the warres against the Scots, otherwise than in maintapning such garrifons as he had placed in their countreps, by reason whereof sunder bickerings happened betwirt them of the same garrysons a the Scots, 10 who laboured not onely to deliver they? owne countrey out of the handes of all forrainers, but also to inuade a destroy Picklande, so that they harried the countrey of fyfe, with part of Men-domige the teth, and Sterling flyze, brenning and walting pices. townes, castels and houses most cruelly.

Wilherof Maximus being certified, made femblace as though he were fore grieuco therewith, Miximucia but inwardly he could have reionced at nothing tayned great more than to heare of the iniuries done by the ly for his purpole: & herebyo preparing an armie against the next sommer, whe he had disposed at things in a quiet ozder amought the Bzytains, Maximus d he let foreward with the same towardes Gallo- soonesieu. way, where being arrived, there was no kinde of deth the sq crueltie spared against the pope inhabitants.

Engenius in the meane time buderliaving & Eugenius coming of his enimics, mustred his people, ap= parechana pointed the assemble to be made in the countrey mieto de of Kyle, whiche way hee heard that his enimics would tranaple. Thither came also not only al the able men of the Scottilly dominios, but like= wife a great number of luftie and grong wome Women apt to beare armure, according to the old accu- to the war Storned guise of they nation, so that there were numbred in this armie. I. M. persons right sierce of the son and hardie, desirous citizer to vaquish the enimie armie. with dinte of sweede, or els to vie presently in the place.

Maximus hearing that the Scots were thus encaped in Bric, marched towards the, x lodged the same night not far off fro the riner of Mios, The ap where knowledge was given buto Eugenius, consider t p Marinus was come within. v.miles of him, Scones. with a greater armie, than he had at his last encoutning whim in Falloway. These admertiles incuts caused no small sturre to be rapled in the cape, some being flrike with present feare, where other cotrary wife moued with high indignatio, o defired nothing to much as to joyne in battell w the Romains, whose cruell tirannie they very much detelled. Eugenius himleile theweond countenance of feare at all, but encouraging his people with comfortable mordes, he brought the forced has Areight in ogder of hattell, denided into thece people. marves, comitting one of them to the leaving of his brother Ethodius, 4 the fecoo to Doalus the gouernour of Argile, referning the .iif. to himlest.

The Historie of Scotlande.

This done, he made buto them a pithic oration, perlaining how necessarie it was for them to play the men, confidering that in victorie confisted the encly hope of livertie, and in beeing banquilled, ther? Countrey was envaungered to be brought into perpetuall bondage foz euer, foz the onelye marke which the Romains thotte at, was to op= restle the libertie of the whole Flande, and to re= duce the lame into the forme of a Promince, to be governed at the wil of the victorers, to the breach to till the after none. of all their olde auncient lawes, and long connnued custonies.

Celith these and many other like reasons hee ment about to encourage the myndes of his lubicits, in such wife, that in maner the most part of them determined rather to die with honour, than to hue in such miserie, as they feared woulde en= fue if the victorie Coulde reft vpon the Romains fide. And as they were in such talke togither, so= newes, that Maximus with his armie was enen

This was in the morning anone after the

Sunne was by, whereas he was not looked for till the eurning following, insoniuche that the fame his fodaine arrivall chauncing to farce contrarie to they? former expectations, troubled all their heads, and brought them into a great maze, for that hereby they were constrained to chaunge the order of they? battailes to have the funne on their backes, as they had proutded at the fyrit it should have bene, if the enimies had not come bn=

Pet notwithstanding, they had no swner chassged their place, and gotten themsclues into array of battaile againe, but that with great violence. The Scottes they preassed for warde to give the onset byon the give the onset Romaines. Which Maximus percepuing, made all the speede he coulde, to set his men in order of battaile, that he might recepue his enimies coms ming thus to encounter him.

So both floes beeing fully bent to battayle, dainly commeth in one of they? scoutes with 20 and approched within daunger of flot, they lette flie the same most egerly, albeit that through ha= The battailes sting forth to joyne at hande strokes, there was joyne. little hurt done with bowes or dartes.

The Scottes crying byon the name of their worther and molt famous auncetter king Bald, larde aboute them most effercely after they came one to the joyning: and lykewise the Romains being encouraged with the chearcfull wordes of the Lieutenant Maximus, boldely encountered tion. so that it was poubtfull at the first whe= ther part flould have the work ende of the staffe: but footly there followed variable luccelle, foz on 50 battaile of the Scottilly men wherein Eugenius the ene part, they of Rolle and War, being appopuled buder Ethodius to encounter that wing of the enimies where the Dickes were, fought so egerly and with such fierce willes, that they casi= to put the Pickes unto flight, beating downe a Great number of them as they woulde have pallet the water of Dime, but fireight wages after tailing to the sporte, they were flayn downright by a legion of luche Romaines as were lente by The Scots ba-Maximus buto the fuccours of the Pictes.

On the other side in the lest wing those of Ar= are flaine by gile, Cantyze, Kyle, and Coningham, who were the Romains. matched with the Beptaines, French men, and Bermains, after long and cruell fight were there flaine in the place, greatly to they? fame and glo rie for euer, fo that by this meanes the maint himselfe flode amongst his people, was left bate and naked on both the loves. Withich Marinus percepuing, he caused the same to bee assayled on ech part with such violence, that in the end longer relificance prenayled not, but that their mayire barraile is obattaile must needes be opened perforce, by mea- uerthrowne. nes whereof Eugenius chosing rather to die in the place, than exther to faue his life by Might, or f.v.

Lugenius is

The furious

rage of the

Scottiff Car-

by rendering himfelfe into his enimies handes to hue in miserie. tc. was there flame togither with a great number of his nobles and gentlemen, ha= uing determined by the example of their maister to die rather weedily with honour, than longer to line with flame and reproch.

Thus Eugenius lost his life with his king= donie in the thirde yeare after his first entring into the rule, having enioped few good dayes in rest during the lapde trme.

Such of the Scots also as were appointed to kepe the carriage and truffe of the field, feeing their Lordes and maisters thus flaine, ruffed forth with fuch weapos as they had at had, in purpole to flea some number of their enimics, not palling though it should cost them also their ofone lines, fo that they might die renenged. The flaughter mas great whiche at the fift was made, more through an obstinate besite of reuenge, than by any valuant activitie:but this companie being a= 20 euer bfing to spare suche as submitted themsel= non broken in funder, and driven backe, they were finally flaine and beaten bowne.

Moreover the Romains that pursued in chase after their enimies, when the battaile was done, encountered with great numbers of fuch women and accourtions as followed a farre off, to buderstand the successe of the fielde, doubting what happe might fall to their chilozen and kinffolkes, whole flaughter when they percevued, like people enraged they flew opon such Romaines as they 30 lage and spople of they? neighbours, and names met with, but being ealily vanquilled, and refufing to flee, they were also flain and cut in peeces in a most miserable maner.

The Romaines having thus rid the fieldes of all kind of enimics, lodged that night abrode, here and there at their pleasure, where they might hear the volcfull gronings, and lamentable coplaints of them that lay wounded, and as pet not deade, curfing most bitterly the cruel typannic and codetestable disloyaltie of the Pitts, procuring this murther and destruction of those people that had deferued farre otherwise at their handes.

Idlhen the morning was come, Maximus the The spoyle de Licutemaunt caused the spoyle of the deade bo-uided among it most to be authored and consult neuron among st the fouldiers. Dres to be gathered, and equally devided amongst bis men of warre. And fuch as were founde fore wounded and not dead, to thewe some token of clemencie, according to the olde accustomed maner of the auncient Romaines, hee commaun= 50 ded furgeous to fee to the cure of them. The other being deade, he suffered to be buryed, causing the The buriall of corps of Eugenius hymselse to bee enterred in the dead bo- most solemne and pompous fort, after the vlage of the Romanic Princes.

Dis brother Cthodius beeing found mangled in moste pitifull wife , and in manner halfe beade, was also taken up by commanndement of the lame Maximus, and Surgeons charged to Ethedia have the ordering of hym, and to there there commune diligence for the cure of his hurtes in most specie the cure of and gentle wife.

The victorie thus atchieucd, Maximus furnegeth the Countrepes of Kyle, Carricke, and Conningham, with that also of Calidone, and feaseth the fame into his handes, faffering the Inhabitauntes to enione both godes and landes ic in meace and unictuelle bypon they, other of allegeaunce, wythoute anye further molestation.

Diergust King of the Pictes with other the Hierout's Pobles of that Pation, were nothing conten- frechtaere deftruction ted there with defirous to fee the vicer destruction the Scores of all the Scottille race. Wherebuto Marimus at the first would not agree, alledging the ancient custom of the Romains, who lought rather to vanquish by benefites, than by the fword. ues, and in no wife to spot their honour nor maiestie of their Empoze with crueltie.

But the Pictes not latillied herewith, went The cancel about earneslly to perswade him in no condition Picks to ha to luffer the Scottes to have any abyding with- the Scotte in the confines of Baytayne, if hee withed anye men ban quietnelle in the cltate thereof, for they? Delyght out of the (layde the Bides) was onely let to leeke occali= Country. ons home to diffurbe the peace, to live by the pylly of the Piffes, unto whole consulton (as the Prophecies fpake) they were begotten and boine. Finally when all theps carnell lute mylled the wilhed effect, they fell to, and allayed if they might being that to passe by wicked meede and Wherewer through corrupting byphes, whiche they could faile great not do by other meanes.

And even as it oftentymes chaunceth in fuche cales, where wordes are but fpent in walt, metons ambition of the Romans, with that most 40 giftes pet paragle: so also came it to passe cuen. The prochhere, for at length a Proclaymation came forth maionicid by procurement of the Picts, that al fuch as were all Scott naturall Scottishe men, shoulde by a certapne men forth of day anopde oute of those Countrepes that they fland of Boy pollelled in Beptayne, oppon paine of loling life caine. and godes, and to belyuer op they houles and landes unto luche Byptaynes and Piffes as were appointed by the Romaines for to enloy the same.

The Scottes percepuing themlelues not The Scottes able to make any refultaunce, obeyed thes come their bearly manndement, some of them passing ouer into erueluc Freland, fome into the wefterne Fles, and fome of them got ouer also into Porway, and Die marke, and manye there were that got intertarnment amongest the Romaine Souldiets, and went ouer with them into Fraunce, as pet called Gallia, to ferue in the warres there, mon other places buder & Emperois enlignes. The pilits were to cruel and viligent to fee all the Scottill linage confined, that they would not consent that a certaine number of gentlewo. men flould remaine behinde, who had their hufbandes flaine in the fall warres, and made interrestion in moste lamentable wile unto Marimus, that they might bee permitted to abide in their native Countrey all the relique of their lp= ucs, though in scruile estate, to the ende that they might bee burged after the same were once ended in graves with their Claine hulbandes.

Hozeouer where Cartandis Ducene of the 10 Scottes, late wife unto Eugenius, was brought vino Marinus, with two gentlewomen and a graine from the tumbe of hir husband, where the had remayned ever lithe his buriall in continuall mourning, forsomuche as the was a Brytayne, and discended by lynage from the Princes of Claics. Maximus lamenting hir milerable cale, 20 owne habitation, the worthinelle whercof hath affigued the Citie of Carricke buto hir, with certaine other renemues for the maintenance of hic effate. But after fie had taken leaue of fuche as had the conumion of hir, and was come into a village not farre from Carricke afotelapo, it chaunced that a fort of Pickithe ryders, (or as I maye call them robbers) inet with hir, small to hir profite. + lesse to their own ease, for they did not only flea bir grome, but also beate bir gentlewomen, and stripped both them and hir of all that they 30 was from the treation of the worlde 4319, after 5547. H.B. had, whereof Maximus being enformed, cauled them that had done to vile a decde to bee appres hended and executed by death, according as they had deserued. The Ducene hirselfe being brought backs buto Maximus, and honourably entreated had all hir lubstance restored buto hir againe so neare as it was possible.

But the Pickes being offended herewith, and specially for the putting to death of their men, and began to make a fore complaint in that be= halfe, occlaring that the defertes of their Pation had not beene suche towarde the Romaine Empric, as to have their people put to execution for a womans fake, being both an enimie and a pri= fonce: therefore they required that the might be confined into Biptapne, and according to the tinoz of the profeription, spoyled of all hir godes.

Dere Cartandis being prefent hiefelfe, began to make pitiful lamentation, bewayling hir most 50 buhappie estate, in that contrarie to the order of hir wietched cale and melent milerable fortune, the thoulor nowe be forced to returne agains into bir Country: willing rather than the thould be inforced to to doe, that the might offer by hie life, es a facrifice in the place of hir hulbandes burial: and therefore holding up hir handes buto Marimus in most pitifull wife, the belought hym in.

Cantly, that it might please him, either to suffer hir to passe the relique of hir life after such sort as thee thought beste acreed with his widowlike estate, or elle to take the same from hir presently by some violent meanes of execution.

The Historie of Scotlande.

There was not a man other than the Pices, that lawe and heard hir at that instant, but la= mented his wofull diffreste, so that in the end the request of the Pittes was disallowed, and Cartandis having living alligned hir for the maintenance of hir degree, was licenced to depart into what place thee thought expedient, there to line as three thought bell withoute lette or diffurbaunce.

The same tyme the Scottishe Bishops and Diells beeing banished as well as the other fort The Monaof the Scottill people, a number of their Monkes Acrie of Iona not them into the Ne of Lona, now called Colum buylded by kill, where they erested a Monasterie for theme banished Scotbeene right famous, eucrionto these our dapes, as that whiche was afterwarde endowed with many fague renemues by directeref the Scottiffe kings, who hav their burials there after the refurne of the Scottes into Albarne as Mal be hereafter erpressed?

The peare in the whiche the Scottiffinen The time that were thus vanquilled by the Romaines and the Scottes Bittes, and finally confined out of they? leates, confined. the byth of our Saulour 3332, from the begitte 379.H.B. ning of the Scottille kingsome 679. and the 710. H.B. thirde yeare of Magnicuttus. The fecond

The same yeare betoge Engentus ganobat = yeare of lutail onto Maximus, many traunge lights were flata. H.B. Leene in the furthell partes of Albion, stryking a Straunge wonderful opear into many mens hearts.

In the night fealon in the appe were teme Swordes and firte (wojocs and offiet Weapons moue in a long weapons letge lundgie of their Pobilitie came onto Maximus, 40 rinke, after comming togither on a heape putto in the agreet being chaunged into an higt flame as it hav ben a firebeande, it then banilled away. The waters of the ryuce of Dune rain with bloud, the vanile of the lame typet flathed bit tymes as they have milet. beene all on a fire. There were leene allo à finite byrden soya ber of small by roes fall but of the ayre so thicke, that it feemed it had rayned byrdes, and Michaelnently came a great number of Kauens that de-nource by the lamb.

Cirraine Witteries and Bouthlayers beelke ring that there things betokened the vellerillion of the Scottiffe kingobille, wert communited by the Priesten to holde their peace of payme of death, as they that tolde nothing but lyes and tables, though afterwardes their tales proued molt true. Tang etraging mer et nor

But to returne to our hiftorie. Ethodius the beother of Eugenius being cured, as is layor by

Cantyr.

n Will dies by ap-Pointment of Maximus.

Denmarke.

92

Ethodius con- commandement of Warinus, was vet banithed amongst the relidue, and constrained to take an othe, that be soulde immediately revayee into Denmarke, and hereafter not to approch nearer buto the coaftes of Ilbion, for doubt of some newe attempt that might be made by the Scots through his meanes, thereby to returne into their Countrey agapne, and to recover there former estate.

The Scotter repayre into Irclinde.

Gillo chosen Iles, but that assembling themselves togyther, captaine of the and chosing one Gillo to their capitain they palin the western sed ouer into Argyle, where in the ende they were Hes comming encountered by fuch Diffes as were let there to into Argile, is vanquished by Defende that Countrey, and flaine ethe mothers some. Their vesselles were also taken and brought into funduc Hauens of the Countrey to ferme for defence of the coaffes bypon any news enterpaise which the Scottes Moulde chaunce to make : but the other Scottes percey- 20 Pobles there in such feare of the Romaines. that uing they were not able to furnishe forth a newe armie in the Fles by any ayor they might purchafe there, farled ouer into Frelande, where me= fenting themselucs onto the King of that Region, they declared but him from popul to popul all their infortunate chaunces, and lamentable ralamities which were happened buto them of late through the tyrannicall puissance of the Romaines, and malicious enuie of the Willes, in fuche fort as nothing coulde be more miscrable to enimie to the Romain empire. This Maximus Miximus than their present estate, considering the ruine of fo inightic a kingdome, and the final banishment of the inhabitants from their houses and lands.

which had beene in possession of them and they?

elvers, by the space almoste of seven hundred title men to the belief their powers, and in the bittayles, and inupitions to palle into Thanie flippes rigged and decked as was requilite for ding in Cantyre, chaunced to meete with Beitporffane brother to Beirqust king of the Biffes.

accompanied with a great number of Diffs and Biptapnes allembled to defende the Countrep.

Irish men they were quickely put to flight, and

This arde being put in a readinelle, and the

The Frishe king with his Pobles mouch The king of with pitic to heare and understande so volefull calamities to have chaunced buto that Pation, ment the Scot- whole good or had happe coulde not but touche 40 yeare. riffi mens cafe! them berie neare, confidering they were difcended both of one progenie, comforted thele Scotreares.

The Irishmen ende concluded to appe them with tenne thousame men, and to furnish them forth with ships, tithmen. for recouerie of their Countrer.

The Scottes and Irishmen Cantyre.

The Pictes en- but being Charpely affapled of the Scottes and counter with the Scots and Irish men, and such as were outstaken dyed on the swords, to are discoured. the great terrour of all the news inhabitants that mere planted in those parties.

This Clictorie thus atchiened, there were that mane counsell not to attempt fortune over farre but to take fuche botics of godes and prisoners as they had got in the Countrey, and to returne therewith into Irelande. Dther were of a contrarie opinion, supposing it belt to followe the bistozie, and erther to recover againe they mincient leates, or else to die in the valiaunt attenut But this stayed not them of the westerne to thereof. Which addice was followed, as the best, though it proued otherwise: for before they could come to any conclusion of that enterpise, the Romaines, Pices, and Bertaynes gathered themselves togither, a gave battail again to that Irish men. Scottishe and Itishe companie, wherein they of ourthrown nerthrews them, to they otter ruyne and de-

> The newes of this infortunate encounter bes ing brought into Irelande, but the king and his they thought it belt is al speed to send Ambassa. The king of the board of the boar They that were sent at the first were soze blamed and checked by Marinius, for that they had ayded the Scottille men in the last invalion made into Albion:but at length accepting their ercuse, Maximus bee graunted a peace byon certaine conditions, the Irish a wherof the most principall article was, that in no wrie they flould recepue, and, or fuccour any hauing got a quiet peace on ech live, vied al mea- bountous nes possible howe to procure the love of his soul- beraline to diers and men of warre, shewing hom felfe not win the per only gentle, curtous and meeke towardes them, but also so liberall and free, that his bounteous giftes valled all understanding: in so muche that as is reported by writers, he bestowed in one day neare hande as much in rewardes, as the renenue of Beptapne preloed to the Empre in a whole

This franke liberalitie and curteous behaniour he wed not onely towardes the Romaines, and his other men of warre, but also towardes the Beytapnes and Dides, conforming hyms felfe to neare buto they? manners and fallions, that at his comming into Pialande, he layor as may his Romaine apparell, and arayed himselfe in garments after the Dictill quile.

By this maner of meanes therefore hee wan such an enterpule, they twke the leas, and lan- 50 him such love and favour, as well amongell his fouldiers, as also amongst the Dictes and Bipe Maximus is tayness, that in the ende by common consense choice Employers that in the ende by common consense choice Employers they chase him for Emperous, in the 3 83, years eyes. after Christe, protelling generally, that they would o'me onely they abeplance buto him to their supreme governour.

Here the Scottilly Chronicles Comewhat has rie from other waiters, who affprine that Maris mus was thus advannced to the Imperial dig= nite, rather by constraint of his men of warre, than by any meanes which he of himselfe vsed to attaine bito the fame. Where the faide Chroni= desneuerthelessesshewe, that it came chiefly to passe by his owne feeking, procuring certain perfons to worke for him as inflruments to frame other to this his purpoled intent.

he helde the dominion of the Empre beina grand thus preferred to the Imperial effate, the space of fue yeares. All the countreyes and people of Albion beeing at his comaundement without con= mäbefoze his time, sith & Fle was first inhabited.

Arlangth desirous of more Empire, he passed ouer into france with a might pe armie, in our= nose to subdue al France and Italie, with such o= ther countries as were obedient buto Gratian as then Emperor of Rome. But how prosperously was flain at Aquilcia in Italy, pethal find in p inflorie of England a great deale more at large. By reason of such trouble in the estate of the Romaine Emprze, Ditanius the sonne of Ciranius late king of the Brytagnes, the which (as before is lapde) fledde into the Ille of Man, and after departing from thence, got over into fraunce, returned nowe into Beptapne, and did so much there, that the Bertains recepued him to to agree with the Romaine Emperour Theodolins, to that the Bertaynes floulde pay they? wonted tribute, and live bnder suche lawes as by the Emperoz flould be to them prescribed. In al other respects. Danins Coulde be reputed du= ring his life for king. Immediately herebyon two Lieutenats were fent from Theodolius, of who the one named Martins foiourned at London, and the other called Clictozine, at Pozke. And lawis in practile, abolishing the olde Beytishe laines, to the greate offence of many that coulce not well broke fraunge ordinances . Pamely the prices repyried foze thereat, and bled most an enve their owne lawes and conflictutions, greatly to the contempt of the Romaine effate.

Mherrof Ticorine the one of the Romaine Licutenants hauing knowledge, gaue strayte commaundement bnto Hiergust the Pistishe lawes and rude ordinaunces of his Countrey, to be bled any longer amongst his subjects, bppon parne that might enfue for disobedience thewed towards the Maiellie of the Romaine Empyre.

thergust nowe percepuing into what thealcome and miserie his Countrey was brought, to meanes of the warres which he had procured agapult his neighbours the Scottishe men, as a man fore repenting his passed follie, and feeing no readie means presente howe to reforme the fame, being aged and fore broken with continu= all sicknesse, he got himselfe secretly into his pri= uie Chamber, where immediately hee flue hom= Hiergust flayselse, to be ridde of the sight of that present service eth himselse. estate, into the whiche he sawe both him and his whole Countrey reduced.

Whole death being once knowne. This pictes are commaunded that the Pittes Mould not chose as forbidden to ny other from thenceforth, to raigne as King o- create a king. uer them, noz to obey any other Magistrates, but tradiction: which had not chanced buto any one 10 onely such as shoulde bee appopuled to have the government of them, by commaundement and commission of the Romaine Emperour. Fozit was agreed, as he alledged, by the tenour of the league, concluded betwirt hierqust and Maris mus, that after the occasse of the same Hierqust. all his dominions shoulde bee governed by Ro= kan and he heade in the beginning, and how at length he 20 maine officers in fourme of a Province. Howbeeit the Pices nothing regarded the wordes of Durstus is cho. Mictorine, but by common agreement choic one the Pictor. Durstus the seconde sonne of Hieraust to bee their king.

Wherebpon Mickorine beeing enformed of they doings, rayled a power, and made luche

speede towardes them, that hee was gotten so neare buto the Citie of Camelon, ere they had a= ny knowledge of his approch, that Durftus with Durftus is bethey king: but flootly after he was constrayned 30 other of the Pobles, beeing as then within the Romainer. fame, could not have space to escape their wapes, but being forthwith belieged within it, at length they were taken by force of affault, and the citie lacked, to the great encyching of the Romaine

armie, and otter bnowing of the pope Inhabis taunfes.

Durstus with other the chiefest prisoners Durstus is were firste had buto London, and from thence brought priconverged to Rome, there to have indgement by don. with al expedition they began to put the Romain 40 decree of the Senate. The relioue of the nobles that were taken there. Luffered in the markette place at Cantelon. Thus was that tumult appealed, and the The Picts be-Dids commaunded to pay yearly onto the Em- come tribuperours procurator the fourth parte of all they? reuchues growing of they? come and cattell. Belive this trybute hee charged them also with diverse base services, as to labor in mettal mines, They are pue-to digge stones south of the quarrens, and to to their base king, that in no wife her Moulde suffer the olde so make bricke to bee sent into Brytaine, or into other places whyther it pleased hym to come maunde it.

> The cause why hee burdened them in suche fort was (as hee layde) to teache them to knowe themselves. For they were become so lostie sithe the departure of the Scottishmen out of the Ile, that if they were not restrayned in time by authoritie of the Romaine puissaunce, the whole to dwell be-

commaunded

zer of Forth-

A wall made the Pictes.

to divide the

Britiff nation wece like to be thortly disquieted, by there wilfull meanes and insolent presump=

Peither was it thought sufficient buto Tictogine to charge the Pittes in manner as is be-The Pictes are fore specified, but to they, further greenaunce hee deviced an other way, whereby to bring them yonde the wa- in the ende vinto otter bellruidion, whiche was this: he constrapned them togither with they? wynes, childzen, and whole familyes, to re= 10 to the otter ruyne and finall destruction there= moue beyonde the water of forth, and to leave all the Countreys on this lyde the same water as well those whiche they aunciently had inhabited, as the other which of late apperterned buto the Scottes, and were alligned buto them by Maximus to possesse, after that the Scottes mere ervelled.

All whiche Countrers thus by the Pickes nowe left voyde, were appoynted by Elissozine buto the Byptaynes, as subicites to the Em= 20 a private grunge towardes the Romanes for the ppze, to be inhabited. And for a pertite diui= flon betwirte the Pickes, and the same Bzy= tapnes, her commannded a Wall to ber made, Brytains from and a trench to be cast alongst by the same, from Abyzcoine, throughe the territogie of Glaikow bnto Alcluthe, or Aulocluch, now clalled Dunbreton, fo running from the Calt Sea onto the Melt. Bereto proclamation was made, that if The Picts for- any of the Pictiffic nation did enterpile to paste bidde to palle this delall, and to enter into the Bzytishe con- 30 to bee kept in Jona, nowe Colmekill, within a fines withoute licence of the Magistrates, hee should die for it. delhylest the Pickes through they owne fault, are thus brought into molte miferable fub= tection of the Romaines, the Scottishe men as is fayde) beeing banished the lande, lyne in o-The Scottes ther Countrepes by thyfting oute the tyme so well as they myght, some continuing with they; woues and children, gotte a pore lyuing ence of occupation. Other there were that followed the warres, and ferued under fundage worthie Captaynes here and there as occasion serued.

Ethodius brother ento Eu- commaunded (as is layde) to goe into Dengenius,late king of Scotmarke, was joyfully recepued of the King there. delho also gaue hom an office, therewith to and begatte of his wyfe whom he brought thy= ther with hym foith of Albanie, a sonne na= nied Erthus, who after his fathers deceaste Eich the sonne hadde issue by hys wrst called Rocha a Ladie Segot Fergule of highe Parentage amongest the Pobles of Denmarke, as daughter to one Korichus le= cond person of the Realme a sonne named Fergule, whole chaunce was afterwardes to reffore

But Ethodius the brother of Eugenius

the Scottiff nation agains to their former ellate and Kingdome.

In his young yeares, her was appropried to The Gottle ferue buder Alaryke the Gottlike King in that make an entire buder Alaryke the Gottlike King in that dirion 1911 famous voyage which he twee in hande agaynst the Empyrethe Romaine Enwyge. For suche was the hate of Rome. as then of all the Portherne Regions and Kingdomes towardes the Romaine name, that by generall agreement they conspyred toayof. And so eche of them sente forth a nomer in appe of the large Alaryke cholen by common consent as Generall of the whole enterpapse.

Fergule being let forth by the King of Den- Fergule wa marke with a power of Danes, and with a cho- fent to ava fen number of luche Scottiff men as were with- the Cother prawne into those parties went with the better will, for that before the common quarell, he bare ving of his auncetters to cruelly in expulling them oute of they come homes and native Countrey.

This Fergule was present with the Gothes at the wonning of Rome, in the lacking where Rome firm of, amongelt other spoyles, hee gotte (asis reported) a certaine Cheste full of bokes, the whiche some holde opinion hee brought afterwardes into the westerne Iles, and caused them librarie there burloed for the same intent. Which bookes (as is to bee supposed) were certaine by-Stories or monumentes of olde antiquities. But the same were so befaced in the bapes of herog Boctius (who as hee hunkelfe wyteth , cauled them to be brought ouer onto him to Aberdone) that it coulde not be understwoe of what matter they intreated.

It is wytten mozeoner of Fergule that hee with they? hande, as exercyling some Sci= 40 continued with Alaryke in all his enterpty= Fergule w ses, so long as her lyued, and afterwardes ser= Capcain valued binder hys successour Athaulsus, to hys Athauls kangreate same, and in suche honourable estimas of the God tion, as fewe were founde comparable buto him in those dares.

At length requiring a cafecundupte to res furne into Denmarke, he was licenced to depart feane retus with highe and right bountifull remaides, as in against part of recompence of his good and fapthfull fere Italie into certagne peares in ryght honourable estate, 50 nicesthewed, during the tyme of the waters, as wel in the life time of the land Athaulfus, as also in the dayes of his predecessour the forelayde Elarpke.

About the same leason, the Bilhoppes lea of Candida casa, otherwyle called Duhitteme, was fyzik inshtuted by one Pinian a pleacher, that twic greate paynes, (as the report hathe Salor Nick gone) to instruit the Pittes and Beptapues in the Chaistian fayth. Here was afterwardes reputed a Saint, and the place of his buriall had in fuch veneration, that many vieo to reloct thither for denotion lake, as the maner in tymes past was when pilgrymage goings were bled.

But nowe to returne where wee left fouching the Pittes, and to thewe the maner howe the Scottes returned againe into Albanie : Pre finall understande, that the Pickes beeing brought into fernile bondage (as befoze wee have partive peclared and doubting dayly of worke to enfue. ther leut lecrete mellengers buto luche Scottes Come porway, and in other partes of the worlde. promising them, if they woulde give the attempt for recoucrie of there auncient dwelling places in Albanic, they Moulde bee fure of all the ards that in them lar, being readie to spende their louis to revenue the iniurpes whiche they davly tenuali practife ener was howe to oppreffe the auncient libertyes of all such Pations as came bnder there subication. The experience where= of they nowe felte, to they? busufferable greeuannce, loking for nothing else but shortlye to bee expulsed oute of they? Countrey, and diruento goe feeke them other places to inhas bite in straunge Countreys, after the manner of Dutlawes, as it had chaunced alreadie to the before is erpreffed.

Fergule buto whom amongst other this melfigures chiefly direfted, reioxced greatly of the newes. Ind firste conferring with the king of Denmark, of whole appe he knew himselfe affured, by his aduife he fent letters abzode fortifuith into Porwape, Dikney, the Westerne Ales. and into Ireland, but of the Scottiff men as dwelt in those places to biderstande they? minde berein.

> And beeing certified that they were bniuerfally agreed, not onely to trye they chaunce for reconcrie of they? former estate and Kingdome, but also had chosen him to be governour & generall Capitaine in that enterptyle: he prepated partly at his owne colles, and partly at the tharges of the king of Denmarke, and other of his friendes and alyes there, a greate multitude both of men of warre and Shippes, in purpole to thers estate, whiche as it was thought myght nowe bee the moze eafily brought to palle, lithe the Pictes woulde aybe him thereto, oppon an earnest desire whiche they had to revenge they? owne injuries recepted at the Romaines hands, and to deliver themselves from such thealdome as they daply feite themselnes oppressed with, coubting withall shortly to bee quite expelled out of they whole Countrey, as they had bene forced to forgoe a great and the better part there of alreadic.

In this meane tyme, one Bratian discended Gratian vlacof the Beytille bloud, by consent of the Romain vernance of Legate Martius, (both of them going agapuste Brytaine. they? allegiannce) blurped the governaunce of Beytapne by his owne private authoritie: but Martius flain. ther, the one of them flue the other. And then the Souldiers not Claying till they bnderstode the pleasure of Honozius the Emperour, chose Conftantine as remapned in exple in the delesterne Hes, in 10 one Constantine to succeed in the place of Mar= succeedeth tius, who palling ouer into Fraunce was flaine Martius. there by Constantius, one of the Captagnes of is slaine. the favo Honozius.

Ulictozine the other of the Romaine Le- The Lieutenac gates hearing of the deathe both of Warting and of the north Constantine, removed from Porke unto London. fullerned at the Romaines handes, whole con= 20 don, the better to prouide for the lake keeping of the lande to the Emperour Honozius hys vie: for that lice doubted sundric daungers whiche might chaunce, by reason the Countrey was as then buppoulded of men of warre, the moste part of them beyong transported over into Fraunce, with the forenamed Constantine, and not as gavne returned.

The Pictes enfourmed of thele things, lente The Picts fead worde with all weede buto fergus, requirping speedily vote Scottes by commaundement of Maximus, as 20 him to make halfe, lith if he flould have wither for a convenient tyme, a better coulde not bee devised: considering the present state of things as well in Bertanne, as in other partes of the Romain Empre, the people everie where being readie to mone rebellion.

Ferguse buderstanding the whole, by fuche messengers as styll came one after another buto hom from the Pickes, hee halted to departe with all diligence: and when all things 40 were readie, hee twke the Sea with hys armie, and within eight dayes after, he arryned Ferguse arry in lasette wythin the Frith of Murray lands wed with his this in Murwith all his besselles and people, where tar rey Fyrch. king lande, and worde thereof beeing brought into Irelande, into Dikeney, and into the dillesterne Fles, all suche of the Scottiffe lynage as lyned in those parties in ervle, came myth they woues, children, and whole familles in moste speedie wife anto hym, as thoughe the palle ouer into Albanie to reconer hys Brandfa- 50 Countrey had beene alreadie reconered out of the enimies bandes, withoute all doubtes of further perill or businesse.

> The Pilles allo rejoyling greatly at the The Pictions newes of his comming, repayled buto hom, fully reseyue and thewed him all the honour that might be de= Fergule. nised, beseeching him to varbon and forget all injuryes and displeasures by them totoughte and controlled in tymes patte against the

The Piftes crine pardon excusing them selucs.

Scottiffi nation, fithe now they were readie for the avuauncement thereof to spende they lynes against such as were enimics to the same. Pei= ther was the fault theyes, in that Diergust had consented with the Romaines to banishe the Scottilly people, but in their auncetters, who be= ing blinded through the fagre wordes and sweet promiles of the Romaines, lawe not the mpl= chiefe which they brought bron their own heads. and their pollerities. Therefoze they delired him to the Pilles helde within any of those Countreys, to renue againe the league betwirt the Picishe and Scottish Pations, with such conditions of appopniment as it flouloe please him to pre= scrive.

Ferguse.

Ferquie by confent of his Pobles answerd. that he was contented to stablish the league with them, even according to the tenour of the auncientagreement, and to jorne his power with theyes to helpe to refloze them buto their former estate and liberties, so that they woulde bee con= 20 (og not long befoge their late supposed expulsion Scottes ! tented to furrender op into the Scottishe mens handes, all such townes and Countreys, from the which they had beene expulsed by great fraud and injurie. And as for the displeasures done to the Scottiffe men in tymes nast by arding the The Picts pu-Romaines against them, (as he thought) the mined tor pietes had felt punishment ynough for the kame alreadie, being reduced into most seruse and mi= ferable bondage, as justly rewarded by almightie God for their great butrouthes, bled and flewed 30 fwade my felfe, nor wishe other to beleene, that towardes they auncient neighbours, faythfull friendes and allies.

The Pictes were throughly pleased and sa= tilded with Fergule his wordes, lo that within few dayes after, there king (whomethey had lately chosen lith the time that the Scottiff men were thus returned) came unto ferquee, and ra= league renued tifped the league with him, according to the aragain betwirt ticles of that other whiche in tyme past had beene Pidill) nations, with full folemne other and al= furance, as betwirt princes in semblable cases, of custome is requisite and necessarie. Then were those Countrers restored to the

The Scottes

The auncient

the Scottes

and Pictes.

Scottish men againe, out of the which they had

Eerguse

Fergule is co-neyed into Argyle, and there inuested

SIPO Fer-Wause then being courred honorable copanie of loads. gentlemen, a commons into Argvie, was there pla

Chayte of Marble, and proclaymed king wyth

all fuch accustomed pompe and recemonics as to him apperterned.

This was in the. rlb. yeare after the Scots had beene depuen forth of Albanie, and after the by th of our Saujour 424 in the yeare after the 422 H death of Honozius the Emperour, and from the 196. Ic firste crection of the Scottish kingbome 750. The :5.10 peares complete.

All suche Castelles also and Fortulies as which belanged unto the Scottes, were furren-Der into they handes in peaceable wife: but the relidue whiche the Romains kepte were earnell= ly defended for a whyle, though at legth through want of viduals & other necessaries, they lykewyle were velinered.

If I flould here say what I thinke, and that mine opinion might paffe for current corne. would not slicke to affyrme that either now first When te from hence the Scottes lettled themselues to in- gor ceram habite here within this Fle, and that they had no this lie e certain feates in the fame til then. But that com. Brymes ming either forth of Irelande, or fro the wellerne fone are iles wher they before inhabited, they bled to make often inualions into this land, greatly molesting as well the Bertannes, the auncient inhabitants thereof, as the Romaines that then helpe the Ale onder their subieation. For I can neyther verthere was any suche continuaunce in succession of kings, as their histories doe mention, and as we have here before let downe in following the same histories, by cause wee will not willingly feeme to offer injurie to their nation, which peraductifure are otherwise perswaded, ethinke the fame fuccession to be most true, where other perchance may colecture (a not mouch there without goo reason) that suche kings as in their hpobscrued on the behalfe of the Scottishe and 40 Rozies are anouched to raigne one after another bere in this He, eyther raigned in Irilande, or in the oute Iles, and that berily not inecellinely, but diverse of them at one season, and in diverse places. Which millaking of the course of hillories bath bredoc errours, not onely among the Scottill wypters, but enen among some if the Bivtille and Englishe writers also, as to the learned and well adulted readers it may plainly appeare. And as for Balve, and some other prowith a right 50 pely, which they take to be kings of Sichely ale thoughe they raisined in that naite of this Ik which afterwardes was policiled by brook and after them named Scotland, pet werether the Biptagnes, and had little to do with Besties, except perchannee we may thinke that they will the out Acs in lubication, where the Brook were then inhabiting, farre longer time perhaps beinge their lettling in Bzytayne) than they? helleries make mention.

But nowe to returne where wee left. After that Chirozine the Romain legate was aduertifed of all the foreremembred boings of the Scots tidhmen and Pictes, he cauled an armie to be lemed with all speece, and halted forth with the fame unto Porke, where beeing arrived, hee attempted by an Heralde at armes to persuade the Pices to forfake their confederacie lately concluded with the Scots: but perceyuing he could 10 Granzebene. not bring it to passe, he determined to pursue both those nations with open warre: and so therebuon fetting forward, he passed forth till he came neare unto Camelon, wher he encaped with his whole armie, having therein (as the report went) about fitte thousand persons at the least.

ferque being aductifed hereof. hauing in like maner alreadie assembled a mightie huge holte. both of Scottishmen and Bittes, came therwith in the night featon, in purpole to have let on hys enimies verye early in the dawning of the next morning: but Clictorine having knowledge therof commaunded his men to be arraunged and let in order of battaile by the third watch of the same night, so that being readie to recepue the Scottes bpon their first approch, there was fought a right fore and cruell battaile, with fuch flaughter on both partes, that the rpuer of Carron (neare buto led with dead bodies, and the water thereof fo thaunged into a ruddie hewe, that it feemed as though it had runne altogither with bloud. In the ende whilest as yet it mas pountfull to whee ther side the victorie would encline) there came fuch a fodaine flower of raine, mixed with fuche great abundance of haplestones, that neyther part was able to have fight of other. so that by reason of the violent rage of that huge storme from the other.

There were flaine in this battaile fuch great numbers of men, afwell on the one five as the o= ther, that they had small lust to iopne in battaile againe foz certaine peares after.

For the Romain Lieutenant bnderstanding what losse of people he had custepned without attempting any further exployte, appoynted certaine of his companies to lie in garrison wythin fundzie foztrelles in Picklande, and wyth the res so ferueth. hour her returned into Kent. In like fozt the and Scottes with their confederates the Pilles, perceruing themselves not able as then to make any turther attempt agaynst theyz enimies, brake bp there armye, and denifed onely home they might desende that, which they had alreadic in

Ind forsomuch as the Pictiffe Pation was

encreased to a greater multifude of people. than those Countreys which they then held, were able to finde with sufficient sustenance (considering what a great postion of their auncient feates the Byrtaynes and Romaines kept from them) it was agreed by the Scottes, that they floulde enion the Countrey of Athole, with other lander ned to the bordering neare unto the same, lying wyth= Pictes. oute the compasse of the Mountagns of

The Dides then beeing placed in Athole, encreased there wonderfully, and buylt many fayze Castels and towers in those parties, to the great beautifying of that Countrey,

In which meane while, Wistozine the Ro- The Brytaines maine Lieutenant commaunded the Beptapus by the appoint to make half with the wal, wheref ve have hearn ment of Vicmade of turfe, and susteened with certaine polices a Wall. of trinber valling ougsthwart the borders heouer the forth, and marched forth with all speed 20 fwirt them and their chimics, beginning as ver have heard, at Abircoine, and so stretching forth by Blascow, and Kyzkpatryk, even buto Aldecluch, nowe Dunbarton, lerr, myles more Porthward, than the other wal, which the Emperoz Adzian caused as is sapo to be made.

Withereof the Scottes and Piffes being en- The Scottifie formed, they affembled themselves togither, and men and Picto binder the leading of a noble man called Braym, interrupt the they let buon the Beytaynes, as they were bulle that Wall. which their battailes forned) was well neare fil- 20 in working about the same, and sue not onely a great number of labourers and fouldiours, which were let to labour and befende the worke, but also entering into the Baptilly borders, ketched from thence a creat botte of Cattaile and other riches. which they foud differled absode in the coutrep.

This Graym who as I laybe was chiefe Graim, otherof this enterptyle was brother bnto the Scot- wife called Graham, and till) Duerne, the wife of king ffergule. De was his lynage. borne in Denmarke (as some holde opinion) in and tempelt, either live was favne to withdraw 40 the time of the Scottill mens banillyment, and had a Scottilly man to his father bescended of a noble boule, and a Danill Ladie to his mother. He himselfe also maried a noble woman of that nation, and had by hir a daughter, whome fer= Ferguse maquie by the persualion of the king of Denmarke ried a daughtwke to wife, and had illue by hir (afore his come ter of Grayro. ming into Scotlande) three fonnes, Eugenius. Dongarus, Tonitantius, of whom hereafter in their place mention thall bee made, as occasion

Dther there be, that affyzine how this Graym Diverticle of was a Beptapne boene, and that through hate opinions conwhich he bare towardes the Romaines to their ching the ori-cruell government, he fledde forth of his native ning of the Countrey, and continued ener after amonali the Graymes. Scottes, as first in Denmarke, and afterwardes in Albion, ener readie to doe what displeasures her coulde devile agaynst the Ro-

The Scottish men returne into they r Countrey.

deriving confines of the

Vistorine inuadreh Gal-

marnes and other there friendes or subjectes. Of this Graym those Scottes which buto this bar beare that furname, are fande to bee dif-

But now to the purpole, ye thall bnderfland. that after that it was knowne in forraine countreps, howe the Scottes had gotte fote agapne within those Regions in Albion, which they? cloers of auncient tyme had pollelled, there came darly dynerie companyes of that Pation out to Couldiers whose heartes hee had wonne through of Spaine, Fraunce, Germanie, and Italye, (where during the tyme of they? banishment they had scrued under sundaye Captagnes) unto Ferqule to apor hym, in recouerie of they? Countrey and auncient scates, oute of the whiche they had beene moste cruelly expulsed. So that Fergule nowe leeing hys power thus not a little augmented by they? comming, entereth into the bodoers of Kyle, Carrik, and Countreps on enery fide: but fhortly therebyon The Scots put commeth the armie of the Romains, with whom to the worle. the Scottes encountering in battaile, recepued no leffe bomage than they minded to have done finto there aductionies. Colherebpon being for= ced to leave that Countrey, they drive backe into Traple, where Keraule wyntered for that part of the years which pet remapned.

dalben Sommer was come, be was coun-Clicrotine, who as then was entered Ballomay. erather to tree the ottermost point of fortunes chaunce against him, than to fustaine such difpleasures and inneres at the Romaines handes. as by them were dayly done but him and hys people, but there were other that gaue other adnice, allevging how the vaunger was great to Ferguse is dil- icopard againe in battaile with the Romaines, fisht with the being me of such skill and practise in the feates of warres, confidering what loffe had chaunced in 40 the two former battaples. Againe, there was great likely hode, that if he coulde be contented to forbeare for a tome, and feeke to befende the borders of his Countrey, fo well as he might with. out giving battarle, it must needes come to passe The Romine that Mortly the Bomaine Empre Moulde bee deliev bein brought unto fuch rupnous decay, by reason of rous nations. the multitude of enimies, whiche as then muabed the fame on eche fide, that in the ende Aice topine doubting bis owne suretie, woulde con= 50 ney himfelfe with his men of warre out of the Countrep, and then floulde it bre an cafie matfer for the Scottes and Piffes, to recouer again all fuche Countrers, as aunciently belonged to there elders, and whollve to reflore the estates of they? common wealthes buto they? former dianities.

This adulte was followed as the best and most likely, so that making sundry robes into the borders of their enimies Countreys to to keene them fill occupied, Fergule and the Scotteste. fuled betterly to come to any foughten fich with them. Shozely after also it chaunced that Cialo. Viccoine tine was acculed into the Emperout Honorius Hosonus. of fome fecrete practite agaynft his Daiefte, as to bee about to blurpe the crowne of Bepfanne. wherebuto hee was compelled in beede, by the his bountcous liberalitie fundzie wayes beclare towardes them and understanding at this mefent, that he was mynded to have fled his wayes for boubt of the layde information made against him, they moved him with such carnell personafions to take oppor him the Imperiall dignitie. promiting such to live and die with him in defence thereof, afwell agaynft Honozius, as all 0= fence thereof, aswell agaynit Honorus, as au o-ther, that in the ende he consented unto their de-kechypocis Cunningham, spopling and harrying those 20 sires, and so was proclaymed Emperor, and clo-the name is thed in purpure, vling thereto all the other Im. authorize perial ornaments, as if he had bene Emperour in Emperour deede. But afterwardes when one heratianus was lent with an army by Honozius into Bye Heradina tayne agaynst this Mictorine, the most part of fentignes the fouldiers, with those Bzytaynes which had acknowledged him for their supreme governom, beganne to feare the sequele of the matter, and afterward requiring pardon for their offences, they Victorial fayled to haue eftlomes offered battaple unto 30 toke Clicrozine, and delivered him pailoner buto delivered the same Heraclianus, with opuerse other of hys to the hand confederates, and to by this meaner was the e-Herachus state of Byptayne recoucred buto the behole of Heradian honoziuk, who floztly after fent foz heraclias fent ino M mis, mynding to fende him into Affrike against fricks. one Athalus, who blurped there against the Romaine Emurze.

At his departure forth of Beytayne, Placiden is he left one Pla tenute ! cidus as Liens wice. tenant and at= nerall of the Romaine armpe in those parties:a man of no greate courage, and lesse skill, which being perepued if such by the the Scottes, gaue occasion unto ferrale theyt Scous. king to renue the warre . Ind first bee procure Durling king of the Wills, being the third of that name to topne with him in that enterpile, accord oing to the articles of the league. Who counting therebuto, whe their powers were once allebeo, The Scott of they entred into y marches of their enimies once piderious runing the most of part Bile, Carrik, & Conings the borden ham, and after they had taken their pleasure there their cases they entered into Gallowaye; vellcoping: an before them, which way former they patted. Then furning into Pidland, they fuboue the wholeres mon, and expulse all fuch Romaines and Bus taines as inhabite in the famic.

Placidus being aduertisco berrof, gathered a Placidus gagreat power, and commeth forwarde towardes power. thene, with whom encountering in battaile, after long fight, his borfemen chaunced to be mus to flight, so that the legions of his fotemen beeing left naked on the fives, were to fore beaten with the thot of arrowes; and hurling of dartes; that in the ende they were forced to breake their arrap, and to being chafed, left to the Scottes and pins capeth unto Porke, whither the Scottes were minded to have purfued him, had not the want of fuch numbers as they had loft at the battaile; fonit what abated their couragious intents. 1

In the meane time Placious not onely mos ned with this ouerthrows, but also waying with hunselfe after what forte the Romaine Empyre was afflicted, with invalion of the barbarous Pations in Bermanie, Fraunce, conclude fome peace with the Seots and Piffes, for doubt of further michappes that might enfue. Ind to by fuche meanes as he made thort= ip after, a league was concluded betwirte the Scottes, Pices, and Romaines, with these conditions, that the Scottes and Pides Houlds mioy and keepe they? auncient scates and Res gions, whiche they had nowe recouered, and bereafter not to make anye rodes of forrayes into the Province belonging to the Romaines, 50 and that the same Romaines contenting themsclues with the Brytiste confines, spoulde not mour any warre of hollilitie towards the boots C: Piats.

> This league being thus concluded and ratilied the Scottithe men and Pictes endeuoured themselves to reduce the state of they common wealth into the auncient fourme and other.

fergule made partition of landes and groundes Fergule deulthroughout all his kingdome; and affigned the deth the lande. fame forth buto his lubieftes the Scottiffmien, in parces. and to fuch other fraungers as were come into Albion to ferue him in the warres agapuft hos entains, and were approved now to remain there. a great and ioyfull victorie. Placidus himlettetli 30 The other that were delirous to depart agayte into they? Countreys, he gave them honourable! rewards, with lafeconduity to palle their waves at their owne pleasures.

At this time also were the names of viverle' The names of Countreys and people chaunged in the parties of diverle places Scotlande, bpon lumpie confiderations, as Coz= in Scotlande nana a part of scotlande, lying in the furtheil chaunged. ende of all the Countrey, toke anewename of Cathneffe one Cathus, a valiant Captains, and of the prod whereof it la ... Spaine, Italie, and Affrike, thought it good to 40 montopie there moting forth into the sea called io named. Pelle : lo that beeing compounde togither, that countrey was clever Cathnelloit ;

Allo of certaine Frishenun called Kollians, Roffe. the countrey of Rolle toke that name, beeing an foge names Lugier. Der Teringere transfor geraldt

That part of the Countrey aunciently called Thezalia, which lyeth on the Sea coalt, beganne to be called Buthquhane, of the trobute to Buthquhane. led to be paped there for theepe, of the which kind The applicaof Cattell there is greate floze in that Province, cion of i For Duhane in the albe Scottille tongue ligs name of Butke nifped trybute: and Buth, a flocke of fleepe:

The other parte of Thesalia lying into the Bogdile. landewarde, was called Bogdale, of the Ryuer namen Bog, which runneth through the middes of it. et ding in the co.

Lourhouhaber toke the name of a greate meare of water, into the whiche the Route of Atho'e, Murray lande.

Argyle, for Ar gathile: and Argyle, to Mar, for Mar- luchlike.

Ferguse reches and profor religious perfons.

The first foundation of the Fergule re-Gistels.

Pictes renue the warre.

The stucktie of the Scottes and Pictes.

ne l'Lieutenat of Brytayne,

forme bookes

Louckguhaber Duhabze falleth and passeth through the same. notable by reason of the great plentie of Salmos taken therein.

> Some other Countreps there be. which keene they auncient names even buto this day, as I= thole and Durrey lande. And some names remaine a little chaunged by length of time, as Argyle, for Argathile: Mar, for Marthea: and I Chould be fure to fecle the puillant force of those Churches as the warres had befaced and refto= Payreth chur- red again Churchmen onto their former livings: caes, and pro-uideth livings and further encreased the same where hee sawe caule, and builded certaine Telles and Chappels for pligious persons to inhabit in, assigning bn= to their large revenues for their Anoing.

He also lappe the foundation of that famous. Abbay within Abbay within the Ale of Jona, now Colmkill, the He of Iona appoynting the same for the buriatos kings, with certaine ordinaunces and customes to be vled a= 20 as of reason they ought to be. The like answere bout the same.

> Moreover, in the time of peace hee was not negligent in mouiding for the defence of his realine, Such Caffels as were decayed and ouerthrowne by the enimies in the warre time, he repaperd, and in those which stode towardes the horders of the Westilli countress, benfaced fun= die-garrifons of fuch fouldiers as wanted trades to actte they? Iruina nowe, in tyme of peace, assigning them sufficient Appendes to lyue 10 ned With.the Scottes.

In this meane tyme, Honozius the Emperour being dead, and the estate of the Romaine Empre dayly falling into decay, it chaunced Lieutenant of also that Placious the Lieutenant of Byptaine Britaine dieth. departed out of this life, by reason whereof the Scottill) men and Piffes toke occasion to renue the warres, making as it were a clayme buto the Countreys of Westmerlande, and Cumberand vollessed.

Entering therefore into those Countreps, they take, (pople, and beltroy all such of the Bivtill nation as went about to destroy them. Pei= ther spared they impotet age or other, but shewed great crueltic against all suche as came in their wares. Many an bouelt woman they rauthed and misused after a most villar nous maner.

The Romaine soulviers after the veceaste of Coffins order- Phacious, orderned one Castins to succeede in 50 by the Romains, the which in their gliding back; his romth, who becing advertised of thes en= terpeple of the Scottiffe men and Pickes, doub-Dioperkus, or ted least; as the trouth was) that Dionethus the some of Octavius sometyme King of the Birtarnes, in here to attarne the Crowne of Bertarne, as due to him by inheritance, would nowe leeke to appethe Stortifbe king ferqule, whose lifter he had in mariage. Callius therfore more deficalise of prace than of warres fent forth Calling Co. a medicagir at Armes buto king Fergule, requisited ring him to remember the league made betwirt burn and the Romaines, and to mitherative live power forth of the proninces which were fubre buto the fame Romans, without proceeding inp further in that bollawfull attempt, either elle ber prople readic bent agapult him, by whom his el-Ferquie also repayed suche Temples and to ders had beene dequen out of theye Countreps and banished quite forth of al their dwellings and places of habitation in Albion.

But hereunto was answere made with great The action indignation, that as for the league thus alleague, gule. ceasied by the death of Placious, fas for neace there was no cause why he should looke for any till the whole provinces both of collectineriance and Cumberland were reflozed agains buto the hands of the Scottill men and Pings according allo was made by Durlius king of the Differ bnto whom Castius had sent a like messare.

Mo whom Calling hav terre beging not a Colins me Calling fetheraum little moned, affembleth an armie, and with all fused marcheth forth towardes his enimies; but before his entringinto Weltmerland, wher they were as then lodged in campe, her had perfect Dioxides knowledge how Dionethus with his Wilchmi is jud (for his landes lay in Walles) mas alreadic ion the Score

Whiche newes fore ampalled the heartes of the Brytannes, but pet beeing encouraged with combostable worder of their Captaines to moceede, forwarde they goe togither with the Romaines, and within three dayes after they came within light of their enimies, being tapaged in battaile readie to receptue them., so that freight wayes buckling togither, there was a right fiere mile and cruci battaile fought betwirt them, til finally lande, which there closes in tymes pall had held 40 the multitude of the Scottiffe archers & Remes to compatted in the battailes of the Romains on tche five, and specially on the backer, that in the ende, and by reason of the losse of their general. Tallius (who was flaine there amongst them,) gine being those of the middle ward being disconsited, biste they array, and fledde. ditherebpon the reflect likewise followed: the Scots, Wills, and Which The Soo men purfuing them to egerly without all office, case of that there was no small nother of them valued kept the close togither, readie to velend the lentes, s to beat down such of their enimits as followed moze raffily than warily in the chale, not bute to garving to keepe any order of battaile & but pet by other companyes that purfact more ofters ly togyther for they, most advantage, there was great flaughter made both of the Romains and Beytaynes. Con Cont.

After this victorie thus atchiened, Wione= thus was proclaymed King of Bartaine, and for warres commued in the lande by the murfute of the Welchmen, Scottes, and Prices, to the great hazard of the Pzouince, and likely er= pulling of al the Romains quite out of the lame.

Ibout this time also there remaphed in France. one Ctius Lieutenant to the Emperour Malenunianus, who understanding all these things which yet remayned aliue in Bzytaine, apporntid one Maximianus being a kinne to the Emperout, to palle with an armie in all halte oute into Britaine, to appe and fuccor the Romains and fuche Byptapues there, as still continued in there allegeance whiche they had promiled buto tie Romaine Empyre.

This Marinuanus at his arrivall in the 43 lande was most joyfully recepued by the fouldithe Luides and nobles of the Countrey relocted also unto him, spewing themselves most clay of his comming, and promiting with what avde to euer they were able to make to goe with him a= gainst their enimies. Wherevon viocuring them to allemble their powers, and to iopne the lame with his, which he had brought over with him, he palled through the countrey onto Porke, and lo from thence marched forth towards the Scottes countrey of delectmerland against bim.

There were both the kings of Scots & Diffs.

Fergule and Durflus, with Dionethus naming The Scottes himselfe king of the Britaines, who had brought and Pictes with him beside the Edicielmen a great number gayoft the of those Brytapines that inhabited in the Com- Romaines. treps now accounted the marches of Maleis, the Which onely amonalist other the Brytaines acknowiedged him for king.

When both the armies were come neare to— The armies gither, they camped by that night the one in light prepare to by letters and mellengers fent from the captains to of the other, and in the morning following thep battaile. prepared themselves to battail. Ferguse sirls ma-king an earnest oration unto his people to encou-teth his people rage them the moze boldly to give the onlet. De to do valiantly clared amonast other things how the right was on they floe, which always ought to minister Right minihope of good fuccesse in them, that enterprise any good successe. thing in defence thereof, where contrarily all such as attempted to disquiet other by iniury & wronic boing, could not but loke for an euill conclusion res and lubicites of the forelayde Empyre. All 20 of their malicious intentes and purpoles. Pers ther were other of his captaines negligent in their duties, but that both in exhorting thepe bandes. they vied most comfortable worder, and in dispoling them in good order of battaile, they theweb most readie and earnest dilicence.

On the other live, Maximianus with hys Captaines and officers of bandes mere as kulle on their live to array their battailes most for their aduauntage; as they law cause and occasion. Id being alreadie affembled in campe to defende the 30 that both the armies being readie to fight, the one The onlet is fet was ginen, and that in molle furious wole. giuen. the Romaines beeing at the first soze annoyed with arrowes and vartes, which flew to thicke from ethe lybe , that they! light was in manuer taken from them , the Stie feeming astt bab beene couered ouer with a Pentile. Be that Marimianus percepuing this viladuaintage, he cauled a frefte Legion of his Bouldiers to abnaunce for warve to the fuccour of their fellowes, by realon whereof, the battaile was forthwith most cinelly remued, the by intermost willing the Romaines love preasing spon their entitles to that in the ende patting quite through they battaples, they cauled a great bitoroet and real The Scotter amongelt thole Scottes dit bilier they? toffe dilordered, verates, whiche were visited in the hindermold B.iii.

rankes, but vet calling themselves in a ring, they made oreat and fout reliftance for a space, and at length a great number even of the most baliant personages of the whole host closed themselues togither, and with a maine force allaped to have broken through the thickest prease of they? enimies, but being environed about on eche part, ther were there Caine eche mothers sonne. Whileft the Romaines orew togither to relift on that tapnes and Wildchmen, founde a way to gette forth through their entinies on the other fode, and to being gotten past them, made away as fast as Thetwo kings their feete might beare them : But a great number being norwithstanding ouertaken, were flain and beaten volume right pitifully.

Ferguse and Durstus are flaint.

Dionethus

cleapeth.

Miximianus purfueth the victoric.

Camelon taken by force.

Abircorne.

Ferqule the Scottiste king, and Durffus sking of the Pices were flaine in this mortall battaile togitier, with the most part of all theve nobilitie. Dionethus being foze wounded esca= 20 ped to the featine, and there getting a thippe, palfed ouer into Cetales.

'Chis ouerthiow fore difmaped both the Scottili) and Diffille nations, who loked for nothing moze than present expulsion out of their Coun= treps, for Maximianus purluing the victorie. burst into Gallowar, most cruelly wasting and spopling the same. And whe he had made an end there, he entred into Annandal, and into the Wictill) confines, destroying all before him with fire 20 and sworde. Camelon was belieged, taken by force, and initeractly put to fack and fpoyle, with dinerte other notable townes and places, as well belonging to the Piffes as Scottes. Pepther was there any ende of these cruel boings, till both The Scots and the Scottes and Pilles for their refuge were de-Pictes with nerally constrayned to withozaw themselves bedraw bevonde pond the wall of Ibircoine, which (as before is faid) a few yeares palled was begon by the Bzynerthwart the lad unto Alcluth now Dabreton.

Maximianus having thus driven his enimics beyond this wall, caused them to make assurance by they? other f cournant never to passe the same againe by way of holfilitie, eyther agaynst the Beptapnes, of Romaines.

There were that counselled Maximianus ei= ther betterly to have vellroped both the Scottes and Piles, either elle to haue davuen them out of the whole Me. But he being latistics with that 50 mions, from all trouble of waters, waters, whiche was alreadic bone, thought goo to returne bnto Parke, and there to winter, that in the beginning of the next spring hee might go into Wales to chastise Wionethus and other of that Countrey for they? rebellion, in ayoing the enimics of the Emprie.

But when the time came that he thould have Let forward on that wourney, he heard such newes from the parties of beyonde the Seas, into what ruinous decay the Empyze was fallen, without any likelyhwde of recouctie, that chautiging his purpole, he determined to blurpe the crowne of Maximir Beptayne as absolute king thereof himselfe, and takether to have the moze favour of the Bzytilhe Pation lutigour without any impeachment in the beginning of of Bryting his raigne, he tok to wife one of the daughters of with the Dionethus, being the elder of thole two, which he He mai live, other of the Scottille men, pictes, Biy= 10 only had without illue male, by the Mer of king Obli Ferqule.

She that was thus coupled in mariage with Marimianus hight Dthilia, & the other baughfer named Gelen, was professed a Punne in an house of religion, to the intent that y whole right which Dionethus pretended to the tealme, miaht Dioneilag remaine to the wife of Maximianus. Then was puted to: Dionethus made fecod person of the realm, aswel the realm in degree of honoz, as in publike government.

thinges were 11114.

had created En of Sugar genius the Con

of .: Aeranie.

realme, as the

to him by rightful furretion front his father tube had governed the fame by the frace of this yeares ere he was flaine (ag before in frecifien)in the last mentioned battaile.

This Engenius began his raigne as me thu ui the yeare of our Lozde. 440. after the life be= 410. H. ginning of the Scottiff kingdome. 769. H. fathers cozys which at the first was terrettelyried as occasion fuffered, whiles the Komaines fayns, and firetched from Abircoine aforelaid, 0= 40 toere pet in the Countrep, bee cauted to be taken bp, and conveyed over into the Ika and therwise called Colnickil, where with Tolking Abbay of pomp and ceremonies it was intumilated. Colnic otherwise of the ordinance which he bindifference which he bindifference which in his life time, within the Abbay disc.

In like maner Parimianus to action of cliablish himselfe the more quietly in the state Brytayne, and to deliner his subjects ted to make prace with the Statter inco. In grunners fute made buto him for the lane, a comme of a social me in the ellate of Britaine, courted alle to etteine to the tipe in government of the whole America & therfore affembling al the forces of the Bertie pouth, layled into Ballia, cauling bingliffeld proclaimed emperor, & lo blurped beitle as in the

The Historie of Scotlande.

Englich and Italian Sylfogie, you mage finde motelargele erpzeffen. Be left behinde bind in-Swarne his father in lawe Dionethus as chief governos there, with one legion of Romain fouls

Ifter this did Etius the Emperors Lieutes nit in France, fend for fuch Romains as Maris manus had left in Bartaine, who renolting fed their othes of allegiace giuf buto the faine Marie nouth of their rightfull Lorde and maister the Emperour Malentinian. So that in this wife was Beytaine dispureeyed of all maner of able men meete for defence, whereof the Stottes and The Scots and Pices toke good occasion to inuade the Beytish the Brytaynes. boldies, not having to purfue with fire & swords all such of the Beptaines as did pet continue in obevlance to Maximianus.

They first drove those Brytaines out of all the Countreps, which had bene taken from them: imianus obeyed Etius as one that supplyed the to by the same Maximianus, & by other of the Ros mains and Britains as Billiand, Krle Carrik, and Cunningham, Galloway, the Marches and Porthumberland. This done, they entered into Cute land, Weftmerland, & Bental, not cealing til they had spoyled a defaced all those countreps with the most part of all Pozkshire, in such cruell. in le that they made al those quarters barren both? of come a cattaile which way focuse they palled."

The Beptains percepuing into what dauns gerthey were brought, if some good redresse were Rome for fuccor to be had at the Emperor Clalentunians hands, for Maximianus was other= wife occupied. Clalentinian dellrous to deliner the Bartanucs from luche cruell enimies as the Scottes and pids thewed themielues to be, leaft through their meanes al the whole Ale Moulo reuolt from the obedience of the Romains, appoined wed- ted one Gallio boan in Rauenna, and as then for iourning about Paris in Fraunce, with a legion back the Scots and Piles from further molelling the subreds of the Empre.

The Scots and Pices vpon knowledge had of this Gallios arrival, dee'n back into their coutores, not minding to fight with the Romains, whole force they boubted and not without caule, having had in times past so many notable over= incomes & flaughters at their hands. But Gallio purfued the even buto the water of forth, where Gallo purfuin fundrie fkirmiffes he flue no fmall number of eth the Scores them, and for that he knewe he fould be fent for and Pictes. Mostly to returne againe into France, to helpe to relift fuche barbarous nations as warred in the fame, for the better befence of the Brytapnes as gainft their enimics the Scots and Pills (whom Gallio caufeth he knew would not be any while in quiet after he the wall of was once gone, he caused the wall to bee newly Abitcorne to , not found in time, fent ouer with all speed buto 40 made by betwirt Abircoine and the mouth of Clude water, thereby to defend the Romain pronince from all foden inuations of the enimics.

This wall was early made of tinte, but now repayted with flone, and firegthened with great The maner of postes of pyles of wood, driven in betwirt in plat the buylding of that wall. ces molt neebfull. It was also buij. forte in breadth, and rij. fort in height, and in certain turrets, call forth opon this wall, Ballio appoputes watche and warde to be kept, that boon the eniof souldiers, to passe ouer into Beytain, to deine 50 mies approche towardes the same, waining Theordinance might be given by fire in the night, and by frioke of Gallio for in the daye, buto luche of the Beytaynes as kepeon she dwelled neare oppon those borders (commanns wall. bement being given bypon painte of death for bes ing found in the contrary) that enery man boot fuch knowledge bad, thoulve refort immediately to the place appointed, with fuche authoric arm weapon, as for him was requilite.

Giiii. Wilhen

Gallio returneth into Fraunce.

Wilhen Ballio had thus given order for the furetie of the Beptaynes, and delivered them at that neclent from the cruell handes of thepe enimics, he returned into fraunce with the armie that he brought with him, according to the com= maundement which he had from Etius the Emperours Lieutenant there.

His denarture out of Brytaine was no loner knowne of the Scottiff men and Bifes.but The Scots and that with all their maine force they betermine to 10 let byon the Birtains againe. So that asseni= the Brytaynes bling their powers togither, the kings of both those nations exhort their men to doe baliantly: Eugenius the king of the Scottish men encoragethehem thionashe hove of high rewardes and worke: the Bidith king likewife for his part promiseth the Lieutenantship of Camelon an office. of most sonour amongest them) but o him that the wall to affault it.

The Brytines resort to the corne to de:

The wall is ouerthrowne.

first flouto passe the wall of Abircome. Wall of Abir- their enimics intentions, according to the ordie. nance befoze appoynted, ozewe in defentible wite unto that part of the wall where they understood The Scots and the Scottes and Pictes were minded to affault. Pictes approch At length when the Scottiff and Pidiff kings were come to the wall, and had they people readie to give the approch, they themselves flode a= part fornewhat out of daunger of thot:and suche bandes as were appointed to allaple, aduaunced Graym affaul- foeth of the maine battailes onder the leading of 30 such the wall. that Graymie, the which as pe haue heard, was chiefe in repulling the Beytaynes when they had first made the same wall by commandement of Thioxine the Romaine Lieutenant. Peyther thewed he leffe profe of his valiancie at this time than hee had done befoge. for though the Byp= tapnes made carnell reliftaunce, lo farre as their power woulde extende, pet at the length by fine force the ideall was bidermined and throwne parmue in fundric places, so that the whole num = 40 the to do what they could for their own defence, bers of the Scottes and Pides entered by the fame into Pidlande, beating downe the By= tarnes on eche froe that went about to make refistannce, for none escaped they pandes, but such as faued themselues by flight.

There came also an other power of Scottes and Dides by water out of frfe, and landing in Bidland, pursued the Biptapus with moze crueltie than the kings did themselves. Both houses and people passed by fire and swords, insomuche 5 that all such of the Bertapnes as coulde get a-The Bryezines mave, withourwe fourth of the Countrey, not staying tyll they came beyonde the Rouce of selves over the Epne : by reason whereof, all that Countrev muer of Time. Which weth betwyrt Tweede and Tyne was belivered by appointment of the Kings onto the Souldiers, to spoyle and ble at thepr pleasure, wherebypon followed many notogious enfam= ples of crueltie, enuie, courtouinelle, weath, and

In the meane tyme, whilest the Scottiffe and Picilie menne of warre applied there Market, the Baytaines with all biligence repay. The Wall of red and newly fortified the other wall begon (as Adrianute is fayd by the Emperour Avian, Choting our = Bryayae. thwart the countrep, from the river of Time, bnto the river of Elke.

howbeit the Scottes and Dias, bicaule minter approched, made no further attempt agaynft The count. the Beptaines at that time, but diniding those from the Countreps which lie by north from the forclayd of Adriace wall of Adrian, among themselves, according wided among to the order in that behalfe appropried by they the Scotter kings, they fortifyed certaine Callels and holdes for defence of the fame Countreps, as it were to countergarison suche Brytapnes as continually kept watch and warde byon the forefayde wall. Whervoon the Beytains being aducrtised of 20 The Beytaynest therefore mistrusting least to forme as the furing were come, the Scots would inuade their Countreys, which lay on the fouth part of the same wal, breaking in by force through it; and they had done the yeare before through the other wall of Abircoine, they fent Amballadors The Brown bito Etius the Romain Lientenant goueming require man and norte Gallia, nowe called fraunce bnder the Empe- hander rour Calentinian, requyzing to haue fonce appe Etius. and fuccour at his handes, whereby to refill fuche fierce and cruck enimies, as fought to deftrop and expulse out of their landes and houses, all such of the Beptaphes as acknowledged themselves in any maner of wife subicites buto the Empyre. But Etius, whether bicaule he would not. 02 ra= ther by cause he conveniently coulde not (for that he was otherwise occupied in defence of Gallia Enwiend agaynste the frenche men) made a direct ans Brymsa fwere, that hee had no men of warre in floze to fende ouer into Bertaine, and therefore willed for ande of him they might nome have.

The mellengers returned home with this ans frocre, and made report therof in a publike affemble of all the Beptift nobilitie, being as then gathered togither at London to consult there for the estate and order of their countrep. Where after long deliberation (normithstading that they pers cepued they shoulde have no more ande from the Romaines) it was pet determined, that to trill forfike d o the crimics, the whole puissance of the Beptiffe Romand nation shoulde be mustred, as well men as wo men being able to do any feate op fernice anails ble in defence of their Countrep, and rather to tric the betermost popul of fortunes channel, than to fuffer themselves to be overrunne with out relistance.

23ut Conamus Camber, a prince of great and thozitie amongell them, as one that was diferns to of the bloud of Octanius cometime king of Byrtain, went about with carnell perswasions tournous the residue of the nobilitie from this betermination, admiling them to feeke for peace at the Scottidi mens handes, rather than to trit the doubtfull channes of Wars his inducment. confidering the feeblenesse of they? whole force now tuer lithence that the typant Marimianus had in manner emptied and dispeopled the land the warres.

But this aduite of Conanus was very evill taken, and moved the multitude that heard him. to be areatly offended with his wordes, not wa= ring to fay that hee spake like no true man noz louer of his countrep: so that the former ordi= nance, that is to lap, to leeke an end of the wars by oint of sworde) was allowed for the best.

And hereupon there were musters taken, ar= tay appointed, where they flould affemble tori= ther to marche fouth tomard the enimie. Cona= nus fore lamenting there doings, called almighthe God to recorde, that that which he had fand. was spoken onely for the love and reale whiche he bare to his countrey, and lithence his aduife might not be followed, he doubted greatly least the ruine of the Bryttish estate by some fatall appointment orew fall boon them.

fonce wilfull wicked persons fell bpon him, and flew him there presently amongst them: wher= with other being fore moued to indignation, let bpon the murtherers there to have revenued his death immediatly. Wherebvon began taking of partes, a togither they went by the cares in such furious wife, that fundzy amongst them being flanne, the magistrates had much a do to apeace wite thus buffed in fending of they? Amballacours to the Romayus, and confulting together fer defence of they countrey, the Scottes fielte tased downe the wall of Abircorne, not leaving one piece thereof whole, to that a fewe takens excepted nothing remarneth to be feene at this day of all that huge and wonderfull worke, it is called now in these dayes, Gramifoike, bicause that Crarme was not onely (as pe haue heard) chiefe so at this time in the rating of it to the ground, he was the greatest doer.

Collich being accomplished, the Scottish and Pittill kings affembled they? powers, and ouerthem al such fortrelles as had not bene destroyed the means before, standing on the Porthside of ans wall, the whiche wall the Beytons had nearly fortifier, but yet were not able to befend the lame from the power of the chimie, who now let boon the Bertons with a mayne force, in so much that undermining the fundations of Adrians walle that walls in divers places at length funder overthrowen. partes therocuere reverled into the ditch, to that the fouldiers breaking in by the same, cruelly beate downe the Brytons whiche store fence. Beiderna nich tipposis

The entrie being thus wonne, both the kings of all suche able men as were apt for service in to with their powers marched forth into the south countreps, com maundement being gluen, that no man boon payne of death should kil any moman of childe; aged person of otherwise impotet and not able to beare armure. But this commaundement in some places was but ilenderly Orueltie of obeyed. Suche desire of revenge was planted in Scottes. the Scottiffemens hartes by reason of the remembraunce of old injuries, that buneath mane they any difference eyther of age or fere. To he mure and weapon provided, and bothe place and 20 Mort, all those countreps whiche lie betwirt the rivers of Tyne and Humber, were wasten and spoyled, the whole number of the inhabit ats (such as could make thift to escape the enimics hands) got them over the forelaid river of Humber, there to remayne as further out of daunger.

The report of which mischiefe being brought to London to the Lordes there (who as pe haux heard were not all of one accorde togither) they toke new aduite, to redreffe the prefent mischief The people hearing him weake such wordes, 20 in this maner. First they thought it best to sende fwith.ii.amballades, one to the Scots & Pilles The Lordes of to require a peace: And an other with letters has Brytaine take to Etius the Romaine lieutenant in Fraunce. for freshe ande and furcour. The tenour of which see more bereletters as then lent buto Etius bere ensucth.

The lancentable complaints of the Beptons buto Etius theice Consull. At what time our els the letters sens ders became subjectes buto the Romains, they vivo Ecius fre biderstood by worthis prouce and notable file the Brytons, as In this meane time, whilest the Byptons 40 samples, that the Senate was a moste safe re- 15 written by fuge and haven, to be wished of all such as fledde to the same for support. But we they posteritie by the permicious working of the legate Marimianus, tending wholy to our distruction, being spoyled both of sozee and substance, and therfore remayning in greate daunger of looling bothe kingbonie and lives, through the fore and terris ble invalion of our most cruel enimies the Scots and Pides, making humble fuyte for fuccours in repulling the Beptains from the same, but al= 50 buto the Romaine Empyre, according to the loyall truff a most assured confidence, the which euer like true and faithfull subjectes we have repoled in the lame, are pet neglected, and nothing regarded, but deliucred as a play buto the Barbarous nations to be spoyled, destroped & slaine in most pitcous wise, which can not but be an euident signe, that epther the Romains have chaunged they? most commendable maners into the worlf that may be deviced, either els theve most large Empyre, through the weath & highe rispleasure of almightie God, is now ginen for a niap buto other forraine nations. But if it be lo. that the fatall force of the time present, both re= quire that without all remedie, the lande of the Birtons being take away from the Romains. mult needes be brought under lubiection of some barbarous nation. We neither abhotre not refule the government of any people or nation, 10 the Scots & Willes (the most cruell of all other) onelp excepted, whose crueltie wee haning long lithence to muche talled, are at this present brought but that point, by they late increased pupilance, that we know not now after the losse of our godes and cattell, which way to lafegard purltues, for the Turke walles being pulled downe, a the ritches filled by with earth, whiche aforetime did somewhat stay them, now brea= king in buon by without letting passe any one 20 out with the enimies by mayne force; and here kinde of crueltie, they have distroyed our fieldes, brenned by our houses, townes and villages, and beaten downe and rased to the grounde our ca-Acis & towers, with fuch other places of defence, not sparing to put to the sworde as well the puze innocent children, women, and impotent age, as fuch other innunicrable numbers of men, whiche they have flanne standing at defence with weapon in hande. And as for vs, whiche are the re-fiduce of our decayed nation, they have driven e= 30 whiche inhabited about the coalies of Batwike. incode in uen to the lea lide, and from thence (bycaule wee

B.v.

Then followed there a mightie battell of those of the drys

Then followed there a mightie battell of those of the drys

Then followed there a mightie battell of those of the drys

Then followed there a mightie battell of those of the drys

Then followed there a mightie battell of those of the drys

Then followed there are mighting the coalies of those of the drys

Then followed there are mighting the coalies of those of the drys

Then followed there are mighting the coalies of the drys

Then followed there are mighting the coalies of the drys

Then followed there are mighting the coalies of the drys

Then followed there are mighting the coalies of the drys

Then followed there are mighting the coalies of the drys

Then followed there are mighting the coalies of the drys

Then followed there are mighting the coalies of the drys

Then followed there are mighting the coalies of the drys

Then followed there are mighting the coalies of the drys

Then followed there are mighting the coalies of the drys

The followed the drys

The followed the drys

The followed there are mighting the coalies of the drys

The followed the drys

The fol can not passe ouer were are put backe upon our enimies againe. And hercof proceede two kindes of our destruction, for erther are wee prowned in the ragging flouddes, eyther els flagne moste bumercyfully by our cenell enimics. Therefore if the honour of the Romaine people, if our affured loyaltie 4 loue, whiche we beare to the Em= prie of Rome, nowe continued for the wace of thele, 500, peares or there aboute, may move 4 you to rewe on our mileries, wee bumbly play $ beleeche rou, not to luster by longer to be troode bnoer fote of these our most beauty & cruell eninues, but sende vitto vs some couenable succoes e that with all speede, least we feeme to be more cruelly betrayed of the Romains, that brought to distruction by these barbarous people, a that wee be not let forth as a notable ensample for al other to be ware, how they put confidence hereafter ci= Paulus Diaconus, Beede, Eeffcap of Mun= largely as here mouth. Elecemound, and other, make mention of The aniweire thele fogelapor letters. Wherebuto Etius aunswearing, declared that those calamities, infoz= times + losses sustained by the Bertains were right vispleasant unto bim, & so muche the moze for that through the fundry invalious made, almell into Fraunce es allo into Italy it selfe, and into other parties of the Romaine Emprebo people of lundry nations, he coulde not as then ware any men of warte to fend ouer onto them. and therfore he willed the Brytons to make the best thifte they could, to defend themselves for a time, till things were better quicted in other warties, a then Moulo they fee luche redreffe of their infuries provided, as they flould thinke themsclues to be very well revenged.

... Aboute the same time that the amballabours returned with this answere unto London from Etius, the other also came backe fouth of the north without hope to speede of that aboute the which they had bene fent: for the Scots & Piffes The Sconn woulde encline to no reasonable conditions of Picts work peace, onlesse the Baytains would wholly sub-resondies mit themselves as subiedes buto them;

The Bytons hereat, twee such instanation peace. that by a generall consent they agreed to trie it boon made they provision with all dilicence.

The Scottes and Pills hearing of the Bay= The Sonne tons intents, gathered their people togither with Picker pres moze specde than was thought pollible for them Brytom. to have done, and forthwith rulled into the bors ders of they, enimies countreys in right myfe faunt wife and most warrelike ozder.

In the forewarde went suche as came touth Theodo whiche came forth of Araple, Athole, and other Pictes inhabiting neare onto the parties of Kalendar and Camelone with them of Fyfe, and Angus. In the middes of this battell bothethe kings kept they? place with their choyleit fouldiers, and flandards bozne afoze them. Then came the carrage and truffe of the armic, nexte wherebuto a great number of noble men of both o the nations followed in fayze order of battell, with they? lerusunts and men of warre the best they coulde choose forth. And last of all (as the maner of those nations bath bene euch from the beginning) there came a great multitude of the commons cloting by the backe of the whole & forcland armie.

The Beytons also comming forth into the field with they? whole puissance to encounted they, enimies, when they bnderstood by espiels ther in the rule of friendship of the Romains. 50 the ofder and mayne force of the Scottes and doubte in Piltes, they were halfe discouraged in theys is with mindes, and thought god therefore once against of the Son to affay if any peace might be purchaled . But and Picte. fending forth they? Amballadours buto the confederate kings to that end, they? answeare was, that except the Beytons would yerld thefeloes, their wifes and children with all they? gudes and substaunce into the hander of their enimits.

famle without all conditions, there would bee no reice graunted.

eithen this was knowen abrove in the holle of the Bertains, what through kinocled bee on the one parte, and dispayee on the other, proudhing there mindes to displeasure, they generally mon chaunge of purpole required battell, euen at the whole number of them. Whereof enfued's most crucil and mortall fight: for the Brytains country, and to revenge they towne deaths bpd the enimics, with more ficreentse thais credible to be thought, gaue ponfet, a ouertheem a great. The fierce onnumber of their counies, in somuch that those of the Brytons. Galloway and the Pickes fighting in the forewarde with them of Argyle, Ithole & fuch other as were in the battell with the kings, were in great bannger to bee put to the worle : whiche Graymes au-Granne percepuing (by whom the most part of thoritie in oras it were resolued to die in defence of theye to the army was ruled, and that by commundement barrailes.

of both the Kings) called forth a number of the Fland men, who were appoynted to attend the carrage, and fent them with all diligence buto bring then at the point to have fought refuge by light. But by the comming of these Jland-men to their fuccoes, they twice courage afresh, so that the battell was againe motte fiercely renewed, & to retinued a space with great flaughter on both partes, till finally the Brytons being oppreffed with the multitude of they reminies, a not able longer to endure, fell to running away, thinking to faue themfelues in certaine bogges, molles, & tellibut fuche copfterels, and other as remayneb with the Scottiff cariage, king the viscontiffeife? of there advertaries, ramic footh and purfied them into those marifles, killying affo taking no fmail number of them.

Three were flaine in this battell of the Bres tons about ro. thouland, and of the Scots and Bides neare hande foure thousande? . Toma omit

The Baytains hauing recepued this oner loffes, but onely to fue for peace at the victorers handes. They fent therefore an oratione butto the Scottlife and Picciffe kings, belreching thent humbly to graunt them a peace even with what condicions it shoulde please them to prescribe. con kings not moned onely with the prefent fortune of the Brytains, but also partely with they owne, having loft no small number of right worthie personages in the battell, were contented to graunt a peace byon these condi- Peace grauted tions: That the Brytains thoulde in no wife by the Scottes! the fore ward to the success of the of Galloway, 30 recepute any lieutenant of armie hereafter front with the con-bring then at the point to have sought refuse by Rome, noz futter any entinie of the Scottill and Came. Pittiff ettates of what nation to euer hee were to palle through they? countrey. They flight. enterinto no league with any citie of fration, not be about to make any warres without confent of the Scottill and Pidill kings, and further houlde bee ready to ferue them against all manier of enimics when to ever they Midulde be cent for . Moreover they woulde termone with marific grounds neare buto the place of the batte 40 theyr wines, children, and whole families out of all those countreys, lying be waltte Type and Humber, religning the pollelitat of the laine bnto the Scottinmen and Differ . Allo they Cooo pounde tifin eintait to the Scotiffe and Piftiffe ine, after the kings towards the dispercie of thepe toulders are of Scotwages, and further Boulde geribe as a Tepbute all money. twentie thoulands precess of golde, to be payar 20000, pound, practly build the leaceast ofen of the victorers. Eyeh the fame throws, fam no helpe which way to recouer their 50 They thouse likewife betiner one hundred be Balantine, so stages of lucte as the from kings shoulde an methat be efterpoynt, betwirte the are of entitere and thirtie pecces of gold

These conditions of peace though they iff seconder. nobilitie, pet tot that they bindertembe not bond to make a better bargaytie, they pertwared the multitude to accept them, and to a league thete

The Brytons the Bytains made tributarie to the Scottish= tributary to the Scottes &

4; 6.H.B. Saujour. 446, and of Eugenius his rayone

The herefie of the Pelagians.

Paladius sente

into Scotland.

Of this Pala-

dius, looke

more in Ire-

Paladius ac-apostle of Scotlande.

ouer the Scottill men the bii.

was this Ille of Albion soze infected with h herelie of v 10e= lagians, & ther= wie Pope Celestine sent one Paladius a ler= ned man bnto the Scottes, to 20 preserve the fro that infection, and ogdeyned him Bilhop the first in Scotland that had his inueffure from Rome, for all the other before him, were orderned by the voyces of luffrages of the people, choling their fwith amongit the Monkes and Pzielts called Culden, as the Scottiffe Chaonicles do reporte. Paladius with right god & wholesome exhottations purged the Scottes and Pictes of fundrie superstitious rites of theyz olde Gentillist 30 idolatrie, till those dayes bled amongli them, wherupo he is named and reputed for the Scotcompted the tillimens apolile. Dee lieth at fordune, a towne in Mernes, where his relikes remained, and were long after had in great estimation.

boon was concluded amongst those people, and the publike state of the lande brought to a more quiet rule than it had bene befoze. Thus mere men and Diffes, about. 500. prares after Julius Celar had brought them in subjection to the Romains, being in the yere after the birth of our

Serum bishop of Orkeney,& Teruan archebishop of pictland.

hee might in= Arua the inhabitäts there in the farth of Chaille, which as pet thep had not recep= ued, and one Teruan, whó hunself bad so baptysed, bee

Morcouer he instituted one

Seruan Bi=

Chappe of the

made Archbishop of Piffe lande.

In thele dayes also many straunge lightes were feene in lundzie partes of Bzytaine befoze wounders ap- the last mentioned overtheow: the Mone being in playne opposition to the Sunne when it fliould be most round appeared in a quadzant figutt.

At Porke it rayned bloud : and frees in fimdrie places being blasted, wythered and died. The market place of rather if pe will to terne it Theapelide in London opened, to that a great hole apeared a many houses were swallowed by.

About the fame feafon alfo (as is fumpofed) liued that huge personage fyn makcoel, a Scot-Fynnakoel fish man boine, of. vij. cubites in heyght. He was ter. a great hunter, and loze feared of all men by rea-In this fealon 10 fon of his mightie Cature, and large limmes: many fables goe abroade of him, not to agreable to the likelihoode of a truth, as ought to be rigifired in an historie, and therefore here palled our with filence.

The Romaine Empre being brought into irrecoverable rupne by the Manvalles. Bothes humnes, Frenchmen, and other barbarous nations, occupying fundry partes and postions thereof, put the Brytains out of all more to have any affiliance from the Emperours, which canled them to remayne in quiet containe peaces Dikeneys, & 40 without attempting any exployer aggrant the Scots of Pids, and to ducly payer thep route nated tribute, though fore against these willis if they might otherwise have removed to be

At the last aboute.r. peares after the totalis Regron oor fion of this last peace, it chamiced that the about 197 names the forme of the abone mencioned Cona- waschnot nus decrended of the bloud of the Dadill tonic breike de time kings of the Brytains, fore maliened to le peuc, mal his countrep thus brought into thealtomestive Scottill nation, and denising how to live wife redresse, called togither the most west of the Beytish nabilitie, by ferrete melleties somets a manour place whiche bechar within their woodcin the country of Rent, and Michigan ning buto them a great plece of the inition per fwaded them with the welconfield tealous he could imagine, to levie warre against the Scots and Pictes, having at that present is

When ethe man was returned to his home. there had bene some amonalt them, that caue knowledge to the confederate kings what mocion had bene made, and what was intended a= gainst them. Wherepon they immediatly determined not onely to cause the hollages to heer= cented, but also to murfue the rebelles with ficree and cruell warres. Pet before they martiled any violence, they fent they, ambalfabours buto the Bertains, to understande theys full meaning, 20 and hatred. and to declare buto them further certaine arti= cles whiche the lapde kings required to have per= maintaine it aswell by reason of they increase

now fithence the last warres, bothe of able men!

fore the nobles were of fundie opinions : for force america with the note of bondage, would gladly have had warres : other having regarde to they? sonnes lying in hostage with the enimics would in no wife confent thereto: by reafon whereof this counsell brake by without con-as also of substannce to furnish them with.

formed without all delayes, or els to loke for o= ren warre out of hande.

dulion of any effect.

The chiefest pointes of which articles were thefe. First that the Beptons Mould not assem= tle togither in councell without licence of the Scottish and Pistish kings, notwithstanding that their auncient lawes they might vie at their to their countrey being a Kontaine of a French= man, neither merchaunt noz other. Their olde hollages they thould recepue home againe, and deliner in exchaunge of them twice so many in number of the like age and degree, as was couenaunted by the former league.

The commons of the lande, bnderstanding what was demaunded by these ambassadours, were in a wonderful rage, and would have made a great sturre if they had not bene quieted by the 40 Lordis, who for they? paines taken herein, got them an euill report amongst the inferiour sorte of people, as though through they? wante of flemake only, the common wealth was brought into luche a miserable estate, that loke what pleased the enimie to charge the Beptish nation with, no man durst once speake against it.

This gridge of the commons encreased to farre fwith against their superiours, that affer the Scottelly and Pickith amballadours wereres 50 tumed home, with answeare agreeable to they? timeundes, there arole incontinently a great cometion of the people, conspiring togisther to the titer velltrustion of the whole nobilitie. But that furic mas repressed, so that they were onerthe men in battell at two fenerall times with Cart Caughter and bloudsped, where boot they mto the mountagnes, and there kepte fremleines, making reples byon the nobilitie, and fetching biblies away from the heardes a flockes of cattell belonging to the Lotdes and Bentle= menibut finally through famine which beganne to oppress bothe partes, they percepued what One estate of neede the one has of the others helpe, and to they live without agreed. This civill warre foze decayed the force helpe of anoof the Biptons, for belide the greate flaughter ther. that was made betwiet them, by the adupyding 10 of the commons out of their houses, the ground lay untilled, whereof enfued a marueylous great scarcetie & dearth of all things, by reason wherof an innumerable forte of people dicd. Pet flortly after followed fuch plentie, that those that were Superfluous left aline forgetting the passed mileries, gane wealth occass themselues to all kinde of vice, whiche toke fuch of vice. rote in the harts of the moze parte of them, that for any man to ble any maner of vertue amogit them, was a readie meane to procure great enuie

In the meane time lived the Scottill and Pidilh kings in good quiet and refte, applying their fludies onely howe to instruct they? people now after the warres were once ended, in lauda= The Scots apble exercises and necessarie occupations, conue ply theselues nient for the time of peace, whereby their realines to peace. might flozish in wealth and prosperitie without dreade of any forraine power. For they law fuch tokens of ruyne in the Brytiff ellate, as Gnall pleasure, but they should receive no straunger in= 30 likely hood appeared, that the same should at any time be able to recouer againe the former force and dignitie.

Finally the Scottin king Eugenius having aduaunced the estate of his countrey buto moze felicitie e wealth than any of his prevecessours had euer done befoze him, after her had taigned The death of trr. yeares, he ended his life about the till. yeare Eugenius the of Leo, that blurped the Entimpe of Configure Scottish king. nople.

Quit for Comuch as Eugentus lefte no tillie Dechino him, his brother named Wongarde fucceeded in the effate. Her began his tilgne in Dongard king the neare 4.70 and the chief de light for Scottes. the yeare. 470. and his chiefest studie was, at 461.H.B. cording to his brothers enlample, to promot for The Rudy of the maintenance of good ogvers and miliee, ape Dongard for pointing in euery quarter mett of gob fame and preferuatio of reporte to have the administration biber him, good orders.

The repairing king Dagard.

with comaundement that they thould diligently forfee that every man might enior his owne.

he hinselfe twke von him allo to see to the repaying of such castels as were decayed, and to the building by of news in places where hee thought most expedient, specially neare to the Birtish borders, sor he well colidered that peace encreassed riches, riches pride and presumption with other flunes, whiche could not long endure without the plague of warres. Therfore he dous 10 at a place appointed neare to the river of hums army. ting the chaunges of scornefull fortune, thought and in time of peace to provide for the daungers of warres, whe the same Gould happe onto him.

These civill policies and princely provisions for defence of his contrey & subjects, increased the fame of Dogard mightily, but that which he did towards the aduauncement of religion did most exceedingly fet footh his commendation.

First, all suche religious men as followed the trade of life taught by Paladius and other, 20 and will to recover they? former libertie. whiche came with him from Rome, hee caused The beatcous them to be highly renerenced: and for the mainliberalitie of tenaunce of their liuing, he affigned forth lands, houles, and other kindes of revenewes in divers places of his realine, and graunted not only bn= to them, but also buto all other being within a= ny orders of Clergie, fundry prinikedges, ap= pointing that the Churches and Abbeys with o= ther holy places should be enfraunchised and ta= ken for Sanduaries, that all suche as fled to the to in the field, and therebpon rayling they? powers, fame for lafegaro of they lives, Would be suffred to reft in peace, so long as they kept them within the same. Aboute the same time also and whilest these things were thus a doing in Scotlad, the Biy= tains being aweried of their service estate, thorow the letting on of Conanus conspired togi= ther, 4 twke aduile by what meanes they might best seeke to beliver themselves fro the thealbome of Scots + Pictes, and bpon aduice taken they 40 lodging with they armies for that night, made concluded to fend ouer into Bzytaine Armozike fend into Bry- some honozable Ambastade unto Androcuus the king of that country for apde. Herewith was rike for ayde, the Erchbilliop of London, appointed as chiefe Ambassadour to go on that message, whiche Erchbishop vsed suche viligence in the mater, that Costantine the sonne of the said Indrornus was appointed by his father with a competent to Brytain tro power of men to go over into great Beptaine to the Armorike the appe of the Beptill inhabitants there. Here= 50 to retyzing backe. boon when the men and flippes with all necelfarie promision were once readie, he embarqued at Saint Balo, where the affemble was made, and taking the fea, fayled forth with prosperous winde and weather, whiche brought him lafe-

Ir into greate Biptaine, where bee landed at Cotnes in Denonsbire, as you hall finde in the chronicles of England. He was recepted with no finall joye, and forthwith proclaymed king of Bertaine, wherevon he promited to affan to the ottermofte of his power to recouer agaput their whole landes and liberties, and to main- Confin faine them in the fame according to their willed freduced

For the more speedy accomplishment hereof. commaundement was first given, that all able men flould be in a readinesse, and come togither The asker ber within fortie dayes after. Whiche order being taken by the advice of the Lozdes and Robles of the realine, the same was put in erecution with suche viligence, that sewe or nonche= ing aut to beare armure withdrew themselves. every man in maner comming to the appointed place of the affemble, and offering to go against Thegrees the enimies, to that it was a wonder to confider refiner of the colont of the people now iogned in one minde Brytist a recourt is Wilhen Constantine behelde suche notable numbers of men, hee supposed the same woulde have luffiled not onely to banquill the Scottes and Diffes, but also betterly to destroy and race them out of all the confines of Albion.

dillien the nemes of all this preparation for warres whiche the Bertains made, was once fignifico to the Scottes and Dides, they like- The Son wife made there appelles to meete with them their 1970 came fouth with the fame into Porkellyze, and The Scan pitched they? campes within.iiij.myles where pieterspra Constantine with his people was lodged, and Bryum. the next day after, bnderstanding how mean bus to the enimie they were, they repled and marched forwardes till they came within light of him, as then encamped with his people alofte bpon cers taine hilles, neare to the aforelapde river libe.

Here bothe the kings of Scottes and Puits readie toz battell against the nexte day, and in the morning Dongard the Scottiffe king getting him to a little hill, celled his men tegither, and there exhapted them by funding comfortable housed h meanes of perfivation to put away all feare, and people to to fight valiantly, assuring them of visionle is manfally. they would keepe the order of battell by him appointed, and not rallyly breake forth of the fame in following upon the enimies when they fell

He had brincath made an end of his wordes, but that divers of the flanding watche came in, and declared how the Bytains began to avale the hilles where they had longed, and that the Pictes were got fwith already in ogder of bats tell, and were marel, ing forewards to encounter them, Dongard thewing hunselse to bee right toyfull of these newes, commanned messis neutly that the flanderds flould advance forth. and enery man to attende the fame according to his appointed ofter. Also that no man shoulde prefume to take any prysoner before the ende of the hattell, not to recide himselfe so long as lyfe lafted. So that iopning with his enimies there folowed a right fierce & cruell battaile. At length both the wings of the Baytains gave backe fro the Scottill men and Pictes, the middle warde fantine himfelfe stode like a valiant chieftaine dorng his endenour to the bittermoste of his power, upon whom Dongard earnefily vieal= fing and entring into the thickest throng of his enimies, was there beaten downe amonalt the Armonike Byrtains, and being aboute to get up againe by helpe of his weavon, was againe felled to the earth, and flayne with many a fore great multiap, fell to running away: other kin= ded with more wrath layoe aboute them more tgerly. The Pins allo, for their part fought most constantly, so that the battell continuona till none dayes with doubtful successe, at length the Birtains were constrepted something to give formin backe, and after taking themselues to fearefull flight, declared that the victorie remapned with there counties.

the point of rhi. thousande of the Brytains, and of the Scottes and Pices aboue. ring. thousand with Dongard the Scottill king.

Constantine the daye nexte after the battaile, mitiggen fouthwardes. The Scots carryed a= way with them the coaps of their dead king, and concerning it into the Ile of Jona, nowe called Colmbill, there buried it in kingly wife. Dongame was thus flapne, in the fofth yeare of hys and about the accoude years of Zeno the Emps=

Ifter him succeeded in gouernment of the Scottisse kingdome Constantine the bzothe about rehearled Eugenius, a Prince taline in noble vertues unto his brother the layo fome good tokens of commendable towardelynelle, as hee feemed outwardly to thew, yet was he giuen moze unto wanton pleasure and lust, than to the regard of the god rule & government of his lubieites, a deflourer of byzgins, a raufther of honelt Matrones, and about all, a fayourer of backbiters and flaunderers. Peuer flewing any toyfull countenaunce amongst his nobles, but amongst scotting restours and other abiding the bennte very floutly. Where Con= 10 vile persons, he was as pleasant and merie as the iocundest man aliue.

Thus though hee represented the Brytisse Constantine king Constantine in name, get in manners hee the Scottishe farre differed from him: for the Brytilly Con-king nothing stantine studying to aduaunce the common conditios vnwealth of his lubicits, trayned them in laudable to Constantine exercises, and reduced them from them formers e king of the uill blages buto civill order and god customes. Contrarywise, the Scottishe Constantine did Dinces of the Scottes discomfited with this 20 nothing worthie prayle at all after he was once instituted king, but followed still his owne inozdinate lust and sensuall appetite.

Hee graunted peace unto the Brytains they Peace graunbuneth requiring the same, releasing not one ted vnto the by the tribute but also religious to the Brytains, and ly the tribute, but also ocknering by into they? divers castels handes by fecrete meanes divers caffels fan- delivered into ding bpon the riner of Humber.

Many other things hee was aboute to have done to the great preindice and hinderaunce of There died in this mortall battell neare to 30 the Scottiffe clate, had not the Robles of the realine the somer withstode his rashe and bus aduised attempts. Suche malice also was ingendred in the hartes of the moste parte of the Pobilitie towardes him, that had it not bene through the wholesome administran and perfwallon of Dongall of Galloway, a noble man of righte reuerende authoritie amongst them. they had leuted civill warres against him, but The good cost the forelande Dongall veclaring to them the sel of Dongal. reigne after the byzth of our Sauioz. 475. yeares 40 daunger and greate incommenience that mighte thercof enlue, restrayned their weathfull minnes from enterprising any thing-agapust him by force, fothat for certague geares they fuffered and bare with this his milozbered government. In the meane whyle the Pictes noting the The Pleis and wante of all vertuous qualities thus in the king in feine of the of Scottes, and agapne what tokens of valis king of Bryaunt courage appeared in the king of the Bipa tains. tains, boubted leaft if hee Moulde feeke to rea so nenge olde iniuries against them, they shoulde be little able to matche bim without appe of the Scottes, (whereof they had fingil truffe nowe, by reason of the insufficiencie of the Scottiffe king) they denifed a means howe to rinde the Bigtiffe kyng out of the way, and so appopris ting certain flie felows to go into Britain for & accoplishment of their deviced purpose, at length the same was brought to palle, as in the english

3.22

Cagenius, Forthough in him there appeared

taine Armo-

Thronicles yee hall finde more at large though in the came Chronicles there is mention made but of one Bicte that Moulde worke this feate. where the Scottiff wayters recorde of divers. whiche neuer the leffe were apprehended, and after bound both hande and fote, were cast into a a mightie great fire, and therein beent to affes in most miserable wife, as by the savne Scottistie wypters it appeareth.

Constantine the Scottiffe by one whose doughter he Anno. 4 8 1.

tons, happened in the.rb. peace of Constantine king is flayne king of Scottes, neyther lived he long after, for having ravilled a noble mans daughter, bozne had rauished, in the westerne Alles, he was slapne by byz father in the night feason, after hee had reigned in great infamie for his reprochfull life, the space of rvii.peares.

Dongall.

Dongall the Ionne of Dongard is made king of Scot-

The was Dongall his nephew, as fon Ito his brother Don= 20 gard, proclaymed king, a prince of disposition indifferet either to neace oz warre, though in the beginning of his reigne, he thewed himself more delirous of peace than of warres, by reason the state of the common wealth so required, considethrough his predecessours negligence.

The poletike rule of Don-

Dongall therefoze besirous of a reformation, appointed men of great wisedome & god fame to be indges and officers bnder him, who in redeclling infloeders, in punishing transcressions. and in deciding of al strifes and contentions betwirt partie and partie, vid so well their ende= your, that peace and concorde therebyon enfuing, the people recovered peaceable rest and qui= tation.

In this meane while that things passed thus among the Scottes, by the procurement of one Clostigerne, Constantius the clock sonne of the Confignius a late decealed Collantine king of Beptons, was Moke elected taken out of an Abber, where he was flozne a Monke, and aduaunced to the kingdome: but being not meete of himself to governe, Woztigerne had the whole rule committed to his handes. newed betwirte the Beytons, the Scottes and Pids, and appointed a garde of the same Scots and Dictes to be attendant on the kings person: in the end also he procured some of them to mur= ther the king, and after put all the land Scottes and Piffes to death, as well the wiltie as the bn= giltie, and finally made himselfe king, as in the historie of England you shall find more at large expressed. The Scottes and Pills (for dilplea. fure that they? countrey men whiche had bene appointed to garde the person of Constanting king of the Baytons, were maliciously circum. uented, and the moze parte of them wzongfullp executed) made fundry roades and forrages into the Brytish borders, neyther sparing fire nor fwwede where they came. So that the faphe Clostigerne by a grievous reporte informed The death of this Constantine king of Bay= 10 hercof, caused an army with all speede to be leuied, and appointed Guytellus the prince of Wallales to have the leading thereof agaynst the enimics. Whilest he (voubting least the people woulde not bee ruled by him, for that it was knowen how he would have made away Constantines children kept him about London, and durst not committe himself so much to the finkt of a multitude, as to go forth in that journey in his owne person.

Guytellus, in respect of the love which he bare Guytellus to his countrey, purpoling to ferue truely in de-Birrifa fence thereof, chaunced bpon his approche to the culch bozoures to take the number of. b. C. of the ene - hundred mies, being aduaunced from the relidue to fetche the enim a botie. These, Buptellus caused to be hanged, as condemned for robbers and villers of the contrep afoze any ouerture of warre was denounced. Wherebyon such other as escaped by flight, and had feene they? fellowes thus executed, dering how things stade not all in the best order, 30 clared butto their governours, what hav happened to there fellowes.

The confederate kings, being in a great chair The South heteroith, gather togither they? people, and halle kings sa forwarde with all weede towarde the enimies, their per who at the first shewed manifest tokes that they restained were loze afrayed of the Scottill and Pidille power: wherebyon Guitellus their generall Gurds with comfortable wordes willed them to be of courses god courage, and not to doubte of victory, has of his se etnelle, to they? no finall comfort and conten= 40 uing fo just a cause to fight with fruce breakers, warmen and luche as were given more butto pillage and comfort spoyle, than to any other commendable exercise worder or practice of warre. With whiche and fundry other the like wordes the Brytains being enboldened, as might well appeare by their chaunge of countenances, Buytellus therebpon remould his campe more neare buto his enimies, to that at the first and for certaine dayes togither, there chaunced onely divers thirmithes betwirt the The Box wherebyon he first caused the league to be re- 50 parties, as occasion served. But at length, the ingreen one bring fore moued against the other, they picke ionne in a pight field. The beginning of whiche battell was right flerce and doubtfull, for on that live where Dongall the Scottiffe king fongth, The S the Bzytains Moztly began to pzeuafle, through par be the faynt fighting of his people : which baunget Galacie Galanus the pitrille king quickly percepuing, de forthwith prouided remedie, for taking with him con conside bandes out of his owne battell, willing menfour to itande to it manfully, and in the wife to give grounde to the enime, he himfelte much the lande vandes letched a compasse about. and let upon the backes of them that so had one nermatched the Scottes.

This loven chaunce loze disordered the Bap= tams, and immediatly the Scottes incomaged efresh, assayled they enimies with more egre marntenantly bothe the winges of the Bertifie armie were veterly discomfited. And herewith a certaine number of the Pides were commainded by their king to make halfe to winne the campe of the Baptains, that fuche as fought to escape by flight, shoulde finde no refuge in the ime.

Thus the Bertains being chased a flapne on e energe fide, they knew not whither to fice : fo that way their weapons, peelded themselves, moste humbly craving mercie at their enimies hands.

There were flavne in this battell aboue.rr. thousands of the Beptains togither with theye generall Emtellus, and a great number of other of the nobilitie. There died also of the Scottes and Pids neare hande foure thousand. The priconers with the spoyle of the fielde was denided by appointment of the kings amongst the soulcountrey to conquere callels and townes, fuche as flood in their way.

In the meane time the Bzytains being loze discosorted with the ouerthrow, assemble a coucell at London, there to devile by what meanes they might belt befend their countrey fro the imnuncut daunger in the which it now food.

Clortigerne as one giltie in conscience, boubted least through wante of god willes in his the mightic inuation of his enimies, wherebyon he was minded to have auoyded the realine, but there were of his councell that adulted him to the contrarie, holding that better it was for him to trie the ottermost pointe of fortunes happe, than with dulhonour so to yeelde at the first blow of hyp frowards hands, considering the abundance of treasure whiche he had in stoze, where= with hee might wage souldiers and menne of warre out of Germanie and other places, in se number sufficient to matche with his enimies.

This counfell as the belte, was followed, and mellengers with commission and sufficient instructions sente with all sprede into Germathe to retayne a number of Saxons, and to them ouer into Beptaine, to ferue a= gainst the Scottes and Pictes in wages with Civitigeme.

At the same time there were amongst those Sarons, two bietherne discended by rightfull ligrage of the Princes of that nation, who being reputed for valiant Captaines, appointed with the Byrtine committaries for a certaine funime of money to take by they? prescribed number of nien, and to recepute charge of them as Cozonels, afwell for they connor ouer into Beytaine, as also for their feruice there, after mindes than they had done at the firste, so that to they arrivall. The one of these two beetherne hight hengill og Engill, and the other hoglus. Hengift and and the having their appointed numbers once fit. Hortus, retay-led, conteyning aboute ten thousand souldiers in with Vortithe whole, they bestowed them about increr, gerne. hulkes, hopes, and players, and in the lame trans Sported them ouer into Beptaine, in the. 4 49. peare after Chailte, as our hiltories do affirme. Withere they were recepued with greate inve and gladnesse of Mortigerne, who trusted by in the end a great number of them throwing as 20 they and to our come his firre and dreadfull enimics.

Therefore when they had refreshed thenis a. selucs somewhat after they; trauaple by sea, they were lent fouth with an other army which Mortigerne had affembled of his owne subieites The Saxons the Beytains, to the frounters of the enemies togither with countrey, where at they? firste comming they Brytains, are palled ouer the river of Duniber, befoze the feat to the Scottes of Pices had knowledge, that any enimies coundiers. Celhiche done, they marched fweth into the 30 luch people were come in lupport of the Beptos creys. to bidde them battell. They beying therfore ama= zed with the strangenesse of the thing, some of them fledde into the inner partes of they? countrey, and other that made but fory shifte, fell in hope of good to the handes of the Sarons, who to beginne successe, begin thepe enterpite with bloude, flewe all fuche as the warres athey coulde lay hands byon, without any respect Scottes wish of person.

Breat was the flaughter by them commitcommons, he should not be able to withstande 40 ted in all those parties where they passed, namely aboute the river of Tyne. Ind when they had made an ende there, they entred into Porthutin berlande, and to into the Dales about Barwine. nert abiopining buto Pighfland, diffroging all before them with fire and fweite.

The Picitihe king in the meane time hab The king of lent bnto Congall the king of Scottes to come Picte, fendeth with all specie to supporte him against the breve for ayde voto full invalion of the enimics, whole force being king. o nowe increased with a power of Sarous, would worke muche mischiefe if the same were not the more speedily in the beginning repressed: buit hearing that the Saxons and Brytains baply approched, he thought not good to farie for the comming of the Scottes, but halles forth with his owne power to encounter his aduerlacies, & his owne power to encounter his aductiones, a The king of rally giving battel, he was our come, and there the Picts vanby lost no small number of his people.

quished.

treaton. Constantius murdered.

king of Bry-

The Saxons wonne prayle

note tof co-

In this conflict the Sarons wanne them a greate name for they; highe valiauncie, where contrarily the Beptaines gotte them no small and the Brytos note of quiltie cowardise, fiatting so favntly. that they? Captaines had muche a do to cause them to keepe they grounde, being ready fill to have runne away, whiche their faynthelle of Stomacke being noted of Hengist, even then put him in no finall confidence that it Coulde bee an calle mater for him to conquere them at his 10 of the Scottes and Pices beyng Arykm with pictes pleasure, when typic and occasion might serve

The Pistille nation having recepved this gricuous ouerthrow at the handes of theyr cru= ell enimies, sent agaphe an other Ambassade bn= to the Scottill king Congall, to lignifie to him by way of lamintation, what loffe had happened to them by that most cruell people the Sarons bopde of all religion and mercie, and what milchiefe by the fame people was intended, afwell 20 approche of they, enimies gathered their comagainst Scottes as Pickes, to the great daun-The Picts eft- ger of the ofter ruine of bothe the nations, if the soones solicite enimics in time were not relited. They i were the Scottes for lent declared all this mater onto king Cogall, & as they had in comission, belought him of speedie fuccoes. Concall not only moused for the harmes and lolles of the Dictes his frendes and alies, but also muche moze soz the lykelyhode of the im= buth all his vower, and to ionne with the Wills. as fully resolued to preuent that mischiese which mas loke to follow, if the violent rage of the eni=

the Pictes.

thee lente words therefore to the Pittiffe king, that if hee might keepe off the enimies by lighte Appenulles and incursions for a small tyme, hee woulde come to his appe flortly, with all the tohole pupliance of his realme.

mics were not the loner relifted.

clamation, that all those within his dominions whiche were able to beare armure, floulde by ayde the Piets, the twentith day after, affemble togither at the South side of Calidone rowde, all and every of them beyinging then and there with them bi= tayles sufficient to serve them for two moneths. According to the whiche proclamation, there came togither at the day and place assigned, a= boute the number of. rl. 99. able men, fitte and meete for the warres.

On the mogrowe after, when Congall had taken the musters and vewe of his whole num= bers, her lette folivarde towardes the place inhere hee understode that the king of the wises as then lodged, who had lykewise assembled his people, and in campe taried for the comming of this Scottiffe armie.

The fifth day after, bothe the kings met to= gither, and thewed greate tokens of entire loue The Street and frenoshippe the one towardes the other, and present the kingsafer After this they go to heare dinine fernice, where ble they make they? demonte prayers onto almigh- with togs tie God foz thepz god fpeede and luckie fuccelle Poneis. in that fourney: which beyng done, they marche fourth towardes the enimies, as then lying in campe not palte tenne myles from them.

The Historie of Scotlande.

Here at the firste light of the enimies, divers The Ston. feare to beholde to greate a multitude, as the within the loke had not bene feene in those parties many a day before, they state away and secretely hidde themselves in the nexte wodes: but the kings to eine ensample to other, caused them that mere thus stolue away to be sought out, and brought agapne into the campe, where they were hangen in the open light of all the armie.

The Sarons and Brytains also boson the vanies tooyther, and mayntenantly berewith the Sarons encouraged with suche comsozia. The Suo ble speache as Hengist ottered amongst them, fort of Re required to have battaple without delay: whose exhorous ensample the Beytains following, heweothe- defin be felues also right willing therebuto.

Congall the Scottisse king perceyuing the The Ser enimics to make readle for bataile, went likewile and Phili minent daunger and perill towardes him selse amongst his solkes, and exhocted them in the kings of and his owne people, determined speedily to goe 30 best wife he coulde, to play the men. The like old fight mile Galanus the Pidiffe king amongst his people, omitting nothing that might encourage them to fight manfully.

After this, the bataples on bothe fides com= Theban ming forewarde to joyne, the arrowes and is begon dartes flewe freshly betwirte them, but neyther parte minding to give place for all the thotte: at length they joyned at hande blowes, first the Byptains in the right wing, with the Scottes Znd herewith hee commaunded by open pro= 40 in the left wing: but the Brytaines not able The my long to endure agapuft the force of the Scottes, Ace. gaue backe and fledde. In the nieane while came a great flower of rapne, nritte with facts a tempelt of havle, that the hardielt there willed himselse thence, the storme beating so fall spon A greet them, that one might buneath fee an other, so that the Scottill menne and Vides wife not whether were better to pursue the Bzytains that fledde, or to keepe their places.

On the other parte the Sarons according to The Saron they maner in time of any present vanger, the close they led themselves togither and drewe mare with select of they chiefetayns flanderd. Finally the tempel no fonce beganne to ceaste, but the Scottes and Pides leaurng their ozder of battaple, fell to followe the chase of the Beptaines, supposing the The Sent victozie had bin wholly theirs. Which & Sarbs pien (now after that the element began to cleare bp) the By playnely perceyuing, by commaundement of there generall Bengilt, allapled the Scottes and Pilics here and there dispersed aboute the snovle and flaughter of the Byrtains, and made fuche the murder of them on every lide where they found them, that pytic it was to beholve. Those that escaped by flight, neuer staped till they mere gotten into places farre prough out of daunger.

This was a blacke day with the Scots and io furnished. Diffes. Derther was it bery ioyfull to the Bry= tains, of whom no final number died in the place br the enimies swoude.

Dengist having thus gotten the victorie, with= diew to Popke, leaning those countreys betwirt True and Twede in the enimics handes, of purpole realling from further endomaging than, that the Baytains might have neighbours whome to feare: For that as he thought Mould inum termined to make a conquelt of this Ale.

Wilhen Sommer then was well neare palfed, he placed his fouldiers in herbrough to lodge for the winter scason, and went himself to Lon= don where he counselled Cortigerne to sende of his owne people to the bozders of his enimies, to keepe the fame from they inualions till the next hurng, agaynst whiche time hee promised to cause suche notable numbers of his countrep= mento come to his ayde, as shoulde suffice not 30 onely to vanquille the Scottill men and Biffs, but also betterly to vestroy bothe the nations, or at least wife to vriue them forth of the whole

This offer buto some of the nobilitic was not greatly lyked, as ever fuspeding that which sollowed, least in tyme to come Hengist should feeke the dominion of the realme in placing his owne people, and expulling the former inhabimoste hartic thankes for those his offers, but allo shewed by the maner of the intertaynement whiche hee bled towardes him, that he thought be coulde not do buto him to muche honour for suche notable service, as he had done already, and trusted her Moulde do hercafter.

According to Hengilles aduile allo, there was a crewe of men of warre of Beytains lent. buto the bordures to the number of fine thoulande, who Chartely after they comming this so chiefly followed. ther were quickly dispatched and made away in funder fleremithes and encounters with the Scottes and Pictes, that affayled those places which they were appointed to defend.

shortly after was lente thyther also, an .o= the companie, double in number to the firste, to, teuenge the deathes of they? fellowes : but they finding fortune as frowards buto them as the former had vone before, spedde muchewhat a like, for in fundry conflictes divers of them being flayne, and divers other by treason of the bozdurers themselues delivered captyue into the adverlaries handes, the relidue that were left, perceyning in what daunger they flode, athence they mighte not truffe their owne countrepmen, returned backe into the inner partes of the lande, and so left the bozdures altomither on-

In this meane while a newe supplie of sine thousande Sarons, with they? wives and chil- of Saxons co-Deen, came ouer into this lande, in eyghtene meth ouer inhopes, and amongst other came Hengills wefe to Brytaine. and his doughter the Ladic Rorena. Shortly after allo king Moztigerne gaue onto hengilt and his Sarons a greate parte of the countrep called Lyndley, with a castell of greate ftrength cailed Twhancaltre. Some haue waitten that make much foz his purpole, alreadie hauing de= 20 Hengist requyzed of Woztigerne so muche grounde, as hee mighte compasse with an Dre hide, and having that graunted, he toke a mightie Dre hyde, and cut it into fmall thonges, and to copalling about a right strong plot of ground with those thonges line wife, beganne there the fundation of a Castell, whiche toke name of those thonges, where with the plotte thereof was Twhang cafirste measured, and so was it called Twhang stel, or Thong castell.

But bpon what consideration so enerit twke that name, certaine it is by record of althe Scots first inhabited tille hiltozics, that there the Sarons first inha- in Lyndsey. bited after their entring into Baptaine, Withen Hengill had lette things inorder for the placing of his people there in dwellings, (appoynted them by Mottigerne) according as fere, med belle unto his poletike head and craftie fogecast, her twice fouth the souldiers and menne of warre, ordered binder certagne Captagnes and tants. But Cloztigerne did not onely gine him 40 officers of bands, and led them forward by flow iourneys as it were staying for the comming of the Beptains.

Clottigerne had gathered as then an huge holte of his lubieftes, and appointed his generall Lieutenant over them his conne Alorty vortymer ge-mere, a young man of greate force and valianne nerall of the cie, but so that he should be ordered in all things Brytons. by the advice and discretion of hengist, whose aufforttle for the warres he commanine to bet dalhen bothe the armies of Sarons and The Saxons & Byptaines were mette togither, Bengilt lende Brytains, 2them ouer the rivers of Humber & Tyne, mare gainft the ching directly towardes the place, where hee thought the enimics lay. The Scottille and Picifully kings, having knowledge of fach prepas ration made by the Beytons, they gathered their powers togither, to the number of, lr. 99, men, enimies.

lx.M. of Scots furnished with provision of vitables for a long & Picts, come time. But besoze they comming to the river of to meete their Type, byon knowledge had that the Sarons and Birtains were passed the same, they made streight towardes them, in purpose to have gi= uen bataile without longer protrading of time, howbeit comming to the place where they were longed, they founde them to Arongly encamped, that no aduauntage coulde be perceyued whiche way they might be constrayned to rayle & come 10 ioyning, and there gave knowledge by the found forth of they? Arenoth to recepue battaple boon some even gronnoe, whiche Hengist of purpole for a time feemed to deferre.

Betwirt the also and the armies of the two kings there was a valley, in the botome full of mpres and marishe grounde, whiche the Scottiff men and Piftes multe needes palle, ere they coulde finde meanes to do any notable displea= fure to the enimies. Wherefore at length they Determined with turfe and fagottes to make 20 mined to affayle them in their canwes: but boon passage ouer those nipres. Which being accom= plissed in the night following, the nexte moz= ning they passed over and got them buto cer= taine hilles lying right over agaynst the Saron and Bertiffe campes, some of them taking their longings byon the brows or fronte of an hill so ricare to the longings of they enimies, that they might throws a darte into theyr campe: and hereof they twke no small occasion to worke a feate against their aducrfaries, to their great an= 30 choice rather to die in defence of they 2 countrey nopance and veration.

There was growing in that place where they were thus encamped very muche of that kinde of beath or lynge, whiche the Scottiffmen call hadder. Of whiche Beathe, or hadder ther ga= thered a great quantitic togither, and binding it in bundels lyke buto faccots, in the night leafon they fet the same on fire, tuinibling it downe the hill, on that five where the Sarous lay. The wind in that instant being somewhat aloft, cau = 40 forth in Brytaine. sed these bundels of lynge to blase and brenne behemently, and hereto standing that waves forth, droue the flambe so strepnably amongst the tentes and cabanes of the Sarons, that the fire catching in the Uthwe and twigges whiche they had couched togither buder them in steede of beddes, encreased the feare amongst the soul= diers wonderfully, by reason that the blasing bundels of the longe or hadder, still comming same had fallen from about, and even forth of the beauen it selfe.

The tumult& the campe of the Saxons,

A policie of

the Scottes.

Great was the tumulte and noyle through feare rayled in out the whole cape, with luch rozing of beaffs, and running by and dolone bothe of them and of the horses whiche were there in the rampe, that if heaven and earth had gone togither there coulde not have bene a more terrible noyfe nor clamour. At length when the Souldiers had done what they coulde to quenche the fire, and to appeale the trouble, not without some pproze and disorder rayled on eache side, they got them with their armour and weapons fouth into the next fielde, whiche Hengist himselfe percepning (having first vone what he coulde to stay them) enuironed with a companie of his chopless men of warre, he got him by buto a little hill nert anof a trupet that all his people thould drawe this leth his ther buto him. After this, when they were come ple togic togither, he disposed them in order of battel with all viligence, abiding for the spring of the day, to bnoerstand more certainely the meaning of his

The Scottes and Pickes Suppoling the enimics to be farre disorded by reason of the fire discended downe from the hilles, fully determitheir approche to the same, percepuing howe the Sarons were gotten forth, and flode ready in god order of bataple, minding to defende they? grounde, bothe the kings thought it beste to tarie the morning ere they made any exployte, for doubt of perils that might befall thereof.

In the breake of the day Congall caine as Conglis mongst his people, exhorting them to remember horans they; towithis closes, and by their example to and auncient liberties, than by cowardize to faue a dissontifed lyfe, whiche (if they chaunce was to be vanquified) they flouid paste in great the aldome and milerie. The Pittille king allo, with lyke wordes encouraged his menne to do valiantly. Pryther was Hengist Cowe in per-Hengist Cwading his Saxons to play the men, that ober 10 fights tayning the victorie they might deliver them= fully. felies from terrour of all enimies from thences

Willest he was thus exhorting his people the Scottes and Pilles with greate force and The Sont violence beganne to give the charge opon him, the charge whiche whylest the Saxons and Biptains went about to defende, thep were beaten bowite by heapes to ficreely on earthe five, that the dil- The Sum comfiture had light oppon them forthwith, had in dange not have the not hengilt by tounde of trumpet called toth werhron. aboute three thouland frethe menne to their fordowne the hill upon them, seemed as though the 50 cours, whiche hee had placed in an ambuste a As and thereto little before the lyzing of the day within a theire find no groue of wood, falle by his campe, apportung them to remagne there in a ecabinelle, to come at his call boon what danniger to ener happenin. These moste siercely setting bon the backer of the Scottes, brought them treyght out of all order, for they beyng occupied with the other Sarons befoze, 4 now allapled of thele besimbe, that have bureath rounteth to any abuantage to turns theys weapons. In the means time the purs bring matched with the Byptains, old put them to flight, t chased them out of the field, not reassung to pursue the in the chase, till they came to a river in the whiche a great number of them were decivined, as they isoperded to valle ouce the fame, a to faue the selues by fwimining. Dn the other fide the Scottes being loze handled by length confireined to give ground & breake forth by flight fo to cheape the cruell handes of the enis mics. Many were flagme in the chase and some taken psyloners. The relidue getting away, fledde Arepalit to the Pickes, but Congall him= felfe through helps of his householde scruaunts escaped to the toppe of an highe hill, and saued biniselse all wounded as he was.

The Pids returning from the chale, and bn= Scottes the overtheow, and that they were now marching forewarde to encounter also with the. determined not to abide they? comming at that time. And so night approching ere the Sarons had got light of them, order was given by commaundement of they? king, that all their caris time to age and a greate quantitie of logges and faes of gottes, should be placed and pyled togither before them, and in the barke of the night to be fet appointment, when the fire was once kindeled. the Pickes with the Scottes whiche were gotte unto them, departed as fecretely as they might, & flared not to make away, till they were faire mough out of the daunger of the Sarons.

Dengist thus having got the vidozy, and percopuing no enimie abrode to bio bim battaple, mustered his men, and found that he had lost in this journey as good as till . M. of one and other. uing his army there, went himself buto Londo, where he was recepued with toy inough by king Clortigeme. And thortly after, opon knowledge that Aurelius Ambrole and Ater the Connes of ting Constantine prepared to come over with a mightie army of Armozike Baytons and other French men, to clapme the crowne of Beptaine as lawfully diference to them fro they? father, the Sarons were fent for out of the north partes, & The Scottille king Congail (buto whome The answere had dwellings appointed but o them in Kent, to 50 field the amballadours were sented for answere of Congail te at hand if neede were to relift any fuch attep ted inualion. But thostly after, for a policie Hengill cauled it to be bruited abrook, that the Scots Dickes meant eftsones to innade the Brittish confines, 4 therfore was there an other power of = Saxos called into the land, * placed in the north parts, to defend the same against the Scots and Pills. Occa the conne of Hengill had y leading r.M. me of warre, in I. playtes & I. hoyes. They brought with them also they wines a children, & letled the selves in the north partes betwirt the tiucr of Humber, & the bozders of the Wiftiff dominios. And even the it began to take the name of Porthumberland, which is as you would fay Northumberthe land by north the river of Huber, a forit both land when it continue. Shortly after, Clostigerne forsaking be so called. the Sarons, both before and behind, were at the 10 his lawfull wife, married the ladie Rorens of Vortigeine Rowen, Hengills doughter, to the high offence marieth Henof God, great displeasure of his subicus. Ind in ter. the meane time Deca not attempting any exployt against the Scots & Pistes, rather sought to get into his handes all the fortresses betwirt Tync & Humber, euen from the east sea to the west: whiche his purposed intent he greatly adnaunced, winning castels and foztresses there in those parties, some by force, a some by surreder: a derstanding howe the Sarons had given the 20 amongst other places of importance, he first got Yorke in pofpollection of Porke, and fayning acculations a= leision of gainst many of the nobles & gentleme, surmising that they woulde betray the countrey buto the Scots & Pictes, he put divers of them to death. fome fecretly a others ovely, as could of fuch offeces as were forged a land against the. Herebyd the Birtons for the stay of such mischief as they vortigerne law at hand, deposed Clostigerne fro his kingly deposed by feet a placed his some Martiner in his entered his subjects. feat, placed his sonne Ungtimer in his rowme, Vortimer cho on fire, whiche beyng executed according to the 30 whiche being done, amballadors were fent bothe sen to governe unte the Scottes and Picts, to require their aide the Brytons.

The Brytons and supporte against the cruell oppression of the require ayde Saros, who lought not only by craftic meanes of the Scottes • 4 fraudulent waits to attaine the dominio of the and Pictes awhole Ide, but also to extinguish & otterly fub - Saxons. uert the faith of Christe, & the vse of his religion throughout the same. Therfore they crnestly be= fired the Scottish & Pidish kings, to assist them against such comon enimies as had bene called After this, he withdraweth to Porke, and leas 40 into the realme not by publike confent of the nos bles, but only by the private commundement and ordinance of Cloringerne, to help aswell towards the lubbuying of the Scots and Pills, as allo to represe all commotions of the Bertains, which they might happely rayle against him for his wicked tyrannie bled amongst them, as his gulltie conscience mighte put hom styll in of their Saxons, who brought them oner (being feare of. Declared, that hee was logie to buderstande into king of Score what danger the milerable Chillians of Bry van the Brytaine were thus fallen, and therefore if nothing gera. els might moue him to toyne with the Brytains against the Saxons, pet that were luffis cient cause to enforce him to bo the beste hee coulde to helpe to veliner the whole Alle front luche an Ethnike generation, as not onely bled-therites and ceremonies of their false religion, and that evenip among the Chillians, with doing facrifice in the honour and worthin of they? belish goodes to the great horror and terrible offence of the beholders colliences, but also lought by all meanes they could deuise, how to destrop and quenche otterly the faith of oure Sauioure Chailte in all places where they myght get the opper hande. He promiled therefore to employe his whole pullance to recover out of the eni= 10 mics handes all suche countreys as lay betwirt the fronters of his dominion, and the rouer of Humber, and further to apde the Beptains to depuethem quite out of the Ale, if the Bretains would affure him, fro thence forth neuer to make clayine, title noz interest, to any the countreps afozelande, lying betwirt the laide river of Humber, and the confines of his realme, but to leave the fame in the handes of the Scottiffy= men and Pietes, to have holde and entoy for e= 20 Cowers, with flaughter of fuche Sarons as nermore in quiet, which to performe, the Ambalfadours had (amongst other things) alreadie promifed in name of all the Brytishe nation, as a recompense of meede to have the supporte and fuccours of the Scottes. The like aunswere the Lame Ambassadours recepted of the Pistish king, and returning therewith buto Mortymere declared afore him and his counsell howe they had speede.

Congill coucsupport the Bistons.

Shortly after for the more and britter affuraunce of all promites, concuaunts and artis cles palled betwirte the Scottilbmen, Diffes and Bygtaines, there was an amitic and bonde A lague ag of peace nowe renewed ratified and established scott, Proaccording to the tenour of the auncient league Bryton, whiche had bene concluded in times palle betwirte them, with some news conditions of a= greement included in the same : all olde iniuries being ended and quieted clearely betwirt them, fo that no caule of grudge or displeasure, might be thought to remayne in remembrance.

The firste enterptyle put in execution after The Scott the concluding of this league, was made by the inuide in Scottes against Deca and his Sarons, whiche Northumber (as partly ye have heard had nelled themselucs land. betwirt the ryners of Tyne and Humber.

Against those Scottes as they were here carnefly occupied in overtheowing Callels and stode at defence, Deca commeth into the fielde with an army ready to encounter with them. but perceyuing the multitude of his enimies to be suche as he doubted least hee shoulde not be well able to matche with them, he staved a while from giving the onlet: but in the end percepuing from giving the onlet: but in the end percepuing The same he could not retyze backe but to his great difabe encount of uantage, hee bololy gaue signe to his people to the Scott. let upon they? enimies : whiche they fiercely er-ecuting, it was harde to tell for a whole to whe= ther parte the vidozie woulde eneline. But at so fast as they might, the Scottes musluying altet length the Sarons not able to fullagne the force of the Scottes overprelling them with multivanquithed by tude, began to gine backe, whiche Deca percey= uing did what hee coulde to hemme them in from running away, but yet norwithstanding all that he coulde do, feare at length ouercom= ming regarde to they? Captaines commaunde= ment, flame of rebuke was quite let avarte, and to they take them to their feete, and fled smay to them a mapne.

Deca pet escaped with divery of his mobiles our lend and comming to the mouth of hundrights les ion se Chip, + layled forth in the fame with great deals ger, till at length he arrived within the Chances:

The flaughter of the Sarous woon the Diff comfiture was greate, fpeciallyin the chale, in the Scottiffinen calling to remembraince the the had to be with infiects, and with the enimes of the chailtian fayth, were foeger byon them that they faued fewe or none that fell into there handes.

About the same time was Mortymere entred into Bent against hengill & his Sarons there. and encountring with them in battel flew tenne thousand of them, and chased the residue fouth of that countrer.

the countrers beyond Dumber northwards bn= totic Scottes and Piacs, according to the tenour of the league befoze mencioned.

Pengili and his fonne Deca (who a little before this battaile in Keni was toine buto ins in= ther with the relioue of them that escaped, halled with all speede towardes Porthumberlande, in purpose to remaine in that countrep till they has recovered they, Arength by some power to be but being repulled with no finall flaughter from thence by the Scots and Pickes, they without unto the mouth of Humber, where getting cer= tame bellels they palled ouer into Saronic, leauing a great forte of they? nation behind them, dispersed abzoade here and there in this Alle, as fortune then best serued.

Clostymere having got the victory as before is mencioned, bled not the same very cruelly, for ken payloners they? armure and weapon, hee fuffred them to depart into they? countrey:other of the fame nation being but hulbandnich, and es it were por labourers of the grounde he permitted to tarie in the countrey with thepe wives and children as feruauntes buto the Beytons.

After this Clostymere gaue opder for thereparring of Churches and reflozing of the chris will crample taken by dayly connectation amongst the Sarons, and partly also by the infestive heresic of the Pelagians, as then mightily frict ouer the most parte of Brytaine. At length the large Electymier through treason of his step= mother Rorena was poyloned and died. Then ir as Clostigerne agayne restored to the rule of the kingdome. first forced by othe to promise ne= utt to and the Sarons, not to receive by way of and any forrein people into the realme.

Clostigeme then restored thus buto the crowns. Wewed fuche diligence in cauling due atminstration of iustice without rigour to be tractited, and provision made for the relilling of all invalions that might be attempted by ato fortaine power, that his prayle was greate amonast all his subicites, who to showe they? coowilles likewife towardes him as to they?

naturall prince, were not flacke in honozing him aswell by giftes and presentes, as by all other maner of wayes.

He founde meanes also to renew the league The league with the Scottes and Pides with like conditie renewed beons and articles, as it was concluded lastly be= Scots & Picts. twirt them and his come Mostimere.

But notwithstanding his politike proceeding thus to anoyde all incountence that might Chus Kent returned bnto the Beytains, and 10 happen : Moetely after Dengist returned, what Hengist returby force and fubtill fhiftes, at length got pollelfion of the more parte of Beytaine, so that the Baytons were confireyned to flee into Males, whither also Clostigerne fledde and remayned there a certaine time, til at length Aurelius Ambrolins and Ulter the connes of king Constantine came ouer out of little Bzytaine, and besieging Clostigerne in a castell, brente him with Vortigerne the house and all, when they could not otherwise brene. fent ouer buto them out of their owne countrey, 20 come by him, accozoing to that which Merlyne the Brytish lothlayer had prophelied before. It is fwliffly supposed that this Merlyne was got by a sprite of that kinde whiche are called Incubi, that is to understand, such as courying mans feede from him, and therewith by illulion (faking bpon them the Chape and figure of man) do lie with women, and ble them after the manner of carnal copulation. In this place Helfor Boetius by the way reciteth a like tale or two, of luche ile taking onchy from the Saxons whiche were ta= 30 luftons of fprites wrought not long before his time in Scotland, whiche fomewhat abzinging the fame we have here infarfed.

In the yeare, 1480, fayth he, it chaunced as Illusions of a Scottill flippe departed out of the Forth to= ipirites. wardes Flaunders, there role a wonderful great A cale of a tempest of winde & weather, so outragious, that woman abused the Master of the thip with other the Mariners with a sprine, wondered not a litle what the mater ment, to fee firm religion into the flate of the former puritie fuche weather that tyme of the yeare, for it was about 5. Barthereof. as then fore decayed, partly through the 40 about the middelt of Sommer. At length when nabees day. the furious pyrice a rage of windes till encreafed, in such twife that all those within the Chippe loked for vielent death, there was a woman bn= derneath the hatches, called buto them aboue, and willed them to throwe hyr into the lea, that all the relidue by goodes grace might pet be la= ued: and therespon tolde them, howe thee had bene haunted a long tyme with a sprite, dayely comming onto hir, in mans lykenes, and that euen as then, hee was with hir bling his filthve pleasure after the maner of carnall copulation. In the Chippe there chaunced also to bee a priest. 10 who by the maisters appointment going downe to this woman, a fonding hir loke a most weet= ched and desperate person, lamenting hir greate missoztune and myscrable estate, bled suche hol= some admonitions and comfortable advertise= ments, willing hir to revent and hove for mercy at the handes of almightie God, that at lengthe The feeming right penitent for hir grenous offen= ces committed, and fetching funder fighes euen from the bottome of hir heart, being witnesseas flould appeare of the same, there issued forthe 20 with their daughter, incontinently therebypon, of the pumpe of the Nippe, a foule and cuill fauozed black cloude, with a mightie terrible noise, flame, smoake and stinke, which presently fel in= to the sea. Ind sodeinly therebyon the tempeste ceased, and the thip passyng in quiet the residue of hir iourney, arrived in laketie at the place whe= ther fire was bounde.

A youg man haunted with

Pot long befoze the hap hereof, there was in loke maner a vong man dwelling in Barcoth, within a village there, not passing. riiij. myles 30 ning their wayes, began to recite the beginning from Aberdyne, right faire and comely of have, who declared by war of complaint unto the Bi-Mop of that diocesse, howe there was a spute which haunted him in Cape of a woman, so fair and beautifull a thing, that he never law p loke. the which would come into his chaber a nights, with pleasant enticementes allure him to have to doe with hir, and that by no maner of means he could be rio of hir. The biffop like a wife ma aduited him to remove into some other country 40 feene, whiche the midwines and women such and to give himselfe to fallyng and player, so to auorde his handes of that wicked sprite. The pong man following the Bishops counsel, within few days was delivered fro further tentation.

Aboute the same tyme also, there was in the countrey of Mar, a yong Gentlewoman of ercellent beautie, and daughter onto a noble man there, refuling funder wealthy mariages offred to hir by hir father, and other frendes. At lengthe the proned with chyld, and being rigoroully copelled by hir parentes to tel who was the father, the confessed that a certain young ma vsed night= Iv to come buto hir, and keepe hir companic, and fometimes in the days also, but howe or from whence he came, of by what meanes he went as way. the was not able to beclare. Hir parentes mot greatly crediting hir wordes, layde diligent watche to understand what he was that had befoled their house: And within.iij. days after, bpon liquification given by one of the mayorns.

that the fornicatour was at that berie instante making faste the dozes, they enter the chamber with a great meignie of touches elights, where they find in their daughters armes, a foule monstroug thing, right horrible to beholde. Heere a number comming halfily in, to beholve this euil favoured light, amongst other, there was a miest of right honest lyfe, not ignorant (as was thouaht) in knowledge of holic scripture. This wiell (all other being afrapoe) and some of them rmof Saint Johns Bowell, and comming to thele words, Verbum caro factum eit, sootynely the wicked sprite makying a right sore and terrible roaring noyle, flew his waves, taking the rost of the chamber away with him, the hangings ? coverings of the bed being also beent therewith. The Gentlewoman was pet preferued, within. iii.oz. ilii.dayes after was belivered of suche a milliapen thing, as the lyke before has not ben as were present at hir labour, to anopo the dillonour of hir house, immediatly brente in a greate fyze, made in the chamber for the same intent.

Thus muche out of Helfor Boetins, which, with moze, he hath written to proue that all is not fayned whiche is written of the illusions of deuils and enill spirites, the credite whereof I leaue with the Zuffoz.

Pow to returne where I lefte touching Inrelius Ambzole : pe fijall bnderstande, that he ha uing once subdewed and dispatched has aboutfarie Mottigerne, he determinet to make warres against Engist and his Sarons, to pronest his chance myght be to recouer the realmout of Aurelia their handes, and fo to reftoze again the chriftia brele ze teligion. But first ere he attempted any exployt fet to re against p enmiss, he sent ambassaves both buts che Sum contail the scottish king, and also buto one Loth a towardly yong gentleman, and of right countly personage, as then raigning among the Pices, requiring them both to ayde him in so ne cessarie an enterpile as he had in hande agaynst the entinies of Chailt and his religion. Where= poon both these kings weying with themselves the ductie of all Christian Princes, in respect of the advancement of the cause of farth, and sundepression to the uttermolte of their powers against the Sarons, who had in such typanlyke fort subverted and abolished the Chailtian profession within the Britishe confines. And therefore the olde league according to the articles and covenantes releigue rei afoje time concluded betwirte the three Pa-timo Picti tions, was once againe renued, and an army prepared by every of them, to meet at a place and day appointed, for the better expedition of this their aftempted boyage.

First Turclius Ambrose, with such power as he brought with him forth of Fraunce, and top= ning thereunto a great multitude of those Bip= taying which had escaped the Sarons handes. erther by withdrawing themselves into dolates. or elle by conveying themselves into the Countreps of the Scottes and Pictes, letteth forward towarde the Scottilhe armie. But first calling togither those Bzytaines that he had about him. hearde of them all , be made a long Deation by way of complaynt, of the great inturies and cruell practiles vied by Hengist, against the lynage of king Constantine, and the whole estate of the Bartill comon wealth. Also of the horrible perfecution made by him and his people the Sarons against the professof the Christian religion. All which matter he handled in wordes to pithily, his talke pet fauouring of the Romaine elokinsled therwith, required nothing but battayle, as men not doubting but by his wife and polityke condupt to atchieue some glozious victozie. And to the ende all things might be done in better erder, according to his appoyntment, imme-Diately they proclaymed him king. Wihich was Aurelius Amby accompt of the Scottishe Chronicles, in the med king of yeare. 498. after that Cloztigerne with his sonne Brytayne. Moztimer had raigned seuentene yeares in the Whole.

Aurelius in this wife being established King performent perfling of ethnike Joolatrie, peomiled their help 10 of Beptayne palleth foeth with his people, and within fire dayes after, met with the armies of the Scottes and Pictes. Generall of the Scots nerall of the at that time, was one Conranus brother to king Scottes. Congall, who was troubled with the Goute, to that he could not come himselfe in person.

Loth the Picishe king was there himselse Loth king of amongst his people, berie descrous to them some proute of his manly prowes and manhod. Aurelius Ambrole theived al the honour that might 20 be deuiled, as wel to y one as to the other of thole two Pations, promiling to requite them with as muchafriendshippe when time and occasion flould crane the like affistance.

Thele three mightie armies therefort beeing thus allembled, marched forth towardes a place called Mahesbell, where they bnderstwoe that Mahesbel. Hengiliwith his power as then did foiourne. Where when both the campes were pitched, and one lying not farre from the other:at the first cerand going op to a little hill, where he might bee 30 taine light Kirmilhes were procured by both partes betwirt the light horsemen, wherewith at length being the moze pronoked to displeature, they come into the felve with their whole maine battailes, right fiercely encountering eche other. The Albions to that as it appeared, their force was not fo great encounter in but their mortall hate was euen as much, or ras barraile. ther more, if the holtories lay right.

The Armorike Brytaynes with a new kinde The Armorike of order in their fight, loge troubled the Sarons, Brytayaes. quence, that the mindes of the Souldiers beeing 40 in piereing their battailes, with their men arrayed in certaine wardes, byode behinde, and narrowe befoze wedgewile. The Scots allo and Piffes bare bowne both the wings of the Sarons, in fuch maner, that the Clandardes of all the three Dations, Scottes, Pickes, and Byptapnes, were at poynt almost to meete, having made way therefore through the minnest of these enter mies. Wilherewith the Sarons (beeing loje bil- The Saxons comaged) began to gine backe, and finally, not a discomfitted. withflamping all that Hengell could lay of to.

Sister hys decease, his

tanus, myth

great reiopling of al the Scot-

tille Pation.

to have stayed them, they fell to running away, and fled amaine, which when he throughly law, See more here and percepued that there was no recouerie, bee of in England, himselfe (in maner the last man that above) fled likewise his waves out of the field, with an am= bullimet of horimen about him, but being pursued by Aurelius right fiercely, he was run through the bodie by him with a speare, and so was there

Hengitis than Uain out of hance, in the + 8 8. of Chait, and 40 by Aurchas as after his comming into the Ile. Howbeeit chronieles say the other of the Saxons coneped his some Deca (being also soze wounded) away with them by into the next mountagnes, whither they fled for their refinge, leaning the dead bodie of his father 30 Pengist in the fielde, to their high reproch, there to be spoyled and abused of his enimies.

Aurelius ha-London.

Aurelius Ambroschauing thus got the bpper hande of his enimies, halteth forth with all weede buto London, where having both the Ci= tie and tower delinered into his handes, hee recoucred the whole Flands from the vollellion of the Sarons: and such of them as were apt men, able to beare armog, and to lerue in the warres, be comaunded to depart forth of the land. The other 40 for that offence, accordingly as the lawe dyd burned. that were minded to tarie behinde their fellowes that were thus forced to depart, became subjectes to the Britains, and commanted to become chris stians. Thus much have I written touching Aurelius Linbrole, according to the report of the Scottill wivters, but more hereof ve may reade to the hystorie of Englande, where pe shall finde this matter let forth more at large. For b which wee write here, is but to thewe in what fort the Scottistic writers make relation of the warres 50 which their nation had with the Sarons, when they began first to set foote here in this lande.

To our pupole then: In the meane time Aurelius having thus recovered the lande out of the Sarons hands, and now remaining at London, bid all the honor be coulde pmagine, both unto Loth the Picifi king, and also buto Conranus generall of the Stoffilbe men, acknowledging howe that by they agoe chiefly hee had got the By forcer opper hande of his enimyes, and to her willed to hoteline haue it notified amongst his subjectes.

Hereto hee cauled the league to be renued be, be got the ren twirt the Scottes, Pictes, and Beytagues, the Sexons. auncient ordinaunce for the Countrepes beyond The legach Humber, becing appointed to remayne buto the twice Store Scottiffe men and Pictes : allo that the Sar- Pictes, earte ons floulde bee reputed common enimyes to all tainsie teto the three Pations, and that byon inuation made by any forraine power, the Scottes, Bides, and Birtanes, floudo ayde one another as occasion ferued.

This league beeing concluded with thefe articles of concnauntes was the more froncly conformed, by reason of such affinitie and allyaunce as then also ensued. For whereas Ture, lius had two lifters, the one named Anne, and the other Ava, birgins both. Anne beeing the Anne the 20 elber, was gyuen in maryage buto king Loth, daughter of Aurelius gut by whome certaine peares after her had illue two in mariger fonnes, Mordred, and Walwan, or Galwan, to Loth Ear with a daughter named Thametes: Ada beeing of Picica.
the yonger lyster, was maryed but Communs, voto County generall (asis fayde) of the Scottifbe armye. Howbeit the lyned not pall two yeares after, but dyed in trauaple of childe, which also dred with the mother. And so ended the alpance of Aurelius and Contanus.

The Beptapues beeing delpuered through the bistorie and meanes afore rehearled from the cruell handes of the Sarons, enioped iopfull peace certaine peares after, but in the meane time dyuctle of thole Sarons which were lycenced to remapne in Beptapne, counterfepting to become Chailtians, vled neuerthelelle to make laexplice buto Idolles, according to the manner of the Gentyles, whereof they? Pzieltes beeing accused and condemned, suffered death by type Diver Same then appopnt them.

Collicat these things were thus in bande, Consultang of the Scottes being wome with long licknesses, departed this life, and was burien mine The of Jona, otherwise called Colmekill, with all singly pompe and accultomed ceremonics. He raigned ouer the Scottillimen about gripeares in great fame and glogie.

was admitted King, in the reare after the by2th of oure

Sauiour, 512. and the rrij. of the raigne of the Emperoz Ina= 20 fo that to anopde diffention that was rapled a=

This Conranus (otherwise also called by some Sozanus being established king, fiest toke order that the fonnes of his brother Congail being within age, shoulde be brought by in the Fle of Man, under the gouernance of certaine tople inficultors and scholemaisters, to be trapned in learning and vertuous discipline, according to an auncient ogdenance thereof made and enafted.

after long warres, thould minister matter to his propie of rayling some commotion, to the disturbance of all civill order and politike government within his realine, hee rove as it had bene in cirtute rounds about the same, making inquirie of all maner offenders, on whom he caused out purushment to be executed without respect exther of lyth or kinne.

Ind amongst other enormities, which he bris treps, this as hee thought was mold greenous, that the hulbandmen, and other commonsios the Country, being cuil intreated and miluled at the genilemens handes, durit not complaine, not procure any redrelle : by realon whereof, where they were oppressed or suffered any manner of wrong or injurie, they were without remedie to baue the same resormed, he orderned therefare, that the names of al fuch offenders, with the nuis Ber of their offences Coulde bee ferretly regilired so mediatly after, Ocea with his power inmadely in aboke currie peare, by certaine Anquistouris thereto chosen and appoputed, and if it chaunced that those which were thus accused, might afters warres be founde guiltie beloze the kings Julie tie by matter plainly proued agaynst them, they finallie then be fure to bee punished according to the measure of their offences, called inditements, continueth even birto thele our daves.

This custome of acculations, commonlys

Convains himself(as is tepozted) bled much The king preto be present at Myles and Sellions, to fee file lent at Asiles. lawes duly ministred, either else to passe the time in hunting within fome Forrelt or chafe, nere to the place where his Juffices fate.

Powe whilest Concarus king of Scottes Aurelius Amthus Audieth for the god gouernment of his peo brote fell ficke brother Con- 10 ple, Aurelins Imbrose the king of Beptaine fell of a consumplicke of a confumption, whiche brought him to fuch weakneffe, that all recouerie of health in him was dispapted, whereof Deca and Palcentitis Occa and Palfonnes to Bengift beeing aduertifed, returifed centius seturn with a mightie power of Saronsinto Beptali, which (as Decroz Bortius fayth) they named at that present Engests land. Angelia Ther the brother of Jurebus, lay allo the fame time fore ficke of a flire in the parties of Wales, mong the Brytaynes about the appoynting of a generall to go agapult the enimics, Aurelius cut ficke as he was, cauled himicif to be carped forth in a litter, with whose presence his people were fo encouraged, that encountering with the Sarons, they wanne the victorie, although with luch loffe on their fide, that Aurelius was glad to take truce for the space of foure monethes, and therewith breaking up his campe, went bnto dulyn-Allo doubting least peace and quietnesse nowe 30 chefter, and sent Ambassadors buto the Stoftill) and Pidill) kings for ayde agaynlithe time when the truce fould expres, which was grauted, and to hee proutoed for all things readie for the warres against the appointed time of there affemble. Deca alfo fent his brother Palcentius into Bermanic for more apo, but as foine write, her was vinen by contrarie windes into Frelande, and getting a greate power of men tonge ther there , be came backe to bis brother with the dellwoe to be vied in maner thoughal his cous 40 fame. But whether he had those men out of Fre land, or Germanie, fure it is that the power of the Sarons was greatly enerealed theremith. In the mrane time died Aurelius Ambrole, who was poploned by a milchienous Monte a sare Aurelius Ame on borne, named Copa, of Copa (as Come bookes tech this life. hane that twice open him to be thisfull in philitik, and a Sponke by profiction, his death was love lamented of the Beytagues : but contrarywife. the Sarons reiopced greatly thereof, fo that im? the Bestons, viling greate crueltie in all places whereforener he came.

In the meane time the Scottish and Printing aumies were come for warbe towardes Amelian according to promife made buto bis Ambairs bors : but whe his death was rectainly knowne, amongell them, the Captaynes and leavers of The Scorella both thole armyes; resolved to returns home as home agains, gaine, and so they bid, for that they boubted in what flate and order things floulde flande as monall the Brytaines now after the decease of their late king.

Arthure.

After the death of Aurelius Ambrole, hos brother Elter was made king of Brytaine, and falling in loue with the wife of Gothlois Duke of Commall, hee did not onely force hir to lye with him, but also to the ende hee might enione husvande to node him out of the way, whome at length he twke within a Castle into the which he was fledde, and fwethingth caused him to bee executed, furniyling matter against him for that he had forfaken one of his Cautaines eleped Pa= thaliod, in battaile against the Sarons. By the wife of this Gothlois, Elter had iffue the greate Arthuce, and because he had no legitimate sonne, he appointed that Arthure Choulde succeede him in government of the realine.

Herewith Loth the Pickith king was not a little moued, disdeyning that Artifure bering a bastarde, and begot of another mans wife in adulteric. Moulde be preferred before his sonnes the tightfull hepres of the Brytishe kingdome: and therefore by Ambassadours he did what he could to distinate Elter from making any such ordis nance. But when he lawe that he coulde not re= move him from his openion, he thought best to content himselfe with silence, till the time served 30 better for his purpole.

It length when the warres were agapue renued betwirt Elter and Deca the Saron king. Loth in revence of the minrie done to him and his children, iopned himself with the Sarons. and was with them at the battaile, in which the Beptapnes got the victoric by the presence of Saint Germaine that holy Bilhop of Aurer as the Scottish writers make mention. Whiche battail as the same is set forth by Heifor Bor= 40 tius, by cause it toucheth the fate of the Buffes. we have thought and here to expresse.

It was therefore about the frast of Caster. when the armirs came into the fielde, the Sare ons with the Pids on the one lide, and the Brys tapnes on the other, of whome no small num= ber bring exther around to be Ivolaters through conversation with the Sarons, etther elle inferted with the Herefic of the Pelagians) even there to the campe. Saint Grimain preached amongst them, were connected to the true beliefe, recepting at the fame tyme the Sacrament of the Lordes bodie, together in companie with other of the faythfull Christians.

Finally when both parties were readie to give S.Germaine battaile, Saint Germain toke bpon him to haue the leading of the forewards, wherein he had all the Prielles and ecclesiastical Ministers, giving commaundement, that when he should one Al-Tielicie vu leluya, they thould all answere him with one en= Alleluya tier bovce.

Thus proceede they forth towardes the bat-Thus proceede they torin towardes the vaile Saint German taile, Saint Germain bearing the kings Stant bearein the darde in the forefront, and upon the approche to kings the died the enimies, he with the Pzielles crying with a lowce vorce theice togither Alleluya, was anhir the moze freely, he ceassed not to pursue hir 10 fwered by all the whole host, bettering and creing the same crie so wholly togither, that the berie Counde thereof caused such an eccho on eche spoe, by reason of the hollow mountagnes and clines The Surger hard by them, that the Sarons amaged at thes mirreal only doubled noyle, and boulding not onely another discomfied. power of their enimies, to be hiddeprivily among the hilles, which they fawe on eche five of them. but also least the veric rockes and mountagnes would have fallen downe byon they? heades to-20 gither with the frame of the Element, readie (as it seemed to them) to breake in sunder, they take them to their fecte, in suche dreadfull halfe, that their breath was not able to suffice halfe the defire they had to continue they; course. Wany of them made fuch halfe, that running to the next cour in hope to paffe the same, were drowned therein. To conclude, all of them generally their awaye both wearon and armure, the more lightly to make amap.

> Thus through the pollicie of that bleffed man Saint Germaine, the victorie remayned worth King Ater and his Beptaynes, wythout any bloudsted.

Saint Bede making mention of this bat= Bede differtaple, alligneth the tyme to be at the first com= techfronke ming of Saint Germain into this lande, where tor Bernt Bedog Boctius, following Aeremond, luppo- his auber firth it to be at the seconde time of his comming hither, which was in the dayes of king Alter.

But at what time somer this victorie thus channeed, certaine it is, the Bertaynes waxing promot thereof, nothing regarded the points of the Serons, nor twee any heede for providion of further defence: but affer that those holy Billiops The Brun Bermain and Seucrus were returned into they? give themal Countrep, they fell to all kyndes of gluttonic kinder of s and ercelle, in following onchy their fentual lufts and abhoraand fleshly concupilcence: which abuses, the Bb nations. Mops and other godly men lamenting, cealled The three preachesh vo in campe, by hearing such godly Sermons as 50 not most earnessly to revioue, unnacing deline sing of raation anto the whole Countrey, if the people less gence to less uing their wicked living and most beynous of living fraces towards God, did not amende and upont in due time and wace.

Deither were they occepted herein : bo: within fewe peares after, Deca eftiones beganne to make warres byon the Bertaynes agayne, and gaue them a notable ouerthrow, fleaing of them to the number of.xb.thousande, with therz smellerall Pathaliod, but pet this vistoric mas not greatly pleasant buto the Sarous, for in the chafe they lott their king the fozelande Deca, be= mg aduaunced a good way of from the relidue of his armie with fine hundred horsemen, and a fem fortmen, in pursute of his enimyes, whiche was the only cause, that as then the Sarons attenue ted no further exployte agapuit the Beptaynes.

a governour, they created an other Deca to their white the nephew of the former Deca by his henmer ther Oiscus. And then turned all their force to make warres agapust the Pittes, for that Loth hing of the Pulls, contrarie to his othe of credence o havarded the Beytaynes in the last battaile, as to certaine puloners taken in the faine, they had perfice understanding.

Deca therefoze being fierce of nature, to the ende to endomage his enimies the moze, fent into Colgerne, or Germany for one Colgerne, or Colgern, a man Colgerne a of great ellimation and byth amongst the Sar for by Occa. ons, to come over with a power unto him into England, promiting for recompence of his trauayle and ayde agaynst the pices, to deliner buto him all flich landes as lay beyonde the water of Humorr, which might be recoursed out of the And yet for that they woulde not be without 10 handes of the Pictes, to enjoy but him and his for ener.

Colgerne accepting the offer, landed Coatly after in Porthumberlande, putting the whole Colgerne lan-Countrey buto fire and tworde. Which cruell thumberland. dealing, caused a great number of Scottes and Pices, which held dinerfe Callels in that quar= fer, to come forth into the fielde to defende the countrey, and toyning battail with their enimics were discomfitted, their flaughter being muche enercated by the comming of Deca at unwares bem them. Hog he first taking truce with After king of the Beptapnes, hasteth with all speece to topic his power with Colgerne, after he heard once that he was come a lande.

These newes being brought by such as fled amay into Galloway and Pictland, caufed both the kings. Loth and Conranus, in most speedie wile to affemble their forces, and with the same to march forthwith towardes the Sarons: but being come within fight of them, readie to grue battaile, great was the feare and terroz in both their holles to ionne in fight with such a number of fierce people, as they sawe there before they? tarnes, of whom no small number was there, in and of the Scottes and Picks, agaynst the Sar= ens. declaring many things of the great valure, frength of bodie, and huge forme of lymmes of the fame sarons, being to fierce and cruell in fight, as they alledged, that they were able to put their commies to flight, even with their grynime lukes and terrible countenances. Whereof such feare and terroz was speede through both the whole armies, that if hame had not partire wrought amongst the men of warre, many of them woulde haue fledde their waves before any battail had bene attempted at all.

The kings perceyuing luche discomfiture a= mongst their men, caused them to assemble togither, and appoynted one fuch as was thought meete for the purpole, to declare buto them on The kings they behalfes, how they could not but maruel to cause one to bnderstand such feare and lack of courage, as ap- make an orapeared generally through both the armies, confis people to rebering there was no cause thereof, they beeing moue all feare suche a number of able warriours presently ap- heartes. poynted, and therewith led by fuch governours faces. Which feare role first through the Bry= 50 and Captaines, as there was no reason why to be doubtful of victorie, before they had feene fome tryall and iuft occasion of disaduauntage. For as touching the Sarons, they were no luch men but that they might be ouercome well prough, as it might sufficiently appeare, both by prouse of luch victories as Mortimere the Beytiffe king had obtened agaynst them, and also Aurelius Ambzole, who hav banquilhed them in luch lost, leadeth the forewarde.

that when they durif not efflones encouter with him in battaile, they founde meanes by trapterous practife to make him away through vovfon. Then lith the Brytagnes, whom the Scottiffi men and Dictes so often had subdued) had at fundic tymes banquissed the Sarons, why Mould they feare in such wise to fight with them in common defence of they? Countrey, and remenge of fuch injuries as they had lately recepted at they handes, lith the righteous God (as all to bion at any time, had holden of enioped, a central had men ought to trust) is ever readie to ad= uance a righteous quarell. And where it was bruted amongelt them, that the Sarons were so huge of stature, and mightie of lymmes, that no force was able to withstande them, it was certainly knowne, that the Scottes and Pices mere indewed with no less mightiness & streath of bodic than the Sarons: so that if they were not of lyke Comackes, that refled in their owne Court full compardife, and not in natures worke, 20 521, and in the xviii. of his owne raigne. having done his part in bestowing his aptes by= on them touching booily force, in such plenteous maner, as no other nation did lightly any wayes furmount them.

Many other arguments were alledged & land forth to remove feare out of their hartes, and to incorage them to fight, infomuch that in the end through com- it appeared the same wrought the willed effect, fortable words in such wise, that they generally requized batfecte, and to follow them whither foeuer it should please they kings # liege lozds to appoput them.

Perewith the kings being latisticd, forth they march towardes their enimies, whome they found readie to recepue them, and that with such ricrozous violence, that in the ende after create The Score and Alaughter made on both partes, the Scottes and Pictes are pur Biffes were put to flight, the Sarons purluing in the chase till the barke night caused them to withdraw and returne into their campe.

The day next following, the Scottish king with the relidue of his army, halten away with al speede towardes Galloway, and the Picish king withdrewe into Bicklande.

The Sarons bling the bistorie most cruelly, flue all fuch of the Pittifh and Scottifh nations, as they met with, in all places betwirt Tine and Tweede.

Then did Deca create the fogenamed Col-Colgern creas gerne duke of Porthumberland, who repaying so answere, and beeing sent home with reprothe, ted Duke of all such Castels and strong houses, as he thought expedient to have kept, placed in the same garri= fons of fouldiers, to defend the countrey against all maner of enimes.

> After this, Occa turned his power agarust the Beytaynes, whiche in the last battayle had anded the Scottes and Pictes, as befoge is partly touched. The Biptavnes recepuing a great ouer-throws in battaile, Elter the Brytille king was The Bound glad with luche as mighte escape the enimies Querries hands, to withdraw into Wales, leaving the re-the Saroni floue of his Countreys onto the Sarons, who Vierwick therebpon recourted not onely the Citie of Lon- Wales. don, pecloing it selfe buto them for doubt of some London race. long siege, but also all those countreys and pro- vered by uinces, whiche Bengist the first of the Sarong Sarons that raigned as king within the boundes of Alnot after recoveric of the lame, to bere and difquiet the Scottes, Bartaynes and Wides, mith continuall incurtions, hoping by fuch meanes to keepe them still occupied.

In the middes of this trouble Uter king of the Bertannes departed this worlde, poyloned (as The death of fome haue weitten by deinking water taken out Vter ponieme of a fourtain, which the Sarous had envenomed. water of a sel He died in the yeare after the brith of our faujour

After his decease, Loth king of the Bides sent his Ambastadours buto the Lordes, and other the Loth recuy. estates of the Baytish dominions, requyzing the reth the king dome of breaccording to the accustomed lawes, and aunci- tayne. ent ordenances of the Realme, to recepue him as king. fifth he had marved the fifter and hevee of the two brethren Aurelius Ambrole, and Uter, their two last kings, being as then both beceased with out leaving behinde them any lawfull issue, by recouer newe taile, offering to line and die at they? Captagnes 30 reason whereof, their estate was fallen buto him, to enjoy the same during his life, having marved (as is farde) there owne naturall and lawfull borne lifter, and after the decease of him and his wife the layde lifter, then it ought by course of the lawes of all Realmes and Countreps to discende buto such issue as her had begot of hir, whiche was two funnes, the one named Mordred and Mordred al the other Claluane, 02 Bawane, as some det Gawane call him.

The Baytaynes distainfully bling the Pic- The Bruiss till Amballadours that came with this mellage, ceque elber refused not onelye to come buder subjection of Lock or any Loth, but also benyed that his sonnes begot of of his source his lawfull wife, the filter of Aurelius and After, them. Moulce have any rule or government amongelt them, as those that were no Beptaynes bonne, but straungers buto them, being both borne and bybled in a folraine countrep.

Those Ambassadours then having they? the Bzytaynes contrarie to the lawes of all nas Arbure po-tions, proclaymed Arthure, beeing a ballarve of Brytaynes boine, king of their Realme, and forthwith affembling they? powers onder his leading, mars ched on agaynst the Sarons, in purpose to as Archare gont bate some part of their strength, befoze the Pistes che Sarons.

(whiche was doubted woulde shortly come to palle) shoulde ionne with them.

Therefore having procured ande of the Armos ak type Bertaynes forth of France, they fought with their enimies within ten imples of London at the fielt, where the Sarons beeing at two feurrall tymes vanquilled, were constrayned not onely to pay trybute, but allo to recepue macifrates to gouerne them by the faid Arthures apporntment, with other grieuous articles of a= greement, to the great reloyling of the Bzytains, of their late elected king.

Afterwardes was London ealily wonne by the Bertains, wherein Arthure remayning for a featon, twice admise with his nobles home to proceede in his warres against the rest of the Sar= ons. Finally having prepared a mightie army, he determineth to go agapult those which inhabited berond founder northwards, with whom (as he had certaine knowledge) the Pids were joyned: concluded a league with him, wherby they were bound to and one another against the Bentains, as comon enimics and aductlaries to them both.

The Bivtapnes at they? comming into Poskshire pitched their campe not farre off from there enimes, who were alreadie joyned togither and encamped absode in the field. The next day after, knowledge beeing had that they floulde beller haue battail, Arthure appoynted Howel leader of the Irmozyke Bzytains to encounter with the 30 at length he entred into that Citie, by meanes of in barraile,& battaile of the Pictes, and he himselfe to matche with the Sarons. Thus they mette togither on both partes bery fiercely, and a loze battaile was fought ther betwirt them, so that for a good space it was doubtful whether part fould have the adununtage of the day, but at length the Pices were put to flight, which advaunced the Bry= tapnes to the gapne of the whole fielde. For the Sarous after they percepued howe the Pickes were discomfited, deading to abyde the whole 40 brunte by themselves, betwee them also to they beeles, and made they rafe towardes Porte, as faste as they, feete myght beare Arthure pursuing them thither, besieged the Citic almost three Monethes togyther, but the Sarons defended the Walles to foutly making often issues forth opon the Brytaynes, that tili hunger began to constrayne them, they cared termined to haue preloed op the Citie, they had knowledge, howe there was an huge armie of Pilles and Sarons newly affembled, and readie to come forwarde to their fuccors, also that king Scca sescaping from the battaple wherein le had received the overthrow at Arthurs hands, and fleing afterwards into Germanie) was now returned with a newe power, and arryued within the mouth of Humber. Which newes caus Occa fecuifed them to deferre all communication, in hope methof our Ger that if they might abyde the siege but for a small new power. tyme, the Beptagues floulde flortly bee compassed in on ethe spoe, and oppressed on the fodaine.

Arthur heard of the comming of theyz fuc= cours in like maner, and indging it no wiscoom to tarie the comming of his fo puissant enimies. for these so luckie beginnings in the first exploits 10 considering what a number of diseased and sicke persons he had alreadie in his holt, by reason of Arthure raytheir long bying absode in the firlde) rayled hyg feth his siege. fiege, and withdrewe himselse so weedily as maspolitible with his whole army into Colales, where he appointed the Armorike Brotarnes to for iourne for that Winter, with other of the mediter fort of his own fouldiers. Whilest he twke the re-Archure retursidue of his chosen bands, and went to London, neth to Lodon there to provide that no rebellion thoulde be raps for Loth coming to agreement with Colgerne, 20 fed amongst the Sarons of Kent, oz other of the countrers neare about.

> In the beginning of the next fpring, he gas thered his holf togither again, and with the famie went forth against Colgerne and Deca, who being issued forth of Porthumberland, were entred into the Brytish confines, spoyling and mafing the countrey with their accultomed cruelty. Allberreppon encountering them twice in battail, Arthure difhe obteined the bictozie, and then belieging Pozk, Saxons twife a Brytayn, who owelling amongst the Sarons lieth siege to there, in the night season coneped a sort of Bry= Yorke and tains into the citle, the which breaking open the winnerh ir. gates in p dead of p night, old let in al the whole holf. Where Arthur would not luffer his men to make any great murther of the enimies, whiche were content to yeeld themselves, but vsed them Arthure vseth bery gently, therby to win more praise amongst the victorie all those that heard of his worthie visiozics. with genele-

The Baptaines having thus conquered the neste. Titie of Porke, many feates of armes mere day= ly practized betwirt them and the Sarons, which held policilian still of the countrey there aboutes. But the Britaines lying in that citie al the som= mer and winter following, at length beganne to take their eale, namely in the depth of the winter, following for and therewith gave themselves to banketting, the winter dinking, play, and other kindes of voluptuous time within plefures, to p it feemed they truffed moze to their themselves little for the liege. In the end when they were de= 50 palled victories than to their present force, not ento banketfraring suche danger as was like to follow.

It is thought of some, that aboute the same tyme, Arthur firste instituted; that the feaste of Christmasse Chouloe be kept with such excesse of meates and drinkes, in all kyndes of inozbinate banquetting and renell for the wace of thirtene dayes together, according to the cue; stome vsed still throughe both the: Realmes:

ting and vo-luptuonfacile.

soflight.

kets refembling the feafie's Bacchanalia.

and ease became vnapt

to fusteyne

the paynes

A league con

twixt Arthur.

king of Bry-

Loth king of

eaynes, and

Pifter.

rieth the

a Brytayne.

Gawan or Ga-

with king

Arthure.

of warres.

of England and Scotlande euen bnto this day, relembling the featles which the Gentiles vled to keepe in the honour of their dronken God Bac= thus, called in latine Bacchanalia: wherein all kindes of beaffly lust and sensuall voluptuous= nelle was put in bie. But whence foeuer, or by whom focuer this infatiable gourmandife came bp amongst vs, surcly a great abuse it is, to see the people at suche a solemne feast (where they ought to bee occupied in thankes giving to al= 10 they went against the Sarons, whom they bn= mightie God, for the sending downe of his oucly begotten sonne amongst vs to give themselves in maner wholy to gluttonie and excessive filling of their bellies, with fuch maner of lemo and wanton pattimes, as though they thoulde rather celebrate the same feastes of Bacchanalia, and those other which the Gentiles also kept, called Floralia, and Priapalia, than the remembrance of Chailtes nativitie, who abhorreth all maner of fuch erceffe.

But nowe to my purpole. When the next Sommer was once come, Irthure led forth hys Bertapnes agapust their enimics, but by reason of luch eale and pleasure, as they had taken why= The Brytaines left they fotourned in Porke, being nowe come into the field, they were able to abide no paynes. to that no good was done of certaine peares after, till finally Arthure iopned in league with Loth king of the Picts. The conditions of which league were thele . That Arthure during his na= 30 towardes them, to that the one being come withturall life fould raigne as king of the Bytains. and after his decease, the kingdome to remaine unto Mordred and his issue, if he chaunced to haue any. That the Pickes Mould ayde the Bais taynes against the Sarons, and have all suche lander as might bee recovered of them beyonde Humber. Also the league whiche was betwirt them and the Scottes, they flould ducly observe. Mordred ma- Mordred Mould marrie the daughter of Bamos lan a noble man amongst the Biytaynes, and 40 amongest the Sarons, quickly viscombited that one Gawolane of highest authozitic next bnto Arthure hiniselfe: the children of this marpage to bee brought op with their granofather in Bzytain, till they came to peares of discretion. Sawan the brother of wen in seruice the forelayde Mordred, shoulde serue king Arthure, and recepue at his handes large entertain= ment, and great possessions to mainterne therewith his estate.

Other articles there were compapled in this the maintenance of Clable frienothip betwirt these kings and their nations. So that Arthur having concluded this league, and still being desirous to purge the whole Tle of all miscreantes and entrates of the Chailtian farth, hee fente unto the deth Ambilla Scottich and Pidich kings, requiring them on kings of Scots the behalfe of that Dutie which they ought buto the aduauncement of Christes religion, to ale femble their powers, and to meete him at Tynmouth, whither he woulde repayte to joyne with them, at such day as they would appoint, from thence to march forth agaynft the Sarons.

Loth king of the Pictes, and Concanus king of the Scottishmen, fayled ust in this to neces Scotte, Profession and Brytish farie an enterpile, but agreeable to Arthures resistance to agree to grant for agree t warde, and iopning with the Bzytaynes, forth Saxone. derlimbe to be alreadie in campe, binder the conduite of their king Deca, in purpole to flop their Colhen both the armies were approched neare togither, they prepared to the battaile, and frest Colgerme Duke of Porthumberlande mounted thou a light gelding, rode almoste even harde to the faces of the Pictes, where they floor in they? Colgetine is other of battaile right flourly, and there oftening proved last 20 many reprochfull wordes buto Loth and other of his nobles, for breach of their promised friends thip to him and his Sarons, declared that he tru-Acd Morfly to see just punishment light bypon them for this fallhood and untruthes take in thus iopning with they? former enimies against their most trustie friendes and stedfalt allies.

The Pidithe king not greatly moued herewith, commaunded his Standards to advannce forwarde, and the Sarons likewile halted apace in dannger of thot of the other, the Wifes let flie their Arrowes right freshly. Arthur in the meane time having let his people in aray, exhaited the to fight manfully: and so some as he percepued that the fray was begon by the Wids, he in femblable wife commaundeth the Beptaines to give the onlet, lo that immediately there enlued a love conflic : the Scottes beeing in the right wing, Acaing Cheldzicke one of the chiefelt Captaines ddling with the which they were field matched.

Colgernie with his Sarons encountring as is lay de with the Pictes, placed in the left wing, rushed in amonal his enimies (boon an earnet Delire to be revenged of his adverlarie king Loth) with such violence, that at their first encounter be ouerthew the same Loth: but immediately there bypon two Picifiche hortemen running at Cols Colgemeit germe fiveling wife, bare him quite through. In runne chross league, according as was thought requilite for 50 the meane time, Loth by meane of his frong has by his according to the first time. berionne elcaping without hurt, was retiened by fayet. fuch as flood about him, and reflozed agains to bis companie : but Colgerne being veave beloge he could be recovered from amongeli the throng of his enimics, his me were to discomforted these The Sures with, that streight wayes thereupon they fell to are put w running away. The maine battaile of the Sars flight. ons being thus left bare on both fibes, began to amebacke, which Arthure perceynings the more racticity preffed forth opo them, to that in the end Creabeing constraymed to flee, and recepting & the wound, had much ado to be conucyed amay in fome offins hogimen, the Beptains purlied fo ficiely upon him. It length being brought onto the feative, he got beffels, and escaped over into Comune. This bistogie being thus atchieuer. confirmented the Sarons to yeeld unto king Arcie, who clins clemencic was contented to par= con them of life and godes, byon condition they moulee become chailtians, and from thencefoath nouer after to make any warres bpo their neighinis the Bertains, Scots, of Pictes. But if they wonlde not agree hercunto, then leaving their crods, arrivoz, and weapon behinde them, they Gould appropriate land, and that within. riii. Days nert anlaing. Dam of the Saxons that could get pallage, 20 wolane palled on before the battaples with fine favied ouer into Germanie. Other feigning them falces to become Chaiftians, remarned in thelande. loking one day for better happe and for= tune. Dinerse that were not able by meanes of pourtie to get away within the tyme appopula ted, and yet refuling to be chailtened, were put to death, according to the Proclamation let forth for the same purpole, so that in comparison berie for amongst them recepted the Christian farth finctedly, and with a true meaning minde.

Things beeing thus quieted in Porthumborland, Arthure twice order for the repayring of Courches abrode in the contrey, which the Sare ons had overthrowne or defaced, namely in the Citic of Pozke he bestowed great cost, where the civil infidels had done muche hurt byon Chuts this and other religious bonks.

In the peare following. Arthure had newes u the Sarous which beloe the Tle of Wight. coming with the Kentill) Sarons, had bon great 40 Amballadors, & taking south was belt to displeasures onto the Brotagnes, on that spot of the Thanks, kylling and fleaing an huge num ber of them with great constite, wherewith being fore moued, her derive towardes London with his armie, purpolitig bitterly to destroy all the Gall and South Saxons, lith otherwyle het could not provide for the furtie of his fubicas; bes ing this daunger to be murthered and robbed to long as anne of that wicked generation of the Sarons remained here among them. In I

By meanes allo of: the league, he hav topth him in this tourney ten thouland Piller, and as many Stottes: Eugerilus mintem to king Cons ten by his mother Congatt being genrationer the Emites, and Morden the fount of King Lathby his wife Anne, gowerned the Piffes, gentleman, very wittle and thinkfoly mal his doings. Furthermore Arthur underline bing what burt rest and ease had done amongest his men of warre, caused them to keepe the fielde in al this icumey, and palling by London, lodged them a little belide the river of Chames. But he hinselfe with some of his nobles, entred into the citie, cauling supplications to be made onto almightie God three days togither, for god successe to folow against the Sarons. On the fourth day hearing divine service celebrated by the Billion of thur finishe comitting themselves but o his mer- 10 London, and causing a fermon to be made in the Market place, he committed himselfe a his whole armic onto the fuition of Chailt, and his mother Archurs badge the virgin, whose Jinage in steede of a vadge, he bare in his Micld continually from that day for= ward, as diverle heretofoze haue wzitten.

the farth. Mozdred and his father in law Ga=

thoulande hoelemen, and being tome within fine

-myles of the Sarons, who like wife were affem= tie fo to do, to depart out of the lande, with they?

gwos and lubitance, without fuither motelling

the Bartains, either by one meanes or other.

After this affuing forth of the citie, he willed at Arthures exhis men to be of god comfort, as they that fought horration to in a full quarell agaynt Pagans, and enimics of his people.

bled in campe, there came from them unto Ar- An offer made thur Ambassadors, crouising him to star his ioz = by the Saxons ney for they were readie if they might have liber - voto king Arthure.

Arthur would neither conlent hereunto, no gret 30 grains a frace for three dayes, for the which they made carnell lute, but bad them depart for that time, only alluring the that he woulde not time palling rood miles forward for that day, to that if they thought goo, they nught returns to him in the morning, and baire an West what the chillest governess of his holl thought touchting their requell by fishern be seoutor satiethe matter 1102e throughly officies. In the means time toppleft the Biptaines were pulled with hearing of thele do touching their demaunates Burons marches forth with all speed, and consider whom Androise The Saxons and Bawolandt bribares; they gave the onice comming vp. freihip boom them, & that bees muche to the bigs and Gawolan. adulatintage of the Beyfaire & Pilits, was chort put them with withflawing through the carnell exportation of the world. their captains trece puro their entaties eight about the strot state of the chief that buttle to the white a mibit to be, howevit in the ende office from 50 amilitade, they were for controllis and bordin most relingfill they came in light of the whole trainer In which floor, spooder and convelending escaped without bury sound; they tolk no knowle number of their copaints, as well in the bury castus the challed The Sarons Bernallands being hos pet deputies out of the Build nampe weite fift at byon stayed till the next isligating, and then have antwere

Emballadors had at Arthurs hands.

the Saxons.

What answer answere given them, that from thencesouth the Beytagnes were not mynded to heare any mellengers of the Sarons comming to intreate of peace, lich it was manifell inough, they ment nothing but fallhode, as well appeared in that thep had against the law of armes whilest their Amballadors were in comunicatio, diffressed part of the British army, and therfore they should affure the felues, to have at Arthures hands nothing but was upon his enimies ere they understode any by the Britains Saxons. of such their great untruthes & cloked dealings.

They had breth recepued their answere, but that there came from the Sarons. rl. other Amballadors, being me of great authoritie amongst them, to excule that whiche had happened over The excuse of night, in laying the fault bpon a sozt of bnoiscrete perfons, nothing prime unto that which the gonetners of the armse had done, touching the fending of their Ambassadours, and thereupon had without their adule made that Kirmish.

But Arthure judging that there was some newe lubtill practile in hande bnder pretence of this newe Ambassage, commaunded as wel these that came last, as the other which came siell, to be kept in the Marshalles tent, that in no wife they Moulde escape, whilest he himselfe in the seconde watch of the night departed out of his ramp, with all his puissance, which he denided into three bat. The folia tailes, t hauing marched three miles forwarde, he inusion had flain and chased the watche of the Sarons campe, before it was certainly knowne what the matter ment. Hereof allo enfued fuch a tumult & The gran noyle amongst the Sarons, running op 4 down, Sixon w calling a crying one to another, as it happeneth in luch cales of extreeme feare, that the beff adufsed amongst the, will not wel what to do. Where Merdeel s buon Mozderd desirous to reuenge his last oucre ficustob throw, brake in allo bpo his enimies right fierces reuenged 20 lp. But some of them hauing gotten them into their armoz, ftwo at their befence awhile amogli

The Saxons flight.

or the Brytuns in fleaing the Sax-their eartes and earinges, and to relifted the Brotains on that fide for a fealone other of the Sarons having no lepfure to arme thomselves, nor to draw into any order of battaile, by reason of the fodame impection of the Bertaynes, beake forth of the campe on the contrary five, and fied to fall an they; fecte myght beare them. But being pursued by the Brytillic Porsenien, and beater powne, a great number of them ranne into the next Rouer, and there were decouned, cholling 50 rather that kinde of death, than fo cruellye to be nourthered by the adverlarges handes; baily the Bertames Chewed no mercie that day, for fo manye as came within they baunger, dyed without redemption. And this bloudie battaile made an ende of fuch an hinge number of Sarons, that it was thought they should never have recovered againe any puissaunce able to haue envonia-ged the Byptaynes in any maner of mife.

Arthure having thus vanquished his enimies, gave license unto those nobles which thee han detepned (as is lapde) in his campe, being fent buto him as Ambaffadozs, to depart ouer into Gennas nie, appointing the relidue of fuch Saros as were men of no defence, to remain fill in the land, peris ding a yearly tribute buto the Beytains aid also with codition that they Quild become christians.

The Scottiffmen and Did's which have apper the Beptaynes in this courner, fotomner awhile after at London, where Arthure featice and band ketted them in most royall wise, spenning themas Archare a the homoz that might be benifed, and afterinances aifcence. fent them home right princely rewards with many great giftes and rich prefents. " and die "

diliniest such businesse as ye have heard was thus in hand betwire the Sarons & Britains. the effate of the Scottish conunon wealth, was gonamed by great wifedome and policie, without any notable trouble of disorder.

But finally when king Conrane beganne to mare aged, and that fuch as had the chief doings under him, sought not the execution of inflice, but their owne commodities, to the hinderance of a multitude, the people began to repine thereat, and effecte to practile a conspiracie with diverse of the Pohis appoyntment.

At chaunced that there was one Toncet, a ma of base brith, assigned by the kings commission to be chiefe iustice, oz as it were Chaunceloz foz the administration of the lawes in Murrey land. a perfo passing full of rygozous crueltie, especially in inogenients of life & death, and in gathering bo of all maner of forfeytures of penall lawes which he did onely to purchase fauoz of the king, by the smal regard either of right or wrong, so that there were hope of somwhat to be gotten.

Amongst other the violent doings of this Toncet, he caused diverse marchant men of the towne of Fores in Murreyland (as the the chiefest town of all that countrey) to be accused of treason by a light information, and in the end executed without any apparant matter, onely byon a couetous defire to have their gods and riches, by cause they were men of great wealth and lublfance. Dinerle 30 noble men of the countrey there aboutes, a namely of the towne of Fores, being partly of kin buto those marchants, were fore offended with this aff, and herebpon they first came buto Toucet, & remited him with many high reprochful wordes, afterwards fell byo him in the place of ope indgement where he lat as then in his iudgement feat, and there murthered him, getting them forthwith by into the moutains to auoyo the banger, which thould happen to be taken whilest Comran should be living. After this, they druited how they might encrease their heymous deed and bolde enterpeite with an other far moze horrible a notable, which inter to was to flea the king himfelf, as the original cause of all fuch mischief that then raigned in & realme through the unworthie government of his buivil ministers & couctous magistrates, hoping withall to obtain the fauoz of some of the noble men, fell most extreemly, & thereby in short time to be assured of their paroon. Shortly after it chaunced that one Donald also governor of Athol, a main great favour and trust with the king, had buderflanding what these outlawes intended, & therethou bigadiled with them by primie mellengers, that they thould come in fecret maner unto Enuctlochter, where the king loiourned, promiling them by moil affured meanes of othes a vowes, that they shuld have al & furtherance be could denife towards the atchieum of their enterpife.

Hercupon these outlawes according to their in-Arunions, came in secret wife onto Enuerlochtee The outlawes and were closely conneyd into Conrans bed cha- enter into the kings bed ber by Donalds meanes, who as though he had chamber. knowne nothing of the matter, got himself quick= ly out of the way when he sawe them once entred bles against Contane, and those which ruled by to within the doze of the chamber. Contan the king perceiving how he was betrayed, and that his enimies were got into his chamber ready to murther him, stept forth of his bed, & falling down by bis knees besought them to take pitie of his age, a not to defile their handes in the bloud of their naturall lozd and king, confidering the fault was not his, if they had beene any wayes wronged. Howbeit Conran is murthered they doubting nothing but leaft he thould escape within his bed their hands, streightwayes dispatched him out of chamber by enriching of his coffers, in respect whereofhe had 20 life, and with al made hast away. This was the meanes. ende of king Conranus, in the. rr. yeare of his 35. H.B. raigne, being the. rvj. of Arthurs dominion over the Baptains, the fifth of the Emperor Julini= 20. H.B. anus, and in the yeare after the byth of our Sauioz 521 . But his corps was buried in § Abbey of 535. H.B. Jona, otherwise called Colmkil, w fuch finerall pompe a exequies, as in those dayes were bled.

After him succeeded Eugenius, the fon of his bro- nius. ther Congall, the which Eugenius as aboue is Eugenius is fayde, was with Arthure invetted king in the laste mentioned of Scotland. iourney agapuste the Sarons.

There were that counsapled; him in the begynning of his raigne (which he beganne in they knows unpollible for them to escape, if they 40 Argile being placed there byon the chaire of marble) that he Coulde fee in any wife the auffonce of his Eincles death duely punished, to gint en Regicides or Comple to other, that they shoulde not attempt the kingquellers tyke hereafter agaynste they? liege Lozde and ought chiefly crowned King : but he contrarywile did not one to be punished lye forgiue the offence, but also recepused the forenamed Donalds with other the murtherers, int Eugenius is to his letnice, and made them of his printe Coun- suipected of fill which can let main men to suine least has predecelfell, which caused many men to suspect, least he sours death. whom they knew to maligne the kings his cou = 50 himlelfe had beene of counsell with them in committing that murther. The talke wheref, was so common in all mens mouthes, namely among & the common prople , that the Duerne Dowager The Queene late wife to king Corran, doubting not only the with his two furetie of hir owne life, but alla pehintivo connes fonnes into (which the had by the faid Coran, the one named Irelande. Reginan, and the other Iwan) fled with them ouer into Irelande, where within fewe yeares after, the dyed with the one of hir fonnes, that is to wit Reginan: the other Aidane was honourably brought by by the king of that Countrey, according to his byth and degree.

Eugenius in the beginning of his raigne, to win thereby the peoples fauoz, demeaned himself most gently in al his proceedings, boing nothing that tafted in any part of crueltie. He woulde of-Thehumanity teutimes fit amongst the Judges himselfe, and and favorable if he suspected least any man had wrong he wold to such a one as in whom they had percepued some king Eugenius licence them to pleade their case of new. And such as he vercepued were not of abilitie to follow their fuite in any cause of right, he would helpe them with money of the common treasurie. He orday= ned also, that no oxphane should be compelled to answere any action, or otherwise bee vered by Commedable suite of law. Dozcouer, that no widow should be ordinances. constraymed to come past a mile forth of hir own Dozes for any matter in controversie betwirt hir ges or publike officers. 13 obbers, thenes, and their receptors he caused to be duly punished, to refrain other from attempting the like offences. And allo he had a speciall regarde for the observing of the league betwirt his lubieds and the Pides, with the Beytagues, according to the fenour of the fanie.

About this scason should it be also that Arthur did atchiene all those worthis vistozies which are

Panes , Pormegians, a other northren people.

Moreover it is written by some authors, that he Moulde subdue the most part of Germanic with the low coutreys, Byrtain, Poiniandie, France, and the Romaines, with the people of the East,

but the credit hereof resteth with & same authors.

Only it is certain (as heacy Boetius affirmeth) make no nicution of Arthur at all. Therfoge letting all doubtfull things passe, I will proceede with my author, and veclare what he hath found wzitten in luch Scottiff Chaonicles as he follomith touching the British Arthur, which for that it partly varieth from the other our comon chiomorthy to be noted here, to the ende that energ

To the purpose then : after the Birtains were velicered from the terroz of the Sarous, and that with quietnesse they began to ware welthie, they repented them of the league, which they had concluded afore with Loth king of the Pickes, specially for that they could not in any wife be coten= man map indge therof as to him feemeth belt.

afcribed to Arthure.

that Arthur lived in the dayes of Justinianus the This causeth Emperour, aboute whiche time the Gothes, no final doubt to arise of the greatvictories nade sundzie partes of the Romaine Enwyze, pitifully walting and fpopling the same, where Aribure. , it suche wayters as have set forth those warres Geffray of Monmouth.

The Brytaines repent themicluss of the leag le concluded with the Pictus.

ted to have any stranger to raign amongst them. The reages and berempon comming onto Arthur, required of the Brying him, lith he himself had no illue to incceed him, p to have con it might please him yet, to name one of his owne tion apper nation to governe them after his deceale.

Arthure not gainlaying their request, willed them (lithe their pleasure was such, in no wife to have a stranger to raigne oner them) to name one themselves, being disceded of the bloud royal and towardly prouse of wiscoome & valiancie: and he for his part promifed to ratific their election.

The Pobles with great reiopeing of the nenple drawing togither to consult for the chapse of suche a one, as might bee acceptable to all the Brytish nation, at length agreed bpon Constantinus, the some of Cadore Duke of Cornewall. a goodly young Gentleman, both for his verson and other his worthy qualities muche to be com= and any other person, to be heard afoze any Jud= 20 mended. Tilho being brought by the peeres of the Realme into the counfell chamber, and there prefented buto king Arthure, as one most meetell to fucceede him. Arthure accepted their election right proclame gladly, and caused the same Constantine forthe heyte and with to bee proclaymed hepre apparant unto the and proceed crowne, by the name of Prince of Brytayne, which notified him to be fuccessor to the king in government of the realme.

Constantine being in wich wife preferred; beous conqueits alcribed unto him agaynst the Scots, Frill men, 30 haued himselfe so honourably, and with suche a Grew of acutle denreanoz, that he wan him much prayle, with an opinion of high worthingle & mongst all the Beptish nation.

In this meane time was Loth the king of the Lothin b Piffes deceaffed, leaning his name as a perpetual kerb them memorie buto his Countrey of Pictande, the of Lock to which euer lithence, as a remembraunce of his worthinelle, hath beene called Lothian, of Lawthian. But his forme Mozded fucceeding him Morden Clandales, Burgonions, and Frenchmen did in= 40 in government of the Pictille kingdome, and ceedenla hearing that Confiantine was preclaimed heyre domedia apparant of Byptapne, was foremoned them lande with, and immediately fending his Imballabass onto king Arthure, complaymed, for that control played rie to the honour of his kingly clate, he had his king his ken the leasure ken the league concluded betwirt him and the format father late of farmous manners bises 7 at taken father late of famous memozie king Loth, where created by in it was agreed amongelt other things, that begin app there Coulde none fucceede in the kingdome nicles, namely Geffray of Monmouth, I think it so Byptayne, after Arthures dereelle, but the this den begotte betwire King Loth and his wife Durene Anne, og luche as vifemben of them: where contrarrwyle it was notifyed into the Pickishe people, that Constantine the formeof Cavoje was elefted Prince, andiffine by cnabled as heyze apparaum to the empored facioning personalious of the Beytains, advilling him onto that thing which was meerely repugnaunt to reason, and agaynst both Gods iawes and mains, admonithing him withall to observe the league, according to the othe, which he had fo-Linuly taken upon him, and to move his subjects to do the like, least for the contrarie, they Moulde pronouse the weath of almightie God against the, who is the cult revenger of all fuch as go aboute to breake leagues and couenanted paffions.

They required him therfore to cal himself to remembrance, anothe lightly to corresponde

herebuto auswire was made, by consent of the nobles of Beytagne, that the league whiche was concluded betwirt Arthur and Loth, endured but for the life times of them two onely, and to craffe by erther of their deathes: therefore Irthat had done nothing contrarie to sny pair or promise made, but according to the duetie of a Prince that tendeed the weale of his lubieds, had promoed them one to succeede him of their owne fhould fall into the handes of Araungers, whiche mino wife ought of right to be luffered. Theres fore if the Piffes loued the suretie of their owne effate, it shoulde be good for them to holde them. felues contented with their owne boundes, least if they fought for other mens linings, they might harpely within Most time percepue, what both ensue oftentimes oppon such rally and bnaduiled atteniptes.

The Pistish Imbassadours returning home with this answere, caused the whole Pation to The Pictes take fuch distains there with, that immediately revenued on they resolved to revenue their transfer to be they resolued to revenge their wrongs, by open the Bry taines. warres: but first they thought good to trie if they by open war. might procure the Scottiff me to take part with The Picts fothe in reneway of such inuries as they had in like licite both maner lately receiued at y Britains hads. More. Scottes and ouer, repenting themselves, that they had in times make warre past apped the Byptapies against the Sarons, spon the Brythey purpose to trie if they might now move the taynes. fame Sarons eftlones to make warres bpon the Beytains, thereby to be the better able to main= tame their owne quarell against them.

First suche Ambassadors as were sent from Eugenius the Mozozed unto Eugenius king of the Scottes, Scottish king found him very agreeable unto their requests, and agreeable to the funct, for that such Scottill rebels as fledde the request of the Pictes. unto Arthure, were not encly recepued by him, nation, for doubt least the realme after his decease 20 but also maintepned to make rodes and incursions into the Scottiff borders.

Arthur having knowledge of the devices of his enimies (the warres being first proclaymed) hee furnished all the sea coasts with notable numbers of men, to withfland the landing of the Sarons, if they should fortune to attempt any inuation. Arthure let-That done, he palled forth with the relidue of his teth forwards people towarde the Scottes and Pictes, who scottes and were alreadie allembled in campe, and were come Pictes.

as tarre as the Rouer of Humber, neare to the in a place farall for the Brytagnes to be banqui-

Soth the armics being brought here into 02= der of battaile, the one in light of the other, there were certain Bishops of those three nations, that the great paynes to rive to and fro betwirt the; to erhout the kings onto peace and concord, conforming what milichiefe a great bloudifed Hould enfue, if voon wilfulnelle they would lecke to trie bankes whereof they had pitched their tents, as so that by dint of Googde, which they might make: an ende of, by meanes of amiable freatie & friendly agreement. Again, they could not do the thing that might more content the Sarons, common entities to the chailtian religion, than if by they? encourring togither in battail, they should so enfeeble their whole policies, whereby the Sarons might hanc readir meanes and occasion office to execute their greedy defires to coquer y whole ile.

Mordio (M J.üj.

Mordred and Eugenius were perfwa. ded vito peace.

woulde not

Mordred and Eugenius were perswaded by this earned tranaple of the Billioppes, to putte they matter in compromise, and to lay awaye there armour and weapon, if they might have affurance that the league made with king Loth ilivulo in enery pornt be oblerued.

Arthure likewise at the sute of the same Br= flioppes, would have bene contented for his part to have agreed herebuto, but other of the Bip= The Brytaines ance onto Constantine they? Pzince, coulde in colene to have no wife be persmaded therevuto, but rather with any peace ral-many reprochfull wordes rebuked the Billiops for they, butined late, feeing the enimies readie raunged in battaile at popul to give the onlet, so that as they alledged) it might be doubted what they ment by their mocion, onclesse they ment about to betray the army, bnocr pictence of a cloked treatie foz an onprofitable agreement.

Thele or fuch like wordes were bucth enden tohen sovainly the nople being rayled on bothe Thebana fides, the battailes rufted togither right fiercely is begonne The Brytaines had the disaduauntage of the place, being to encumbreo in myres, bogges, and Mosses, that they coulde not well and themtayns, namely those that were of kinne and allie 10 selves, not handle their weapons to any purpose. Pet vio the vattaile continue a long time to the destruction of such numbers of men, that A country the river of Dumber (neare onto the whiche this rale, field was fought was to mingled with blond. that the water thereof being all over colour red. caried no finall multitude of dead bodies domine

The Historie of Scotlande.

A craftie

into the lea. In the middes of the fight, there was one with lowde vorce in the Bertish tongue, policie. This was one cryed out to the Beytaynes of purpole prompted of the Pickes, thereunto) that Arthure with other of the nobles folly to trust any longer byon victorie, but rather were it wiscome for everie man by flight, to prouide for his owne fattie.

This voyce wonderfully encozaged the Scottiff men and Pides, but the Bertaines were put in such feare therwith, that the most part of them The Brytaines immediately herebyon fell to running away.

Dther of them undging this to be but a craftie and some subtile practice of the enimies devised of purpole, as it was in deede, to discomfort them 50 that humber kept them in from theing my was with, above by it still, manfully continuing in ficit, till they were besten bowne and flaine in maner euery mothers sonne.

This victorie beeing thus hardly got, cost more mens lives than any other had done of ma-Twentisthous no peares befoze: for of the Scottes and Wiftes being vanquilliers, there dred in that mortal battail about. rr.thouland men together with Mors dred, and a great number of the nobilitie of both flaine. the Pations.

Df the Beptains and such other as were with them in appe, there were flaine what in battafle on his lide were flaine, and therefoze it were but 40 and in the chafe, at the poput of rex. thousand Andure mong whom was Arthure himfelf, with Gamin Bryums oz Baluan, (as fome bokes haue) brother buto Gamania Shozdzed, who bare fuch and will and entier lone buto his Lozd and mailter the land Arthur, that he fought that day most carnelly on his five & gainst his own natural brother y says with

Also there were killed Capine and Camelone Cavolina with the most part of al the restone of the Leith sine. nobilitie, and many prisoners taken, dereason forth on the one live, which emilaners also were afterwards flaine, the gentlemen onely exception

The day next after the battaile stipe compe of the Brytains was rifled, and amongst what rich tpoples, there was fond Durene Gangnete Its thures wife. with a great number of other Zabies and genth women. The whole fpate of the camp be Brit and field teing equally devided by lottes between camp des them, the Scottes had for their partes certaine fangt Charits laben with rich Lufte and tewels, allo holles and armers, belide landep noble men, which they had to they e prisoners.

Cinto the Pids fell for their portion Ducine Guapriore, with the Lavier and gentlewemen, and dinerte other of the Doble men, belides & greate quantitie of other tiche pray and botten, Thele prisoners which the Pittes had, were cona place of great ftrength in those vapes, thought at this prefent there remagneth nothing but the name with the ruynes thereof. In whiche Cafiell they were betegned enber fure warde; during the relibur of thepe natural lyues. Intibles nelle whereof there be remapning bute this bap, the granes and monuments where manye of those captyne Brytagnes were burged in the fieldes of a towne in that Countrey called Meqill, not pall ten myles from Dunber. But a= 20 mongell the relidue, that of Buapuoze is molte

There goeth a plaine tale over all that cours trep, tolde for an affured truth, that if any manit chaunce to treade upon that grave, they that remaine barren withoute bringing forth any illus more than the land Guapnore old. But whether this be true or not, certaine it is, as Boetius mat teth. that there dare no moment come near that commaunding their daughters to beware theref.

This bloudie battaile weakened so much the forces both of the Scots, pictes and Brytagnes, that many a day after they were not able to recouer againe their former estates or dignities.

The peare also that these three nations encous tred thus cruelly togither, was after the bytth of our Saniour 542 the rroi of Arthurs raignes uer the Brotapnes, and the ri of Eugenius his.

The fame yeare befoze the battaile, were fene many straunge lightes in Albion. Grasse and hearbes in Pozkeshpre appeared to bee stepned with bloud. Peare onto Camidon, a Cowe brought forth a Calfe with time heaves. Also an Ewe brought forth a lambet that was both male and female. The funne america aboute none Dapes al wholy of a blondie colour. The element appeared full of bright States to every mans gither. In Males there was a battaile beswirt Crowes & Pies on the one libe. and Ravens on the other, with such a claughter of them, as before that time had not bene heard of.

But to proceed. Engenius king of the Sects at his returns from the battail, gave to those that had escaped with life, and abid by him in the chief daunger of the fight, many bounteous and large rewardes. The formes and nearest kinsfolke of fuch as were flaine, he also advannced buto fundrie mesennents of landes and livings, that they enioping the fame, might bee a witnesse in tyme to come of the god feruice of their auncesters fliciord, in defence of their king and countrey, and also of his vaincely liberalitie, in remarding the same woon theirissue and morenie. By whiche noble beneuolence, hee wanne him suche loue Theie pritoniers which in Angus, called Dinbarre, 10 amongelt his people, that afterwardes it fre= Eugenius gomed howe her governed the estate of his king- people with Dome more by chmencie, than by any rigour clemencie. of laws of the first of the second

The Baytapnes immediately boon knows ledge had that Arthur was flaine, crowned Con-Constantine Stantine big successorin the Bytishe kingdome, crowned king and for that there should remaine none amongst of Biyuyne. them affec to make any claims to the came kinddonie, other than he with his issue, or such as he Chantae supports to succeede him, they cruelly murtheren Porntebe chilpren, in molte pietuil the Brytains in wife rouning unto their stockers lap, befeeching murchering bir to lang their louis, according to hir mothers the innocent Ipontie They were brought pp in Gawolane Mordred. their grandfathers houle, and being thus made #= way, the family a lynage of their father the foite The linage of Capo Mordred wes betterly therby extinguilheb. Mordred clear

The Barons at the lang tyme having abentilement what lotte the Baptapnes haves grane : not only elchning it themselves, but allo so stayned not work by the death of their most by liant king and chieftaine Arthur, but also for the flaughter of fuch a multitude of their nation, as died in the battail, they prepare a mightie nauisof The Saxons thipper , and palle oner with the lame into fing returne into land, where being landed, they eatily beat downer drive the Brys the Beptagnes, and wing them with they king raynes into Constanting into dillates, forecovering all that nart of the land which Hengil Cometymes help, e after big name was afterwards falled Englad. gourrnment ouer the Scottist men. 40 Somthaue weitten, hew that after king Constantine had raigned certains peares in Wales, his wife and children died inherropon mexing Constantine weary of this world, he forloke his earthly king fortaketh his bome, in hope of that other shope and ferretty be dome in hope parted into Ireland, where applying himlelf for a of the beautly time in ministring to the page patlength bezing kingdome. knowne, by the perfuation of a Monk be became Configution one of his cote and motellion. Aftermarbes be entreth inco ing fent by the Billion of the Dioces oner into religion. light continually for the ware of two paper for 50 Sections to infirmit the people of that country Confession in the true faith and articles of the chailtian relie relieforth of mion be there suffred marticoome by the hands of Irelande into molt wicked a goolelle perlons, and was at light scotlande is (but many yeares after his beath) canoniero a thered. Saint and fundric churches (as ace to be lesse uen bnto this pap built & bedicated butohimis Scotlanichy authoritie of the Ballous there. The faire since that the fapp Colfantine was Lancarike, or 10 % 1cc Line men.

causeth a

agenius the comil king

dipuen into delales, there raygned amongelt the Englishe men one Junnyzike the fifth (as Bedehath) from Bengilt. The fame Jurmy= whe thoughe hee were not Christened hyni-Turni rike con lelfe, pet hee perniptted the Chaillian fapth to bee preached amongest bys people, and concluding a league with the Scottiff men and pids, kept the same inviolate, buring his life time most fincerelv.

The Scottish king Eugenius allo ipued in 10 peace the relidue of hys lyfe, worthout any trouble, epther by forrapneenimies, or intestine see dition, and at length dred in the 38, peace of his raigne, and after the byth of our Sa-68.H.B. Efour. 569.

man juffer wonderschereat. De bare foch zealous denotion towardes the worldinging of the croffs (a thing to put men in remembrance of Christes nation as he toke it) that which wan feeter he Conual deue tion to the robe as it is reported be had y same borne before hirti, and at his getting by and lighting downe from his horse, he with all the multitude of people standing about him, woulde worthippe it in kneeling downe, and reverently kille it.

thereon, and letters areauch in a plate fastened to the staffe, conterning these two wordes: Chris itianorum gloria.

· itc=ples.

He commanned also that the signe of the Croffes fer vp. Croffe foulo be let bpon the toppes of steeples, and on the highest towers of the gates of Castels and townes. Moreover he forbad the Croffe to ber granen or paymted opon any panement, least arm man flouid irreverently treade boon it. fur-Convaled cue thermore he had priestes and other religious men 50 Monks) with fivelus dither persons in Ireland to Albion, and there gathering togistes a great Souland. ting them to have the tenthes of all those fruites which the earth vecloed.

Sundzie ordinances her made also, for the miruous punishment of all such as in any wole misusch a Prett, or other religious person : as he that caur any of them a blowe, flould lufe bys bande for it: and he that flue one of them, houlde forfepte his goodes, and be beent quicks. Againe, he bestomed many riche iewels, and gave diverte rabicens great giftes buto Churches, motiding the nue Charles. nisters of sufficient limings, and appaymen that they (houlde have they houles neare with they This Croffe was of liluer with a Crucifix 40 Churches, to bee readie to execute that which apperterned to they offices, when anyt with us gupzed.

The king breing thus vertuolity diffused, caused the whole number of his Indiedes by his ensample to be the better affeilioned talandathe aduauncement of religion. The report and fant wheref, moued that holy man Baint Coint, 4 Colombe, to come once forth of Jeneste (where her had the governantice of laungle houles of uer fort number of Monkes, being here and them differ fed abzode in the Countrey, her placed them of berly in such houses, as king Consall bed buy! der and founded for that purpole, appropring a mongli them rulers and ministers, inche as bee thought most consenient.

But Saint Colyne himfelfe, and the other

The Historie of Scotlande.

roclue, which he brought over with him from Ireland, placing themselves to inhabite in the Tile of Jona, now called Colmekill, twke great paynes to infruit the Scottes and Dices in the true articles of the faith.

Amongli the Pictes the same time the herelie erefic of of pelagius had intented the mindes of many, by means that divers of that nation having dwelled long time in Beptaine, returning into thepe countrey, brought that peltilent doctrine home to the Billiop and his Canons. with them, and taught it buto other. Saint Colme therefoze informed hereof, palled into Louthian buto Brudens as then king of the Histor, earnestly traveling to instruct bothe him and his people in the right beliefe, and to extrine out of they? heartes al erronious opinions of that pamnable fedt of the Pelagians loze.

The lame time that bleffed man Bentigern. otherwise called Mungo, gouerned the Church of Claskew, as bishop of the same, who resoz= ting into the companie of this S. Colme, had much conference with him to bothe thep; com= fortes, concerning the true articles of our faith.

royall of the Pictific kings, as some buto that bertuous woman Thametes of Thanew, daughter buto Loth king of the Pictes, whome a rong luftie Gentleman(oz as some haue wzit+ ten' the last mencioned Eugenius the Scottist king rausshed by force, and begot of hir the layde Kentigeme.

Her was greatly in favour of the fozelayde Brudeus the Piaid king as one that was nere phriv buto the forelayde Loth, by his brother cleped Melethon, and therefore succeeded in the kingdome of the Pittes, after that Mozored was laine as befote is expresse.

Kentigerne went with Saint Colme buto the castle of Calebone, otherwise called Dountiln, where they remained live monethy in a motufferie there, buploed by king Conuell, teathing and preaching buto the people of Athole. Calidone, and Angus, that in great numbers came but othem, to heare their godly instruction.

There is in the same place, where the sayoe callle fometimes stode, a Thurche dedicated bn= to Saint Coline, builte of fayze square lione, being at this day a Bilhops fee, commonly called The bishops Dounkeld, endued with many sayze reuenemes keld. and great pollessions, for the mayntenaunce of

At the firte monethes ende, those those for tuous persons taking their leave eche of other. not without therding of teares, departed in funder, Kentigerne returning unto Blaikem. & S. Colme into Arclande, where reporting many Saint Colme things, touching the great bertue and holinesse returneth into of king Convail, and with what devotion he had bette tecepued both of him and his people, he ma= ued many to wounder greatly thereat, to heare o that a king in the middelt of all his allurements to pleature, thoulde pet be so minufull of vinine

The yeare following S. Colme prepared to Saint Colme refurne into Scotland, taking Aydan ouer with commerk ahim thither, by commaundement of king Con- Scotlad, brinwall, whiche Appan as pe haife heard to anoppe ging with him the traynes of Eugenius, fleddeouer into Art. Aydan sonne land with his mother, for positive to be made at to king Conland with his mother, to bombte to bee made as ranne, way by the came Eugenins.

meditations and godly exercises.

S. Coline taking the lea with this Aydan, and comming a lande on the coallest of Scots lande, was no coner there arrived, but that pres The death of fintly hee had knowledge howe the king was Convall. bead, bring the yeare of his repane the.r.s after the birth of our Sautour. 579.

Saint Colme then being throughly certified of his death, and that the coins was foreward on Saint Colme the way towardes Colmekill there to be buried, present at the buriel of king he thought it a peece of his duetie to go thither to Conuall. This Kentigerne was discended of the blowd 40 be at the funerals, and so doing was as one of the chiefest there in the executing of the obse= quies. Whiche being ended, and bearing that Kynnatyll e-Kynnatyll the brother of Convall was inthio- Scotland nized king in Argyle, by the free election of all the estates, he neverthelesse kepte on his formet purpoled fourney, and came onto Kynnatyll bringing Appan with him, (appointed by Conuall to have received the concenement of the kingdome if he had lived) they were bothe receys of his blond. For the same Brudens was De= 50 ned with all beneuolence of the sayde Krunatyll Saloe Colme contrary to most mens expectation : in to much seeined by Kinthat embracing Appan, he hadde him be of good natyll. cheere, for it flould shorth come to nate, that he food attaque to the policition of his graundiae The profescle there dominion, and have there that Chould fuce of Kynnaryll. ceede him to the greate reliene of the Socottille common wealth.

By inhat spryte of prophecie he bitered these wolder.

Kynnatvll.

rendieth his

to Aydans

purpose was to have given over the government of the kingbome (as he confessed himselfe lying buon his death bedde, and to have reflored it bn= to Appan who had a right thereinto. Howbeit being prevented by death, he could not have time to accomplithe his belier, for within. rr. bayes after his cozonation, being furpziled with a grieuous vilcale of a catarrike rewine and the lqui= nancie, he was collreined to keepe his chaber, co= 10 mitting the publike administration of the realme unto Appan. Herebpon followed a feuer through The death of encreasing of a flegmatike humoz bred by long reffe, that after ring. monethes space bubodicd ing upon his his ghost, whiche by the instruction of Saint death bed, sur- Colme, bring present with him at the houre of his death, he remozed in most denoute wife into wordes, it is bucertoine, but fire it is that his kiniadome as it were by belimerit of laplin. steen there byon his death bedde bute the logelabor ு சிரில் ம Ayban.

Al fire that the boote Wof this Eymatyll mas singual according to the maner in Colme to the manuscripton the Aydra received in crotone fitting boon the flure of the marbie flone, after the kingdome: cultoment thole bayes the hands vled, by the handes of that holp father Saint Colme. Who willing that litence mighte be kept, layde his right hande buon the kings head, and in his lefte hand hole S. Colman bing his crofier staffe, made a briefe exhortation, horrange w accell to the king as to his people, authorithing the people the handes of his redeemer. Appointing his

them of they? ducties ethe towardes other, but especially be exhorted them buto peace and concorde, and before al things to remember to walke 40 all the people reiopling thereat, promiled with in the wayes of the Lozde, for in so boying they might hope for wealth and prosperitie, in the flate of they? common wealth, with all other god graces, where as otherwise, if eyther of the prople forgot they? dueties towardes God, oz that the king regarded not duely to execute his office, in giuing God thankes for his bounteous liberalitie and high benefites bestowed bod bint, it should come to paste, that intestine sevition, conspiracies, and other mischiefes Moulde rise 50 and quiet rule through his bominions, be amongst them, to the irrecoverable loss of the realine, by bringing the same into daunger to be ouerrunne by some forragne power, if they did not repent in time, and call to God for his fauour that it might please him to reduce them agayne into the right pathe of his lawes and oz= dinaunces, when to ever they thould to fall from the fame.

Withen Saint Colme had made an ende of these of the like his wholesome advertisements, of the parties one voyce, and therewith nomed to follows the fame, and to be cuer ready to obey the comaundement of they? prince, and the holy instructions of they? bilhops & other the Ecclesialtical miniflers. The affeinble being once diffolued, the king The king Departed into Balloway, and there delivered the Gallety countrey of certaine Buttilhe robbers, that has

After this, fludying to maintaine good giben pointed an allemble of the chiefelt peares of his realme to be holden pearely in thee feverall pasties therof, as in Galloway, Louchquhaber, arm Catimelle, there to heare & Determine all Captes ? pane quarrie of his lubicurs, & to gine oportion the ans ministratio of the lawes & al publike affagits, as they Mould fee caufe, a occasion. Decequiposlo S. Colme to be prefent ener with this ? meters touching religion might be the better prouided for and that the people might take all things pone in those publike selsions in right good parte, because such an holy and vertuous father of the Churche was amongst them, and having the chiefest authoritie.

Thus continued the realme in quiet state for certaine yeares togither, till it chaunced that diners of the nobles being togither on hunting, fell Div of them were flayne. The beginners & fuche as were moste culpable were fought for, by the kings officers, to have bene had to warde, but ther in disobeying the arrest, stroke and beate the officers very foze, and immediatly therewith fled onto Bendeus king of the Pides, fobr wilfull erile to lafegard there lines.

King Ardan, according to the maner in such tales accustomed, required to have those out- King Aydan lawes believered butto him, that he might do in requireth to flice upon the accordingly as they had deserved. Scottish out-

Brudens taking pitic of the yong gentlemen, lawes delinealledged many things in their excuse, still defer- des of Brudeus ring to beliner them, till at length her procured king of Pictes. warre to himfelfe and his countrey : for Typan Brudeus by denying to dethe Scottiffe king offended in that he might not liver the Scothave those rebeiles and publike offendors restored tish outlawer, at variance, and therebyen making a fray, fun= to but o him, he caused a number of his people, first warres to him to fliche a great bottle of cattell and pepfoners felfe and his Wherewish the Piles being Lindled, made The breach of a like rode into Galloway. Finally the matter, peace betwirt grewe buto a fielde, whiche was foughten in the Scots and Wenteith, not farre from Caledon castell other= Pictes.

A field fought with great slaughter on betwirt Scots both fires, though in the ruor the victorie pet re- and Pictes.

marned with the Scottes, but loting Arthurnus 30 the some of Appan their king, they reionced not creatly at the gaine.

That holy ma S. Colme troubled with fuch neives, came onto Aydan, and declaring onto him howe aricuously be had offended almurbtic Cod in procuring fuche nufchiefe as had enfued of this warre, a reciting in particuler the braches thereof, he moued the king but o luch repentance for his trespalle, that he wholly submitted him= ing about to departe in semblance sore offended, the king got him by the Accus, and would in nowife fuffer him to go from him, till he had deelamounto him some comfortable meane bowe to reducte the matter, for the quicting of his confrience. It knigth Saipt Coline lamenting the kings case, soffred himselfe to be entreated, and there whom repaysed buto Brudeus the Vicillie king, moning him by way of diners gooly ad-At length he did to much, by tranayling fundry times to ano fro between the from kings, that he brought the onto accessment for al maters dept= ding in controucrile betwirt the e their subicas;

Thus S. Coince baying accomplished that winch he came for, returned agains into the weterne Alles buto his wanted home, where he did by wholesome documents and vertuous ensam=

ples, instruct the servaunts of God in the way of his lawes and commaundements.

In this meane time the Sarons having deluen and put backe the Bzytons into Wales, England deui-and occupying all the relidue of their landes and ded into seven countreps, they decided the same into seven severall kingpartes, orderning feuen squerall kings, to go- domes. uerne the same as kingdomes.

Duer that of Postburnberland adiogning next onto the Pictes, one Coeffred reggned, a Edelfred king felle bnto Saint Colmes chaftifement, who be- 40 man of exceeding delire to emarge his dominion, berland. He went about by all meanes be could denife to persuade Buidens the Picitike king to reneve the papers with the Scottes, promiting him all the appe he could make against them, not onely for that he knowe the Scottes to have bene ever enimiss but o the Sarons, but also for that hee himself was discended of the nation called Aosthirles, of the whiche the Bickes as was thought were also come. But the cause why be wished urrillements to incline his affection, but peace. 50 that there might be wantes rayled betwirte the Scottes and Pices, was not for any goodpill be bare to the Pices, but oncly to the expethat they? power being weapened through the finne, Edelfieds pure he might haue a moie enlie peap of they? couns pole. trep, the whiche he purposed boon occasion to inuade and joyne buto his sione kingdome of Porthumberlande. in gin

Buidens at the fielle game no eare buto bis

earness mocions and large offers, but at length through the councell and procurement of some of his nobles, corrupted by brobes recevued at Ethelfredes handes, and fill putting into the kings head fundly folged informations of the Scottill meng darly attempts against the Pi= Histor nation, her determined to iopne with the Sarous against them, and caused therebypon warre to be proclapmed against the Scottes, as contrarie to the league rall bandes of old frend= This and former amitic betwirt them.

A league con-cluded betwixt the

The Scottisse king Appan percepning the practife of the Saxons, and togither therewith Sects & Bry- the untruth of the Histor, the better to be able to tons, with the result there malice, ionneth in league with the articles of the Beytons: This article beyng chiefest in the mhole cougnant: that if the enimies first inuaded the Bertons. then an armie of Scots flould be fent with all sperde into Bzytaine, to helpe to 20 Pepther did Ethelfred fayle in that occasion to defend the countrey against such invasions: but if the Scottes were first imaded, then should the Bertons in semblable maner come over to their

The Saxons having knowledge of this appopulinent betwirte Scottes and Brytons, to draw the Scottes forth of theyr countrey, and fo to have them at more advauntage, procured The Picts and the Pictes to ione with them: and to bothe their Saxons enter powers being united togither, entred into the 30 tilhmens lide Breinfus lieutenant, of as they

of the Brytos. Huttilli confines.

Ceuline or

Brytons put

of Cculine

king of the

Tydan according to the couenaunt, came straight unto the avoc of the Byrtons. Ethel= fred and Budeus refused to fight foz certaine dayes, as it were of purpose, thereby to wearr the Scottes with watch and trauaple, being as then farre from home. Also they loked dayly to have Ceuline king of the west Sarons to come buto they appe:but the Scottes and Byrtons has encounter with him, before he flould ionne with the other, and thus biderstanding that their on-The Scots and ly refuge remarked in they, armure and weathe Saxons to pons, gaue y onlet lo fiercely bpo thole Saxons, flight, & flewe that at the firste, flaying Eutha Ceulines sonne, Cutha the for with a great number of other, they easily diffrele fed and put the relidue to flight.

weil Saxons. Aydan would not luffer his men to purfue to The triuphant farre in the chase, but called them backe by the the Scots and with about they? Standerds, made sucheiope and Biytons, vpon their neweri- trumphe, as greater coulde not bee denifed. what with danneing, finging, and playing on cloric. vives and other infrumentes, according to the manner in those dapes.

But as they were thus in the middes of their chiefelk muzth, sodenly appeared the Sarons & The Saxons Pickes, whiche were with Ethelfred & Bzudeus, approching towardes them in good order of hat. tell with whom were also the relique of the west Sarons, that had escaped fro the late bickering. Witherevpon the Scottes and Baytons amaged The foles with the fight hereof, were lodenly flriken out of feare of the Scott & Pia countenaunce, in somuche that Aydan went & after all then monalt them, and with a bolde countenaunce great ion is exhorted them to remember, how valiantly they triumpaire. had alreadic put to flight the other of thepremithose that had spoyled and robbed his subjects, 10 mics, so that there was great hope for assured bis Aydan case Morie of these likewise, if they would now theme ted his mer the like maly courage against them, as they had mantuled to Mewed before in affayling the other. Many other wordes her vsed in admonishing them to fight manfully, till the onset given by the mimies, caused him to make an end.

The Sarons layde about them to thoutly in The Sugar the beginning, that they forced their adversaries, fight floater with whom they were matched, to give backe. encourage them to follow the aduauntage nowe Ethelfred thus gotten.

Baudeus mith his Pides likewile made great Brudeuigia flaughter in that wing of the Scottes, with the of the Pin which the encountred, so that finally the same maken in Scottes perceyuing the Beytons beaten bowne Scott. and fore diffressed on their side, fell through discomfort thereof to renning away.

There were flaine in this battel on the Scot- russe in termed him the Thane of the The of Man, with Dungarre the kings thirde sonne, fant no small number of other Gentlemen beside. The king himselfe escaped by helpe of his conne, who tape ing to get his father out of the prease, was laine

On the Sarons floe, there was flaine Theo bald Eoclfredes brother, and Euthathe king of Well Saron bis fonne, as before pe hane bears, uing knowledge thereof, fielt thought it belle to 40 with a great number of other. Ethelfield Ethelfield lost one of his tyes. Brudens the please wing eyes. was hurt in the thigh, and belives this, we telle's Budeut great multitude of his people. . and right first forbedige.

Thus Edelfred hauling got tachea notable billogie at Deglatione in Biytaine, bestooist place where not be lo contenten, but etilones antending st chu band prople, and toyning againe with Balding in his Piers, the next forminerafter minion College loway, and beganne to robbe and fortellist unled by & founds of a trumpet, who being assembled here= 50 countrey, to the end he might epithet entre in sanor inhabitauntes, with other the countrys with therebuto adiopning, to pecide with them, specia els to being them info exteente pollecte in thing all afore him. A. A. Samoini gain come certains companyes of his enemyes, as he found them dispersed abroade in seeking for prapes, that palling by their mayne armie, he commeth into Annanvale, where he ioineth with the Bzy= tons beying come to farre forward on their way to meete him.

But Aydan being aduerfiled beredt feite to the Brytons for they? conensunted apolition commune forewards with his owner whiche hee had assembled togither, onethics

The Sarons and Pices having knowledge of their enemies doings, wanne luche a place of aduantage as they thoughte it an easye matter Scottes and Beytdynes through Copping on the passages, by the whiche they must of force palle, if they mynded to come forth of that dale. These passages lay through certayne quicke= fands, and by a rouer which had but few fordes passable.

The Scots and Bartannes percepuing how they were thus enclosed with all weede trenched their camp about, repling certains bulmarkes dient as though they had meante still there to haue continued.

Ardan him lelfe toke fuche papnes in lecong euery thing done in due order, that his neonle moved more through his ensample than by any triogitation, were most viligent in their dueties. refirous of nothing so much as to have occasion numified to thewe some profe of their worthy valiauncies.

quiet, and as was supposed, nothing in doubt of anr attempt to be made by the Scots and Bip= tons in the night feason, leaving a great num= ber of frzes in their campe, they focenly dislodged, and palling the water by fecret fourdes, thep entred into Tumberland, and so after palling into Porthumberland, they walted and deliroyed with frie and fwoid all that came within thep? teach: The report of which their doings brought to relift they imualion, neither relling day noz night till they had got light of their enimies.

The next day, the fouldiers on bothe fides requiring battell, togither they are with great noile and dinne bothe of men and instrumentes. To much hardinesse in the Sarons caused no small number of them to be flavne, rather chosing to die with reputation of manhade, than to give backe never so little ground to the enimie. Thus whiche way the victory would incline.

In the Birtons and Scottish mensside, there were foure chiefe rultes amongst them, befire Ardan hinnfelfe, as Constantius and Alen= cinus Buctons. Callan and Mordock Scottiff min. Cinc of thele taking a feuerall charge bpon tim. did carnelly apply their ottermolt endeuers therein, encouraging their bandes to put away all comardin feare, and manfully to flicke to their tackle, Lithe by victory there was hope of eternall fame, beside suertie of life. and aduauncement to the common wealth of their countrep. where otherwise they might loke for nothing. but the contrary milhaps, as Mame, rebuke and importable secuitude, so that the Scottish men and Bertong incouraged herewith, preassed bud the enimies so fiercely, that at length aswell the for them in keeping the same, to distresse both the 10 Sarons as Ditts were compelled to breake their The Saxons & array, e fall to plaine running away : the Scots ted & chaied. following so egrely in the chase, that more of their enimies were thought to die in the flight; than befoze there had done in p battel. S. Colme as yet being alive, and within his monasterie in the Ale of Aona, had knowledge by dining inspiration (as the Scottish chronicles make mention of all these matters how they went, and at the very time that the battels were in fight togiand furrets in places where they thought expe= 20 ther, he had affembled a companie of right bertuous and godly disposed persons, making intercession for the prosperous speeds of their king the fozelayde Aydan, and at the very instant, as it was knowen after, that the Saxons began to flee (as they which had the ouerthrow) that hely S. Colme enold father thewed greate token of ioy and gilde the sprite of nesse, declaring buto his beetherne by the spipte secrete knowof fecrete knowledge or prophecie, how Appan ledge. had the better, and that his enimies were difeo-At length, when the enemies were molt at 30 fited, willing them therebyon to give buto God thankes for the lame.

There was an huge multitude flaine in this Ceuline king conflict, but namely the death of Ceulyne king of Westfaxons of the Melflarons, with other two worthic Captaynes of that nation, made the Caughter Owhitelline as more coronfull on that woe, the one of them. Whiteline. hight Cialyne, and the other Dubitellyne.

The day next after the bataple, the spople of the field being gathered togither, all that whiche way and other countreps, of the Scottes, was restored by the kings authoritie buto the owners againe. The relidue which remayned was bein. The deuision ded amongs the souldiers, the tenth parts one of the spoyle. excepted, whiche was diffributed buto Prieftes and Curates, to beliome the lame apon ornements for they? Churches. The Banners, and Standends of the Saxons and Pins, with mamy other riche offerings, king Agben, Coule anto rocke the battell continued for a space, right doubtfull 50 the Abbey of Colmekill, there to compline as per selection of petuall monuments and tokens of lo netable a selection vissozie. The yeare next following that haly father S. Colure nowe almost matten through age, and hereto also sore troubled with a reunisticke S. Colme dehumoz, fell licke and vied. Sonne lay bee stude this life. his life in his house amongs his bretherne within the Alle of Jone, othermile called Colmekill but Saint Bede writeth howe fice bico in an Fland called igen, where againe the Frilhe wip= ters affirme, that he ocpatted in a towne in Fres land called Dune, and that his tombe is there in great beneration of the people : byothe which nrethele Latine verles engrauen.

Hitres in Duno, tumulo tumulantur in ono, Brigida, Patricius atque Columba pius.

Which verles Balantine translateth thus: Thir three in Dune lies in ane sepulture.

Peither did Avoan the Scottische king line Aydinking of long time after, for hearing (as is sayde) that the Scottishe Saint Colme was dead, fhoetly therebyő moze me, departeth thiough griefe, than by foice of sickenesse, be de= parted this worlde, after he had revamed rertii peares in gouernaunce ouer the Scottiff num he pied about the yeare of our Lorde, 606.

In the dayes of this Aydan there was lente into Albion from Gregozy the Pope of Rome divers learned men (amongst whom were Mu-Auguste gullinus and Mellitus) to instruct the English into A neople in the faith of Chailt, whiche as vet they had not recepued. By the earnest travell and er-Saint Colme, Saint Patricke and Brigitta pure, 10 hoztation of these instructors, Ethelbert king of Ethelber the Kentille Sarons was baptiled with all his baptiles people. The Brittille priests nor their doctrine The Size the Saxons could in nowice abide; bicause (as is hattelion funnosed) the one nation through a naturall has the but tred, Mill fought the deliruition of the other.

Suffex and the Christian

Elelfred his displeasure.

The South and east Saxons moued with Effex receyue the ensample of the Bentith Sarons, thoutly after also renounced they? olde superstitious idola= trie and likewise recepued the Christian faith.

Edelfred king of Porthumberlande moued buto displeasure herewith, sente word buto these 40 of the diocele, who was come thether the same Sarons of the fouth partes (as then all of them generally knowen by the name of Englishmen) that fithe they had forfaken the olde institutions and auncient religion of they, forefathers, hee Swoulde furely froisi thence fouth be no lette entmit boto them than boto the Stottes and Bigtons.

There lived in these dayes that holy man Malbed a Scottiffic man borne, but dwelling dofter of the right faith, and therefore was named the doctor of the Hides. He departed out of this life within the Tland called the Balle, loing about if miles offfront the maine land within the lea where the Forth bath the entry betwirt the same Ile, and an other called the May. There were three paridies fell at contention for the buriall of his bo-Die, as Aloham, Tynningain, & Pielton, lo faire forth, that they were at point to have fought a= bout it, but that by councell of some viscoute perfons amongst them, it was orderned that they Mould continue in praper for that night, figthe next morning flande to the order of the Billion time to be prefent at the buriall. The next way in the morning there was found. it beeres with it be use. bodies occeed with clothes, to like in all resemblance that no man might percepte any difference. Then by comaundemet of the bithop and with great toy of all the people, the fappe les uerall bodies were caried scuerally buts the field three scucrall Churches, and in the same burgo in most e solemne wife, where they compare the Baldred, the amongst the Pistes, whom he instructed in the 50 to this var, in muche honour with the company people of the countreys neare adiogning adigu If fer that the corps of king Ayoun was but Kene Aried in Colmekill, the nobles of ise realing thus affembled togither in Argyle, aboutette diffin of a neme king. Where by the general hours Keyr of the al. Kenethus Kept the Course of Compalle Locate (Cometinie king of the Scottil) men as before & consti mencioned) was nowe proclaymen with and of Source ecounted according to the maner: but hee lived nor patting my. moneths after, but died of a cathankerewine falling volume into the artery called Cracken, and to fropped his lungs. He deli= unted as it were the possession of his kinadome. to war of furrenozing the fame into the handes of Engenius sonne to king Apdan, by consent of cil the nobies, a litle befoze he died, for that it was knowen be had a right therebuto after the deceale of Kenethus.

This Eugenius was the fourth of that name, whiche had ruled ouer the Scottill men. Is it is lavde S. Colme prophecied that hee flould be king Along befoze his fathers Death: for when all the connes of king Appan 20 were brought before tantand that appear demaunded of him whiche of them floulde repane after him, hee ouerpals fing the relidue (whiche he biderstwoe by fecrete knowledge should die in the warres) appophted fwith this Eugenius, called by fome also Bzudus, declaring that it Moulo be oncly here it in it.

This Eugenius then beyng placed inithe kingly feat, forgot not fuch wholsome lessons & had taught him in his youth, so that studying how to defende rather that which was his owne in peace and quietneffe, than to feeke any wayes of meanes howe to enlarge it, by wrongfull encrocking won other mens possessions, he grewe mio such fauour with all good menne, as greater could not be denifed. Cinto offendors be was a Marpe Jufficier, not sparing any transgressouix of his lawes, neyther in respect of noviline or othothefelues in breache of goo orders, he chiefly gaue ogder to fee them punished: where if they behaused themselves worthily, and according to there calling; there was no prince more gladde than he to aduaunce them onto honour.

By these and the like his mincely doings, he vas both beloued of his people and also ozed. De nother favoured the Picks not Sarons of Poz= thumberland, for that the one nation being Ethccalled not by all maner of meanes to supporte them, but pet taking a truce with them bothe, he. family caused the same to be observed.

In the .r. pears of his repane Cinigell king of Cliffcarons and Evelfred king of Porthumbelinds with appe of the Pictes, panquilled Camallo king of Baptons, and chaled him into Ecotlad, where he remained not long, layling from thence into Baytain in Fraunce, & purchafing ande of the king there named Cavoal, retur ned into delales, where vanquilling his enimies Cadwalle is re the Sarens, t fleaing many thousands of them, his kingdome he was reflozed againe buto his kingbome.

Aboute the fame time was Edelfred king of See more Potthumberland flaine in battell, at a place cal- gland. led delintringham, not far from the river of huber, by Redwald & Ethelbzeth, the one being king Edel-10 of the cast Angles, & the other of the middle An = tred flaine. ales, in revenue of luche injuries as the same E= beitred had done buto the Sarons of the courter called Mertia, conterning as in the English his Storie more plainly may appeare al those stricts from the river of Thames buto the river of Mersce in Lancassyze. Then was one Edwine & Edwyns. right Christian prince, appoputed to repancin his place, by the affigurement of the two foreland kings Redwald and Ethelbzeth.

dolhilest these things were a doing, there were feuen sonnes of the foresayor Coelfred, that De= telling the vntrue dealing of the Pilles, whiche refused to ande their father in his necessitie, and doubting to fall into the handes of Edwin. got them onto Eugenius the Scottiffe king for moze furctie of they? lines. They? names were Eufreid, Diwaio, Dilaws, Dimpne. Offas, Olmod, & Dlyk. Ebba the only daughter of Evelfred benna taken amonalt other pryvertuous precepts, as the forefayd Saint Colme 30 toners, and escaping from hir taker, miraculously got a boate in the river of Humber, and with the same taking the sea alone, without all humane helpe, (as bath bene reported ! the Capled forth, and at length lafely arrived at the pount of lande which Aretcheth fouth into the fea in the mouth of the forth, called euf onto this day afterhyz name, Saint Ebbes head, where being S. Ebbas kead. recepted by the Bishop of that vioceste. thee was professed a Ponne, and after continuong in tharwise, but rather those gentlemen which mil- 40 greate perfednelle of observing that profession, the was inflituted Abbelle of the house, thews ing fill in trade of lyfe an operty enfample for hpz flocke to followe.

Eugenius the Scottiff king did louingly recepue the comes of Evelfred, though their father had euer bene a cruell enimie against the Scottiff nation: and within a while after they? comming into Scotlad, hearing oftetimes the goody fermons and preachings of the Bishoppes and nikes perfiffed in their infidelitie, and the other 50 Monkes (who in those dayes continually gaile) themselnes onto that exercise they finally abhorred they? superflictions idolatrie, and recepued baptilme, that falutiferous ligne and factamet of our christian religio. Those churches also which the Saros in time of p warres had overtheone & dellroyed in Galoway & other courters thereabouts, Eugenius cauled to be tepaired: moreoucealso he reedified fundly castels in those marches, and placed in them garifons of fouldiers, to defend them against all invasions that might hap-

Bonisacius a

Thus continuong his reigne the space of.xv. reares or there aboutes in honorable peace, to the oreat advancement of the common wealth of his subjects, he lastly died in the yeare. 620. and was buried amongst his cloers in the Isle of Jona, within the monalterie of Colmekill.

fliop Bonifatius Quirinus, came forth of Itagodly preacher ly into Scotlande, to instruct the people in the faith of Chailt there. Wilhether he were Pope & religning up the papalitic came thus into Scot= land as some have supposed or whether he was fent from the Pope called Bonifacius that fuc= cccocd Saumianus, it is not certainly knowen: but certaine it is, as the Scottifte writers affirme, that open his first comming into Scot= land he arrived in the water of Tape, comming 20 a lande at the mouth of a little river, whiche divioeth the countrey of Gowie from Angus.

his name is yet famous amongst the Scottes cuen buto this day: for that he travailed through the most parte of the lande, in preaching and in= Arusting the people to they confirmation in the faith, and creding divers Churches in the honoz of almightie God, whiche hee vedicated to the name of S. Peter. And amongst other he buplt one at the place where he came a lande, an other at a village called Tullyne, not passing three miyles from Dundee, & the third at Restennoth, 50 fame was quiet inough without troube de out inhere afterwardes an house of Chanous of ... Augustines order was buyloed. At length bee came into Rolle, continueng there the relique of his life, and is buried at Rollemarken.

There was also the same time amongst the Scottes an auncient godly man named Wo= lock, who following suche rules and dourne as in his routh he had learned of Brandon that re-nerend Abbotte, he ceaffed not to exhort the peathe of Mar and Arryle (in whiche countreps he was most resident) to flee and forsake their vici- Mooker ous living, and to endeviour themselves to im- preachers in those digar brace vertue to the confort and health of thepr foulcs.

This Molock kept continual companie with the forenance Bonifacius after his comming into Scotland: and finally died also in Roffe. About this time that renerend father and Bi= 10 being about. 94. yeares of age, and was buried in the church where Bonifacius lieth, though then of Araple lay that his relikes refle amonast the in the Thurche of Lyunoze, whiche is pedicated to his name.

After the decease of Fergu Ferguhard succeeded in hard. his place, for Eugening had three sonnes, fer=Ferqubut quhard, fiacre, and kingoisses Donnewald. Thefe being appointed by there father to be brought by with Connane Billiop of Sovore (that is the Billion of Man in vertuous discipline, vio not altogither follow his godly precepts and lesions.

Ferguhard and Donald gladly gave eare to him, but they thought his instructions did not much appertagne buto they? birth and degree, but fiacre printing his divine documets deevely in his harte, oftermined to forlake all worldly pompe and dignitie, and to get him some whis ther farre from home, where he might ferue God inozefreely without lette oz interruption ofhis frendes or kinffolke.

Thus being vilpoled, he got boon him fine finnete ple apparell, and went over into fraunce, where live a be facking a Colitarie place, Pharo the billioppe of life in fai Meaux gaue bnto him a peece of ground, in the whiche at this day he is worthipped with great deuotion.

There hath gone a tale in that countrey, that no woman might enter into the Chapell where he lieth buried : for if any bo, the bath tome in-Way that falleth unto byz, as exther the lotte of light, prination of wittes, or tome wich inc.

As touching the Cate of the Scottill comos wealth under the gotternment of Femiliary, the ward entmics, but his lubicites among thems felius fell at fuch division, that every parte of the realme was full of murder, beenning, and other destructions of men and houses, with such work ling, robbing, reuing, and al kindes of other mil chiefes, that no where was any fuertie collect life or godes: All the which misorders sprong. were nourillied and maynteyned through the s mas owne negligence, for he mistaking his ofhere and outsite, was of this opinion, that fo long es the nobles and effaces of his realing were thus ready one to kil an other, there was no likely hod ther fronte baue tyme to practife any rebellion anunite hun, and beredpon he rather holpe to further fuch discoede amongst them, than twke eien for to appeale it . But it came to palle by this means, is he was nothing regarded within awhile amongst them, so that by meanes of 0= 10 buderstande, if it were true of not whiche was ther arbitratours whiche they chose by common ameement, all matters in controucclies were taten by and ended betwirte them, the kying not once made primie thervuto.

The Historie of Scotlande.

the fame tyme it was noyled abrode in the realme, that Ferguhard, beside other his wicked behaviours, was also infested with the erroncous opinions of the Welagian herefie. Talhich fufuition was the more encreased, for that he vied to have funden Britisse priestes in his companie: the whiche nation had bene ener noted with the fpot of that dammable infection. The nobilitie of immoned by the realine moved herewith fumoned him by an an herauld. beralde to come to a councel which they had an He is taken pointed to hold of al y estates, b they might there prisoner. commonly reported of him. But hee refusing to come at fuche fummonance, they affemble toni= ther, a believe him in the castell wherein he had enclosed himself, and winning the place, not him into their handes, * immediatly theroppon they committed him buto lafe keping.

This done, they consulte together for the ad= munitration of the realme, whether they Moulo quite depose Ferquiard, or restore him again to his place. In p end they rell byon this agreemet to lende an honourable ambassade into Fraunce buso fracte, to require him to returne home into his countrey, and there to recepue the governament of the realme.

Fiarre as the report goth) hearing that there were diners of the Scottish novilitie coming to= 40 wardes him bypon this mellage, in his prayers Defired feruently of almightie God, that it might please him so to worke for him, that hee mighte continue in his contemplative lyfe still, and not be occasioned to resort unto the troubles of the world, which all contemplatine gooly me ought to abhorre. And enemas he had willed it came to palle. For when those that wer sent but bint came unto the hermitage wherin he had his lodging they found him (as appeared but o them) fo 50 tilligisco with the leptie, that boon his earnest refusal to forsake his solitarie lyfe, (which he had professed to leade as an Ankre) for any worldely prefermente of kingly government, they were content to returne with that answer, lith his in= firmitie (as they supposed) was such, as was not convenient for him that shuld have any publike covernement.

This fracte had a filler named Syra, which hearing of his brothers becomes trade of lyfe.

Melock a preacher.

cante buto him with a company of godly bir= gines, & being of him confyrmed in hir purpoled intet of chastitie, the repayerd into Champaigne in fraunce, where the with hir fellowes remap= neom greateholynesse of life, leaving in those parties a worthy memorie not forgotte amogst them there, till this day.

The forelapte Amballadours returning forth of Fraunce, declared in what plight of defor= mitte they had feene Fiacre, and howe earnestly 10 graunted, Eufred leaving his beetheen still in he had refused the offer which they had made on= to bim in name of all the flates of scotlande.

The Scottilly nobilitic herebpon allembling togither, chose fweth.iii. of y auncientest peeres amoult them to have the rule and government of the kingdome, till it were otherwise prouided. These were named by that age, Wardens, and had full authoritie to order things as feemed them aced in all poyntes.

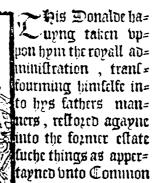

still in prison and vered with fundry diseases, to ridde himselfe out of such mileries, siew him selfe in the. riti. years of his raigne: and so nothing spared his owne life in the end, which had bin the occasio of the losse of so many other mes lines in time of v civil discord, that hee had ever nozissed.

After this weetched end of Ferguhard whiche happened in the years of our Lozd. 632. the Lozds of the land affembled togither in Argile, about b fent, Donwald the third some of Eugenius, be= yng called thither with Bythop Connan out of the ple of Dan, was muelted King with greate ioy and triumph.

Donald king of Scot-

ende of king

Ferquhard.

wealth, and had bin in any wife decayed & miscouerned by the slouthfull negligence of his predecessor Ferguhard, by meanes whereof he quickly grew into great fanour of his lubicites.

Birtons, and Penda king of those Englishmen which inhabited that part of England auncient= ly called Mertia, iogning their powers togither against Edwine king of Porthumberland, De= prince him both of life and kingdome.

After this, palling through & whole countrey, and entring into the confines of Pidland, they toke a great part of the same by force of armes from Baudeus king of the Pickes, who in baine had fued for ayde buto Donwald king of Scotland, for that his untroth had bin notifyed more than prough in times palt. But Donwald heing certified of Edwines death, made meanes buto Cadwallo king of the Baytannes by hys Amballadors, that Eufred y fonne of Edelfred might be restozed buto his fathers kingdor, whithe Cowin had wrongfully vsurped. This being Scotland, came into Porthumberland, wher ho authoritie of Cadwallo and Penda he masinuelted king of Beruitia, that is, of the countrey, which is nowe called the Warches. For at the same tyme they hadde denided the kingdome of Porthumberland into. ij. kingdomes, appopn= Eufred. ting Eufrede 'as is layde) to reigne ouer the one called Bernitia, and one Dirpke ouer the other called Deira, a man of great wickeonelle, as by In the means time Ferquhard remayning 20 his workes most playing appeared. For certain yeares after his aduancement to that dignitie, he Ofricken found meanes to marie one of his daughters bn= to the forelaid Eufred, perfuading the same Eufred to consente with him in restozing again the heathenish religion throughoute their whole dominions, and offerly to renounce the christian faith, which they had lately before received by $ instructios of the.ij.bishops Conane & Pauline. But they enioped not log in felicity after to wic= chosing of a new King, where by common co = 30 ked a most divelish a purpose: for the Princes of Albion, under the leading of Caduallo king of p Bittons, and Penda king of Mertia, with a great armie allembled of Sarons, Bzitons, and Pictes, entring into Porthumberland, and encountring in battaile with Dlrike & Eufred, Dilcomfitted their power, toke the piloners, who being put into a comon pailon, flewe eche other to anoyo Charper fortures, which by due executio they dayly loked for. Then was the kingdom of to hys fathers man= 40 Porthumberland given unto Demaide brother to Eufred, both in respect of the right whiche he had therto, and also of the zeale whiche he bare to the advancement of Christes religion, thewing him felf in consideration therof, an earnest enimy to his brother Eufred, and al his partakers, in to much that in the day of the battaile, he was one of the forwardelt captaines against them: wito this Olwalor was fente a Scottiffman called Corman, to instruct the Porthumbeiland men In the meane time Cadwallo King of the 50 in the faith, after him Aydan, as in the englithe hillogic pe may reade mote at large: finally be was flam by Proa king of Mertia, as in glame hillbrie appereth. Dis beath thanced in gini 12 HB yerr of Donnewald the Scottill king, who lot lamented the fame, as of that prince who is to ued right entierly. Reither lyned king Donnes walde anye long tyme after the beathe of he beare freende. For that in the fifteenth peare of

of his reigne, being got into a boate to fish in the water called Lochtay for his recreatio, his chace was to be drowned, by reson the boate swink bn= or him. Certain days after, his body being fond and take by, was buried amongst his auncetoes in Colored to the in Colmekil in the yeare of our Lozde. 647.

About the fame time ther lived in France.iij. betheen of greate holinelle of life, being sonnes buto Philtan king of Ireland, the which he beact of his wrfe Balghetes, bescended of the ly= 10 he could better be contented to want himself. tha nage of the kings in Scotlande. The names of which.iij.brethren were as followeth, furfeus. follanus, and Elltanus. Furleus profetting him felf a monke of 3. Benets order, palled ouer into Fraunce, there to let forth & enlarge that plofession a being recepted of king Clowys began the fundation of a monasterie there called Lati= nic, in the which he placed Monkes of that order and began to some in those parties the secoes of traditions, as Jo. Bale lapth in the. riiij. centu= ric of the Brittilh writers. His two brethren foillan & Alltan folowed him ouer into France, and both by worde and example inflrusted the frenchme to imbrace the faith of Christ, to renounce & religion of the Bentils: lo b it leemeth as pet, such as professed themselves to be monks, e men of religio (as they were called) had not left of to labor in the Lords binepard, spending their others, and to exercise Braper and thankeldis uing: So as no fmall number by their wholfome 200 854. doctrine and god example, were converted to the chailtian faith. Foillan at length was martimo- moin a monasterie whiche he hande founded in France called foffe.

Ibout the same tyme there was also a contes tion amongst them in Albion for keeping of the Easter day, the Scottiffe brillops & some of the ther prelates of the Wiell: but at length through persivation of the Pone they confessed their er-101 (if it ought to to be taken) and colented to ce= lebrate that feast according to the accompt of o's ther nations. These things chaunced in the days of king Donwald.

Ifter the decelle of Doniwalde, his nephewe Ferquhard the sonne of his brother, the other frequbard, succeeded in gouernemente of the Realme, a man of quicke & lively fpirit, but en- 50 clined neuerthelesse rather buto cuill than buto god, specially after he had attented the crowne, in somuch as it was commonly spoken of him, that from a liberal and most gentle humane perfon he was fodenly changed into an inlatiable most cruell montter. Befoze he came to p crown he was liberall beyonde measure. There was no gintleman gwanted money, exther to rederme his lands engaged, or to bellow in dower for the mariage of his daughter, but if he had whrrwith to helpe him, hee might accompte him selse sure thereof.

Pzicks and other devoute persons, specially fuch as were pope and in any necessitie, he oftentimes mold bountifully relected to their circate eale and comfort. To be briefe, suche a readinesse was in him to help al me, that (as was thought) to lcc other men have neede of any thing p was in his pollection, to that al men indoed him most worthy of all princely authoritie. But after he was once placed in the kingly leate, he so altered his conditions, that men coulde not but wonder muche therat. Where, befoze he was knowne to be liberal, wel disposed, righteous, sober, and a reformer of offeces, he was now forthwith become conctous, wicked towards god, a tormentor of the Cospel, but not without the barnell of mens 20 the just exighteous people, and insatiable in all bulanful affections. That which befoze time he had given buto any of y nobilitie, he now with guired as a out al frame most uncurteously demaunded to loan, be to him restozed, alledging that he did but lend it for the time. And such as went about to delay restitution preteding any excuse, he caused their Loe, what a godes to be confilente, and allo their bodies to couloes haghi be connitted to prilon: Pow and then he found meanes without cause or matter to put some of tyme in reading the Ceriptures, to intruit & teach 30 them to cruel beath. Suche of the Prelates as For their good he binderstode to be wealthy, he rested not till he des sake prehad piked one mater or other buto them, wherby bled. they were fure to forfaite all their treasure buto his coffers, that never myoth be filled.

The billiops of the realme, namely thole two The kyng is reuerend fathers, Colman & Lynnan, perceyuing nicated. fuch wickednes in the prince, blamed him Charply funday times for the fame: at length bicaule they law howe he regarded not their admonish-Biptons varying in their account from all 0= 40 ments, he was by them excomunicate: whereof he so little passed, that when other wente but's The king is the church to heare diuine feruice, he woulde get hunting. him to the wodes a forcells to hunt the harte, or some other game. Peither were luche wanting as were willing to keepe him companie: fo redy Hewas a glusis the nature of man at all tymes to follow lices con: tions libertie. He bled allo, contrary to the cu-Stome of his countrep, to cate. iii. meales a day, having such number of diffes and abundance of delicate fare, as the like had not bene vice at any tyme before those paper in that realine: and all to letuchis greedy appetit, together with theyes that followed his companie.

Df wines and other frong deinkes he would participate abundantly at all times and places A drinckard without regard of health or honor, being erree he was also: dingly given buto molte beatily dunkennelle. He cultomaryly vied to fit at supper till it were D.ii.

King Edwyn

very late in the night, having his banketting dithes and cuppes to come in one after an other, till he were so mistempered, that being lande to Acene he would Arenght bomite out such heavy gozges as be had in luche most gluttenous wife received. Herebuto he was so drouned in the filthic lust of the fleshe, that hee defiled his owne boughters: and for that his wife was aboute to vilwade him from such vilanie, he slew hyz with pursuite of the houndes, slewe backe bypon the his owne handes.

A prophecie.

The king being excomu-

Thus continuing in his wickednesse certain peares, at length the nobles began to conspice a= gainst him, so that they wold have beuised mean 30 thyly fallen voon him for his sins, and therepon howe to have no him out of the wave, it bishop

Colman had not forbidden them that mairie prophelying as it wer by dinine inspiration, that Ferguhard fore detelling his owne wicked doings, should stortely be punished by the hannes of Almightie God, according to his defernings.

And fure his wordes proved true: for within Theking a moneth after, as the same ferquhan followen is licke in chase of a wolfe, the beatte beeing enraged by king, and inatching at him, did woundes byte him righte soze in one of his lides, immediately wherebyon, whether thozough anguishe of his hurt, or by some other occasion, he fel into a most filthic disease: for a venemous humoure with a fost consuming heate, vid so eate and waste hys membres and limmes, that a lothesome sighte it was to beholde the same: for out of his legges. feete and prinie partes, there illued filthie corruption and matter, with so vile a sauour, that onneth myght any creature abide it. his belly was swollen as though hee had ben inteded with the drouly, atherto was it verie hard withal. Finally lyce beed to abundantly in his fecrete partes that he might in no wisc be vid or clensed of them.

At length when he had ben vered in this fost He fentferid for the space of two yeares togither, or thereas conteller. boutes, he began to call himself to renumbrace, and to confider how this punifiment was worcaufing biftop Colman to be fetched botto bins, being as then about. rr. mples off, be confessed into him the whole lumme of his offences, de= claring himselfe right penitent for the same.

Colman rejoycing herat, did not only releafe him of y lentence of excomunication, pronouced metel, is re- against him, but also willed him to be of god co fort, to put his confidece in finercy of almigh= tie god, who was ready to receive al fuch linners as furned onto him with repentat harts: fo that being put in hope by thele & y like words of Col= man to have forgivenelle of his linues, with bit ter teares, he belought God to haue niercie won him: + humbly receiving the facrament, got him into limple clothing of heare & fackclothe. Then cauling himself to be boin into p nert fieldes, he Fergoland there yelded by the ghost in pyresence of Colma yelded? who according to the dutie of a good ghally ta- the ghole. ther, was flil about him, in exhorting him to comit himself wholy to the mercy of God, e not to boubt but he Choulde be sure to attagne the same.

Thus Ferguhard ended his life in the. rouj. reare, after he began his reigne oner the scottilly men, and in the yeare; of grace. 664.

In this Fer= gubardes daies Billion Aydan devarted this morlde, & then was Fonnan of Scotland to take bypon him the governmét of the Churche of Lyndefern.

where the Bishops of Porthumberland as then had they fee. This forman was well learned, and no lesse renowmed for his vertuous lyfe than his predecessour Apoan. He died anone atman remoued buto that fee of Lyndefern, who with his vertuous instructions and ensamples of holy life converted a great multitude of Sarons buto the true worthipping of the lining God. And amongst other was Penda sonne to the former Denda, king of Mertia.

There be that wayte how Penda the father also was bautifed by this Colman: and that the fanc Colman tranapled through the most parte worde of life amoust the people, purchasing him greate fame for his worthie merites. He came to the church of Lyndefern in & daies of Waldwyn that succeeded the last mencioned Ferquharde.

This Maldwyne was the sonne of king Ponewalde: and after that Ferguharde was dead and buried in uested kina: which fun= ation he right sufficiét= ly discharged, studying ld to mayntayne peace with his neighbors the Pits, Sarons, and Beptayns: giving thereby a god ensample to be followed of his subjectes. Dereto he had a speciall care for the administration of the lawes in due forme and order causing persons mighte line in quiet, so that by this meanes all things in the beginning of his reigne had prosperous successe.

Afterwardes there fell no small discorde be= twirt them of Lennox & Argile: foz. fielt through trauling amongst the heardes men, theye mafire made a fray, whereof role fuche deadly e= numitic between the parties, by reason that the inhabitantes of the Wiellerne Illes apped them The westerne of Argyle, and the people of Galoway the other with Argyle.

of Lennor: that if the king had not come into Galoway with those parties to apeale the bulinesse, and to have Lennox. munified the offendors, there had ensued muthe manslaughter, to the greate daunger of the btter rupns of those countreps.

The king at his arrinal amongstrathens, Maldwyne minded not to pursue the people that followed wer about for Cente foz, fweth to theye Captaines, but rather the Captaines and to punishe the Authours of this tunuite themselves. Allheret commotion. of they having knowledge made an attornment togither being enforced thereto of necellitie foto The Captaines augyde the prepared punishment diniled by the became frends king against them. And forthwith they fled ouer fled into the into the Alex, but the inhabitants boubting the Isles. kings displeasure, would not consent to succour them, but contrarywise twee them and delive apprehend the red them to the kings officers, wherebyon they Captaines of ter the decease of Ferquhard, & then was Col- 20 were safely conveyed to the places where they the rebelles. were borne, and there suffered their deserved exc= cution. Thus that commotion bnaduiledly he= conne, was weedily appealed, and the name of Maldwyn by reason hereofso feared amongst his subjectes, that during his reigne no suche trouble chaunced in any parte of all his domi-

After this he went over into Jona of Colme = He buyldeth kill, where percepuing the Abbey Church, where the churche of the abbay of of all the Englishe provinces setting forth the 30 in his auncettors had theyr sepultures to be in Colmekill, decay, he caused it to be pulled quite bowne, and mozkemen forth with let in hande to buyloe it by agapte, at his otone proper colles and char= nes. Suche weede allo was bled aboute this worke, that before he departed out of this life, the fame was finished and dedicated buto our Sa= uiour Christ, and Saint Colme.

Aboute the same time there reigned through A freat pestiout the most part of the world a soze & grieugus lence do death Colmekill, he was in= 40 pellilence consuming a greater number of men, (before it reasted) then were left aline: for it continued the whole wace of three yeares togither. It length through comon praper, fallings, giving of almes, and other vertuous workes, the wrath of almightie God was pacified, so that suche great mortalitie by his mercyfull appointment did stay and give over.

The Scottiff men were free from that title Scotland was frion afwel at that time, as also for many yeares free of the peoffendors to be punished, that other harmelelle 50 after. Petther were they in maner troubled with plague. any tharpe feners, or agues, till time that billt's ting the auncient and wholesome spacenesse of diet, which they? fathers in times pall had bled; Riorouspelle they fell into riotous banquetting and excellent ficknesses. feeding, whereby they became thiblest unto all kindes of diseases, through malicious bumbis growing therebyon!

Colman billion of Lynoeler leing wounderful numbers of Englishmen, perish dayly of that contagious licknesse, by licence of the king, to a= norde the present daunger of death, which by ta= rying there he law no meanes how to escape, he returned into Scotland with his disciples, and after nettinghim over into one of the Welfterne Colman ere- Alles, he erected a monasterie there, wherin he rected a mona- mapned during the restoue of his life.

After the Departure of Colman forth of Pot= thumberland, the people of that courter jorning with the Pictes, made funder roades into the Scottish bordures: whiche injurie when Malo-wone reuenged with mote displeature done to them of Porthumberland, than the Scottiffme had received, if canled the Pills & Porthumbers to prepare themselves with all sprede to have made flarpe warres against the Scottes:but in the meane time Malbroyne vied, being fragled Maldry in his bedde one night by his owne wife, bon Scouth in fulnition of relamife for his hold wife, announced a fuspition of gelowlie; toz his bulatuful company his bed keving with an other woman. The next day afo ter the was apprehended with those that were viuv to the deede, and beent opely boon an bill according as fire had most justly beferved.

Maldwyne was thus murthered in the yeare after the birthe of our Saujour. 684. and in the rr. yeare of his owne reigne.

Euge_ nius.

Eugenius the

Egfred king of Northumber-

Siffter him succee= ord Eugenius the fifth of that name, Dephew to Waldwine, as sonne to his brother lame time Eugenius king of Scots let with Val diligence his ambal= sadours bnto Egfred

king of Porthumber= land, to moue him buto peace. Egfred hauing heard the ambassadours which were thus sente. fapned as though hee had bene willing to have had peace, where he minded nothing moze than to have warres with the Scottes, to some as his 50 truce was graunted, had simple tymes terbed prouision stoulde be once readie, and herebyon A truce grau- graunted to them a truce for the space of.rj.mo= neths, in which means time he might make his preparation.

Eugenius having some secrete knowledge of Eafredes purpole, provided likewile for the warres on his parte: but for that hee would not comandemer. feeme to grue the occasion, hee straytely commaunded that none of his indicites thould be fo hardie as to attempt any thing founding to the breache of the truce.

In the tenth moneth Egfred having all his preparation readie, sente a companie of his men of warre into the Scottishe bozoures to setche Themas some botie, whereby the peace might be broken. hoken. Those that were thus sent fetched not only from Dongard. Aboute the 40 thence a great number of cattell, but also lewe divers of the bozdurers that wet about to releve theve beaftes and cattell.

Immediatly herebpon were there leite am- Ambifision balladours from Eugenius to bemaund relicins four von L tion : but they not without muche abo, after ter fred for teri taine dayes attendaunce, got audience, and bolo- rution. ly declaring unto Eafred they mellage, receys ued for answeare a playrie publication of water. Foz he allenging how the Scottes, litheine the boties out of the confines of his dominant, and therefoze hav well belerned faire more bomage than as yet they had recepted, whereuppon her minded not to continue frendllippe with them that knowe not how to keepe they hands from robbing and stealing from they? neighbours: So that he commaunded them to beclare buto they? king, that within eight dayes after, bee and other his alics. Eugenius recepuing this antwere from Eafred, belonght of God, lith the other onely lought to violate the peace, that the vengeance mighte light upon his owne head, that had thus given the occasion.

thould loke for open warre at the handes of him

Herewith gathering his power togither, her geoms at renapzed into Galloway, into the whiche he had knowledge that his enimies would firsteenter. 10 land was not onely soze diminished, but also of But befoze hee could get thyther, a great armie of Englishe men, were come already into that es casell of countrey, and had asseged a strong castell called De eineil of Downske, the chiefest fortresse in those daves of all Galloway. And ere Egfred might winne the fame, hee was constrayned to rayle his siege. and to marche fouth to encounter with Eugenius who hasted fast towards him. They mette neare to the bankes of the water of Lewyle, as then beyong very veepe, by reason it was rapled 20 not able to resist an inuation, he entred with his mith abundaunce of rayne whiche lately before had fallen, where they fought a right loze and bloudic battaple: for the Scottes had bouned never to grue grounde to the enimies, so long as any life remayned in they breffes

At the fielte there was no greate aduauntage percepued on epther live the kings, according to the dueties of valiant Captaines, exhoiting their people to flicke to it manfully : but in the meane time certaine bandes of Egfredes parte 30 chaunced to fal at variance amongst themselves getting themselves to the side of an hill, gave the loking on without comming downe at all to ards they a frendes: whiche manter the relique of his prople percepuing, doubted of some treason demiced against them, and therebyon began to

Winke backe.

Egfred aduised thereof, came amongst the foremost rankes of his bataple, desiring the Englishmen in no wife to give place to thepre etiz mics : and for that dayes feruice bee probiled 40 thepr former forces again of many plant after them highe rewardes, and all the pleasure that afterwarde hee might be any wayes forth able to thew them.

But whilest he was thus bussile accupied in comforting & exhorting his men to fight fronts ly, he himself chaunced to be wounded in the face with an arrow, so soze, that immediatly he fell

En- Downe and died in the place.

The English me discouraged with this mile chance, were quickly theropo put to flight & chas so by pertwalion of Bithop Avaiman with whom Englants the fed, a great nüber of the twike fremer le to escape the enimies hands, of whom the more part being preffed downe by weight of they? armure, were browned in the raging waves of the floude, the relidue by calling from them they? armures and clothes, escaped by Comming over to the other fide, but those that made they? course by lande, being cumbred in myzes and molles, also amonalt fraytes, rockes, mountains and cliefts. were overtaken by the Scottes and flavne. Fe'm of that number escaped away in safetic, so that there died in the fight and chase at the popul of twentie thousand Barons with they? king the Twetie thous fozelayt Egfred: of the Scottes were flaine, he- fande Saxons fide those that were burt and wonded, not many flaine. about by By this ourthrows the force of thole Sarons of English men of Porthumberfuch other Sarons, the which in no small numbers were come unto Egfred to avoc him & gainst the Scottes in that tourner. Brudeus the pittithe king having know = Brudeus king thing logie, as one that was frende to neither whole power, which he had rapled, into Deca thumberland, fore afflicting the inhabitants in so much that he had bindoubtedly either fuhoner that countrey wholly but his dominion, eviden fent desolation. For at length after the Wifes had raged a while through the countrep, then bout Barwike, aunciently called Deers, out of the whiche they expelled the Sarons, they ab-stepned from all the relidue, as not willing to beale withall. Peither were the Saros of 1202=

thuberland being thus fromiger, able to becouer ledge of this flaughter, whiche had thaunced het of the Pictes. twirt the English men and Scottes, mas me parte, and now perceyuing that the Poithun- Industron into berland men were so weakened, that they were land.

els otterly destroyed it, had not the demont praps ers of Saint Cutbert (who as then held the fee Cutberte biof Lyndefar) preserved the people from that ine-for parting of the spoyle, and buckling togither A staughter so bythe eares, there was an huge staughter made madest the amongst them. And this was the cause, that Picts. contenting themselves with those counsters a= here is to be noted that where as beacestiffs writers afcribe the victorie of that battell wheth Egfred flation Egfred was Claine, bifto their Ring Guigeltius, by Pice and Beda which then liued, declareth that the Bid's were those that fought with him and slow him. Eugenius the Finally, Currenius departed this life in the till. As died. pere of his reigne, and after the incarnation. 688. 2688.

After Eugenius fie. b. futreebed Eugettins the. vi. who was the some of Ferguhard, and Rugenius the he was brought bp) and of 3. Cutherf hee m- sech.

tred into league with the Porthumberland me: but he would at no hande topne in amitte with tweene the the Pictes, notwithstanding hee was contented Scots & Not-to take truce with them. But when her saine thumberland the fame eftentimes by thein violated and broken, to the great perill, pomage & hinderace of his Truce taken Subicites, he cauled the warre to be proclaymed, with the Picts

Warre without any nors- people to a quietnelle) this warre continued ble encouter. Eugenius the incursions (wherein no great bloudshed chaun-

Wonderfull

697.

yeare of his owne reione. He was buried togither with the other Eugenius, that lastly reggned afore him, in the Fle of Colmekill, amonast they 2 predecessours.

and lent them his deliaunce by an Herald. How = beit through the earnest prayers (as is supposed) of the two billiops Euthert and Ivannan who had laboured carnellly to have brought those without any notable encoater, saue only by light

red) euch buto the death of Eugenius, whiche fell in the peare of our Lozo. 697. and in the.c.

Many wonderfull visions were seene that peare in Albion, as the Scottisse chronicles make mention . In the river of Humber there appeared in the fight of a great multitude of me, a number of thippes bover layle, as though they had bene furnished for the warres.

In the Churche at Camelon there was heard 20 a noyle, as it had bene the clattering of armure.

Milke was turned into bloud in divers places in Pictland, and theele conucrted into a bloudie masse or cake. Corne, as it was gathered in the harnest time appeared bloudie. In the furthers most partes of Scotland, it rapned blond.

:These sightes being feene of some & declared to other, caused a wonderfull scare in the peoples harts, imagining some great alteration to ensue.

Ambirkeleth. Ambirkeleth

fucceedeth Eugenius the Mohickeleth the 39 Pephew, 02 as some say, the son of Eugenins y fifth, lucceeded Eugenis us p firt in the no= uernment of the realme: who after his attaynyng to the crowne, though chaunged therwith his maners & good dispositio: for where before he thewer himselfe to be an earnest befendoz of the

Done a limple, that al men indged that he worth have proved a patrone of all bertue; he cotrary to p expectatio, becans logely a paterns of albites + The king courtoulnesse, deliting in nothing but in follows and from the valor ing his lenfuall luftes, as in taking ercelle of licenouls nicates and drinkes, and wallowing in fleshly concupiscence of lecherous lufte. Cober briefe when hee toke nothing in hande worthis of his estate and degree, it was thought that of necessi-10 tie the forme of the publike governement muste needes through his negligent, Couthfulnelle fall into decay and ruine: wherevon Garnaro king Garnard of the Piccs supposing hee had a connenient inuadeth time to revenge all former inimies recepued at land. the Scottiffe meunes handes, gathered a great holte of menne, and with the same entring into the Scottill confines, made right pitiful langhter of the inhabitants. At length Ambirkeleth (being foze blamet of his Dobles foz his negli- Ambirkele gubered gence in suffering his subiectes thus to be be- armie a Araved) grathered an armie togither, and with the Pidu no small feare to thewe his head amough his prople, cas those Drinces whiche through there owne defaulte have they? people in mistrusti do ener stand in poubt of their owne safeties, and namely when any prefent daunger beginneth to appeare) forth pet he gorth without any great good order (Bad wote) for what might be loked for at his handes, whiche was for our whelmed with all kind of treessine gluttonie, immoberate furfeting, in latiable licherie, and beliting altogis ther in flouthfull eafe, and fluggishe identife, the rote from whence al suche filthie vices take their Idelnesse beginnings, are nourished and maintepned? To breeder is nourished couclude, he lived as one that twke no maner of fensually regard to that whiche chiefly apperteened to his calling: whereby nowe when he shoulde come into the fielde, he was neither able through lacke of practile, to take paynes to fee things done as 40 was behouefull of himselfe, neyther pet to gine order to others, how the same ought to be done. Penertheles marching forward with his army, he came to the water of Tay, a neare to the bais therof, he pight bowne his tentes, where after he had supped, he was occasioned to go with a his looging to bo the necellities of nature, and being only accompanied with two of his fernance that were gromes of his chaber, he was county that thorow the hear with an arrow, but fit whinit it caine of who shotte it, there was neuriside knowen that could tel. Howbeit the king intuite The dead piatly died of the hurt, after he had repgred not fully.ij.peares. He was buried in Colmetil $ mongst his noble auncestours.

The Lordes & perces of the land 1-2t greatly Euge.

lamenting the death of suche a monitoris person bicause the army sor want of a great. nour flould not fall into any danger, they eletto

Engenius the leueth, being the brother of the late forciapde Inwirkelerh, to lieceede as King in the gouernment of the Realme, a Prince ofright comely post and personage, neyther destitute of honourable qualityes and good disposition of

Bring once proclaymed king, he cauled general muffers to be take of the whole armie, and percepuing by furney thereof, that he was not a ble to match with his enimpes, he founde mea= 10 nes to conclude a peace with the Pidishe king, plevges being velivered on epther live, for redrelle to be had of al wrongs and injuries that had bene committed betweet them.

The Pilitis returning home, and the Scottithe armie villolued, Eugenlus with the molle parte of the Pobilitie went into Argyle, where hee recepued hys inwesture of the Kingdome, litting uppor the flore of Marble, according to The king is the maner.

was the moze Arroaly conformed by meanes of aliaunce, Spontana the daughter of King Barnard bring coupled in mariage with Eugenius: flie in the peere following being great with child, mas murthered one night wothin the kings bed and the ade of the king himselfe, by two bres the of the courtry of Ithole, who moure to bilfreduce for their fathers beath, had conspired to Luther h king, thad flaine him in deede, had he hat through his good hap layne forth of his owne at the laine night. Eugenius being fulpedeb o. hmurther, tenit spoken off for y lame amogit the bond of peace become betwirt the kings 30 his subitors, was at length to great dauger of life The king is chonour, enforced to make animere by way of luspected of arrainmet for clearing of himself before & nobles of his Realine, appointed as competent Judges in that cace: So greatly beloued was Spontana amongst all the degrees of the Scottish nation. But in the eribe being found giltlelle of the crime (for at the time that judgement thould have pal= fed, the offenders were apprehended and brought in he was acquit, to the great reiopling of all hoo nell men. Those that had done the deede, were condenined and hanged by naked on cybbets by the heeles, togither with certaine ernell maltine The murthedogs the whiche might to benour them.

rers are han-

agood prince.

ftories to be

Witten.

But Eugenius being thus cleared of all fogmer suspiction, minded to haue bene reuenged on those p had fally accused him. Howbeit through An example of the godiy admonishments of that reverend father Anannan he qualified bis displeasure.

After this, giving his numbe to the advaunce= ment of Religion and polytike government of his subjectes, he orderned that the Hystories of hys auncestours shoulde be written in bokes and caufeth hisan- volumes, that polleritie might haue to reade the to fame for ensample sake. These monumentes he also appointed to bee kept and reserved in the Abbay of Jona, nowe called Colmckill, for a perpetuall memozie: and luche as shoulde write the same, to remaine and have tinings there in the Abber.

Mozcouer luche spirituall promotions as he percepued to bee to meane and dender for the maintenance of the minister that Gould serve the cure, be caused to be augmented in suche wife as was thought sufficient. Hee concluded a league with the Sarons and Pictes, and observed the Fugenius the, fame buring his lyfe, whiche hee ended at Abernethy, when he had raigned about. xbij. yeares, 40 apply themselues to the reading of holy Scripwhereof the last fell in the yeare after the incarna-716. H.B. tion of our Sautour. 717, indictione. 15.

Hyps death was greatly lamented, both of his Lordes and Commons, as they that intierly lourd him for his neble and motte princely quas litics.

1107ancke.

ieuenth de-

Pirtethout of Tordick lucedeth Euge pius the.vii.

Mittle before this veath, he bom bnto 9901= backe that luc= ceeded him.

This 9902: back was the nevheto of Euge= rins the vil. by his brother Ambirkelten : and quen as he was knowne to be of a gentle, meke, and liberal nature before his aduauncement to the crowne, fo her Weived himselfe to be the berie same man during the whole course of all his natural lyte, after her had atterned to the lame.

Aboue all things he wither a generall peace A louer of to continue amongelt all the Princes of Il- Peace. bion, and theremon for his part establishing a peace with the Dictes, Baptaynes, and all the English Tkings, hee firmely kept evene article therein contenned,

In those dayes (as Saint Bede doth telli- Peace the fle) foure severall people lived in peace and quiet, out althe nelle within the boundes of Albion, though diffe- of Albion ring in maners, language, lawes, and ordinanres: Sarons whom he called Churliff men. Britapnes, Scottes, and Pictes. His modes are thele: The Pation of the Piuts at this tyme is nic olde in league with the Englishe men, and gladly is 20 partaker of the buincefall peace and beritie with the Catholike Churche. Thole Scotter which inhabite Brytayne, contenting themsluss with their owne boundes, goe aboute to madile no deceytefull traynes, noz fraudulent denices agaynite the Englishe men. The Brytaynes, though for the moste parte through a familyar hatred doe imprignt the Englishe Pation, and the state of the whole Catholyke Church, po feruing not regitly the featt of Calter, belpbes other naughtie blages, yet both the dinine power and humane force otterly relylling them, they are not able in neyther behalfe to attayne to they 2 purpoled intentions. Is they which though partlye free, yet in some behalfe are thiall and mancipate to the lubicition of the Englith men: whiche Englishe men nowe in acceptable peace and quietnelle of tyme, many amongli them of Porthumberlande : as well of the Poblitte as other, laying away armour and weapon, ture, moze belirous to bee in houles of berinous convertation, than to exercise feates of warre. What will come thereof, the age that followeth thall percepue and beholde.

Willith thele wooders both Bede erwe his the 734 Mozie, continued tyll the yeare 734. In the Mordack stozie, continued tyll the yeare 734. In the Mordens whiche yeare Pozdacke the Scottiste king en fameyer. ded his lyfe.

betoke the pollel= He repayzed fundzie Churches and religious an eader from of his king= 50 houles, whiche being defaced with violence of the hydric enimies invallous in tyme of warre; had not beene reedified by hys auncelters. But amongit other, hee bestowed muche coste toppon the Churche where the bodie of Saint Pinian be Condid. eeth in the Towne aunciently called Candida nowecall Cala, and now Whitterne 02 Duitterne Saint Whiterne Bede calleth that place Picciminia, and the Bythoppe whiche at the same tyme heine the Shurch there, bee nameth Affa, anouthing how bewas the first that was Bishop thereof after the dayes of Saint Pinian. Whiche if it bee mue, it muste needes bee that afterwardes some paration happened in that Sea for a time, lith it is notified in the Scottiff hilfories that the weltellerne Fles, Galloway and other regions neare adjorning. were subject buto the Bishop of Sonog) whose Seais in the Ne of Wan) unto the ther than orderned the Billiops Sea in Candina Cafa againe, after suche vacation as befoze is specified. It now to return touching the gouernmét of the Scottiste kingdome, 3 the deceasse of Mozdack last remebred, his nevbewe na= med Ethfine, the some of the leventh Eugenius. fucceeded in the estate: a man naturally inclined buto peace and maintenance of inflice.

:1:0-

The league which his predecessours Euge= nius and Mozdacke had kept with thepz neighbours the Baptapnes, Englithmen and Pickes, 30 ... be duely lykewise observed.

Dischiefe Audie was to purge his realme of all fuch as were knowne to be open baretters and offenders in any wife, against the peace and che mon quiet of his subicits: so that causing sundue notable ensamples of instice to bee executed byon such emill doers, he was had in such fenerende decade amongst his subjects, that none of them durit once whilper any enill of him. Pep= ther had they berily any cause so to doe, whilest he 40 lwhed to the administration himselfe.

But after he was once fallen into ace, he appopuled foure Peeres of his realme to have the thirfe gouernaunce onder him : as Dowalde the Treasurer of Argyle, Collane of Athole, & Mozdacke of Galloway his Lieutenants, and Conrath the Thane of Murrey lande. These having the procuration of all things touching the gourmment of the Realme, view not themselnes so Done: but winked nowe and then at faultes and trespalles committed by their kinsfolkes and aires, permitting the nobilitie to line according to there olde accustomed maner of licencious liber= tic. to the small case or commoditie of the other inferiour estates.

Donalde of the Wielterne Mes, a man of godly personage, but of disposition inclyned to all naughtinesse, maintepned a great number of Donalde of Robbers and spoylers of the country, living on- teyneth robly byon rauine. For look what they wanted, they bers. woulde not fayle to catche it, if it were in anye place abrode where they might lay handes on it: to that al the hulbanomen and commons of Gal- The oppresloway, in which Countrey they most haunted, fion of the commons of were brought into wonderfull thraldome and Galloway. milerie. Perther did Mozdacke the kings Lieu-Daves of Dalcolnie the thirde, who restored ras to tenant there, goe about to chastice such insolent Mordacke the misoemeaners, eyther for that her was of Do= kings Lieutenaldes alvance, erther elle prince to his boings, with offenand partaker of the spoyle. The prople hereby ders. bered with continuall injuries, brought manye pitifull complayntes afore Mordacke, who no thing regarded their lamentable fuites and fupplications; but the moze they complayned, the worle were they hancled. Perther was there as ny hope of redicife or amendment, till Eugenius find that after 20 the. biij . was admitted to the kingly administration after the beath of king Ethfine, who in the latter ende of his dayes continually beeing licke and difealed, could not attende to take order for the publike government, by reason whereof The decease such wilfull misozders ensued. Hee doed in the of Ethfine. peare of our Lozde. 764. after he had continued 762. H.B. his raione over the Scottishmen the wace of rre yeares, his boole being buried in Colmekill with all funerall obsequies.

four, the forelapde Eu- nius. genius the buj. Eugenius the that was the vili.inuested some of King king of Scots. Mozdack, was inuested King in Araple with fuch pomp and ceremonies as in that cale appertenned, and immediately therebud he halled forth to catch Donalde of the Fles, Donald of the not relling till at length hee had caught him. Hes apprethough that came not to palle without some losse hended. of his people.

After he had taken both him and his chiefelt Donald and complices, he put them openly to death: neither his complices Co latisfied, he caused Mozdacke to be arrepried, pur co death. who confessing himselfe partly guiltie of-futhe byzightly in many poynts as they ought to have 50 things as were layor to his charge for maintey= ning of the foreland Donaide, he likewile fliffe- Mordack lien red death, and his gwoes beeing valued and des tenant of Galuided into pattes, were bellowed amount the loway is put commons of Galloway, in recompence of luche to death. losses, as through his contrined faishood they had recompensed. sulterned.

> Allo be put Dowalde, Collan, and Conrath onto their fines, for that they did suffer Wonalde

l rightcous

Offenders put

so to tob and work without chasticement.

Through which cauting of inflice thus to be erecuted, in reliefe of his commons, he wan him monderfull loue, not onely in Galloway, but also throughout all his Realme: and therewith were offenders put in such seare, that they durit in no place commit any such like misozders against the simple and meaner people. And for the more increase of his subjectes wealth, he also continued the league with the Picks, Beptapnes, and Eng = 10 whereof he was acculed. lifle n'en, accordingly as his late predecessour had done.

But yet as the nature of man through licenci= ous libertie is cuer readic to offende in one poynt or other, to came it to passe by thes worthis Prince Eugenius, who in such wife as is before expressed, raigning in peace & quietnesse amongst his louing subjects, yet fell into most vile lust to peruerted with accomplish his busaciable sieshly concupiscence. fenfual luft & feeking at meanes he could deuife to defloure yog 20 concupilcence. virgins and honest matrones, and that as well those of the nobilitie as other. And such compani= ons as could best further his purposes in that be= halfe, and device new meanes and waves of flethly company, those he set by, and greatly made of, A filthie delite deliting altogither to have them in his company. Thus being drowned in leacherous luft, and fil=

thie cocupicence, he fell dayly into moze grieuous

Couetousnesse byces, as into excessive couctousnesse and bealth rucltic.

fubieds, to the end he might eniop their andes.

This wickednelle remained not long bupunis thed, for the Lordes and peeres of his realme. nerceruing how he proceeded darly in his abhomis nable and typanlike doings, not once giving eare to the wholesome advertisements exther of Bon or man, they flue him one day amongst them as Eugenius is muribered he late in indgement aboute to have condemned a great riche man, though not quiltie in the crime

They caused also immediately a great covany of those mates to be apprehended, which had bene of his counfell, eponokers buto all his wicked e vile doings. Which to the great contentation of crueltic, consenting to make away his wealthie 30 the people were hanged as they had weldeferued.

The ende of Eugenius the

And luch was the ende of Engenius after he 50 blilhed in the lame, beganne freely to pravile an Fergule de had governed the kingdome about three yeares. his bodic was buried in Colmekill amongest his auncesters, thoughe the people thought it little worthic of that honor, which had misused it selfe so inordinately in this present life.

Ferguse After him came the administration of the Realme unto Ferguse the thirde, the sonne of king Ethfine, in the yeare 767. who being estakindes of vices, which molt abunvantly talgried thirde car in him, howbeit till that day wonderfully diff king. sembled and kept couert.

He fermed to ftrine howe to palle his prete A wickel four in all poyntes of wickednelle. Det tote no Prisce. regarde at all to the government of his Realine, but gaue himselfe to ercessine gluttonie in Deuouring of delicate meates and drinks, and tiets with kept suche a number of hile strumpettes in boult with him, whom her vied as concubines, that his wife was no better elecined than as an handinayde, of rather a kitchin mayde. Wha bang a woman of great modellie: and sover admiconelle, coulde not yet but take loze griefe and indignation hereat: and therefore fundrie tymes essayed by wave of wholesome perswations to turne his minde from fuch finfull blages and filthis trade of lining. Finally when the law there was no hope to connert his deplanate minde, not by any meanes to refourme him, but that the mote thee laboured to doe god bepon him, the worle he was, through verie displeasure of suche innuries as thee daylye susteyned at the handes of his concubines, thee founde meanes to strangle him secretely one night as hee lay in his bed, choosing rather to be without a husband, than to have one that Moulde decepue hir of the as the must be faine to suffer the reveach daply a= fore hir face, being milbled of them whom be kevt as varamours in most dispiteful maner.

The day after the wrought this feate: the bos die being founde deade, was apparapled in fune= rall wife, & brought forth into the place of judge= ment, where inquilition was Araightly made what they were that had done to heynous a deed. for though there were but few that lamented his haue the matter treed forth, that fuch as had coa nutted the murther, might luffer due punish-

Many were apprehended and had to the rack. but yet could none be founde that would confesse it. The Queene was bopde of all suspition, as the that had bene taken for a woman at all times. of great temperancie. But pet when thee hearde that a number of innocent persons were torinen= ted without velart, loze lamenting (as floulpe appeare, they, miserable case, the came halfily in= to the Judgement hall, and getting hir aloft bpo the bench, there in the prefence of al the company, the had these of the like wordes but othe whole assembly. I knowe not good people, Iknowe not what God moueth me, or what divine reuengement be reth me with funder thoughts and cogitations, that of all this daye and morning preceeding, I have had neither reft in booie not taine guiltlesse persons were cruelly toximented hate in your presence, had not wrath given place, partly buto movestie, whereof I must confesse there is left but a finall portio in me, I hav torthe with no my left out of the way. The kings reath was nune act. Conscience constrayneth me (letting apart mine owne safegarde) to confesse the truth, least the guiltlesse thouloe wrongswilly perishe: Therefore understande vee for fruth that none of them whome pe have examined are priuie to the offence. I verily am the, that with thele wicked handes have strangled this night last past Ferquie, about whose death I see you in trouble. moved to to do with two as flarre vicks as may rest in a woman, to wit, Impacient forbearing of earnall luft, and yzefull wzath. Ferrule by his continuall bling of concubines, kept from me the Due pebt that the hulbande oweth to the wife: whereupon when there was no hope to reconcile him with often advertisementes, behement force of anger ryling in my heart, drove mee to doe fo wicked a deed. I thought liefter therefore to dile patch the Adulterer, then (being destitute of my hulbande, and defrauded of all Ducenely honoz) to live still subject onto the perpetual injuries of fuch lewde women as hee kept and bled in my steade. Lose ye theretoze those that be accused of She giueth hie night and dutie of mariage, and that in such sort, 20 the kings death, and as for me ye shall not neede owne sentence to proceede agapust me as quiltie of the crime by order of law, for I that was to bolde to commit fo heynous an act, will accordingly do execution boon my felfe even here incontinently in presence of you all: what honour is due to the deade, lake you to that.

having thus made an ende of hic tale, thee The Queene plucked forth a knife which the had his under his of his felie. gowne, and stroke hirselfe to the heart with the death, yet some of his friends were verie earnest to 30 fame falling deade byon it downe to the grounde.

All such as were present, wondered greatly at hir foute and harole flomacke, fpeaking diverly minor. And verely when I hearde that cera 50 thereof, as some in prayle, and some in disprayle of these hir monttrous painers.

> The bodie of Fergule was cotyed forth to the He of Colmekill, and there herred in the thirde prace after his entring into the government, and in the peare of our Lorde 769. The 767. H.B. Duenes corps was not bucied in facred ground, for that the Que birtelfe.

Soluathius

Soluathius.

Solumbius admitted king of Scotland

A rebellion.

Makedonalde

prodaymed

the king is

fent against

teo to v rule of the Scot= tysie astate next after the qus:a prince furely borne to the accomplishement of high en= fermiles, if through hap of froward dellinie he had genius f biij.

Sthius \acute{p}

Conne of Eu=

was admit=

not bin hindred. For in the third yere of his raign he began to bee vered extremely with the goute. Soluathius an which ingendzed by cold in lying abzode in hun= impotent ma. fing and so continuing with him during his life, staped him from many worthy exercises, as well in peace at home, as abrode in time of warres.

> his lymines, there were some commotions a milorders the more boldly attenuited: first amonast the of p out Iles for Bane Makedonald coueruernoz by the kings appointment, of the Flande called Type, got all the castels and fortresses of the Alex into his owne handes, and Arengthned with a route of buruly and mischieuous youthful persons, toke possession of al the laid Fles, causing himfelfe to be proclaimed king of the fame.

king of the number of thippes togither, wherein transporting himfelfe with a great armie ouer into Loine and He inuideth Cantrie, made great walt & spoyle of those coun-Lorn and trevs, til Duthquhal gouernoz of Ithole, and Cu-Cantyre. lane of Araple, beeing fent with a cholen power A power from from the king to defend the countrey, chaunced to encounter with him, and putting him with hys people buto flight, chased them buto such a strait, where there was no way to get forth, faue onely that by which they entered. This place is in Lozn, with a strayght passage to enter into it: but whe ye are within it, the same is berielarge and brode, environed aboute with cracque mountagnes, chapned togither with a continuall ridge, a deepe riner compassing them in beneath in the bottom, with such stepe and side= ling bankes, that there is no way to palle forth of the same, but by that through which ye must en= ter into it. The laid Bane with his folkes being entred at unwares into fuch a ffraight, & percep= 50 ning there was no way to iffue forth, but by the fame where he entred, he returned backe thither, & finding the pallage closed fro him by his enimics, he mas in a wonderfull mase, not knowing what thift to make to cleape. Finally falling to councel with the chiefest of his armie opo the banger prefent, and to continuing to: the space of two dayes without any conclution aumiable, on the third day vitten of necellitie through hunger, they require of their enimies to be received as preloed men baon what conditions they would prescribe, and having their lives affured. But when this would not be graunted, in the eneming tide they rather forth byon their enimies, to trie if by force they nught haue palled through them. But luch mae their hap, that there they died every mothers fon: for so had Duthquhall and Culane consunded. death of fers 10 to the ende that other revels might take ensanule by fuch their wilfull and revellious outrage.

The kings Captaines after this palling ouer The kin into the Ales, brought all things there into the power a former fate of quietnelle. Det after the appealing ouer int of this turnult, there chaunced a new bufincffein Balloway: for Byllequhalm, fortice to that Do- Gillequi tialde (which as ye have heard, was executed by the form commaundement of Eugenius the bij.) gathe. red togither a great number of bugracious scapes Thus he bring in maner impotent and lame of 20 thaiftes, and did muche hurt in the Countrey. But Moetlye after beeing vanquished by the fame Cantannes that had suppressed the other Revelles of the Fles, the Countrey was rydde of that trouble, and the ring leaders punished by beath for their offences.

In this meane while, the English men and Welch Biytaynes through multitude of kings and rulers warring crhe agapult other, had no leglure to attempt any enterpaile againt fraun-And pet not contented herewith, be gathered a 30 gers. Peither were the Pittes free of some ferrett displeasures, which one part of them had coceiued against another, so that the Scottilly men were not troubled at all by any forraine enimics.

And so Soluathius having continued his Soluth taigne the space of rrepeares, aboute the ende of lyfe. that tearme departed this life, in the peare of our faluation 788.

Then after Achi us was once Achains burier in Coim scotts kill amoast his anncellers, 3chaftes the full of king Ethin (a man bigbly removement for his emelt reale to inflice and bpzight dealing, iwas amance to the gourmance of the realme: who for that by his former convertation amogli the nobilitie, be pres feetly binderflood what gridge and fecrete hatred remayned in their heartes, one withing anothers delleuction. He forlaw what damger the coms mon wealth flode in , if the same were not by Come god meanes qualified : and thereupon cal He mile ling them togither, her handled the matter with achie suche wildome and dexteritie, that besote they! some.

peparture from him, all the rotes of former dil= chaines beeing otterly extirped and anoyded, they were made friendes on eche floe, and promifrom his presence so to continue.

Thus having layde the foundation of a quiet flate amongest his subicties, nowe in the beginthing of his raigne, he was at poynt to have had no finall warres with the Friffe men, for a num= ber of them being arpuco in Cantyze were there request of the Inhabitants of that countrey were come to appe them against those Frishmen.

This loffe the rulers of the Irilly nation purpoled in all half to revenge spo them of the Fles. But Achaius hearing thereof, fent ouer an Am= bafface buto the to have the matter taken by be= fore any further force wer bled: aledging how ther was no cause wherfore wars should be moued for fuch a matter, where the occasion had bene given commandement of warrant obtepned from any ef their luveriouis.

Dowbeit the Pobles of Irelande (for there was no king amongest them at that tyme as it channeed) mouse altogither with indignation for the Aughter of there Countrymen, made a direct answere, that they woulde surely be reuenged of the reproche which they had recepued, be= for they woulde commune of any peace. And turned out of Ireland with this answere, a great number of them in thippes and crayers patted o= uer into Ila, where getting togither a great pray, and fraughting they belielles therewith, as they were returning homewardes, they were funcke by force of tempest, so that neyther thip nor man returned to bying tydings home howe they had fped in Scotlande.

Circ fivute stomackes of the Frishe Lozdes enders being well qualified with this mil-Caunce, they were glad to feeke for peace thortly att. tonts a chains. Those also that were lent o-ner to treat of the same, found him at Enverloche thee. Where having declared their mellage, and confessed howe fully they had beene punished by the rightcous indgement of almightic God for their wrongful attempting of the warres against them that had not deserved it, Achaius answered how the Frish nation was so stubborne, that they knew not to viercald, except they were throughly (couract) and therefore had the rightcour God flante by them of the Colefferne Fles, which bpon is taken just reuenge bpon them, to the ensample of other, for their contumacie in mouing warres a= gaphit the that had so earnestly sought for peace. Peuerthelesse letting a part all iniuries past, as well new as olde, to thewe himselfe to be the follower of Christ, who in so many passages had prayled, commended and let forth but o by peace and tranquilitie, he was cotented to graunt them peace which now they fued for.

Thus was the peace renued betwirt the Scotbut by a fort of Rouers on eyther lyde, without 20 till and Iriff nations, to the no leffe comfort of the Scottes themselves, than of the Trisburen, as those that had learned nowe by experience a tryall (having enjoyed prace a god fealon) howe much the faine was to be preferred before cruel warres.

In this meane time, Charles, furnamed the Carolus Maggreat, as then raigning in France, and bnderfta- nus in league ding how the English men did not only by dayly with the Scots rouing disquiet the seas, to the great danger of all fuch marchants tother as trauapled alongst the therefore whylest the Scottilly Ambassavors re- 30 coastes of Fraunce and Germany, but also nowe and then coming a lande buon the french domi= nions, did many notable displeasures to his subicits, he thought and by the aduice of his peeres to conclude a league if it were pollible with & Scots and Pids, with this article amongest the relidue, That lo oft as the English men shoulde attempt any enterprile or invalion into France, the Scots and Bids hould be readie streight wapes to inuade the here at home: and when they shuld make o any warres against the Scots of Picks, then the French men Gould take byon them to inuade the well partes of Englande.

There were lent therefoze from Charles onte Ambastadors Achains certain Amballadors to bring this mat= lentinto, Scot ter to passe, who arriving in Scotland, & coming lande. to the kings presence, declared effectually the sum of their mellage, thewing that p coclution of fuch a league, spoulde bee no lesse to the wealth of the Frenchmen, than of the Scots (consocring the Englishmen to be a people most desirous of all o= ther to get into their hands other mens goods and possessions) for thereby they might be somewhat restrayned from such bold and iniurious enterpyifes as they dayly toke in hande agaynst they? Christian neighbors:but it spould make most of all (lay they) for the advancement of the whole christia comon wealth, wheras otherwise through their infolent doings, such force as was alreadie prepared prepared against the Saralins the common enimyes of the Charlians, Coulde be called backe, therewith to keepe off the layd Englishemen, to the great daunger of those partes of Chailten= come, by on which the Saralins then bordered as neighbours.

The Historie of Scotlande.

This mellage being heard with good belibera-The Ambulla-tion by fuch as were prefent, the Amballadours cors are hono-themselves breing honogable personages & grave of countenance, were receyned most louingly of 10 manded one Colman, gouernog of Mar (aman the king, and lodged in his owne pallaice, having all the chear & honozable intertainmet that might be devised but touching their mellage, there were fundrie disputatios amongst the nobles, whether the concluding of fuch a league as they required. were expedient for the Scottill common wealth or not. Ind for that p matter feemed to be doubt. full, the king thought it necessarie to have the annice of his Counsell: and theropon calling them togither and appointing diverse of them to goe with the Amballadors on hunting to We'n them some swort, whilest he consulted with the residue. (breause he wold not have them present he comof areat authozitie amongst the Scottish men for his approued wisedome) to say first his mind tous ching the request of those French Ambassadours who therupon standing forth, began as followeth.

to have this league concluded with the French men, as they that are perswaded howe nothing can be better, nothing moze profitable, moze ho= nourable, or more pleasant to almightie god, than to jorne in league and friendlip with a Pation 40 their quarell to commit our kingdome, gods and of greatest nower and wealth in these papes, of all other within the boundes of Europe: for by that meane foodle the Scottiff name be highly renowined a spoken of through the whole world. But truly these considerations contenting so wel at the first, are not so much to be regarded as the cuils which hereafter mar grow therebyon: for furely a nanghtic and pernicious ende of this de= termination fhall manifeffly teach us; though to reason in establishing this league, if we once confent to conclude the fame. Is it any other thing IT befeech rou' to make a league, and to jorne in focietie with the French men agaruft our neigh-An enemy at hours the Englishmen (whole friendship might be most expedient for bs. then even to have from henceforth a nere and in maner a domestical enimic at hand, where's our supposed fetends fiall be

Po man ought to marnaile, percepue, king

Achaius, if many of this our Pation be Delirous farre of from vs. and separate from our countrey by a great and large sea, at whose pleasure also we must make warres against our neighbours. and fight for other mens fafegardes, putting our bodies in hazard of death and mounding for their cause, which dwell nothing neare bs: yea and in lines buto extreeme perill of beter deternation. I Good constantly builde thinke it good therefore to take better ade of Column nisement and deliberation herein, least whiles we feeke for vainglozie and counterfepte honour, we do not through prouoking the English men our next neighbors, lofe our owne liberties got with fo much travaile by our elvers, for the which they fo often fought with the Beptapnes, Romaines, Pirts, and finally with the Saros. Can there be late) howe farre we have gone believe the way of 50 any thing more vernicious buto a free natio and people boane in libertie, than to measure lawes of peace, chances of warre, and in fine, libertie it felf, by the lust and pleasure of another nation, and so to enter (as it were) into bondage? for the anoye ding whereof, not onely men but also all other lyning things are readie to fight, even to the ottermolle. If the Frenche menne in the chie? fell heate and molle carnell brunt of the warre

Friendes farre

Due contide-

the Englishe mennes handes? Are we of that ferce and power to reuenge our wronges bypon them, after wer are vanquished and in manner trought to otter cofusion by those warres which wee shall enter into for they? cause ? If euer wee ber brought unto that poynte (as God fozbyd we flouide that through want of substance and becap offorce, the Frenche men thall also utter= In foliake us, and that thereby we fixall not be able to relift the Englishe puissance : afoze whome beleech you shall we accuse them for breaking of 20 have by tryall sufficiently promed, I suppose it is tins league? We thall dayly have to doe wyth our enimies after the conclusion of the league (if it bee concluded at all) and but schome tymes muth our friendes. In the middelt of our enimics we shall be still occasioned to practile for our defence, where we have a long way both by fea and land to passe over to our friends, in case any neede hall inforce vs thervnto: comodities are brought to us out of Spaine, fraunce and Bermanie, not fuch as we defire, but onely fuch as the Englishe 30 ayde them agaynst their enimies, were most lomen doe permit. Againe when our Marchants Mall passe into fraunce, what havens shall wee leave them to relogt buto in time of daungerous tempells, which often chaunce to all fuche as ble farling? Either must they perish and bee cast a= wave through race of leas, epther elle fall into the handes of our enimies togither, with all thep? godes and fraught. Celiat discommodities here= et hal rife, vour grace most pruvent Prince) and rouright circumspest Counsaplers doc well y= 40 league of truce hane they at any time kryf (you nough percepue. I therefore would thinke it expresent that we found continue in § former peace concluded with the Brytaines, Sarons & Pids, according to the cultome of our late predectifors, who live well ynough what was most beneficiall for the wealth of the Scottish nation, and not to coust a news amitie with an unknowne people having deserved little or nothing as yet at our bandes lobole intent I cannot but have in fulpitism. lithe they leeke for amitie fo larre of) ex- 50 times have they broken the peace established with contince thall manifestly resolut with our selves to employe and teoparde both life and libertie for the fafraeroe of the French men, without regarde which we findl take in hande for they, lake, ac-raiding to the articles of the league) Mall chance

1010; Lake vs, and conclude some maner of peace or league with ourse enimics, leauing vs in all the whole daunger, that we have any indge afore whome were mape being them to answere for they default, and by whole authoritie they may bescenstragued to see us satisfyed for such losse and murpes as wee Mall happely fullague at Monp in that assemblie thewed themselves and love offended with Colmans wordes, supposing tic league with the French men to be both honorable and necessarie.

of our chons.

Then one Albian, a man of great nobilitie, (whome the king had lately before instituted hys lieutenant in the Iles) spake in this maner: If it were possible that there might be one sure Albian his and inviolable content amongest those source people, whicheat this daye have they, habitations within the boundes of Albion, or that the Engliff men knowe what it were to stande and abide by fayth and promifes made a given, we woulde not denie but that those considerations and adulfes which Colman bath here bitered cought to be followed, bycause that then there sould be no occasion at all, why we should conclude any league with any forraine nation. But forfomuche as The English there was never man that founds more untruth Saxons breaand breache of promise in any Pation, than hath kers of probeene founde in these Sarons (the which having not the rule in Albion, are nowe called Engliste men as the Scottes, Pittes, and Byyamis enidently knowne unto you, that either we must of necessitic fight and stand at desence against the English men, readie to allaple be both with oven force and fecret crafte, cyther elle linke our selves with suche allyes and confederates, as by they? support we may be the better able to withstande the malice of such unfaythfull people. Call ye this fayth of treason, I play you? The Sarous in tymes pall beeing requested of the Beptapnes to uingly recepted, and highlye rewarded for theve fervice: but they contrarily in recompence of fuch kindnesse, Hewco themselves in steade of appers. enimics: in fleade of defenders, deltropers: turning their weapon points against the Brytains. by whom they had beene to fent for to they? ande. And now have not oncly destroyed a great number of them by fire and fworde, but also they have fuorled them of their kingdome & libertic. Edihat pour selucs are not ignozaunt of this whiche I fuence) where exther they some accasion to here they? neighbours, or hoped to gaine any thing by fallifying they, faythes, as they that have never beene ashamed so to do, where hope to have commoditie (if I mave to call it) hath at any hande beene offered. Into what fundrie and mall mix ferable ralamities hath the treacherie of the sace ons brought the fillie Brytannes? Howeitens at bs, and also with the Picts? Euen when to clear thought boon any such thing. Dea and that make is, amongst themselves at this season the Anglish men warre one against another, mose with crastie traines than with oven force, in such wise that in Posthumberland to many kings, & fo many noble me hime bin trateroully muethered & made away, that bueth maye there be any founde that

To induce others to his purpote he taceth the adcita d happes charging the who le nition with the fault will take boon him the supreme government of that countrey. It is not many yeares agone fince Thom king of that countrey was rod out of the wave through treason of Diwey that succeeded bin in the kingdom, and was after bergined both oflife and kingdome by Dirike, whome Cabert destrous to raigne in his place, founde meanes by trayterous pradile to dispatche. Egbert was flaine by Mollo, and Mollo by Alfred, which Alfred was after flaine by the quilefull craft of E= 10 of approued fayth and fledfalineffe in promife. thelbert. Perther had Ethelbert any better fuc= cesse in the ende, for nowe of late betraped by his owne subjects, he was by them Camefully Claine and murthered. Peyther worth lesse trapterous Miftes and deuples doe the Englishe men maintains they? warres in all places where they are inhabiting within Albien. The renerende fathers of the friritualtic, and other godly men advisit to vertue, buto whome the setting forth of Gods worde hath beene committed, aweerved 20 to anopoe they craftic practiles, if weregard the and abhoring this wode madnelle, rage and wicked mildemeanour of that Pation, hanc left they Bylhoppykes, Abbeys, Monasterpes, and Celles, and from thence have removed into foz= rapne Regions. Therefore where the English me do abstaine at this present fro making by waires, it is not to be imputed to any reverence they have to faith, equitie, or respect of the league, which they have made with vs, but only buto such civil sedi= tion 4 discord, as now both raigne amongs them. 30 blish this league with the French men, and simme Peither ought any of vs of right to doubt, but that when the faine once ceaffeth, they wil immes diathy take weapon in hand against bs, norwithstanding all leagues or concurants of yeace cofirmed to the contrarie. To represse therefore and abate their lubtile praftiles. I can finde no redicr meane than to enter into friendship, and conclude a league with that people, whiche beem giorned with his, many chastice suche outragious furie of this wicker nation, es cause and opostunitie shall 40 Then Achaius bnderliading how the minds of require, Fortune bath offred buto by a convenient meane and occasion herebuto. For here be at this present is French kings ambassabors offring that buto us 'which being to great a benifit) we might buctivoistion. That is, they require to have be to joine in league against the Englishmen. with their king, whom Fraunce, Spaine, and no smal part of Germanic do acknowledge for there toucraine. Quant this to bee despiled of men that bane their perfeit fentes? Sught the locietie of 50 bing as he had requyzed, there Could go with his the French nation to be refuled of vs, inhabiting part of the cou fiere in the httermost partes of the earth, the same being freely offered by them, but o whom for their Touchmen or fincere fauth both towardes God and man, the large Emprie of the worlde is graunted. So timely on this that if wee shall thankefully recepue they wolke notable benefite, the same fiell purchase unto be the friendly of the Spaniardes, french men, Germanes, and all those nations which acknowledge king Charles for their head and fourraine Lord. Hercupon also free passage for marchantes fiall be open, to paffe to and fro buto be, with all kind of marchandile & wares of traffike. I truft therefore that every one of you (fo that he wey the thing with himselfe throughly will castly indue that the friendship and societie of the french men (right puissant both by sea and land) and thereto ought more to be effectied, and is more beneficial to the Scottish common wealth, than the bulled. fall promiles and great dilloraltie of the Saros. To which of you is it buknowne, that the English nation studieth no lesse to bring be buder the poke of semitude, than they doe the Welchmen. if their force mighte answere directlye to they? willes? Therefore if we delire to anopbe the biolent power of most cruell enimies, if wee meane Christian Religion, for the whiche the Frenche men are continually in armure, if we let moze by bertue and constancie than by bufapthsulnessex breach of couchants and promifes, if wee labour for the glory and honor of our nation, if we court to aduaunce our Countrey, our owne reft, and quietnesse: and to be briefe, if we passe byon life and libertie, the moste dearest things that maye happen to man, let be with iopfull heartes ellaly continue in the same, bypon affured trust and confidence that it thall being perpetual commoditie and renowne buto by, both for the lafegarde of our realme, and restrapnt of the English mens bulewfull attemptes & wrongfull iniuries, which hereafter they either shall or may at any time enterpzise agapnst bs. By this Dration Albian drew the multitude cafily puto his purpole.

all his subjects were in maner wholy included to the league, comaunded al the copany to be ther in the same place againe the next day. Ind so breas king op their affembly for o time, the king made the French Amballadors o night a colly supper Thelogo with a banket, and after having colerence to his with the nobles a lozos of the countel, it was agreed by ger agreed to neral colent amongst the that for the solemne ratilving of this league with king Charles, accord Amballadors at their returne the Lord dilillians the brother of king Achaius with foure other bor notable a learned perfonages, being men of perfit knowledge + fkil.and fuch as were eltermed mot meete for fuch a purpole. Allo p they fhonto take iii. 99.men ouer with the to letue againt the it. fidels & enimics of the chailtian religion, where in such sort as king Charles should appoint this hamponthenert vay going fiell to Charchyd werte as followeth: 67 is 11 mother making their common supplications, into almightis Cod, according ibaherptes atiba authorite customes, they after relacted unto the a controll chamber, where Achaius opened and be the nations by euer. incounts the Frency Amballadors al that mas renduded by him, and other the ellates of has reline, touching the mellage whiche thep had thought from king Charles, Witho recogling cas thankes unto him, and to all the relidue for thep? tenenclent willes herein thewed towardes king Charles their mailter, all the French Pation.

Ifter this remaining certaine dayes with 25 chains, who made them all the cheare that minht beimagined, they departed towardes bimais king of the Picts, bito fohom at their coming to his piclence they made p like requelt on their mafices behalfe, whiche they had made before bito

It is land that Hungus gave the French men most hartie thankes for their good willes, but pet both their ances and conneres ic would not graunt to coclude any league with the at that time, for that (as he alledged) the matand terbeing weightie and of great importaunce recurred no small time to deliberate and take ad=1 vice for a full resolution therein:

The Ambassadors hereupon returned buto chains without speed of their purpose with Hun=1 tradic for their returne, and the pallage of those = that flould go with them, the Lord William the kings brother, togither with the same Ambassa= does and such foure persons as the king had thos? fin forth amonast all the learned Cleargie of his. tealme whose names were Clement, John, Bas lan.and Alcuine and also having with him those foure 9. men of warre which were at the firth & parnted to goe with him, passed forth towardes: No within few dayes after in laftie, according to their owne willed belires. At their comming in to Fraunce, Charles the Emperoz receiued them in most gladsome wife, doing them all the hono? that might be denifed, Ethe foulders which were? come to ferue him boder the leading of the fores land achillians, he retayned in wages, bling them after the same lost and rate as he did his own nast turall people the French nien.

Shortly after also at the request of the Scot 50 in all places where he came. till crators, according to p charter ligned by #= chains and confirmed by confent of king Charles the league betwirt the French men and Scottes was folemnely published by Heraldes at armes, eccepting to the maner in thole dayes vied, the ime to endure betwirt tholeswo nations and their posteraties for euer.

The chiefell articles compriled in this league

... The amilie and confederation beforete the Thearticles of French wen and Scottes to be perpetuall e firme the league. to enture between the policities of both

The injuries and warres which the English men thould attempt against either nation, thouls be accounted as common to them both.

The French men being allayled by warren of foild appeare) greatly hereat, gaue molt haerie in the English men, the Scottes fould lende there ande of fouldiers, having their charges borne by the french men, as well for furniture, as waces, and all office things necellarit

The French men thoulde contrariwite aune the Scots in time of warres against the English men at their owne proper colles and charges.

Whatforner be were private person or publike of thele two confederate nations, that against eyther of them Mould sy de the English men with 20 armor tountel bitailes, og in any other maner of mile, the fairle mould be reputed for a tragter with Detiber inght either of them concludes peact, or take any truce, without confent of the other.

While wire the principall Articles of their league, and their confirmed between the Scotters and frencimien, hioten in Butine, and impeingrolled in parthment, & relented as a monument in both realities for a witnesse but o such as thus mis, and the fecond moneth after, all things being to come after lof this friendfhip thus becunne, as the i Scottes Chronides afformegalid und anna della

And tota further memorie of the thing, Achai. The aimes of us did augment his armes, being a red Lion in a Scorlande. ficts of polity with a bouble trace Cramed with floure de Lyces, lignifying thereby, that the Dist on fronttientelwift, thoulog bee defended by the apperof the Frenche men wand that the Scot tille Kings Moulde baltaumide ficht in Bed fence of they's Country , libertly Religion and France where he with all the whole copanie lane to innocencie. whiche are remediated by the Wood lies, or Floure de lyces, as Hérauldes dos interac preteit, auch in To the state of the opening

The Lord William, the fart Clement, and Tobn, remayned this with king Chailes, but Raban and Alcuine returned into their countrey.

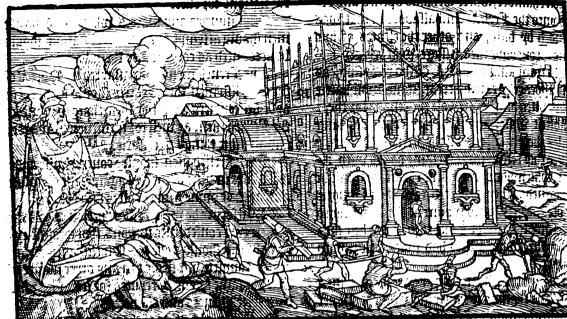

In all fuch warres and igurnepes as Charles The valiatines afterwardes made agaputte any of his enimites, of William. the layde Loide William was a thiefe oper in the same, so that his same and antiporitie payly arew

Dis lervice frode King Charles in notable freat in his expeditions against the Sarons, Dungarians, & other, but namely his estimation in Italy was most highly aduaced, at what time the lapte Chartes reedified the Citie of florence, Florence Is appoynting this Idlilliam to be his Lieutenant reedified. in Tulcane, and to have the thiefe charge for the rellozing of the fappe Citic, which he with fuche 夏.4. diligence fame was not onely fortified wyth news walks, repayed and replenished with great numbers of called thither incohengir Citic and infinite there houles, Churches, and other beautifull huildings,

Tuscane.

Willian Lieu- villiance applyed, that wythin thoat tyme the but also propled and funding with clickets a quat companie of Pobles and gentlemen being aboutes for that purpole. Out the Mailing land

The Citie bengithus restored with the for= merstate and dignetic, through the bountcous benefite of king Charles, and the diligent administration of his Lieutenant the foselague, Wile. liam, the Citizens to Meto themselucs thankes : field, druifed for a perpetuall memorie to beare in theps armes a reduc Lillie, resembling one of 30 accounted in the number of those, ry, martial those which the kings of Franke give; save that it differeth in colour, to tellific thereby, that their The armes of Citic after the destruction thereof by the Gothes) mas recoified and restated to the former dignitie, by the benefite of the french men.

A Lion crowmed.

Florence.

And to acknowledge the diligence herein of the Lieutenant. they oid inflitute publike plaies to be vsed and celebrate energy yere, wherin with many ponmous ecremonies they crowne a Zion. And further that there Mould be kept upon the charges 40 fand abbanes, wherein none might be admitted, of the cournon treasuric within the Citie certain Lions for the favo Lord William gaue a Lion ter his cognifance) and therupon as the Acoulh Chronicles affyent, those beaftes grew to be had floren in fuch honoz amongst the florentmes.

Thus this valiant Captain, the foresayd Lord William passing his time in noble exercises, and most his feates of chinalris buder king Charles, is marriours, which are called commonly by the Scottig men. Scottelarlmoze.

And for that he was continually occupied in warres, be was never maried, where wo growing willing in age and purpoling to make Christ his bryte, be maied buyloed dinerse Abbapes and monasteries both in hickey Italy a Germanic, richly indowing & lame with Month landes and rents, sufficient for the finding of such Genuis number of Monkes, as he appointed to be in the according to the auncient ordinance by him bentfed, except he were a Scottish man bogne.

In witnesse of which ordinance, there are line der of these houses remayning in Almaignemen unto this daye, nothing chaunged from the first order or institution.

Before the accomplishment of these things be the aforelayde Lorde William, wather an is laid buto the Scottish king Achaius, A fine that the Ciniumities of Paris and Pavia werd influente by king Charles, thieldy by the helps and usened of those two sozeremebzed karned incottiff men, John and Clement, informuch that Clemet was The appoynted chiefe prelident of all the flucentes at ince p Paris, and John of the other at Pania.

But now to returne to the other doings of 3: chains, ye shall buderstande, that about the same And time of not muche differing from the feme, net Apriliant Dent

Anchifanc the sonne of Ethelwolfe king of west Sarons, taking upó him the dominion of Kent. Call Saxon, Mertia, and Mozthumberlande, whome Egbert his granofather had recepued into his gouernment) desirous nowe to enlarge his kingdome, entred into that part of the Picnill dominion, whiche aunciently hight Deira, and conteined the Marches about Barwike, alkedging bow the fame apperferned to his kingdome of Porthumberlande, and had bene fraudus lently taken from his anneefters by the Picks: but forsomuch as there was a commotion replied the fame time in Wertia, he was called backe to appeale it, and herebyon putting all to the fire and Deira wasted Aworde in Deira, saving suche prisoners as hee by fire and brought away with him, he returned.

Hungus the Pickill king foze stomaking this inlumous enterprise of the Englishmen, determifore made instant sute buto Achaius (who had marico his fifter) to have his ande against them.

Achains of his owne accorde minding to doe the English men a displeasure, sent forthwith bn= to hungus to the number of ten thousand men. Which, and with his owne power King dungus innaded the borders of Porthumberland, fetching from thence a great botie of gods * prisoners: but pet he forbare slaughter of men. hee had, as is supposed, towardes the Christian religion.

Athelitane being certified hercof, omitting his iourney into Mertia, turned al his power against the Picts: 4 hearing that they were withdrawne into they? Countrey, he followed them so neare at the heeles, that very earely in one morning he was byon their backes where they lodged by a broke live, not passing two miles from hadapproche.

Athelitane boon a flerce courage, having thus founde his enimics according to his wither delire, and herewith comming upon them in luche order of battaile as they had no way forth to e= i leape without fight, hee commaunded a proclamation to be made by one of his Heralos, that all the whole number of the Pickes thoulos patte by the edge of the woode.

The Pictes thus seeing they enimyes at The Pictes ned to reuenge the same in all possible hast, there 30 hande, and hearing of thes cruell commaun= are amazed. dement, were wonderfully amazed with the .straungenesse of the thing, and oppressed so with feare, that they will not what might bee best for them to do.

At length, by commaundement of Hungus they? King they fell buto fortifying of they? trench their canipe: but pet they quickly percepued howe that campe. it woulde not long preuaple them, conside= ring that they enimpes had gotten into they? and burning of houses, for a reucrence whiche 40 handes not onclye all the spoyle whiche they had brought with them onte of Porthumber= lande, but also all other they provision, truste, and baggage, which they had left in a field there adioining buto the fide of their campe. Hereboon manye reasons were put forth amongest them. which way they might escape out of that present daunger.

In whiche meane tyme Athelitane having Athelitane brought his people inte god order of battaile, his enimie, dington, before they had any knowledge of thes 50 pronoked the Pictes to come forth of they? Arenoth into the playne fielde, there to trie their forces. But for that daye no notable thing was Done: the Ptites keeping themselves still within " they campe.

In the night following, after lundgie conful. The Pictes tatios had among the, it was agreed by general prepare themconsent, that the next day they should give battail battaile. to the English men. Ind so herrupon preparing themselucs themselves for the purpose, even byon the breake of the day forwarde they make towardes their enimies wich fierce willes, specially encouraged thereto by the comfortable wordes of Hungus.

The English inen arc pur to flight.

The Englishmen halfe amazed at the hardie approch and onlet of the Pides, were not long a= ble to sustepne their soze impression: so that, be= ginning somewhat to swap, at length they were forced to the vinto the place, where ye heard howe they toke the baggage and spoyle of the Pictishe 10 liste men to their no lesse discouragement, as campe: were they were beaten downe in greater numbers than before, infomuch that fuch prifo= ners as they had before taken of them that kept the laybe spople, greatly now to advance the victoxic of their fellowes, thewing more crueltie to= wardes the Englisse men than any of the rest, now that they fawe once howe the victorie was inclined to the Diffill fide.

In fine, fuch flaughter was made, that of the bled, there bueth escaped fine hundred. Athel= stane himselfe at the first encounter was runne through the bodie with a Speare, and so dped, gruing name to the place of the battaile, whiche continueth cuen buto this day, being called A. Aylifone foord theilitanes fwede,

A dreame.

A lelstane is

This victoris icil to the Pices by myracle. for in the night leason as Hungus was lapde nowne to fleeve (after it was agreed that they the Apossle Saint Andrewe (as the tale goeth) promising him and his people victorie agaynste there enquies on the day next following, and for The Crosse of an assured token thereof, he tolde him that there figuilde appeare ouer the Praishe holte in the element such a fashioned Crosse, as hee sometome fuffered bypon. Hungus awakened, and beholding the Skie, same the Crosse as the Apostle had tolde him: Cotherebpon calling his people together, hee not oncly flewed them the same fight, but also declared buto them what vision had appeared buto him in hys fleepe, mole ling them therefore to bee of good comfort, lithe there was cause of such assured hope to have assystaunce from aboue agayntle they cruell enimies.

The ligne of the forelayde Cross was not Saint Andronelly seene of the Pickes and Scottes bergng mens pure there with them in appe, to both thepe greate comfortes and gladnesse, but also of the Engs they that understode Saint Andrive to hee Patrone and Touoweper of the Scottiffe and Picifipe Pations. Foz it did put fuche a feare into they heartes, that when they came to the pointe of ionning, they fromackes to fave led them, that with small respstaunce they were easily vanquissed (as is sayde) and put to

For this to manifelt a myracle, after the whole Englisse hoste whiche was there assen= 20 battaile was once ended, and the victorie obtep= ned, Hungus repayred with his people following him, buto the Church of that blelled man Saint Saint Red Regulus, nowe called Saint Andrewes, where they made they? offrings with humble denotion buto the Relphes of the Apolile, rending thankes buto him for theyr victorie with venoute prayer after the accustonied maner then.

They bowed there also at the same tyme (as Why sa the fame goeth) that from thenceforth as well Androise shoulds give battaile) there appeared buto him 30 they as they? posteritie in tyme of warre shoulde in waiting weare a Crosse of Saint Anderwe for thepe badge and cognisance. Which ordenance continually after remayned with the Dictes, and after their destruction sexterminion, with the Scots euen onto our time.

The bodie of Athelifane was buried in the Athelifa next Church unto the place where the fielde was burial. fought, howbeit, some have left in wyting that his head was cut off from the bodie and brought o to Juchgarnie, where beeing let oppona flake, it was the wed to the people in reproche of his ininrious enterprise.

Hungus the Pidishe king to thewe hindelle Hangar yet moze mindefull of the due honozitig of the hor Church ly Apostle, by whose avoche acknowledged himfelfe to haue got the victorie aforelapte, not billy augmented his Church with new buildings aid necessarie reparations, but encrealed the number of pricits in the fame for the celebrating of viting feruice:he allo gaue many riche and colly ofina fons & luch like. Moreover he cauled tobe made golde the Images of chaiff and his.rif. Apofiles of fine fluc. gold and filuer, which hee bell owed their with cale allo of braten golde, therein to inclole the us. Tenther lykes of S. Indrew. Ind belides ims, forter Clause ned that the Spiritualtie Moulo have the Mante of all increace of goods as of corne, cattains, bee page, and such like through his realme and further that spirituall persons should not be copelled to answere befoze any tempozall inoge.

But thele beneficiall primledges the Pilitibe dennie did not log enioy. For feredeth that was the fourth, which raigned amongst the Pices afte tre hungus toke from them all luche giftes as this Sungus, had given them, and further 02= deviced to the derogation of their Priviledges, that they shoulds answere for secular crymes 10 afort fecular Wagistrates : And that lyuing uppon they? former renewers, Souldiers and menne of warre Coulde enione the other whiche hungus had so freely bestowed buon

The Pobles of the land mainterned Feres nethinhis doings, reckening all that spirituall persons had to be but cast away, which was the saule (as some thought) that they? King= poine came into suche ruine, as Mortiy afterfol= 20

There bee some Chronicles that wrytehow these things whiche are mencioned of Hungus, and Athelstane, channeed not altogyther aboute this frason, but Beitoz Boetius followeth Meremend in moste of his accounter as the authour whome he taketh to be most certaine, as well for the accounte of the tyme as in the course of the whole Prstozie. Ind for that we meane not to a piclume wholy to derogate the same Boetiushis 30 credite wee have not muche diffented from hom, but rather followed him in most places, leausing fuche doubtes as may bee worthily put forth of that which he wayteth, buto the confideration of the diligent Reader, lithe it is not our purpole to impugue, but rather to report what wee finde written by other, except nowe and then by the way to admonishe the reader of some whitely twocs, (as the same both feeme to be and other,) and happely not without inst occasion.

But nowe to our purpole: Alwell hungus. Bing of Pictes, as Achaius. King of Scottes, after the overtheowe and death of Athelitane, ly after the overtheome and death of Itheiliane, by used with they people in god quiet & reft, for the Conglishe men attempted nothing agaynif, the Scottes of Pictes afterwardes, during the time of their raignes. At length Achains after her had raigned exerce of our Loide. 8 1.2. whiche mas as bout the first years of Sungus his dominion our second substantial points and great kieppleage. But for that her years of our Loide. 8 1.2. whiche mas as bout the first years of Sungus his dominion our second substantial points of the Pictes. On the Constitution of the Cons the pides your ment of the contraction Dis bodie was burpedin Colniekill, actopping to the maner of Kings amongelt ligs predecellouies.

In the days of thys Achains belive Clement and others, of whome before ye have heard) lyned Bellop Erruadius a notable Preacher in Durtry lands. Also Bishopps Alecian with 920-dan and Medan two brethren, all Dollors and men of fingular knowledge, in respect whereof they were had in great credite and estimation with the people.

After the de Conual. thains, Con= Conuall fueuall that was ceedeth Ahis Uncles fon by Dongal, the brother of kina Ethfine, suc= cceded in co= uernment of b Scottiff king-

Betwirt this Conual and Hungus the Dic- Love 20d tish king, there was wonderfull love and anitie amirie. Actived, both of them Audring by all wayes and meanes how to maintepne the auncient league & aliance betweet their people, wherebyon enfued greate wealth and quietnelle to both their king-Domes.

finally Hungus walted with a continual con- Hungus falfumption deceased, dely vering by his kinadome leth in coninto the handes of hys. some Dorstolozonis, sumption. and that in the prefence of King Conuall, who Conuall delikewyle lyned not long after hym, foz in the ceassech also fifth years of his raigns her lykewyle departed 802. lo.Ma. oute of thes Molocloe, by force of naturall fickneffe.

Dobles conflyect agayuffe byin, forcing one Alpige conto the Crowne, who percepuing there was no nobles, taketh remedie, but exiber to follow their mindes, or elle be crowned to be murthered amonged them contented to the king-with them into Araple, where they purpoled to crowne him king sitting won the Chapte of Marble, according to the maner,

Alpine vowil . ing to receive the crowne. fled.

Alpine was inviully receyued of

Alpine his excufe vnto Dongall.

Horobeit at his comming into that countrey, he found meanes to conuey himself from amogst them, least through his meanes the quiet state of his countrey thoulo be brought into trouble: and forthwith being escaped out of their handes with a few other that were priup to his intention, hee maketh all the halt he coulde, till he came to the presence of Dongall, who recepted him in most joyful wife, promiting that if it thould be thought necessarie by the estates of the realme, he woulde 10 gladly religne unto him his whole crowne and dignitie, desirous of nothing moze than to fee the aduauncement of the house of Achaius. Suche fayth he, were the merites of that famous prince towardes the preservation of the Scottish common wealth, that it were to much wickennelle to goe about to defraude his issue of the inheritance of the realme.

Alpine giving the king most hartie thankes, belought him to continue in the administration, drawing Bod and the worlde to witnesse, that he minded nothing leffe than to be about to clayme the government of the kingbome to long as he lived. For as touching his offence, in that he had gathered an armie and ledde the same into Eraple, it was not his fault, but the conspiratours which had forced him thereto, being determined to have flaine him, if he had not confented finte they delires.

Within three dayes after, there came mellen- Dengeil gers from the rebelles to excuse themselves also, kething and to put all the fault in Alpine: but king Don- rebeller gall giving finall credite to their forged worder. gathereth his power, and maketh such speede tomarnes the place where he understood the fayorebels were assembled togither; that he was buon them ere they had any knowledge of his letting forwarde. So that before they coulde make any thift to escape out of daunger, which they went about to do, they were apprehended, and immediately condemned and put to death. Which erecution put other prefumptuous persons in feare, to that the state of the Realme remayned aftermaros a great deale the moze in quiet.

Eganus murthereth his

Milelt things paffed thus in Scotlande, C= ganus the feconde tonne of king Bungus the Pidill king, found meanes to murther his brother Derftologgus, to the ende he nuight raigne in his place: and through support of some of the nobilitie he atterned to his purpole. And for that he woulde affure himfelfe the more firmely in the effate, be frankly bellowed his fathers trealure as mongst his Lozdes and chiefest peeres of the 50 realine, and twice to wife also Brenna the king of Mertia his daughter, which his brother the forenamed Dorftologgus had marico, that thereby he might allwage the layor king of Mertia his Dilpleasure, which otherwise he should happely have concepued for the drath of his other sonne in law the same Dorftolozgus.

Pis feare was great on eche lide, and therefore had small affiance in any person, boubling Egran least one or other thouse seeke to centrage his bib there death! he durft neuer go any water weth abrode without a garde of men of waser theme him , whome he had wonne and made weath friends by his palling great larges and brandle liberalitie. It length yet, his wife in etange of hir former hulbandes death, tomide meantsto strangle him as he lay one night de a lesse wing deunke a little to muche in the country of Example foze, and in this loze he came to his elicitation be franch had raigned much what about the spaces two PERTES.

Thus both Egamis and Donlos by ing made away without leaving the interested them, for formuch as now there terms produce of the polleritie of thinging to increme al ground

ment of the Picilihe kingdonie, Alpine nephewe to the fame hungus, by bis filter ferguliana, with the admife of king Dongalt, made clayme theronto, and theropon fent his mellengers on= to the loads and precess of the Piciff dominion, out to require them on his behalfe, that he myght be recepted to the governmente of the kingdome due unto him by lawfull inheritance, as they wel pnoerstode : and that if they throughly considered of the thing, they might perceive it was the pro= 10 mens handes. mion of Amightic God, that for want of law= full fuccession lineally descended from Hungus now to fuccede in the estate of the Picitik king= pom, by this meanes both the nations Scottes and pictes should be invned in one, to the abolifling of all fuch moztall warres, as by discorde and contention might argle betwirte those two people, in lyke forte as before tyme there hadde done, to the great perill and danger of both their btter ruines.

The Pictiff novilitie having knowledge that these messengers with suche kynde of message flould thortly come from Alpine, with generall consent and whole agreemente, chose one fereboth to be their king, a man of greate authozitie amongell them, supposing this to be a meane to defeate Alpines title, and that thereby he thoulde freme to be excluded from any further clayme.

Within frime daves after, came buto Camelon the Scottiffe amballadors, where Feredeth 30 morigell them which offered not to spende both he ambifis with his nobles at that veclente were aftembled: they being admitted therfoze to declare their mel fage, when they began to enter into their matter of the right which Alvine had to the kingdom of the Dides, the people woulde not luffer them to plocecoe any further therein, but began to make fuche an uproze, that to appeale the noyle, Fere= orth himselfe twke byon him to make aunswere buto the Amballadors, and therboon commanding fflence, beclared brito them that the Pittes 40 tra Feredeth neyther might noz ouight to admitte any franserie ger to reigne ouer them: for there was an antient the Sco- lawe amongst them, of molte bigh authotitie, that in case of necessitie they might transpose the crowne from house to house: And further, that by the same law ther was an exdinance decreed, that if any man were once made a created king, he might not be depoted outling his natural lyte. Ind therfore though it well to that Alpite wete the nephrine of Hungus by his tiller Fergilli- 50 and, pet bicault he was a lithunger borne, and condering withal, that the beside by their fift anthogitie had translated the regall administration buto an other house, of the whiche one was at readie proclaimed and innelled kying, there was no reason nowe, who Alpine divalve make any further clapme or demaunde buto the kingborn.

Upon the mellengers return bome with this animer, Dongal flewed bimself to be in no final Dongall hys chafe, that the Pittes Houlde thus goe aboute displeazure with the Pictes by fuche subtill argumentes and contriuce in aunsweare. uentions to defraude Alpine of his righte. And to the second therepon the second tyme besente his amballadozs unto them, requiring them exther to dot Ambastadowis him reason without any further surmised causts lations, eyther else within. iii. moneths space affe ter, to loke for open warres at the Scottiffe

These Ambassadours passing forth on there iourney, at their approching onto Camelon, cer= taine fergeants at armes met them, and did for= Ambassadours bid them to enter the citie: also they further co- are not receymannoed them in name of Feredeth their king wed. to anoyde out of the confines of his dominion within foure dayes space, byon pain of death.

The Amballadors being terrified with fuche Warre is promaner of inhibitions, they went no further; but nounced vnto 20 pet according as they had in commission, they the Pictes. pronouted the warre in the name of Alpine and Dongal, requiring those that thus came to meet them to gine lignification therof onto their mais ffer Feredeth, and to the whole Didilye nation: and to returned home the lame way they came.

Then vio the Scottithe Logdes repaire unto Dongall, who the fame tyme lave in Carlyke called and there taking counted for the mayntenance of these warres, not one was founde as lyfe, landes, and godes in Alpines roghtuous quarell'.

By this means was great preparation made on both froes for the warre, the Scottes tilyil willingly gine ding to fet Alpine in his right, and the Pitts des them felues termining not to receive any mines of a france vano the war, nation to reigne ouer them. But while ! Woticall coeth about to provide all things reading to: his enterprife, be chaunced to be browned the

are lent again.

in a beateling and and soit soit die filice unit The willian haptier find acties of grain of 930

king of Scot-

his reigne, and after the birthe of pur Samour, 810, his bodie was burpt d in Colmekill, with all fuucrail oblequics.

Alpineerouned Sifter Dongall was Alpyne recepted to the king of Scot- Icrotone and gonernement of the realme by the generall voyces of all the people, whose chiefest studie was byon his first entring into the e= Rate to followe his fuite touching his title to the Diffish kingdom: and herebyon with all viligece preparing a mightie holte and all other thinges

(which were thought requilite for the furthering of his enterplife) he pellen forth setnantis an Alpine with or his emergence be cannet of the castel of fine pictiance. fair, whiche he belieged, but the thirm pare after. his comming thither, Feredeth the pickithe king with a great armie of his fullettes arounded in and order of battaple, came and prefented him felfe in fighte of the Scottes, wherepon immes diately neere to the towne of Restennatif they mette, and iopnying there in battaple; foughts

Fenedocht the Thanc of Athole.

righte fiercely: At the fielte encounter the righte wong of the Scottiffic armie was necre hand of nertozowne, but Kenedocht lieutenaunte of Itholl came speedyly to the succours with. 400. of his countrevinen, and restored the betayle on the Scottilly live: whereby enfued a regist cruell bickerping with great flaughter, and no signe of Drinkyng on cyther parts, by meanes whereof it semed doubtful for a log space to whether side the victoric woulde enclyne. It length feredeth percepuing the myddle warde of his vattaple 40 cape they fled incromently the lane nighthans a little to flyinke, succovive vecased forthe to factour the same with a chosen companie of such as her hadde appoputed to attende him: but en= tring thus with arrate violence amongelt the thickelt prease of his enimies, he was closed in ensche lyde, and excluded to from the relidue of besome people, that he coulde neyther returns by the same wave her entred, neyther pet by any other, so that hee with those that were with bill perceiulng their lynes to be in present dans 5 art, they didde caste themselves into a rong. beterminung yet to reuenge they owne beaths. wherebypon rather awearped with continuall front, than vanquisted or with any feare onpressed, they were slapue all the whole number of them, togyther with Feredeth their king. Det herewith did not the other Pictes gine over the battaple, so long as any daylyghte was on the feve. So that the neight in the ende parten then in funder, bothe the armyes withdrawing to the pight their campes with finall love of triumphe, by reason of the greate laughter, which had bene made on both lives.

The Captaines of the Piotes marting with The pider the sclues the lotte of their kings great providing seed by might from their not their to absocant four ger inthe field : wherfare leaving their mounded people behind them, with all their baggagein the into one place, a some into an other, where there thought bell for their owne welth air softle of the Scots had the immediate his wife but that word was brought them, as they were bout to depart how the Piers were gove all the and had left their canipe poppeof men of white to defende the fame. Wherepouthe similar in red the in the interest of the control of the interest of the inte battail. In the morning their wer certail in men apoputed to ride absode, ato bishes is the therby to procedland whether y fairs, went and decepte by their departure, as by Laping of the embutimets, or otherwile, but byon & frimme thole portme: whe it was once known but the was no fuch mater, but p they wer fled in the social recovering therat, felto a gathern kind of the ficide, deviding the fame among the wide the fr felues according to their accustomed ords

Alpine himselfe commaunded the bodie of his minue Feredeth to be layde in chaistian buriall, not farre from Forfair. After this caufing the musters of his people to be taken, he found that be had loft by third part of his armie in that moze tall and crucil battaile, and therebpon brake bp his campe for that tyme; licencying those that were left aline to returne onto their homes.

This battaile being fought in the firste yeare of the reignes of the two forelayd kings, weak= 19 ned the forces of both the natios, to farforth that the Scottes doubting to bring the realme into paunger of otter ruine (if they Coulde committe their whole puissance eftswies to the hazarde of an other foughten field) determined to purfue the marre by making of incursions and invodes on= le prontheir enimies, to to vere the Diffes, and to being them unto reason, if it were possible: and so much verily the Scottishme vid by such their into Angus, that the countrie was left boyd and desolate of all the inhabitants.

Perther did Brudus the sonne of Feredeth, whome the Pictes had chosen to succede after his father in the kingdome) fonde any fpeedy redefle to withstande those dayly inualions thus made by the Scots byon his countreis and Cubicites, for he was but a flouthfull person, & very negligent in his office, wherepon he was had in eth- him amongst themselves before he had reigned fully the terme of one whole yeare.

Then succeeded Keneth, the lecond fount of feredeth, with no better happe or ende than-his brother. For gathering togither an armisof his lubieds, and comming with them into Ingus, th he came no fonce within lighte of his enimyes, ne but that easting off his armour, he fled incontinintly, leaving his people in the fielde. And for that his halte, was flavne by a Ploweman that met him by channee, and kniew him mot hutperequed yet howe he haveled from his comepany, and therefore defermed not to have any other fauour.

Bis people feeing themselves destitute of their bead capitarn and governour, retired from their enimies, keeping themselves in order of batavic mithout any further attempt.

After this infortunate and of Keneth, the Di- Brudus kyng des chole to their king one Brudus aman of a of the pictes. stoute and manlyke stomack, who immediately byon his entring into the affate, comming into Angus which regio the Scots had inade mast) catched there certaine Scottidi robbergo + forth= with hanged them by byon gibetswick state

After this, he fent foath his ambaffadoms unto Bludus fent ynking Alvine for reformation of all injuries and to Alpyne for mionis betweete the two nations, and to have renuing their the auncient league renewed betweete them?

Alpine the Scotill lordes having quickely Alpyn refuseth aduited what to answer, beclared unto the Bices any treatie of commal rodes and incursions which they made 20 till) amballadors playuly, that they would not peace. heare any treatic for peace, till the Picts had delivered the kinadome but othe right beire.

282 unis understanding by this answere, that Brudus fedeth the Scots would fill follow the warres againtl an amballadot the Piers, to be the better able to withstand their vinto Edwyn malice, in purposed to procure the fremeship of land for and the Englishmen; to have their ande agapuff the with a fumme Scotter He fent therfore his ambassators with of money. a great himme of money buto Everyn king of dention of his ofon people, who in the end llew 30 Morthumberlande, requiring him of his famout, and to have some number of his people for his mages to ferue him against the Scots.

Edwyste recepuing the moneye promiled to The money comphimicale with a mythic armie, at inhat is received & tyme and place Biudus should appoint; to mor aide promiled. against the Scottes in defence of him and this fubicites the Wiftes. and a sour of man out set that

Many of the Pides releveedigrentily, that The picts fom they would have aninchus of the Englishmen, doe rejoyce. hoping therby to hane affected this ofice of these and some myaductaties. Other muliculied not a little the englishe mens Englishmens offers, by really of the olde engent alsiftance. tie betweirt the Diffes and then increase process

In this means leason thousands take a lease by the countrepoof Angus; even from the The Scotes mountain of Erangebene betrathe river of Cap. where Unions being tectified, femocth a bolle imitiral forcochatoriana Coroin king of 120 Braduslendeth thumberland, requiring him to fend to his apoe, vato Edwin for a power of Englishmen, to helpe to relite the ayde. o Scottes, withiche at that presente invaded his ักรารแล้วเลืองสามารถ รายที่ country von.

initiationolieth bernand, Edwar made ties ans Edwar defer-fredering that he was not only troubled with clutte rech his ayes. warre made against him by other Englishmen, but also have bin requested by Lewes lumained Pins, as then french king in no tople to encoinage the Scottes his confederates, to that for that yeare present he might not concuiently send to him any faccoures, but if he wold deferre the marres till the nexte peare, he Moulde have the beste helpe that he were able to shewe hom. Brudus perceyning himfelse thus mocked &

Feredeth is

Brudus being deluded by the englishme, comaded by solemne descived of the funnionance that all suche of his subjectes, as called his own were able to beare armoz, mould assemble in me= subjects to the Calpdone within eighte dayes after, wyth the foot of Ci- his plrature. lydon wood.

His commaundement was obeyed: so that a mightie armie of men at the daye and place ap= poputed came togither, whiche beeing mustred, Brudus ente - they streight ways remoue bnto Calpdon castel, reib into An - now called Dunkeld, where they passe the river gus withauar of Cap, and so enter into Angus, not without some difficultie, but being once gotten over, they marche forthwith towardes the place wher they bidersion their enimies did lye.

Bandus the night before the day in the which he thought they should have battaile, by the adnice of certains expert warriours, whiche he had with him, appoputed all the hogics that were in A woonderfull the campe, serving for burden, to bee bestowed polycie vsel by amongst the women, lackeys and copsitels, part Brudus. of them being clad in armure, and pattin white Innen with long polles in their handes was to speares and fauelius. Among them allothes of depned an hundled hollinen to be placed follom 30 be made privile to his entention, as the by whole leading that feate which should be wroughte in this behalfe, was to be atchieucs. These he caufed to lye concretly within a wood neere buto the riace where the battaile flould be fought, giving them in comannoment not to Azwe themsclucs till the battarle were begon.

King Alpine this hohole belde himselfe in a castest, whiche stode proman hill, a little from 40 Dundee, berng nowederaped, so that litte ther= ping of Alpyn of runaineth to be soethe at this daye. Apon the mathsive of the hille, there lyeth a greate large playne, compassed on eche side with mountains as then full of wwioes and laundes, but now for the most part bares without any trees of bushes In this playne were the Scottes encamped.

Alpine beholding forth of the castell, how the Diffes approched to give battaple, got him into the canme, a exhapting his people to fixed them 50 felnes valiant, disposed them in array.

The Pictono lelle delyzous to fight that their governours woulde have willed them; because pictes begyn the battaile befoze they had commanutationte mith furth minimuse that the state Scottes mas fore dilordered.

But Alpine perceiving that, came speedply fo thrir fuccours, greatly reproving them for their farntnesse of contage. To be fliozt, he divde so muche to envolven them that by his meanes the fighte was renued in moste cruell wyse, In so muche that those whiche before were put backe. began to winne grounds agapne, and to beate powne their enimics right fiercely.

But berewith did the counterfaite troupe of hossemen, whiche was hid in the wood sodainly come fourth, and thewed themselves boon the The Scotter back half of p Scottillimen, appering in light to with a count bling them at convenable provision of victuals, there to knowe 10 be an huge number, and far more than they were terfait trown in deede : with whiche light the Scottes beeing of horimen brought into a sodain feare least they shoulde be compassed aboute with multitude of enimics, they brake their aray, threwe off their armoure. and toke them to their feete, fo to escape & same themsclues by flight. Thus fewe were flanne in the battaple, but a great number died in $ chale, and were beaten downe on eche fide as they wer ouertaken by the Picks.

Alvine himselfe was taken, and haupng his handes bounde behynde him, was led to the next King Alpro fowne, and there beheaded. The place beareth taken by hy p name of him buto this day, being called Pal- ter beheate alpine. His head also was set vyon a polle, and borne onto Cancion and there fet up won one of the highest currets of the wall.

The Stotfes that eleaped from this logoet full ouerthrow, got them with all speed into the famocofulpi gyle, wher they invelled Kenneth the long of invested Alpine king of their realm. This was in the pere of Scotland of our Lozde. 834, and the fourthe years with Alpyneentred fyelt into the allate.

The Dictes haning afchiened this great and loyfull biffozie, affembled at Camelon by commaundement of their king, where camings The Piere lemne procedion to be made, in rendfing their charles to almight to God, for the patter forming their charles to the patter forming their charles to the patter forming their their charles to the patter forming the patter forming the patter forming the pattern of the patt the Bothell booke, that from thencement They aik would not cease to make the tottes were they had betterly deliroped the race of them! and timen the herewith oxoryned arlaw, that if arministration the Scottes, he Could lole his head for it.

There were in decde some suncient personages amongs them, that spain against this info lent outrage of the prople, allenging that intime of profections fucceste men ought to vie a modes flic : but certain youthfull persons offended with fuch grant adult, theulte the authorstherofont of the Churche, within the whiche they were as: then affembled.

The Scottes being certified hereof, were nothing therewith discouraged, but rather put in and hope of better successe, lith the enimics buled themselves thus in tyme of felicitie.

: Scots arc

. in them

Brodus dyed.

Praikene

The next fommer after, the Pictes affembled -Pictes fall their power together, and letting foremande tomardes the Scottes, thorough a light occasion. they fel at variace amonast themselves, courbt with suche hatred together, that the king was not able to apeale the fray til nyght parted them: 20 in funder.

> Then calling the lozdes afore him, he allapte al wayes to have agreed the parties, but whe he faw it would not be, in the morning he gave the licence to departe enery man to his owne home, breaking off his journey for that tyme.

> Brudus lived not palt. iii. moneths after, for through griefe that things wente not forewarde as he wither, he fell into a grieuous dileale, and finally therof dyed.

> After whose decease the Wickes chose his brother named Dzulken, to lucreede in gouernes mente of the kinadome, who applied his whole endeuour opon his fielt entring into the affaie, to appeale the civile discord amongest his subtests:

But whilest he was thus bulily occupied about ang Aline is the faine, there were certain Scottes, which fore int, and to- disdained to understand b the head of they late and baried king thuld remain unburied in luche reprochful perfecte knowledge of the Wististe toung! they tayned themselves to be nicrehaunt men of that countrey, and comming vinto Camelon, watthed their tyme till they founde meanes in the night scalon, to steale to the walles, and secretly taking awave the heade, escaped with the same home into their owne countrope. This after of theirs was not a little commended: and brown the head of king Alvin being recovered, was clofed in a leaden coffin, and Kenneth himitelfe, ha= 's uing in his companie a great number of his not bles, went with it over into Colmkill, where he burped it in the abbey, amongst the separatives of his closes together with the relivue of the bodge in right folenme wyle, as averteyned. Ind filether thole persons that had put their lyues in ad= uenture to fetche the fame head from the walles of Camelon, wer by Keneth rewarded with rich mencion of any peace of league to be had topties gifts and lands in perpetuitie to remain to them and to their beites for ever-

After this Benneth deufing for the luxetie of Keneth fortifihis sobjectes, furnished all the holdes and callels ed the realem. on the frontiers of his enimics with men & mus nition, according as he thought expedient. And moreover twice order, that all the pouth of the realme should be in a readinesse upon air houres warning, to goe forth against the Pickes, if they at a man and the rich to attempted any new invalions.

> But the Scottill lordes had no great luft to take any enterprise in hand sittones against the Pices, remembring how infortunatly they had fued the last time: so that for the space of iti. pca= res there was no areat explorte atchiened. faue certaine roades and incurtions, whiche both the nations cotinually bled to make one boon an o= ther, as tyme and occasion served.

At lengthking Kenneth beeing bery belirous Keneth calto be reuchged of the Pictes, for the death of his led his nobles father king Alpine; and other iniuries by them fathers death. done and attempted against the Scottiffi natio. in the fourth peare of his reigne, he affembled the peeres and chiefest nobles of his realme, trusting to perfusive them to avoid im in al fuch enterpris fesas he mente to take in hand against the Dictes whom he purposed to pursue with opewarres, till be had them at his pleasure.

But calling his lordes and oceres thus af-30. fembled one day before him, and going earneftly about to move them to the warres, he could fric them no more to his purpole, than if he had ben in hand to have cofifeled them buto that which in no twofe had appertained buto their dueties: which their lacke of Romacks. Kenneth vercepuing, he began to deuik a pretie Wift, whereby to induce them to his accorde. And the Little field therfore, breaking sp. the allemblie for the lance day, he commanded by they flound rome the body. And their entities, whereboth hailying 40 togither agapine on the next mozow, to equilit devised by the further for the flate of the realnie, as they floudy king to perfee eanle. The lame evening also bechau them swade the noall to lumer, which being prolonged tylk farre in the night, it was late before they went to hea, forthat being operwatched, when they were once gotten to refle, they were some broughte into a found fleepe: Pow had the king appointed for enery one of their chambers one man apparelled in gamentes prettly deviled and made of folhe thinks unlkaled, bearing in one of their hands a staffe of suche rotten was e. as shanething the night, and in their other hand a great orchopic to the end othat bitering their wol wathordings the laine, the found of their bonces Mondai Wint farre differing from the bluall speeche obutame.

Times appointed in the nead of the might They enter the chambers to eche of them afficued; where lagis land) the lower lage lasts affiness;

tentimes no

ly vitions in the light (doubting whether it wer but a dreame of some true and untayned vision.) Herewith als fo were heard certaine several boyces, fatte greater than those of men, declaring that they were mellengers sente from almightie God buto the Scottiff nobilitie, to commaunde them to ober their king, for his requelt was cult: The Pickith Offish flighmany in thole kingdome due buto him by rightefull heritage, to ther, without token of trumpet or commandes dayes : and of- quant to be recourred from that people, which for their great offeces and finnes towards almighto be heaven- tic god frould Chartly come to otter destruction: fuch was the determinate pleasure of his divine maiestic, against the whiche might neyther cous fell not puissance of man be able to resist.

who being at the fiell as it were half awakered, were wonderfully amazed at the Arangenelle of

When the counterfaited messengers had thus made an ende of their wordes, they flighly hid their stanes buder their innermost garmentes, & therwith quikly concyd their uppermolt veftures 20 made of fill) fkales (as I have faid) into their bod forus in suche slight and minute wose, that it se= tned these visions had sodepuly vanished away.

Those lozdes that had seene these lightes, lay fill for that night, greatly muting on the mater. In the morning being got by, and affenibled in the counsell chamber, they veclared to eche other what they had feene and heard in the nyght pal= fed, and for that all their visions which they had feene by ethe others reporte, were in every behalfe; o lyke, and nothing differing one from an other, they believed verily, that it was some celestiall ozacle and message sent from God. Theresoze clare their vi- presently they goe unto the king, declaring unto fion voto the him how they had been admonissed from aboue, to continue the warres with all their forces a= vainst the Pickes.

The king toloc them be had frene the like bis The answer of sion, but they ought to kept it close, least by glo= king Kenneth trying to much in the favour thewed by almigh= 4 tie God towardes them, they myghte haply displease his divine Maiestie, which otherwise they might percevue was readie in their apde. Then finally might the vision be published, when thorough his favourable affiliance, the warres were brought to a luckie ende.

This adult of the kying was well lyked of them all, and commaundement given, that all maner of provision floulde be prepared with all speece for an armic to be let forth into Pilland. 50 The lozdes going bulily about to prouide them= selves of all things necessarie, mustred their men in all partes, so that there was lenied a greater hoste than had bin seene in those parties of long trine before.

follier the whole power was come togy= ther, Benneth marched forth with the same, en= tring by greate violence into the Picrithe boz= duires about Sterling.

ar . an human Drufkenethe king of Pines aduertifebarre Pruskene b of, and having his armie in a readinelle both of his enimies Differ and fuch Englishmen as he had reteined to ferue him for his wages, fetcheth a compate about and palling by the Scottiffe armie in the night, encampeth betwirt them and home: in fa much that the days did no soner appeare, but the one parte defirous to be in hande with the oment of cautagne, they rulled together molle Aercely. The hallie fucede of the Piffes to ion: put them to no small visaduantage, but the departure of the Englishmen, withdrawingthan! The English felues alyde to the next mountagne, molte of all the and men discouraged them : for the Scottes therwith gi= ning a moute, declared themselves to bee highly recomforted with that light.

Dzulkene in all halt fent buto thole Englith men a mellenger, willing them with large profidmikene miles of rewarde to returne to his appe, but the fendeth to the Englishmen aunswered, that their ble was not Englishmen to fyght without other and comaundements of their generall, and that the Pittes lyke bulkisful men had calt away themselves to bee slapne by the enemies hande: where it appertaines, unto marloke knowledge to anopde the battail anti . bybatta no hope of victorie appeared.

... The middle warde of the Pittes feing thansclues left naked on the one spoe, and estantenan the backes where the Englishmen Goulde hane kept their grounde and defended them, they began to Mainke: which the Scottes perceyuing, Aroke on the moze frelhly, til at length the Pitts The Pide a not able to withstand their force, fell to running vanquilled. away. They made their course towards the water of forth, whiche was not farre from the place of the battaile, where beeing puertaken; they were beaten downe and Cappe in areas: numbers: for Kenneth gave comandement that they fluid ware none of the Picts nation, wither gentleman noz other, p fel into their handes itali

The Englishemen whylest the Scottes ain The Foglish-Pictes were thus occupyed in the sygbie sum men elcape. chase, withozewe homemardes with all fresh and by reason of the mountagnes which the had to passe, that twke awaye the light of them from the Scottes, they escaped into their souns trep without any pursuiter and a dead of

Druskene himselfe so sone as hes wirmes howe the field went against him, got him bruskene dborle, which he hadde appoputed to bee geable for caped by him at hande upon all occasions, and to escape fight out of vaunger with a fewe other in his com-

The Scottes returning from the challente manned in the place of the battaple all main. keeping strong watche aboute their-come paubt least the Englishemen had bene lodged in fonte fecrete place nere by to have fet opon the at numares, if they might have feene any aduauntare; but in the morning when it was knowne howe they were quite gone their waves, and returned into they countrepe (as before pee haue hearde) then was the spoile of the fielde and 19i= inflie Campe gathered and bestowed amonaest the fouldiers, after the auncient' cultome of that fuery man to his home, with thankes for their fervice and paines in this journey so manfully imploped.

Within seine dayes after, the Pickishe king Duskene sent his ambassadors buto king Kenoth to fue for peace. Kenneth was contented to heare them, and promised to graunt a peace, so ther mould furrender into his handes the couer= nement of their kingdom due buto him by right of inheritance. But this condition being btter= 20 ly refused of the Pics, was y cause that the war was eftlones renewed with moze crueltie than before. The yeare nexte enluing this battaple. Kenneth got Mernes, Angus, and Pofe into his handes, furnishing all the eastels and holds with men, munition, and victuals. But whylest hee went about to subout the countreis about Sterlong, worde was brought him that suche as he lest thus in garison in those countreps, were be= traved by the inhabitauntes, and Clayne everye 30 mothers fonne.

Kenneth wonderfully kindled in weathe for the newes, left off his treatie which the had in hands with the people of Menteth and Ster= lugshire for their submission, and returned in greate half towardes Fyfe, where being arrived. he put all to the fire and swood, not leaving one alpue of the Pickithe nation within all those whole countreys of Mernes and Angus, for an infample to other to beware howe they fallifyed their fayths once given by way of allegiance.

item is- In the meane tyme that Kenneth with hys Scottes raged in suche wyse throughe those countreys, Dzuskene assembling all the power of his countrepes, came forthe into the fictoe, to meete the Scottes, meaning eyther to put them backe out of the confines of his dominion,

Thus palling through & coutrey, at length he came ento Scone, where afterwards flod a famons Abbey of Chanons of Saint Augustines vider, and here he found Kenneth with his army elicedp encaped. The next day when both parties were ready to haue given battell, Dzufkene willing rather to alke peace whilest his power was pet in safetie, then after he were once banquilled (if such were his misabusture) to intreate for the same in vaine, sent an herauloe at armes buto Kenneth, willing that he might talke with him before they joyned, for that he had to fav cer= taine things whiche being followed might turne to the great benefite and commoditie of both the Scottish and Pickish nations.

The Historie of Scotlande.

Kenneth for that he would not seeme to re= natio. And then were they al licenced to departe to fule any indifferent offers, was cotented to come to a comunication, a fo therbpon both the kings in presence of both their armies arraunged in the field ready to fight, came togither in a place appointed, either of them being accompanied with a like number of their nobles, as by the herauldes it was accorded.

Here Dzuskene with many reasons going The persuaabout to perswade peace, the wed howe necessary fion of peace the same was betwirt the two nations. And a= by Druskene. gaine how doubtfull fortune was to them that trusted to much in hir bustedfast favour, at leath he archy to this end that if Kenneth could be co= teted to graunt a peace, the Picks fould release al fuch right, title and interest as they had in the Merns, Angus countreps of Mernes, Angus, & fyfe, buto him and Fyfe is reand his fuccessors the Scottist kings for ever so quired of the that he Gould make no further clarme to any o= Pictes to rether of those countreps whiche the Dickes as yet possessed.

Herrebnto Kenneth answeared, that he well Kenneth his bnderstwde how bustable fortunes lawes were, answere. but sithence the Pictes fought in an vniust quarell, as to defraude the polleritie of they? lawfull king Hungus, who lately reigned amongst the of the rightfull inheritaunce of thep; kingdome, they themselves had full cause to doubt fortunes chaunce, where the Scots having put byo lawful armure, and heking to attaine that by warre. whiche by other meanes they could not attayne The lyke crueltie was thewed thorough the 40 at the handes of the butult pollitors, they had lesse cause to mistrust by favour, and therefore if the Pices were delirous of peace, they ought to cause a surrender to be made of thep2 king= dome into his handes, accordingly as they well kneweit was reason they shoulde: and what commoditie might thereof enfue to both nations bring by luche meanes once joyned a bnited into one entier kingdome, hee doubted not but they bnderstwde it sufficiently enough. And as for erther elle to de with honoure in the attempte 50 other conditions of peace than this, he told them plainely there would be none accented.

> Thus did the kings depart in funder, without any agreement concluded: and being returned to they armies, they make ready to trie the mater by dinte of fww2de.

Kenneth exported his people that day to alem themselves menne, sithe the same soulde wore whether the Scottes Houlde rule and gouerne, the Pickes, or the Pickes the Scottes.

With these and many other effectual words when he hadde encouraged his folkes to the bat= taple, hee deuided them into three wardes, as two wings and a mayne battagle. In euery of them he fet fyelt archers & arkbalefters, and next unto them pykes or speares, then bill men and other with fuche Morte weapons, last of all, an other multitude with all kynde of weapons as mas thought moste expedient.

The forewarde was committed to the leading of one Bar, a man right skilfull in al warlyke knowledge. The seconde one Dongal governed, and the thirde was ledde by Donald the kings hoother. The king himselfe with a trouve of horsemen followed them to succour in all plas ces where he law neede.

Then commanded he his trumpets to cound

cabaldenesh

176

The order of

the battaile.

to the battail, which the Scots organ with luch a chearcful floute, that the Biffes euen voon the King Drusken first onset were so amazed, that if Drusken had 30 chase to breake their araye, so to passe the more not with comfortable words relieued their fain= his people the tyng stomakes, the most part of them had fledde without any ftroke ftricken. But beeing encouraged throughe the presence of their kyng, the= wing himfelse with chearefull countenanuce a= mongs them, and therewith exhorting them to stande by him at that present, there was fought a righte fore and cruell battaile betweene them.

The women that were amongest the Pistes, of whome there was no small number, special= 4 ly in the right wing, made fuche a woeful norse were caumber when they behelve the men one kill an other, that they were a more encumber to the Pias, tha and when it came to the point of service: by reason wherof, that wing was though beaten bowne, and put to flight.

Kenreth with the horimen ditordred the pictes aray.

to the pictes.

The right wing of the pictes is put to flighte.

Whiche when Kenneth behelde, hee lette in with his hortemen on the backes of the Piffes, now left bare by the running thus away of those in the forelayd wing: and so entring in amongst 50 them, vilozoged their aray in luche wife, that by no meanes they were able to arde themselves, or come into any order agagne, so that in the ende they were fagne to throw down their weapons, and take them to their feete, thereby to escape the daunger.

Suche heapes of Clayne men, armure & weapons lay here strewed in the place of the battail, that the Scottes were inforced in following the freedily : by meanes wherof, fallyng amongest wholle bandes of the pittes, mange of them mere flanne.

This mischiese Kenneth percepuing, coman- Kenneth e deth to found the retreat, & so gathering his peo- feth the s ple about their standerdes, he appointed certaine treate to copanics in warlyke order to purfue in chake of founded. the enemies, whilest he himselfe with the resour aboade still in the place (where the fielde was o fought) al that day & the night nexte following.

The Scottishe captaines that were lente to follows the chase, earnestly in executyng theye kinges commaundement, made greate flanghs ter of the Piltes in all places where they might ouertake them.

Daulkene the Picilie king himbelle bergng The king purfued to the river of Tap, for that he continued the picts palle the same, was there staine with the whole retinue which he had about him.

It is layor, that the Scottishemen encount tred with the Picks that day feven liming times, and in seven sundry places, and still the billegic aboade with the Scotters.

The day after the battaile suche as had fale lowed in the chale returned to the camp, where they presented buto Kenneth their king, the armure and other spoyle of Dunkene the Piail The Historie of Scotlande.

king, which they brought with the, belives great aboundance of other pillage and riches, whiche they had got of the enimies that were flayne. Dufkenes armure and other things belonging to his owne bodie, was offered by to S. Colme. in the Churche dedicated to his name within the Ile of Colmekill, there to remaine as a monumit of this victory to such as thould come after.

Ifter this the whole pray and spoyle was ga= neth was counfilled to have discharged his ar= mic and to have departed home, but he purpolina now to make an ende of the whole warres, lithe he was in suche a forwardnesse, called togither the multitude, and in this wife began to btter buto them his minde and purpole. It is the ductie of a good Cautaone, when 1. cravion of Kenech. be hath the victory in his handes, and as pet the warres not ended, if he minde the veclernation of himselfe and his countrey, and to vse the vi= 20 and deciding it amongst his nobles, according forie as hee ought, not to ceasse from pursuing the enimics once vanquished, till hee have eyther made them his frendes, or else betterly de= flroped and ridde them out of the way: for if as ny man chall thinke it beste to suffer the enimie to remagne in quiet after he be once weakened and brought to a lowe cobe, till time peraduenture he Chall haue recouered his forces agayne, he thall procure to himselse (as I geste) more daun= we may freake somewhat of this daunger now present, the state of the Picisile kingdome (as yer know) is fore enfeebled, they wower being diminished by force of warre, is brought to that pornt, that it resteth in our bandes betterly to destroy and exterininate the whole nation. Which ad make to be abhorred if it were polfible for his by any meanes to prawe them (our honour fauco) buto our frenoshippe. But the Picts are of fuch a stubborne nature, and so best = 40 rous of revenge, that so long as there remayneth any one of them alive, they will beare in they? hartes a delire to revenue all fuche losses as they have in any wyse sustained by this warre. Whereupon I om verily believe that there is none of the Picilike nation from hence fouth, will beare any faythfull fremothip towardes the Scottes. Therefore lithe wer can not make the Pides, thus lately fkounded by bs, our frendes, owne laseties) biterly to delicop the jubole wation, by putting to the functor not onely bothe mm and women, but also all thepe youth and pong chylogen: least they, beyong discenden of that lynage, hercafferisotime to come, arme the sclues to the revenge of they) parentes deaths, and that not without petill of the beter tolle of our countrey and kingrome.

This fentence of the king, though it feemed The commons over cruell to many, pet whether for that they kings frying. fawe the func to stande with the kings pleasure, or that they thought it most expedient for the furetic of the Scottiffe common wealth, it was allowed and ratified by them all.

Such crucitic herebpo was forthwith flew- A cruelacte ed through out all the Pictill regions, that there committed by was not one luting creature of humane flape the Pictes. thered and devided amongst the fouldiers, Ben= 10 left alive, saving such as saved themselves with= in the walles of Camelon, or in certaine other holdes and fortreffes, and also aboute two thous lande of those that fledde into Englande: for all the relique were moste bunicrepfully murthered and Clayne without respect cyther to age, like, profession, or estate.

Thus Kenneth having dispatched the inha- Pictland parbitants. feafed the contrep into his owne hands, ted voto dimaking particion of the same as he sawe cause, uers men. to the merites of every of them duely waged and considered, he added nowe names also buto eue= ry quarter and region (either after the name of the governour, or els of some promontorie, ri= mer or other notable water or place, according as was the auncient custome of the nation) that the memory of the Pidille names might ende togither with the inhabitants.

The countrey aunciently called Horefia, News names ger than happely her is well ware of. And that 30 was given buto two beetherne, Angulian and are given voto Mernan, by reason whereof the one parte of enery region. the fame countrey was called Angus, and the o- Angus. ther the Mernes. The linage of those two noble Marne. men remarne buto this day.

> The region whiche till then was named otholinia, was turned afterwardes to the name of fyfe, after the name of one fyfe Duffe: whole Fyfe. baliancie was throughly tried in these laste warres with the Biffes.

There remapne bato this day tokens, and old ruines of a Castell situate betwirt the river of Leuine and Saint Kenneths churche, which (as yet appeareth) was fensed about with scuent rampers and as many diches, wherein the police ritie of this worthy man after his detentie has there habitacion by the space of many hundred peares.

Loughian reference fill the former name, so Louisian. honozable was the remembraunce of that fa-I thinke it beste (excepte mee will neglest our 50 mons Prince king Loth amongst all men.

> The strongest calife of the tohole country A rewarde gi-Ecuncilibelistico opon that valiant Captaine men sate Barnamed Bar toliofe council and forewarde fer foreselle of uice fron the Scottes en no fmall fleede in thule Dunbar. warres, in whiche the Bistes were thus subdued. That fintrelle euer fithence (after bis name bath bem calles Dunbar, that is today. the Callell of Bar.

There descended of hym a noble house of The famelie of family bearing the name of this Castell, continuing in greate fame and honour, euen bnto our tyine, of the whiche the Carles of Marche had they? beginning, and continued long in that dignitie from one to another, with divers branches of right famous memorie.

The names of divers dales were also chaun= geo, and some kepte the olde names still. The changyng of the names the name of Annandale, of the rouer of Annan, that renneth through the same. And so lykewise Tweedale twke name of Tweedale.

of the Dales.

Annandale.

the water of Tweede. And Cludesdale of the ryuer of Clud. Cladesdale.

In lyke maner many other Countreys, Townes and Castels had they? names chaun= ged at the same tyme, after they came into the possession of the Scottishmenne, voon sundzie conflocrations, for a witnesse of they? vistorious 20 aftes atchienco agayuft the pides.

The Gentlewomen are preistued in Camelon.

Furthermoze into the citie of Camelon were withdrawen the most parts of all the noble mens wines of the Picks with their chylozen upo truste to be sale in the same, acwell by reason of the strength of the place, as also of the strong gary son whiche was appoynted to desende it.

Kenneth sen-

Kenneth therefore hanging taken his pleaneta voto C1- fure abzoade in the countrey, came thyther with maunding the a mighty armie to besiege the Citie, and firste 30 till he had put the citie and them withins write for to yeelde. Cendyng buto them within, to knowe if they woulde preide, he was aunswered howe sithe it plainely appeared that the Scottes coulde be fatillied with nothing but with the flaughter of all suche as fell into they, handes, alwell of women and chylogen, with impotent age, as of other, they were minded neuer to surrender they? holde with lyfe. Wherebyon the liege continued by the fuare of many dayes.

They of Camelon require truce for three gotte togither greate number of faggottes, and other suche bruspeand Ausse to fill the ditches withall whiche were very deepe and broade, at length when they within beganne to want vitaples, they required a truce for three dayes, in the whiche meane time they might take adulle for the furrender of the Citie.

Kenneth mistrusting no decept, graunted they? request, and therespon commaunded his people to ceasse from all maner of annoyance of 50 sobstinate in theps within continue the enimics, for that terme.

The Pictes if-

But in the meane tyme the Place prepared themselves of all things necessary to make an great fortune. illue bpon the Scottes. There was also an olde gate forlet and stopped up with earth and stones bpon the one flor of the Citie, so that of a long tyme before there had bene no way forth by the same, wherefore in the varke of the night the Pictes rioding away the earth and ramel wherwith it was closed by, aboute the thyto watche. they passe for eth at that gate in good ofter of bats taple, fetting firfte bpon fuche Scottes as kepte the flandyng watche, who were in doubte of nothing leffe than of any issue to be made on that fide, by meanes whereof they were eatily sppressed, and likewise the other that kepte the inner watche, in so muche that the slaughter went Devolucia Aortely after beganne to take 10 on almoste, euen to the kings tent with greate nople and clamour, as is commonly freme in fuche sodayne tumultes, especially chancyng in the night season. When the day began once to appeare, the Pictes withdrawing towardes the Citie by the same way they came, were pursued by the Scottes, and no finall number of them flagne at the entring. The Citie also had bene taken at the same time, but that the Pictes ont of the turrettes and loupes of the walles, dischar= ged a wonderfull number of quarefles, dartes, arrowes, stones and other things oppon the Scottes, as they approched neare to the gate, where they? fellowes (that made the illue) halted to enter agains into the towns.

There were flayne of the Scottes at this An extreme bickeryng aboue lice hundled, wherewith Kent king konce neth was so kindeled with weath, that betelling the fallchoo of the Pilles, hee bowed by out othe that he woulde not departe from the liegh, one or other.

Sundaie times he attempted to have worme The walk the citie by force of assaulte, but the peter till of the Pides defended they walles to fourty, that he would befoge. not atchieue his piupole. Wihererpen the lege continued the space of foure mounts the state. So that luche scarcetie of all kinoes of belog Will role amongst them, that the wreither the Wilhylest the Scottes in the meane tyme 40 tezins abstayned from nothing that mighting ny wife be eaten, though it were never form to be abhorred. And pet although they have brought buto fuche milerable Capi Call ny man notwithstanding all suches were hearde to make mencion of interest was fwythwith flagne by his fellows mimic to his nation and kimb bridge It was thought that Kennicips of the cause they salve nothing that death to be so to continue they such median of printing the salve of printing th

It length when the citie marchine into all extreeme milery, ethe diches faggottes and other facts finds night appoynted fire hunoreth of the Souldiers to lie in ambulie webie avioyning neare to one the of the

that in the morning when he shoulde give the affaulte on the contrary live, they might for These souldiers according to that whiche they had in commandeinent, Mortely after the breake of day, hearying that Kenneth had begon the affault on his parte, quickely came forth of the wood, and having they landers ready, caine The Scattes to the walles, reared them by, and swiftely getcar the citie, fing into the citie, opened one of the gates where ding in no doubt at all of any afteriupt on that five, to as being gotten togither to besende the walles on that parte where Kenneth gave the approche, and now hearing how the enimies were got into the citie, and comming on they? backes they were wonderfully amazed, but yet so long as they were able to make any resistace, they did what lay in they? offermoste power to brate backe the Scots, & to divue them out of the citic againe. The flanghter therefore was 40 the walles. Tepices are great whiche the Scottes made of the Pickes wice, without in every coance of the ffreetes, in so muche that neudof per- the Scottiffe Lordes and other Captarnes in reuenge of the late recepued losse of thepe men through the falle practifed policie of the Pictes, commaunded in a greate furie to fette fire on the houles, and to kill and are all suche of the pi= dillic nation as came in thep? way.

Thus the murder proceeded bpon al effates, afwell religious as other, and lykewife bppon 50 our fautour. 839. from the field coming of Fee women and chylogen without any difference.

I number of Lavies and Gentlewomen, Fixomen gettyng them into the refence of kyng Ken= cheking neth, besought him in moste lamentable wise, reconstinuit to have pytic open they wofull cleate, and to laue they? lyues from the handes of his moste cruell sondoiers. But suche was the rage kind= led in the Scottiffmens hartes, that there was no more fanour die web towardes them than towardes the other, and fo thinnediatly were they also flayne without all comp flion.

So farre forth was the niurder crecuted on all bands, that there was not one left aline of the all hands, that there was not she ket and strop All the Pictor Pictor pation, wither man, woman nor third natio destroy, to bewayle that interable destruction of they's ed one parte of the army entred, the cytesin's stan= 30 countrey and kintforkes. Then were the walles The civic of thrower notone and made cuin with the plaint throwe cown grounde. The houses and buylbings atwill pelnate as publike with the churches thapets were fet on fire, and that which might not be colliners with the rage of fire was rapitate and beliroyed with hande, to that there remained of all that famous citie, nothing but the affice with heape's of the broken and brenned fromes, and likewife of the pavement and fundacion of some parte of

The lame time the rallest of Maybens riete The caffell of called commonly Edinburgh tallell was fire Miviens kept with a mightle garybin of Biffes, but they picket, hearing of the interable vellenitio of Camelon, and boubting to fall into the like milchaunce left the callel bopoe, and fied life Dogthumberlaid. Thus ended the kingdome of the Pittes in Mi bion in the yeare after they fielte began to reigne therein. f 173, and in the yeare after the byzthis gus. 1166, and after the creation of the morlie. 4806. if the Scottill chionicles be trile.

But where as the truthe concernping the tyme of the fielle comming into this Ine, afwell of the Scottes as Pilles telleth houbtfull, and that aswell by difficultie of approued weyters, as by traffilde comititues, were have in the tellorie of Englande moje langely witten thereof. Wee referre those that bee deli= rous to fee further of that mater, unto the same, following here in this historie of Scotlande the report most an ende, as we finde it in Hedor Boetius, and other the Scottiste wyters, not taking upon by so frankely to set downe our orgne opinion in this Scottishe, as in the Engliffe historie through want of luche helpes in the one as me have got in the other.

Pro ligious rokens feene

There was frene the same years two cos so metes, or blading flarers of breadfull after to the beholders, the one went befoze the lunne cyling in parciel fration, and the other followed the going notance thereof in the fuzzing of the yeare. There was often times feene also in the appe a vision of firse armics, running togither with beenpong states, and the one being banquished, they sodenly bothe of them vanished away. Alfo at Camelon as the Billioppe was at fcruice holding his croffer Caffe in his hande, it was 20 kindeled to with fire, that by no meane it coulde be quenched til it was brent euen to affics. About none dayes, the apre being fapre and cleare, as well in the countreps of the Scottes as of the Pictes, there was heard such a nople & clattering of weapons and armure with braying of hories, as though two armies thoulde haue bene togi= ther in fight, whereby many of epther nation which heard it, were put in great feare.

The interpresokens.

led Scone.

These bukouth wonders were interpreted by 3> suche as shall peruse this bistozie. eation of these decinous diarrily: some affirming the same to betoken ioy and happie prosperitie, and other als ledgyng, how they signified rather missap and otter calamitie.

But to returne to our purpole, King Keneth having thus destroyed the Pidilly kingdome togither almost with the whole nation, caused the marble ftone (whiche Spmon Breke sometime brought out of Spaine into Irdaud, & the fielte Fergule out of Freland into Albion, as befoze is 40 bee brought by in knowledge of the same The marble recited to be brought now forth of Ergile where stone is remortill that time it had bene viligently kepte) into ued fro Argile Boury, whiche region besoze appertayned to the into Goury, in Goury, whiche region besoze appertayned to the the place cal- pids, there to remaine from thenceforth as a fa= cred token for the Cabliffment of the Scottific kingdome in that coutrey: he placed it at Scone byo a repled plot of ground there, bicause that the last bataple whiche he had with the Pickes was fought neare onto the same place, the bidogy as this stone, as before is rehearled, the Scottishe kings were bled to lit, when they recepued the inuesture of the kingdome.

Some wypters have recorded that by com= maundement of Kenneth at the same time, whé this stone was thus by him removed, those latine vertes were engraven opon it, whereof incucion is made befoze, where we fpake of the afozelard

Ferque the fielt his coming over tweth of Ireland into Albion. there to revone.

Pow in the meane time when those feme of the Bills, which by flight had cleaped the Scot The refilier tishnems hands, and were gotte into England, the Picts wer could by no meanes pertwade the Englishmen being troubled with intelline warre, to ande the in recovery of they countrey, some of them valsed the seas over into Porway, and some into Denmarke, and diners other of them remaphed fill in England, where they got they? luing eyther by some manuell occupation, epther els by fernice in the warres.

The Scots from thence fouth lived in quict, The Scotter during the life time of king Kenneth, who de-live in quia scrued eternal fame, by the enlarging of the bouds of his kingdome, so mightily and in suche wife, that where he founde the fronters, hee made the same well neare the middelt of his kingdome. Other things he did also touchong the volitike government of his subicates in time of peace, no lesse worthis of prayle than his noble & famous conquestes: but specially he orderned certagne Kenneth ma lawes for the wealth of his people, whereby his ordinary. judges and other officers flould proceede in the administration of justice, of the whiche I haue thought requilite to rehearle parte as pet beyng vsed, that aswell the Author, as the time of their first establishment, may the better appeare, to

> The Chapters of those lawes whiche vet remayne to be obstrued, are thefe.

Et cuery shyze haue certayne men skilled in Liwyen ve the lawes appoynted to bee resident in the cellaric. same, according as in the beginning it was instituted. Let they fonnes also in there youth

Let them only keepe in their cuitodies the ta- Therables bles of the lawes, with the register bookes of the the law tob kings and pecres of the realme.

If any of them be convided of extorte by Brybers to bing or other the like briefl bealing, let him die binged. upon the gallowes, and his bodie remayne in-

Such as are condemned for theft, let them be theft and me before is specified chaucing to the Scots. Thon 50 hanged, and those that are proued giltie of mut- ther. der, let them lose they 2 heades.

A moman which is conserned to die, eribre A woman to let hyr be drowned in some riner, cyther ets let dragne. hp; be buried quicke.

Here that blasphemeth the name of God, of Blaspheme the Saintes, of his Prince, or of the Cap have three tayne of his trybe, lette Lin haue his fommyne cur cutcut out.

Le that is connicted of a lie to his neighbors atier hinderance, let him haue his fwwyde taken from hun, t be banifled out of all mens companie.

Suche as be accused of any crimes that dehave extende fertie ocath, let them passe by the sentence of. vij. houelt men, eyther els of. ir. rj. riij. rv. oz moe, so that the number be odde.

Robbers by the highe waves, destroyers of come growing in the fieldes as is vied by eni= richteke.

. . . the

Alubutters

to Search

Zwae,

1.::.'! or

Water and agrac.

fugetines, vagaboundes, and fugh other idle the whipped persons, let them be whipped and beenned in the

Let not the wife luffer for the husbandes of= mafer for fences, but the hulbad Chal answere for the wifes inste. misdecdes if he be prime therebuto.

Any many lemman or concubine, shall suf= white mate, fer the same paynes that he dothe whiche offenneithment. Resisters of migdes shall onlesse she require for sauccarde of his life, to have him to hyz hulband.

If any man be taken with an other mans wife in adultrie, flie confenting buto him there= in, they Chall bothe fuffer death foz it. But if fice consent not but be forced against hyr will, then he shall die onely for the same, and the moman mall be releassen.

If the childe hurt the father either with tung. ting his father hande, og fwte, let him first be depryued of that 30 and all men of religion. member, and then hanged, his body to remayne without buriall.

Who are not A murderer a dumbe person, oz he that is bn= thankefull to his parentes, chall not inherite his fathers patrimonie.

Jugglers, Wylertes, Picromancers and filmes &c. luch as call by spaytes, and ble to seeke byothem for helpe, let them be brent to death.

> Let no man low in the earth any grayne before it be purged of all the weedes.

Ecil busbanher that through negligent flouth, suffereth his creable grounde to bee choked by and ouer= growen with weedes, for the fielte faulte lette him forfeyt an ore, for the fecond ten oren, and for the third let him forgoe the fame grounde.

Thy companion in the warres, or thy friend beyng flayne, see him buried, but let the enimie lic buburied.

Any strayte catagle that commeth into thy groundes, epther refloze them to the owner, ey= 50 mourning forte and bolozous manner, therels deliver the to the fearcher out of theenes, commonly called Tonoderach, or to the person of phicar of the towns: for if thou retayne them in thy handes by the space of three dayes, thou Malt be accompted giltie of theffe. Ting! found.

he that findeth any thing that belongeth to an other man, lette him cause it to be cried in the market, og els her chalbe inoged foz a fellon.

He that firiketh him with whome he goeth Adversaries in to the lawe, aboute any mater in controuctlic. hall be induced giltie of the action, and the other fet free.

Iforen ogkgen chaunce by runnyng togi= Oxen or kyne, ther to kill one an other, the truthe beyong not hurring eche knowen whiche it was that did the burte, that other. which is founds without hornes Hall be indged the occasion of the skathe, and he that is owner of mics in time of warre, let them die by the fword. 10 the same, shall have the dead beaff. & satisfie him for the loffe to whom it belonged.

If a fow eate hir pigges, let hyz be froned to A Some. beath, and buried, to that noman eate of hyz flesse.

A twyne that is founde eating of come that swyne. groweth in the field, or wroting byon the tilled groundes, let it be lawfull for any man to kill the same without daunger.

Dther kindes of bealles, wherein other men Beafts domage Dee that ravifleth a mayde Chall die for it, 20 have any propertie, if they breake into thy pa-telane. stures of eate op the come, impounde them, till time the owner have latisfied thre for the quantitie of the domage.

These were cyuill ozdinaunces belonging Articles touto the god government of the people, other ching religio. there were whiche appertagne to religion: as

Thou thalt devoutly reverence the Aulters. Teples, Images, Dratories, Chapels, Prielts, Thou Malte observe with dewe reverence Keeping of festivall and folemne holy dayes, fasting dayes, holy dayes. bygiles, and all maner of ceremonies instituted by the godly ordinannce of man, in the honour of our Sauiour Christe and bis Saintes.

To burt a Priefte let it be accompted an of- Prieft. fence worthie of death.

That grounds wherein any that is flaying Ground to be liefh buried, leave it butilled for feuen yeares, lefe vntilled.

Repute enery grave holy and adozne it with the ligne of the crosse, so as thou Halt be will ad- Graves. uiled that in no wife with the feets thou treads bven it.

Burie the dead according to the quantitie of Buriall. bis substaunce.

The body of a noble man & of him that bath Buriall of nowell descrued of the common wealth, that he bus ble men. ried in solemne and pompoule wife, but get if

Let there be two knights of louiers to affein his booic to the grave, the one being mounted bpo a whyte hogic thal beare the coate armure of the dead, the other in mourning amouril with his face coursed that rive bud a blacke house toha after the corps is brought to churche, turnying his horse from the Aniter. Chall crie out bow his mailler is dead: therwith the people making att outerie ' outerie against him, he shall straight wayes departe and get him with all speede to the place fro whence he came, the other going fraight to the aulter thall there offer op to & priest his coate armure with his hogle, as a token to lignifie therby that his master both enion everiasting tyfe, in the land of permanent light and ioves eternall. But this cultome of buriall as that whiche was funnoled not appertagning to the order of the Ehzistian religion, the age that followed dyd 10 the vse of warres, whereof hee had no ugarde otterly abolishe, appoputing to the Pziestes in steede of the horse and armure, b. pound sterlyng in money for the offering.

With these and divers other ordinaunces, whiche tyme and other statutes by other kings divised hane abzogated, Kenneth gouerned his people in great sclicitie during his lyfe time.

The Billops lea, whiche befoze had bene at Abirnethy, hee translated buto the Churche of that holy man Saint Bcule. Euer fithe whiche 20 time the towns hath bene called Saint Andzewes, and those whiche gouerned the same Churche long time after, were called the greate Bithoppes of Scotlande: for the realme was not devided into Dioceles till the daies of Malcolnie the thy ide, who by devine inspiration (as is sapoe) orderned the sea of Murthlake, now called Abirden : but luche as were reputed of vertuous behaulour and knowledge meete for the office, vled the authoritie and rowmeth of 33 Billyoppes in what place so ever they were re-Woent. Pet suche was the continuaunce of those which governed the church of Saint Andrewes, that there have bene about the number of fortie Billioppes, resident there sithe the firste insti= tution of that sea: many of them for the opi= nion concepued of they; holinelle beyng numbeed according to the maner in times palte in the register of Saints.

The boundes kingdome.

S.Reule his

Andrewes.

Church, nowe cilled Saint > of the Scottish having (as is sayde) enlarged the boundes of his kingdome, so as the same stretched fwath buto the confynes of Posthumberlande on the one live, and to the Ales of Diknay, on the other, the sea compassing in the relidur, at the leugth after hee hadde reggned aboute twentie peares in greate renowme and glozy, hee depar-King Kenneth ted out of this lyfe, through to muche abunof this life.

>
> 855.H.B.
>
> yeare of our Lozde, 856. His bodie was con= 50 ther bpon trust of good successe, so, that they but departeth our office of rewinatike mater, at fostivoite, in the neped into the Ille of Colmekill, and there bo. nozably buried amongst his auncestours.

Donald Sister his verealle succeeded in gouernment Not the realme his brother Donald, farre dift archofthat fering in qualities from his noble brother the time luccee- forelappe Armeth, but yet before be came to the ther Kenneth, rule of the realme, he disclosed not his vicious nature, for doubte of offending the king his brother. Deuerthelesse he had continued buneth Theking is thom years in the affate, but that he had sub- of diffoliuse behaviour. uerted all good orders in his realme, by his naughtie ensamples of dissolute lining: for his nunde was fet on nothing but on wanton pleafures: as in the valawfull vie of concubines, riotous banquetting, keepping of Pawkes. Houndes, and Horses for pleasure, and not for at all: for suche charges as her shoulde haue bene at for mayntenance of men of warre to keeve the frounters of his realme, was imployed byon a forte of rascals, that served him in the furthe= rance of his wanton orlites and voluntuous defires, as Huntime. Fauconers, Cokes, Bawdes, Ruffians, and suche lyke.

Wherebyon divers of the Pobles remems Theking is being what appertayned to there ducties, spa= admonshed of red not but freely admonished the king what his Nobles. daunger woulde ensue of his misozdered behauiour, if hee reformed not his manners, nor re-Arapned the licencious dopings of his scruaunts and familie. But when they perceyued that there wordes were not regarded, but for the same they themselves ranne into displeasure, they forrowed not a little to fee so small hope of antenoment of suche enormities, as energ where regard through the region: for all youthfull persons gyuen to sensuall lufte tollowed the fame without any feare of care of correction, so that there was no measure of offending and haunting of cuill rule in all parties, in so muche that Mortely through wante of all god gouernaunce, wzong was placed in fleede of righte, and contempt of Goddes honour embraced euery where in place of ver-

In this meane whyle, the relidue of the Theeriled But nowe to returne unto Kenneth, who 40 Pickes remayning amongst the Englishmen, ayde of the ceassed not to solicite the governours of the Englishmen. countrey to ayde them towardes the recourrie of they dominion out of the Scottilhmens handes, prompling to be lubieites buto the Englith nation, if by their helpe they might be rellored to their auncient seates.

It length Olbert and Ella kings of Pot Osber & Ell thumberlande were perswaded through instant chumberland supre to take that enterpapee in hande, the cathen remaining amongst the Scottes, by tes fon of the kinges naughtie bemeanour and molt inordinate trade of lote.

But first there was a league concluded with The English newe articles of agreement beiwirte the En- sien & bry glishmen and Bzytons, as yet inhabiting a powers with longst the coalles of Cumberlande, by meanes de Picter.

of whiche league bothe Beytons and Englishmen toy ned they a powers togither, and in moste fireton and forcible wife passed the water of Tweede, first pitching there campe in the counnew of Mers. From whence immediatly kying Cibert (beying appointed as generall in that Manute is journey) sente an Herault buto Donalde the Do- Scottille king, commaunding him eyther to furrender by buto the Pickes all luche regions to loke to have the Englishmen and Byptons no less they enimies than the Pictes, whose cause they had taken byon them to mayntaine and defende.

Donald being at the firste soze troubled with these newes, pet at length by the adulte of his nobles hee twke a good harte buto him, and in defence of his realme, caused musters to betaken throughout all his dominions, and forthwith came into the fielde to encounter his enimics, 20 whom hee founde at Jedworth ready to give battell, where after fore fight, in the ende Di= bert with his people was chased to the nexte mountaines.

> Denald having thus obtained the bictory in this conflict, supposed all had bene his owne. and thereupon remoued over Tweede with all possible haste, marchyng sweth till hee came to the mouthe of that rouer, where there lap at anker certagne Englishe vellels, laden with pro= 30 oeder that appeared amongst them: some of nision of vitarles and all other things necessarie for the furniture of an armic. Donald setting Osbert his bypon these Mippes, with small resistance toke provision by water is taken them, Coorled them of all fuche things as were by the Scorfounde aboarde, and after fet fire on them. The tillmen. spoyle was devided amongest the Souldiers and menne of warre, whiche ferned them to finall vie of commoditie, for all the pouth of the armie through ensample of they? Prince was so as the Scottes had taken from them, eyther els 10 courupted in vicious cultomes, that the campe was replenished with Hores and Bampes. Stewes and viering tables, in luche wife that all fuche provision as shoulde have served for store and staple of vitagles, was spente in riotous banqueting without any order or measures and oftentymes (as it chaunceth where politike A great diforgouernment lacketh) there happened amongst der in the Scok them in the armie, discorde and variannce with tish campe. funder inurders and flaughters.

Withen the enimics were aductifed home farre out of order all things stode in the Scots tishe campe for wante of god and discrete chieftaines, Dibert with all speede gotte a mightie hoste togither againe, and befoze his approche was loked for of the Scottes, he commeth book them one morning in the breake of the day, and assayleth them in they? longvings, wherein hee founds them to bupyoutded of al helpes to make relistannce, that it was a wounder to see the dis-

them renning boon they? enimics naked without all discretion, other breaking fouth of the campe to faue themselves by flight, not spas rong hill not tale where they lawe any way to escape the enimies handes, though it were with present vaunger of breaking there neckes obwine the livelying bankes and fraggie rockes, beying forced thereto by the flerce nursute of the Tins glid)men and Bertons, who most egrely pieals ked byon them in all places to kenengle the late received ouerthrowe and flaughter of theps friendes and kinsfolke.

There died of the Scots in this mostal bickers we chaufand ring about rr. thouland performed the transport of flayne.

King

Klag Donald istiken wich the nobilitie.

The campais ryfied.

Sted.

The Englishmen inuade Lothian, the Esytons Galloway.

comfortlesse.

The victorie

King Donald being falt a flerpe at the firste affault of the enimies, as he that had dunken o= uer night moze than enough, was taken befoze he coulde make any thifte for himselfe with all the relidue of the novilitie, that escaped with life.

The Scottilly campe, the day next after this ouerthrow, was ryfled, the spoyle being devided amonast the Englishmen and Brytons.

But when the fame of this infortunate bat= taile was noyfed once through the realme of 10 Scotland how the king was taken ppploner, his rulme of Scot campe wonne, the armie discomfited, and almost all the fouldiers and men of warre flagne, those fewe of the nobles whiche were left alive remap= ning as prysoners in the enimies handes, there was suche vole and lamentation made ouer all, as though the realme had already bene loste without recoucrie. Some there were that bla= med fortune, some cursed the wicked trade of lpfe in the king: other bewayling the great cala= 20 mitie of this mischauce put the fault in divers o= ther things, as in such cases comoly it falleth out: for in fundry heades are ever fundry opinions. Many ranne by and downe the streets and high wayes, to enquye the certaintie of all things, a whether there were any hope at all left to relift the enemies, also which way the entinies helde, wherabout they went, what they purpoled to do. Anone after, when it was certainely knowen that the Englishmen were entred by Lothian, and the Bertons by Galloway, there was such 30 feare mired with forrow (for loffe of they? frends and kinffolke) stryken into the peoples hartes, and namely into the womens, that a greater hath not bene heard of in any region. So that The Scots lest all provision to desende they countrey was quite neglected, so amazed were the Scots with the sodayne chaunge of fortunes fauour. The Englishmen herebpon twke all the countrey e= ue to the water of Forth, and likewise the Brp= tons scaled into thepr handes all that which li= 40 eth from the bounds of Cumberland onto Sterlyng bridge, finding no resistaunce in they? way at all. Hereinto aswell the Englishmen > eoge of the sworde. Kong Olbert purpoled to have passed the water of forth, that wayes to have entered in- 50 the whole realine, beleechying him to consider to ffpfe, and so oner Tay into Ingus : but hearing that the Scottes had gathered a power to inneache his pastage, he stayed certagne dages. At length understanding that the enimies were nothing of that puissaunce not number, as at the first they were reported to bee, he determined to let over in certaine boates ten thouland of his

as Bertons bled the victorie very cruelly, spa= ring neither one not other of the Scottish bloud, that by any meanes fell into they, handes, but priestes and all passed one way, that is by the men, but through a fodaine tempest of winde and weather, that role in that instant, there were Agreet ming fine thousands of them decounce, the residue be, of Englishma ing constraymed to lande agains on the same five from the whiche they lewfed, having lofte through violence of the weather all they takle and whole furniture of they? bellels.

Dibert berng also admenshed with this missortune, thought god to attempt no more the furious rage of the water, but determined by lande to goe unto Sterlyng, where he understwor he flould finde the Bertons, with whome hee might ionne his power, and palle ouer the bipoge there, and so inuade other of the Scoffille regions whiche lay there aboute: but at his Ambastados comming thyther, certaine Scottille Imbasta few for zea dours came buto him to sue for veace. whiche they bumbly required at his bandes in name of well the flate of the cale as it flove, and not to trust to nuche on byptile softune, the whiche brytile. Meweth hyz felfe neuer ftable, but commonly vieth to call backe againe hy? graunt of ptosperous successe, where the recepuour hath not still to ble it moderately, and the banquished seemeth to have bene sufficiently corrected:

Is for the Scottes, though it might appeare that their force was greatly abated, and that relitance flould little anaile them, yet were they mynded to die in defence of their liberties, rather than to fibmit themselves unto any conditions of vile fernitude. The wordes of these Ambassadors be= ma throughly wered (though some twke them in greate distaine) pet in the ende it was supposed that after victorie thus had agapult the enimics, ferred befoze doubtfull warre.

Colherebpon answere was made to the Am= balladors, that both the Englishe and Brytishe people with their kings were contented to have peace with the Scottes, (though it lay in they? handes, now to destroy the whole nation) if so be the Scottes woulde agree freely to religne acwell to the English men as Beptapnes all such lands and Countreys as they had nowe gotten into there possessions, without any clayme of tytle to 20 cles of peace, as that noble Prince king Galo apbe made to the same from thenceforth, eyther by them or any of their posteritie, so that the water of forth on the East halfe, Moulde devide the Scottiffic dominions from the confines of the tefech Engliss men and Beyingure, und State fea. On the Cache Scot that tyme euer after, the Scottiffe fea. On the English men and Bertaynes, and be called from well the water of Clyde fould deuide the Scottill) landes from the Beptapnes, the Castel of Alcluth, flanding at the mouth of the same river, to remaine in the handes of the Baytaynes, from 30 in the last battaile, they finally determined to folreCaer Ar thenceforth to beare the name of Dunbreton, that is to lay, the castell of the Baytaynes. Ind fur= thermoze that if any of the Scottes thoulde ateyeholdeth tempt to passe the sayo boundes into any of the Bytish or Englishe borders, hee shoulde die for that offence, and if by force of tempelt it chaunced any of them to be driven a lande on the South those, within any of those parties, they foulde take nothing away with them but water or by= tailes, and depart within three vayes, except some 40 Ambassadors, being earnestly required so to bor, reasonable cause of stay constrayned them to the contrarie. Moreover, they should not fortific as ny townes of Callels on the frontires neare to the Englishe or Beptishe confines: And further, they floulde covenaunt to pay buto the English men and Brytagnes within the space of twentie yeares, the lumme of one thousand pounde of M= ucr. For performance of all which articles of as greement, the Scottes Moulde deliner three scoze of the chiefelt noble men of all they? Realine and Countrey. And if it so were that they millyked and refused any of these articles, hee commaunded that there should no other Ambassadoz come to him for any other treatie of accorde.

The Ambassadours returning home, and declaring how they had fped, many of the Scottes thought the Articles nothing reasonable for fres people to accept: Other indued that either they must come to some agreement with the English men and Beptapues, or else put the lande in extreeme perill, and thus had the people bin devided into two contrarie opinions and failions, had not one Calene a noble man, bozne of high parentage, Calene his & gouernoz of Angus, with lober reasons & strong taketh place. arguments appealed this contention, perforading them to have respecte to the tyme, and lithe the honourable conditions of peace ought to be pre= 10 force of the Realme was so insechled, abated, and brought buder fote through aduerle fortune better it was to pecide unto necessitie in saving part at that present, in hope after when occasion ferued to recover the relidue, than through obstinate wilfulnesse to lose the whole. For considering the present daunger, it could be reputed no dissonour to recepue conditions of peace at the enimies handes, lithe there wanted not the lyke ensample of the Romaines, who gladly accepted suche artypopuled them: and pet it is not to be judged that there wanted men of great knowledge and wife= dome amongst them, and such as regarded they? honour, so farre forth as reason in any wise byd reache.

The multiude moved with these wordes of The multi-Calen, whose grave authoritie by reason of hys tude confented age and rowmth was of no small reputation as his taying s. mongst them, having lost nine of his own sonnes lowe his opinion in recepuing the same conditions of agreement which Dibert had prescribed: The Scots reand therebyon fent agapte they? Ambassadors ceiue the peace with the holtages appointed for the establishing of the peace in maner as before is reherled. Wilhich beeing throughly accomplished in suche solemne wife as in those dayes, and in the like cases was King Donalde accustomed, Dibert set Donald with his nobles with the noble at libertie, sending them home togither with the men are sent both by the English Lordes, and also by the Brie

The agreement being thus made, the landes Landes dewere deulded betwirt the English men and Bis uided beiwire taynes, in suche sort as the Brytaynes bad for the Britains & English men. they; parte all that which leth from Sterling onto the Wielt fea, betwirt the Ryuers of forth and Clyde, buto Cumberlande, and the English The Brytaines bollages, beeing the Connex and heyzes apparant 50 ling but the Calt lea, betwier the Scottiffice Cumberlande, and Porthumberlande: fo that by this meanes & those other Clyde water, Forth, and the Scottiff lea where ing by the Forth runneth into the maine fea) peniped the coalt of those Scottes from the English men and Bzytapnes, welt seas. And thus was the towne of Sterling common marche buto those three people, the same towne with the Callell remarning buto Ofbert. as it was conenated amogst other articles of this peace

Piece as the Scottes wayters have, he ordepned his mynt, and his copners of money to inhabite, wherebyon came op the name of Sterling money: but therein they are deceyued, for as in the hyltorie of England hall appeare, that name came not in ble till many yeares after.

A bridge of Itone made at Sterling.

Ofbert also in this place caused a flone brioge to be made oner the water of Forth, in stead of the wooden bridge which the Pids had made there, . and was now pulled downe, and in the midft of 10 effate, with the aduacement of the comon welth. this new stone bridge, he set by a crosse, whereon were grauen these berses.

Anglos a Scotis separat crux ista remotis, Arma hie stat Bruti, fant scots hae sub cruce tuti. 30 Bealts also as they were pasturing abzode in the Beales in

In Scottill thus.

Balintine.

I am free march as pallengers may ken, To Scots, to Brytons, and to English men.

The pifts hope

The Pickes which had bene with the English men in this journey, ever hoping to be restored to their landes and former possessions by Dibert, when they sawe how he reterned the same in his owne handes, appropring his subicities to inhabite therein, they bombted that which afterwards 40 rame to paffe in beebe, least the Englishe men of friendes woulde nowe become enimics, feeking the destruction of the whole Picish: generation, thereby to affure themselves in the possession of those landes and linings, wherebuto the Picks as they thought would ence make some clayme and totle, winlest any of them remanned aline.

Cloon this mistrust therfore vid those Pickes belt flift they coulde for themsellies, so that many 50 gladly have gone in had with the warres against recourt his The picts were of them got thippes, and layled into Pozivay & inco Norwave Demmark, buto their coutrey men there: the other and Denmark. that could not make flift to get away, were flain anon after by the English men, that one of them was not to bee founde aline within any of the English Dominions. And such was the ende of the pieces that fledde buto the English men fog Juccour.

In this meane tyme the Scottill king Donalo being restored agains to his Countrey, mag recevued with more toy and honour than hee had descrued, in hope yet by this scourge of adverse fortune, that he woulde have reformed his former abuses. Penerthelesse, he had not bin at home any long time, but that he fell to his old vicious trade King Donal of life againe, removing from his companie suche old vices ag horbrable personages as wished the surctie of his to the reliefe and case of his poze miserable subteds. At length the nobles of the realm perceiving the daunger that their countrey stode in, by reafon of Donaldes insolent misozder, budiscrete rule and government, they found meanes to ap- King Dan prehend and commit him unto lake keeping, but is hid in fri the monstrous creature within a fewe dapes after he was thus put in ward, in great desperation fine He flijel h himselse, in the firt peare after he began his infoza selsempris 20 tunate raigne, & in the yeare of our laufour 860. 860.

The lame yeare that the realme of Scotlande was brought buto such miserable state by the puillant force of the English men and Brytains, as aboue is rehearled, there were fundzie wonders heard of in the countrey: as in Lothian a childe gively was mother to flic out of that countrey, for it woulde ther. come to palle, that the chimies houlde come and take that region out of the Scottiff mens hands. fieldes there, roaring after a straunge fost, soden- 13eg died ly dyed. Kithes likewise in thape resembling the figure of man, were founde deade in the fandes of Fifee lyke the Scottill fea. In Galloway there fell fuch a- fluge w bundance of Adders and Snakes out of the thie, Adders & f that the ange being corrupted with the fauour of kerfell in them lying on the grounde, both men and beatles out of thes dped of certain discases, which they twke through infection thereof.

Such as were accounted to be skilfuil in diuination, affremed that these things did signific The interp an infortunate raigne with an cuill ende buto ration of the king Donalde, as afterwardes it happened, who prodigious having made away himselse in prison (as before things. ts expected) Constantine the Conne of king Kens King Con noth was crowned king at Scone, in the Chapte rice Crown of Marble there, according to the maner as then

After his first entring into the estate, be would of English me, to hanc recourred out of their pols predecesses fellions, those countreps which they had lately to- loiles. ken from the Scottes in his predecellors time:but his connect admited him otherwise, declaring that fed otherwise the estate of the common wealth was so becaped by his was by the milgouernance of his layoe preveredour, that till the fame were refourmed, and futhe intelline discorde, as through licencions identie

The Historie of Scotlande.

raigned amongst his subicits might be appealed and quieted, there was no hope to atchieue anpe weithie enterprise abrode agaynst forraine enimics. Hercupon by theye advertisements and as we god addice, hee devised a reformation of all fuch milozoers as were growen by in al partes of me realme : and first for the spiritualtie, he ozdaps beibould ned that Priestes should attende their cures, and not to intermedale with any fecular businesse, but ther flould they keepe horfes, hawkes, or hounds. And if any of them wer found negligent in doing e for this ductie appertenning to his vocation, he flouid for the first fault forfeyt a prece of money, but for the fecond he should lose his benefice.

for the youth of his realme he twke order(to bipole them the better from wanton delites and sensuall lustes) that none of them shoulde have nast one meale a day, and that of no fine or daine tic delicates, and to abstaine from all such drinke 20 as might distemper their brapne, so that if anye rong person, either man or woman were known to be dronken, they should die for it.

De commaunded further, that all the youth of his realme, shoulde exercise running, wastling, shoting, throwing of the part and bowle, so to auovoe flouthfulnesse, that their bodies myghte with such exercises be made the more able to endure paynes and travaile: and for the same pur= pose he twke order, that they shoulde lye byon the 30 bare bourdes, with one mantell onely theoreme who be buver them, to that they thould talk nothing neis ther by day noz night, that might nozell them in any wanton delytes or effentinate pleasures.

It was also orderned, that all such as kept es bitarling houses for banketting cheare, should be banished the realme, with those that kept brothell houses.

Thus were the Scottes by observing of these bet & ercessive feeders, sober and temperate men : of Debyde licate and cafefull persons, hard, tough, and able to abide any trauail or labour, were the same neucr so painfull: and berrof the state of the common wealth began to grow to gwo perfection, so that Constantines administration was lyked of the most part of all his subjects.

The first that: went about to disquiet the Prosperous raigne of that worthis Prince, was the Welterne Nes. Such hath bene the buquiet nature of the Scottilly nien ewentrom the beginning, never to live contented any long tyme epther with prace of warre; for being since awar ned with the charges of the warres, they straight wapes withe for peace, and haufing in time of prace heaped togither forme thealth, then can they not luffer the government of their inverious, but either are readie to fall out with some forraine e= nimie, or electoraile fome commotion amonast themselves.

This Evan therefore being the kings Lieu- Evan Lieutetenant of his Castell of Dunstafage in Louch- stafage conspiquhaber, practifed a conspiracie agaynst the king, rethagaynst with a number of other light persons being gene the king. tlemen borne, millyking the administration of things, onely for that they lawe how their inor= to be free from going forth to the warres : ney= 10 dinate libertie to opprelle inferiour persons, and to vse such wilde and insolent misdemeanoz, as they had done afoze time, was nowe restraymed by lawfull justice and execution of duc punishment for the same. But as these conspirators went a= hout to have moved the people of Louchguhaber. Murrey land, Rolle, and Cathnelle, to have iop= ned with them in their trayterous enterprise: some of them in whom Euan put most trust, secretely advertised of advertised of advertised the king of all the whole matter, who Evan his treagathering a competent number of men togither, ion. made luche sperdie halte towardes Dunitafage, where the chiefe Captaine of the Rebelles as then lay, that he came before the same ere any publing The king cowere knowne to them within of his approch. By flatage with meane whereof comming bypon them to at bn= an armic. wares, hee had the Castell some at his pleasure: And immediately herebyon caused Euan to bee Euan is exetrusted by on a high papee of Gallows, for a spec= takle to all his complices.

And furthermore, least the other conspirators might prouide them of tome other Chieftaine, he Many kept in apprehended dinerle of the nobilitie that were ac prison. culed to be of Euans confederacie, the whiche he put in strapte pepson, there to bee safely kept, tyll the Pecres of the Realme had determined with god deliberation, what Moulde become of them. This businesse being in this wife appealed, when all men loked for quietnelle, there lodenly follos wed a greater and moze permicious trouble : for One trouble opdinances, made within Mort time of cluttons & 40 luch is the courle of the worlde, that when men followeth anoleast thinke of mischiefe, they fall oftentimes into ther. most danneer.

· Cadane king of Denmarke, pretending a tistle to all luche landes as sometimes belonged to of Denmarke. the Pictes, for that the relidue of that Parion which hav escaped the handes of the Scottes and Englishe men, had religned buto him all they? roots and interest of the same landes, hee betermined in that quarell (and in revenue of the inone Cuan, a man of an aficient house, & borne in so intes which the Pictes allenged they had lufters ned) to make warres both byon the Scottes and The cause that Englith men. He cauled therefore an huge num- moved the Da ber of thippes to be prepared, and a mightie army warre against of men to be put in a readinelle its palle in the England and faine over into Albion, brover the leading of dys two brethren, the one named Hungar, and the other Hubba.

Thele two Chieftaines baning their thippes

A great nause and men with all providion apperteyning once fent into Scot-readie. twhe the fea, and fayled forth til they came to the coastes of Scotlande, where they twke land mithin the Countrey of Fife, befoze any tidings nes being let a lande, spared no kinde of crucitie that might be showed against the inhabitantes, The Danes vie and namely for that they had not as pet recepued great crueltye. the farth of Chaift, they raged without all meafure against Priestes and religious persons, ouertheoroing and burning by Churches & Chap= pels, wherefocuer they found any in they? wave. The inhabita- Wilhereupon the Englishe men that inhabited in Louthian, and the Scots which dwelled in fife, 30 of the Scottes buto that parte of the campe that were heard of they? comming thither. The Da=

lefte they? houses and policions, flying into o= ther parties where they thought they might best escape the handes of their newcome adversaries.

Agreat companie also of such vertuous and godly persons as aboute the same time laboured busily in setting forth the worde of life unto the people in those parties, fled with one Adzian as then Bishop of the Scottish men, into the Flande called Day, whiche lyeth in maner in the midway of the passage over the Forth betwirt ffee 40 and succours. In this campe which lay on that and Louthian, where as the there was a famous Monasteric of Monks: but neither the reverence of the place, nepther the innocencie of those haim. leffe creatures could refrain the Panes from pol-They that fled luting their wicked hands in murthering that Deinto May Ilad nout companie, as they were then eleemed. Ind this is that reucreno band of Marty1s, which the Scottisti people have had in such reverence in the forelande Tlande of May. I fewe names of lome of that multitude as yet remaine in memorie as 50 taines were constrayned of necessite in the iben monalt wepters, as the forelande Bilhop Adrian, Blodian, Gaius, oz (as other wzite) Monanus Archedeacon of Saint Indiewes, and By= thon Stolbrande: the names of the relidue are The incertein- fozgotten. Some there be that affyzme how this tie of wryters company were Hungarians, the whiche flering in this matter out of their countreys from the perfecution which of these Mar - was there exercised by men of milbeliefe agazust the Christians, they arryued here in Scotlande. and applyed themselves in the instructing of the Scottille men in the way of Caluation. Other write that they were Scottes and English men thus affembled there togither, but of whence foruer they were, certaine it is that by custome they mere become Scottiff men, einfruden Scots as before is layde in the way of faination.

After this cruell flaughter thus by the Wanes committed, they continued in their wode race as they passed through Fife and the other countries neare bordering byon the same, till all the inhabitants were anopoed out of their houses, either by flight or Claughter.

Constantine the Scottille king being kindled in the meane time with palling great vilvleafure, for these so notable injuries received at the handes of the Danes, thought good with all freed to go against them, and to attempt the channel of battaile before they had walted any further within his dominions, so greatly to the vinini-Ming of his royal power and estimation amonast his lubieits. Hercupon leuping his prople, and Cooffian affernbling a mightie holf togither, he patte forth affemble with the fame towardes his enimies, the whiche mighice mere longed in two fenerall campes, the one being distant from the other aboute a quarter of a mole, senered in sunder with the course of a little rvuer called Lenyu; the which (bnoutheappeoch lay on the further lyde next buto them) chaunced to be rayled on such height through abundance of raine, that in two dayes after bnethit might bee passed over at the fourdes. of the foliation of the

After this fore and tempelinous weather, the appe cleared op and mared berie fappe and calitic, civing occasion to the Scottes to worke they? feate agaynst one part of they? enimies, whylest the other coulde not come over buto thept aybe fide the ryuer next to the Scottes, Subba mas longed, who did what he coulde to have stayde his men from illuing forth of the campe to gine bet. taile when the Scots view neare inchtefaus, assaied all wayes by pronoking the Peats with Dane in their but skirmillies to come forth and fight with them in their but plaine field, but notwithstanding al that he fauld do, forth they rushed in such twice by phingled, and with lo great noyle and claymour that the Capin order ofbattaile; lithe they would mienes gine the onlet open their prefent enimiestalt le rustell

The Danes oid weare aloft sprantie war Tielle mour certaine lyimen garments, squages with res filke, flewing fayte and white both at hand and a facte off. Their weapons were of fact fast Their wo as ferure for the pully rather than the bowneright blowes, the populs being af inches bestone the or distinct, that no armor might lightly hold an agaynst them. These kinds of weapons toather with the muffer of their huge bodies was Freidfall at the first for the Scottiche men to bebolds, as they marched towardes them in aray of hattail. But anon comming neare togither readie to toyne, the Scots manfully taking to them kerne courages, set von the Danes with great Abattayle. violence, who like wife beganne the battaile very floutly, so that the same cotinued right sierce and cruell a gwo space. It length the Danes beeing allayled on eche live, both a front befoze, and on their backes veninor, opperate up they? weapons and fled aniain. Many of thein making towards their campe were overtaken and flaine. Diverfe of them falling into the ditches were oppressed with throng, aswel of their owne companie, as of their enunics, as they patted ouer them in following 39 the chafe, and stryuing to enter the campe opon' tuch as stode to desende them from entring? D= ther ther were that leaving into the water in hove to get ouer, were drowned in the whorling waues of the Arcame, though some (through helpe of their fellowes whiche stode on the other syde readic to have passed the water if they might so haue done without manifelt daunger of drows ale ning cleaped and got over, amongst whom hubdungar, to fee him thus velluered twife from pecill of death, as first from amongest his enimics, and secondly out of the roaring streams of that Derpe and fwift raging ryuer. The Scottes halung thus put one part of their enimies to the wurle, with that happie successe toke such comfort and immoderate top, as though they had bin nowe fure of victorie ouer all the restoue, so that for two dayes togither, there was fuch dauncing, linging, and pyping amongst them, as the lyke 59 bath not beene heard of. Pea lo farre proceeded their insolent outrage, that they began to contend emangst themselnes for the prisoners and hoyle, which they accopted now they, owne, as though chirally they had the same wholy in their pol-Con: and further reasoned not without alteraten, whether the Danilly Captaines after they Lothem once in there handes Could bee put to death, or else be kept aline to be spewed to the people in triumph or no. Breat a do and many haine wordes were spent hereabout in such earnest fort that they were at poynte to have fallen out a= monal themselves: but there was no mention at all made touching the ordering of their battailes and other the necellarie proceedings agaynst the mimics. At length when the rouer was fallen & come to his olde course againe, so that it might easily Constantine be passed, Constantine in order of battaile got o= proceeded a-uer with his people, to the other tyde where the gayoft his eni-Danes were lodged, who having more minde to mies. let themselves in such ofder whereby they might gain the victory, than to denife for the decuiping of the spoile, perceyning occasion now ourco to give . The order and poilet, southwith arayed their people in this sort. Placing of the the spoile, perceyning occasion now offred to give hubba with fire thousande Dancs, was placed Dancs armie. ba loas one, to the great reiopling of his brother 40 in the right wing. The left was led by one Bu= Hubba had the erne an Englisse man boane, who was fled out light wing.

of his countrey, for that he coulde not beare suche less wing. iniuries as Dibert offred him in forcing his wife, to the great reproch and diffionor of his house and name. He had with him in this left wing certaine bandes of Englill men with those Bides that had escaped ouer into Denmarke, as before is mencioned. Hungar with all the relique of the Hungar kepe armie, kept the battaile or mpoole maroe, erhor the battaile. ting his men to them their force e manhance that day, lith the same should epther put the in pollesfion of the whole land of Albion, with all the link-Chance a riches contenned therein, either elfe bring the perpetuall ceruitude with ignominie amongst their most cruell & fierce aduerlaries. De therefoje himself openly in presence of them al, bowed with Hungar made Colemne othe, rither to returne with bicorie to his a vowe. campe, cyther elfe to die in the place, willing them countrie.

like yows.

men in like

An incourage-

las souldiers.

all to make the like conchant. Whereupon the The fouldiers universall multitude allowed him so muche for did mike the this his motion, that there was not one amongst the whole number, which agreed not to sweare King Consan- the like othe. Constantine keeping in maner the tine placed his like ogder, placed in the right wing his brother Ethus, in the left Duncane the Lieutenant og Thank of Ithole, appoying to eyther of them

ten thousande men a pecce. mentgiuen to hunkeile stwode. And first he gaue them all hartie thankes in that they had so valiantly atchieucd the victoric in the last battaile, requyzing them now not to bleinish their former glorie with any fagnitucite of courage, recreant cowardice, of difhonourable flight: and further he willed them in no wife to be afcarde of their enimies, in respect more for their hugeneffe of bodle, than for any of they? valiant stoutnesse of heart: for if they assay= led them with one whole and entire consent, at 20 cording to their wonted for wardnesse and man= like prowes, they floulde quickely put them to flight, and obtaine a joyfull victozie. Pereivith he also warned them not to runne rathly boon the enimics, but to luffer the first to gine the charge, for by that meanes he thought the Dames would with their carnell violence diloquer themselves, and fo foulde it bee moze calle for the Scottes to breake in amongest them. But this deuile did not a little abate the Scottill mens copages. For the vic of the Scots is, when they that enter into battail, to make a great floute a noyle, and there-All the relidue were let in the battaile where he 10 with to run voon their enimies, by which meanes and incorage the selucs to the battail. The Danes at the found of the trupet marched forth towards procha the Scots, where they flower thus in order ofbat = the Scots tail, but whe they perceived that the Scots came not forwards, they also stayed in the midway to refeelle themselues, by cause at the loyning they thuld not be out of breath. I pon after palling for the Drag warde an eatic pace they first quarrels, and three and three Dartes at their enimies right frellyly, & the Scots danes. let flie at them againe with arrowes and darks as The Scot thicke as it had beene a storme of haile. After this arrower they rushed togither with great violence on both dams and both the wings of their enimies to flight, and after compassing the maine battaile rounde about, they constraine the fam cin the ende with greate bloudfled and flaughter to give bark and fice out of the field. Em thousande Scottes dyed that day in this infortunate battaile with Constan-Confinitiaets tine himfelfe, who being first taken was had in= to a Cauc by tine Sea fyor amongst the Rockes, 50 and there crucily murthered by the enimes. The place was called certaine yeares after the blacke

The blacke den or couc.

taken and

murthered.

The Scottes

are put to

Ethus brother betterly as then destroyed, had not Ethus the biovoto Constant ther of Constantine, percepuing howe the sielor was loft, escaped away with two companies of him king, in the reare after the byeth of our so wour 8 7 4. and the rif after Comfanting tegan to rule the ellate of the realme. The land years were many wonders and briketh fightes leak his belt men of warre, to reterning bimleffe to the

The people Eth poubting for want of a gonetrior to be fooner overcom by their eniittles, ledge the fart Cthus bit within the Scottish dominions. In the niouth of the Forth, otherwise called the Scottishe sea, there appeared titles in great number, like buto men in shape, swimming by and downe in the Areanic with halfe their bodies aboue the water, and having a blacke thinne, which covered they? heades and neckes, from the Moulders bywardes like an hoode. Thefe are called Baffinates, and ble to goe in great companies togither, as though they are seene, some great milfortune onto the Countrey, as the common people haue long had an opinion. Ilso the Loches, Rivers, and al maner of other waters were frozen from the begynning of Pouember, till the latter ende of Appill, and when the frost brake, and the snowes melted, there was such a flood flowing over al the plaines cuento the rotes of the Mountagnes, as the like had not bene leene. Furthermoze when the lame when they were dead, a began to putrifie, the ayre was so instited, p many deadly diseases ensued, wherof great nubers of the inhabitants rio perift).

Moreouer there was a mightie flarre of Comet frene with firse rayes issuing forth of the same whiche both night and day followed the Mone during the moneth of Appill, to the great horror of all that behelve it.

ulng banquithed the Scots, and walted the coutrey of Fife, palled ouer into Louthian, where robbing and spoyling all before them, they pursued the inhabitants into Porthumberlande, whither they fled for refuge. There the Danes being apord with certain English me in fauor of Biuorder em, flue in battaile both Diberts Ella, kings of that courty. The crucitie of the Danes was fuch after they had atchieuco p victorie, that fem elcapro with life, but fuch as laued the leducs by flight. 40 This done they proceeded to the election of a tres But chiclely their rage appeared molte agayatte priefles and fuch as professed themselves men of trligion. for the Danes being Ethnikes, pertecuted most egerly those that in any roise profesled Chaift. The like outragious murthering of Nor the Christians was practifet throughout the Countrey, and at length came onto that bleffed king S. Comond, raigning as the ouer the people of the Caft angles, as in the English hilloris more plainly may appeare. Potoper other of the so English kings mainteined the warres with first Danes certaine yeares after this, with variable fortune, the most part of those people which inhabited on that coast tomarde the Germaine, feas, tyther being flain 02 brought into miserable botts dage and thealbome. But Alured which faccetbayes of Oosthelia and Ostheliaed, not in the kings donic of Porthfolke and Suffolke (as Dector Boctius affigimeth) but in the kingdonic of the well Sarons, redrelled a great part of this mile- Heftor Boeilwell Sarons, trojeuse a great part of tips titles us mistaketh ricinto the which the countrey was thus brought diverse marby the Danes, by subduing them in sundzie con= rers rouching flictes, and flaying their two Captaines the force the report of fapd Hunger and Hubba, as in the same English our hystories. hyltorics is further expressed.

But now to returne buto Ethus, I find that he was of such swiftnesse of fote, that he woulde Ethie furnathey were skulles of Herrings, signisping when to matche and make way in running with Hartes med lightions and Houndes, and therepon was firmance lights forte: but of what nymble lightnesse of botic for= uer he was, truth it is that he was of disposition in minde bufitte to have the order of any publike Ethus neglecregiment. Hoz where as he might have recourted sed the opor-

Fife and Louthian with other regions, whylest cunitie. the English men and Danes were togithet by the earcs, he palied over that occasion, deliting more in following the pleasures of the bodie and sensamanache show went away, in the mud and flime 20 all lustes, than to bestow his time in seates of the pobles.

The Pobles in the was suche a number of Frogges left, that ualty and other warlike exercises. The Pobles is ualty and other warlike erertiles. The Pobles A conspiracie of the Realme perceyning him thus to abule the made agaynst worthie gyftes of his person, mistrusting least his infolet doings Hould endomage the publike flate of the comon wealth, they twke counsail tegither how they might apprehend him, and to sende him some whither out of p way wher to be lastly kept. and thereto place some other in the government of the Realme, that might rule the lame with But to proceede. The Danes as is layd, ha- 30 more discretion & better aduite. Ind least their resolution spould be disclosed before it imke effect, they flacked no time, but went specify about their bulirelle. And comming to the king whom they found a hunting in Calibone wood, they forenly King Harelled him, and therwith committed billy to late thus is arefled. kreping and hole whom they knowe to bic the worers. moures of his suill cule and mulgouernance, they put them also fall in prons, til they had answered to luch articles as flould be layouto their charge.

king, and in the end by the permalion of one Dos Gregorie is gall governour or Thank of Lugvie, thep, thois cholen king. Bergoste the forme of that. Dangall which faig. ned helple Aippne, who was not pall two Ponethesolve when his father open. This Gregory being G worthy of the rowmeth, rie. though he bimicile quis was against it, at leures ph beignatio exceding the inucliure of p kingpoine at Sprone with all our folemultie of this test ring theref, through one guilly of numbraen units in three paper after, in y become perc of the raight, and 3 76, after the birth of our faulous.

875. lo.Me

The Historie of Scotlande.

There be that wryte howe he was strangled in pailon by Dongall his procurement, least by adventure he might have bene restozed onto liber= tie, and with all have made clapme to the crowne

Gregorie being thus established in the estate. confidering that the furctic of all Realmes relied in the harioes of the divine Maiellie, to beam his gouernment with some luckie enterprise, caused a A comuce connocation to be holden at Forfair, for the ab- of the deof all tribute.

ferue in the

nen vato Bishops to order

nancement of Christes religion: where amongst Priess are free other things, it was orderned, that Priests from theneeforth to the ende they might more freely attende to their vocation fould be exempt from paying of trybute and all maner of exactions. Al-They shoulde so that they should not be constrayned to go buto 30 fringe the same. not be called to the warres, nepther to come befoge any tempogal indges, but only afore their Dedinaries and Bi= fliops, by whom they floulde be indged in al cau-Authoritie gi- fes. The fame Dedinaries and Billops fould also haue authoritie to order all men, both publike and primate, aswell for the keeping of fayth given, as to constraine them to consirme the same, and to punish such as sould be founde in the contrarie. Likewise in causes of controversse touching matrimonie, tythes, tellamentes, legacies, and 40 mainteyning of inflice and civill administration such like. Mozeoner the correcting of those that blaspheme eyther God or his Sainds. Herretikes and Picromancers, with other the like oftenders anapult the lawes and articles of the Chailtian religio, was affigued buto the Billious and their substitutes, so that all those which were founde disobedient buto them, and refused to bee at their commaundement, they flould have authoritie to ercommunicate them out of the Church, and from companying with any of the congregation, 50 their auncient enimics, fled fortifwith little Both so that they that were thus ercommunicated. flould be deprined of all abilitie to enion any inheritance or right to landes or pollessions what= foeuer they were. Prither Moulde they be accented as a witnelle in any maner of caule, neyther heare any office of rule in the common wealth. This Gregorie also (as is sappe) was the frust auffour of that ordinance, by the which the Scots till kings at their cosonation vie of auncient cu. Whe the frome to vowe by folemne othe, that during them begin to loues, they flat mainteen and defend the Church mile by with his ministers, in al ancient liberties and pile to min niledges, and not to lufter any man to burt of in- the cha

There was furely in this Gregotle a certaine King G naturall inclination to vertue, with suche abut-ly von fednelle in all his wordes, that he vitered frw or lineffe. none but that the same seemed to be spoken with right great confideration. He was never maried, was new but continued in chastitie all his lote time. Di marged meate and beinke be was verie ware, deliting in all kinde of lobzictie, moze watchefull than ginen Henn to licepe. But his fame encrealed moke to; bys concerning the state of the common wealth, not omitting the mattle of warre, white wecelline regurzed.

The first expedition which he toke in hande, He made he made into fyfe, to recouer that countrey to the to Pile. crowne of Scotlande. At whole intrancial the same, the Picces whom the Danes had left in The those parties at their departure thence, being firike int with feare to fall into the handes of the Drottes thian, leaning fife in maner bopoe, and without any that would offer to defende it against the Scottes: whereupon Gregorie to anding # The ki folate of inhabitants, he lent tot profile bill of & inhabita ther partes of his Realine, appointing then in Fife. divellings in that Countrey as hee thought mist expedient. This done he palled into Louislan, que fab where taking the fortrelles and places of believe, Louchis fome by force, and some by surrender, he easily re= duced that Countrey into his subication, so that within a fewe dayes, having there all at his pleas fure, he came unto Barwike, where there were a great number of Danes ioyned togither with the Place, as men not mynding to fice any fur= ther, but to fight with the Scottes even there, if they flouds come forward upon them. But when ther law what number the Scottes were of, and their backs if the matter went not well with the, they thought it best & such Danes as were of any great reputation of Pobil tie Moulde withdraw into Barwike befoze the enimies were at bance. and the relidue to palle ouer Tweede into Popthumberlande, there to iopne with other Danes that in those parties were lately arrived. But the Englishmen within Barwik abhorring nothing more than to be under subiedion of the Panes, in bles into theve towns, delivered it togither with thir guelles onto the Scottillmen, who fuffring the English me at their pleasure either to go theix wapes with all their godes, of to remaine still in ere their houses, line the Danes without sparing ey= ther man, woman, or childe. Then leaving a flrong garrifon of Scott. ihmen within Barwik, Gregozic marched forth with the relidue of hys people into Porthumberlande, to bnite that contrey to other of his dominions that bordered boon 30 bpon running to the battade with no lette flout-

The Historie of Scotlande.

the same. In those parties at that selfe time there were two armies looged in the fields, the our of Danes not farre from Porke, under the leading of one Herount, who had lately taken and lacked that Citie, and the other of English men that lay rr.miles off from the favo Danes. Derbunt bearing of the flaughter which the Scots had made of his countrey men at Barwike, threatned fore threatned the that be would not leave a man alive of the Scot- Scottes. perceptity doubting the English men to come on 10 tish race within any part of all the confines of Albion. Which bows many of the companie following their Captaines example, likewise made. Shortly after hearing of their enimites approche, The Danes the whole hold by commaundement of Herbunt prepare to the bartaile. iffuen forth of their campe to gine battaile. Here the Scottish king standing with his people in 02= The Scottes der of battaile, had thought to have vied some coe egrely inuade fortable speach unto them, thereby to encourage their enimies. them to fight, but suche hall was made by the the curring after the receiving of the Danish no= 20 Scots to prease boon their enimies, that he saw it moze needfull to take herd to the ordering of them in perfect array, than to fland about to exhort the. whome he faw readie mough of they? owne accord to fight. Therfore he faid no more buto the. as he went amongst the ranckes, but only willer them to remember howe cruelly Constantine King Gregory their king was sometime murthered after he had the souldiers. prelied himselfe vissoner to these enimics, with whom they floud now topne. The Scots heres nelle of minde than violent force, gave their enis 50 fed: those that could not estape to the camper mon mies bucth space to charge their weapos, but bare them downe with long spearer and iaudins, and withail the Bilinen following them made great laughter on eche live, so that there needed neither. trhoztation of captaines, noz diligente of wifters to kepe them in arav. For the weathfull flomacis of the fouldiers only weought the feat in fuch fort that the Danes were quickly put to flight e cha-

the buto the next mountaines, who chanced thous better lucke than those that escaped to the camper to; the egrenelle of the Scots was luch in chaling the enimies, that neither ditch norrampire combe flay them from entring the campe buon & Brens -where they made greater daughter than they have Done in the field. The next Day Merbunt gorthas Herdung afbout to assemble his nien togither againe being men togither.

chief generall of the Danes in England.

Herdunt re-

King Gregory

fuffred the inhabitants of

Northumber

land to may their landes

campe.

dispersed here and there, but when he binderstode how he had lost the more halfe of his whole host, Herdone wear he curled that buhappy day, and determined to retoward Rafin, tire buto Rafin, who as then was captain generall of all the Danes that were in Englance: but Herount by reason of lis wounded men, whom he was faine to carte with him, could not make fo2= ward with any great speede, so that he was bueth rl.miles got forth on his way when word came men bowarcly, at a place called Heleades, chaun= ced to be flaine with a great multitude of his people: and thereunto his head was carred abrode by and downe the countrey from towns to towns to be seene. By such nushaps the prosperitie of the Danes so much dourishing of late, began nowe manifeltly to vicay. Herount although he was not a little discoraged herewith, pet he chose forth a plot of ground most meet for his purpose, where understand what the Danes in other places were minded to no. But Gregorie K. of Scots having thus expulsed the Danes forth of Porthumber= land, brought that countrey bnder his subjection: neverthelesse he permitted the inhabitants to en= ion all their possessions still, only recepting of the in name of fourraintic a yearely tribute. So that within a few dayes after, he brake by his armie, & went himself unto Barwike, where heremanned bles about the publice affayees of the realme. In the beginning of the nert Sommer, he prevared againe for warre, and rayling an armie, he purpo-King Gregory sed to make a journey against the Bzytains, who held as before we have herd a great part of Scot= the Brytaines, land. But he was not driven to ble any force in this warre; for the Bertaines being bered afore this time with warre by the Danes, had copoun= ded with them for an buge funime of money to without regard to their promise, shortly after with a greater power than at the first, entred into the Bertish bosners, riming p warre so fiercely, that notwithstanding their force was sore enseebled, by teason of the two last metioned ouerthrowes, yeththe Beytaines doubting the worlt, feared to encounter with them, and therfore after confulta=

tion bed, they thought it belt to allay if they mucht the Socottill King an Heraulde, they require to iopne with them in arms againste the Dancs.

common enimies to both they? Countreys, 1126-nuling that if they woulde so doe, they woulde willingly furrender into his handes all fuch pol-collions which they helde at any time belonging

Gregorie weping with himselfe how necessabnto the Scottist kingdome.

wintered at Barwike.

King Gregor

mie ag unst

The Brytaines fend to king Gregorie, happely allure the Scottes of their enimics to be-rie this friendship should be, not oncly to the pub-King Grandlike weale of all the whole lande of Albien, but his confident also of the god surctie and advancement of thon, Chailtes religion, whereof the Danes were grienous adversaries (for this hee thought, that if Scottes, English men, and Brytaines did ioyne A peace of in one, and knit themselves togither in ayoing ech cluded, and other, there was no nation in the world that they rendred to needed to feare) he consented unto the request of the Scotter to him, that Raline fighting with the Englisse 10 the Bertaines, and to accepting their offer, he had all those regions which apperteened sometime to the Scottes, and were nowe in possession of the Bertaynes, furrendered into his handes, and fo by this meanes were the Scottiffe confines ma larged and extended unto their auncient limittes and former boundes. This diffention and variance being ceassed after this maner, greatly res ippeed the mindes of all the inhabitantes of thes Tie, but contrariwise, the Dames loked for no= he determined to remaine in campe till he might 20 thing more than present destruction to ensue bus to them, if this amitic flould continue any while amoall their enimics, wherfoze they praffiled fudrie meanes to breake the amitic thus remaining betwirt their avuerlartes, Scottes, English men. and Beptapnes, wherein they needed not greatly to tranaple, for within a floor trine after the conclusion of the same league, the prosperous faccesse of the English men, whichefor a leason had followed them under the conduct and gournall the winter feason in consultation with his no= 30 ment of their king Alured against the Dams; oc calioned the Bertaynes also (bening nome no The Brea further feare of the Danishe puissance, to repent repentite themselues of the league, whiche they had lately made will made with the Scottes, in to ninche that Con- Scottes. stantine whome a little before thep havrecepued to bee they, king after the deceasir of his father, repled a power, and with the same entered into Innandale, to recover that Countrey out of the Scottiffe mens handes: but hearing in the ende haufe truce foz. rx: peaces space, but the Danes 40 that Gregozie was comming with a great army to fuccour his subjectes, whome the layou Bzy= taynes on eche lide had loze afflicted; they bigan to drawe backe towardes Cumberlande with there botic, thinking there to bee in faschie whill a time moze connenient. But king Gregozie coasting the Country, met with thin at Ich- ouether maben, and there caue them battaile, wherein Bry wyace when Constantine percepued how his people began to fleinke backe, and man haning moto recome their friends. And herebyon fending buto so garde to his honour than to the furetiens his life, he rushed forth into the formost prease, there are fuctour and relicue bis Standardes , but bering compassed about amongest a great companie of his enimics, his chaunce was there to ber thairs with a number of the chiefest Lozdes of all the Bytish nation. The other multitude leday the day to goe thus again them, fled to faue they? lives, leaving the victorie to to the Scottes.

The Historie of Scotlande.

This ouerthyoive did put the Bzytaynes in counger to have bene ofterly outerunne, what by the Scottes on the one lide, and the Danes on the other: for as for any ayor to be looked for of the English men, they had plain answere they flouid have none, fith they had so briustly broken the league cocluded with their cofederates the Scots, to the great hinderance of the prosperous proceevings of al the inhabiters of this Fle, against their flablish the estate of their countrey, and in hope of some reconerie of their former dammages, thep enking crowned to their king one Herbert of as some co= pies haue Bebert the brother of the last Constantine, and herewith fent Ambassadours buto Gregogie king of the Scottill men to excuse themselucs, in that they had so wrongfully attempted the warres against him and his people, laying all the fault in Constantine, who against the willes and on him that diffionourable and most infortunate enterprise. Gregorie having heard the message of gargory these Ambassadors, for answer declared buto the. that he understood well prough that the Beptains now fued for peace byon no reverend confideration they had unto their other of couenat, but only for that they saw howe if they shoulde pursue the warrestill, they were fure that in the ende they truce with fuch villoyall people, till they had re= ligned ouer into his hands the whole possession of fredered the Countreys of Cumberland & Westmerland, enterfy with affurance never to pretende any clayme or tale unto those dominions from thenceforth: and maked kerewith for performance of conenants, to render into his hands not only & keyes of al the townes, callels, and fortrelles in the same countreys, and to anopde quite their waves into Wales to other their countrey men there, but also to deliver. Ir. 40 Englishmen, as Gregory was about to lay arnoble mens formes and herzes apparant as pled= ges to remain with the Scots. The Ambassadors returning home with this message, and revorting it accordingly buto their king, when all men had fair their admice, in the ende they condifcended to conclude the peace with the rehearled conditions prescribed by the Scottish king, sith they sawe no better meane to preferue their nation from prefent distriction. Ind thus delinering the appoputed number of pleages, they left the countryes of Cu- 50 them, but they having knowledge of his coming, berland and deletinerland boyd, furrendzing in= to the Scottish mens hands the possessions of all. the townes, castels a fortresses, therewith departed into Porthwales, where they placed theselues Last in the country betwirt Conway and the river of Decout of the which they expulsed the Englishe men that were then in polletion therof, and therwith they erected a kingdom ther, which they named Stradelund, maintenning warres against v Englishmen many veres after. K. Gregozic has ning thus enlarged his kingdome, affembled his nobles at Carleil, wher he resolved with their ad= uice to follow such good fortune as by Gods pro= uidence dayly chaunced unto them. Wherevon it was agreed, that they Mould go first unto Porke the Scottes to to conquer that citie, whilest the English men in have taken Kent were occupied with the Dancs that were Yorke. common enimies the Danes. Pet the better to e= 10 come thither, so as neither the one nation not the other could attend to make any attempt to hinder the Scottill mens enterpzife. But in the meane fime came Ambassadors unto Gregozie fro king Ambassadours Alured to congratulate his prosperous successe as voto king gainst his enimies & Danes & other. These Am= Gregorie. baffadors also willed to have the auncient league betwirt Englishmen & Scottes renued, by which meanes both their powers might toine togither as gainst their common enimies, when they Mondo contrarie to the minds of his subiects did take bp= 20 attempt any wrongfull invasion. This request Peace confirwas granted, so that floatly therbyon peace was med. established betwirt those princes & their people, & confirmation of the olde league, wherebuto were added these articles: that & Scots flould enion the possession of Porthüberland without any claime to be made to the same by the English men: if the Dancs chaunced to inuade either of their domi= New conditinions, the warre should be accounted as common ons of peace. Chould be like to have the foyle: therefore he was to them both. Peither Chould the Scots graunt No passage to fully thus resoluted, not to conclude any peace of 30 passage to any enimy of the Englishmen through be graunted Scotlad, neither the Engliff men fufter & Scot- vato the eni-

linered to the Scottiff magiftrats to be puniffed

according to the qualitie of the offence, & the lyke

Chould be observed by the Scottes towardes the having knowledge that the inhabitants of Galloway had spoyled two thins of Dublin arrywing on their coast, sent over a great power of men, the which landing in Galloway, made great flaughter of the people on ech fide. K. Gregozy being aduertised hereof, strength waves made towardes

drewe to their thippes with a great pray of godes and cattels, and returned therewith immediately back into their own countrey. Herebyon Gregory without delay got togither his thips and foldmed

the enimies with all his army, a landing in Freland, put the nobles of that realme in great feare, who as then were in contention togither whiche of them Mouloe have the government, by reason till mens enimics to palle through England. If mie.

any English men did rob og steale any thing out Punishment of Scotlande that floulde not breake the league, of robbers but the offenders with the receptors Mould be de-

Englishme. Thus things being quieted with the mot alide, word came to him of new trouble forth unded by the of Galloway, by reason of an inuasion made by Irish men. the Iriffmen into that coutrey. For the Iriffinie men Cather their powers.

Two armics one neare the other.

practile.

The Sottes had made prounion of vyrayle# afore hande.

they king was lately diade, and had left a sonne behinde him being but a childe in yeares, to fue= reade him in his throne. Some therefore of the wifer fort, and fuch as tendeed the wealth of their countrey, went earneitly about to agree the parties but when they faw that moulde not be, they did so much yet, that a truce was taken betwirt them for a while, least fighting still amongest the two parties themselves, they floulde put they? Countrey in Brunger to be ouerrunne of the Scottes: agaynst 10 himself and his men, 4 deuising in the meane time whom when they had agreed byon the forelande trucz eyther of the faitions rayled a power, one Been being generall of the one, and Comelius of the other: for these two princes were heades of the parties betwirt whom the controverse for the government of the Realme rested, and therebyon by consent of the relidue had the leading of all them that were of their faition. Theletwo Cantagnes with their armies encamped themselucs byon the banke of the Ryucr Bane, bnder the 20 fayle hys enimyes) tumble downe stones from Mountaine called Fute: they campes beeing fe= uered by a finall distance the one from the other, in such a strong place, that it was not possible for the enimies to approche them withoute manifest vaunger to cast away themselues. Their chiefe The trish mes purpose mas to protong the tyme here in thys place, till they had famished the Scottish armie, and then to deale with them at they? pleasure. But the industrious prouision of Gregorie pal= sed the polityke demie of the Frishe men : foz hee 30 tapne, in the mozning when their fellowes fell aflacte had commaunded that everic one of those Scottish men which passed the Seas with him, should puruey hymselfe of bytaples, according to the custome of the Countrey, for fiftie dayes space. as of breade, cheefe, butter, larde, and potudien hiefe: as for drinke they knowe they floulde not ncede to care, lithe they were fure to finde mater rnough in enery place where they channeed to come: for as pet filthice scruite glutonic had not fostened nor inured with wanton delicacie the marlike natures of the Scottill people. In the ende Gregozie hauing foz certaine dayes reffen which way he might best endomage the enimics. At length concluded to sende in the night scason two thousands of his souldiers by to the ridge of The king the forenamed mountaine called Fute, throughe the thicke bushes and wods wherewith the same was covered to the ende that getting to the top of that hill, right ouer where the Frish campes lay, they might in the morning (at what time Gregotte with the rest of the armic went about to asthe browes of the Hill upon them, thereby eys ther to destroy great numbers of them, either else to constraine them to come forth of their strength into the plaine fields, and to to fight with them in a place indifferent. Benneth Cullan the Chane Kenneth Q of Carrick twke oppon him to have the conduct lan. of them that floulde goe aboute this enterpile, who conveying hys bande over the water of Bank, and to by on the backe fide of the Moun- King Gre in hande to affayle the Frishe campe where Bren Irishnica. lodged, they tumbled suche plentie of mightie stones downe byon the Irishe men, that abour a thousande of them oceng uame, authe residue were forced to forfake their grounde, and to flee in maner withoute anye stroke stryken. The Scotres that were sent to puelue them, twke a great number of them pationers, and flue but a fewe, haming befoze hande fuche commaundes ment from their Bunce.

The Irish are Purincd.

Wilhitest this mischiefe fell voon Bien and his people, Cornelius with his folkes curling that infortunate day, left their lodgings, and marches their wayes in good offer of battaile til they were farre pnough out of daunger.

The Historie of Scotlande.

The bodie of Been also was founde amongst o= has ther in the cyfling of the campe, with the heade hinvied in peeces, and the braynes pallied oute with some thome throwne downe by the Scottish men from the hyll side. Wilhich Gregozie at the reguest of some of the prisoners caused to bee burred in Chuistian Sepulture. He caused also women and children to be fent away harmlesse. onclurerayning the men of ableage prisoners. vie nerther fice not two toe, but against such only as with weapon in hande made any reliffance. and communded them also that they shoulde pround themselves of vittagles to scrue them why= lest they shoulde lie abrode and remaine there in that countrey. And herebpon many of the Friff, people thus taffing the mercifull elemencie of the Scottiff king, pecloed themselves buto him with fundrie Fortreiles, so that Gregorie finding lufalong scason, he went buto the strong Citie of Doungarge, oz Doungarde, which he enuironed aboute with a strong siege, and continuing the fame certaine dayes, at length they within weatyed with continuall trauaple and lacke of bittaples, opened the gate, and suffered him to enter. De moulde not permit his men to meddle with anyt of the sporle, but appointed the gende ran. Townes men to redeeme the same (thep? ar=

Afterwarde tarping in this Citie by the wace of three dayes, hee departed and came afore ano= ther Citic called Pontus, whiche he recepued by furrender, and therefore preserved the Citizens from all hurt and annoyance. From thence hee purposed to have cone buto Dubline. about. riii. myles villant from Pontus, but as he marched thitherwardes, he was advertised that Cornelius armie, as the like had not beene feene within the memorie of man in that Ile. Whereboot Gre= gone chaunging his purpose of going to Dub= lin, byon report of these newes, he got him by into the next mountaine. The next daye came the Influmenraunged in three battagles. In the first, there was a great multitude of Kernes with Dattes and Bowes: In the ferond were a great number of mightie tall men, armed in coates of some which they carped upon their right Moulders. In adwich the thirde battaile, wherein Awde their gene= tall Counclius with all the chiefest Pobles of the Countrey, were an infinite companie of all logics of Souldiers, chosen forth of all the whole numbers. The Scottes (according to their cuflome) denided themselves into two wings, and a middle warde, in cueric of the which were three fortes of Souldiers : as furst Archers, and those with long speares, then Bylmen, and last of all, suche as bare long Swordes and leaden Malles.

Thus the battailes beeing ordered on both Two battailes partes, forwarde they make one towardes and= ioine. ther to begin the fight, the Scots (after & the Mot and throwing of darts was frent, and that they came to joyne) kept off they enimies with long furthermore he commaunded that they foulde to Speares or Jauclius, in such fort, that they were not able to come neare them: which disaduantage Coinclins percepuing, commaunded on highe that they Moulde with their lwordes cutte those Fauclynes in funder, and as he lyfted by the biloz of his helmet, the better to exhort his people to the execution hereof, he was to wounded in the face Cornelius was with a Speare, that he was fain to withdraw a= fore wounded. part out of the fielde. The Frish men supposing be had fledde, incontinently to faue themselues. ficient provision of vyttayles to lerue his hoft for 20 threw off they armor and fell to running away. The Irish ran Thus did the victorie encline to the Scottiste away. frandardes. There vied but a fewe to speake of in the battaile, howbeit in the chase there was a monderfull number flaine : fez the Scottes pur= fued them euen buto Dublin Bates Willich Ci= Dublin befietie the next day Gregozie beset on eche side with ged. a mightie fiege. There was gotte into this Citie at the fame tyme a wonderfull multitude of veo= ple, what of suche as were recepued into it ficemour except) of hys Souldiers for a prece of 30 ing from the battaile, as also of other, whiche mere there aftembled before, in hope of affured victorie and lafegarde of their godes. By reafon whereof beeing thus belieged, they beganne quickely to want bytaples, fo that epther must. they of necessitie peeloe, eyther else by some isfue anorde that dannaer wherein they were vie= fently bewrapped.

2But for as much as they fato no great likelyhode of god successe in that exployte, in the ende thickness, he was adjectifed that Coinclins hode of god fuccelle in that exployte, in the ende was comming towardes him with fuch an huge 40 it was concluded amongst them, that (lithe there was no meane for those Poble men which were inclosed within that Citie to escape the enimies handes, and that there were none other of any reputation absode able to defende the Countrey fro the Scottillmens puillance) they thould fall to some treatie with the Scottish king for a voon a treatie peace to be had, with so reasonable conditions as of peace to be might be obtenued: for other remedie in that we = made. fent mischief they could denise none, and therfore male, with Bucklers and great long Swozdes, 50 this was judged the best way of the whole nüber, f namely of Cormach billion of Dublin, a man for his lingular pertue a reputatio of preight life. of no final authority amongst them. He took byo him allo to go buto Gregozie to breake & matter, Cormach B. of & lo coming afore his prelece, belought him molt Dublin went bubly to have covaction byon the pose miscrable voto king citie, and in such sort to temper his wrath, if he Gregorie. had conceputed any prece of displeasure agapust

D.III.

Dou icane.

A wittie faying.

the Citizens, that it might please him pet bypon their has able submission to recepue them unto his mercie, and further to accept into his protection his confin vono Duncane, buto whom the king. Dome of Frelande was due of right, as all the inactor weil underftwoe. He befought him also to remember, that it apperfeyned moze to the honour of a king to presente the lawfull right of o= ther kings and princes with the quiet state of Ci= ties and Countreres, than by violent hande to 10 of Religion, with the Bylhop, the foresayd Cot- Cormach B. seeke their destruction. Wherebuto the king an= King Gregory wered, that he was not come into Irelande for golly answer, any courtous desire he had to the Realme, or to the entent to spople his kinnesman of the gonormal thereof, but onely to revenge suche infuries as the Friffmen had done to his lubiedes: not the Scottes but the Irifie men themselues were they that had goven the occasion of the warre, whiche they had dearely bought with no small postion of they bloud (whiche had 20 mendation of the 23 thop for suche his elemencies beene Medde) as pumilied for that creme wor= thelp be the inte indement of almightie God.

But as touching an mide to bee had of los quarell, and for the referning of the Kingpome buto pona Duncanes behwfe, when bee had the Citie ac hos cleasure, hee woulde Thentake fuche order as her moulde thinke most con-

This answere of the Scottishe king being reported buto them within the Citie, they betermi= Dublian ! ned forthwith to let open their gates to receput rendred van him: who, when he had caused search to be made whither all things were trucky ment according to the outwards thewe or not, he marched forth towardes the Citic to enter the same in other of Gregorie w battaile, with all hys whole armie, into the which received we he was received with Procellion of al the effates: for first there mette him all the Priestes and men mach, who having byon him his Pontificall ans of Dablin parell, bare in his handes the Crucifice: then fol- conmetba lowed the Pobles with the other multitude. Which order when Gregorie behelde, he commaunded his battaile to stay a little, and there. with he himselfe advanced forth on fote till hee came to the Biffier, and falling downe boon his knees, he renerently killed the Crucific, where= Hekisteth buon recepuing humble thankes with high come Crucifix. he entred the Citie, not flaving till be came into the Warket place, where commaunding one part of his armie to keepe their flanding, he went with the relidue buto the Church of our Ladie. and after to that of Saint Patrike, where hearing the celebration of Dinine fernice when the same was He entred ended, her entred the Castell, where his lodging Castell was prepared. In the morning he cauled erecution to be vone of certaine burnly persons of his armie, winche in the night passed had broken by the houses of some of the Citizens, and ranifly b 50 Diverle women. And for this aite Gregorie be= ing had in highe reverence of the Triffic people. lodged part of hys armie win the Citic, and part he commanneed to lodge worthour in the campe.

It length having remayned a feason in thys estate at Dublin, her caused the Inshe Lordes to affemble in Countaile, where in the ende the peace was concluded betwirte him and them, with these articles and covenants.

First it was agreed that the yong king Din Articles of kane flouto be brought by brote the gourthment acome of wife and discrete persons, to be instructed in the Their vo Princety knowledge within a frong Caling king weeke (wherein he had hitherto remayned energine has brought pe fathers becoosts) fathers becease) till be came to years of dilite tion. Ind that in the meane tyme Gregorit King Greg Moulde haue the gouernaunce of the Realites verament receyuing all the fostrelles into his possession, the reside.

to the Mould also have the appropriment of the mas artitutes, who thould fee inflice munifred accor= bing to the olde statutes and opdinaunces of the Triffic kingdome, that the Frish men should recour nerther Englishe man, Waytaine, noz Pane, into they? Countrey, no not fo much as for trade of marchandile, without lafecondulte to be graunted by him: fo that things beeing thus prought unto a quietnes in Freland, he recepued an other of the chiefelt of them for performance of 10 concuants, and herewith taking with him three army backe into Dcotlande. After this, there channeed no notable trouble to the Scottes, nepther forraine nor civill by all the time of king Gregories raigne, so that passing the relidue of his life in quietnelle, he studied chiefir for the politike government of his people in mod order and rule to the advantement of the man, in a Castell called Doundoze within the Countrey of Garioth, in the xviii, yeare after hys entring into his effate, and after the brath of our fanieur. 892. De was neuer marped, but lyued in continuall challitic: for his famous bidories and other his princely doings descruing of the Scottes to be numbred amongst their most high renowned princes. Amongst other his princely actes which he let forwarde in his life time, to the Aberdine of a village was aduaunced by him to the flate and dignitie of a citie, and the Churche there indolved with favze revenewes, and fundzy Influence Plinkedges. His bodie was conveyed buto the abber of Colmkill, and there burged with all folimite pompe and crequies. Quer the which hys nerte successour Donalde the fift of that name caused a favze tumbe to be crefted.

troze hostages, hee returned with his bistozious

In the dayes of this Gregorie also, there lived in deede bozne, but brought by in studie of god literature at Ithens, where having learned the Greeke tongue, be was fent for into France, to come buto the Emperour Lewes, with whome he remanned in service for a time: and by whose commaundement he translated the booke of S. Dionile, intituled Hierarcinia, into Latine. Afterwardes beeing fent Imbastadour from the same Lewes buto Alured of Alfred king of Englande, behold. Porwithstäding, at length when he cealfed not to blame and harply to reproue the forrupt maners of fuch his schollers as were given Bearing minge to libertic than learning, he was by them murthered with daggers, as he was reading buto them, and was aftermardes regulared amongeli the number of Marty is.

die to maintepne the same in the semblable plight

Att to our purpose. Donald ceeded Donald the fifth Donalde the in government of the fitch. kingdome. De was the Some of Constan= tine the seconde. And finding the state of the Realme in good quiet and flourishing in welth he applied his whole fin-and condition. And befoze all things he caused He was a good instice to bee duely ministred, so that no injurie, frecially if it were done to any pose person, cleaned bununished. Chailt the Load of al vertue had He was religiven him fuch a goody disposed minde, whose re- gious. ded common wealth: and finally died an happy olde 20 ligion (to the advancement of his glorie) he had ener in high beneration. Amongst other his god= ly ordinances, he made this flatute to bee obser= ned as a law, that such as by swearing bradui- A punisher of blaphemers. feoly blasphemed the name of almightic God, or in curling and banning called byon the name of the wicked fiend, and betwhe any Chailtian creas ture unto his hellisse power and domination fa bice naturally following the people of that Pation) thould have his tongue thrust through with adomement of his countrey and common welth, 20 a burning yeon. But wo worth the negligence of Good ordifuch as hane lucceeded him, in luffring so necella- nances are loone negrie an ordinance to be abolished and worne out leased. of ble, confidering the horrible other and blasphemie, with the bitter & dreadfull curlings fo much frequented of alestates in this our time, aswel in Scotlande as elsewhere, as without great borros of the hearers cannot bee halfe expecsion. But to our purpole touching the governmet of Danalo: it chaunced afterwardes, that be hab knowledge that famous Clerke John Scot, a Scottish man 40 how Gozmond a Dane was landed with a puile Gormond atfant armie bnon the coaltes of Porthumberland, usute in Norand had pitched his campe neare linto, the flioze, thumberland. without boing any boninge to the Countrey" fo that it was buccrtain what he interped: whether to begin a conquest ther e, of to passe ouer buins ber to make warres on the Englithmen. To picsucht to re-uent therefore all damages. Donaide halled to- goeth to re-wardes Rorthumberlands, howbeit he was not ha limb. Lewes but a flured of Alured of Anglands, just a be continued with him a taught his children, has so came to him born Counsell was altravity defined by the children, has so came to him born Counsell was altravity defined by the continued with him a taught his children, has so came to him born Counsell was a wonder to be heard tertainly, that Counsell was a wonder to be heard tertainly, that Counsell was a wonder to be heard tertainly. his way was admininged for wards at the featt. it ber. miles of from the rouge of bumber, pouliting least bamely be had ment loure decept, as fourtly to have returned byon the Scors in Postbuthber-lande, when the king had berne office gove backe.

P.IIII.

But nowe when it was knowne that hys Donalde fent purpose was onely to astayle the English Counstooments treys, according to the league usualy confirmed, the apple of the English men. Donaide sent fine thousande Scottill men unto the ards of the English men. Ind also appointed two thousand hossemen to remaine with him in Potthumberlande (where he flaved for a tyme) discharging the residue, and licensing them to returne unto their homes.

at Abingdon, where in the ende the victoric abode with the English men and Scottes, though the fame was got with fuch lotte of men after long and doubtfull battaile, that they were not able to purfue the enimics in chafe, but confragned immediately after, to conclude a necessarie peace A jeuceco with them, on condition that the Danes fliouide cluded. enior common leates with the English men in Albion, so that Gozmond with his Danes upono be baptised, and professe the Christian Religion. The Danes be baptised, and professe the Christian Religion. Shortly after Gormond fought with Alured to Herreppon also were pledges deliucred on both to remain partes, and Gormonde comming to receive ban- England.

Gormondis ouerth rowne by k.Alured.

Gormonde is many mo.

rey lande.

into Murrey lande.

The chiefe do. ers were put to death.

The king went into Northumberlande.

tilme had his name chaunged, and was called A= be departed this worlde. thelstane, during whose life the peace continued betwirt the two Pations. Whilest things pasfed thus in Englande, there role a pecce of tron-They of Rosse ble betwirt the inhabitants of Marrey lands, and Rolle, which vilquieted king Donald not a little. marily vsed.

> which comming forth of Rolle in the night time, fecretely entered into Murrey lande, to fetch bos ties from thence. It the first they of Murrey land 40 made relistaunce against them as well as they might, but after calling their neighbours to avec

The occasion arew by reason of certaine threnes, them, they fkirmished in such wife, that within Two thousand two Monethes space, there were flaine betwirt them two thousand of the one spoe a of the other. Donalde beeing not a little offended to have hys with an armie peace broken with intelline dileozde, gathered & great power, and with the lame halted into Mur= rep lande: where calling the chiefest doers and maintepners of this bulinelle to finake antwere to 50 that which was layde to their charge, when they were not able to cleare themselves of the crome, he put them to open execution of drath, to the enfample of other. This trouble bering in this fort quieted, he went into Porthüberland, to be there in a readinelle, if the Danes of Engliffe men (whom he suspected) floulde attempt any thing agaynst his subicites in those parties: wherem the ende, after he had raigned almost. zj. yeares, Donald cu

His bodie was burred in Colmkill amongli his anneefters, with a Marble tombe let ouer his grave, as the maner in those dayes was custo-

After Dos Consta fifth, there fue tine. ceeded in rult of the Realme Constantine & the thirde thirde of that name, the lon of Ethus the folly, bearing in ning his raign in the react at ter the incarnation 903. He was more apt for the uill gouernment, than for the ordering of warlist affayres. King Edwarde that lately inccreded King Ed Alured in rule ouer the English men being ware fent a thereof, fent onto him an Heralde at aimes continued to maunding him to restoge unto his subicitis the Englill) men, the coutreps of Porthumbeilito, Cumberlande, and Wieffmerlande (Which the Scottiff king Gregorie hav in tynics pall by br. callon of the troublesome season taken from the right owners by force) eyther els to loke for warres at his handes within.rl. dayes after this funtionance. Constantine herebuto answered, that if king Edward were minded to make him wartes for those landes which he helde by right= full title, he with his people woulde be ready to offend themselves, hoping in the almightie God that her woulde turne the punishment on them that uniuffly had pyked the quarell. Heremon englichmen and Scots made, as occation ferued, into eche others countrey, with divers iky2= milles t light bickerings for a twelve moneths space togither, without any notable encounter of thepr mayne powers. In which meane tyme the Danes encrealed in pupsiaunce, moze than was thought requilite for the luertie epther of the Englishmen or Scottes, whiche moved king Edwar war ward by percovation of his Pobles, to make eccente- newed: wherebuto Constantine lightly agreed: to that the league was confirmed agapne with the former articles betwirt the Englishe and Scottiffinations. Shortly after also the warre was renewed betwirt the Englishme & Danes, and a peace againe confirmed by conclusion of a mariage betwirt Sithzik king of Porthumberland and Beatrice the doughter of king Edwarde, till at length Sithzik was poploned by Analassis whome the Englishe wepters name Inlate and Godfrep, the Connes of Sithrike, put the same Beatrice to death, hyz father king Ed= ward moved warre against them, & in foughten helde discomfited them, but was flaine in that battel himself (as 19cHo2 Boetius hath.) But for the further truth of this mater, pe may read moze in the hillorie of Englande.

The Danes being certified, that king Coic. god fuccesse after to come, that albeit they were at this time vanquilled, they immediatly made news preparation for the warre, and firste of all Analoss the one of the two beetherne before mencioned, sent buto Constantine the Scottish king, to allure him to iorne with them against the Englishmen, whiche with great giftes and large promises hee easily brought to passe, the league not withstandong whiche cemapned betwirt the Englishe and Scottille nations. 50 Freed Perebpon bothe the Scottes and Wanes made the greatest provision that night be, thinking benly to subout the Englishmen, and tobying them to better vestruction. Malcolme some to ting Donald was appointed by king Constantine to have the leading of the Scottifte army, conterning the number of twentie thoulands men. The same Malcolme also at the same mapricuaunce of his affate. And euen then it The Earle of was order ned, that he whiche flouid succeede to Cumberland the crowne after the kings decease shoulde euer to the king of eniop that province. Malcolme iopning his Scots. power with Analassus and Godfrey (who had Danes ioyne assembled in like maner a mightie holte of theyr powers Danes) they all togither brake into the En- togither. conglishmen and Scots made, as occasion fernot, into eche others countrey, with divers theyany pitie of compassion in all places where they came, to the intent of the Englishme moued with the flaughter of they? kinsfolkes and frendes, Mould come forth into the field to give bataple, fupposing they flould not be able to withstande the force of the Panes and Scottillmen nowe iouned in one army togither. But the moze bis lanie they shewed in they? doings, the soner were is the meanes unto Constantine to have the peace re= 20 were they punished for the same. For Athelstane Adelstane bate the base some of king Edward (whom the En- some ento glissmen had chosen to succeede in government king Edward. of their kingdome after his fathers deceaste) with al speede sought to be revenged of such injurious al speede longht to be renenged of inchinacious doings. Wherebyon getting togither an army, came against he encountred with them at a place called Beo- the Scottes. ningfield, or Brunenburgh in Julie, Anno. 937. where the Englishmen at the firste of purpose gave some thing backe, as though they had fled: his wife the layde Beatrice: and then bicaule 30 which maner when the Danes and Scottes behelde, supposing the Englishmen had fledde in The Scots and deede, they began to pursue amayne, leauyng order. thepe order of bataple, eche of them Ariuma who might be the formost. The Englishmen accozving to the order appointed to them by they? Captaines, sodenly fell into array againe, and fiercely returning byon they? enimies, beat them The Scots and bowne in great numbers, and so attented a most throwen. triumphant victorie. There vied in this morhibered warde was thus flayne, conceyned such hope of 40 tall batayle many thousands of Danes & Scottillme, but chiefly the Scottist nobilitie bought The nobilitie the bargaine most beare, who chosing rather to wer to weach. Die in the fielde than to fuffer rebuke by villonorable flight, it came to to passe that keepe of which them escaped. There died on that fide (as some mapte)20000 anen in this bataile, togither with Wilfert king of the Guentes, Hanwall king of Bertons, and bij. Dukes that caine to bely the Scottes and Danes. Athelitane by gwo aduile Adelitane toko following the victorie, entred into Porthum- Northumberberland, and finding the countrey dispurueged of land. menne of warre, he eally made a full conquest thereof, having all the holdes and fortrelles dels nered into his handes. Then without sinther ... Westmerland belay he passed into Westmerland, and aftering & Cumberland to Cumberland, where the inhabitants of bothe recoursed. those regions bare forted and bare beaded, in token of moste humble submission present them-

D.b.

time was created heyze apparant of the realine, He is created hauing Cumberland alligned unto him for the parant.

le lues

hurtes.

A councel cal- of his countreps aforelapde. Wherebyon Con-Icd by Couflautine.

Conftintine becommeth. Chanoa.

M.V.Veikm. bataple fought at Bzoningsielde og Bzunen=

taple was fought, Inno. > 37. as the beste ap= proned amongelt our Englishe werters do repost, so that it Moulde rather seeme that Constatine refused in decde to deale with the government of the realme, about the same yeare of our Lord, 937, or Mortly after, and that Malcolme gouerned as Regent and not as king whilest Constantine lined, who departed this life cafter 40 he had cotinued in the Abber of S. Andrewes a certapne time in the foreland peare.941. falling in the.rl. yeare after he fielt beganne to repgue. Conftantine he was first buried in the church there amongst The Bishops, but afterwards he was taken by F traflated unto Colmekill, where he had a tumbe fet our him, as was convenient for the memory of his name.

In the exerti, peare of his repane there were two montruous creatures bogne in Albion, the 50 pet his chiefe studie was by all meaning will one amongst the Danes being an Hermophrodyre, that is to witte, a childs with bothe ferres, bauing the head loke a fwone, the brefte standing forth more in resemblance than the common thape of man, a fatte bellv, with feete lyke a awfe leages lyke a man, full of hypfiels, and a An other mo- very cuill fauoured thing to beholde. The other was borne in Porthumbertande, onchy hauing a mannes fere, with one whole belly from the nauell downe, but about, the same deviced with timo beetl's created of compatied ridge wife and not broade lyke to the Mape of man : belide this it had foure armes and two heades. And enen as from the nauell bywardes it was thus devided into two bodies, so did it appears there Two commas two contrary willes or desires in the same, willes in cuer lusting contrarily, as when the one did Monster. nother, where he percepued howe fore his realine 10 fleepe, the other woulde wake: when the one reaurzed to have meate, the other passed for none at all. Oftentymes woulde they chyde a branie togither, in so muche that at length they fell so farre at variannce, that they did beate and rente erther other right pytifully with they? narles. At length the one with long lickenelle wearpng One part away and finally deceasing, the other was not before the able to abide the greenous finell of the dead car= ther.

The Historie of Scotlande.

felues buto him, promiling from thenceforth to continew his faithfull subjectes. In the meane time Malcoline being lose wounded in the bataple, eleaped pet with great daunger, and in an horse litter was convered home into his countrey, where he declared unto king Constantine the whole circumstance of the overtheow a losse stantine caused a councell to be called at Abir= was enfeebled through lacke of fuch of the nobi-litie as were lost in the laste battaple, by reason the residue that were lest seemed through want of yeares, neither able by councell noz force to desend the realure, so as he utterly despaired ep= ther to be of power to beate backe the enimies, or to governe his realme in such politike sorte as he mould have withed. And therefore to rid himfelf of all fuch cares and troubles, and withall defoi= him from devine contemplation (wherebuto he was partly bent'he caus over his kingly affate, and became a Chanon within the Abber of S.

Andrewes amongst the covent there. This was in the peare of our Saniour. 943, and in the

rl. years of his owne revone: as Hector Boes

tius faith: but if he did thus forfake the worlde and entred into religion immediatly after the ters) then must it needes be afore this supposed time alledged by the same Bortins, for that ba= case, but immediatly after died also. Aboute the same tyme there issued forth a Bloud if fing al fuch worldly pempe as might withdraw 20 fountagne of bloude out of the lide of a moun-out of tayne in Galloway, and flowed in greate abundaunce for the space of seuen dayes togither, so that all the rouers there aboute (whereof there is great store in that countrey) had thepr waters mixed with bloude, and fo renuyng into the fea. caused the same to seeme bloudie certaine miles distant from the shore. These prodictions What we lightes put menne in greate feare, for that deui, ment by burch for so we finde it named by some were 30 nours did interprete the same to signific some great bloudliedde to fall boon the Scots Chort ly after. They were also the better beleeued, for that within a whyle after that greate outer throw happened at Bronyngfielde, as before is fuccificd.

Alfter that Co- Mal is layde) was m=colme tred into religion, the before named Malcolme the lon of Ponalog was admitted king, or rather regent: 1914 although he perfile ned right well how the force of the realme was to enterpled, that there was no hope to mainterne warres amount ble to defende the bozonrers of the Scottille Detail minion, and before all things to procure prace with the Englishmen. But as he was shout to haue fente Amballadours bnto king Athellane, to have treated for peace, he was credible enfor- Auslafun med, howe Athelliane had gruen Rothing Vondus berlande onto Auglassus, and made & league lad. with him to have his apor against the Scottes.

Whiche newes put Malcolme in wonderfull pread for ther he understood how his realine was pupularyed of failfull Captaines to make refistance. Pet her caused a councell to be called, wherein when tuche as were affembled proponed many fond & childishe reasons, it might appeare there was small hope of any good conclufion : but cuen as they were at a poynt to have broug on without any certains resolution, worde was brought howe through seditious discorde, so the temporaltie as spiritualtie, wherebuto bee whiche had chaunced betwirt the Danes and out Englishmen being effembled togither in campe, nish and they had fought a right bloudy battaple, the viforcin the enderemagning with the English= men, who crassed not to pursue the Danes in chafe, so long as any day light appeared in the gade fed fhic. Analassus with suche Danes as he might get togither after that overthrowe, flevoe into Welchmerland, and within three dayes after, in table the fuche thippes as he found there voon the roalf, he 20 the next day being apperhended, fuffered dite ex-Min & got fapled over into the Ide of Man, and hopling the same, with all the peap he passed from thence ouer into Irclande. In the meane time king A= thelstane hauping lost no small number of his people in the forelayoe bataple, omitted his iour= ner into Scotlande, and lay fill in Porthumberland, no man understanding what he enten= ded to do. Which newes were so pleasant to the Terescin Scottishmen, that there was common supplications and processions made through the whole 30 tors were put to other kindes of death, as tike realme, in renozing thanks to almightie God for delinering the people by this meanes fro fo great and present daunger.

Shortly after came Amballadours from #= historia Mai-thelltane unto Malcoline to moue meanis fot a prace to be concluded betwirt the Scottille and English nations according to the articles of the old league. Whiche motion was iopfully herde of Malcolnie, though he let a countenaunce of had warre or peace: but in the ende for that as he lapde, peace was molte necellarie for all partes, be fliewed himselfer willing to have the olde forimer league renewed betwitte the Englishmen and Scottes, with any realonable condicions whiche should be thought to be requisite. After the returns of the Amballadours, the league was newly confirmed betwirt the two kings & they? people, with the femblable articles as were comadded therebuto, that Porthumberland being as avord now replenished molt with Danilly inhabitats, Could remaine to the Englishmen's and Cunibolland with detellmerlande to the Scots: spon this condition, that he whiche flouid succeede as herze buto the crowne of Scotlande after the kings bereaste, being hey je apparant, Could hold those regions, and do homage buto the king of England as his vallall perpetually for the lame. The peace being thus established betwirt these nations. Indulphe the some of Constantine the thride was proclarmed prince of Cumberland and inheritour to the crowne of Scotland. Its ter this, Malcolme passed the relidue of his life in and quiet, without any troubles of warre, as a man onely Audping to maintepne the state of his realine in god order, aswell for the wealth of was equally inclined. It length as he rode about the provinces of his realme to fee the lawes ove= ly ministred, at Ulrine a village in Murraylad, King Mil. where he ransed instice to be somewhat streight = King Mai - colme was ip executed byon offendors, he was murthered in murchered. the might frason by treason of a sewe conspiratoms, in the ro. years of his reigne. But furhe as did this wicked deede with they; concellers, tors were put by olligent examination were tried out, and on to execution. cention, according as they had beserved, bes The murcheing toine in preces with wilde horfes and those with horfes. pecces fent buto funday cities, where they were hanged by on the gates and towers, butill they rotted away. They that were the deviders of the murder allo a procured the opers therebuto, were thrust The procurers through bon Marpe flakes, and after hanged of the murder were flaked. byon high expettes: and other of the confpiracale fremed to recuyze. The Death of Balcoline chaunced in the years after the birth of our Ba= uiour.959. Pere we have thought good to put pos in temeinbraitce, that either the Scottes are Becepued in their accompte of yeares, or els mit The miltastake the names of the lings of Englande fill king of the where they write that this Makedine Departed times of the this life about the extl. years of A the litate kind English kings, of England, that tan thir be if Malcolines de in the Scottift the mater as though heepassed not whether hee 40 cease thanneed in the venter 959, for Affel Clane was bean long beloze that filme, to witte in the years. 9 4 of and thy oned but rul years. Moreoner where the Stotelle wirters make mencion of the warres whiche king Somons that lucceeved Athelstan had against Anlate and the Wanes of Porthumberland, in the babel of king Anoulie that increeded Malcoline, it can not france by any mitanes (if they till lake with they accompt of pearts,) for the same Edicolis pursed in the olde league, with this actiele onely 50 was flayue in the years: 948. But verily this fault in the fulle accompt of yeares is but to tomonin the Brottiffe hilfbele, and therewie fo him that Moul's take ond bith to reforme the errouns thereof in this behalfe, it were necessative to alter in a maner the whole course of the same his Rozierand therefore we will not wille any man to give any credite buto thepr accompt in prates touching the reignes of the Englishe kings, furd

A moniter.

ther than they Hall fee them to agree with our westers, sphome in that behalfe wee may moze facily follows, and by conferring the fame with the Scottishe werters in some places, happely percepte the true time afwell of the revanes of there kings as of aftes done, to fall out in yeares and fealous, much differing from their accompt: whereof to admonish the Reader, aswell here as in the English historie, wer have thought it not impertingt. Ind albeit that some may aske what re reason me have to move by to doubt of their ac= compre of rearcy, more than we do of that in our owne waters, we wil referre the lame buto their inducements that are learned, and have trauap= led indifferently alike, aswell in perusing the one as the other without affectio. But as the errours are somer founde than amended, so have wee thought good to let downe in the margent of this boke, the yeares as we finds them noted in the differ any thing from them, bicause we will not feeme by way of controlment, to preindice the authours further, than by due confideration the

Indulph

Indulphe is

His persuasi-

well aduised Reader Mall thinke it expedient.

Out to my pur= pole:after y corps of Malcolme was once buried according to the custome, amonast his bey churche of Colme= kill, Indulphe vince of Cumberland was pla= ced in the marble cheare at Scone, there recep=

uing the crowne and other the inuestures of the kingdome. In the administration whereof he continued for the space of five peares without a= no notable trouble, in the end of which terme, he was required by mellengers fent buto him from 40 streight buto running away, whiche made an Analastus, to joyne with him in league agaynst warre agayoft the Englishmen, in renenge of that ouerthzow, England. which as well the Manager of the ouerthzow, whiche awell the Danes as Scottes had recepued at Browingfield, alledging that oportunitie was now offered, lith after the decease of Athelstand the Englishmen had created Edmond to they king, a man of a bull witte, and not fitte for the administration of high affapres: neyther did the league concluded betwirt Athelifane and Malcoline enforte any impediment, but that he 50 mitted themselves never so humbly in exquiring might enter the warre against the Englishmen. confidering bothe those Princes that were the Anthours of that league were departed out of this lufe, by whole decease the layde league was ended.

Indulph his aniwere

But Judulph for answere herebuto veclared. that the league was concluded betweet 90al= coline and Athelstane, by great deliberation of aduice, and by confent of all the cliates of bothe realmes, taking they? folemne other for the true observing thereof, so that he coulde not, onlesse he Mouloc violate that othe, attempt any thing to the breache of peace with the Englishmen. procuring the infle indignation of almightie God against him and his people in that behalfe. Douganne generated his people in that otheric.

Derebyon the Names accompting Indulyh but The Direct a flouthfull and negligent person for this kinde pleased with of answeare, as he that regarded not the honour procure was of his realine and people, in letting passe so great against English opoztunitie to be reuenged of the Englishmen for the death of fuche Scottes as died in the ouerthzow at Bzoningfield, determined not to be noted with the like spotte of reproche, but with all freede fending for appeinto Pormay prepar red to valle oner into England, buder the conduct of Auslassus, who soyning his power with The Norman the Norway gians whiche came to his ayde bis the ayde of Scottish wypters, specially in places where wee 20 der the leading of a right valiant Captayne cal- uniallui. led Raynold, fransported with all speede ouer Raynolde valuot Ca into Porthumberlande, buto whom the quier tarne. nour there named Elgarine, acknowledging hunselfe to be descended of the Danishe blond, Elgarine ye perided all the Castels, Townes and Fortes, vino the promifing to ayde Aualallus against king. En-Dancs. mond to the bettermost of his power of finding

These newes comming to the knowledge of Edmond, with al speece he gathereth his power, predecessours in the Ab= 30 and sending into Scotlande for suche arde as he ought to have from thence by covenaunts of the league, there came buto him ten thousands ours lent Scottillimen with ready willes to serve him in king Edn these his warres agaynst the Danes. Then forming his owne people with those Scottills men, hellet forewarde towardes bis enimies. There were an englit thousande Porthumberland men with Aualassus, the whiche book the firste encounter with the Englishmenner til open and readie breache buto the Englishepart. to attayne the victorie: for the Danes berns not able to relifte the violent force of theparties mies, encouraged nowe with the flight of the Posthumbers, were quickely constrepted is giue backe, and in the ende to fice amayor, the Englishmen and Scottes following in the that with suche fiercenesse, that all suche as they of uertoke died byon the from de, though then who mercie

> Elgarine pet chauncing to fall into his ent Elguine mics handes was taken alive: for fo haven ken pri mond commaunded, that if any man might take him, he thould in any case saue his life, that he might put him to death in molte cruellwise, to the ensample of other . After this and for the space of three dayes after the battaple, Comen in this fictoes neare to the place where ther fought, and then repayed buto Porke, where Elgarine for his treason was drawen in Elgarine is preces with wilde horfes.

peeces.

There chaunced also no notable trouble in Albion during the space of foure yeares after this fands outerthrow of the Danes with thep? Cap= tame Luciassus, who is otherwise also named Inlate, as is to be feene in the English histories where the same make mention of the foresappe king Edmond, whom likewise they affirme to be the brother of Athelstane and not his sonne, as before is partely touched. Indulph in this 30 gan to encourage his people to fight manfully. means time did with greate diligence fee to the god order of his realme, thewang therein what brionged to the office of a worthy prince. But euen as all things seemed to rest in peace and quietnesse through the whole Ase of Albion. Pagon king of Porway, and Helrike king of Dannarke, opon purpose to reuenge the flanghter of they countrey men lately made in Doz= thumberlande, came with a mightie nauce buto the coastes of Scotland, assaying to lande with 40 that those which sought in the fore ward, retyred their whole armie, firste in the Forth, then in the timer of Cay, but pet through such resistaunce as the secties made, beyng allembled togither to keepe them off, they were fayne to withdrawe, waking alongst the coastes of Angus, the Maines, Mar, & Buthqhane, at length fayning es though they would have taken their course tomitwardes, they launched footh into the high fins, but within foure dayes after returning agame to the Choze, they laved their people early in 50 other of the Danes, namely the Archers and The Danes clace in one mounting voon the coast of Boene, at a place alled Cullane, a countrey toyning buto Buthshane, putting suche of the countrey people to figlt as presented themselves to impeach their lanting and inuation.

But Inoulph being aductifed hereof, forth= with affembling the whole power of his realme, ticm towardes that parte with fuch speede, that hee was come into Boene before his enimies were certified that hee was fet forewarde. So fonc therefore as they heard he was come, suche as were abroade forraying the same countrep. were called backe to the campe. But Indulph King Indulph without protraiting of time came ftil foreward, prepared to the batayle. and byon his approche to the enimies, he prepared to give battayle, and with a Most oration bebut before he coulde make an ende, the Dance The Dance gave the onset with suche violence, that the haz gave the ontaple a long wace continued doubtfull on bothe lides, the Danes on the one parte and the Scots on the other, doyng their oftermost endeuours to atchicue the victorie, till at length they of Louthian with they? Captaines Dunbar & Crame A supply sent began to appeare on the backe half of the Danes, voto the Scots with whiche light they were put in luche feare. backe buto the middle warde, whome the Beats egrely pursuying, beat downe even till they came buto the rereward, which coueting rather, to bit in the fight, than to give backe, and so to be flaine in the chale (for those in the rereward were heauie anned men) cotinued the bataple more with a certaine stiffe stubbornesse of minue than with any great force or forecast, being so overmatched as they were, and forlaken of they fellowes: for Kernes fled they wayes, some towardes they? fledde. Chippes, and some here and there being feattered abroade in the fieldes, fell into the mostes and marelle grounds and other Arcytes, where they were flaine enery one by fuch as followed in the chase.

Indulph himself with certapute companies a= bout him, departing from his mayne bataple to discourt

Theking with discourt the fields as though al had bene quiet on few in his co- eche live, fell by channee vpon a whole bande of pinie, tailetn into the eni- the Danes, where the same lay in couert within mies daunger a close valley being fled fro the field thither bpon the field iopning of the bataples, with the whiche gligence.

King Indulph with a darte and so died, but not befoze he was with a darte, & of r.hath Io. bout.ix. yeares and died thus valiantly, though Ma. 968.

Slifter the corps of Indulphe was re= moued buto Colme= the some of king Mal= colnie was crowned king at Scone with al due solemnitie. In the beginning of his reigne Culene the sonne of king Indulphe was proclaymed prince of Cumberlande: immeditaine miloemeanours bled by divers robbers and pillers of the common people. At his arrivall a= monalt them he called the Thanes of the Iles

auopde his displeasure to purge theyz countreps of fuch malefactours, whereby the hulbandmen &

other comons might live in quiet without vexation of suche barettours & idle persons as sought to live only byo other mes godes. The Thanes blike authoritie, spartly by lying in awayte for the where they supposed they; haunt was to re-fort, the which being put to execution according to that they had mertted, caused presidue of that kind of people erther to get them over into Ire= they were never so great gentlemen bogne. How thus by the king against their linage, were much offended therewith, accompting it a great difficnour for luche as were descended of noble paren= tage to be constrayned to get they, living with the labour of there handes, which only appertay=

ned to plotomen, a fuch other of the vale degree

as mere borne to tranaple for the mayntenance of the nobilitie, & to ferue at their commannde= entring into fight, he was Not through the head revenged of those his enimies, the whole nuber of the being flaine there in the place. His bodie was first buried in Cullane, a towne of Boene, and after translated onto the Abbay of Colniekill, and there enterred amonast other his predecelfours the Scottistic kings. Indulph reigned a= infortunately, in the yeare after the incarnation

968. faith heffor Bortius.

The king wet atly wherebyon the king transported over into flerne Ifles.

He purged the afote him, commanding straytly as they would Barettors také and put to death.

Vagaboundes land, eyther els to learne some manuall occupa= compelled to learne an occu tion wherewith to get they? living, yea though pation.

The nobles were dilcontented with yngs.

ment by ogder of their birth, and in no wife after fuch forte to be made in maner equall with them in state and condition of life. And further thep murmured closely amongst themselves, how the Theorem king was onely become freend buto the comons of morning of the re-& clergie of his realme, hauing no respect to the ie. nobilitie, but rather occlared himselse to be an btter enimie therof, so p he was unworthy to have the rule of the nobles a gentleme, onlelle he knew 10 better what belonged to their degree. This murmuring did fyzed not onely among them in the Alles, but also through all the other partes of his realme, so that they ceased not to speake bery e= nill of the government of things. In the meane time the king fell into a languilling disease, not ficke. to arrevous as strange, for that none of his Philitions coulde perceque what to make of it. For there was seene in him no token, that either choler, melancolie, flegine, or any other vicious hu= kil tthere buried, Duffe 20 mor did any thing abounde, whereby his body flould be brought into such a decay & columptio (so as there remayned brneth any thing byon him faue fkin & bone:) fithence it appeared manifelly by all outward signes & tokens, that na= tural moisture did nothing faile in p vital sprits: his colour allo was freshe & fapze to behold, with fuch livelinesse of lokes, that moze was not to be willed for the had also a teperate delire & appetite to his meate & drinke, but pet could be not deepe the westerne Ales to set an ogder there for cer- 30 in the night time by any prouocatios that could be denifed, but still fell into exceeding tweater, which by no meanes might be restreyned. The Phylitions percepuing all they? medicines to wante the effect, yet to put him in some comfort of help, declared but ohim that they would lende for some cuning Philitions into foraine parties, who haply being inured with such kind of diseales, thould eafily cure him, namely to some as the spring of the years was once come, whiche of it byon this charge given them by the king, twke 40 felf flould help much therbuto. Howbett & king The king no small number of the offenders, partely by pu= though he had small hope of recoverie, yet had be ing ficked though he had small hope of recoverie, yet had be ing ficked though he had small hope of recoverie, yet had be ing ficked though he had small hope of recoverie, yet had be ing ficked though he had small hope of recoveries. If ill a diligent care to the due administration of infice to his lawes and good orders of his realme, deniling executed oft with his councel about the fame: but pet whe it was understood into what a perillous licknesse he was fallen, there were no small number that cotemning the authoritie of the magistrates, be-A rebellingan to practice a rebellion. And amogst the chies practice fell were those of Murrayland, who depugiunbeit the nobles with this extreeme rigour thewed 50 day of the kings officers began to rage in mole cruell wife against all such as were not contenting to their milozdered tumult. The kings phis The sitions forbad in any wife, that the king thouse was kipt be advertised of such businesse, for boubte of en-ko creating his ficknesse with trouble of minde & bout the same. But about that present time there was a murmuring amongst the people, how the king was bered with no naturall activelle, but by fortery and Magicall arte, pradiles by a fort of Whiches dwelling in a cowise of Murrays land, called foges dalberevpon albeit, the Ans thour of this feerete tilke was not knowen, pet being brought to the kings care, it cauled him to finde forthwith certains wittie persons thither to enquize of the truth. They that were thus lent, diffembling tije caute of theye towner, where recepued in the darke of the night into the taltell of Fores by the licutenant of the lame, called es wonwald, who continuing faithful to the king. had kepte that callell agap aft the rebelles to the kings ofe. Unto him therefore thele mellengers neclared the cause of they's coming, requilling his andefor the accomplishment of the kings pleas fure. The fouldiers whiche lap there in garilon mis bee had an inkeling that thirt was some such mater in hand as was talked of amongst the people, by reason that one of them kept as cocubine apone momā which was odughter to one of partthes zo as his paramour, who fold him the whole maner bled by hir mother a other hir copanions, with p intent also, which was to make away the king. The fouldier having learned this of his Teman, told the lame to his fellowes, who made reporte therof to Donewald whe liewed it to the kings mellengers, + therwith lent for the pour bandlell which the fouldier kept as then being within the callell, a caused hir opon Arept examination to The Wieckes confess the whole mater as the had leane skutwe 30 inter Rolle; stirm Rolle they Cathnele, where any charles out wherepon learning by his colection in what house in the towns it was where they wrought they? mischeenous misterie, he sent forth souldiers, a= bout the miost of the night, who breaking into b house, sound one of the Wifthes rolling bon a wooden broche an image of ware at the fire; resembling in ech feature the kings person, Midde & denisted as is to be thought, by craft a arte of the Denisted as is to be thought, by craft a arte of the Denisted as is to be thought, by craft a arte of the Denisted of the Lacrecting certain words of enchauntment, a fill based the intage with a certaine should be strong builty. The souldiness thating the occupied in this wife, twee the togister with the image, a led the into the castell, where veing the image, a led the into the castell, where veing should be suffered by what purpose they went about such maner of enchantment, they anisocial, to the end to make a with be kind of they winted they went as an introduce make a with being the first the first they are sould be suffered to the control of they went as the suffered to make a with being to the control of the control Wiches certaine licour very buffly. The foulviers anding whole to the end to make away buing for as binidge " son- did wall aloze the fire, to did the bodie of the unity bid wall aloze the fire, the do die of the water the water inchange of little of little of little of the little of the little of little of the little of the little of little of the little of the little of littl to did the kings fleth; by which meanes it should have come to palle, that when & ware wete otice cleane columed, the beatly of the king thous will o' the diathy follow. So were they taught by eath sprites, thy red to marke the feat by the nooles of Hurrayland. The stamoers by that her faith and abhorninable tale told by thele Witches, Really wares brake the intage, caused p county source rogoning as they had well beferned) to bee burnt The Wiches to beath. It was sayo that the king, at the beir find time that there things were a boung with- The king is in the callell of Fores, was beliurred of his lan health. guot and Cepte that night without and Overte berakaid forth spon him at all and the riert day benig tillbred to his itchigin, was able to to de ny maker of thing that lay in man 46 bb, as though he had not beste lieke before and thing at all. But how locuer it cante to palle, tittly it is The king with that the was religion to his perfet beautif, an armie purlit wat herro a power of men, and with the faire fued the rewinighte Burraylandugainli the rebits filet. aile chaling them from thente, he purlued tiffis bpoligallowits and gebettis. Inioliti Hiele executed. their weit alto teriains youd Centleifier civile beautiful aire goodly pirionalis, principleated of kinke viite Doni wald taplaine of the Childle and has bene per coades to be partentis will sin ्यु काञा कुवस्त्री lanie tontinued tall borling in his fromlake while the king birng in mat todiktity, was accuffin beyued hatred The sole of the state of the st getting the exproche where his landy his rest

whome the king for a localite to the proper hab cauced to be benged, which wish that the will have wi e coufinled

The king rewarded his freudes.

Calfell, was long in his ozatozie at his prapers, and there continued till it was late in the night.

at the last comming forth he called suche afore him, as had faithfully ferued him in purfute and apprehention of the rebelles, and giving-them

hartie thankes, he beltowed fundry honozable giftes amogst them, of the which number Don-ted a moste faithfull servaient to the king . At got him into his promic chamber, only with two of his chamberlaynes, who having brought him to bepoe came forth againe, and then fell to ban= queting with Donewald and his wife, who had prepared divers delicate diffics, and funder forts of drinke for they arere supper or collation, whereat they fat by folong, till they had charthep; heades were no loner got to the pyllow, but a fleepe they were fo fall, that a man might have removed the chaber over them, rather than to have awaked the out of there dunken fleepe.

Then Donewalde, though he abhoreed the act greatly in his harte, pet through instigation of his wife, he called foure of his fernants buto him

(phom he had made privile to his wicked intent before, and framed to his purpole with large forte they should waske the feate, they gladly o-

king lap a little before cockes crown, where thep feeretoly cut his theote as be lay deeping, with-

The king wer length having talked with them a long time, he

His chamberbanqueting.

The Cuborned perep his instructions, and specially gaing about fernaunces cue the murder, they enter the chamber (in which the the kings tokens of great gricke at home amongst his fathere provided ready for that purpole, they conuer it buto a place, diffant aboute two mples milie: which his wife perceyuing, cealled not to trauaple with him, till the understoo what the from the called, where they stayed, and gat cortapne labourers to belye them to turne the course cause was of his displeasure. Whiche at length of a little river running through the ficker that. when the had learned by his owne relation, the and digging a deepe hole in the chancil they bu Tleking as one that bare no lesse malice in hyp barte to= him to mur. wardes the king, for the like cause on hyr behalfe rie the hody in the fame, camming it by with burial. der the king, than hir hulvand did for his freendes, counfelled stones and granel to closely, that letting the mater into the right course agapne, no man coulde him (fith the king oftentimes vico to longe in his house without any garde aboute him, other than 10 percepue that any thing had bene newly dianed there. This they did by order appointed them the garpson of the castell, whiche was wholy at by Donewald as is reported, for that the bodie his commaundement) to make him away, flioulde not be founde, and by bleeding when and shewed him the incanes whereby he might euil counfell sonest accomplisse it. Donwalde thus being Donetpalo flouide be prefent) declare tim to be the more kindled in wrath by the wordes of his giltie of the murder. For that suche an opinion men have, that the dead coaps of any man being wife, determined to follow hyz aduile in the exflagne, will bleede abrupdantly if the murderer ecution of so haynous an acc. Where open de= uising with himselfe for a while, whiche way he be veclent: but for what colideration foruer they might belf accomplishe his cursed intention, at buried him there, they had no coner finished the The poores length he gate opostunitie and sped his purpose 20 worke, but that they slem them, whose bein they sleine. as followeth. It chaunced, that the king buon bled berein, and streightwayes therebuon fledde the day before he purposed to departe forth of the

into Dekney. Done wald aboute the time that the murber Donwald was a point, got him amongst them that kepte himselie mongst the match, and to conting wed in companie with wachines thermal the relibus of the night. But in the mozning hober the norte was repled in the kings chamber hom the king was flame his body con- very dist wald was one, as he that had bene ever account 30 be with the watche ran thither as though he had knowen nothing of the mater and brooking into the chamber, and finding cakes of blond in the bed 4 on the floze about the lides of it; he lookbe with liewe the chamberlarnes, as ailtie of that happous murder, and then like a madderness running to and fro, bee ranlacked entry count within the castell, as though it had bene to haur feene if ite might have founde either the butte or any of p murtherers hid in any provientering gro they? Romakes with fuche full gozges, that 40 at legth coming to the pollerne gate, & Sading it open, he burdened the chaberlaines whom he bad Daine with al the fault, they having the keyes of the gates comitted to their kerping al the might and therefore it could not be otherwise farm be but that they were of counsel in the committing some my of that most e petellable murder. Finally such this ober was his over earnest villigence in the inquision and triall of the offendours berein, that formest the Lozdes began to millike the materians in The mitel collection and now declaring unto them, after what so lived fouth the workers, that he should not fold they though make the facts them. be altogither cleare himfelfe : but for so wuchon they were in that countrey, wherehen bed the wholesule, what by reason of his kemors and authoritie togither, they voubted to with what they thought till time and place thoules, better ferne therefonto, and herebyon got the maines energy man to his home. For the pacial in mos proligion neths togither after this haynous nemper this weather committed,

The Historie of Scotlande.

committed, there appeared no funne by day, not Lean: by night in any parts of the realme, but fil was the fkie coursed with cotinual clowdes, and fometimes suche outragious windes arole with lightnings and tempedes, that the people werein great feare of present vellrudion.

the meane time Culene prince of Cumberland, the sonne as I have sayde of king Judulph, accompanied with a great number of 20 Lotocs and Pobles of the realine, came buto Scone, there to recepue the crowne according to the maner: but at his comming thither, he demanded of the Billiops what the cause found be of luch untemperate weather. Who made antwere, that undoubtedly almightie God thewed himselse thereby to be offended moste highly for that wicked murther of king Duffe, and furrly onlette the offendours were tried forth and punilled for that decde, the realme Moulde feele the 30 iult indignation of the devine indgement for 0= mitting suche punishment as was due for to greenous an offence. Culene berebuon required the bishops to appoint publike procellios, fallings and other god= ly exercises to be vied of the priestes and people, through all parties of the realme, for the appeas fing of Gods weath in this behalfe, and in suche forte and mance as in semblable cases, the vse and custome in those dayes was. Her himselfe 40 Colmekill, there to be buried amongst his premade a folemne bowe, confirming it with a like othe before all the peeces and nobles there aftem= bled, that he woulde not cease till he had reven= acd the death of king Duffe byon the falle inhabitainites of Murrayland to the ensample of all the epuce of Spey, where finding a flippe ready, he wente a borde the fame, purposing to have Donewalde fledde his wayes by sea into Poeway: for this secretly awayis the peculiar propertie of a giltie conscience to be afrapoe of all things, and eyther in gesture or countenaunce to bewray it selfe, accompting flight molte fure if occasion may serve thereto. For this Donewalde, whome no man (though The murther fome partely suspected him) might well have bure of the king is to dened with the crime of his Masters death (by reason of his faithfull service thrwed towardes him afoze time) had he not thus fought to have auopord the countrey, was now deteded of ma= nifell treason, every man detelling his abhomis nable faite, and willing him to be ouerwhel= med in the raging floudes, so to pay the due punillyment, whiche of right hee ought, for his vile treason in murthering his naturall Lozde.

The multitude being prefent, getting them to armure followed their prince, taking his iour= ney without further delay towardes Murray= land, the inhabitauntes of whiche region heas 50 fure: who right gladde of the newes, lente forth ring of his approch and the cause of his coming, were stryken with exceeding feare, but namely Donewalde beyng giltie in conscience, doubted least if he were put to tozture, he should be entoz= ced to confesse the truthe, wherevyon without making his wyfe privic to his beparture, or any other of his family, saue a fewe suche as he toke. with him, he secretely got him to the monthe of.

Culene being herrof aduertised, passed ouer The castell of Spep water, and taking the castell of Fozes, and all the inflew all that he founde therein, and put the house habitats flain. to facke and fire. Donewaldes wife with his three daughters were taken : for Culene com= mannoed, that who so ever coulde light boon them, thoulde in any wife faue they? lines, and bring them buto him. Whiche beyng done, hee The murder had them to the racke, where the mother upon is wholy conhyr examination confessed the whole mater, fessed.

moued to cause the deede to be done, who they were that by his commanndement did it, and in what place they had buried the bodie. Here woulde the multitude have runne boon hy; and toine hyr in pecces, but that they were restrays ned by commaundement of an officer at armes. The king with the relioue for that night rested themselves, and in the morning twke order for Promision of all things necessarie to take up the King Duffe bodie of king Duffe, and then to conuey it buto his body to decessours. But as they were butle here about; morde came that the traytour Donewalde was Donewald is by thipwracke calle boon the thore within foure taken pryfomiles of the Castell, as though he were by Gobs ner. provision brought backe into his owne cours trey to fuffer worthy punishment for his deines rites. Wheretwon the inhabitaunts of the pins how by hyr procuremet chiefly hyr hulbao was ces next adiopning, toke him and kepte him falk bound till they knowe further of the kings pleas immediatly a bande of men to fetche him. They that were lent did as they were commanded? and being buneth returned, there cause in divine

Lotdes of Rolle, bringing with their Domes Dogewaldes Waldes foure sernaunts whiche (as beide in soure feruante layde) did execute the murder. Thus all the of. lo. fendours beying brought togither unto the place where the number was bothe contribed and ex-D.

easted

out any bulkling at all: and immediatly by a posterne gate they cance swith the dead bedy into the fictoes, and theologing it boon an horte

Donewalde federates are

ecuted, they were arrapued, condemned, and put to death in maner as followeth, to the great reiogeing of the people that beheld the fame. They were firste scourged by the hangman, and then bowelled, their entrailes bring throwen into a fire and brente, the other partes of they? bodies were cut into quarters, and fent buto the chiefest Cities of the realme, and there set op aloste bpon the gates and highest towers, for ensample nous a thing it is to pollute they, handes in the facred bloud of they? prince. This dreadfull end had Donewald with his wife before he faw any funne after the murder was committed, and that by the appointment of the most rightnous God, the creatour of that beauculy planet and all ether things, who suffereth no crime to be whre-Rewardes gi- uenged. Those that were the fakers of the mur= takers of those verers were highly rewarded for their paynes a tharges of going forth into the warres: and also of all maner of payments belonging to publike ducties, as tributes and suche like.

These things bring thus ordered, the body of king Duffe was take op, and in most pompous maiter conneged unto Colinekill, accompanied all the way by Eulene, and a great multitude of Lordes both spirituali and temporal, with other of the meaner estates. There be p haue written under the groud) was nothing empayzed epther

in colour oz otherwile, when it was taken up, but was founde as wholle and found as though it had bene pet aliue, the fliarres of the woundes onely excepted. But to proceede, so some as it was brought about the groud, the ayre began to cleare up, and the funne brake forth, Mining more brighter than it had bene feene afore time to any of the beholders remembrance. And that was the light of manifold flowers, which wrang forth ouer all the fieldes immediatly thereupon, cleane contrary to the time & feason of the yeare.

Within a fewe yeares after, there was a bridge made oner the water in the same place, where the bodie had bene buried, & a village builded at the one end of the bridge, whiche is called buto this vay, Killflos, that is to fay, the church of flowers:

taking that name of the wonder there happened authours moulde feeme to meane. But there is now or was of late a rich abbey, standing with a right fayze church, cofecrate in the honour of the virgine Marie. Monstroils sightes also that were feene within the Scottishe kingdome that peare were thele, hogles in Lothian being of finquier beautic and swiftnesse, did cate their owne fleth, would in no wife talke any other meate.

The body of honorably buried.

murderers.

Meruzylous things are

Kyllflos.

Horles eate their owne Acshe.

In Ingus there was a gentlewoman brought forth a childe without eyes, note, hande, or forte. A me There was a Sparhanke also strangled by an Dwle. Peither was it any lesse wonder that the fire funne, as before is layd, was continually coursed 40 0 with clowdes, foz. vj. moneths space: But all me understood that the abhominable murder of king Duffe was the cause hereof, whiche being reucnged by the death of the authours in maner as betake to all suche as should come after, how hay = 10 fore is sayde. Tulene was crowned as lawfull fuccessour to the same Duffe at Scone, with all due honour and folemnifie in the yeare of our Lozd.972. after that Duffe had ruled the Scottish kingdome about the space of foure yeares. The beginning of Tulenes reigne begonne with King Culrightuous execution of iustice, promited a franc did not co hope of an other maner of prince, than by the adbeginning ministration whiche followed he declared him was. self to be: for shortly after lewling the reyne of tranayle therein fullayned, being exempt from 20 lascinious watonnelle to the youth of his realme through giving of lewde ensample by his owne Difozdered doings, all fuche as were enclined bnto dicentious lining followed they? sentiall He folonic followed they? sentiall luffes, and unbyydeled libertie abandoning all feare of correction more than ever had bene feene or hearde of in any other age. For fuche was the negligence of the king, or rather mayntenaunce of milozocred persons, that what so ever any of the nobilitie did eyther against Merchaunfes, Euill deen how his bodie (though it had layne bj. moneths 30 Priestes, or any of the commons, though the were not nished. fame were neuer fo greate an iniurie, there was no punishment vsed agaynst them: so that all men looked for some commotion in the common wealth thereupon to ensue, if there were not o= ther order provided therefore in time. The aun = Good cour cient precess of the realine also being greened was not be thereat, spared not to admonishe the king of his dutic, declaring buto him into what daunger the realme was likely to fall through his negliwhich put men in most deepe cossderation of al, 40 gent behaviour. Culcue aunswered them, that The kings he wiste well inough howe yonge menne were swere voto not at the firste, bozne grave and sage persona- grave peer ges lyke to them with hoary heades: wherefore they? firste youthfull yeares coulde not be so stable as they mighte be hereafter by olde age and confinuaunce of time: but as foz suche rigozous extremitie as divers of his elders had vied towards there subjects, he minded not as he said to folow, being taught by their ensample (as by the at the remouing of the kings bodic, as the same 50 kings, Indulph, Duffe & suche other) into what dayinger he might incurre by such tharpe severis tic shewed in the government of the assate. Witherebpon he was determined to to rule as he He would might give cause rather to be beloued than sea-displease. red, which was the onely meane (as he thought) to retayne his subjectes in dewe and most faithet full obedience. This answeare was such, that although it feemed nothing agreeable for the way and the publike flate in quiet refle the germas there no man by realin of in a chestre that duck reprone the fame, Same there were that propled him therein, · in that parco all suche as loved the upright commention of inflice. But suche auncient conscilours as had truely ferued in rule of the comen wealth in the dayes of the former kings Indulth and Duffe, milliking the flate of that namely at fuch as were defeded of noble paren= tage, # vseo to be about the king, followed their wikull and sensuall lustes, growing enery day through want of correction to be worke & worke) neparted from the court, and withdrew to they? an homes without medling any further with the ow-publike administration. In whose place there crept in other, that with their flatterie corrupted the relidue of luche sparkes of god inclination as muche that in the ende he measured supreme fe= licitie by the plentifull enioping of voluptuous pleasures and bodily lustes. He fancied onely fuche as coulde deuile prouocations therebuto, smalling the belly with excelle of colly meates and drinkes, those that coulde excell other were chielly cheristico a most highly of him esteemed. Herewithall he was given buto leachery beyond all the termes of reason, sparing neyther maybe, widowe, noz wife, pzofane noz religious, lifter 30 not daughter (for all was one with him) that to heare of suche vilanie and violent forcings kinde as were practifed by him and his familiers, it would lothe any honest harte to understande or remember. He was to farre paste all Came in this behalfe, that when his lecherous luste by to muche copulation was to tyzed that he might no more exercise his former lewoenesse, he toke be- speciall pleasure pet to behold other to do it in his presence, that his decaped fust might be the more 49 fried by with fight of fuch filthinesse. This abhominable trade of life he practifed for the space of his yeares togither, gluing occasion of muche weile, raune, mandaughter, fozcings, and rauillyments of women with all fuch kinde of wicecty ked a diveliff) trafgreflios:no execution of lawes inflituted by authoritie of the former kings, for reffraint of fuch flagitious offences) being put in bee, through negligece of this monstruous creature. So farre fwith allo encrealed the libertie 59 of theeues, robbers and other offendours, mainterned by suche of the nobilitie as consented to there unlawfull boings, a were partakers with them in the fame, that if any man went aboute to withstand them, or refused to accomplish their requestes and demaundes, he stoulde be spoyled cfall that hee had, and happely have his house bunte ouer his head, of otherwise be milised in such outragious a violent lotte, that it would greeue all those that had any sele to instice, to heare of suche enormities as were dayly practifed in that countrey. Howbeit at length yet the Death made death of king Culene, brought an end to all such wicked dealings: for falling into a filthy viscale (through abuse of excessive drinking and leache= rie, called the walling of nature, he consumed a= rovoepous. way in such wife by rotting of his fleshe, that he a. present world (wherein the youth of the realme, 10 appeared more like buto a dead carcasse, than buto a liucly creature, in so much that his owne servaunts began to abhorre him. Wherebpon the Lordes and other Honorable personages of the realme understanding his case, caused a par= liament to be summoned at Scone, where they A parliament. determined to depose king Culene, and appoint fome other whom they hould indge most meetest) to repone in his place. Culene also not knowing wherfore this councell was called, as retremained in the king, if any were at all, in so 20 he was going thitherwardes, at Meffen castell being almost e in the midde way of his journey, was murthered by one Cadhard the Thane of King Culene

p place, whole daughter he had ravilled before time amoult divers other. This end had Eulene togither with all his filthy lengualitic: but the reprochfull infamie thereof remaineth in memorie with his posteritie, & is not like to be forgotten whilest the world goeth about. He was thus dispatched in the fifth peace of his reigne, a after the birth of Saucour. 976. the nobles & great peares. 976. of the realme reiopcing at his death, though thep allowed not of the maner thereof.

Of King Tulene Kenwas once coneped but neth. to Colmekill, & there; buried amongst his cla ders, the nobles & great. pecres allembled togither at Scone, where they proclaimed Kenneth the conne of Walf colone the firste, & bro-

Ill life is re-tuous liuing.

He loued ftraungers.

He abhorred

offendours.

A session kept

at Laynrick,

ther buto Duffe, king of the realme. In the beginning of his repane, he had mough to do to re= duce the people from they, wilde & lauage kinde of life (into the whiche they were fallen through the negligent government of his predecessour) buto they? former trade of civil demeanour. For the nature of the Scottishmen is, that firste the nobles, and the all the relidue of the people transforme themselves buto the blage of their prince: uing shewe an ensample of chastitie, sobzietie, li= beralitie, and modellie, misusing himselfe in no kinde of vice, but refrayning himselfe from the fame: hee banished all suche kinde of persons as might prouoke epther him or other onto any iemde og wanton pleasures. He mainterned a= mitie afwell with straungers as with his owne people, punishing most rigozoully all suche as fought to moue seditio by any maner of meane. uorde flouth, and to applie themselves in ho= nest exercises, indging as the truth is, that to be the way to aduaunce the common wealth from decay to a florishing state. Thus when he had comewhat reformed the milorders of his cub-He did punish tedes, he endeuozed himselfe by all meanes hee coulde deuise to punishe offendours against the lawes and wholesome ordinances of the realme, and to purge all his dominions of theeues, rob= common peace. At Lanerk, a towne in Eple, was a festions appointed to be kept for execution ofiultice, where certaine offendours were summoned to appeare: but at their comming thither, percepuing that such manifest profes would be brought against them of suche crimes as they had committed, that they were not able to ex=

cule the laine, through perswallon of divers no= fecretely they? wayes, some into the Westerne The gitte Iles, and loine into other places, where they away. thought most expedict for safegard of their lines. The king perceyning that through the disloyall The king invance of the lordes his purpose was so hindred simuled w that he might not minister iustice according to the edoing the institution of his lawes, he dissembled his Weath for a time, a licenced enery man to depart to they? houses, his trayne onely excepted. Then Theking King Kennath therefoze did Kenneth in his owne trade of li=10 went he into Galloway to visite Saint Pinian to visite S for performance of his bowe, which he had made Ninian. fo to do. Here he invented (by conference which The king of the had with some of his provide counsell a denice, sulted have whereby he might fetche agains the offendours call the tra buto indgement: but this was kepte close till the greliours of yeare following, for doubte least if those lozdes iudgement whichebare them god will had come to any incklying thereof, they woulde by bitting it have disapoented his purpose. At length, after a yeare he take busic care in causing the people to a= 20 was passed, he appointed all the Lozdes & Po- An astends bles of his realine to assemble at Scone, as had at Scone though it had bene to have comuned about some weightie affapres touching the state of the realme. The night then befoze they Mould come togither into the counsell chamber, he caused by Armed me fome of his farthfull ministers, a forte of armed layd in wa mento be lapde close in a secrete place, with comaundement given to their capitaine, that in no wife he flould firre with his bande till the nexte bers, and other suche as went aboute to disquiet 30 day, that all the Lordes were assembled togis ther, and then without delay to execute that whiche flould be given him in commundement. On the mozow after the nobles coming togither Lordeshin into the counsell chamber, they had no somer tas the armed ke their places, cuery one according to his degree thepefonk. about the king, but & the armed men befote me= cioned came rushing into the house, placing the= selves round about them that were set according ble men buto whom they were a kinne, they fled to the order prescribed by former appointmet.

The Historie of Scotlande.

The Lordes with this prefent fight being much amased, beheld one an other, but durft not speake a worde. Then the king percepuing their feare began to declare unto the the whole cause of his calling them to counsell at that time, & why he had appointed those armed me to be there atten= bant. The effett of his oration there made unto the was, that he had not caused those armed me to come into the chaber for any harme, ment to= blike preservation of the realme. For asmuch as and of they knew, there was one kinde of people muche nortome onto the comon wealth, being cofede= rate as it were togither by one consent to exercise al fortes of milchief & oppressió against the pore people, as to robbe, spoyle, * take from them all v they had to ranish their wives, maides, & daugh= ters, and some times to beenne they boules: the which licencious libertie in such wicked persons, king Culene, what daunger it had brought buto the whole state of the Scottishe comon wealth, there was none but might wel understäd it. Hoz fith it was to that & Lozdes & other high effaces hued by the tranaile of the commons, then if the fame commons floulde in any wife decay, the Lordes & fuch other high estates could in nowife prosper: for if the labourer through injurie of the robber were forced to give over his labour, where to line? so that those whiche robbed the husband= man, robbed also the Lorde and gentleman: and they that fought to maintepne suche loytering persons as vsed to robbe the poze man, went a= bout the destruction both of king, lozd & gentle= man, yea and finally of the bniverfall state of the whole comon wealth. Therfore he that loued the comon wealth would not seeke onely to defende the comons from such injuries as therues & robbers vario offred the, but also would belor fo fex iust execution done byon the same thernes & robbers, according to plaudable lawes & customes of the lande. The laste yeare (sayde he) you your felfes remember (I thinke) how I purposed by your helpe and counsell to have proceeded by or der of the lawes against all enimies and pertur- Laintike, or bers of the peace. At Lapurike was the day appointed for them to have appeared, but there mas wardes any of their persons, but only so, the pue to not one of them that would come in, but contemptuoully disobeying our comaundemet kent them away, by whole counted I know not. But I have bene enformed by some howe vivers of you favouring those rebelles, by reason they mere of your lynage, were of counsell with them in withdrawing themselves so from indocement. The ofte fending of mellengers betwirt them & you, well neare perswaved by to thinke that this reporte was true. But pet notwithstanding I through want of due punishment in the dayes of 20 haue put away all suche limiter suspicion out of my heade, willing you (as I trufte you bee) boyde of all suche distimulation. And nome require you not as fautours of the rebelles, but as defendours of the common wealth, though happely somewhat flacke heretofoze in discharge of your ducties, to thew your felues fuch in helping to apprehende the offenders, as b the world may percepue you to have made full latilfaction for your fault a errour, if before in you there were flould the Lord or Bentleman haue where von 30 any. In the end he was playne with them, & told them flatly that they Gould affure theselues, to have those armed me which they saw there neefent, to be continually attendant about the, til be might have all the revelles at commaundement.

The Lorder having heard the kings speach, gette submisperceyuing what his meaning was, firste partly fion, with a excused themselves so wel as they might of their large promise cloked dislimulation, and then fallyng downe bypon they? knees afozehim, befought him to The king well

to Bertha.

Injurious men were judged to die.

have licence

The Danes leeke for to lottes.

gos into Al-bion.

The Historie of Scotlande. put away all displeasure out of his minde, and clearely to pardon them, if in any wile they had offended his matellic, promiting that they would with all vilidence a faithfulnelle accomplishe his desire, in causing the offeyders to be brought in bnto inogenent: and till the time that this were brought to palle, they were well contented to re= maine in fuch place where he flould appoint the to abide. The councell then being broken by, the king with those Lordes passing ouer the nuer of 10 Cap, wet unto Bertha, which towne during the kings abode in p same was streightly kept with watche and warde, that no creature might enter or go forth without knowledge of the officers appointed by the king to take heede therebuto. If any idle person were espied abjoad in the streetes, Araightwayes the lergeants would have him to warde. The novles remayned in the kings house or in other lodgings to them affigued, procuring by their freendes & ministers to have suche offen= 20 pers as vied to robbe & sporle the husband man, brought ento apprehended & brought to the king unto Bertha, there to recepue inogement & punition according to they demerites: for so they percepued they must needes worke, if they minded the safegard of their owne lines. Hereof it followed also, that within Mort space there were brought onto Berthato the number neare hande of. b. C. of suche a great nuber of vagabundes idle loyterers as bled to line by spoyle & pillage, many of them being diffeded of famous houses, 30 by the counsell of their superiours, only to receive they all which companie being condemned so they? Such insuries as the Wanish nation had received sought to offences to die, were hanged byon gybets aboute the towne, and commaundement aguen by the king, that they? bodies shoulde not be taken bowne, but there to hang still, to give ensample to other, what the ende was of all suche as by wrongfull meanes fought to line idelly, by other mens labours. The revelles being thus executed, king Kenneth licensed the Lordes to departe to their owne houses, exhapting them to remember 40 meanes they should be constrepted to have to do their ducties towardes the common wealth, and to Audic for preservation of peace and quietnesse according to their vocation. After this the realme continued in quietnelle without any forraine or inwards trouble for the space of certaine years following, and had remayned in the same state still, if the Danes had not made a new inualion, who being loze gricued in their hartes for luche revenge olde difulcatures as they had fustepned in Albion de= termined now with great affuraunce to revenge 50 moze fafely into England after a lucky beginthe fame. Wherepon gathering an huge multi= take the lea to tude of men togither, they were embarqued in beliefs provided for them, and fayling forth, they purpoled to take lande byon the next coast of Albion where they floulde chaunce to arrive: and being once a lande, to destroy all before them.cr= cept where the people flould submitte and perioe themsclues buto them. This nauie being once got abroade, within a Chort time arrived at that voint of lande in Ingus, whiche is called the red Brayes, or Brad head, not farre from the place The Danes and Where the Abbey of Abirdzoth, of Abirdzothok Red head, of was afterward founded. Here the Danish flette red Brayes in first casting ancre, their captaines fel in cosulta- Angus. tio what they were belt to do. Some of the were of this opinion, that it was not most expedient consult to go for them to land in that place, but rather to passe into English from thence into England: for at the Scottish mens hands being pope, & pet a fierce and harop natio, there was final god to be got, being thereo accustomed to give moe overthrowes, than they comonly recepued. Agains the lople of the countrep was but barrapne, in maner overgrows to wodes (as it was in deede in those dayes) feme townes & finall habitations, & those so poze, that no man knowing the same, woulde bouchfafe to fight for any pollelsion of the wherein contraris wife England (that part namely which lieth to= wards the fouth) was so fruitfull of come & cattell, so riche of mines & replenished with so many notable cities & townes inhabited with men of great wealth and substance, that few were to be foud coparable thereto. So that the mater being well considered, they could not do better than to They con sayle into Kent, where they might be sure of riche for to sayle spoyle without any great resistance. Other there were that held how this journey was attempted at the hads of the Scottiffmen, & not to attaine riches or any dominion. The Scots also being a cruell people a ready to fight in defence of other mens pollellios (as in the warres of Porthums berland it well appeared) woulde surely be ready to come to the and of the Englishme into Kent, cuen so some as it was knowen that the Danes were alande in those parties, so that by this both with the Scottiffmen and Englishmen, if they firste wente into Kent, where if they let a lande here in Scotland, they Goulde encounter but only with the Scots. Therfore the belt were some thou according to their first e betermination to lande best to land amongst the Scottes, lith chaunce had brought in Scotland them but o thole coalles, adding that when they had somewhat abated the arrogant presumptio of they enimies there, then might they palle ning of fyze and sworde, to proceede against their adversaries in those parties as fortune flould leade them. This denile was allowed of the greatelt number, being gladde to gette beiDe the water. Wherevoon the Mariners woon commaundement given, drawe with they?

thippes into the mouth of the riner called Eike,

the whiche in those vages wasted oppon the

From thence, the army of the Danes passed through Angus buto the river of Tay, all the people of the countreps by the whiche they mar= thed fleing afoze them. King Kenneth at the fame time lay at Sterlyng, where hearing of Lockenneth these grienous newes, determined forthwith to reple his people, and to go against the enimies. The assemble of the Scottishe army was anpointed to be at the place where the river of Erne were come togither in great numbers at the day appointed, the day next following, worde was brought to the king, that the Danes having pal-To lar lege led ouer Tay, were come before the towne of Bertha, and had lapde liege to the same. Then without further delay, he rayled with the whole armie, and marched Areight towardes his enimics, comming that night buto Loncarte a village not farre diftant from the river of Tap, fa= then neare onto the same. The Danes hearing that the Scottes were come, betraded no time, walkes of a towne in Angus called then Ce-there aboutes in greate feare, so that with all

- 30 do lurke, but now Mountros. Here the Dancs ta= hang land, put the inhabitaunts of the countrep

but forthwith prepared to give battaple. Kenneth as some as the sunne was op, behol= ding the Danes at hand, quickly brought his ar= mic into order. Then requyring them earnellly to thewe they, manhoo, he promifeth to releaste them of all tributes and payments due to the kings cofers for the space of five yeares next en= tennepound, ozels landes fo muche worth in value to enery one of his armie, that Chould bying him the head of a Dane. He willed them therefore to fight manfully, and to remember there was no place to attaine mercie: for eyther muste they trie it out by dinte of fawzie, or els if they flevor, in the ende to loke for present death at the minites handes, who would not ceaste till time

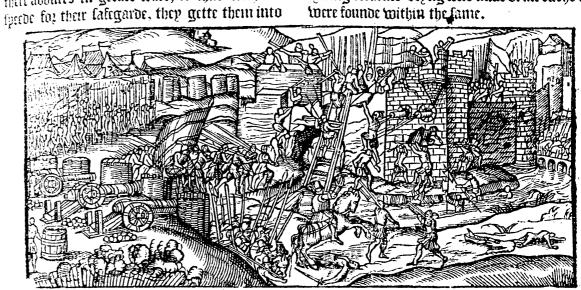

Hountros, but the towne being quickely affailed of the Danes, was taken, put to the facke, after Montros take. rased Cassell and all to the bare ground, not one was slayne. lyning creature beying lefte aline of all fuche as were founde within the same.

they had founde them fouth, into what place to euer they resorted for resuge if they chanced to be banquilhed. The Scots being not a litle encouraged by the kings wordes, kepte their order of bataile according as they were appointed, stilloking when the onlet flould be given. Malcolne The order of Duffe prince of Cumberland ko the right wing the Scottistie aray. of the Scots: Duncane lieutenat of Atholi the left : king Kenneth himself gouerned the battell. falleth into the river of Tay. Here when they 30 The enimies on the other parte had taken they? The Danes ground at the fote of a litle moutaine right fore had the advan-aneynst the Scottist campers thus bothe the are mountaine. mies stode ready arauged in the field, beholding either other a good space, till at length the Scots delirous of bataple, and doubting left the Danes would not come forth buto any even grounde, advaunced forewards with somewhat more haste than the case requyzed, beginning the ba= The Scottes taple with shotte and throwing of partes right begin the bamous cuer after, by reason of the batayle fought 40 freshly. The Danes being backed with the tayle. mountaine, were constreyned to leave the same. and with al speede to come foreward byon their enimics, that by toyning they mighto auopoe the daunger of the Scottiffmens arrowes and dartes: by this meanes therefore they came to hand strokes, in maner before the signe was giuen on epthet parte to the bataple. The fighte was cruell on bothe fides: and nothing hindes red the Scottes to muche as going about to cut furng: and belides that he offered the lumme of 50 off the heades of the Wanes cuer as they mighte ouercome them: whiche maner being noted of the Danes, and percepuing that there was no hope of lyfe but in victorie, they rusped farth with suche violence uppon they? adversaries, The ewoo that firste the righte, and then after the leste wings of the winge of the Scottes, was constrayned to Scottes fledde. retyze and flee backe, the middle warde stout=

ly yet keeping they? grounds: but the same

Diii.

two sonnes.

stood in suche daunger, being now left naked on the fides that the victorie muste needes hauere= manned with the Danes, had not a renewer of the batavle come in time, by the appointment as is to be thought of almightie God. Foz as it chaunced there was in the nexte fielde at the fame time a husbandman, with.ii. of his sonnes busie about his worke named Hay, a man strong and stiffe in making and spape of bodie, but en= dewed with a roble and valiant courage. This 10 such wife (as is befoze mencioned) stayed them Day beholoping the king with the most e parte of his Pobles Eghting with greate valiauncie in the middle warde now destitute of the winges, and in greate daunger to be oppressed by the great violence of his enimies, caught a plough beame in his hande, and with the same exhoz= ting his sonnes to do the lyke, halted towardes the bataple, there to die rather amongst other in defence of his countrey, than to remayne alvue after the discomfiture in miscrable thealdome 20 warre, according to anciet custome bled amogst and bondage of the cruell and moste bumercy= full enimies. There was neare to the place of the batarle, a long lane fensed on the sides with ditches and walles made of turfe, through the whiche the Scottes whiche fledde were beaten downe by the enimies on heapes.

Scottes from

The Scottes Scottishmen come to they? succours, by whose to their battell againe.

fledde roward, fuccours of Scottes come to the ayde of they? their fellowes kyng, and therebyon ceasing from further pur= called vpo his cepuing his people to be thus recomforted and men, to remes his enimics partely abathed, called byon his men ber their duc-

Here Hap with his sonnes supposing they might best stay the flight, placed themselves o= running away. uerthwarte the lane, beate them backe whome noz foe, but downe they went all suche as came within they? reache wherwith divers hardy per= fonages cried to they? fellowes to returne backe buto the bataple, for there was a newe power of ayoe the victorie might be callly obtained of they moste cruell adversaries the Danes: ther= fore might they chose whether they woulde be Name of they come fellowes comming to their mies. The Danes beyng here staged in the lane by the greate valiauncie of the father and the fonnes, thought verily there had bene some great fupte fledde backe in greate disozder buto the o= ther of they? fellowes fighting with the middle warde of the Scottes. The Scottes also that before were chased, being encouraged herewith. King Kenneth tayle right fiererdy. Wherebpon Kenneth perto remember they? ducties, and nowe lithe their aductfaries harts began (as they might perceive) to faint, he willed them to followe byon them manfully, which if they did he assured them that the victory budoubtedly Mould be theyes. The Scots encouraged with the kings wordes, land about the so carnelly, thet in the end the Danes The Danes were constreyned to forlake the fielde, and the forlies construction in the chose and the fields. Scots egerly purluying in the chale, made great flaughter of them as they fled. This victory tur= ned highly to the prayle of the Scottiffe nobilitie, the whiche fighting in the middle warde bare still the brunt of the batayle, continuona manfully therein even to the ende. But Hay who in that fled, cauling them to returne againe to the fielde, deserved immortall fame and commendation: for by his meanes chiefly was the history atchieued. And therefoze on the morrow after whan the spoyle of the field & of the enimies cane The spoyle whiche they had left voyde fould be deuived, the divised. chiefest part was bestowed on him and his two sonnes, by colent of all the multitude, the relidue being devided amongst the souldiers and men of this natio. The king having thus vaquilled his enimies, as he floulo enter into Bertha, cauled costly robes to be offered unto Hay this sonnes, Hay refuse that being richly clao, they might be $ moze ho= nozed of the people: but hap refusing to chaunge his apparell, was cotented to go with the king in his olde garments whither it pleased him to anpoint. So entring with the king into Bertha, he The Mag was received with little lelle honoz than the king came to Be they mette fleeying, and spared neyther friende 30 himself, all the people runing forth to behold him whom they heard to have to valiatly restored the battell, whe the field was in maner lost without hope of all reconcrie. It his entring into y towns he bare on his Moulder the plough beame, moze honorable to him tha any tworde or battell are might have bene to any p most valiat warriour. Thus Hap being honozed of all estates, within Hay is mad certaine dayes after at a councel holde at Scone biline. it was orderned, that both he and his posteritic ande, or to returne againe to fight with the eni- 40 Mould be accepted amogst the nuber of y chiefelt nobles a peares of the realme, being rewarded befides moncy & other great giftes with lands and He had reus revenewes, such as he should chose sufficient for newes aling the maintenaunce of their estates. It is sayde, p by counfell of his fonnes, who knew the fruitfulnesse of the soyle, he did aske so much ground in those parties where the river of Tap renneth Hay his reby the towne of Arrole ouer agaynst Apfe, as a quel. Faulcone Goulde flie ouer at one flight. Wilhich pursued the Danes onto the place of the ba= 50 request beyng freely graunted of the king, the place was appoynted at Inschire tor the faulcome to be calte off: the whiche taking hie flight measured if from thence, neuer lighted til the came to a great his linder stone neare to a village called Boste, not pasting foure myles from Dunder. By whiche meanes all that countrey whiche lieth betwirt Inschire aforelayde, and the layd ftone, (being almost.vi. myles in Tength, and foure in breadth) fell buto tow and his formes, the name of the flone also being called the Halcones stone to this day, doth caufe the thing better to be beleeued, and welneare all the foresayd ground still continueth in the posfelion of the Hages, euen buto this day. Belides this to the further honozing of his name, the king gaue him armes three feutches gules in a field of filuer, a plough beame added therevnto which he pled in stead of a battaile are, when he fought so the Dayes their beginning of Pobilitie, whose house hath atterned onto great estimation of honor, and bath bene decorated with the office of the Constableship of Scotlande, by the bounteous benevolence of Kings that succeeded. These things happened in the first years of King Kenneth. In the relidue of the time that he raigned, though there chaunced no great businesse by foz= rainc enimies, pet by civill sedition the state of the vanie of Kernes of the welterne Iles inuading Rolle, to the intent to have fetched a botie, were met withall by the way and overthrowne by the inhabitants of that Countrey. After this flurre another follower, farre moze daungerous to the tercon- whole estate of the common wealth, revsed by one Cruthlint, one of the chiefest Lozds of & Mernes, who was sonne onto a certaine Lady named fe= nella, the daughter of one Cruthneth, that mas twirt the two rivers, the one called fouth Eike. and the other north Eike. So it chaunced, that and on a time Cruthlint came buto the Castell of Delbogin to see his Brandfather, the savde Cruneth as then lying in the same: where byon light occasion a fray was begon amongest the kruing men, in the which two of Cruthlints servantes Two of his fortuned to be slaine: which inivers when Cruth flaine. lynt declared by wave of complaynt buto hys Brandfather, he was to Aenderly heard, and anfivered in such reprochful wife, as though he himfelfe had beene the authour of the bulinelle: that valiantly in defence of his Countrey. Thus had 10 Crunethes lervants perceining som little he was regarded of their mailter, fell byon him and beate They fet upon him, that not mithout danner of life he have Cruthlint also him, that not without daunger of life he brake forth of their handes, and hardly escaped amay. In his returne homewardes, he came to his mother Fenella, where the lay within the Castell of Fetthircarn, & chiefelt foztrelle of all the Mernes. Cruthline was Where being incensed through his mothers instigated to gation, being a woman of a furious nature, he at = reuenge. tempted forthwith to be revenged of the injurie realme was wonderfully disquieted. First a com= 20 recepued: so that assembling a number of his friendes and kinsfolke so secretly as he might togither, with a band of the inhabitats of hernes He killed all he entreth into Angus, and coming buto the ca= them that ftell of Delbogin in the night feason, was suffred were in the to enter by the keepers of the gate nothing ful- Castell. peding any treason in the worlde, by reason whereof was Cruneth lovainly oppressed, the house sacked and rased, not one that was founde within the same being left alive. The sporte also gouernour of that part of Angus which lyeth be= 30 was devided by Cruthlynt amongst them which came with him, The next day likewise he for The Countrey rayed the Countrey all there aboutes, returning is forrayed. home with a great botic.

They of Angus prouoked herewith, refled not long but assembling themselves togither inuaded the Countrey of Mernes, where making great flaughter on eche side, they left the Countier voyde almost both of men and cattell. Thus tid the people of those two Countreys pursue the warre one against another a certaine time, with dayly incursions and wastings of eyther others countreys, in such cruel wife, that it was thought the one of them must needes shortly come buto btter destruction, if speedie remedie were not the foner provided. The king being informed of this D.v. milchiefe at Scone.

The king clamition by an Heralde.

The king was sherewith.

mischiese and great froudse which was failen out through fenition amongst those his subicits, hee made proclamation by an Herauld, that those of Angus and Miraes whom he bnderslode to be culvable, floulde appeare within xb. dayes after the all appears at Scone, there to make answere afore appoynted Judges, to luch things as might be layde to their charge, upon paine of death to every one that offences with Cruthlint their Captaine, fied out of y Mernes, taking with them their wines, they? children and all they godes. The king beeing fore moued herewith, percepued how readie the Scottishe prople was by nature buto rebellion, when they were gently vied: and againe howe they obeyed the Magistrates best when they were restrevied from their wilde outragious doings by due punishment and execution of inflice. De confidered therefore that if the did not cause those feditious revelles whiche had thus disobered his commaundements to bee punified according to the older of the lawes, he floulde have the whole ded to pa realine Mortly disquicted with civil warre & open the disc made default. When the day of appearance caine, the faulty me there were but fewe that did appeare. The most of the residue of the offenders, the whiche at length ken with me rebellion. Wherevon with all speede hee caused entrebeit. being taken in Lochquhabir, were brought buto a ny more. Castel in Gowzie called Dounlinna, where after independent pronounced against them, Crusting with corner lint first, and then other the chiefest styriers on others. rother fode were put to execution, the commons for that it was thought they followed their func-of this fact.

The king was worthily commended for his instrice.

riogs agaynit their willes, were pardoned and li= cenced to depart to their houses. For this equitie Mewed in min. Aring instice by the king, hee was greatly peayled, loued, and dead of all his sub= 40 commaundement given by him bypon the first icas, so that great quietnesse followed in the whole state of the common wealth, greatly to the adnauncement therof, and so continued til the. rrij. peare of this Kenneths raigne. It what time the blinde loue he bace to his owneissue, caused hym King Kenneth to procure a vetestable fact, in making away one of his nearell kinnelmen. This was Malcolme the some of king Duffe, created in the beginning of Kenneths raigne Prince of Cumberlande, by reason whereof he ought to haue succeeded in rule 50 gan to gather some suspitio, that al was not wel: of the kingdome after Kenneths death, whereat the same Kenneth grieuing not a little, for that thereby his sonnes Moulde be kept from enio vina the crowne, found meanes to poplon him. But though the Philitions understanding by such e= not infected i nidet signes as appeared in his bodie, that he was poyloned in deed, yet such was the opinion which men had of the kings honoz and intregritic, that no fulpition at all was concepted that it shoulde be his deed. The cloked lone also whiche he had thewed towards him at all times, and to fodaine newes of his death, that his funerals mould be ce- The period Isbrated in every Church and Chappell for his of Malcol foule, and againe the teares which he thed for him is brough in all places where any mention channeed to bee to suspine made of the loffe which the realme had fuffeppes by the death of to worthie a prince, made men nothing miltrullful of y matter, till at legth fome of the nobles perceyuing the outward forow (which he made) to paffe the true griefe of the heart, bebut yet bycaule no certaintie appeared, they kept their thoughtes to themselves. Thout the same Ambasta time came Imballadors forth of Englande from came lro king Edwards the some of Edgar (which after Edwards through treason of his stepmother Escules, was made a Marty? requyzing that lithe Malcolme the Prince of Cumberlande was deceased, it might please the king with y states of the realme

The Historie of Scotlande.

ends to think forme other in his place, who doing his homage unto the king of England according as it was covenated by the league, might be a meane to configure the same league betwirt the two nations for the advoyding of all occations of breach thereof that otherwise happely might ensue. Kenwhere having heards the request of these Ambalfavours, in presence of all his nobles, he answered that her was glad to understande that king Co= 10 warde was so carefull for maintenance of love and antitir betwirt his subieites and the Scotuffiners, according to the articles of the auncient league in times past concluded betwirt them, the ratification whereof for his part, he likewife most ernellly delired, a therfore in rendring most hartie thankes buto him for his gentle aductifement, he purposed by the adulte of his nobles and the other estates of his realme as then there assembled, to cled a new Prince of Cumberlande, without any further delay: and therupon required the Ainballadour to be present on the morrows to heare what he was whom the Pobles Mould name to be preferred onto that vignitie. The Ambassadours hereupon departing forth of the Counsell The king rechamber, were conneyed to their longing by dis the crowne nerse of the nobilitie that were appointed to krepe might come them companie. Then Benneth with a long o= by inheritance ration went about to perswade the Peeres and or ther the estates of the realme there (as I sapo) al= fembled, to alter the cultome and auncient order ved by their elvers in chaling of him that Mould fucceede in gouernance of the realine, after the deceasse of him that was in possession. He vied so many reasons as mas possible for him to denise in that behalfe, therby to enduce them to his purpole, 40 crowne and kingly estate. whiche was to have an affe established for the crowne to go by fuccession, only to this ende that one of his formes mighte enjoy the same immediately after his decease. He declared also what viscomoditics, scoitions, and great incoueniences had growne, in that the crown had gone in times pall by election: for though it was orderned at the first that it shoulde so doe byon a god intent and great consideration, pet in processe of time derance happened but the common wealth therby belive the daunger ever ensuing incidently bn= to such issue as the king lest behind him) than profite, if the fundry murthers, occasions of civill distolde and other wicked prairiles were throughly we ped and confidered, the fumme whereof he retited from poynt to point, and so in the ende with great instance belought them that so pernicious

a custome might be abolished and taken away, to the great benefite of the whole state of the realnie. fuerially fith in all realmes commonly the order mas, that the sonne sould without any contradiction succeede the father in the heritage of the

The king had no loner made an ende of his The Peeres of long oration, which he handled after the pithicst the realmedid fort he coulde, but that diverse of the noble men willingly which were there amongst other, being made pris graunt to his nie to the matter afozehande, mocioned meanes to have Malcolnie the sonne of Kenneth created Prince of Cumberlande, that hee might so haue an entrance to the crowne after the deceasse of bis father. This motion by and by was in many of Prouse and experience had Chewed, that more hin- 50 their mouthes, whiche Kenneth percepuing, reauyzed of the most auncient Becres whom they would name to be Prince of Cumberlande, that there might be a meane to ratific and coffeme the league betwirt the Scottes and Englithe men. Coltantine the sonne of king Cullen, and Brime the nephew of king Duffe by his brother Mogal. howbeit by the force of p former law they might by good reason have loked to have had the prefer-required Con thantine hys voice first.

Constantine his taying.

well pleased, erie Malcolm.

to penie that which would be had by tiolence (al= though they should never so much stand against The Heraulde it being first demannded of the Beralde what they thought, they answered (notwithstanding agamists they? myndes in deede,) that the king might order all things as Bould stande with his pleasure, appointing whome he thought moste meetelt to be Prince of Cumberlande, and to ab= rogate the auncient laws of creating the kings in deuiling newe ordinances for the lame, as Mould freme buto him a thole of his counfel most The malritude requisite and necessarie. The multitude then following their lentence, cryed with lowde and budiscrete voyces, to have Malcoline the sonne of king Kenneth created Prince of Cumberlande. And thus the same Malcolme (though as pet onder age) was by the voyces of the people orderned 192ince of Cumberlande, in place of the other Malcolnie sonne to king Duffe.

ment themselves, yet percepuing it was in vaine

The day following the Ambassadors com= ming into the Countell chamber, heard what was occreed touching their request, and then be= ing highly rewarded of the kings bounteous liberalitie, they returned into Englande, and Mal= colm with them, to be acquainted with king Ed= warde, and to doe his homage for the Principalitic of Cumberlande, as the cultome was.

At the same time also, there was a newe afte A new act for Deviled and made, the olde being abjogated (by the 20 that didlt consuire the innocents death, enterprethe succession appropriment of the king) for the creation of the Scottill kings in time to come, many of the no= bles rather consenting with silence, than greatly allowing it, either in heartes or boyces, though some currifactours among them, set forwarde the matter to the best of their powers. The Articles of this ordinance were thefe: The eldest heire male of the deceased king, cluded in that whether the same were some or nephew, of what age soener he flould be, rea though he flould be in 40 thee and thy issue out of the way, that other may the mothers womb at the time of pfathers deceale flould from thenceforth succeed in the kingdome of Scotlande. The nephew by the sonne shoulde be preferred before the nephew by the daughter, in atterning to the heritage of the crowne. And likespile the brothers sonne should be admitted before the filters fonne. The fame law should be oblerned of all fuch of the Scottish nation, as had any landes of inferitance comming to them by discent. Calhere the king by this meanes chaunced so taine pardon and forgivenesse at Gods handes by to be bnoer age, and not able to rule, there flould be one of the chiefest peeres of the Realme chosen and elected to have the governance of his person and Realme, till be came to riff, reares of acr. The which fourtenth years of his age beging ac= complified, be shoulde have the administration committed to his owne handes. The herres of al other persons of eche estate and degree, Could re= maine under the wardhip of their appoynted douernours till they came to the age of .rrj. peares, and not till then to meddle with any part of their landes and livings.

Articles con-

These lawes and ordinances being once publifted and confirmed, King Kenneth fupposed the kingdome to bee fully affured buto him and hyg King Kenne posteritie, and therebponiendenoured himselfe to ministed un winne the heartes of the people with bygight anministration of instice: and the favour of the no= The good bles, he fought to purchase with great gifts which of the nobile he bought in lange he he bought he bestowed amongst them, aswell in landes be with gitter. longing to the crowne, as in other things, greatly to their contentation. Thus might he freme happic buto all men, having the love both of his Lordes and commons : but pet in lamfelf be fee - The king L med most buhappie, as he that coulde not but still aguiltiecon live in continuall feare, least his wicked maffile concerning the death of Malcolme Duffe Mould 20 come to light and knowledge of the worlde. For to commeth it to palle, that fuch as are micked in conscience for any secrete offence committed have cuer an buquiet minde. And as the fame goeth it chaunced that a bopce was hearde as he was in Avoyce her bed in the night time to take his relt, offering bn. by the king. to him thele or the like wordes in effecte: Thinke not Kenneth that the wicked flaughter of Malcolnie Duffe by thee contrined is kept fecret from the knowledge of the eternall God: Thou art be fing by trayterous meanes to doe b to thy neighbour which thou wouldest have revenued by cruell punishment in any of thy subjects, if it had bene offred to thy felfe: It that therefore come to palle, that both thou thyselfe, and thy issue, through the iust ungeance of almightie God, Wall lutter wojthie punishment, to the infamic of thy boule and family for cucrmore. Hor enen at this prelent are there in hande secrete practiles to dispatche both enion this kingdome which thou doll endenot to affure buto thine iffue.

The king with this bopce being fryken info creat dread and terror, paffed that night without any fleepe comming in his eyes. Wherefore in feden his the morning he got him buto Bishop Monean, a finnes. man of great holynelle of life, buto whom he confelled his hernous and molt wicked offence, befces ching him of counsell, which way bee might obworthie penance. Woucan hearing how the king bemoaned his offence committed, he willed hom to bec of good comfort. for as the wrath of almightie God was prouoked by finne and wicked offences, to was the fame pacifico agains by tepentance, if so be we continue penitent and wild The king to ling to amend. King Kenneth being confirmed keth great th hope of forgivenesse by these and sunotie other peacace.

the like coinfortable wordes of the Bishop, studicountey needly to doe worthie penaunce, leauing nothing vindone which hee thought might ferue for a witnesse of his penitent heart, thereby to a= nappe the vengeance which he flode in feare of to be prepared for him, by reason of his hernous and wicked erpme.

It channeed hereupon, that within a Mort time set after hee had beene at Fordune a Towne in remaine there, he turned a little out of the wap to lodge at the Castel of Fethircarne, where as then there was a Forrest ful of al maner of wild bealts that were to be had in any part of Albion. Here mastice recepued by Fenella Ladie of the house. whose some as ye have heard be caused to be put to death, for the commotion made betwirt them of Mernes and Angus. She was also a kyn buto Malcolme Duffe whome the king had made a= Grome, defrauded of their right to the crowne, by the craftie denife of the king, as before is partly mencioned. This woman therefore beeing of a floute stomacke, long time befoze hauing concepued an immortall grudge towardes the king.bp= on the occasions before rehearsed, (namely aswell for the death of hir somme Cruthlynt, as bauing fome ynckling also of the empoysoning of Malcolme Duffe, though no full certaintie thereof reuenged. She bnoerstwoe that the king delpted about measure in awdly buyloings, and therefore to the ende to copatte hir maticious intent, the had caused a tower to be made toyning buto hir owne lodging within the fozeland caltell of fethirearn. The which tower was coursed ouer with copper finely engraven with diverse flowers and Images. Hereto was it hung within with riche clos thes of Arras wrought with golde and sike, very Croffebowes fet readie bent with tharpe quarrels in them. In the middelf of the house there was a goody bralen Jinage allo, relembling the figure of king Kenneth, holding in the one hande a faire golden Apple fet full of precious stones, deuised with fuch arte and cunning, that to some as any man flould drawe the fame onto him or remous it never so little any way forth, the Erossebowes would immediately discharge they? quarrels bptherefore being thus provided aforehande, at after meate, defired the king to go with hir into that inner chamber: into the which being entred, he could not be latillied of long with the beholding of the goods furniture, aswell of the hangings as of ofverte other things. At the last having viewed the Image which stwde (as is sayde) in the middelt of the chamber, he demiaunded what the same div represent his person, and the golden Apple set so richly with Smaragds, Jacinits, Saphires, Topales, Rubics, Turkalles, and luch like precious stones, there had provided as a creft for him, and therfore required him to take the lame, befreehing him to accept it in good part, though it were not in value worthis to bee offeed unto his Princely honoz and high dignitie. Ind herewith the hir-Pernes, to visite the Relikes of Paladius which to selfe withorew aside, as though the woulde have taken something forth of a Thest or Coffer, ther= by to anopoe the dannaer. But the king delyted in beholding the genimes and opient stones, at The king with length remouing the Apple the better to admile it, flaine with the incontinently the Crossebowes discharged their Ciossebowes. quarrels to directly upon him, that Aryking hymi through in fundrie places, hee fell downe starke Deade, and lay flat on the ground. Fenella as lone Fenella efcaas the behelde him fall to the ground readie to die, ped from them way : and in like maner buto Constantine and 20 the got forth by a backe owie into the next wood, all. where the had appointed horses to tary for hir, by meane whereof the escaped out of all daunger of the that pursued hir, ere the death of the king were His fernance openly knowne buto them. His feruats fill way looked tor ting for his comming forth in the bitter chamber, their king. at length when they lawe he came not at all, first they knocked at the dwie foftly, then they rapped hard thereat: lastly doubting that which had hap= pened, they break open dwre after dwre, til at legth broken open was knowne) imagined night and day how to be 30 they came into the chamber where the king laye they finde him colde deade upon the floge. The clamoz and crie dead. herebyon was rayled by his fernants, and Fenella could la curled and fought for in every place that had not be found. committed so haynous and wicked a deede: but the ungracious woman was conneved to tecretly out of the way, that no where coulde the be heard of. Some supposed that the flet first with Con. Fenella got stantine, by whose helpe thee got ouer into Ire- hir selection lande. The ambitious desire which the same Co = helpe of Confavie and costly. Behinde the same were there 40 stantine thewed her had to succeede in govern- stantine. ment of the kingbome after Kennethes Decease, encrealed that suspition greatly. For intineds continued ately after it was knowne that Kinneth was affired vato bead, he got his friendes togither, and went bue the crowne. to diverte places requiring the Lordes to attiff. him in attenning to the crowne, which by the old ozdinance and law of the realme (milituted in the begynning, and observed till noive of late, that Kenneth by his private authoritie had gone as pon him with great force and violence. Fenella 50 boute to abzogate the same) ought to viscenne Comfincine unto hym, as all the worldt right well under procured stwot.

lignific. Fenella answered, bow that Image dio

Dustantine procured friends so on ethe live, that by their ineancs bring of high authoris Constant tie in the realms, her was brought by them vato Scone, and there crowned kind, the rti. Day after tine. Kennethes becease, in the red. pere after that the fame Remoth had begoing his raigne ouer the Maruellous happer chaun- tude of filles, the which lying there dead, caused

The moone appeared. bloudic.

Scarcitie of coine & carrel of fishe got than was accustomed to be, the peo=

It rayned flones.

Preaching was despiled.

naughtie lyuings: for otherwyle undoubtedly fuch grysely lightes and tokens as chaunced in those daves, menaced some great myschiefe to fall unto the whole Pation. And surely their wordes proved true : for the Scottes continuing in their wilfulnesse, being stubborne hearted one agaynst another, brought they? Countrey into daunger okbtter destruction. Milcolm see- pe haue hearde in hys fathers lyfe tyme) Pzince of Cumberlande, hearing that Constantine (a= gavnst the ordnance lately made) had blurped the

against Con-

expedient, whiche way her were best to worke for the appealing of the section nowe begunne by

Ferothericou- were indged it bell lodenly to goe agaynst Con- 50

Scottilly men, and in the peare of our faluation a counsell as the best to his seeming, and trusting more to his owne wit than to the grave advice of M men of faill, affembled togither in all haft roff. ble about the number of ten thousand nien, with vid Co as in other places. The fea left vpon the sandes whom making towards Constanting with fines transfer on the coastes of Buthquane, an infinite multidie iourneys, at length hee came into Leuthian. King Com Constantine being enfozmed of all his aduersa ride weren fuche a filthie favour, that the apre being there= ries boings, had got togither also an huge power, men Ma with infected, great death of people enfued. The to that palling forth with the lame to encounter colme Mone appeared of a bloudie colour, to the great terrour of them that behelde it. The Sommer to them, the brute which ranne of his great number and puissance, caused Malcoline soz verie feare Malcoline next following come fayled, and cattell dred fo that he shoulde not be able in any part to matche thought generally, that if there had not beene moze plentie him to breake by his army and to flee backe into ielf was Cumberland: by reason whereof he had bene put ple had beene famithed in many a place. In Albito fuch hinderance and difference, as woulde not on and also Fraunce, it ravned stones. But all easily have bene recovered, had not Kenneth the these dreadfull wonders might not withdraw the halfard sonne of his father the aboue mentioned Scottiffe men from their wicked vices, where-Kenneth encamped with a mightie vower aboute buto in those dayes they were wholye gynen, Sterling, and defended the passages of the forth. though there wanted not dyuerse vertuous men, as wel Bilhops as other, that in they? Sermons 20 that Constantine with his armie could not come ouer. Then role there great famine and penurie Lick of of exhorted the people to repent and amende they? of vitagles in both hostes, so that Constantine caused co with great indignation was constrained to break this camp by his campe, and so to leave his enterpile soz that season. Thus was the Realme devided into timo funday factions. Wherebyon followed was flings and incursions made into eche others polfellions, with fuch crucitie, that the same might be a sufficient instruction what mischiese happeneth Malcolme the sonne of Kenneth, created (as 30 through civill discorde. The pore commons and hulbanome were brought to luch milerie through the often spoylings and robberies bled by the men of warre, that they were not able to til their grous des. Finally there role one mischiefe to fall in the Crowne, as some as his fathers bodie was bu= neck of another, that no kinde of crueltie was fpa= rped in Colmbil, with fuch funeral pompe as ap= red, robbing, reauing, and forcible extortion was pertenned, he despred his fathers friendes to goue exercised on all sides without hope of any redictle him such farthfull counsell as they thought most og amenoment. Wihileft the Scottiffmen were thus at division amongst themselves, renting and K. Edva reason of Confrantines presumptuous attempt. 40 pulling in peeces their own miserable native cous taiberte trey, Edwarde king of England being oppzelled red, purd There were some amongest that companie with invalion of Danes, was glad to buie peace places. was given him that twike it to bee belt, first to bnderstande the at their handes, for himselfe and his people, with nivides of all the peeres and nobles of the realme, right large fummes of money: but perceiuing that before they went about any exploye against the his chimics ceaffed not dayly to fpoile and rob his typant, least whylest Malcolnic shoulde seeke to fubicits, he purposed to trie what he might doe by Delpuer himselse from vaunger, he might happely making them warre: And to make his part the Malcolm winde himselse further into trouble, than without stronger, he required Malcolme prince of Cums readic to berlad to appe him against the Danes, according against t extreeme perill of the common wealth he Moulde be able to get forth thereof againe. Other there to the cournant of the ancient league. Malcolme Dages. consenting to king Edwards request, came with stantine before he had made himselfe strong: for a mightie armie of Cumberlande men to support if they came upon him ere hee were prouided for him: by reason wherof the Dancs doubting to bee they; comming, many of them that feigned them ouermatched, after certain light fkirmishes with: King! selves to bee his friendes, woulde sozsake hom so out any great blodified, codifiéded to have peace, with the some as they sawe any power of his enimyes at which was concluded with these conditions: that Danca hande. And then Moulde he eyther fall into their king Edwarde fould pay buto the Danes a S. hands, oz be depuen to flee the realme for lafegard pounds of golde, for the which they should cotent of his life. The fierce youg man following this themselves themselves with those landes which they hav als ready in policifion, and to invade no further byon the Englishmen: but contrariwise to be readie to fight in their defence, if any forrain enimie fought to make any warres byon them. In the meane time whilest Malcolm was thus in England oc= cupied in ayde of king Edwarde against the Danes king Constantine thought the time to serve very well for his purpose to reduce all those regis and farie the fozelaid Malcoline) bnor his fubication. be affembled therfoze.xx.M.men, and comming into Louthian, heard how Kenneth the ballard a foresaid being left by his brother Malcolm to refili Constantines attempts) had got togither an huge armie of his brothers friends, and was come unto Crawmond, where the river falleth into the foith, athrec miles from Coenbourgh, purpofing there to abide his enimies, if they minded to Chemical wards, and comming within light of his enimics minimie. Arrightwayes ioined battail with them: immedially wherwith there role such an outragious tent=

The Historie of Scotlande.

pell of winde, comming out of the Galf, defining the lande in the faces of Constantines men, that. they were not able to fee about their to make any defence agapult they enimyes that then preasted byon them right egerly. By meanes inhereofthe discomsiture light opo Constantines side, though neyther part had any great raufe to reiobne : for in the hotelt of the fight, Constantine and Excusion liss flaine. neth chaunced to encounter togither, and fo figh ons of Scotlad which twke part with his aduct 10 ting man to man, either flue other. Thus Constantine ended his lyforby dynt of the insides swords, in the thirds years of his reigns; and in the years after the incarnation 12002, and thes 7002, bodie was buryed in Colmekill amongst his pleuf decessours.

Then Brime nephew to king Dusse bearing Grime. of the flaughter thus made betwirte hing Constantine and Kenneth, gathered kogither the relidue of Constantines armit, being Cratterediaaffaile him. Constantine herevpon hafted thither= 201 brode after the overthrow, supposing that by the death of Kenneth, the partie of his brother in Mer colme was foze weakned, and therebpon be eame buto the Abbay of Scone, and there caused himsfelfe to be crowned king, as lawfull successor buto Constantine, by force of the olde lawes and oz= diance of the Realine. And to establish himselfe the moze firmly in the ellate, he fhewed great gentlenesse towardes all them that were friends buto Constantine, and bestowed byo them many boutrous gyftes: neyther was his liberalitic Hut bp from other that had fauoured Malcolme, for to 50 purpole, which were allissant vinto Grime. the ende hee might allure them to beare him god will, he rewarded them highly both in landes and treasure. But other of the same kaction, whom tesawe by no meanes coulde be wonne, he caufed them to bee proclaymed traytours, and conhicated their godes as rebelles to his person, and minute to the crowne.

Malcoline Pzince of Cumberland foze mo-

ued in his minde that Brince had thus taken bp Malcolme on him the crowne, called his friends togither, re= prince of Cuquiring to have their aduice, whiche way he were berland is fore belt to worke in this fo great a matter.

They conntailed him that in no wife he thould A good could despile the force of his enimies, but rather to allay by all meanes to drawe those Pobles unto hys

Wherebyon Malcolme following, the couns Malcolm fenfaile of his friendes, fent forth secrete mellengers deth privily to buto those Lordes that twice part with Brime, res Scotlande. quiring them to remember their promised fayths giuen onto his father king Kenneth, concerning the observaunce of the lawe established by their consente for the succession of they? Kinges: whiche if they woulde doe ist remanacyng:

moued against

the Scottes.

mellingers are committed to priton.

Milcoline being offended therewith, gathered an ar-

Grime is of thá Malcolm.

not have his people to vn -

His aduice as usyled not.

armic of trea. fon.

their obeplance unto the vlurper Gryme, he pro-Midcolme his miled to to gouerne the Realine with equall in-Lice, that no estate should in reason find cause to millike with his doings. Wany of the nobles by meanes of this mellage revolted from the layde Grime, foliciting their friends by earnest trauaile Milcolme hys to do the like. But other and the greater number twke those that brought the message, and sent them as prisoners onto Brime, who incontinent= ly committed them to pillon.

Malcolme fore offended therewith, by counfil of his friends, affembled an army to go agianst them, that contrary to the law of all nations (as he feemed to take the matter) had empaisoned his purseuants and messengers : but marching as he was forwarde on his purpoled fourncy, hee heard by the way, howe his aduerlarie king Grime had gathered a farre greater power than he had wyth hint, not onely of all fuch of the Scottish nation inhabiting beyonde the riners of forth & Clyde, 20 not good to match in battaile agaynst his fierce ebut of them also of the western Iles.

Malcoline doubting least if the certaintie Mid-olm wold hereof were once bruted amongest his people, the fame would encrease the terrour moze than necderft unde the dedithe gaue comaundement therfoze that no ma= truch thereof. ner of wight should be suffred to come into his army without he were first brought to his presence. But this deuise nothing anayled him: for thereby that which he delired to be concealed & kept most from one to another, making it much moze than it was in ored. For there role a murmuring a= mongest them, that there was such treason contrined, that if Malcoline with his army went foz= ward to joyne with his aductlaries, he should not be in vaunger onely of them, which he knowe to come against him in Grinus host, but also of no small nüber of the which were in his own armie. inho boon the toyning had betermined to turne their fpeare points against bim in Grimes quarel.

This rumoz pailing from one to another, put the whole number in great feare. It was first rais Marchant me fed by certain marchant men, of whom there was authoused the rumon a great nüber in Malcolmes armie, hauing moze 10 fkill in buying and felling, than in any wadoke feates or enterpryles.

These at the field luing for licence to depart home, and could have no graunt, begame to lament their miseries, in such volefull wife, that all the campe was troubled with the noyle, infomuch that even the olde men of warre, and owerle of the Captaines were not a little vilcomforted and amazed with such wailefull clamozs.

Malcolme being aduertised hereof, thought nimics with his people thus affonied through Malcolme dread and terroz, and therefore gave licence to the concentrate niost part of his host to depart so, that time, and his armied abode onely with certain bandes of his most faith, depart hem full friends neare onto the water of forth, to flop Malcolme his enimics from palfing ouer that rouer.

adlhileft the realme of Scotlande was thus his enimie definient the traine of the civil discorde, for passing of the Fonds thadus the greate Billiop of Scotland, a man of fecret, became the moze manifest, by reason that 30 right approned vertue and elemencie, soze lament The grad fuch as had some ynkling of the matter, tolde it ting to see his countrey thus devided erent, as it shop also were in peeces, got him into his pontificall be- lande. flures with a multitude of other reverend priess and ecclelialticall ministers, in humble wife comming and presenting themselves before King Forhadus Grime, who with great reuerence receiuing them, keth 101 willed to understand the cause of their comming. Then Fotbadus and wired, that he was come as the sexuant of Chaist, the authour of all peace and concorde, befeeching him by way of humble sup plication to take ruth and pitte of the great trous ble and miserie fallen to the realme, sith the tyme to had taken the gouernance byon him, the fate of things being such, as if some reveelle were not founde in all speedie wife, the otter ruyne of the common wealth must needes ensue, by reason of the fundate debates and factions dayly ryling amongest the people of all soztes and degrees, so ef that murthers, robberies, reife, with al other kinds of iniuries and mischiese were still put in peactife without restraynt oz punishment in such lyof his owne: for whether it were within dwees, oz mithout, the Robber was as readie to lay handes on it as the owner. Peyther was there hope of any reformation folong as the civill warres la-Aed. Therfoze if it might stande with the pleasure ofking Gryme in reliefe of the page commons of Scotlande, to condiscende unto some necessas rie agreement with Malcolme, Fothadus offered to bidertake to conclude a peace betwirt ther aduice what was to be done to them in suche wyse as shoulde in no maner of 20 poynted communication of peace. behalfe be precindiciall to his honour and royall Waieltie.

The Historie of Scotlande.

Grime moved with the wordes of the Billiop (who most instantly belought him, although the calamitle and creat affliction of his people did but little mollifie his beart, pet in respect of his owne furetic, which might not continue if his people were once destroped, to remit part of his high difpleasure answered, that peace he could be contenhis honoz faued: foz furely warres be neuer delired but onely in defence of his and title & right, which be had to the crowne descended onto him by the olde lawes and auncient ordinances of the realm, 4 therefore he purposed not to leane the same with life, but to fight for it agaynst Malcolme, and all bis partakers, euen bnto death: But if it were fo, that Malcolme would content himselfe with the principalitie of Cumberland, to theropon breake ning to the crown, he woulde gladly com to a co= munication with him for peace, but if Malcolmerefused thus to do, he assured him that he woulde not leave off to pursue him to the vitermost of his power, as his most cruel and sierce entmie.

Fothadus having beard Grymes wordes, belought hym to stay a tyme, tyll bee myght goe buto Malcolme, to bnoerstande what hys full mynde was in this behalfe, not doubting but to finde him conformable buto any reasonable mo- 50 buto the crowne at any time hereafter. tion, for relieuing of the page afflicted state of ene graunning to this request, a come, went onto Malcolme, whome he founde at Sterling. Where comming before his presence with a long Diation, bee greatly bewayled the dolo= tous calamityes of the Scottill common weale, into the which it was fallen through civil fedition only: and berewith declared also by great like* lythodes of lubitantial reasons, how infortunate and miscrable the ende should be of the marres. if the same were pursued to the ottermost.

His tale being throughly heard and well diff gested, wrought so with Malcolme, that he promised to withdraw into Cumberlande withoute any further attempt, if Grime would in like case Malcolmes centions fort that no man coulde affure himselfs 10 breake by his camp, and agree to have a truce for offer. three Monethes space, in which meane time thep might by certaine commissioners appointed and authorised thereo, talk and comon for concluding of a finall peace and concord betwirt them.

Grime refuled not this offer, and fo therebpon Gryme is conlycensed his people to depart to their homes, repaise tented with Malcolmes ring himselfe with certaine of his nobles into In- motion. gus onto the Castell of Forfair, there to take further advice what was to be done touching the av-

But Fothadus would in no wife rest, tyll the Fothadus his commissioners were met and assembled fogither procure the in communication at Scone, where within feme parties to adayes after (chiefly through his earnest diligence) greement. peace was concluded with these conditions.

First that Grime during his life time, Monlbe The conditienion the crowne, and after his decease the same one of the to remaine onto Malcolm and his heires by line peace betwixt al discent for ener, according to the ordinance and Miscolme. ted to have, so the same might be concluded with 30 becree made e elfablished by king Kenneth. And who locuer houlde goe about epther by worde or deed to impeach or hinder the laid ordinance and decree, flouid be reputed for a traytor to the common wealth and realme.

Furthermore all the landes lying betweet Louthian and Porthumberlande, and befroirt Clyde and Wellmerland, even from the Ilmain leas, to the Frilly leas, thoulde presently remaine and be transported unto the dominion e gouernby his campe and depart forth of the lands pertey- 40 ment of Malcoline, with the whiche contenting bimselfe during the natural life of Bryme, bes should cotinue in friendship with the laid Grime. and to in no wife flirre of moue any warre of debate eyther against him or any of his friends : for if he did, and went about to breake any of the articles of this peace, he froulde not onely lose those landes which he now held, but also to be densined of all the right, title, clayme, and interest whiche either he oz bis posteritie might make oz pretenbe

> When both the princes had bound themselves by folemine other to performe enery point a points The warres be in thele articles compriled, they layb armor alive, ing coulled, the and began to take order for reforming of all mile their fludies demeanours, whiche had happened within the to resourme lande, by reason of the civill contention monen missemeaners betwirt them and their partakers. Howbeelt. commanusement was given by exther of their Princes, 192 inces, that their fubled's thoulo be still in a readirecte with armure & weapon, if need required to defend theinfelnes against al sodaine invasions of their neighbors, whereby it may be gathered, that the one had the other still in some mistrust, what sountenance focuer they flewed outwardly. Det notwithstanding for the space of bill peares togither, the peace continued without breach, or any notable trouble betwirt them.

King Grime from noble detellable VICES.

his alteration Prince, through long flouth and encrease of ry= thes, became a most conetous treant, and so coze rupted in maners and conditions, that it nassed the termes of al reason and equitic: insomuch that when he had put buto death diverse of his nobles. to the ende he might have their landes and godes as forsepted by attainder, he oppressed the people by continuall exactious also echeday moze than other.

miserie through his wicked & uniust governmet, The common not knowing where to seeke for redresse, saue only peoples praier. at the handes of almightie God, the punisher of al linne, belought him to haue pitie of their affliti= ong, and to chaunge the government of the realm into some better estate.

The Lordes also having great indignation of the trouble fallen to the realme, by the kings nulgouernance and auaricious crueltie, appointed a to reforme the certains number of Gentlemen to goe buto him 30 some advertisement of his nobles, thought that all mildemeanor as Ambassadours from them, to requyze him to of his efficers. put away from him such naughtie persons as by cuill councell had peruerted his minde, and moned him to do things contrary to his honour and > the wealth of his realme. One of these Ambassadors (to who the charge was given) had the wordes in name of them all, who coming before the kings presence, veclared but o him howe they were lent from the relidue of the nobles and peeres of his realme, to admonific him of things perteyning to p suretie of his estate and conton wealth of his dominions, which was,

that where through personation of emil countage lers be fuffred many enormities to be committed by his ministers and officers against his subjects. to their biter impouerishment and bindoing, the rebuke wherof did redound buto his dithonor, if it would please him to remoue out of his presence feruice all fuch difloyal persons as sought the hinderance of the common weale, he thouse winne thereby the love of all his liege subiertes, whiche But Gryme at length of a chaste and liberall 10 now coulde not but grudge and repine at this his gouernment, as nien by the same brought into fuch calamitie, that better it were for them in their iudaements to be dead than alive, if reformation were not the foner had against fuche extortions as his fernants and officers did dayly prairile, and The office for the which no doubt he must needes auswere, the swords fith the fworde was committed buto him, not to enrich conetous persons, not to oppresse innocent and true dealing people, but contrarily to punishe His lubicits being thus brought into extreme 20 and corred quiltie and bniuft dealers.

When king Bryme had heard what message these Ambassadors had brought, he answered to the same with farned wordes, & willed them bnder the pretext of courtesse to a banket, in purpose King Gilo to have put them all in prilon: But they beeing purposed advertised therof, got them in all hall to their hore have said les, and fled forthwith buto Bertha, where the re-Sidue of the nobles at the same time mere all theo.

Gryme thus having no regarde to the bolethings would come forwarde with such selicitie and happe as he wished, not ceasing from rayfing new payments and eradions still of his subieds, till at length he was aduertifed, how his no. The Loid bles had rapled open warre against him, at which rear wine neives being foze kindled with vilplealure, be got gainfi Gin togither a great number of men, a marched fouth their king towards them that had fo rebelled agapult him.

Then followed moze mischiefe and trouble the ever had bene feene afoze that time in Scotlande: Wheemile for by reason of this civill diffention, castels were enfred. razed & ouerth 20 wine, townes burned by, come defiroved, and ficloes walled, a the people flaine in all places, yea as well in churches as elwhere.

Malcoline prince of Cuberland bearing of fuch cruell warres as were thus rayled in Scotlande between the king and the nobles of the realme, to the daunger of the btter eversion of the whole comon wealth, returned with all freed forth of Cinglande (where hee was with an armie as then in and of king Earlied against the Danes) into his owne countrey for defence of his lubicits, if any attempt should happely be made against them in that troublesome season.

Howbrit he was no somer returned home, but Malcalan the nobles of Louthian came onto him, beleching relieue the him to take pitte bypon his miserable and tome Scotished countrey, and to employe hys whole force to remone away from the people such imminent de= firmition as dayly hasted towards them, which to bothey thought it was partly even his dutie, fith Sod had bestomed upon him suche giftes both of body, minde, and fortune, as most plenteously aupeared in him, not onely for the weale of himselfe, but also of his friends and countrey, and therefore his part was to thew his earnest diligence to deliuer the common wealth of such tyrannie as was ppairified by the milgouernment of Gryme and 10 his mihappie councellers. Which being done, he might of der al things as thould like him best. Antcolme moued with thele and the like per= fwalions of the Scottish Lozds, which dayly reforted butto him, resolued with promise of their suppost to levie warre against Grime in this so necessarie a quarell, & so assembling a great puisfance togither, he did fet forth towards his aduerfarie. By the way also there came still buto him great numbers of then from eche fide to apde him 20 in this enterprice, offring by folemne othes to become his liege men and subieds.

The Hiltorie of Scotlande.

Gryme likewise beeing aduertised of those newes, with all speede get togither such people as because bee might assemble for the time, and comming forwards with the same at the towne of Auch= nabart, both the armyes pitched downe they? britte one tentes, the one fast by the other, on the Ascentibeecher on day.

> enimics at some great aduantage, if he came bud them on the sodaine, for that being given to deuo= tion they woulde loke for nothing leffe than for battaile on p day, he got forth of his campe in the dawning of that morning, in purpose forthwith to affaile them. Porwithstanding Malcoline being aductifed therof, sent unto Grinie, requessing Malcolmes him to desilt from battaile for reverence of that requests bleffed fealt, but Brime woulde in no wise assent thereto, but needes would come on without stop or flay: wherebyon both the armies ruffing togi= ther met right fiercely, so that in the begynning The battaile there was great flaughter made on both fides, but betwirt Grime within a while king Grynnes side was put to the & Malcolme. morfe, and in the ende clearly discomfited.

In the chale were many flaine, but yet no luch Grimes pare number as so notable a vidorie required.

At is faid that Brine was taken alive flading at defece most stercely sighting, theing soze wonbed in the head, had both his eies put out, tafter-king Grime. wards continuing so in great miserie & languoz certaine dayes, at length departed out of this life, in the. ir. years of his raigne, and was buried in 1004 Io. Ma Colmkill, after the incarnation, 1010, peaces. 1010. H.B.

After this victorie thus obterned by Malcolm, he called such noble men as were taken prisoners Malcolmes in this battaile befoze him, vling manye gentle wordes to the wordes towards them, declaring how the right of ken prisoners. the crown apperteyned buto him, that p warres which he had made, were not attepted against the comon wealth of the Scottill elfate, but rather in reliefe therof, to the ende the people might be dely-Herre Brime supposing that he might take his 30 nered of the typannie exercised by Grime and his counsellois. And when he had thus bettered his minde onto them, be appointed a publike affemble A Parliament to be kept at Scone (for the cledio of a new king) at Scone.

there to be holden within.rv.days after. Whither the Scottiss noviltic coming togither at the day and place appoprised. and confinting to crowne · Malcolnic king, he otterly refused to recepue the crowne, except the law established by his father Personne Armeth for the fuccellion therof were first cofir= med fapplovate, wherevon the Lozdes tounde The ordinance the clues by folenine other to perform the fame, of king Ken= neuer to breake or violate it in any condition.

his requelt herein being grauted with generall fu celsion of content both of the nobles and comons, the crown confirmed. was let byon his beade, he beeing placed in the 19.ij.

Mal-

colme.

Malcolme azealme.

Malcolmes wildome in ordeyning officers.

lande.

Charge of Marble, to the great rejoyling of al the people prefent. Den the folemnitie of this coronation was cended, he called afore him again al the lords and peeres of his realme, of the which part had apded him in the last warres, a part had bin assistant buto his adversarie Grime: there bled the matter greeth the no- in such wise amongst them, that he made them all grow out of the rotes of fuch racoz a malice, as in time of the civil discord had sprug by amogst the.

Further, for the better administration of instice in due forme and maner he bestowed publike offices opon discrete persons, skilful in the lawes and oppinances of the realme. Other offices perteining to the warres & defence of the realm, he committed bnto such as were practised strayned in such exthroughout the kingdome, with such equitie and byzightnesse, as had not beene heard of in any age befoze him. Whilest the Scottish estate was go-Sueno king of nerned in such happie wise, by the prudent policie Denmark lan- of K. Malcolnie, it chaunced that Sueno king of Danes landed in England with a mightie naup, in purpole to reuenge the iniuries done befoze bn= to his people by the English men.

> This Sucno (as appeareth moze at large in the cuter of chailtian men, and punished by the centine providence for his crucitie in that behalfe Memed by funday ouerthrowes recepued at the enimics handes, as in being theile taken peisoner, and in the end driven and expulled out of his kingdome.

he came into Scotlande for relief + fuccoz, where through the hollome instruction of godly and ber- Successfully men, he renounced his heathnish belief, are the fine least ceined the chailtian faith, t being baptiled, at legth Scotland was restozed home to his kingdom. Shozily after with a mightie armye of Dancs, Gothes, and Potwegians, Swedeners, with other northern people, he arrived (as is faid) in England, thated Feddrell friendes, ethe one promiting to other, to torget au former offences, displeasures & controversies past, 10 solich he did to annin al intestine trouble p might league which lately before he had contrasted with Northund land, generally and generally before he had contrasted with land, generally and generally an the, he determined eftsones to trie the chaunce of ayderion battaile w his enimics. Marching forward ther Scottes. fore towards the, he came to the riner of Dwie, neare to the banks wherof, not far from Porke, he pitched down his tents. Then Sucno not forget. ful of the benefits * pleasures received lately at the fage to the Scottiffmes hands, fent an herald at armes buto Scottes. the, comanding the to depart their waves home t erciles, so that iustice was ministred on all sydes 20 to refuse Egelozeds copanie, either else to loke for most cruel battail at the hands of the Danes, the Porwegians & others & people of Germany, there redie bent to their destruction. Egeldzed being adnertifed that his adnersaries messenger was thus come into his campe, caused him to be stayed and arested for a spie. And the same day be brought forth his battaples readie raunged into the fieldes to tric p matter by opnt of Eword, if Sueno were to minded, who right desirous to accept the offer. hyltogie of Denmark first being an earnest perse= 30 brought forth also his people in persit order & well arrayed to fight, so that there was no stay on eis The bird ther part, but that togither they flue most fiercely, betwin E Ein fuch egre wife, that neyther five had leplure to Sucno. bestow their shot, but even at the first they buckled togither at handblowes, cotinuing certain houres with great & cruel flaughter, til at legth the Englift) men were put to flight, leauing to the Danes a right Dearc & blodie bidozie. The murther also that day of the Scots was great, but pet nothing to the number of the English men. Egelozed him felf with a fewe other, got a boat and paffed our Dule, to elcaping out of the enimies hads, but the Egeldreld rell were for the molt part either taken or flaine. peth by #

The Engl-fi men put to fligh, by the Lanes.

Thus Eaclosed being bitterly banquilled and dispairing of al reconcrie, fled out of Englande o= ner into Pozmandie, where he was right friendly recepted of Richard as then Duke of Poimade, fafterwards purchased such favor there amongst the Popmans, that he maried the Ladie Emme, paughter buto the layde Duke, and begot of hir two formes, Flured and Edward, as in the Englill Chronicles more at large it doth appeare.

now put in pollession of the whole realm of Eng-Successive illand, was in mind to have destroyed at the Englift generation, so to establish the kingdom to him and his posteritie for ever, without any impeach= ment afterwards to be made by fuch as Mulo fuc= cced of them that were then alive. But the nobles of Englad aductifed of Sucnoes Determination, Thenobles of came humbly befoze his prefence, & falling downe England their On their knees at his feet, besought him in most pishim then some succession on their knees at his feet, besought him in most pishim then some succession on their nucleable succession.

elfate, who in times palt beeing a most puissant 30 tremitie, that they were faine to accept these connation, both by sea and lande, were now satisfied (If he woulde graunt them life) to continue under what bondage and servitude it Gould stand with his pleasure to prescribe, for they desired neither possession of castels, townes, or other sourrainties, but onely to line with their wines and children buder lubicition within their owne native Countrep, at the victors will and appointment.

Sueno albeit he was of nature very cruell, yet he qualified his displeasure by this humble submil- 40 parson and dayly put in hazard of their lives. tion of the English nobility, in such sort, that he vled the victorie farre more gently, than at the first nced he had purpoled, comanding that the whole Eng. me lift nation flould remaine in the countrey, but in fuch wife, as by no meanes they shuld veclume to beare any armoz oz weapó, but to apply thesclues buto busbander, & other service occupations buder the government of the Danes, buto whom they fliuld religne & deliver al their caltels, forts, a ftrog holds, and taking an oth to be true liege men onto 50 Sueno as their soueraine losd & king: they should bring in to be oclinered buto his ble) al their weapon armor with other munition for the warres, also all their golde and filuer, aswell in plate as corne. If any of the English men refused thus to do proclamatio was made that he thould immediathy lose his life as a rebel & a disobedient person.

The English men were brought to such an ex-ditions of peace, for other meane to anopo prefent peath they knew none. And thus was the dominion of Englad coquered by the Dance, after the Sarons had raigned in the same 564. peares.

Such typannic also after this was vsed by the The miserie of the Englishme Danes, that none of the English nation was ad - under the bonmitted to any office or rule within the realme ep- dage of the ther spirituall og tempozall, but were betterly te= Dane s. moucd from the fame, and some of them calt in finally, the Englishe nich were brought into fuch miscrable thealdome, that every housisolder within the realme, was constrayned to recepte and finde at his owne proper colles & charges one Dane, who fould continually give god watche what was layde or done in the house, and to anuertile the king thereof, foz doubt of conspiracies of treasons to be contriued and pradiled against his person and royall estate.

This Dane by the good man of the house this family for honour lake, was called Lord Dane, which word was afterwardes turned to a name of reproch, as where any idle person lined loitring The name of without the vie of some honelt exercise to get his Lordain how lining withal, y people were & pet are accustomed it came vp. to cal him a Lozdain. Thus farre out of Beitog Boetius we have thewed of Suemoes doings in Englat, which although it agree not in al points P.tij.

Sueno landed here this last as we finde it in the same Boetius : but aduerti = fing the reader with all, that if our hyltories bee true, this which followeth touching Suenocs in= uading of scotland chanced before that Exelect whom the Scottill weiters name Elozed, was ti me of his co- diuen to flee into Pozmandie. For after that ming forth of Sueno lastly returned into Englande, and cons to Denmarke in- ffrayned Egelred io to fozlake the lande, he lyued Tu'y, in the not long after, but departed this life about Can= yeare. 1013. & blemafie, in the pere 1014. (as in the English hydepired this lite in the be- story ye may read more at large not having time ginning of Fe- to make any fuch fourney into Scotland: fo that bruarie, in the it may be thought, if he did enterprice any suche exployte there, it was before this his last arrivall in England. But now to proceed according to b which we find in the foreland Boetius. Sueno in maner befoze remebzed, oz rather brought them to becom tributaries buto him, as at the first time of his arrivall here he did in deed, he thought it ne= cellarie for the more furctic of his estate in Eng= lande, to conclude some peace of league with his neighbors the Pormans, Bytains and Scots. bnder condition that they should not support any English man against him. But forsomuch as he could not compasse his intention herein, he furniner against Pormandie with me, munition, and vitails, to relift al foden invalions o might be at= tepted on that live. And on the other part towards the north, he made at the provision he could denife to make mostal warres byon the Scots : and the moze to annoy his enimics, he fent commaunde= ment buto Dlauns his lieutenant in Pormap. 4 to Dnetus his deputie in Denmarke, to come with al y power they might levie into Scotland. to make warres on his enimics there.

> Wherupon flortly after those foresaid captains arrived with an huge army in h mouth of Spay, and landed in such puissant order, that the inhabis tans of Murrerland fled out of their houses, with their wines, children, a godes (such as they could conney away with them' into places where they

Danes after their maner burne & spople all befoze them, afwel churches and chappels, as other buil-fice in time, but by channee fell into their handes. were flain without all mercie. Also al the streng. thes and holds in the countrey were taken by the Danes, three castels only excepted: that is to wit.

Clain, fores, and Parne, which the Danes na.

med afterwards Burg, and for that they truffed

when the fame was won, the other two woulde recto without any further defence, they first laybe

reth to initiale the Scottes.

Olauus, and Onerus.

The Dancs lated in Scotlande.

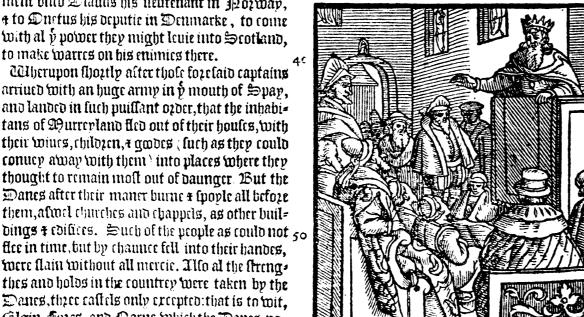

of thought to remain most out of daunger. But the fiege buto this Caltel of Parne, enforcing them- The whell with our English Hyllogies, yet lith the Hylloscluce with all their power to winne it, but in the Nambelle ric of Scotlande in this place feemeth partly to meane time, they were enformed how Malcolme hang theron, we have thought good to let it down the Scottiff king was come within fine miles of them with al the forces of his realm to give them battaile. Incontinently wherupo they rayled their liege. & halten forth to meet him with no leffe courage, that if victory were already prefent in their hands.

Sholily after, there came buto them Heraldes Milcolmie also from Malcoline, to understand why they had dechambed thus innaded his realm with open and most cruel dours to the warre, having no occasion given by him of his subjects so to do. Who scarcely had done their mes The Dines sage, but that they were claine forthwith by cruci seathe Am outrage of the Dancs.

Malcoline being loze moued to understand the law observed by all nations for the safetie of mesfengers to be thus violated by the enimies, kept on hauing spoyled the English men of their liberties 20 his journey with p moze fierce cozage, til he came to a medowe a little beside Killog, where he encamped for that night. Breat norse and clamour was heard throughout the armie, euerie man being desirous of battaile, to revenue the injuries done by the Danes against their friends & countrey men:notwithstanding on the morrow when they fawe their enimies in farre greater number, and in better order than ever had bin feene by any of them before that time, their hart began to ware The Score Med al the callels & fortrelles on the lea coalles, 0= 30 faint, having greater care which way to faue their through he own lines, that o gine the onlet upo their enimies. are affonied

Malcolme perceiuing fuch dread to be entred Malcolmes into the hearts of his people, that they were nowe wordes w moze like to run away than to fight, if he shoulde Nobles. bring them forth to battail, got him to a little bil, e calling his nobles about him, he declared buto them how he could not but vetelf their great cowardile, that were thus altonied at the first light of their enimics, wout further trial of their forces.

neating to far from your worthy fathers a noble mogenicozs, the which at Loncarte vnder the cobut of my father Kenneth, obterned to famous & mitagic of the felf fame nation, whole furious pu-Mance pe leeme now to much to fcare. There hath time, both within the bounds of Scotland, & alfo of England, to the great honor trenowne of our elders. What discomfitures the Danes haue recepued are yet fresh in memorie, so many of them lofing their liues amongest bs, that Albion map well be reckened the sepulture of Danes, as some ci you can wel record by your owne remebrance, and other have heard by report of their forefathers and ancesters . De ought then (fayde he) to be of confidering pee have to doe with those enimies, which are but the remarkant of the other, whiche before have bene vanquilled and overthrowne by Scottilly men, both at Loncarte, in diverle other places, pea a belives that, fuch as moning warres now at this present without fust occasion, have violated the lawes both of God and man, deferuing thereby just bengeance at Bods handes, the punisher of al such briust offenders. Ther is great as fight against these enimies, if we take manly

Irmodic (faid he) re are most hardie and valiant,

where no danger appeareth: what rebuke the is it unto you, to be thus faint harted now that ye are come where valiancie should be shewed,) in dege= des at length perille, than to the defence and prefernation of your comon countrey, why palle re not forward, fith ther is now no place nor time to take longer adnice in the matter, as pe may well buderstad by y presence of y enimic redy to joyne. The nobles moued with these wordes of their bene triall made in battell with this enimie in our 10 prince, began boldly to exhort their people to battell. Incontinently whereupon role such noise and The Scottes raging fury through the army, that without meas without order furing either their owne forces or their enimies, battaile. they rush forth bud the without any order or and eray. Planus & Pnetus beholding the Scots to come thus furiously against them, boldly encoun= tred them with arrayed battels. Wherup & enfued nes, to inuade be without occasió of iniuries pre= ceding. Therefore if ye have not more regarde to

to the latetic of your frail bodies, which must necaright terrible fight, with great manhood flicwed on both fides, nothing being let passe that might quo courage, rather than to faint now at neede, 20 apperteyne to worthy captains, the Scots enforforcing themselves to defend their countrie & aun= cient liberties, on the one fide, & the Danes doing their best endeuoz by valiat hardinesse to laue their lines & honozs on the other. At length after huge The Scottes nurther & flaughter made on both parts, y Scots Malcolme is were put to flight, Malcolme was loze wounded, wounded. that his helmet fo fall beaten to his head, that it might not wel be got of, pet was he conneped out of the field in maner for dead, and kept fecrete in a hope therfore of victorie (faid he) left buto all fuch to wood til he was sommulat amended, and then got him into places out of daunger. The Panes hauing got this victorie, and gathered the spoyle of harts buto bs, and thew our felues in valiant cothe aclo, returned to beliege eftlones the callell of flancie like to our elders, wherby it shall then ap-Parne, with more force and biolence than before. peare what outragious folly remained in the Das

This Callell in those payer was enclosed on the five with the fea, bowing one narrow passage as an entric onto it, made by craft of manin maner of a bridge.

Chole that were within it, hauing knowledge of the ouertheore and lolle of the ficip, rendere the Name renfortrelle, on compition that leaning al their armor, dred by comweapa s office munitions behind the, they might polition. bepart to their lives e other gods laued. Reuere The Danes theles the Danes cotters to their faith gine, being faith and pro-once entred the Castell, hanged all those whiche they founde within it over the walles, in molt dewitefull maner.

Thus was Parne wonne by the Danes, the Arongelt holde within Murrey lande, and lo garnished with men, munition and bytayles, that it was thought impregnable.

boings, boubting least by the arrival of new ayd, his enimies might ware moze puissant, in the beginning of the next fommer, he affembled a great multitude of warriours, and came in god ogder and most warlyke array onto Murthlake, a town of Mar, where the first creition of the Bithoppes fea of Abyzoen was founded. Here the one armie comming in light of the other, they were lovenly both amazed. For the Scottes hauing had to the plaine and open fight of them. The Danes being farre off from the fea lide, and buon an onknowne grounde, were moze afrayde of some quilefull practife, than of the open violence and force of their enimies. Pet neuerthelesse in the ende, by the encouragement of the Captaines on both fives, they buckled togither with great fierces neile and molte cruell malicious hatred on eche that is to wit, Bermeth of Ila, Brome of Stra-therne, 4 Patrike of Dunbar, rufhing ouer fiercely on their enimies, were flain, and gaue occasion to many of the Scottiffe men to flee , but the place was fuch, that they conide not well make they?

courfe any way forth, by trason of p narrownelle thereof, fenced on either five with beepe trenches full of water and mudde, also a trauerle were land

Then those fouloiers which kept Elgyn and res leit voyde. Fores, hearing what crueltie the Danes had thus mithout any person to defende them.

The Danes reloyling at this god fortune. truffer to establishe theselucs sure scates in Murrev lande, and therebpon fent backe their flippes into Porway and Denmarke, to fetch fro thence their woues and children.

In the meane time they confrayned suche Scottes as they had layde handes on, to reane and inne the come growing absode in the fieldes. bled, fled out of those Castels, and lest them boyd 10 buto their ble and commoditie.

Murchlake.

The Scotts and Danes one much experience of the crueltie Gewed afore time 40 afrayde of an- by the Danes, were put in no finall feare now at other.

The Scottes forced to reKing Malcolme being aduertised of all these 30 sundzie trees, as it had bene of purpose to impeach the pallage, benifed in that fort (as was thought) in time of some civill warres. Here though Malcolme like a valiant chams pion, did his beit to stay them that fled, pet wes he boine backe with the preaste, til he came to p mids of this place, where stode a Chappell bediente in the honour of Saint Molok, the which Malcolm beholding, call by his handes towardes heaven, making his praper on this wife.

Breat Bod of bertue, remarder of piette, and Maleolm punisher of sinne, we thy people sceking to befinde our natine contrep graunted to be of thy benenslence, as now bellitute of al moztal help, and thus opperfled with the inturious inuation of Panes, do fice unto thee in this our extreeme necellitie, befreching thee to have copallion bpo our milerable estate: Remoue (oh merciful Lozde) this Dreadull Toyou, terroz fro the people. And oh thou mother of God, to God, the ficker refuge of mortall people in their billerle Saint Me hand. In the first brunt three valiant Captains, 50 and miseries : and thou S. Molok to whom this for so be chappel was dedicate, help be at this present, and ned them in the honor of you, I here make a bow to huto a ding to the cathedral Church for a Billious fea to remain as maner of a monument to tellifie onto our pollerity, that by une. your support our realme bath bene defended

Searcely had Malcolme made an eine Sthis mayer, when diuerfe of the Pobles with a louve boyce, as though they had bin affured & his praier

mas berd, cried to their companies: Itand god feleaves, for furely it is the pleasure of almightie Cod, that we returns and renew the battaple a= gainst our enimics.

Percupou role a wonderfull novle amonast the fouldiers, ech one encouraging other to withfland the enimics, and to fight in moste manfull wife in defence of they countrey and auncient liberties, and forthwith as it had bene by miraclether returned byon they? enimies, making to oreat flaughter on eche side, without regarde to there lives or bloudy woundes, which they boldly and without feare recepued.

perewith Malcoline also with a bulliment of floute warriours came byon Dnetus, who was praunling by and downe the fielde without any helmet on his head, as though the Scottes had bene already without recovery clearely discom= fitted, and so there was he beaten downe, beside of hande. The relidue of the Danes beholding the flaughter of their Captaine, flaved from fur= ther pursute on the Scottes. Hercof ensued great bolonesse to the Scottes and discouragement to the Danes. Albeit the bataple continued fill a iong space, the souldiers doyng their best on epde Diede für fide, till at length the Danes were put to flight, many of them being flaine, and but fewe taken. Planus beholving the discomfitive of his people, and how his companion in authoritic was flagne, fled into Murrayland with a fixell Olive Seeth companie about him.

The next day, Walcoline confidering what a number of his molte valiant Captaines be had lost in this bataple, denived the spoyle of the field amont his men, and cealling from further nurfute of the Danes at that time, wente into Inaus, where he remarked the relidue of the years within the castell of Forfayr, taking counsell with his Pobles touching the publike affances of the realme, and how to recover his countrep of Wurrayland out of the enimies handes.

King Sueno hearing in the meane time how Sueno prepainfortunately his people had fped thus in Scot = reth a new are land at the bataple of Murthlake, in reuenge my to inuade scotland. thereof determined to innade the Scottes with two mightie navies, the one to be rigged in Enbis borfe, and amongst the fotemen Clayne out 20 gland, & to come forth of the river of Tames, & the other to be sente from Denmarke, one Ca= Camus apmus a Dane right expert in warlike knowlege, Pointed Capbeing appoynted to be governour of all the men of the Danes. of warre that thould come fro both thate parties.

The yeare next ensuying, both these fleetes ac= cording to comaundement & order given, arrined and mette togither within the mouth of the Saint Ebbes Forth neare to Saint Ebbes head.

Here Camus going about to lande his men, was kept off by the flout relifface of the Scots, there affembled for the came intent.

Camus then plucking op fayles, directed his courfe buto the Ide of Skeft, where riving at an anker for the space of one moneth, abiding the some prosperous winde, at legth when the same tame once about, he passed from thence buto the Redheapes, called in latine Rubrum promonednam, tipere landed his whole army, before the countrey coulde be gathered to reall him.

Candis beitic once landent got bim to the fiert hill and beholding the raines of the towns 50 of Montros, which afew peares before that bens deliroyed by the Dance, her relopced not a little for that his channee was to comea lande in tile leife lante place, where the Dalies hab earlt band quillyed their enumies, hoping of like lucke in this his enterpy feauto prefent y esevicion. A mile

After this to toke his lougrey thening Mine Camus margus, fparing to maner of indette that might be cheth through deniled: Cities, Cownes, billages, & Courdies, he cruelcie with all maner of other buildings publike and there in those dayes was of suche Arength, that it church of Bre- and thur the being right fayte and sumptuously chyn destroy- builde in ho nour of the trinitie (to whem it was dedicate) to be spoyled & so rased to the earth, that mus raging both against God i mā, was finally aduertized that king Walcolme was come to Dunoce with all the power of Scotland.

Then sovenly he twice the next way towards the sea side, coming the day next following unto a village called Balvzid, where he pitched downe his tentes. The same day, king Malcolme making all canic to the towne of Barre two little miles fro the place, where his enimies were encamped. In the morning he drew into the field, in purpose to taples, he called his nobles & captains togither, desiring them to consider how they should match in fight against prople blinded with vile auarice, living on the spoyle & pillage, got by theevery & not by any just warres: enimics not onely to the whom they lought buinfily to innade, without colnic hasteth halt possible to succour his subieus, and preserve King Mal-Danes.

Malcolmes o- giue them bataile. But befoze he arrayed his baration.

private were confunced with fire. At his coming to Brechyn, for that the callel were come thus against those enimies in defence of they; native countrey, appointed kndoubtedly The towne & might not be hastely wone, he caused the towne by God to reuenge the cruell injuries come by the Danes against his name and prople that profesfed the fame. They ought not then to measure force in number of fouldiers, but rather in manone flone was not left flanding byon an other. hod and valiancie of harte. Which these and the semblable emelties, Ca= 10

Canus likewise erhozted his people, not be Camus erhonfing many words, but yet pithie, defiring the to teth his Dans remember how it behoused them either to winne immortall farme by victoric, either els to die with miserie in an bencouth lande, by the hand of their most fierce and cruell enimies.

rious meaning to line by reif of other mennes

awdes, wheren they have no maner of propertie.

He willed them therefore, to remember how they

Herewith Malcoline envatagling his people, brought them forth strongly raunged in god order to enconter the Danes, which likewise apforewarde to the countrey fro the cruel outrage of the Danes, 20 proched towards him in god array of battell, his for that he had tried fundry times before y force of the enimics in divers collids & encouters. For The natural fuch is the nature of noble a valiat stomakes, the valiunt had noble enterprise and noble fes, the moze are they kindled in desire to flicine makes. their proves in famous aftes & worthy attents.

The armies hereupon on both fibes, fiercely rudhing togither, began the battell right cruell & A bloudy Christian faith, but also onto all innocet people, 30 terrible, continupng certaine houres with fuche tayle. bloudsted, that the river of Lochtee, ranne with a purple hue downe into the Almagne feas.

haning occasio to to bo, faue only bpon an iniu-

The fields also where they fought, though they werre full of fande (as the nature of the fople gi= neth, bet were they made moyll by the abounvance of bloude spilled in the same.

Many there were so earnestly bent to be renenged on the crimie, that after they had their ward upo the aductiaries weapo, till they might rlose with him, ensorcing their offernios powers to dispatch him also: so that divers were scene to fall to the ground together fast grasping one an other, 4 so immediatly both of them to die with: all fuch beening paired kindled they Harts, that Malcolme win thus were they wholy let on renenge. At length neth the field pet the honor of y field remayned w Malcolme.

Camus perceiuing the discoffture to light on Camucis his live, with a final copanic about him, thought flaire. to have escaped by flight buto p next moutains, but being purfued of his enimits, he may flapne by them ere he was got ij miles fro the place of the vataile. The place where he was flapuc, is deaths wound, they would runne theielues fores so named after him unto this day, a called Cames Kone, where is an Dbelike let ppin-memory of the thing, with his picture grauen, therein, and likewise of those that streethim. The principal sicar of Cannis was one Beith, a younggen Keither teiman of right hardy courage; whale fernice in punoced the vataple was very notable, in recompence honon wherof he was rewarded by Ik. Malcolme, with fundey lands and fayte pollections in Louthian.

The Historie of Scotlande.

his family faith Helfor Boetius)hath and doth continue in great honour amongst Scottishme even unto this day, and is decorated with the ofthe of the Marthalthip of Scotland, to the high renowing and fame thereof, amongst the chiefest perres of the realme.

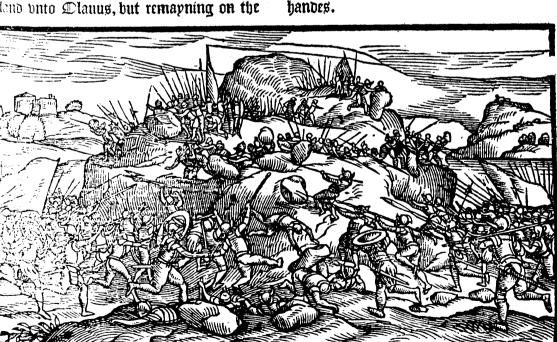

In other companie of the Danes fleing from rest this ouerthrow were flanne at Abirlemnon, not palt ini. nules from Brechyn, where is let bir a great stone og Dbeliske, grauen with certayne 10 tharacters of letters, to advertise them that passe that wares forth, of this flaughter of Danes there made by our worthy elders. The relique of the Danes that escaped with life from the fielde, haning certaine Scottillimen to therz gupdes corrupted w monie fled to they? thips, declaring to their fellowes what milhap had fortuned.

King Malcolme after he had obtarned this famous victorie (as before is lapde) at Barre, he wie caused the spoile of the field to be deuided amogit 20 his fouldiers according to the lawes of armes. and then caused the dead bodies of the Danes to be buried in the place where the fielde had bene fought, and the bodies of the Scottishme which were found dead, were conneped buto places of Christian buriall, and there buried with funerall obsequies in sunder churches & churchyardes.

There are seene many bones of the Danes in those places, where they were buried, there lying as it often chaunceth, being blowen from them.

The other Danes whiche escaped to their thips, pulled by layles to have palled into Mur= tarland buto Dlanus, but remayning on the feas the space of.iiij. dayes togither, tossed to and fro by confrary windes, at length by a streynes able cast winde, they were driven byon the coast of Buchquhan, and through mante of conucna= ble herbrough were in present daunger to have bene call away. At length after they had ridden at anker in the Frith there, to their great displea= fure along space, and finding no prosperous windes to departe from the those, for that they? vitaples began to faple them, they fet five hun= deed of their best and lusticst souldiers on land to fetch in some bottle of pray of catagle, therewith to relieve their huger & famine. They that were thus fent forth being perfectly appointed with armour and weavon, ranged abrode till they had got togither a great number of beaftes, with the whiche drawing towards their flippes, they were encountred by the way by Marnachus the Marnachus Thane of Buchquhane accompanied with the Thane of power of that countrey, whose force, when they Buchquhaue. faw how they were not well able to relift without some advantage of place, they got them by into an high cragge, where with fübling downe stones buon the Scottishmen as they mounted by towardes them, they caused them somewhat to stap, but at length through the earnest exhor= tation of Marnachus, the Scots (as people en= flamed with wood delire to be reuenged,)moun= ted the hill in despite of they renimies, though dis bare about groud euen onto this day, the fandes 30 uers of them were flayne in that askault. Those whiche wanne the height of the cragge bpon the Danes, made suche a cruell bataple with them, that there was not one Dane that escaped their handes.

Chis conflict was fought neare buto Gem= mer a village oz towne in Buchquhan, where in memorie thereof, lie many greate bones of the Sames to be feene, get euen bito thefe dayes. It Mould appeare by the same bones, that men in former time were of more huge bowke and stature, than they be at this present.

The other Danes which were on hip bozde, bnderstanding what had happened to their fellowes (bicause they returned not againe to the thipper)

reth the third time to muade

Canute bro-generall to come against

King Mal-

mination.

the Scottes.

ther vnto Sucno,appointed

Scotland.

The Historie of Scotlande.

finippes) to teme as the winde came aboute for their purpole, hopfed by fayles, and take they? courfe fweth right towardes Murraylande.

In the meane time king Sueno hearing of these overthrowes whiche his people had in such fort recepued at the Scottiffmens handes, as a prince of a right haulte courage, not lightly o= uercome with any aduerle fortune, made prepa-Sceno prepa- ration in all speedy wife to be reuenged, appointing his brother Canute, as then haning the ad= 10 minustration of Denmarke, to come from thence with a newe flecte and army against the Scots.

It is fayd that this Canute according to 02= ver prescribed him by his brother Sueno, landed first in Buchquhanc, and destroyed a great parte of that countrey by fire and twozde, in reuenge of the flaughter of his countrey men the Danes, whiche had bene there made lately before.

Malcolnic fore kindled in wrath by thele inhis power was greatly decayed, yet did hee alfemble an army with all speede he could deuise, a marched with the lame towardes the Danes, in purpose to stay them with often skirmisses and light encounters, but in nowife to icoparde with them in any pight field og generall bataile, for feare least if he had the ouerthrow, he thoulde not be able to furnill a new power for defence of his country, against the rage of the enimics.

for the space therfore of xv. dayes togither. there was often Kirmidling betwirt the parties. the which terme being expired, the Scots beholding so have murder of they? countrevmen and frendes, with the spoile of the fieldes, and destruation of the townes and villages, beenning and blasing on eche side before they faces, they come to king Malcolme, to effect him that he woulde The Scott graunt them licence to fight with theyr enimies, you ther protesting plaintly, that if he would not consent king, for lithereto, they woulde give batayle at their owne cencero field. chopce. Malcolme perceiving pernell mindes of his people to encounter their enimies in playne ficloe, and that he might no longer protraste the time, he graunted they? petition, and therewith beseching them to remember their honors and ducties: incontinently the onlet was given with The onlet great hatred and malice on exther parte, so that given. turies, though through cotinuance of the warres 20 moste egerly continuyng in fight a long time, they enforced themselves to rid eche other out of lpfe, so that all the nobles wel neare on both sides were flayne, the name of victorie rather, than the wan the victorie it selfe remayning with the Scots, who of victories were so feeble and fainte with long fight and rather than flaughter, that in the end of the battell they were ctoric it not able to pursue those sew of the Wanes, which escaping with life fledde faintly out of the fielde.

And so for that night, which followed the day of this bloudic vatarle, they longed here and there in severall places, at adventure aswell as they might.

On the mozow after, when it was bnder= stode on bothe parties, what losse they had su= starned, their mindes were converted rather to peace than to renewe batagle, bicause they were Peace conclu- not of power longer to maintaine it. Wherbyon ded for want by inediation of fuch as twke byon them to treat a peace, the fame was concluded with these ar-

First that the Danes Coulor departe out of The article Murrayland, Buthquhan, aul other the bounds berwirt of Scotland.

That the warres shoulde clearely cease bes mea. twist the Danes and Scottiffmen, during the naturall lines of Sueno and Malcolme, of eyther of them.

That neither of those two nations thouse arde of in any wife supporte the others enimies.

That the fielde where the last batayle was fought, flould be hallowed for Christian burial, within the whiche, the Danes that were flague The Historie of Scotlande.

in the same batagle, should be buried, a churche to be builte there, and landes appointed forth for the maintenance of priefts, to celebrate there according to the order of the Christian religió then ried by both the people, for the Danes lately be= fore that season had also recepued the faith.

This peace being ratefied by the folene othes of both the kings Sueno and Malcolme, Canuce with his Danes religning by the possession rarland, Buchquhan, oz els where within any parte of the Scottill) dominions, got him to his tur-fleete, t departed with the same home into Den=

King Malcolme having thus restored his countrey but o ioyfull peace, thought nothing to and as to performe the articles of the agreemet accorded betwirt him and the Danes, and ther= fore caused a Churche to be builded in the place appointed, dedicating the same in honour of 5. 20 Clanus patrone of Denmarke and Pozwap, to fignific buto fuch as came after. that funder no= bles of the Danes lay buried in that Church. In memory hereof, the landes that were given to the same Churche, are called even yet unto these the dance Crowdan, which lignifieth as much as if re should say, The slaughter of Dancs.

The Church which was firste builded there. chauncing as often happeneth in those parties. in place not farre off, having a more commodious lite.

Sunder of the bones of them that were bu= ned in this place, being left bare by reason that the landes were blowen away besides them. He= no: Boctius the wapter of the Scottish chaonis cle, behelde in the peare. 1521. Whiche scemed more lyke buto Giants bones, than to menne of common stature (as he anoncheth) whereby it much greater flature and quantitie of bodie, than any that are to be found in these our dayes.

9-alcolnic being thus delivered of his eni= de pay- mics the Danes, caused publike prayers generally to be made throughout the realme, in rendring thanks to almightie God, that it had pleato him to deliner his people from the troubles of warre. He twke ofder also, that churches shoulde be reparted, which by the enimies in time of the marres had bene destroped.

Ind further he caused the administratio of the lames and holesome ordinaunces of the realme to be view and put in practile, according to the due forme of the fame, which many yeares afore could have no place, by reason of the warres.

De caused an assemble of all the estates of his realme, to be called at Bertha, a castell in those dayes standing not farre from the place where the towns of Perth nows flandeth. In whiche connention were many things enaffed, both for the letting fouth of Goddes honour and the weale of the realine, whereby Malcoline wanne much prayle amonalt his subjectes, to the eter= nall memorie of his name.

After this, supposing it most ehonorable to aduaunce the blond of fuch as had ferued well in the laste warres, or had their fathers or other of fuch holdes and places, as they held in Mur- 10 frendes flaine in the fame, he called a parliament A parliament at Scone, in the whiche cauling partition to be at Scone. made of the realme, by deuiding it into Baron = Division of nies, he bestowed the same amongst the nobles to Baronnies. according to the qualitie of every one his me= rites, referring in maner nothing to the mainte= nance of the crowne, common entries onely er= cepted, with the mountagne wherein the marble chaire flow, and a fewe other possessions whiche he purposed to give buto churches and chapels.

The nobles on the other parte, to the ende the king might have sufficient wherewith to maintayne his royall estate, graunted unto him and The wardship his successours for euer, the custodic and wards of heyres Thip of they? hepres, if they chaunced to die leas graunted to uing them bnder the age of. rrj. yeares: and in the king. the meane time till the same herzes came to the fand age, they agreed that the king & his fuccelfours floulde enion the vie and profites of they? landes, whether they were men or women, and to be ourreast with sandes, an other was erested 30 when they came to the age of . rrj. yeares, that then they Gould enter into the pollection of their landes, veciding buto him or his fuccessours one yeares rent in name of a reliefe, and if they chanced not to be maried befoze their fathers deceaste, Mariage of the also Could they marie at the kings appoint= ment, or els compounde with him for the same.

Thus ended the varliament for that season with great iop and comforte on eche hande, for that the king had Gewed suche liberall bounte= thouse appeare, that men in olde time were of 40 vulnelle towardes his Barones, and they no less mindefull of their ducties had declared suche beneuolent hartes, as appeared in that they? free and large gifte graunted in forme and maner as before is expressed.

Perther did Malcolnie forget the home. whiche he made at Murthlake, when he was in daunger to have recepued the overtheou at the handes of the Danes, for according to the same vowe, he caused a church to be buylt in the same 50 place, creding a Bilhous fee there, and endowed it with the fandes and possessions of these three Thesea of places, Hurthlake, Cleonuth, and Dumneth, Murthlake, otherwise A. with all Ecclesiasticall invisitions and tithes byrden. apperteyning thereto.

The Billions that lat in this fee, were called the Billiops of Murthlake till the dayes ofking Dauid the first, who chaunging the name, caufed them to be called the Bishops of Abradene, of power to maintayne baThe boke called Rogia

maiest.ss.

augmstring the see with sundry fagge reuenewes to the better mayntenance thereof.

Malcolme thus having purchased reste from further troubles of warre gouerned the realme a certain time after in goo order of iustice, & cau= · fed a boke to be set forth, called Regiam maiestatem, contegning the lawes t ordinances, wherby the realme Moulde be gouerned: and assigning forth in the same what fees also should be given onto the Chauncellour, Secretarie, Constable, 10 Mershall, Chamberlayne, Justice, Treasozer, Register, Comptroller, a other the officers of his house. Such princely doings and noble vertues were found in this Malcolnie for a scason, that if the same had continued with him in his later age, there had neuer reggned any king in Scotland, that might have bene thought to have paffed him in worthy fame:neuertheleffe his excellent qualities were stayned at length by that re-Malcoine prochfull vice of vile anarice. For as it officients wareth an happeneth, couetousnesse and age layde holde on Coucrouse him bothe at once. He then beganne to repent in and 192 are that he had bene so liberall in giving away his landes to his Barones, and to recourt the same agapne, hee surmised fayned mater by buttue suggestions against divers of the chiefest Pobles, putting fome to death and baniflying other, that he might by this meanes entoy they? lands Malcolmer and godes as confiscate to the crowne for they, cruelie to supposed offences.

The nobles having great indignation at such crueltic vico by the king against them and they? Image, and that upon no infle causes, but onely The conspira- upon forged deutles, they conspired in lundry cie of the toot- meetings secretely appointed amongst them, to

At length he chaunced to have some inchling whereabout they went, and voubting to fall into their handes, fled for lauegarde of his lyfe vn= to Flammis, where diners of the conspiratours were brought into his lodging, by some of his owne householde servantes, and there sew him in renenge of their freendes, whom he before had wrongfully put to death. These murtherers with their complices incontinently fled with all speede possible to auopde further douger for this 50 an abundant streame of water, that it bare &= their auf, but missing their way, for & the ground was quite courred as then with snowe, they fi= nally came to the Loch of Fortage, which was the fame time frofen ouer. They therefoge thinking to passe ouer it, when they came into the The murthe- midft, the The brake under the, so that linking in, sers drowned. they were finally drowned. Dowbeit their bodies were afterwards drawe forth of the Loche with diagges, and dismembred, and the heads and quarters were lente onto divers townes of the realme, and there hung by for a lignification of their wiched treason.

This was the ende of king Malcoline in the finde some meanes to dispatch him out of life. 40 erry, yeare of his reggne, if ye recken from the ocath of Constantine, oz.xxv. after the veath of 31. His Grime, and after the incarnation of our faujour 1034. peares. He was buried in Colmekill with 1040. his auncetours.

In this featon were feene many wonders and ftraunge fightes in Albion. En Chaiftmas Straunge day there was an earthquake, and a great rifte of the earth made therewith in the middelf of Strenclyng towne, out of the which issued such way the next woo that was adiouning unto the rener of Forth.

In the formmer the sea role higher, and slowro further into the land, than euer had bene feene at any other time.

On miolonier day whiche is the fealt day of Saint John Baptist, there was inchea vehement froste, that the cozne and other fruytes of

The Historie of Scotlande. the earth were blasted and killed, so that theres pron followed a great dearth in al the countrep. After Malcolme suc Sceeded his Pephew Duncan, the come of pis doughter Beatrice: for Malcolme had two daughters, one which mas this Beatrice, be= onto one Abbanath Crinen, a man of great nobilitie, and Thane of the Ales and well partes of Scotlande, bare of that mariage the forelago Duncan : The other called Doada, was maried bnto Syncll the Thane of Blammis, by whom the had iffue one Makbeth a valiant getleman, and one that if he had not bene somewhat cruell of nature, might hane bene thought most worthie the gouernmet 20 woundes amongst them. Pet escaping thep? of a realme. In the other parte, Duncan was fo fofte and gentle of nature, that the people wiffer the inclinations a maners of these two cousines to have bene so tempered and enterchaungeably bestomed betwirt them, that where the one had to much of clemecie, and the other of crueltie, the meane vertue betwirt these two extremities, night have repaned by indifferent particion in them bothe, so Moulde Duncan haue proued a

The beginning of Dundanes reigen was bery quiet a peaceable, without any news trous ble, but after it was percepued how negligent he was in puniffing offenders, many miliuled perfour twice occasion thereof to trouble the peace and quict state of the common wealth, by seditious commotions whiche fielde bad there be= ginnings in this wife.

Banquho the Thane of Lochquhaber, of who Banguho ing given in mariage to the house of the Stewardes is discended, the Thancof whiche by order of lynage hath name for a long Lochqubaber.
The house of time enioned the crowne of Scotlande, even till the Stewards. these our dayes, as he gathered the finaunces due to the king, and further punished somewhat Marpely suche as were notozious offenders, being affayled by a number of rebelles inhabiting A mutenie 4in that countrey, and spoyled of the money and people of all other things, had muche ado to get away Lochquhaber. with life after he had recepued funden grieuous handes after he was consewhat recoursed of his hurtes and was able to ride, he repayzed to the courte, where making his complaint to the king in most carnell wife, he purchased at length that the offenders were sente for by a Sergeant at armes, to appeare to make auntwere buto fuche mater as Moulde be lapde to they? charae, but they augmenting they? mischeeuous ace with a more wicked deede, after they had milused the A sergeant as worthy king, and Makbeth an excellent cap- 30 mellenger with fundry kindes of reproches, they armes, flayne finally flew him also.

by the rebels.

Then doubting not but for luche contempknous demeanour against the kings regall aus thozitie, they Mouloe be inuaded with all the power the king coulde make, Makdowalde one of great estimation amongst them making field a confederacie with his nearest frendes and kinsmen, twke byon him to be chiefe captagne of all inche rebelles, as wonlde stande against the king, in maintenance of they? grienous offenceslately comitted against him. Many flanderous wordes allo, e rayling taunts this Makdowald bttered against his prince, calling him a faynt harted milkelop, more meete to governe a lost of tole monkes in fome cloyfter, than to have o rule with nobilitie -itM frange coline.

> Milcolme figurat Gla

Makdowald

dilcomfiteth

warlike af-

fayres.

the kings

power.

The Historie of Scotlande.

of suche by fant and hardy men of warre as the Scotteng Tre.

He vito also suche subtile perswations and forged allurements, that in a finall time he had got togither a mightie power of men: foz out of the westerne Hoes, there came unto him a great multitude of people, offering themselves to assist him in that rebellious quarell, and out of Ireland in hope of the spoyle came no small nuber of Kernes & Balloglasses offering gladly to serve 10 hnder him, whither it thoulde please him to lead them. Makoowalo thus having a mightie puplfaunce about him, encountred with suche of the kings people as were let against him into Lochauhabir, and discomfitting them, by fine force toke they? captaine Malcolme, and after the end of the bataple smote of his head.

This overtheow beyng notified to the king, The smal skil of the king in did put him in wonderfull feare, by reason of his small Mill in warlyke affayzes. Calling therfore 20 length when he saw how he coulde neyther des his nobles to a councell, willed them of their belt aduife for the subduing of Makdowald and other the revelles.

Here in fundzy heades as it euer happeneth) being fundey opinions, whiche they bettered accozding to enery man his skill, at length Makbeth weaking muche against the kings foltnesse. e ouer muche flacknesse in punishing offenders, Mikheih whereby they had such time to assemble togither, ter. he promised norwithstanding, if the charge were committed buto him and to Banquho, lo to 02per the mater, that the revelles should be shortly banquished and quite put downe, and that not so much as one of them floulde be founde to make relistance within the countrep.

And even so carre it to passe: for being sente Makbech forth with a newe power, at his entring into Banquho Lochquhaber, the same of his coming put yem: the rebell. mies in suche feare, that a great number of them stale secretely away from they captaine Mak. The red toward, who neverthelesse ensorted thereto, gave captaine. bataple buto Makbeth, with the residue whiche remained with him, but being overcome and fleing for refuge into a castell (within the whiche hus wofe and cholden were enclosed,) at fend the hold any longer against his enimies, nor pet upon furrender be suffered to depart with lyfe faued, he first slew his wife & children, and lastly Makedow himselfe, least if he had yeelded simply, he shoulde and chil have bene executed in most cruell wife for an ex- and last ample to other.

felfe.

Makbeth entring into the castel by the gates, as then fet open, founde the carkale of Makdo= wald lying dead there amongst the residue of the Makdowalder no prece of his cruell nature with that pitifull 50 lp grudge towards him, calling him a conenant fland of fight, he caused the head to be cut off, and set bud Makbeths cru- a poles ende, « lo lent it as a present to the king who as there lay at Bertha.

The headlesse trunke he commaunded to be hong by byő an high papte of gallowes. Them of the Welterne Fles, luying for pardon in that they had apped Makdoivald in his trayterous enterpayle, he fined at great fummes of money: and those whom he toke in Lochquhabir, being come thither to beare armure agaynst the king. be put to execution.

Herebpon the Fland nien concepued a dead-Mikbed breaker, a bloudy tyrant, and a cruell muribere of them whom the kings mercie had parboned. With whiche reprochfull wordes spakbethbe ing kindled in weathfull gre against them, had palled ouer with an army into the Ifles, to have taken reuenge byon them for they? liberall talkt, had he not bene other wayes per twaded by forus of his frendes, and partely pacified by giftes preThe Historie of Scotlande.

times but o bin on the behalfe of the Jlandmen, feeling to anoyde his displeasure.

Chus was inflict and lawe restored againe to the old accustomed course by the diligent meanes of Makbeth. Immediatly wherevpon worde came that Sueno king of Porway was arrived in Fyse with a puylant army to subone the whole realme of Scotland.

But here to the intent it may be the better what rouch from whence he discended.

That Sueno whiche (as ye have heard) conquered the realme of England, being also king of Benmarke and Pozway had.iij. fonnes, Ha= rold, Sueno, & Canute, the fielle he ogdeyned to be king of England, the .ij .king of Pozway, and the third king of Denmarke.

parolde enjoyed not the same donlinion of England palling.iij.yeares after his fathers de= whom his father Sueno had chaled into Pozmandic. Holwbeit pet the same Etheldzed kept not long the kingdome in peace, for Canute king of Denmarke to reuenge his brothers beath, landed in England with a mighty holte, and flearing Etheldzed, recovered the kingdome to the vie of the Danes, but pet one Comond fonne to the forelayde Etheldred, furnamed 3. Edmund Ironronside, maynteyned the warre agaynst Canute fide. for a feason, till at length by bothe theyr con- This partely fentes, they agreed to fight a combat fingularly agreeth with man to man, so to trie the mater betwirt them, our wryters. who should reigne as king over the Englishme.

An this fight when they had continued a long space, and spewed right notable profes of they? percepued, what this Sueno was I will some 10 manhod: Edmund (layth Canute) sithe it hath Canutes words pleased almighty God, y thou shoulds thus trie rouside. the force of my hande without hurte or wound, I thinke it be likewise his pleasure, that thou Mouldest emor parte of the realme, go to therefore, I recepue thee as partener with me in the kingdome, so that (if thou be so contented) let by divide the kingdome betwirte vs without any more contention.

Comund gladly accepted this condition of tealle, but was flaine by Etheldzed or Egelred, 20 agreement, supposing it better to haue halfe the kingdome, than to stande to the doubtfull triall of losing the whole, for he had recepued a wound at Canutes handes, though Canute buderstwde not so muche: agains he foresaw that occasion hereafter might be offered, whereby he mighte without all trouble come to eniop the whole.

So herevyon eyther of them lept beside they? weried horses in that fierce and earnest fight.and embracing ech other became good frendes, in de= unding the realine according to the above men= gland that lieth ouer against Fraunce, was alligued buto Canute, a the other that is the north partes buto Edmund. In the meane time Em= mathewife of Ethelozed, with hyz two sonnes whiche flice had by the came Ethelozed) Alured and Edward, fled ouer into Pozmandie, doubting least this cocorde betwirt Canute and Comund fould turne smally to hyz advauncemet.

But now touching the arrivall of Sucno the Porwaygian king in ffpfc, as before is exprel= fed, re thall binderstand, that the pretence of his comming was to revenge the flaughter of his cioned mocion of Canute. That parte of En= 50 bucle Camus and other of the Danishe nation flavne at Barre, Crowdane, and Gemmer.

The crueltie of this Sueno was luche, that The crueltie he neyther spared man, woman, not childe, of of Norway. what age, condition or degree so ever they were, whereof when king Duncane was certified, hee fct all flouthfull and lingering delayes aparts, Duncane beand began to affemble an army in moste spread sturren him selfe in affemwife, like a right valiant Captagne: for often= bling an army, times

head lent to

army deuided into three ba-

Sueno van-quisheth the

Scottes.

times it happeneth, that a dull cowarde, and flouthfull person constrayned by necessitie, becometh right hardie and active. Therefoze when his inhole power was come togither, he denided The scouishe the same into three batayles. The firste was led by Wakbeth, the seconde by Banquho, and the king himselfe gouerned in the mapne bataple or middlewarde, wherein were appoputed to attende his person the most e parte of all the residue of the Scottille nobilitie.

The army of Scottishmen berng thus 02= dered, came buto Culros, where encountring with the enimies, after a fore and eruell foughten batagle, Sueno remayned vistorious, and Malcolnie with his Scottes discomfited. How= beit the Danes were lo broken by this batayle, that they were not able to make long chale on they enimies, but kepte themselves all night in

On the morrow when the fieldes were dil= concred, and that it was percepued how no enimics were to be founde abroade, they gathered the spoyle, whiche they denided amongst them, according to the lawe of armes.

Sucnoes come maundement to spare fire &

Then was it olderned by commaundement of Sucno, that no Souldier Moulde hurte either man, woman, or childe, excepte suche as were founde with weapon in hande ready to make re= 30 fistance, for he hoped now to conquere the realme without further bloudlied.

Bertha.

geth king Malcoline.

Duncare fled But when knowledge was giut how Dunto the castel of cauc was sico to the castell of Bertha, and that Wakbeth was gathering a new power to with= stand the incursions of the Danes, Sueno railed his tentes and comming to the land castell lande a strong siege rounde about it. Duncane seyng himselfethus environned by his enimics, sent a Wakbeth, commanning him to abide at Inche cuthill, till her hearde from him some other

In the meane time Duncane fell in fayned Fayned trea- confunication with Sueno as though he would have recloed up the Castell into his handes bn= der certaine conditions, and this did he to drine time, and to put his enimies out of all suspition of any enterpayle ment against them, till all things were brought to passe that might serue so and lie in the same place euen buto these dayes, rage of win for the vurpole.

At length when they were fallen at a poynt for rendring by the holde, Duncane offered to fende fouth of the castell into the campe greate provision of vitagles to refresh the army, whiche offer was gladly accepted of the Danes for that they had bene in greate penurie of luttenaunce many dayes before.

The Scots herebpon twee the innce of Me= Spyced and tilwort beries, a mixed the same in they, ale and the Danes the Danes and confessioned in bread, sending it thus spiced and confessioned in great abundance unto their enimics.

They rejoyling that they had got meate and deinke sufficient to satisfic they? beilies, fell to each ting and drinking after such greedy wife, that it fremed they strone who might denoure & smallow by most till the operation of the beries such 10 in suche sorte through all the partes of their bo= dies, that they were in the ende brought into a The Danes fall dead fleepe, that in maner it was hoposible drinke, fall deads to amake them.

Then forthwith Duncane fent bnto Wakboth, commaunding him with all diligence to come and let opon the enimies, being in easte pointe to be ouercome.

Makbeth making no belay came with his Makbeth they entinies, but kepte themselves all night in viver of batagle, for doubte least y scots assents people to the place, where his enimies were lode sayleth the bling togither agains, might have set upon them 20 place, where his enimies were lode sayleth the bling togither agains, might have set upon them 20 place, where his enimies were lode sayleth the bling togither agains, might have set upon them 20 place, where his enimies were lode sayleth the bling togither agains, might have set upon them 20 place, where his enimies were lode sayleth the bling togither agains, might have set upon them 20 place, where his enimies were lode sayleth the bling togither agains, might have set upon them 20 place, where his enimies were lode sayleth the bling togither agains, might have set upon them 20 place, where his enimies were lode sayleth the bling togither agains, might have set upon them 20 place, where his enimies were lode sayleth the bling togither agains, might have set upon them 20 place, being the campe, and made such as a superior of the place, where his enimies were lode sayleth the campe, and made such as a superior of the place, where his enimies were lode sayleth the campe, and made such as a superior of the place, where his enimies were lode sayleth the campe, and made such as a superior of the place, where his enimies were lode sayleth the campe, and made such as a superior of the place, where his enimies were lode sayleth the place, where his enimies were lode sayleth the place, where his enimies were lode sayleth the sayleth the campe, and made such as a superior of the place, where his enimies were lode sayleth the campe, and made such as a superior of the place, where his enimies were lode sayleth the campe, and made such as a superior of the place, where his enimies were lode sayleth the sayleth the campe, and made such as a superior of the place, which is a superior of the place, which is a superior of the place, which is a superior of the sayleth the sayleth the sayleth the sayleth the sayleth the without any relissance, that it was a wonderfull with dial mater to behold, for the Danes were to heavy of leepe. fleepe, that the most parte of them were flayne & neuer Ayred: other that were awakened eyther by the norse or otherwayes swith, were so ama-3ed and dyssie headed boon their wakening, that they were not able to make any desence, so that The slaug of the whole numbers there escaped no moe but of Dance. onely Sueno himselfe and tenne other persons, by whose help he got to his thippes lying at robe seen will in the mouth of Tap.

The most parte of the maryners, when they heard what plentie of meate and drinke the Scottes had fente buto the campe, came from the sea thyther to bee partakers thereof, and so were flanne amongst they tellowes: by meanes whereof when Sueno percepued howe through lacke of margners he shoulde not be able to con- Sueno see himselse thus emironned by his enimics, sent a lacke of margners he monito not de avient with one secrete message by councell of Banquho ento 40 nep away his name, her furnished one shippe leaving the throughly with luche as were lefte, and in the fidue of hi same sapled backe into Porway, curling the nauie behi tyme that hee let forewarde on this infortunate

The other Mivnes whiche hee lefte behinde him within thece dayes after his departure from thence, were tolled to togyther by bio- The flecte lence of an East winde, that beating and ruse the Norwald stage one against an other they suncke there, by rebeme to the greate daunger of other suche Chippes as come on that coaste, foz being couered with the floudde when the tide commes, at the ebbyng as gaine of the fame, fome parte of them appeare a= boue water.

The place where & Danish vellels were thus loft, is get cleped Deownelow fandes. This 0= Drownelon uertheow receined in maner afozesaid by Sueno, landes

mas eight displeasant to him and his people, as shoulde appears in that it was a custome many reares after, that no Knightes were made in : Portuar, excepte they were firste fwozne to reuning the flanghter of they? countreymen and frendes thus flayne in Scotland.

The Scottes having wonne so notable a milow, after they had gathered and divided the from of the fields, caused tolenne processions to to be given to almightie God, that had fent them fo lavie a day ouer their enimies.

But whyleit the people were thus at they? mostilious, worde was brought that a newe flecte of Danes was arrived at Kingcozne, lent thether by Canute king of England in reuenge of his brothers Sucnoes overthrow.

Corelist these enimies, whiche were already landed, and buffe in spoiling the countrep, Mak= bethand Banquho were sente with the kings 20 and authoritie, who having with them a convenient power, encountred the enimies, slewe parte of them, and chased the other to their hippes. They that escaped and got once to they? Mippes, obtapned of Makbeth for a great fumme of golde, that fuche of they? freendes as were flaine at this laft bickering might be buried in Saint Colmes Inche. In memorie whereof, many olde Sepultures are pet in the sappe Inche, there to be teene granen with the armes of the Danes, as 30 shall beking of Scotland.

the maner of burying noble men still is and here= tofoze hath bene vled.

I peace was also concluded at the same time A peace conbetwirte the Danes and Scottishmen, ratified twirt Scotter as some have my ten in this wife. That from and Danes. thence fourth the Danes Houlde never come into Scotlande to make any warres against the Scottes by any maner of meanes.

And these were the warres that Duncane be made in all places of the realme, and thankes to had with forragne enimies in the ceventh yeare of his renanc.

> Shortly after happened a straunge and bn= couth monder, whiche afterwarde was the cause of muche trouble in the realme of Scotlande as pe wall after heare. It fortuned as Wakbeth & Banquho journeped towarde Fores, where the king as then lap, they went sporting by the way togither without other companie, saue only the= sclues, passing through the wodes and fieldes, when sodenly in the middes of a laude, there met them.iij. women in straunge & ferly apparell, refembling creatures of an elder worlde, whom when they attentively behelve, wondering much at the light. The first of them spake & say de: All The prophesie hayle Makbeth Thane of Blammis (for he had of three wome lately entred into that dignitic and office by the be the weird fi-Death of his father Synel.) The .ii .of them laid: fters or feirics. Haple Makbeth Thane of Cawder: but the third layde: All Hayle Wakbeth that hereafter buto me, where as to my fellow here, belies highe offices, pre alligne also the kingbonie, appointring forth nothing for me at all? Pes fapth the fielle of them, wee promile areater benefites buto thee, than unto him, for he hall reggneen in orede, but with an buluckie ende a nepther thall he leave any illne behinds him to faccetde

Then Banquho, what maner of women so in his place, where contrarily thou in verde filale (faith he) are you, that feetie so litle favourable that reporte of all, but of they those froil he had ne dwhiche (half) conterns the lacetiffe kingdome by long ozder of continued differet. Perswith othe forelappe momen handly dimmediatly out of they fight 115 of This fender control at the fieft A thing, to but fome vayne fantalistell Huffantby Walt- Wonder as, beth and Banquho-in formucht that Bank .81! quipo aboutal sail speciment in tells king of Baugaho the Scotland, and Makbeth againe would call him father of many in sporte likewise, the father of many kings. But afterwards the common opinion was, that these women were eyther the weird fillers, that is (as pe would far p Godoeffes of vellime, or els some Dimphes of Feiries, endewed with knowledge of prophetie by their Picromanticall science, bi= cause every thing came to passe as they had Cawder condemned of treason. Makbeth made by Thane of Cawder.

The Thane of for Mortly after, the Thane of Camber being 10 condemned at Fores of treason against the king committed, his landes, linings and offices were giuen of the kings liberalitie unto Makbeth.

The same night after, at supper Banquho iested with him and savoe, now Wakbeth thou haste obtained those things which the two for= mer listers prophesied, there remayneth onely for thee to purchase that which the third sayd should come to palle.

Makbeth des

unteth how he in his minde, began euen then to deuise howe he the kingdom, mighte attayne to the kingdome: but yet hee thought with himselfe that he must tary a time, whiche Mouloe aduaunce him thereto (by the dinine providence) as it had come to patte in his foziner preferment. But Mortely after it chaunced that king

Mateoline pzince of Cumberlande, as it were

The daughter of Syward erle Duncane hatting two fonnes by his wife which was the vaughter of Sywarde Carle of Pozto king Dun- thumberland, he made the elder of them cleped 10 dome, immediatly after his deceasse.

Makbeth foze troubled herewith, for that he fame by this meanes his hope loze hindered. (where by the olde lawes of the realme, the ordinance was, that if he that Moulde succeede were not of able age to take the charge byon himselfe. he that was nexte of bloud onto him, floulde be admitted) he beganne to take counfell howe he diek which the might viurpe the kingdome by force, having a way he instequarell so to do (as he twke the mater,) for take the that Duncane did what in him lay to defrande dome by him of all maner of title and clapme, whiche hee mighte in tyme to come, pretende unto the crosmue.

The wordes of the three weird lifters also, Prophetical (of whome before ye have heard) greatly encou- wolwfull raged him herebuto, but specially his wife lay comples. fore upon him to attempt the thing, as the that was very ambitious bernning in buquenchable Women Wilherevpon Makbeth revoluing the thing 20 desire to beare the name of a Ducene.

At length therefore communicating his purposed intent with his trustic frendes, amongst whom Banquho was the chiefest, opon considence of they? promised ayde, he sewe the king Makbeilia at Envernes, (oz as some say at Botgosvane,) in eth king i the.vi.peare of his repgne.

Then having a companie about him of luch as he had made privile to his enterpryce, he caufed himselfe to be proclaymed king, and swith- Makbeil with went buto Scone, where by common con- peth the fent, he recepued the inuesture of the kingdome crowne. according to the accustomed maner.

The vooir of Duncane was firite conucyed buto Marne, and there buried in kingly wife, but afterwardes it was remoued and tonueged Duncanes bu- onto Colmekill, and there layo in a sepulture amongst his preceediours in the years after the 1046.H.B. bitth of our Sauleur, 1040.

Malcolnie Cammore and Donald Bape

the formes of king Duncane, forfeste of these Mal lines (whiche they might well known in Mathath Donald would feeke to bring to end for his more fur 60 Acemio firmatio in the altate) fled into Gubriel wiere berland Malcolme remained til time that . Canard & forme of king Etheloged recovered the dominion of England from the Danish power, the handle

The Historie of Scotlande.

Edward reception Malcoline by way of moste freendly entertaynement, but Donald passed o= ucrinto Ireland, where he was tenderly cheri= fled by the king of that lande.

Bakbeth after the departure thus of Duncanes sonnes vsed great liberalitie towardes the nobles of the realme, thereby to winne their fanour, t when he law that no mã went about to trouble him, he fet his whole intention to maingash du-tayne inflice, and to punishe all enormities and abules, whiche had chaunced through the feeble and flouthfull administration of Duncane: and to being his purpose the better to passe without any trouble oz great bufinelle, be deuised a subtill wile to bring al offenders and milooers buto in= flice, foliciting fundzie of his liege people with high rewardes, to chalenge and appeale suche as most oppicsico the commons, to come at a day and place appointed, to fight finguler combates within Barriers, in triall of their acculations.

When these theenes, barrettours, & other ops pressours of the innocent people were come to darreique batell in this maner of wile (as faid is) they were streight wayes apprehended by armed Streight iumen & truffed by in halters on gibets, according fice. as they had justly deserved. The relidue of mildoers y were left, were punished a tamed in such fort, that many yeares after all theft ereiffings were litle heard of, the people enjoying the blitte= full benefite of god peace and tranquillitie.

Makbeth flewing himselse thus a mollidiket gent punisher of all injuries and wrongs attempted by any milozdered persons within his. realine, was accompted the fure defence & buck= ler of innocent people : and hereto be also applied his whole endeuour, to cause your men to er = 40 not be compelled to answere before a temporall the that have effect themselves in horthogram orders. ercise themselues in bertuous maners, and men of the Churche to attende their divine service, according to they 2 bocations. And the continue to the appealed the troublesome state of Balloway, and flewe one Makaill a tyraunt, who had many yeares before valled nothing of the regall 59 authoritie or power. To be briefe, such were the worthy boings and princely airs of this Makbeth in the administration of the realme, that if he had attaphed therebuto by rightfull meanes, and continued in byzightnelle of justice as he began, till the ende of his repane, he might well have bene numbred amonalt the molte noble princes that any where had reggned.

De caused to be flaine sunden Thanes as of-Cathnes, Sutherland, Stranguerne, and Ros, bicause through the and their seditious attents, much trouble dayly role in the realme.

De made many holesome lawes a flatutes Lawes made for the publike weale of his subjectes, divers of by king Make the whiche I have here fet forth, according as I finde them in Bedoz Boetius.

He that is within orders of the churche, final Liberties of indge, but he remitted to his ordinarie. To some

The teth parte of all fruytes that encreale on Tythes to be the ground, thathe given to the churche, that Gen payde to the churche. the ground tupic state of the characters of the of the church by the space of one mhole years, cog: temning to be reconciled all all be reputed anis. mie to the comon weale: and if he perseuer with, indurate minds the space of two yeares all his godes shalbe fortayted. De y resepueth the other, The order of of knighthwo, thall take an othe to befond ladies, knighthood virging midowes, grobans, e p. cominaltie. Ind. he b is made king, final be Coorne in the famblagit ble maner. The cloeft vaughter fhall inberite bir Elden daughfathers landes, as well as the elbest count should sees. if the father leave no sonne behinde him. Imif any moman marie with the lots of the fople, the shall lose hir heritage.

The kings gifte.

Do man Mall enior any landes, rentes, offi= ces, or other possessions, but onely by gifte and maunt of the king.

Pooffice Hall goby inheritaunce, but shall No offices to tance.

go by inheri- ftill remayne at the kings free disposition, as that stande with his pleasure to assigne it. Poman hall lit as judge in any tempozall

Ludges. courte without the kings commission authori=

3 ing him thereto. fhall passein the kings name.

Reteynours.

He that is retarned or becommeth a fwozne mā to any other person saue only to y king, shall lose his life for it, a cuery man shall be bounde to defend the king against all other creatures.

He that rapleth the kings liege people, shall Rayfours of the kings peo-ple, or volaw-full assembles. that assemble togither by his procurement.

He that atteocth any man to the church, mar= Wayters vpo ket, or to any other publike assemble, as a retay = 20 had ministred to his predecessour. other men. nour shall suffer death, except he have living at his hands, on whom he so attendeth.

Keepingof

A horse kept by any of the commons or husbandmen to any other ble than for tillage and laboring of the earth, Halbe forfapted to the king by escheate.

Counterfayte fooles, with minstrels an tuch lyke.

Counterfepte foles, minstrels, ielters, and thele kinde of juglers, with such like idle persons, that range absode in the countrey, having no somescience or craste to get their living, if they refule to to do, they had be drawen like horses in the plough and harrowes.

Possession of landes.

Dowrle of wicks.

Though the some chaunce to be put in pol= fession of his fathers lande by the kings licence, vuring the life of his father, pet thall the same landes be farfapted to the king if his father be afterwardes connided of treason committed as gainst the kings person.

Lorde or Baron (though thee have no issue by herificall pet have the thirde parte of his landes after his decease and the remnaunt shall go to his herres.

Mariage of All maner of Loides and great Barons, that Lordes and not contract matrintony with other, butter paine Barons. of death, specially if they alandes and rownes lie neare touther. All armour and weapon borne to other ef-Bearing of arfest than in vesence of the king and realme in so time of warres, Malbe confilcate to the kings ble, which all other mourable godes of the partic that perein offenbeth.

Sucheas be appointed gouernours of as I limites, where their charges lie, any lads or polfellions, that lofe both the land possessions a nioner, whiche they have payde for the fame.

may tal their captaines,) that bure within those Captaynes.

And if any of the layde captaines or coursnours mary their fonnes of daughters buto any maner of person that dwelleth within the bonds of they roumes, they thall lole their office, nepther Mall it be lawfull for any of they? sonnes or coperceners to occupie the same office.

These and the like commendable lawes, Makbethes These and the next committee counterfage. ning the realme for the space of tenne yeares in quitie. All conventions, offices, and actes of iuffice, to equall iuffice. But this was but a counterfarte zeale of equitie thewed by him, partely against his naturall inclination to purchase thereby the favour of the people.

> Shortly after, he beganne to thewe what he was, in steede of equitic practiling crueltie. For Makbeilie the pricke of conscience (as it chaunceth ener in tie conscient tyzantes, and suche as attayne to any assate by burightuous meanes) cauled him euer to feare. least he Could be served of the same cuppe, ashe

The wordes also of the three weird filters. wold not out of his mind, which as they promiked him the kingdome, to lykewise did they promile it at the same time, but othe posteritie of Banguho. He willed therefore the same Banquho with his fonne named fleaunce, to come Makbether to a supper that he had prepared for them, which wise to se was in deede, as he had deviced, prefent deathat his longe the handes of certaine murtherers, whome he tyspecial licece of the king, Malbe copelled to learne 30 red to execute that Deede, appopriting them to meete with the same Banquho and his some without the valance as they returned to this? longings, and there to fleathe, so that he woulde not have his house-laundered, but that intime tokome he might cleare himselfe, if any thing were layer to his charge open any suspicion that? michtarile.

At chaunced yet, by the benefite of the banke night; that though the father were daine, the lon Banquho i All suche women, that are maried to any 40 yetby the helpe of almightie Bod reletuing him tonne co to better fortune, cleaned that daunger, Caffers wardishailing some inckling by the admonition of some frendes which he habili the court, howe his life was fought no lelle then hista. thers, who was flayne not by channe medley (as by the hadling of the mater Makbeth would haue had it to appeare, but euen opon a plegen anhoes for haue had it to appeare, but euen opon aptention quhoes for fed deuile, where opon to anoyde furthir field he deeth income for the first of the first fledde into Wales.

But here I thinke it Wall not much make a gaynit my purpole, it (according to the other which I flind observed in the Scottill historic, I shall in sewe words here reheards the Brightall line of those kings, whiche have dicembed troin the foresayde Banquho, that they, which batt the sound chieve the kingdome by so long community kings of vilcent, from one to an other, that cilli vino these our dayes may be knowen from whence fathers appointment) amongst the baler forte of people Howbeit he Mewed euer euen fro his in= fancie, that there reigned in him a certaine fout= we nelle of flomake, ready to attept high enterpzifes.

ner had they; first beginning.

wife defloured by a straunger.

fleaunce therfore (as before is fayo fled into

Males, where floatly after by his curtous and amable behaviour, he grew into fuch favour and alimation with the prince of that countrey, that he might unneath hane wilched any greater:at length also he came into such familiar acquain= tance with the layd princes daughter, that the of countesse in the ende suffred him to get hir with childe : whiche being once understwo, hyz father the prince conceyned fuch hatefull displeature to= maides fleaunce, that he finally slewe him, and helde his daughter in moste vile estate of serui= mor, for that the had consented to be on this

It the last yet, the was deliuered of a some named Ectalter, who within few yeares proued

a man of greater courage and valiancie, than a= ny other had commonly bene founde, although

It chaunced that falling out with one of his covanious, after many taunting wordes which passed betwirt them, the other to his reproch ob= rected that he was a baltard, the begotte in bulaw= full bed, where with being fore kindled, in his ra= ging farie he ran bpo him e flew him out of had. 30

Then was be glad to flee out of Wales, and en chang into Scotland to feeke come frendshippe there, he happened into the copanie of suche En= gliffmen, as were come thither with Queene Margaret, & behaued himself to soverly in all his demandur, that within a while he was highly effectived amongst them.

Pot long after by fuch meanes atteyning to the degree of high reputation, he was fent with a great norver of men into the Welterne Illes, in- 40 to Calloman, and other partes of the realme, to Talmer the same of the tirannie and injurious ope Pilled, there exercised by divers misgoverned perferestwhich enterprise according to his com= non, he atchiened with fuch prudent policie canhode, that immediatly boon his returne to the court, he mas made lood Steward of Scotland with assignemet to recepue the kings rents # ducties out of all the partes of the realme.

Chis Walter Stewarde, had a sonne named 5 Than Steward, who went after with Godfrey of Bullion duke of Lorraine; and Robert duke of Pormandy sonne to king William the basterd that conquered England, into the holy lande, at what time they with other westerne Pzinces made the great journey thither, in the yere.1099. Mane had iffue Alexander Steward, that founded the abbay of Palley of S. Benevilles ofder.

Walter Steward whose valiancie was wel no= Walter Stetified at the batayle of Largis as hereafter Malbe ward. thewed, was the sonne of the sayde Alexander. The same Walter had issue. ii. somes, the one Alexander senamed Alexander, fought right valiantly in de= ward the son fence of his father at the foresayd batayle, and the of Waiter. other named Robert Steward got the landes of Robert Re-Terbowtoun, and maried the heyze of Trukti= ward. stonn, from whom descended the Earlies of Le= 10 ugnar and Dernly. Mozeoner the about men= cioned Alexader Steward that founded Palley, had divers mo fonnes, as John & James, with tohn fleward, fundey other. Howbeit they twke new furnames and lames fteby the name of those landes, but o the which they fucceeded. The afoze recited John Stewarde, after the death of his brother James, maried the heyze of Bonkill a virgine of great beautie, and had by hyz Malter Steward that inherited the Walter inhelandes of Bonkill, Ranfrew, Rothessay, Bute, ritour of Bonhe had no befter bringing op than (by his grand= 20 &Stewartonne, after that his father the forena=kill, &c. med John was flavne at Falkpike.

He maried Mariozie Bzuce daughter to king Robert Bzuce, by whom he had iffue king Ro- King Robert bert the fecond of that name. ii. the second.

This Robert the second twke to wife one In fabel Mure, a damofell of right excellent beutie; the was daughter to fir Adham Mure knights and brought forth issue, three connes and three daughters. The eldelt some hight John Ste- otherwise Roward otherwise named Robert, who succeeded bert. immediatly after his fathers decease in gouernaunce of the crowne.

The second called Robert was made Earle of Fyse and Menteith, also he was created duke of Albanie, and ruled the realine of Scotlande Duke of Albunder the name of Governour, for the space of rv. pearcs.

The third fonne named Alexander was earle: Alexander fleof Buchquhane and loed of Baudsenot. ward, sonne to The clock daughter was maried to Jaines, the lecond.

that was the sonne and hepre of Milliam Erle of Dowglas. The fecond daughter was mas ried to John Dunbar, brother to George of Dus Iohn Dunbar. har Earle of Marche, and was made to the adnancement of his further fame earle of Murray.

be not on by 2 one onely daughter, that was maried to the Dowglas, and so Dowglas came to the Erledome of Murray. The third daugh? tertwas marito buto John Lyoun, that was after made Lorde of Blammis. Takk

:: Moreover the foresayde Robert that was the firste of the Stewardes whiche ware the crowne in Scotlande, maried Ewfame-daugh, Ewfame ter to the Earle of Ros, and got on hyz two Walter and fonnes, Walter Carle of Atholl, and Danid David, sonnes Carle of Stratherne.

This Walter solicited Robert duke of Al- Robert Duke bang to flea David Steward duke of Rothlay. of Albany.

D.iiij.

to king Ro-

James the

And after that James the fielte was returned home forth of England, he did what he could to mous him to flea likewise all the lynage of the fame Duke, still being in hope after the dispatch of his kindinen to come to the crowne himselfe, whiche hope moved him to procure his Pephew Robert Steward, & Robert Braha his daugh= ters some to sea king James the firste, for the which crime the same colalter was after convi-Led and destroyed with all his sonnes.

Grayme of Graham.

> his brother Danid erle of Buchquhane died without issue, and so the landes of bothe these beetherne returned agains to the crowne, with= out any memory of they blond.

Of Robert Steward duke of Albany, came Duke Murdo. duke Murdo, who maried the Earle of Lennox Daughter, and got on hvz three sonnes, Walter,

Alexander, and James. Duke Wurdo himselse with his two firste James the first, and the third brother James in revence therof beent Dunbertane, and was after chased into Ireland, where he deceased without issue. Robert the iij of that name maried An= nabill Drommound, daughter to fir John Dismound of Stobball knight, 4 got on hy? Damo 4 James. The firste vico in Falkeland, and the other atterned the crowne, was called James the firste, and maried the lady Jane daughter to De had by hir. if formes borne at one birth, Alexander & James. The fielt died yong. The lecod bert the thud. earle or Sumerlet.

King Robert

the thirde.

Dauid and Tames, lonnes

to king Ro-

atterned the crowne, named James the second. Kames the first James the first had also. vi. daughters, of the and his iffue, whiche the clock was given in mariage to the Dolphine of Fraunce, the second to the Duke of Beptapne, the thirde to the Lorde of Feir: the fourth to the Lozde of Dalkeith: the fifth to the Earle of Huntley: and the fixte had no fuccels

The duke of Gelders daugh

Tames the fecond marico Margaret daugh= ter to the Duke of Gelverland, and begot on hir three founce, and two daughters.

The first succeeded him in the kingdome and Izmes and A- was called James the thirde: the fecond named Alexander was Duke of Albany, Emaried firste the Erle of Dekeners daughter, and got on hy? Alexander, that was after Bilhop of Hurray, and then parting with hyz went into Fraunce, where he marico the countesse of Bullogne, and 50 whereby he might the better mainteyne a garde Duke of Alba- begot on hir John Steward Duke of Albany, by the gover- that was governour of Scotland many yeares nour of Scot- in the minozitie of James the fifte.

The third fonne, John Steward was Erle of Mar, whose chaunce was to be flague in the Cannogat in a Bathefatte.

The first daughter of James the second, was The lande marico to the Lozd Bord, who begot on hyza some that was same by the Lord Mononing rie, and a daughter that was maried to the Erle of Casselles.

After the death of the load Boyd, the husband of this first daughter of James the secod, the mas eftsones maried to the load Hammylton, and by The Lorde that meanes was the house of the Hammyltons Hammylton decorate with the kings bloud.

The other lister was marico to the lorde to Creichton, of whom came finall fuccession wag = Lord Creich thy to be mencioned. James the thirde maned ton. Margaret vaughter to the king of Denmarke. lames the third and his

Df the whiche mariage was borne James isue. the fourth: Alexander that was villop of Saint Andros and Duke of Albany: And John Stewarde Erle of War, but these tww died without Tames the fourth maried Margaret daughter lames the to king Henry the seventh of England, and be= fourth. fonnes were flanne at Stryueling by king 20 got on hy? James the fifth, who marying firste the Lady Magdalene daughter to Frauncis the French king, had no illue by hyz foz that the died in the yeare next after hy? comming into Scotland, and then shortely after the sayde James the fifth marico the lady Mary de Lograin, Du= thes of Longuile a widow, and by hy; had he iffue Marie queene of Scotland, that toke to hulhande Henry Steward lord Dernly, by whom the had iffue Charles James, nowe king of John Bemford John Beauford earle of Somerset in England. 3º Scotland. But to returne buto Makbeth, in cotinupng the history, and to beginne where I left, ve Mal bnockstäd, that after the cotrined laugh= ter of Baquho, nothing prospered with the fore= fande Makbeth : for in maner enery man began to doubt his owne life, and durft buneth appeare in the kings presence, teuen as there were ma= Makbeilm ny that stode in feare of him, so likewise stode dread. he in feare of many, in such sorte that he began to make those away by one surmised cauillation of His crue 40 other, whom he thought most able to worke him caused the any displeasure.

It length he found suche sweetenesse by put= ting his nobles thus to death, that his earnest threst after bloud in this behalfe, might in nowile be satisfied : for pe must consider he wanne double profite (as he thought) hereby: for firste they were ridde out of the way whome he feared, and then agaphe his coffers were enriched by their gwoes, whiche were forfepted to his ble, of armed men about him to defend his person fix iniurie of them whom he had in any suspition.

Further to the ende he might the moze sickerly oppresse his subjectes with all tyranlike wrongs, hee buylded a strong Castell on the The cald top of an high bill cleped Dunsinnane structe in Dunsinnane Gowzy, ten myles from Perth, on luch a pzoude buylded. height, that flading there aloft, a man might beach inclusare all the Countreys of Angus, Fife, exermed. + Ernedale, as it were lying underneth him. This castell then being founded on the top of that high hill, put the realine to great charges line it was fruillied, for al the fruffe necessarie to the univing, could not be brought op without much tople and bufineffe.

But Makbeth beeing once determined to Dunfinnane. have the worke go forwarde, caused the Thancs of echeshire within the Realme, to come and helpe towardes that building, eche man hys course about.

Arthe last when the turne fell onto Wak= duffe Thane of fife to buploe his part, he sent workmen with all needfull provision, and com= maunded them to flicto fuche diligence in energ behalte, that no occasion might bee given for the 30-the other unpossible to sea him. lang to finde fault with him, in that he came not tandelle as other had done, which he refuled to do for doubt least the king bearing him, as he partly budallove no great god will, woulde lay vio= but handes byon him, as he had done bypon dy-

Shortly after, Makbeth comming to behold howe the works went forwards, and bycause hee found not Makduffe there, he was loze offended, my commaundements, till he be rydden with a finaffic, but I that promoe weil prough for him. Petther could be afterwards abive to loke byon the lapne Shakduffe, eyther for that he thought bis puissance oner great, either els for that he had learned of certain wy fardes, in whole wozdes he put great confidence, (for that the prophecie had happened to right, whiche the three Fayries or wend lifters had declared onto him) how that he to come flould feeke to destroy him.

and furtly herebyon had he put Makbuffe to death, but that a certaine witch whom he had in meat truff, had told that he flould never be flain with man burne of any woman, not banquiffed til the wood of Bernane, came to the Castell of Dunsimane.

By this prophecie Makbeth put all feare out of his heart, supposing hee might doe what hee would, without any feare to be punished for the same, for by the one prophesse he beleeved it was bupolible for any man to vanquish him, and by

This vaine hope caused him to doe manye outragious things, to the gricuous oppression of his invicats.

At length Wakduffe to anapoe perill of lyfe, purposed with himselfe to passe into Englande, to procure Malcoline Cammore to clapme the crowne of Scotlande. But this was not to les Linxes eyes, cretip denised by Makouste, but that Makbeth and Mydas had knowledge given him thereof, for kings tas earcs. and lapde, I percepue this man will neuer obey 40 is layde,) haur Marpe light like thre Line, and long cares like boto Midas. For Makbeth had in every noble many house, one attended of the ther in fee with him, to teneale all that was land or cone within the lame, by which flight he one eid romanic preffed the moste parte of the Pobles of his predopre received forces of Realme.

Immediately then, being sonertico wheres about Makbiffe went, he came hallily worthis great power into Fife, and forthwith velicity the ought to take heede of Makouffe, who in tymes 50 Callell where Makouffe dweller, multinger haue found him therm. A des et artes action &

They that kept the hones without any reas Cance opened the gates, and tuffred him fo etil Machethes ter, miltruffing none enill : But wenertheleffe crueltie vied Makbeth mott cruelly cauted the wife and thil duffes family. dren of Makduffe with all office tohom be found in that callell, to be flaine.

Also he conficate the gover of Makdustel capeth into-Englande vato Malcolme Cammore.

Makduffes wordes vnto Malcolme.

Malcolme

Malcolma

THYERE.

figheth.

proclaymed him traytor, and confined him out Makeduffe el- of althe partes of his realme, but Makouffe was alreadie escaped out of daunger and gotten into England vinto Halcoline Camoze, to trie what purchas he might make by meanes of his support to renege the flaughter fo cruelly executed on his wife, his children, and other friends.

At his comming onto Walcolme, he declared into what great miserie the estate of Scotlande was brought, by the detestable cruelties exercy= fed by the tyranne Makbeth, hauing committed many horrible flaughters and murthers, both as well of the nobles as commons, for the which he was hated right mortally of all his liege peo= ple, beliring nothing moze than to be delivered of that intollerable and moste heauie yoke of theal= doine, whiche they suffeyned at suche a caytifes

Malcolme hearing Wakduffes words which passion and very ruth that pearced his sozowfull hart, bewayling the miscrable state of his coutry, he fetched a deepe ligh, which Makduffe percey= uing, began to fall most carnelly in hande wyth him, to enterpale the oclinering of the Scottishe people out of the hands of to cruell and bloudie a tyzant, as Makbeth by tw many plaine experiments did fliew himselfe to be, which was an eale matter for him to bring to palle, confidering desire of the people to have some occasion ministreet, whereby they might be remenged of those no= table injuries, which they dayly fustegned by the outragious crueltie of Makbeths milgonernace.

Though Malcoline was right fozowfull foz the opprellion of his Countreymen the Scottes, in maner as Makouffe had declared, get doubting whether he were come as one that ment onfagnedly as her spake, or elle as lent from Makbeth to betray him, he thought to have some fur= 40 is golde and riches inough in Scotlande to la= ther triall, and therebpon diffembling his minde at the first, he answered as followeth.

I am truly right fuzie for the miferie chaun= Ca nmore his ced to my Countrey of Scotlande , but though I haue neuer lo great affection to relieue y fame, pet by reason of certaine meurable bycas, whiche raigne in me, I am nothing meete thereto: First fuche immoderate lust and voluptuous fentualitie (the abboninable fountaine of all opces) for laweth me, that if I were made king of Scots, so ketowilip of thole faire and noble vertues which A Choulde leeke to deflower your Rappes and rescrones in fuch wife, that mine intemperancie Emulyaber more importable unto you, than the blodden ty facine of Makbeth now is.

Persunts Wakduffe answered: this lively is a corp of default, for many noble-Princes and Lingdomes for Kingdomes for the more, neuerthelesse there are women prowe in Scotlande, and therefore follow my counfell. make thy selfe king, and I shall convey the matter so wistly, that thou shalt be so satisfied at the pleasure in such secrete wife, that no man shall be aware therof.

The Historie of Scotlande.

Then faide Malcolme, Jam allo the moste avaritious creature on the earth, so that if I were king, I Chould feeke fo many waves to get lands and godes, that I woulde flea the most part of o all the nobles of Scotland by furmifed acculations to the end I might enion their lands, gods. and possessions, therfore to show you what mischief may enfue on you through mine unsatiable couetife, I will rehearle onto you a fable.

There was a fore having a loze place on A fable of him overlet with a swarme of flies that conti- Foxe. nually fucked out hir bloud, and when one that came by and law this maner demaunded whe= ther the woulde haue the flies dequen besyde hir, he ottred in right lamentable sort, for pure com= 20 the answered no : for if these flies that are alreadie full, and by reason thereof sucke not very egerly, thoulo be chaled away, other that are emptie and felly an hungred, shoulde light in they? places, and suck out the residue of my bloud farre moze to my grieuance than thefe, which now being latisfied ooe not much annoy me. Therefore fayth Malcolme, fuffer me to remaine where I am, leaft if I attaine to the regiment of pour realme, mine inquenchable auarice may proue not only the good tytle he had, but also the earnest 30 such, that ye would thinke the displeasures which now grieue you, should feeine ealle in respect of the brimealurable outrage, whiche might ensue through my comming amongst you.

Makouffe to this made answere, how it was Couetous a farre worse fault than the other, for auarice is the rocke the rocke of all mischiefe, and for that crime the most part of our kings haue bene flain a brought to their finall ende. Det notwithstanding follow my counfel, and take upon thee the crowne, there tissie thy greedie delire.

Then layde Malcolme againe, I am furthermoze inclined to diffinulation, felling of leafings and all other kinds of decept, to that I naturally recorce in nothing so muche as to befray Dissimil and deceyne suche, as put any trust of confir and deind dence in my wordes Then fith there is nothing in lyen that more becommeth a prince than conflancie, peritie, truth, and inflice, with the other laudable are comprehended onely in sothfastnesse, ethat lying beterly ouerthzoweth & fame, you fee how bnable I am to gouerne any pronince or region: and therfore lith you have remedies to cloke and hide al the rest of my other vices, I pray you find Diff to cloke this vice amongst the refibue.

Then layo Wakduffe: this yet is the world of all, and there I leave thee, and therefore lap, s obre buhappie a miserable Scottillymen, which are thus frourged with to many and fundrie cas limines, ethe one aboue other. De have one curs fed and wicked typant that nowe raignes over rou, without any right or tytle, oppressing you with his most bloudie crueltie: This other that hath the right to the crowne, is so replicts with the inconstant behaviour and manifest vices of English men, that he is nothing worthie to enauaritious, and given to busatiable lust, but so falle a tray tour withall, that no trust is to be had to any worde he speaketh. Aoue Scotlande, for now I account my felse a banished man for ever without comfort or confolation: and with those words the teares trickled down his cherkes right abundantly.

At the last when hee was readie to depart, Balcolme twke him by the fleeue, and fayde, Be these vices befoze remembred, but haue selled with thee in this maner, only to prove thy mind: for diuerle tymes heretofore, hath Wakbeth fought by this maner of meanes to bring me into his handes, but the moze flow I have flewed my felf to condificend to thy motion and request, the moze diligence thall I vie in accomplishing the same.

afficiand. Ancontinently hereupon they embraced eche the other, they fell in consultation, home they might belt provide for al their bullinelle, to bring the fame to good effect.

Some after Makonffe repaying to the bozdas of Scotlande, addressed his letters with sea while crete dispatch buto the nobles of the realme, Dea ciaring howe Malcolme was confederate wyth him, to come haltily into Scotlande to clayme the crowne, and therefore he required them, lith their powers to recover the fame out of the hads of the wrongfull vlurper.

In the meane time, Malcolme purchaled inch favour at king Edwards, handes, that olde Sywarde Garle of Porthumberlande, was appounted with fractioulande men to go with him. into Scotland, to support him in this enterprise; for recourrie of his right. The right will be recourrie exit.

After these nemes were speed absode in Socie land, the nobles drew into timo fewrall failions; 50 the one taking part with Makbeth, and the other, with Malcolme.

Direupon enfued oftentymes fundrie bickes timy, and dinecle light skirmithest for those that wire of Malcolines fide, wouldernot leaparde to torne with their enirtaes in a pight field; tylibin comming out of England to their implosts Bint after that Wakbeth perceived his entimes potiers to encrease, by such agoe as came to them forth Makberh reof England with his adversarie Malcoline, he reculed backe into fife, there purpoling to abide in campe fortified, at the Castell of Dunlinane, and to fight with his enimics, if they ment to purfue him, howbeit some of his friends aduyled him, that it should be belt for him, eyther to make fome agreement with Malcolme, or elle to fice Makbeth is mith all speed into the Iles, and to take his treas couolailed to congain that, that he is not onely is fure with him, to the ende he might wage fun alee into the top it for by his owne confession he is not onely to fure with him, to the ende he might wage sun alee. drie great Princes of the realme to take his part, and retayne straungers, in whom he might better trust than in his owne subicites, which state dayly from him: but he had fuche confidence in his prophecies, that he beleeved he Mondoe neuer be vanquished, till Byznane wood were brought Makbethes to Duntinnane, not yet to be flaine with ange truft in proman, that should be of was borne of any woma.

Malcolme folowing halfily after Makbeth, of good comfort Makduffe, for I haue none of 20 came the night before the battaile buto Byrnan wood, and when his armie had rested a while there to refreshe them, her commaunded energe Braunches of man to get a bough of some tree or other of that trees. wood in his hand, as bigge as he might beare, and to march forth therwith in such wise, that on the next mozow they might come closely and without light in thes manner within viewe of his enimies.

On the morow when Makbeth beheld them other, and promifing to bee farthfull the one to 30 comming in this fart, hee first marueyled what the matter ment, but in the end remembred him felfe, that the prophecie which he had hearde long before that time, of the comming of Byrnane woo to Dunlinnane Castell, was likely to bee now fulfilled. Peuerthelesse, he brought hys men in order of battell, and exhocted them to doe Makbeth fee-valiantly, howbeit his enimies had francely call tech his men in from them their boughes, when Makboth perceis order of barral uing their numbers betok him Arright to dight, Makbeth fleebe was right inheritor thereto, to assist him with 40 whom Makouste pursued with great hatred cust sue do ship with great hatred customers. till he came buto Lunfannain where Makbath duffe. urreceiving that Makduffi was hard at his backif leant beside his boyle: laying; thou trapton, what: meaneth it that thou spoulded thus in vaine folm low me that are not appropried to be floin by an my creature that is home of airmonal , nome ore therefixe, and recepus: Thy remains which thou bast veleraed for the papies, and there withalk he lefter bubishoode thinking to have flature him Bat Pokunfff quickly anoming from his: horfe, ere he came at him, answered freitig his maro hed Consideringin hande) laying: this true Adakbeth, and motor fipail thine infatiable crueitie have an endrifois amench he that thy my fator have tolder the of untulorious never borne of my mon ther, but rippercout of his wombe: therewithalf he flepe buto him, the ban in the place. Then Mikbeth is certaing his heade from the thombers, her let: if Ilaine.

The Historie of Scotlande.

ppon a poll, and brought it buto Walcolme. This was the end of Wakbeth, after be had raid= ned. rbit. peares ouer the Scottillimen.

In the beginning of his raigne he accompliflied many worthic actes, right profitable to the common wealth, (as pe have heard) but after= warde by illusion of the vinell, he defamed the same with most terrible crucktie.

he was flaine in the yeare of the incarnation 1057. lo 1057. and in the. rvj. years of king Edwards 1061. raigne ouer the English men.

MALcolme Canimoze thus recovering the Malcolme (as ye have hearde) by support of Malcolme (as ye have hearde) king Edward, in the.rbj. yeare of the same Edewards raign, he was crowned at Scone the.rxb day of April, in the years of our Lorde, 1057.

Ammediately after his coronation, he called A Parliament a Parliament at Forfair, in the which he rewarped them with lander and livings that had all- 30 Forfair, in the beginning of his raign, there were sted him agapust Wakbeth, aduauncing them to fres and offices as he faw caule, and commauns ded that specially those that bare the surname of any office or landes, floulde have and enione the faine.

We created many Carles, Lordes, Barons, and Knightes.

Thanes changed into Surnamer.

Many of them that before were Thanes, were at this time made Carles, as fife, Wenteth, 2= tholl, Leuenor, Murray, Cathnes, Boffe, and 40 fice fet the crowne on the kings was. The le lyange Inque. Chefe were the first Carles that haue berne heard of amongelt the Scottille men, (as their hollogies make mention.) Many new furnames were take by at this time amongst them, as Cauder, Lokart, Goldon, Septon, Lauder, Mawane, Mctorun, Schaw, Leirmouth, Libertoun, Strachouhen, Cargill, Rattrey, Dun : das, Cockbourne, Mystoun, Wenzeis, Abercruming. Ucly, with many other that had polfessions given to them, which gave names to the 50 any Court out of their circuit, they might owners for the time. "

Dthers got their furnames by offices, as' Strivarde, Durmarde, and Banerman.

Allo the proper names of many valiant cane. farmes were turned into generall furnames, as Mennedy, Graham, hay, with opuerse other to long here to rehearle. So that it came to palle then, as it bath done many tymes lithence, that new furnames have worne the olde out of ble.

In the forelayde Parliament thus holden at the ecclesiasticall iurisoiction.

In rewarde also of Makduffes fernice, who Makduff (as ye have heard) chiefly apped him to the at- Euko teyning of the crowne, he honoured him and his admi posteritie with three fortes of privileoges.

Frall that the Earle of fife for thetome be- Priviled ing at the colonation of a king thould by his of graunte cond was, that when the king hould give bate taile to his enimics, the same Caite fould leave the vauntoard of his holt: The thirde; that the lynage of Makouffe thoulo enion regaliantion ritic and power within al their lande & romejus, as to appoynt officers and indiges too the fracting and determining of all matters and controlled fies (treason onely excepted) and that it any of their men or rehants were called to autwere in prate to their divine libras to bee applying as vill Balcolnic. before is expressed.

Tohannes Maior Wipteth in his Chemich, that Iobanes the thirdeappiniledore indich Maldoinis granufel unto this Makouffe and his politicite that this, that for enery Gentleman that any of the firms hap to kill by chaunce medler, and not in man protenter madice, for the funume of statisfamentes be many holesome ordinances established, both apperterning to civili administration, and allots

The Historie of Scotlande.

double redeems his punishment due for the same: the the calliall flaughter of a meaner person, he hould be fined at. rii. Markes, fo that murthemes were wont to say, that if they were able to ray that funding but othe Kynboc, they ought to be releated of further punition by Wakduffes pgiulcoge. But this third priviledge, togither with the other two former grauntes, the layor Major fore reproueth, and not without cause, as mape that people but o murther, which by this meanes nounshing secrete hatred and malice in they? heartes, might bider the cloke of casuall falling out, ilea whom they lufted.

It was ordepued also at this Parliament. that Barons which had liberties within thefelues. Moulo make arbbets whereon men that des: forused death Moulde suffer execution: and also maw falciles, wherein women that were conper of the civill lawes bled in Scotland.

Morconer, all the lawes that Makbeth bad ejderned, were abzogate at this Parliament.

Thus whilest Malcolme was busied in let =. ting orders amongst his subjects, tydings came." that one Lugtake furnamed the fole, being epther the fonne, oz as some write, the cousin of the intementioned Dakbeth, was convered with a great number of fuch as has taken part with the tation lande Wakbeth buto Scone, and there by their 30 my luch trayferous pradile. support recepued the Crowne, as lawfull interitoz thereto.

To appeale this bulinelle, was Makouffe Carle of fife fent with full commission in the kings name, who encountering with Lugtake at a urllage called Ellen in Bogdale, Que him, and discomfited his whole power ordring the matter with them in such wile, that afterwardes there was no more trouble attempted in that behalfer tame peares, till it chaunced a great number of thecues and robbers affembling themselves, togis ther at Cochourne pethes. Did neuch hurt for robbing and spopling the people in the countreps of Mirs: and Louthian howbeif at length one Hatreke Dunbar of Dunbar, by commaundement of the hing fought with them; five their captaints, with fir hundred of his concuente, and toke fourscore prisoners, the which he ranged to be hanged. pollers, with lolle of foltie of his obone mens bee teturned to the king, with the head of the cautain of that route, so that for his manhood herein live wed he was made by the kiner diale of Wareh and for the maintenaunce of his ellutes hearthe lander of Cochonene petition signees to phyland his herges for ever, byon this condition other in tymes comming, the Extra of March Coulos purge Mers and Louthian of all theenes and robbers. In memoric whereof, hee was come The heade of maunded to beare in his armys a fellons heade a theefe or felsprinckled with bloud.

Shortly after he got knowledge, howe there were certaine Gentlemen that hay conspired to A conspiracie? flea him, and therefore taking occasion to goe a hunting, where this ad flould have bene executed. he calleth the chiefe authour of the consviracie appeare, confidering the naturall inclination of 10 apart into a certaine valley, which was closed on enery five with thick wods, and there bake the matter buto him, in reproving him right Marply: for that hee had so tranteroully conspired hys ocath, whose preservation her ought thirdpe to have willed, confidering the manifolde benefites he had recepued at his handes. And herewith lease The manly ping from his horse, drew his sword, commaun - courage of K. ding the other like wife to draw his, that now has uing convenient time and place thereto, they denined flould be drowned, according to the or= 20 might trie the matter betwirt them, who should be thought most worthie of life, by open force of knightly viowes.

The conspirator hearing these wordes, as a man altogither altonissed, fell downe byon bys knees at the kings fecte, beseeching his grace of mercie for his wicked purpole and havnous of fence, who feeing him thus penitent, bad him atife, and fayde, Jam content hereupon to forgiue thee, so that thou be not of counsell hereafter in a-

Wibylest things passed thus in Scotlande, creat and marueplous chaunces came to valle within the Realme of Englande. For after the death of king Edward furnamed the Confestoz, See more here Harold the fame of Carle Godwin toke knon of in England. him the kinkborne. But William ballard Wuke of Pormandie; pretending tytle to the crowne of Englande, at length innaded the land, fleat ing harolo in fielde, made a full ronquelt of the Titer this, the realme continued in peace cer- 40 realme : and was crowned king at London by Elozed Arthbillion of Porket Arre pa hanc is understand that king Edward In his life time had fent duchis nepheto Edwalden the Conne of his hother Comonde Frontide, to come bonte forth of hangarie, mbither after bis fathers des ceaste, he and his brother. Edwin has beene fent away, rasin the applicate of Englande it apo meaceitininge at large. and that them a clisent do This Compared had manisorthe daughterit William Ind thus having orlinered the countrepol thete 50 the Emperdur Beurie, Karnio Contha, filler to Malmesbury. the Dueric of Hundarie Cand ribt the king De Hungaries daughter, although the Socilitat writing to lo affirme By his he had iffue a lonne named & Odaratotivo daughters, the one names Margaret and the other Cheffyne. King Eur Hotter Boen H ward ment that his neathern the fayer of bloomer tius. Moulde have fuccioned humaithus louis dente? be would in his life time hancerflotter the crition buto him. But he (a thing worthie of admiration otterly refused it, and would not once meddle therewith during his buckes life tyme, and as it chaunced he died whilest his bucle king Comard was pet liuing. his sonne Edgar there= fore to whom it feemed that the crowne was due when he lawe the realnee conquered by the Poz= mans, dispairing to recover it out of their hands, got a thip, and determined with his mother and filters to palle ouer into Germanie to his friends 10 tie, wildome, anoble qualities of the lady Marand kinffolk there: but by contrary winds he was driven a fhore in the Forth, at a place called buto The Queenes this day the Ducenes ferrye.

Walcoline being at the same time at Dun= fernicling, when he heard of the arrivall of this thip, and understode what they were that were abourd in hir, he resozted thither with an honoutable copanie about him, to bill them for bonors fake, byon favour he bare towards them, for that they were discended of that noble Prince king Cowarde, in whom afoze time he had founde in much gentlenelle and friendlip.

finally when he buderstood their estate, bee brought the home with him to his palace, flicining them all the love and friendship he could devise: and in the end cosidering the excellent beaugaret, elocit fifter onto the fame Eogar , he re- Mileolm quired of Agatha hir mother to have hir in mas Margaret riage, whereforto Agatha gladly conditioned. fier to Ed Shortly after with an assemble of all the nobles Athelies of Scotland this mariage was made & Colemnis fed after the Difaues of Pasch, in the yeare 1067. 1067. with allion and triumph that might be devised.

King William the Conqueroz of England, being enformed hereof, feared least this alliance betwirt Malcolm and Edgar might beerd some trouble a disquictnesse to his estate, sith the same 40 Edgar had many friendes through all the partes of England. To preuent therfore the occasions of intestine trouble, he confined all the lynage of the foreland Evant, by reason whereof, a great number of Englishe men came into Scotlande buto king Malcolme, and many of them obteys ning liulings at his handes, remapned there continually during their lines, leaving to their police ritie their names and pollellions. Amongst who were thefe, Lindley, Maus, Ramilay, Louell, 50 he foundedut his vione charge, and another L Cowris, Prestoun, Sanvelaus, Billart, Sowe lis. Marolam, Narwel, with dincele other.

There came vinerle allo oute of Hungarie mith Queene Margaret, who likewile left thep? names to their families, which pet remaine euch buto this day as Errichtoun. Forringham, Gife fart, Mcluil, Borthwike, anwother.

: Also there have come at fundie tealous out of Fraunce diverle furnames into Estociande as Sucmane Frairic, Sindace, Bofocil, Montrap, Mount. Freech m cummery, Campbel, Boys, Betonn; or Betuin; Taillefer, aud Bothwell, belides tumpeir other inhiche were but superfluous to sehearfe at this

... But to the several the hyllogie: 重端 :: corred by writers, that thele (which at this time salineout of Englande touto Edgar hernight Agrent quantitie of golde and filner with them? also many relikes of Saints, and anlongs when that blacke croffe which king Pandugue dans the Abbey of holy Rood house in Lauthin, which crolls

Shortly after the peoleciptio of their English men, addition the Conquerous lent an praire at Armes buto king Walcolme, rentamaking to Willia haue Engar belineren untu his hands, and therais peth ki ningehat if he refultes to weliner hinn alle intales Mala furely fetch him, and that finally for Maladines Konumoditie के अन्य कार्य कार्य कार्य की स्थापति हैं।

But Malcoune though he tower lines that

responde ber fire of warres at king Coliffiams imides, for his deniall declared plainly to the he= railo, that his maillers requelt was vureasonas lie, and therefore he minded not in any wife to granfie him therein.

Bing edipliam recepting this antwere from galcolin, proclaimed opé warre against Seotland. In the meane time all Porthumberlande toke part with king Malcoline, for that he way their Carles afters sonne.

Eelherevponking William sent a valiaunt Captaine, a Pozman bozne named Roger, to muade Pozthumberlande. Wihiche Roger ga= thring a power of men, came halfily into that Countrey, howbeit he above short time there in honor, for by the Scots and Porthumberlande men his army was discomfited, and he himselfe trayteroully flaine by his owne fouldiers.

But king William nothing discoraged with celler whom amongest all the Englishmen he had moste in trust) with a mightie armie into Cumberlande. Agaynst whome were sent the Carles of March and Menteith, who defended the Country right manly from the invalion of the lapde Carle, so that he was not able to take any aduauntage of them.

King William aduertised hereof, wared wonpower thither with all speede, under the leading of his brother Doo, who was both Bilhoppe of Bareur, and Carle of Bent.

By this last army, the courter of Porthum= terlande, was lose spoyled, and a great number both of Scottes and Porthumberland men difcomfitted and flain. But as Doo was preparing foreturne, there came Malcolme with all the power he might make, and gining an onlet byon his chimies, flue a great number of them, and Malcolmes recourred al the botic which. Divers in E had got enterprise ain the countrey and so right joyfull of that vitto- mics. rie, returned into scotlande.

King dililliam pet nothing aballed for thele missappes, sent his some called Robert with a Robert the son farre greater power than at any time he had fent of William befoze, into Pozthumberland, who remayning a Conquerour. long feafon in campe neare to the river of Time, New Caffell 10 attempted no notable enterpile, fauing that he vpon Tine repayzed and newly fortified the towns of newe tortified, Castell, whiche standeth vpon the same ryurrof Tine, and then at length a peace was concluded A peace conbetwirt the two Kings under thele conditions, cluded betwirt that king Malcolme Moulde enion that part of William Co-Pozthumberland which lyeth betwirt Tweede, Malcolme Cumberland, and Stainmoze, & to Do homage Cammore. to the king of England for the same.

In the middelt of Stanemoze there Mall be this ouerthiow, sent one Richard Erle of Blou= 20 a Crosse set up, with the king of Englandes J= mage on the one five, and the king of Scotlands on the other, to fignifie that the one is marche to England, and the other to Scotland.

This Croffe was called the Recroffe, that is The Recroffe. to say, the Cross of the kings.

Mozeover it was concluded that Waltheof oz Cloldolius (as the Scottill) writers name him) & Walcief. fonne of Sywarde Carle of Porthumberlande, Syward Earlo derfull wooth, that no moze god was done as fhould marry king Milliams neece, bozne of his of Northum-gapult his enimies, whereupon hee lent a newe 30 daughter, and to be free from all payments and berlande. exactions due to the king by any maner of prerogative or meanes, for the frace of. rr. peares next enluing.

In the neck of this peace thus cocluded betwirt y kings, hapned new trouble in Scotlad by reald Rebellion in of intestine rebellio, for the people of Balloway, & the Alad me, role in great nübers & spoiled y boz= ders of their neighbors, not sparing fro slaughter in al parts, where they were any thing relified.

I nglith men In Scotland.

Surnames of

Walter the foline of Fleance.

Makglaue.

A new rebellion in Murre y lande.

Makduffe.

Agapust these revelles was sent by king Malcolme, Walter the sonne of Fleance (of whome there is mention made before with a convenient armie, who at his comming into Galloman. first gaue the people of that Countrey an ouerthrow, and flue their chiefe captaine Wakglaue: Then afterwards fighting with them of the Tles, he subouco them in such wife, that al things were pacified even at commaundement. For whole high prowes and viligence in this peece of 10 Walter crea- fernice Mewed, he was created by Walcolm high Steward of the realme, so that afterwardes both he and tis posteritie ever sithence have borne that furname, euen buto these our dayes.

> After the quieting of this bulinelle, there lyzang a newe tumult more daungerous than the for= mer, for the Wurrey lands men procuring them of Rolle and Cathnes, with diverse other to joine with them in confederacie, did not onely flea the bnoer him to see instice ministred, but through support of one Makouncane, whom they chose to be their captaine, they also walted and destroyed the kings possessions, with moze crueltie than e= uer had beene heard of befoze. Wherefoze to punish these trayterous attempts, Wakduste was fent with an armie into Mar.

But the traptors doubting least they should not be able to withstande his puissance, thought money: but in the meane time came the king himselfe in good season onto Monimuske, where her was aduertifed, that in maner all the north partes of Scotland with the Iles, were confede. rate with the Murrey land men against him.

The king aftoniffed fomthing at thefe newes, bowed to give the Barronnie of Monimulke, Treki (which he binderstode to be landes pertepning to vow. the crowne) buto the Church of Saint Andrem in fife, if it might please God to lend him viffa. rie over his enimies.

At length comming bito the water of Spry, he behelde his enimies on the further live in areater number, and in better furniture for armor tha hee thought had beene possible to have founde in all Scotlande, he perceyued also that his stan- Standard Darobearer began to sheinke, and not to shew the bearer. like chearefull countenance, as he ought to have done. Wherfoze he pulled the Banner from him. and gaue it to fir Alexander Carron, who with Sir Alexander Carron this his new office obtepned fundrie faire landes kings feruants, and those that were appointed 20 and possessions, to him and to his herres for ex ucr: but his furname was afterwardes chaunged, and called Skrimgeour, of the which is difcended a noble house, continuing yet in great ho= nour in the same surname and office. When the king was once palled the water, and the armics on both lydes readie to have loyned, through nie- A peace diation of Bylhoppes and other verticus men, cluded the matter was taken by, and peace made on these conditions, that the commons that twke nothing more anaplable than to Stop him with 30 part with the revelles, Mould returne home out of hande, and the Bentlemen to lubmit thelelues to fion of the kings pleasure, their lives and landes saved: men.

howbeit many of them were kept in perpetuall prison during their lines, and al their godes confiscate to the kings vse.

All civill trouble and commotion being thus exhortation of quieted, king Malcolm specially by the good ad= his wife,gy- monissment & exhoztation of his wife Ducene uech himfelse to denotion. Margaret, a woman of great zeale buto the religion of that time) gave himselfe in maner altogither buto much denotion, and worker of nurcie, as in doing of almes deedes, by promiting for the pose, and such like godly exercises, so that in true bertue hee was thought to excell all other Princes of his time. Cobe briefe herein, there fremed to be in maner a certaine ffrife betwirt A ga a mathat partuous Queene his wife, which on deals be most fernent in the lone of god, formal manys people by the imitation of them wir kionakt unto better life. Agatha and hir that the Challene also by the example of these enoted; huers, remoured the pompe of the court, and got them to a primate & folitarie life, wherein they gave theseines wholy to divine coteplation.

furthermore Malcoline by the letting on of the Queene his wife, ceassed not to set his ende= not whole to the advancement of the chailitan religion, and to restore things that were decayed by the negligence of his predecessors. Therefore whereas before his time, there were but four Bi= flops Seas in Scotland, as Saint Androwes, Cialgem, Galloway, and Murthlake, and two of them. that is to fay, Saint Androwes and Burthlake, remayning onely in good reparation the other being occased) he restozed the other two two other of neto, as Murrey, and Cathnes, pla= and men of fingular vertue and purenelle of laein the fame. But to proceede. It is fayo, that fuch outrageous riot entred at this time, and be= gan to growe in vie amongest the Scotishmen, tegither with the language and maners of the English nation by reason that such a multitude of the fame, flying out of their Countrey, were darly recepted as then into Scotlande to inha= nobles perceiving what discommoditie & decap to the whole realme would enfue of this kinde of intemperancy, came to the king, lamenting griewould the cafe, for that this venemous infection ipred to fast ouer the whole realme, to the peruer= ting and otter remoning of the auncient sobjectie of deer vled in the same: wherefore they besought bun to provide some remedie in time, before hope ofredulle were past, that the people might be a= bitherto view not to cate but once in the day, and then defining no superfluous meates & deinkes to te fought by fea # land, noz curioully dreffed of farued forth with fances, but onely feeding to faz tilui nature, and not their greedy appetites.

Through which their fober fare, with the exanding of their bodies here with in continual tra= uale, they grew more strong and greater of bode, than their offpring are founde to be in these bute Stantes than buto men of our time, with great and huge bodies, mightie armes and lims, proffing bypon their enimics like fierce Lions, training downe all before them, without dread of anr dannger, for that they exceeded all humane arength and power.

Derebpon king Malcolnic toke great paines to have redicited this infective poylon, and otter-ly to have expelled it forth of his realine, how beit the nature of man is fo prone & ready to embrace Mais nature all kinds of vice, that where the Scottille people prone to vice. before had no knowledge nor understanding of fine fare of riotous furfet, yet after they had once talked the sweete poyloned bait thereof, there was now no meane to be found to restrain they? lico = rous defires. And yet those corrupted abuses and rictous superfluities (which came into the realme of Scotland with the Englishmen planted ther= in by the dayes of king Malcolme, are not to bee compared in excelle with things bled in our time, for in those vayes, as yet the nature of man was not lo ouercome with the abuse of superfluities, as it is now adapts, for then though they were gone fro the auncient sparenesse of diet, they yet did not eate past twice a day, and had but two dispes at a meale: but nowe the greedie tast of The greedle mens insatiable suff is suche, that no kinde of insatiable suff. to their former beauties, and furthermoze erected 20 fleshe, sishe, fruite, or whatsoever maye be got= ten, is bueth able to quenche they? gluttonous appetite and raucnous gurmandize: lo that ney= ther lande, Sea, nog apze, is left bnlought to latissic the same, as though they were worthic of most high comendation that may denoure most: Men compawherein they may be infly compared to greedie red to Wolnes & Cormarais. Molucs and Cormorants.

But to bewaile that in wordes which can= not be amended in deedes, is but a folly, for the bite there, as before is the wed) that diverte of the 30 infection is to entred into the inner partes of the intraples, that neither with purging, cutting, noz fearing, it may be holpen. Soner thall you de= Aroy the whole Patien than remoue this vice.

In the meane tyme, whylest things thus palled in Scotlande, King William the Conquerour dred in the.xxi. reare of his raigne, and after the incarnation. 1087.

About whiche time King Malcolme caused the olde Church of Durham to be plucked down The Church of Caine reduced unto their former frugalitie, who 40 and buyloed up anewe, beginning even at the Durham built bitharts pled not to eate but once in the day, and first fluxe. In which season, one Egelwyn or colme. William (as the Scottiffe wypters haue) was Billion of that Sea, and Prior of the Abbay was one Turgot, who afterwarde was made Turgot. Bilhop of Saint Androwes, and wrote the lives of Ducene Margaret and Malcolme hir hulbande in the Scottilly tongue.

Afterwarde hee deceassed in Saint Anderives, but hys body was brought onto Durbanes: for they were more in resemblance like 50 ham, and there buryed, bycause hee was fyst etoz thereof.

King Malcolnie by perswalion of this Tur- The church of got, builded also a Church in Dunfermling, de= Dunfermling. dicated to the Trinitie, orderning fro thenceforth The Sepuleure that the common sepulture of the kings shoulde of the Scottish be there, in like maner as it had bin afoze time in kings. the Ile of Jona at the Abbay of Colmekill.

Amongelt other vertuous ozdinances also

1086. H.B.

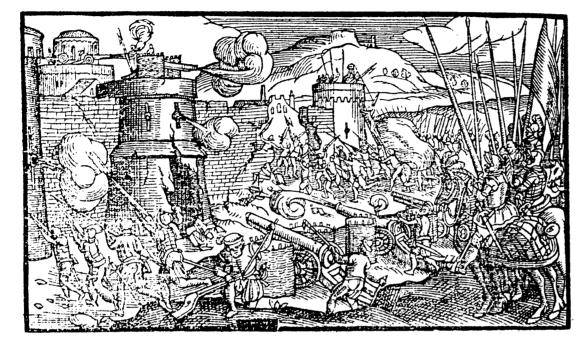

colm through

law abrogated

which were deuised made by king Malcolme, (through exhortation of his wife Ducene Mar= garet) mentioned by Eurgot in the boke which he wrote of their lines, this is not to be forcotten. that he abjogated that wicked lawe,; established by king Ewynthe thirde, appoynting halfe a marke of filuer to bee payde to the Lorde of the foyle in redemption of the womans chauser, which is bled to be payed pet but othis day, *is called the marchets of women, where otherwise by him made, inuaded Posthumberland, *toke The called of Anwike by the Lastell of Anwike by the Listure as were founde in the same.

maryage.

King William furnamed the Red, the fe- William conde fonne of king William the Conquerour, fus. and fuccessour to him in the kingdome of Englande, not wel contented not pleased in his mind. that the Scottes Coulde enion a great portion of the north partes of England, aunciently belon-

yes by the Scottes.

King Walcolme to withstande such exployees attempted by his enimie, leuied a great bolle of his subicities, and comming with the same into Porthumberlande, belieged the lapde Castell of The castell of Anwike. And nowe when the keepers of the A vike belie- hold were at poput to haue made surrender, a cer= fwift horse without armoz or weapon, saving a speare in his hand, byon the poput wherof he bare the keyes of the called, so iffice forth at v gates, riding directly towardes the Scottift campe.

They that warded, mystrusting no harme, brought him with great novle and claymog bnto the kings tent. Witho hearing the nople, came forth of his panilion to understande what the matter ment.

The Englishman herewith couched his staffe 50 Aulter of the Trinitie. as though it had beene to the ende that the kit might recerue the keres whiche he had brought. And whilest all niens epes were earnest in be-An bardle en- holding the kepes, the Englishe man ranne the king through the left epe, and fodainly dalling his fourtes to his horse, escaped to the next wood out of all dannaer.

The poynt of the speare entred to facre into the kings head, that immediately falling downe as K.Mal. monall his men, he yeelded by the ghoft.

This was the ende of king Malcolme in the middest of his armic.

It is lapde that king William chaunged the Them name of this aductituous knight, and called him the Per taine English knight conceining in his mind an Pers E, and for that he stroke king Malcolme to begind bardie and daungerous enterprise, mounted on a 40 right in the eye, and in recompence of his service they can gaue him certaine landes in Porthumberlande, forth of of whom those Percers are discended, whiche in conqued bur dayes have enioped the honourable tytle of Earles of thumbs Carles of Porthumberlande.

The Scottes after the flaughter of their king heake by they campe, and buried his bodie with K. Mile in the Abbay of Tynmouth in England. But buryed his some Alexander caused it to be afterwardes Tyamo faken op, and burged in Dunfermling before the

The same tyme was Scotlande wounder with an other millchappe. For Cowarde the Ednud Prince of Scotlande, clock fonne to king Mal of Scot colme, oped of a hurt which he recepued in a fkirs dyed. milb not farre from Inwike, and was burged in Dunsermeling, the fyzit of the blond rope all that hadde by's bones lapde in that place.

Queene Margaret being avuertiled of the reach both of hir husbande and sonne, as then wing in Evenbourgh Castell , bir difease encharmithin three named after the this life unto an other moze toyfull and bleffed.

Bing Halcolme was flaine in the yeare of - H.B of oure redemption 1092. on the rill. day of Consider, and in the. rrrbj. years of hys carge won- came to passe and were seene in Albion.

By the highe fpzing Tydes whiche chaun= angeryde, ced in the Almaine Seas , many Townes, Caficis, and Woodes were drowned, aswell in Scotland as in England.

After the ceasiing of which tempest, the lands that fomtime were Earle Goowines (of whom ve have hearde before) lying not farre from the towns of Sandwich, by violent force and drift of the Sea, were made a lande bed, and euer li= 20 thence have beene called Godwine sandes.

The people have thought that this bengeance came to that prece of grounde being pollelfed by his posteritie, for the wicked saughter of Alured, which he so trapterously contriued.

Mozeover sundzie Castelles and Townes in Murrey lande were overthrowne by the lea Tydes.

Such dreadfull thunder happened also at the the fields, and houses overturned even from their foundations.

In Louthian, Fife, and Ingus, trees and come were burned by by fire, kindled no man knew how, noz from whence.

In the dayes of this Malcolme Cammoze, lined that famous hylfoxiographer Marianus a Scottish man borne, but professed a Monke in the Monasteric of Fulda in Bermany. Also Meland, floriffed about the same time, and wrote the Scottiff hiltorie, whome Hedor Boetius fo much followeth.

Malcoline had by his wife Ducene Margaret otherwise called for hir holineste of life 5. Margaret vi. sonnes, Edward (as is faid was flain: Etheloged, which died in his tender age, and was burico in Dunfermling: and Comond which renounced the world, & lined an holy life in Engander and David. There be that write how Edmond was taken, and put to death in prison by mond was taken, and put to demi, anaded the his buck Donalde Bane, when he inuaded the kingdome, and blurped the crowne, after the descalle of his brother king Malcolme, and so then was Edgar next inheritour to the crowne.

This Donald Bane, who (as before is mentioned, fled into the Fles to eschue the typannical malice of Makbeth, after he once heard that his brother king Malcolme was dead, returned into Donalde Baite Scotland by support of the B. of Porway, unto Scotlande. whom he consenanted to give the dominion of all His covenant the Iles, if by his meanes and furtheraunce hee for the gift of might obteque the crowne of Scotland.

Herebpon landing with an armie in the way. Realme, he founde small relistance, and so with little a doe recepued the crowne, for many of the In the same yeare manye uncouth things 10 people abhorring the riotous maners and superfluous gurmandice brought in amongst them by the English men, were willing inough to receive that the people this Donalde for their king, trusting bycause hee had to receyue had beene brought by in the Iles with the olde Donald Bane customes and maners of their auncient Pation, for their king. without tast of the English lukerous delicacies, they shoulde by his senere order in government, recover agains the former temperancie of they? olde progenitors.

As sone as Edgar Adeling brother to Dueen K. Malcolmes Margaret was aducrtised that Donalde Bane sonnes sent for had thus blurped the crowne of Scotland, he fent into Englande by by dgar their tecretly for his thre nephews, Edgar, Alexander, vocle. and David, with two lifters which they had, to come bnto him into England, where he had not kept the any long while, but that a knight whole name was Digan, of Digar, accused him of Orgarus, or treason, alledging howe he nourished his listers culeth Edgar fonnes and daughters within the realme, in hope Atheling of same time, that men and beastes were saine in 30 to make them inheritogs to the crowne: but the treason. malice of this falle furmile remarked not bununished, for one of Edgars friends, taking in hand to Darraine battaile with Degan, in befence of Organ is flain Edgars innocencie, flue him within lyftes.

After that Donalde had recepted the crowne at the Abbay of Scone, he verceyued that some of the nobles grudged at his prefermet, thewing by some tokens that they had more affection buto king Malcolmes children, than buto him, and remond a Spanill) prieft, but dwelling in Scot= 40 therfoje he calt out a worde amongst his familis Donaldebressi ers, that ere ought long the nobles (houlde revent meth. them of their doings, if they applyed not themsels ues the more to his ovinion. Which wordes being marked, deepely imprinted in some of their harts, turned afterwards to his great dilplealure. Duncan Mai-For Mortly after came Duncan, the baltary fon colmes battare of king Malcolnie out of Englande into Seot- fonne. lande, supported with an armie of men appointed by king William the Red, to place him in the land : the other three were named Edgar, Alers 50 Kingbome, to expulle Donald out of the same by force of armes, if he attempted and reliffance:

> Powe when Donald approched with his puillance in purpole to have given battaile, the most part of his people bid forlake him, and dreme bis to Ducanes live, so that Donald thus abavoned of the that fluid have apped him, was coltrained for his refuge to fice again into b westerne Thes: f to Duncan then coming buto Scone, recepued 戡.ii.

the Hesto the king of Nor-

Duntane is or Scotlande.

uil gouern-

Makpender

flayeth king

Duncane.

the crowne of Scotlande, but for that he had bin trayned the most epart of his life in the warres crowned king both in England and France, he had small skill in civill government, indging that thing onely to stance with instice, wich was decided with Duncanelae- weare and thielde. By reason whereof Scotland ked skill in ci- was flootly filled with newe troubles and fedicious devillons.

Donalde Bane being aduertised of all those ted Hakpeder Carle of Mernes to take his part, & by some meanes to fleaking Duncane, which enterplice Wakpender taking in hand, at length (in Menteth) accomplissed the laine in the night fealon, when he had espied such aduauntage and opoztunitie oftime, that not so muche as one man was founde to pursue him.

But to say the truth, Duncane was so farre out of the peoples favour, that mo reioxced than were sozie for his death.

is reflored to

After he was thus dispatched, his buck Do-Donalde Bane nalo was restored againe to the kingdome, chief. ly by supporte of the forenamed Makpender, after his nephewe the foresayde Duncane had raigned one yeare and an halfe, where Donalde himselse had raigned before he was expulsed by his layde nephewe, the space of fire Monethes, and nowe after he had recouered the Kingdome, he continued in the regiment therof three yeares, not without greate trouble and intestine com= 30 sayde bnto Edgar, by whom he was (howfoeuer motions: for the moste part of the Lordes ma= ligning his advancement, fought occasions dayly to depole him.

In the meane tyme the Jlande men made some flurre, neyther did the warres with Eng= lande cease, (though without anye greate er= ployte or enterprice worthie of remembrance) fauing a fewe light fhirmiffes betwirt the parties as occation ferued.

Magnus king

At length came Magnus king of Porway 40 of Norway co- with a great flecte, and fayling aboute the Ellemeth into the sterne Fles, garnished all the strengthes within westerne iles. them in most vesencible wise, with men, munition and vitagles, blurping the dominion as foueraigne Lord of the fame Fles: and at the fame time orderned those lawes and constitutions which are vied there amongst the inhabitants euen bnto these daves.

The Scottiff) men having great indignation that the Fles beeing aunciently parcell of the so crowne, floulo be thus alienated from the fame, Malcolms fon fent oratours buto Edgar (who was as pe haue herd the fourth some of king Malcolm' desiring him most instantly to come into scotlat, to recouer his fathers heritage and crowne of Scotland out of the vlurpers handes.

Edgar sendeth mellengers to

issicnt for.

Engar taking beliberate aduice fouching this request, first fent ambassadors buto Donald pro-

miling that if he woulde be contented to reflore onto him the crowne being due to him by lawful fuccession, he woulde gladly rewarde him with great Lozoships and reuenues in Louthian : but Donald was lo far from minding to do him reafon in this behalf, that cauling the which brought Donald flayed this mellage to be put in prilo, he finally flue the. Edgars mel-

Then Edgar by counfell of his bucle Edgar Atheling, purchaling ayor of men at the hands of Edgar is ayda things, that hereby happened in Scotland, folici= 10 king Willia Rufus, fet forward toward Scot- by king William Rufus, land. At his comming to Durham, he was admonished by a vision in his sleepe, that if he toke saint Cutbern mith him the Bance of Saint Cutbert, he fhould Baner. haue victoric.

On the Morrow after, he came into the Ib. bey Churche, where first hearing dinine service, when the same was ended, he displayed the forefavde Bancr, and caused it to be borne before him discomined in that iourney. Peuerthelesse king Donalde and chased in met him with a mightie armie, and after long to the lles. fight, was chased into the Fles, where he was King Doals taken and brought bnto Ebgar. is taken.

Some lay that when the battayles were readie to haue toyned, his men beholding the Baner of Saint Cutbert fpred agapnit them, immedis ately forfoke him, so that he beeing destitute of fuccour, fled, in purpose to have saued himself ein fome one of the Westerne Fles, but being apprehended by the Inhabitants, was brought (as is the hap of his taking chaunced cast immediatly King Donal into prison, wherein he shortly after dyed.

The victorie thus atchieuco, Edgar went rnto Coenburgh, and from thence buto Dunfermeling to visite the Sepultures of his mother and brethren.

and shortipe af noyated. ter was annous Ited by the Archbylliop of Saint Andzowes named Godzike, in the yeare of our redemption. 1101. for his mother Queene Margaret purchased a little besoze hir death for the Sco of Arbane the Pope, that from henceforth all tilh kings the Kinges of Scotlande Moulde bee an beannein nornted.

This priviledge was confirmed afterwardes by Pope John the seconde of that name.

The first King that was annoynted accor- anoince ding to that graunt, was this Edgar in the gere of Scott afozelapde.

Ibout

Bout two yeares before, that Edgarthus recovered the Crowne of Scotlande, was that generall passage made into the holy lande buor Godfrey of Buillion, and other Chaistian

Amongest them as one of the chiefe, Robert Duke of Pozmandie went, and Hould have bin created king of Jerusalem, had he not at the same muchand howe his brother Colilliam Rufus giameing of an arrow that at a Deare in h new Forcit, a then hoping to increed him in the king= dome of England, he preferred that honor to the ether, wherein he sawe to be moze trauaile than game. But at his comming home he found that his ronalt brother Henrie lurnamed Beauclerke was placed in the kingdome of England, and fo was Duke Robert his hope frustrate of both the kingdomes, and that worthily (as most emen thought, for that he refused to necessarie a digni = 20 ve, wherein he might have ferned the common cause of the christian common wealth.

Unto Henry Beauclerke in the feconde peare offus raigne king Edgar maried the one of hys inters called Maulde.

The other named Marie, hee coupled wyth Custace Earle of Bulloigne: Df the whiche mariage was borne a daughter that was the onin hipse of the same Eustace in the Countie of Bulloigne, the which when the came to womans 32 flate, was maried bnto Stephen Carle of Warch in England, & of Moztaigne in France, Pephrin to Henrie Beauclerke by his fifter.

The king of Englande Henrie, had illue by Queen Maulo, two fonnes and two daughters, Milliam and Richard, Eufamie and Maulde.

But now to returne to king Edgar, to thew fome token of thanks towards kint Euthert foz his and theined as mas thought in the battaile as gunft his buck Donalde, he gaue buto the 4 Ronkes of Duchain the lands of Coldingham: and to the Bilhon of Durham called Canulph, he gave the towns of Berwike, but for that the = s nolasi zichia thouogw weillich in l gayna bim, he lost that goft, and the king resumed that forme into his handes againe.

I do not finde that Edgar had any warres a= my way forth during all the time of his raigne, a re punce rather reverenced than dred amongst has Departed out of this life at Dundee, in the ir peare of his raigne, and after the bytth of our Saniour 1107.

Mifter the deceale of this Edgar, luccreded his brother Alexander the fierce, so called foz his ligozous valiancie in purlaing of theenes and tobers. In the beginning of his raigne, the inbabitants of Murrey lande and Rolle, beholding him to bee moste an ende in the Church at his prayers, and divine fervice, after the maner of his parents, supposed he would proue no great quick iusticier in punishing offenders, a therupon most prefumptuously they began to rob and reaue on eche fide, not sparing to kill and flea all fuche as Theues of came in their handes without respect to age of and Rosse. fere, in somuche that the your infants simpling opon the murtherers, being aboute to execute and of England was flain by chaunce through to their detestable crueltie, passed by the Sworde The crueltie as well as the respsters: suche roted malice of theeues. remarked in they, beaftly heartes, which byon remains they olde analogs they now accordinaly flicived.

Eing Alexander therefore aduertised here= of, came into those parties with a competent armie, and apprehending the chiefe authours and Execution. captarnes. Aroke of their heades.

As he returned backe through the Wernes, there came a woman unto him weeping in la= mentable forter who fell uppon hir kinces at his fecte, beseeching him to pitie hir cale, hauing lost both hir hulbande and fonne, by the typannous The Earle of crucktie of the insister of Mernes, who for that they had called him afore a indee in an action of delit, had flaine and murthered as well the one

The king moued with this veteltable kinde of injurie. Lyaht beside his Porse, and woulde not alight on againe, till bee had feene the Au-A righteous thour of that hepnous trespalle hanged oppon a lusticier. Gybet.

After this comming into Gourie, hee toke fubrils for his fingular equitie a byzight dealing 50 in hande to finific and make by the Castell of Baledgar. Balengar, the foundation whereof his brother Edgar had begun, that it might be an afde to chastice a fort of therues a robbers which haunted the dilwodes thereaboutes, to the great difquiet of all the Countrey. He gane also to the maintenance of that boule certain landes, which the Earle of Epingie had ginen him at the Font Cone when he became his godfather.

Whilest R.iii.

The kings

manhood.

Treason of parts, perceiving that this castell which the king was about to build, floulde turne buto their de= struction, they conspired his death, winning by conspirators to rewards & promises, the help of the kings chanihave flaine the berlain to the accoplishing of their traiterous and most diuelishe practises, they entered one night through a primie into his lodging, in purpose to 10 he set in hande to repayre the Abbey of Scone, Scone, Scone, haue flaine him as he had flept in his bed chaber: but he by Gods prouidence having knowledge of their coming, farted out of his bed, & caught a fwozo which hung neare at hand, wherewith he Auc first his chamberlain that had brought them in, and then dispatched a six of the other traitors, (which were alreadie entred his chamber) with singular force & manhood: the other fearing least with the noyle, his fernants that lodged within to affaile the on the backs, fled in all haft possible.

Williest he was thus bulle about the furthes rance of that worke, dincree of those theenes that were acustomed to live by robberies in those

Reuerthelesse, suche pursute was made after them, that many of them were apprehended, and boon their examination, beeing brought before the king, they declared plainly howethey were encouraged to worke that treason whiche they had gone aboute, by sundzie great Barons and gentlemen of the countrey. finally, the matter was so handled with them, that they disclosed the names of those that had thus procured them to 30 Countrey thereabout. The tulkes of this Boare Boare mi the treason. Wherebyon the king gathering an army, he marched forth to pursue them, but be-The water of fore he came buto the water of Spay, the conspirators hav gotten togither their power, were lodged on the further floe of the same water to ftop him from palling ourr.

Spay.

The Rebels

The king feeing them thus affembled to im= Sir Alexander peach his pallage, sent his Banner man fir Alexander Carron with a chosen part of his army to passe the water, and to fight with his enimics, 40 his brother David lined in Englande with hys are raquished. where, by the hardie onset of the sayde sir Alexo ander, they were quickly put to flight, 4 many of them that were taken in the chase, suffered death according as they had well deserved.

The realine after this execution done of these offenders, continued many yeares after in god tranquilitie.

This Alexander Carron also for that he was seme in the kings sight that day to sight moste manfully in fleaing divers of the rebelles with a 50 the same, and was made Carle of Huntington & The land croked swords whiche he had in his hande (of whiche fort many were vled in those dayes) he was highly rewarded at the kings handes, and euer after named Skrimgeour, that is to meane, an hardie fighter. He had also his armes encreas led with a rampaunt Lion holding a croked finord, as is to be feene in the armes of his polic= ritie unto this day.

Other there be that lay he got the furname of Skrimgeour, by caule he flue an Englift man in a fingular combate.

The principall of this lumaine in our time helde the Constableship of Dundee, bearing in hus armes a croked Sworde in fashion of an

After that king Alexander had appealed the intelline commotions thus within his Realme. wherein he placed regular Chanons, dedicating the Church in the honour of the Trinitie, and Saint Wichael.

Pot long after this allo he chaunced to come Saint Color into Saint Colmes Inche, where he was con- ynche. Arapned to abide three dayes togither through violent race of weather and tempeltes: and bycause he founde some reliefe of meate and drinke. by meanes of an hermit that dwelled within the the house, Could haue bin raised, fo haue halted 20 same Inche and kept a Chappell there dedicate to Saint Colme, he made of that Chavoell an Abbey of regular Chanons, in the honor of faint The Abbey Colme, endowing it with fundzie landes and The Abbertents for the maintenance of the Abbot and con- yack builded uent of that house.

He also gave but the Church of Saint Indzowes, the landes called the Boarrinke, so na= Lindesnament, for that a great Boare was flain won the favor grounde, that had done much hurt in the doe hang in Chapnes oppon the Calles of the Quier in Saint Anozowes Church afoze the high aulter, and are a. roj. ynches in length, and foure pnches in thicknede.

Moreover the Abbey of Duntirmling was fis Duntirm nifhed by king Alexader, and endowed with fundzie landes and possessions.

delhilest king Alexander was thus occupied Dauid ber in buyloing and repaying of religious houles, to king lifter Duerne Maulve, and through fauor which the king hir hulbande bare towardes him, he obteyned in maryage one Maulde, Daughter bnto Wolden Moldollus, oz rather Maltheof Carle of hun- Earle of tington and Porthumberland, begot of his wife & Huntig the ladic Judith that was neece buto king Milliam y Conquerour, + for p the land delolodius or Maltheof had no other issue to inherite his lands, Dauld in right of his wife Mauld emioped Porthumberland, e had isline by his wife a somme and North named Henrie, by whom the lands of huitling berland ton, a some part of Porthuberland were aimere ed to the crowne buto the crown of Scotlad, as after thal appeart. Scotlad.

Mauld the daughter of king hemie Bemis clerke, was maried onto Denrie the Emperor the fourth of that name, William, Richard, & Cufeme, the relioue of & illue which the same henry Beanderte early his wife, furnamed for hir fingular bountoubielle, the god Queene Matade) in com= ning fogtin of France to repaffe into England, purfico in the sea by a tempest, to the great dolour of the king their father, and to all other his fabicus of ethe estate and degree.

Their mother the layde Haulde was before that time departed out of this life. It was not long after, but that Alexander-deceassed also, fathers sepulture, in the roij. yeare of his raigue complete, and from the incarnation of Chailt 3. 1125. yearcs.

In the dayes of this king Alexander, the kenred of the Cummings, had their beginning. by one John Cumming a man of great prowes and valiancie, obtenning of the king in respect thereof certaine small pozitions of landes in Scotlande.

The house of these Cummings role in pro= 20 ces of time thus from a finall beginning to highe hanour and puillance, by reason of the great pol= fessions and ample revenues which they afterwardes atterned.

It length (as often happeneth) the importathe height of this lynage was the onely cause of the decay and finall ruine thereof, as in the feat quell of this Hystorie ve may at full percepue.

Also in the dayes of king Alexander, the 01= and likewise the order of white Monkes, the authour whereof was one Podobert.

Ibout the same time lined that holve man I chard de sancto Victore, a Scottiff man bozne, but dwilling for the more part of his time at Pa=. rism Fraunce, where he doed, and was burped within the Cloyster of the Abbey of Saint Cic-! toutting a brother of the faine house.

with the hystorie. After the decease of Alerander the fierce. and first of that name, his bzo= ther Dauid came bnie Scone, and there received the he left no herze behinde him.

This Danid according to the ensample of his nolle Parents, set his whole care about the due manultring of Justice, to the honour of almightie Cod, and the weale of his realine.

De had no trouble by warres with any foztame enimics, so long as king Henrie Beauclerke lined.

Therefore having oportunitie of such a quiet time, he rode about all the parties of his realme. and wed to lit in bearing of invocament himselfe, fuccially cocerning pore mens causes and mate ters, but the controverties of the Lozdes and bar The care of king David tons he referred to the hearing of other Judges. for the poore.

If he understode that any man were endomaged by any wrongful indgement, he recopens fed the partie wronged, according to the value of A rightnous and was burged in Dunkermling bylydes hys 10 his losse a hinderance, with the gods of the indge indge.

that pronounced the indocement.

Thus in the first yeares of his raigne, hee did many things to the advantement of the com- Bankerting mon welth, and banished such banketting cheare cheare banias was vied amongst his people after the enfare thed. ple of the Englishe men, percepuing the same to breede a great weakning and decay of the auncient stoutnesse of fromacke, that was wont to remaine in the Scottill nation.

He buyloed the number of .rb. Abbeyes, part King Dauid of them in the beginning of his raigne befoze the built.xv. Abwarres were begon which he had with the Eng beyes. lifte men, and part after the fame warres wire ended.

The names of those Abbryes are as follows. The names of weth : Holy Robe house, Kelso, Jedburgh, the Abbeys Melrosc, Pewbottell, Holmecultrane, Dun-buylded by Danane, Cambufkenneth, Kynlois, Dunfirm king Dauid. ling, Holme in Cumberland: also two Punges. der of inights of the Roocs had their beginning, 30 the one at Carleil, the other at north Barwike! with two Abbays belier Dewcastel i one of . Benedicks order, and the other of white Monks.

He crefted also foure Biffopzikes withit Foure Bishops his Realme, Rolle, Brechin, Dunkeld, and leaserected Dublane, endowing them with riche rentes, in Scotland. fayre landes, and fundrie right commodious policitions.

Morcover he translated the Bishops Sen of At nowe Aurthlake onto Aberden, for sundzie adnised to proceed 40 considerations, augmenting it with certaine renemues, as he thought expedient.

There goeth a fond forged tale, that this king A rale. David being in the Castel of Edenburgh, on the holy Rod day in Paruelt, otherwise called the Exaltation of the croffe, it chanced that through excepting of certaine young Lordes and Gentle. men, after he had beene at Churche, hee toke his Horle and rode forth into the next woodes: to hunt the Parte, for in those dayes all that trewns, as lawfull hepze to his brother, for that 50 countrey was full of Clouds and wall grounds. replenished with Deare and wilde beaffes, imall The Country tyllage as then beeing bledin any part of the about Eden-Realme, for all the people in maner were giaen durgh in olde to beceding of Cattell, nioze than to any other Wood. trade of living.

> The king therefore being palled through the dale or valley whiche loeth plaine East from the fayde Castell (where nowe standers R.iiij.

Cannogate.

the Cannogate) the Houndes were cast off, and great noyle rayled what with their opening and blast of homes, that all the wilde beaftes were some on for for dread thereof, and diverse of them come to the fote of the hyll, and all his nobles les uered here and there from him, when fodenly aupeared to his light the fairest hart that ever man fet epe vpon: The opnue of norse of this Hart comming towardes the king with his ful course, made the kings horse so afrapoe, that he was not able to flay him with the reigne, but that he ran quite away with him, through thicke and thin, 20 the Hart still following so fast and with suche violence, that at length hee bare both hoise and man to the grounde: And as the king cast backe his handes betwirt the tyndes of this Hart, to pefende himselfe from hurt, there slipped a crosse into his handes after a myzaculous lozt, and im= mediately therewith the Hart rulled away with great violence, and could neuer after be fcene.

Aceyabt had in chafe. And nowe was the King

This was in the same place where nowe fprings a fountaine called the Rood Well.

There is no man that could tell of what mat= ter this Croffe was made, whether of mettall, Cone, or of tree.

A dreame.

A croffe falling into the kings handes.

he was admonifled allo, (as the report goeth) in his slepe the next night after, that he should buploe an Ibbay in the same place where thys chaunce happened. Wilherupon he sent foz wozk= boule builded nich into Fraunce and Plaunders, and let them in hande to buylo this Abbey of Chanons reguler, as he was admonished, dedicating it in the 50 those Abbayes with. But if king Danid had bonoz of the Crosse.

The forelayde Croffe remapned in this The ber, til the dayes of king Dauid Bzuce, who lost it to the English men at Durram field where he was take priloner. But inough of these Wokish deniles.

Many prudent men blame greatly the bumealurable liberalitie of king' Dauid, the which he bled towardes the Churche, in diminishing to Liberalities hugely the revenues of the Crowne, beeing the king David toward the cause that manye noble Princes his successours Church tehave come to their final endes, for that they have proved. beene constrayned through want of treasure to maintepne their royall estates, to procure the fall of fundzie great houses, to posselle they landes and livings.

Alfo to raple paymentes and eradions of the common people, to the otter impourrishment of the realine.

And sometime have they bene constraymed to inuade Englande by warres as desperate men, not caring what came of their lives.

Otherwhiles have they beene inforced to stampe naughtie money, to the great periudice of the common wealth.

All which mischieses have followed lithe the The Church time that the Church hath beene thus encyched, enriched, the crowns and the crowne empouerified.

Therfore king James the first, when he came erpourish to king Dauid his Sepulture at Dunfirmling, king lame he layd, that he was a fort Saint for the crown, A was Si meaning that he left the Church ouer riche, and the Crowne to page.

For he toke from the crowne (as John 998 10. Maior. ioz wzpteth in his Chzonicles) lr. thouland poud Lx. M. pos Scottill) of pearely reuemies, which he endowed to the chart considered the maner how to nourish true religio on, he had neyther endowed Churches with fuch riches, noz buylt them with such royall magnificence: for the superfluous policitions of the Church (as they are now view) are not only or passes at calion to suil Parlates to line in most insolent the Charles pompe and corruption of life, but also an affured net to drawe all maner of gold and filuer out of the realine: Lowbeit lesse domage would follow of the Abbays were at the provision of their ordi= names without any dispensation from they? ha= tite and religion, and the ordinaries to be placed and admitted by their paymate without exemp= tion, and the paymate by the councel provincial: for within these.lex.yeares sayth the translator of Pector Boctius his Chronacles (meaning from the time that he wrote, whiche was aboute at all were fetched from Rome, faue onely Bi-Monrickes.

The Historie of Scotlande.

Sithe whiche time it is knowen wel inouch fauth he) what golde and filuer hath gone fourth of the realme for the purchating of spiritual v20=

And therfoze it is (as he also saith) to be doubted. least the realme shal be brought to irrecoues of rable pouertie by continuall promotion of Prelates within these fewe peares, so as it halbe an 20 easse pray to the enimics, lithe it may not su= starne so great charges, nowe (by reason hereof) in time of warres as it hath done in the dayes of our cloers. Thus muche have I taken forth of the faide translators wordes, and of John Mas ior his booke, touching the abuse of spirituall mes pollessions, the which both of them do earnessly lament with many moe wordes in the place before alledged, where they make mencion of king Dauid his great munificece towards the church. 30 and hurtes there.

But nowe to returne where I left, touching the hillogie, pe Chall note that as I lapde befoze, king Dauid had by his wife Mauld inheritour to parte of Porthumberland, Cumberland and Huntington, a sonne named Henry, who maried the Erle of Marrannes daughter, a lady of high parentage, as discended of most noble bloud both french and Englilly. On whom he begat three fonnes, Malcolme, William, and Dauid: also

But now in the means time whilest the astate of the common wealth in Scotland, flod in high felicitie, under the prosperous governmet of king Danio, there happened to him an heavie loffe: for the Queene his wife the fozelayd Mauld deceals fid in hy? flourishing age, a woman of passing beautic and challitie, whiche two poputs (as is thought) commende a moman about all the rest.

King Dauid therefore toke luche griefe for by death, that he woulde never after give his 50 his possession. minde to marie any other, but passed the relidue of his life without companie of all women. She was buried in Scone, in the yeare of our loade Cob. 1122.

Whilest these things came thus to passe in Stotland, Denry Beauclerke king of England, caused all the nobles of his realine to take they? othes, that after his decease they should recepue bis daughter Mauld the Emprelle for their four- Mauld the raine Ladie and Ducene.

She was as then returned into England: for by hulbande the Emperoure was lately before deceassed.

King David also twke this othe, and there= fore when king Stephan (who blurped the King Stephan. crowne of England after king henries decealle against the saide Empresse) sent buto king Da= the years of our redemption. 1530.) no benefices 10 uid to come and to do his homage for the Erledonies of Porthumberlande, Cumberlande and Homage is Huntington (accozoing as by his tenure he was bounde to do) with intimation that if he refused, king Stephan woulde inuade him with open warre: King Dauid answeared, that he had giuen his faith once aforchand for those landes bn= to the Empresse Mauide, which he minded not to breake for the threatening worder of any new inualours.

> King Stephan moued with this ancwere, fent a power of men to the bozdures of Poz- The English. thumberland (whiche as then was boder the do= men inuade minion of the Scottes) to make a rode byon the land. inhabitants of that countrey. They that had the charge of this enterpaple, entring into the landes of they? cnimies, put all to the fire and foozde that came in they? way.

The Scottes kindled with that displeature, The Scottes roved into England, and did the like diffleatures make rodes into England.

For the yeare after, the Eatles of Marche, Menteth, and Angus entred into England with The Earle of a great armie, against whom came the Carle of Gloucefter Ro Eloucester, and giving them batayle at Porth- gaint K. Seeallertoun, lost the fielde, and was taken papioner pha, but there himselfe with divers other nobles of England. might be some other happely, King Stephan therefore, constreyned to re-ynto whom beeme the captines, gave not onely a great some Kotephan had of money for them, but also made relignation of given that the there daughters, Adhama, Margaret, & Maulde. 40 all such title, clapme and interest as exther he of A resignation any of his successours might make or pretend to the counties of Porthumberland and Cumberland.

> Howbeit his nobles were no loner returned home, but that repenting him of that relignatio, King Stephan be gathered his puplance againe, and entring in- repeateth. to Porthumberland, fought with the Scottes that came forth to relift him, and obtaining the victorie, toke a great parte of the countrey into

King Dauid to redzelle thele inimies, gathered a mightie army, with deliberate minde, either to expell the Englishmen out of all the boundes of his dominions, or els to die in the papne.

But thortly after, Thurstane Archbishop of Porke came buto Roxbourgh called in those Roxburgh to Dayes Sharken, to treate for a peace, where a old time Martruce was concluded for three monethes, with a cruca condition

condition that the Englishmen Gould deliver by the dominion of Posthumberland but othe lood Denry king Dauid his fonnes.

King Danid inuideth Northumberland.

King Stephin Roxboargh.

But for so muche as this covenant was not performed on king Stephens lide, king Danid innaded that part of the contrey which the Endiffmen helde, making greate flaughter of all them that he found there about to relift him.

King Stephen moued herewith, lemed his people, and came in puissant aray buto Roxbo=10 rough but for that he had fecrete knowledge that King Stephan some of the nobles in his armie soughte hys de= struction, her was constrayned to returne with= out atchieving of any worthie enterprife.

> The years nert ensuying, a peace was talked upon, the Archbillious of Cantozbury & Porke appointed commissioners in the freatie therof on the behalfe of king Stephen, and the bishops of Glasses, Aberden, and Saint Androws on the partie of king Dauto. But Maulde queene of 20 Dration which bee made to his nobles, at what Englande, the daughter of Eustace Carle of Boloigne, and neece to king Dauid by his lifter Marie, was the chiefest doer in this matter, to bring them to agreement.

The one of the kings, that is to fay Stephen, lay at Duresme with his nobles, and the other, that is to fap Dauid, lay at Pewcaliell, during all the time of this treatic, which at length forted to the conclusion of a peace, on these conditions, that the counties of Qoethumberland and Hun= 30 tington floulde remaine in the government of Henry Deince of Scotland, as heire to the same by right of his mother: But Cumberlande Moulde be reputed as the inheritance and right of his father king Dauid.

And for these landes and leigniories the fore= named Prince Henry and his fuccessours Punres of Scotlande Mould doe homage unto kying Stephen and his luccessours kings of England for the typic being.

Carleil was re- The peace thus ratified betwirt the two kin= pared by Wi- ges and their lubicites, kying Stephen returned of Englind, a. into Kent, and king Dauid repaired into Eum= bout the visite berland, where he fortified the towns of Carleile of our Lord. with new malles and dyches.

Thus palled the three fiell peres of king Stephens reigne.

In the fourthe yeare came Maulde the Empresse into Englande to clarine the crown therof cas in the Englishe historie more playnely so the fruytes of theyr bertuous trauayles here tamap appeare.

But whilest Englande was soze tormented with warres by contrarge faitions of the nobles for the quarelles of those two persones, no small forcow hapned to Scotland for the death of Derie the prince of that land, and onch fonne buto king Danio, who died at Belso, and was buor isocland. The in the Abbey church there, in the years of our redemption. 152.

The Hiltorie of Scotlande.

his beath was greatly benoned afted of his father the king as of all other the effates and orgrees of the realine, for fuch fingular vertue and noble conditions as appeared in lym.

But yet for that he leste issue behynd him, iij. Prince Hong fons and. iij. Daughters (as before is memioned) his office. the Realine was not thoughte buprouded of

The king also being mortified from the world, toke the death of his forme very patiently, considering that at men are subject buits brath The lawe of by the lame of nature, and are ture no longer to caure, remaine here, than their day appointed, by the e= terne determination of him that giveth and taketh away lyfe and breath when pleafeth hint, as by dayly experience is most manyfest.

Therfoze that king Dauid wayed the lotte of his sonne in suche balance; it mape appeare by an tome after his fonnes deceale, they came to com= forte hym. For he percepuing them to be ryghte heavie and forowfull for the lotte whiche he and they had fusteyned by the death of so towardly a prince, that was to have succeeded him, if God had lent him lefe thereto : in the ende of a royall feast the whiche he made ento those nobles that came thus to bilite hym, her beganne in this wolc. Howe great your fivelitic and care is whiche Au orrion you beare towards me, although offetimes heretofoze Thane proned it, pet this present day I have recepted most ample fenite therof: for now to I plainely fee, that you lament no leffe for the lesse of my late decrassed some, than if you had buried some one of your own sonnes, a are therefore come to your areat travaile a paine to com= fort me, whom you elleeine to be fore afflicte for the ouer timely death of my layde moste obe-40 dient somme: but to let passe for this time due pel= ding of thanks to you for the same, till occasion and leveure may better ferue thereto: this nowe may fuffice, that I acknowledge my felf to be fo much beholden to you, that what focuer thing I have in the wealde, the same is ready to do you pleasure. But cocerning the cause of your comming bither in thewing your courtefies therein, you fiall understande, that my parentes whom I trufte to be in heaven, and (as Saintes) eniog ken on earth, did so instruct me from my tender routh, that I thould werthip with all reverence the most wife creatour 4 provident government of all things, and to thinke that nothing was bone by him in vaine, but that the fame is prouided $ orderned to some good ble by his highe and infearchable counfell, and therefore whrlest pay and nighte I have and bo renolue and fall to extensiviaunce the precepts and instructions of no parents, what so ever hath chaunced eyther concluing admertitie of prosperitie, gwd happe of baoline fame bath feemed to me (at the firthe) recoming all things with equall and thankefull milde, and interpreting them to the beste, farre more light than they commonly sceme to others, and leffe they did vilquiet me, lo as with ble I have learned at length, not onely paciently to peare all aduerlities that may happen, but also to we flicke fast overwhelmed & drowned in suche recepue the fame as things pleafant and even to be defired. And verily my happe hath bene to be greatly exercised in this behalfe, for I have firste feette my father moze deare to me tha any earthly treasure, and no lesse profitable than greatly believed of all the people, and yet neyther the love of the people, not of his kinkmenne and frendes might warrant him from this fatall necessitie of death. I have knowen my mother right famous hence in like maner. My bretherne that were fo louing, and againe to greatly beloued of me, also my wife whom I effermed moze than all other creatures, are they not gone the same way, and compelled to beare deaths harde ordinaunce? So berily Clandeth the case, that no man might get at any time anoyde the violence of his force when he commeth, for we all alike owe this life unto him, as a due debte that muste needes be pavo. But this is to be recepued with a thankfull 30 pointed, to attende byon and to recepue the othes minoe, in that the bountifull beneuolence of our God hath graunted that we fhall be all immoz= tall of we our feluce through vice, and as it were - s sported with filthic discases of the minde, do not fall into the danger of eternall death. Wherfoze of right me thinke I have cause to reiopce, that God by his lingular fanour hath graunted to me luche a sonne, whiche in all mens indocement was worthis to be beloued whilest he was here amongst his, and to be wished for now, after he 40 the same Henry came to an agreemet with king ghihode. is departed from hence, but ought we to take it beautly, that he to whom be belonged, and who had lent him buto by, should call for him again, and take him that was his owne? for what iniurie is it, if when I fee occasion I shall alke that againe whiche you have pollelled through my benefite ag lent to pou foz a time. Depther truite to want him long, if God Halbe so increptull buto me as I wille him to be, for I hope Mortly to be called hence by commaundes 50 ment of that most high king, and to be caried by to rell among that felowshippe of beauenly spi= tites, where I thall finde my father and mother, my beetherne, wife, and sonne in far better estate than here I know the. Therfore that I may tes pete it once again I reiopce (I lay) to have obtained in my fon, by & grace of & supernal Bod,

Pam affured by faith, he is already in & place to the whiche all we vo carnellly wishe that we may atterne, and do endenour by all meanes, that when the time cometh in whiche our soules are to be lewfed fouth of these frayle bodies of ours as out of paylons, they may be found woz= thie of that companie, in which our coffdence is, that he now most blissefully is remayning. Ex= cept any man may thinke that wee are so enui= ous, that therefore we do lament, bicaule as vet fylthye myzes and combered in suche thornye thickets and bulles, oute of the whiche he (beeing now delivered of all cares) hath escaped. But let by rather by following the fote steppes of him and other vertuous persons that are gone afore vs. labour both day & night, that at length through heavenly favour, wee may come to the place where we do recken that by denine power he is alreadie arrived. After that the king had in the worlde for hyr finguler vertue to paffe 20 made an end of his Dration, and thankes given to God for his bountifull munificence, they role from the table and departed to they? lodgings, they all greatly maruepling at the kings highe prudence and godly wiscome.

After this was Malcolme the elvelt sonne of Malcolme the the before mencioned prince Henry, proclaymed some of Henin his place prince of Scotlande, and conucped ty proclaimed through the most e partes of the realme by Dun- lands. cane Earle of Hyfe, and other of the nobles ap= of all the Barons for they? allegiaunce in his name. William the lecond sonne of prince hen- Erleof Northry was conueyed into Porthumberland by the umberlande. forelayde nobles, and there proclaimed and created Erle of that countrep.

Then went king Pauldhimselfe unto Carleile, where he met with henry the come of the Henry' the em Empresse, who recepued the order of knighthod presse hir fon there at his hands. This was a little before that receyueth the Stephen, whereby he was admitted to the polfellion of halfe the realing of Englande, and promiled by othe of allurance (as the Scottift) wai= ters lave) that he soulde never be aboute to take the counties of Porthumberland, Cumberland, and hunting don from the crowne of Scotland.

Shortly after was king Paulo taken with a fore difeale and maladie, which continued with him to the ende of his lyfe.

And so when hee percepued himselfe to ware fagnte and feeble, he required to be borne to the Thurche, where he recepued the facrament of the Lozdes bodie and blond, with most solenne reuerence, and then beeing brought agains to bys chamber, he called together his nobles, and commending buto the his youg nephews, the fames of his come the forenamed prince Henry, he kilo led ethe one of them after an other, most instants

A peace.

Courpants of agreement.

Homage.

Lienty printe

nobles.

1153.

Zlis finguler

the poore.

court.

King Dauids

The exhorter by deliring them in the honour of almighty God, to feeke the preservation of common quiet, to the aduauncement of the publike weale.

This done, he departed out of this life in the King Dauid reir peare of his raigne, or rather in the erre pere departeth out if he reggned. xxix. and two moneths, as John Maioz hath.

> Dis body was buried in Dunfermeling, after the incarnatio of. Theift our faujour. 1153. yearcs.

Howe farre this prince king Dauid excelled 10 in noble vertues and sober conversation of lyfe, have thought it better to palle over with filmce, than to go about in few wordes to comprehende that, wherein if I floulde wende muche time, I were not able pet in any wife worthilp to per= forme: for where in luche cases fewe things are Nemberly Mewcd, the relidue may feeme to be o= mitted through fault of the writer : but yet this is not to be fozgotten that where his linguler pi= tifull regard whiche he had towardes the reliefe 20 ther an huge companie of such as in hope of play of the rose, pafed all other his notable vertues, he purged his court also in suche wise of all vicious rule a milozoered customes, p his whole family was given onely to the exercise of vertue, no riotous banqueting noz surfeting cheare was pled amongst them, no lascinious worde heard come fouth of any mans mouth, not yet any wanton signes shewed to prouoke sensuall luste oz carnall concupiscence.

King Dauids

King Dauids

All the wordes, workes, and whole demeas 30 nour of his fernaunts tended to some god conclusion. Dothing mourd to ffpere ftrpfe og fcvition, but al things of vered in suche frendly and peaceable forte, that the chapne of brotherly lone feemed to have linked them all in one minde and example, a rule will. Such a rule was there maister king Da= uid buto them and all other, to direct and frame a perfect and gools life after.

Malcolme.

KIng Da= uid bc= 4 ing dead and buried (as be= fore is mencioned,) Mal= coline nephew to him by his sonne Henry, succeeded in v astate.

gan his revone, but pet his modestie and bertupus conditions were suche, that all men concep= ued a good hope, that he would proue a right noble and worthis prince.

The education of king Mal-

De was nouriffed and brought by in suche bertue, euen from his infancie, that deliting in chaste conversation and cleannesse of body and minde, he hued fingle all the dayes of his life.

and without marlage, wherefore he was furnamed Malcolme the Mayden.

About the time of his entring into the policefion of the crowne, there was a greate dearth A dearth, through all the boundes of Scotlange.

Ind sone after followed a soze death bothe amongst men + beattes, though it was not per = A death no cepued that the dileale whereof they died was as contagion, ny thing contagious.

Hercof did one Somerleid the Thane of Ar- Somerleid gile take occasion to attempt an higher enter-Thane of applie, than stook with the basenesse of his lynage gile, goethand the control of the policy of the control of the c and estate: for considering that the one halfe of himselie king the realme was confumed by mortalitic, and the other halfe neare hande familihed through lacke offwoe, hee thought it an easie mater for him. now whilest the king was under yeares of rive discretion, to blurpe the governance of the realing into his owne handes, and so affembling togis lightly consented to his opinion, hee came foreward to make as it were a full conquest, fleaing Somerleid and spoyling all such in his way as went aboute crueltie. to relift him.

But his presumptuous enterprice was short= ly repressed : for Bylcrist Carle of Angus lieu- Gilcriffe tenaunt of the kings army, reyled to relift So- against so merleides attempts, encountred with him in ba= merleid. taple and flew.ij. M. of his menne. Somerleid having recepued this overthrowe, and eloaping from the fielde, fledde into Ircland, and lo laucd his lyfe.

henry the second of that name king of Englande, hearing that Malcolme had thus fubdued his domestical enimics, dread least he being envolvened therwith. Would now attempt some= what against the Englishmen, and therefore by counsell of his Pobles, he sent an Herald buto king Malcoline, commaunding him to come K. Malcol buto London, there to do his homage buto him, do homa for the landes of Cumberland, Porthumberlad, and Huntington, in maner and forme as his graundfather king Dauid had befoze done brite his predecessour henry the first, with certificate, that if he fayled he would take from him all the lande landes.

King Malcolme obeyed this comaundement of king Henry, but yet under condition, (as the Scottill) wepters affirme) that it thoulde in no he was but. riij. peares of age, when he be= 50 maner wife perindice the fraunchesses and liberties of the Scottish kingdome.

